LONDON, NOV. 19 - (AP) - THE MEETING OF THE UNITED NATIONS PREPARATORY COMMISSION SCHEDULED FOR FRIDAY AND DESIGNED TO TAKE THE LAST STEP TOWARD PUTTING THE PEACE AGENCY CHARTER INTO OPERATION HAS BEEN POSTPONED TO SATURDAY, THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE ANNOUNCED TONIGHT.

NOV 20 1945

THE REASON GIVEN FOR POSTPONEMENT IS THAT THE HOUSE OF COMMONS HAS SCHEDULED A FOREIGN AFFAIRS DEBATE FOR THURSDAY AND FRIDAY AT WHICH BRITISH MINISTER OF STATE PHILLIP NOEL-BAKER AND FOREIGN SECRETARY ERNEST BEVIN WILL HAVE TO BE PRESENT. BEVIN ALSO IS SCHEDULED TO OPEN THE DELIBERATIONS OF THE PREPARATORY COMMISSION. THE POSTPONED MEETING WILL CONVENE AT 10 A. M. GMT (LONDON TIME).

NOV 20 1945

DELEGATES FROM 51 NATIONS WHO WILL ATTEND THE COMMISSION'S MEETING ARE ALREADY POURING INTO TOWN. ANDREI GROMYKO, CHIEF OF THE RUSSIAN DELEGATION, IS EXPECTED TO ARRIVE TOMORROW OR WEDNESDAY.

DIPLOMATIC CIRCLES HERE ARE NOW SPECULATING THAT GROMYKO WILL SOON BE REPLACED AS SOVIET AMBASSADOR TO WASHINGTON BECAUSE THE UNITED NATIONS WORK IS RAPIDLY BECOMING A FULL TIME JOB. THEY WERE AT A LOSS, HOWEVER, IN SPECULATING WHO WOULD GET THE WASHINGTON POST.

GROMYKO, WHO HAS SPENT NEARLY A MONTH IN MOSCOW SINCE THE ENDING OF THE UNITED NATIONS EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING, IS EXPECTED TO HAVE FRESH INSTRUCTIONS ON WHAT COURSE TO FOLLOW IF DISCUSSION ON THE ATOMIC BOMB POPS UP AND ON OTHER ISSUES WHICH THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE WAS UNABLE TO SETTLE.

THE UNITED STATES DELEGATION, HEADED BY ADLAI STEVENSON,

IS NOW WORKING ON THESE ISSUES AND HOPES IS EXPECTED TO COME UP WITH COMPROMISE SUGGESTIONS ON SOME OF THEM.

IT IS HOPED THAT REPETITION OF LONG AND FRUITLESS DEBATES ON TECHNICAL POINTS CAN BE AVOIDED.

AMONG QUESTIONS ON WHICH AMERICANS MAY ADVANCE NEW FORMULAS ARE: ESTABLISHMENT OF A TEMPORARY TRUSTEESHIP COMMITTEE, TO WHICH RUSSIA OBJECTED; RELATIONS OF THE INTERNATIONAL LABOR ORGANIZATION TO THE PEACE AGENCY AND THE COMPOSITION AND POWERS OF THE STEERING COMITTEE WHICH WILL ORGANIZE THE BUSINESS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

ONE OF THE MAJOR QUESTIONS WHICH THE PREPARATORY COMMISSIONS WILL DECIDE IS THE PERMANENT HOME OF THE UNITED NATIONS.

DELEGATIONS FROM CHICAGO, PHILADELPHIA AND BLACK HILLS, DAKOTA, ARE BUSY LOBBYING AND OTHERS ARE EXPECTED FROM SAN FRANCISCO, BOSTON AND ELSEWHERE.

MAYOR EDWARD KELLY, OF CHICAGO, IS DUE TOMORROW TO REINFORCE THE WINDY CITY'S BIDDERS WHO ARE EQUIPPED WITH MOVIES AND LEAFLETS EXTOLLING THE ADVANTAGES CHICAGO CAN OFFER THE PEACE AGENCY.

AN EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF 14 IS SCHEDULED TO MEET THURSDAY MORNING TO APPROVE PROCEDURE FOR THE PREPARATORY COMMISSION AND SET UP RULES OF THE ORGANIZATION.

COMMISSION SESSIONS WILL LAST PROBABLY ABOUT A MONTH, GIVING THE DELEGATES TIME FOR A CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY BEFORE THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY CONVENES AT THE BEGINNING OF THE NEW YEAR.

THIRD NIGHT LEAD CHINESE

BY SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, TUESDAY, NOV 20-(AP)-THE COMMUNIST NEW CHINA DAILY NEWS, IN A FRESH OUTBURST DEMANDING THE WITHDRAWAL OF AMERICAN FORCES FROM CHINA, MADE THE CHARGE TODAY THAT THE UNITED STATES IS CONVERTING CHINA INTO "AN AMERICAN COLONY."

THE COMMUNIST PAPER ASSERTED THE ACTIVITIES OF THE AMERICAN FORCES ENRAGED ALL PATRIOTIC SELF-RESPECTING CHINESE, WHO WERE REMINDED OF THE IMPERIALISM OF THE BRITISH IN INDIA, THE FRENCH IN INDOCHINA AND THE DUTCH IN THE NETHERLANDS EAST INDIES.

THE NEWSPAPER BLAST FOLLOWED REPORTS BY THE CHUNGKING PRESS THAT NATIONALIST TROOPS, WHICH THE COMMUNISTS HAVE CHARGED WERE AMERICAN TRAINED AND EQUIPPED, HAD OCCUPIED THE MANCHURIAN RAILROAD TOWN OF SUICHUNG, AFTER A FRESH DRIVE OF 23 MILES UP THE TIENTSIN-MUKDEN (CORRECT) LINE.

ADD CHNG (MOOSA-DAY) XXX the Japanese

THE CITY, ONCE NATIONALIST ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN SUIYUAN, IS THE WESTERN TERMINAL OF THE PEIPING-SUIYUAN RAILWAY, ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT LATERAL ROUTES IN NORTH CHINA.

THE COMMUNISTS HAD CHARGED THAT AMERICAN MARINES WERE SPEAR-HEADING A NATIONALIST ATTEMPT TO GET RELIEF FORCES IN FROM PEIPING. THE COMMUNIST CHARGE HAS BEEN DENIED BY AMERICAN AUTHORITIES HERE.

NATIONALIST FORCES, WHO FRIDAY FORGED INTO THE RICH NORTHERN PROVINCE AFTER CAPTURING SHANHAIKWAN, WIDENED THEIR HOLD AROUND THAT GREAT WALL ANCHOR, BUT COMMUNISTS WERE REPORTED BOLSTERING THEIR POSITIONS IN THE INTERIOR.

THE NATIONALIST SUCCESS ELIMINATED THE NECESSITY OF AMPHIBIOUS LANDINGS IN MANCHURIA, AN OPERATION MADE HAZARDOUS BY FAILURE TO AGREE WITH RUSSIA ON PORTS OF ENTRY AND BY AMERICAN REFUSAL TO USE ITS SHIPS TO TRANSPORT CHINESE TROOPS THERE.

THE AMERICAN PUBLIC, GATES ADDED, "IS NOT AWARE OF THE SERIOUS SITUATION IN CHINA AND THE POSSIBLE INVOLVEMENT OF UNITED STATES FORCES."

BUT, HE CONTINUED, "WASHINGTON, AT LEAST THE STATE, NAVY AND WAR DEPARTMENTS, ARE AWARE OF THE PROBLEMS."

THE SHARPENING SITUATION IN MANCHURIA WAS INDICATED BY THE RETURN TO CHUNGKING OF CHIANG CHING-KUO, ELDEST SON OF GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK.

THE YOUNGER CHIANG WAS REPORTED BY THE CHUNGKING PRESS TO HAVE RESIGNED AS NATIONALIST SPECIAL COMMISSIONER FOR FOREIGN AFFAIRS IN MANCHURIA.

HE WILL NOT RETURN TO CHANGCHUN, MANCHURIA'S CAPITAL, WHICH HE LEFT WITH OTHER NATIONALIST OFFICIALS TO AVOID BEING TRAPPED BY A SUDDEN WITHDRAWAL OF RUSSIAN FORCES AND THE ENTRANCE OF CHINESE COMMUNISTS.

ONE OF THE NINE MANCHURIAN PROVINCIAL GOVERNORS LIKEWISE RETURNED TO CHUNGKING AND THE OTHERS WERE EXPECTED SHORTLY.

THE CENTRAL NEWS REPORTED THAT DESPITE THE DARK OUTLOOK THE COMMUNISTS AND NATIONALISTS HAD RENEWED THEIR PEACE TALKS HERE AND THAT CHOU EN-LAI, COMMUNIST LEADER WHO LEFT FOR CONSULTATIONS AT COMMUNIST HEADQUARTERS IN YENAN, WOULD RETURN QUICKLY.

THE CHUNGKING PRESS REGARDED THE SITUATION AS "CRITICAL," HOWEVER.

THE CHINA TIMES SAID IT HAD LEARNED "IMPORTANT DIPLOMATIC NEGOTIATIONS" ON MANCHURIA WOULD START SOON, PROBABLY IN CHUNGKING.

OTHER LOCAL PRESS REPORTS SAID THAT CHINE-RUSSIAN NEGOTIATIONS IN CHANGCHUN BETWEEN GEN.HSIUNG SHIH-HUI AND MARSHAL RODION Y. MALINOVSKY HAD GONE SMOOTHLY UNTIL OCT. 25, WHEN THE RUSSIAN ATTITUDE SUDDENLY CHANGED.

SINCE THAT DATE, THESE UNCONFIRMED REPORTS SAID, CHINESE COMMUNISTS HAVE BEEN LANDING FROM JUNKS ON THE MANCHURIAN COAST WITHOUT OBSTRUCTION BY THE RUSSIANS AND HAVE COME INTO POSSESSION OF ADDITIONAL WAR MATERIALS SEIZED BY THE RUSSIANS FROM THE JAPANESE.

THE NATIONALIST CENTRAL NEWS AGENCY ALSO SAID THAT 30,000 COMMUNISTS HAD ENTERED THE BESIEGED CITY OF PAOTOW IN THE INNER MONGOLIAN PROVINCE OF SUIYUAN.

THE COMMUNIST NEWS AGENCY MEANWHILE CONTINUED TO FULMINATE AGAINST THE RECENT STATEMENT OF U.S. AMBASSADOR PATRICK J.HURLEY THAT THE COMMUNISTS WANTED JAPANESE ARMS TO SET UP A SEPARATE STATE OR DESTROY THE PRESENT GOVERNMENT. THE COMMUNIST AGENCY CALLED THIS "A GROUNDLESS SLANDER" AND CONTENDED THAT AMERICANS HAD "PERFECT GROUNDS FOR DEMANDING HIS DISMISSAL."

ALSO ON THE CONVERSATIONAL FRONT, THE CHINESE DEMOCRATIC LEAGUE, A THIRD PARTY OPPOSING BOTH THE COMMUNISTS AND NATIONALISTS, HELD A MASS MEETING IN CHUNGKING AT WHICH IT DEMANDED THAT BOTH SIDES IMMEDIATELY CEASE CIVIL STRIFE.

ONE SPEAKER, THE WIDELY-KNOWN AUTHOR KUO MO-JO, ADVOCATED WITHDRAWAL OF THE UNITED STATES FROM CHINA. HE SAID THE AMERICANS WERE BACKING THE NATIONALISTS IN A "MISGUIDED NOTION" THAT THEY THUS COULD HALT STRIFE, BUT THAT "TO BELIEVE THIS IS TO BELIEVE THAT A ROOSTER CAN LAY EGGS."

THE COMMUNIST NEWS AGENCY SAID THE COMMUNISTS MIGHT NOT SEND DELEGATES TO THE NEW PEACE CONFERENCE HERE, OBJECTING TO THE GOVERNMENT'S "UNILATERAL" DECISION TO CONVOKE THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY MAY 5 TO DRAFT A CONSTITUTION. THE COMMUNISTS WANT A LATER DATE.

IF THE COMMUNISTS BALK AT THE CONFERENCE, ONE OF THE LAST HOPES FOR AN AMICABLE SOLUTION OF THE PRESENT CRISIS WILL VANISH, OBSERVERS HERE SAID. EVEN IF IT IS HELD, IT NOW MAY BE DELAYED UNTIL SOME TIME IN DECEMBER.

THE DEMOCRATIC LEAGUE, THE INTELLECTUAL GROUP WHICH PROPOSED THE PEACE TALKS, HELD AN ANTI-CIVIL WAR RALLY HERE AT WHICH SPEAKERS URGED THE UNITED STATES TO WITHDRAW HER FORCES IN CHINA AND APPEALED FOR A GENERAL STRIKE TO EMPHASIZE THE PEOPLES' DESIRE FOR PEACE.

NEW YORK, NOV 19-(AP)-THE NEW YORK WORLD-TELEGRAM TODAY QUOTED FORMER PRESIDENT HERBERT HOOVER AS SAYING THAT REBUILDING OF THE IRRIGATION SYSTEM IN IRAQ "IS A POSSIBLE PLAN OF SETTLING THE PALESTINE QUESTION AND PROVIDING AMPLE JEWISH REFUGE."

HOOVER SUGGESTED "IRAQ MIGHT BE FINANCED TO COMPLETE THIS GREAT LAND DEVELOPMENT ON THE CONSIDERATION THAT IT BE MADE THE SCENE OF RESETTLEMENT OF THE ARABS FROM PALESTINE. THIS WOULD CLEAR PALESTINE COMPLETELY FOR A LARGE JEWISH EMIGRATION AND COLONIZATION.

"THERE IS ROOM FOR MANY MORE ARABS IN SUCH A DEVELOPMENT IN IRAQ THAN THE TOTAL OF ARABS IN PALESTINE. THE SOIL IS MORE FERTILE. THEY WOULD BE AMONG THEIR OWN RACE, WHICH IS ARAB SPEAKING AND MOHAMMEDAN THE ARAB POPULATION OF PALESTINE WOULD BE THE GAINER FROM BETTER LANDS IN EXCHANGE FOR THEIR PRESENT HOLDINGS. IRAQ WOULD BE THE GAINER, FOR IT BADLY NEEDS AGRICULTURAL POPULATION.

"IF THE LANDS WERE ORGANIZED AND HOMES PROVIDED, THIS PARTICULAR MOVEMENT COULD BE MADE THE MODEL MIGRATION OF HISTORY. IT WOULD BE A SOLUTION BY ENGINEERING INSTEAD OF BY CONFLICT."

SECOND NIGHT LEAD EISENHOWER
BY PAUL HANSELL

BOONE, IA., NOV.19-(AP)-GENERAL DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER DECLARED TONIGHT "I CERTAINLY AM" IN FAVOR OF TAKING THE WIVES OF OCCUPATION TROOPS TO EUROPE "AFTER WE HAVE GOTTEN DOWN TO OCCUPATION FORCES."

GENERAL EISENHOWER MADE THE ASSERTION AT A PRESS CONFERENCE IMMEDIATELY PRIOR TO HIS DEPARTURE FROM THIS SMALL CITY WHERE HE LEFT HIS WIFE HOSPITALIZED BUT RECOVERING RAPIDLY FROM PNEUMONIA.

HE ADDED HIS POLICY "WILL GIVE THE WIFE OF THE LOWLIEST GI THE SAME RIGHT AS ANY OFFICER'S WIFE, OR MY WIFE, FOR INSTANCE."

HE POINTED OUT THE TREMENDOUS PROBLEM OF GETTING MILITARY GOVERNMENTS ESTABLISHED IN GERMANY AND OF GETTING LARGE NUMBERS OF TROOPS HOME MAKE IT DIFFICULT TO SAY WHEN SUCH A POSSIBILITY MIGHT BE PUT INTO EFFECT.

THE GENERAL, WHO CAME HERE FOR A VISIT WITH MRS. EISENHOWER'S RELATIVES BUT SPENT MOST OF THE WEEKEND IN A VIGIL AT HIS WIFE'S BEDSIDE, WILL SPEAK AT AN AMERICAN LEGION BANQUET AT CHICAGO TOMORROW NIGHT. HE WILL FLY TO GERMANY FRIDAY.

A SMALL CROWD OF BOONE RESIDENTS WAS ON HAND TO SEE THE DEPARTURE OF GENERAL EISENHOWER, OF WHOM THEY HAVE SEEN LITTLE SINCE HIS ARRIVAL SATURDAY NIGHT, BUT THEY CHEERED LUSTILY AS HE APPEARED. HIS SPECIAL CAR WAS ATTACHED TO A SPECIAL TRAIN FOR THE TRIP.

NEW YORK, NOV. 19-(AP)-CHARLES A. LINDBERGH WAS ON RECORD TODAY AS ENDORSING "IN PRINCIPLE" THE PROPOSALS OF PRESIDENT TRUMAN, PRIME MINISTER ATTLEE OF GREAT BRITAIN AND PRIME MINISTER MACKENZIE KING OF CANADA FOR SHARING THE SECRETS OF ATOMIC ENERGY PRODUCTION IF EFFECTIVE UNITED NATIONS CONTROLS ARE SET UP.

IN ONE OF THE FEW PUBLIC STATEMENTS HE HAS MADE SINCE BEFORE THE WAR, THE FAMOUS FLIER EXPRESSED HIS BELIEF THAT THE PRESIDENT AND PRIME MINISTERS HAD "TAKEN A WISE AND COURAGEOUS STAND."

"I HAVE NOT CHANGED MY BELIEF THAT WORLD WAR TWO COULD HAVE BEEN AVOIDED," HE SAID.

LINDBERGH REFERRED IN HIS STATEMENT, WHICH HE TELEPHONED TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS YESTERDAY, TO WHAT HE TERMED "AN INACCURATE ACCOUNT" OF REMARKS HE MADE AT A PRIVATE MEETING OF MIDWESTERN CONGRESSMEN IN WASHINGTON, D.C. ON NOVEMBER 8. HE DID NOT ELABORATE ON HIS MENTION OF THE "INACCURATE ACCOUNT" EXCEPT TO SAY THAT HE DID NOT MEAN THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

LINDBERGH'S STATEMENT FOLLOWS:

"AN INACCURATE ACCOUNT HAS BEEN PRINTED DESCRIBING MY REMARKS AT A PRIVATE MEETING IN WASHINGTON. THESE TIMES ARE TOO CRITICAL AND TOO DANGEROUS TO JUSTIFY UNNECESSARY DIVISION OF OPINION AMONG AMERICANS ON VITAL INTERNATIONAL POLICIES.

"I HAVE NOT CHANGED MY BELIEF THAT WORLD WAR TWO COULD HAVE BEEN AVOIDED, BUT THE ISSUE BETWEEN SO-CALLED INTERVENTIONISTS AND ISOLATIONISTS IS PAST, EXCEPT FROM AN ACADEMIC STANDPOINT. WE FOUGHT THE WAR TOGETHER AND WE FACE THE FUTURE TOGETHER AS AMERICANS --A FUTURE THAT IS MORE FRAUGHT WITH DANGER THAN THE WAR ITSELF.

"IN AN ERA WHICH HAS DEVELOPED THE ATOMIC BOMB, AND WHICH WILL DEVELOP TRANS-OCEANIC ROCKETS CAPABLE OF CARRYING ATOMIC BOMBS, THE NECESSITY FOR WORLD ORGANIZATION FOR THE CONTROL OF DESTRUCTIVE

FORCES IS IMPERATIVE. THE ONLY ALTERNATIVE IS CONSTANT FEAR AND CHAOS.

"I BELIEVE THAT PRESIDENT TRUMAN, PRIME MINISTER ATTLEE, AND PRIME MINISTER MACKENZIE KING HAVE, IN PRINCIPLE, TAKEN A WISE AND COURAGEOUS STAND--A STAND BASED ON THE PRESERVATION OF OUR CIVILIZATION, OFFERING JUSTICE TO ALL NATIONS AND ASKING ONLY JUSTICE IN RETURN.

"SO LONG AS I BELIEVE THAT THE POLICY OF THE ADMINISTRATION IS TO THE BEST INTEREST OF MY COUNTRY, I SHALL GIVE IT MY UTMOST SUPPORT", LINDBERGH CONCLUDED.

AN ASSOCIATED PRESS STORY FROM WASHINGTON ON NOVEMBER 14 QUOTED TWO CONGRESSMEN AS SAYING LINDBERGH HAD BEEN INVITED TO THE MEETING TO EXPRESS HIS VIEWS ON ATOMIC ENERGY AND OTHER SCIENTIFIC MATTERS. THEY SAID THE FLIER ASKED THAT HIS REMARKS NOT BE GIVEN OUT FOR PUBLICATION.

NEW YORK, NOV. 19-(AP)-ARCHIBALD MAC LEISH, CHAIRMAN OF THE UNITED STATES DELEGATION TO A LONDON CONFERENCE OF THE UNITED NATIONS EDUCATIONAL, SCIENTIFIC AND CULTURAL ORGANIZATION, SAID TODAY THAT EXISTENCE OF THE ATOM BOMB HAD SPEEDED THE GROUP'S SESSIONS TO A SUCCESSFUL CONCLUSION.

"THEY CAME OUT WITH A DRAFT OF A CONSTITUTION WITH WHICH WE WERE VERY MUCH PLEASED," THE FORMER UNDERSECRETARY OF STATE SAID IN REFERRING TO THE CONFEREES. "THE ATOMIC BOMB HAD A TREMENDOUS EFFECT UPON THE CONFERENCE.

"WITHOUT IT, THEY WOULD HAVE MET ONLY AS LEARNED SCHOLARS AND TEACHERS. BUT THE ATOM BOMB TURNED THE CONFERENCE INTO A MEETING OF MEN GATHERED IN THE FACE OF CHANGES BROUGHT ABOUT BY SCIENTIFIC ACHIEVEMENT, AND THEY WERE ALL VERY EAGER TO REACH AN AGREEMENT. THEY KNEW THAT THEY DEFINITELY HAD TO SET UP MACHINERY AS FAST AS POSSIBLE TO MEET THE NEW CONDITIONS."

MAC LEISH, WHO ARRIVED ON A TRANS-ATLANTIC PLANE, SAID HE WOULD LEAVE FOR WASHINGTON SOON.

Henchmen Of Hitler Hear Accusation Of Crimes

DAN De LUCE

Nuernberg, Nov. 20 (AP)—A strangely assorted score of gloomy Nazis sat dejectedly today before an international military tribunal and heard themselves formally accused of Nazi war crimes, the murder of 10,000,000 Europeans, plunder, horror and torture.

Throughout the opening session of the historic trial for their lives, Hitler's followers such as corpulent Hermann Goering, Vague Rudolf Hess and defiant Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel listened through earphones while spokesmen of the nations that crushed their hierarchy recited accounts of the crimes the world had never before witnessed. By turns, prosecutors of the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia droned through the four counts of the 35,000-word indictment accusing the leading Nazis of conspiracy to commit crimes against the peace, actual commission of crimes against the peace, war crimes and crimes against humanity.

Arraignment Put Off

Even the appendices containing individual charges against the 20 defendants were read, meaning that the men who terrorized Europe only a year ago could not be arraigned until the Wednesday session.

The Nazis sometimes sat with earphones clasped on to hear translations in German piped to them as the prosecutors read in English, French and Russian. Their attorneys sat beside them.

Of the 24 originally indicted, one is at large, two are too ill to attend and one has committed suicide. Martin Bormann, Hitler's deputy, was being tried in absentia. Robert Ley, the labor leader, took his own life. Ernst Kaltenbrunner and Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach were ill.

Defendants To Plead

After the indictments are read in full each defendant will plead either "guilty" or "not guilty." Then the prosecution will make its opening statement.

Late this afternoon the former German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop collapsed and had to be given sedatives. He was taken from the crowded court chamber for twenty minutes on complaining of dizziness and acute pain from facial neuralgia, but the doctors said he would be ready for tomorrow's session.

An almost impish grin played about the sunken mouth of Hess.

What disposition the tribunal would make of the reports of alienists on his mental condition had yet to be announced. But the former Hitler deputy seemed at moments almost frivolous as the proceedings got under way.

British Lord Justice Geoffrey Lawrence, presiding, announced that the trial would continue without the presence of Ernest Kaltenbrunner, former Nazi security police chief, who has suffered a hemorrhage.

The defense attorneys listened intently to every word that was spoken, but their clients, as strangely garbed as beggars in an opera, exhibited varying emotions.

Heard Charges Read

From the paunchy prima donna of Nazism, Goering, to the quiet, relatively obscure Propaganda Ministry's handyman, Hans Fritzsche, the defendants listened with varying emotions as lurid deed after luried deed of the Third Reich was reconstructed.

There were no legal furbelows at the start of the historic case in the small, oak-paneled courtroom whose windows overlook the one-time shrine city of Nazidom.

The prosecution tables were crowded. Justice Robert H. Jackson sat at the head of the United States delegation. Sir David Maxwell-Fyfe headed Britain's delegation while Col. Yuri Pokrovsky and Charles Dubost were sitting as temporary chief prosecutors for Russia and France.

The four judges, representing the Allies, and their four alternates filed into the court room at 10:01 A. M. and Presiding Justice Lawrence told the defendants briefly that Britain, the United States, the Soviet Union and France had been intrusted with the punishment of war criminals, adding: "This trial which is about to begin is unique in the history of jurisprudence, and in importance to people all over the world."

Sidney S. Alderman, assistant to Justice Jackson, opened the proceedings by reading a condensed version of the indictment. His voice trembled with nervousness.

The defendants stared glumly during the lengthy reading of the indictment. Hess, Joachim von Ribbentrop, Wilhelm Keitel and Alfred Rosenberg listened without using the translators' earphones provided for each man on trial.

Nods From Goering

Goering, his fat countenance exhibiting bored composure, soon removed his headphones. Grand Admiral Erich Raeder and Walther Funk, former Reichbank president, continued to use the American translating device.

Goering nodded noncommittally when Prosecutor Alderman referred to his overriding control of German economy in preparation for armed aggression after 1936. He nodded with emphasis when the prosecutor recalled his announcement of ten years ago that Germany was building a military air force.

Center Of Interest

As the day progressed, Goering persisted in outgesturing his Nazi cronies and in retaining the courtroom's interest. He leaned forward to kibitz over the shoulder of a German lawyer. He scratched his nose vigorously. He held his heavy jaw with his fist.

When the assistant French prosecutor, Dubost, started reading the third count of the marathon indictment the former Reichsmarshal was having trouble with his earphones. Finally he took them off and leaned forward, hand in chin, while the Frenchman droned on, reading the long atrocity count.

Goering shook his head negatively and smiled wanly when Alderman described him as an SS general.

At Alderman's mention of anti-Jewish fulminations during the prewar period by Rosenberg, that defendant hurriedly replaced his earphones. Julius Streicher, No. 1 Nazi Jew-baiter, sat bolt upright when he was named in the indictment.

Through the reading of the counts, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Hitler's trigger man in the 1938 seizure of Austria, stared blankly through thick-lensed spectacles as his role in the Nazi prewar scheming for power was unfolded.

Glared Defiantly

Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht, former Reich Economics Minister, glared defiantly at the judges as the Nazi defendants were brought into the courtroom. Goering was pale and frowned. Ribbentrop stared into space, and Keitel talked in a low voice with Rosenberg.

Ribbentrop, his arms rolled on his chest, half closed his eyes as his own name was read. A lock of gray hair straggled across his forehead.

Hess, when named, sucked in his thin lips, turned to Ribbentrop, and muttered. Afterward he seemed to be almost smiling. His deep-socketed eyes glittered under black shaggy brows.

Charges against Kaltenbrunner were read dispite his absence in a hospital. Bormann's misdeeds were also read out, although he has been missing since the Battle of Berlin.

Wilhelm Frick slumped down in his chair while his "protectorship" of persecuted Czechs was noted for the tribunal.

Peered At Press Gallery

Fritz Sauckel, who was Nazi chief of foreign slave labor, peered at the packed press gallery.

Toward the end of the morning session, Hess started a long and animated conversation with Ribbentrop.

Hans Frank, whom the Poles called "the butcher" while he was ruling their land, sat with his chin resting on his chest and with his earphones clasped to his ears. Earlier he smiled frequently while gazing around the courtroom.

Keitel, once chief of the German high command, and Col. Gen. Gustav Jodl, former chief of the general staff and Hitler's military adviser, wore neatly pressed uniforms. Dr. Franz Exner of Munich University, Jodl's counsel, wore a purple robe.

Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz's lawyer, Otto Kranzbuehler, wore the gold-striped uniform of a German naval captain, for he was only recently detached from mine sweeping under British orders to represent his former commander in chief.

Crimes Against Civilians

Prosecutor Alderman concluded the reading of the first count of the indictment with these words:

"The defendants, with divers other persons, are guilty of a common plan of conspiracy for accomplishment of crimes against peace—against humanity—war crimes not only against armed forces of their enemies but also against nonbelligerent civilian populations."

After reading five paragraphs of Count 2—entitled "Crimes Against Peace"—the court recessed for fifteen minutes.

During the recess, ropes were stretched to form a corridor through which American security guards—soldiers in shining white helmets—escorted several defendants to the latrine.

Nazis Greet Each Other

During the recess for lunch, the defendants remained in the court and ate heartily from American army messkits. Goering's appetite was particularly keen.

When the court was cleared, the Nazis leaped up and began shaking hands with each other enthusiastically. Though many had occupied adjoining cells for months, solitary confinement had restricted their conversations and many were able to exchange words for the first time since reaching Nuernberg.

Dr. Schacht engaged Albert Speer, Reichsminister for Production, in lively banter, commenting:

"I have read the indictment so many times myself that if they read it in court just once more, I'll have it memorized."

The Nazis talked animatedly with their lawyers just before court resumed.

There was some surprise among the spectators at the trial because the tribunal had presented the full text of the indictment, instead of going ahead with its previous intention to eliminate the recital of details. It was evident that the court thought it best to read the full text to avoid a possible protest by German lawyers.

Early in the afternoon session the French completed reading the third count of the indictment, recounting Nazi conscription of foreign labor, brutal Germanization of occupied territories, the killing of hostages an dthe plunder of public and private properties.

The deputy Soviet prosecutor then started reading the fourth count—"Crimes Against Humanity."

The Red Army colonel, in khaki tunic and blue trousers ,spoke with a classroom singsong into the microphone.

Justice Lawrence interrupted the Soviet speaker briefly to point out he was beginning to duplicate a paragraph of the third count which had already been read by the French. The colonel turned to portions not yet heard, itemizing German slaughter of Russian, Polish and Yugoslav prisoners of war. In a few minutes a junior officer replaced the colonel at the microphone.

Halted again by Lawrence's admonition to skip a Frecnh-read section, the young Soviet counsel replied, "Yes, sir," in English.

The junior officer was soon smoothly reciting German crimes in Smolensk, Kiev and Leningrad. The Russian-born defendant, Rosenberg, mentioned by name, looked questioningly at his Russian accuser.

The fourth count and the main body of the indictment was read entirely by 3.35 P.M. Alderman said he would read Appendix A, stipulating individual crimes charged to the defendants.

Counsel Followed Case

German counsel, sitting in two rows in front of the prisoners' dock, followed intently the slow, careful reading of the documents.

A German attorney disclosed that Goering's counsel, on behalf of the entire defense group, intended to offer a joint declaration challenging the jurisdiction of the international court. This was expected after the indictment reading was completed and the defendants had entered pleas.

The German war leaders spent a quiet night and were awakened an hour earlier than usual for a breakfast of oatmeal, bread and coffee before facing the Allied tribunal.

Guards formed a solid phalanx for nearly a quarter of a mile around the Palace of Justice.

Prosecutors Worked All Night

All night Allied prosecutors and their trial panels had made last-minute preparations for the most singular trial in history.

The accused German leaders were "reasonably calm," guards reported, and some joked with attendants as they journeyed to the palace. Special guards were assigned to each defendant.

Before the proceedings opened, the tribunal had to dispose of several preliminaries. An inter-Allied psychiatric report, prepared at Soviet request, awaited the high tribunal's acceptance. It found Streicher sane.

Conflicting Reports

Independent reports by psychiatric commissions from each of the four powers were reported before the tribunal, making recommendations concerning the ability of Hess to defend himself.

The United States psychiatrists reportedly found Hess incapable of defending himself and would so advise the tribunal. British alienists were also believed to have advised the tribunal that Hess's purported amnesia rendered him incompetent at the present time. Soviet and French psychiatrists were said to have stressed that Hess's loss of memory was a refuge sought in order to escape punishment.

The court was also to clarify the question of future prosecution of Alfred Krupp, industrialist, whose Alfried Krupp, industrialist, whose reportedly dying father was removed from the war-crimes indictment list last week. The charges against the elder munitions king were not dropped from the tribunal's docket, however.

Press Coverage

Twenty spotlights hang over the little Chamber of Justice. More than 300 newspaper men and radio commentators from five continents are on hand and protographers' booths rim the scene.

Military authorities have taken every precaution to prevent any weapons or firearms from being smuggled into the courthouse.

Col. B. C. Andrus, commander of the security guard, told correspondents their typewriter cases would be subject to examination by American troops stationed inside and outside the court building. Women were told their handbags would be subject to scrutiny.

Persons lacking special passes will be barred from grounds and building.

Soldiers are even posted on the roof of the court, and an American tank is stationed near the building.

Among those attending the opening session were Lieut. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, commander of the United States 3d Army, and Senator Claude Pepper, Florida, Democrat.

Hess Sick At Trial

Nuernberg, Germany, Nov. 20 (AP)—Rudolf Hess suffered an attack of abdominal cramps during a court recess today and was attended by Major Douglas Kelley, San Francisco psychiatrist.

Kelley said Hess had been subject to cramps at times for twenty years.

"I had been watching Hess all morning," the major said. "Suddenly he clasped his hands to his stomach and began to rock back and forth. He moved from an upright to a sitting position until his head was bent forward over the rail of the defendants' box."

Kelley administered no medicine, but advised the German to continue rocking.

Recovering, Hess appeared alternately politely interested and bored.

20 Top-Flight Germans Will Enter Pleas Today

Two Fall Ill as Record of War Crimes Is Read by Prosecutors.

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 20—(AP) Twenty top-flight Nazis, once masters of Europe, sat meekly in a small oak-paneled courtroom today and listened to a five-hour recital of war crimes for which they may answer with their lives.

The fallen leaders, stripped of both their arrogance and their guady military trappings, were outwardly calm—some of them even appearing bored—as the 24,000-word indictment was read at the opening session of the International War Crimes tribunal.

Two Fall Ill

But two of them fell ill during the long day. Rudolf Hess, former No. 2 Nazi, suffered an attack of abdominal cramps during a court recess, and later Joachim von Ribbentrop, former foreign minister, collapsed and received sedatives.

Hess was able to remain in the courtrom and doctors said Von Ribbentrop would be ready for tomorrow's session when the defendants will enter pleas of innocence or guilt to charges that they waged aggressive warfare, violated the rules of war, and participated in the slaying of millions.

It appeared likely that tomorrow's session also might bring the first defense attacks on the validity of the indictment and of the constitution of the four-power tribunal itself. Defense attorneys indicated they would seek more time to prepare their cases.

The first day's session, devoted entirely to the reading of the voluminous indictment, left still unsettled the question whether Hess or six foot five Ernst Kaltenbrunner, former head of the dread security police, would stand trial.

The tribunal has under advisement a report of British and American psychiatrists declaring Hess is an amnesia victim and unable to conduct any real semblance of defense.

The role of Kaltenbrunner was equally obscure. Although surgeons in the American Army hospital reported he would be hospitalized at least a month longer as the result of a cranail hemorrhage, the charges against him were read in court without the tribunal's indicating whether it intended to try him in absentia.

For the 20 defendants well enough to attend the trial, which the presiding judge, Lord Justice Geoffrey Lawrence of Britain, described as "unique in the history of jurisprudence," this was their first reunion since the German military machine collapsed.

And the tumbled ruins of Nuernberg, Nazi shrine city stretching for miles on every side of the court house, was a fitting setting.

Obviously, there was little love lost among some of the prisoners as they sat facing the high bench, behind which were the eight men who will judge them—the American, British, Russian and French members of the tribunal and their respective alternates. And one German defense lawyer was heard to murmur as he left the court: "Today I am ashamed to be a German."

Jew-baiter Julius Streicher, who seemingly ignored even the reading of the charges against himself, donned the earphones to hear the German translation of the indictment only once. That was when the specific charges against Hermann Goering were read, and Streicher craned his neck to sneer at the once-jaunty Reichsmarshal.

Goering, in an air force marshal's uniform minus any trace of gold braid and decorations, paid no attention to him but listened attentively to the recital of charges against him.

The calmness of the fat Reichsmarshal, now streamlined down to 220 pounds, was a tribute to American doctors who last summer found him a quivering drug addict who cringed in terror during a mild thunderstorm.

In most instances the prisoners gave no sign of affirmation or denial as the Nazi crimes were read. Mention of themselves as SS (Elite Guard) generals, however, brought almost involuntary gestures of negation from Goering and Hans Frank, one-time overlord of Poland.

Frank, whom the Poles called "the Butcher," seemed to be enjoying himself in court and appeared to have difficulty restraining a smile when a member of the Russian staff of prosecutors read a portion of the indictment telling of the torure slaying of hundreds of thousands of Poles.

Defendants Are Weary

NUERNBERG, Nov. 20 (AP).—A weary group of Nazis fell into their bunks at the end of today's trial session.

By 7 p. m. all twenty defendants were asleep. Eyewitnesses said the cell block presented a striking contrast to scenes of the previous night, when most of the defendants were electrified by assurance that the trial would begin on schedule, and indicated their relief by a loquaciousness rare in men charged with such heavy crimes.

Goering thought the indictment "very dull," and then said, "Hess must really be crazy. He started to read some trashy novel while they were talking about him."

Goering smiled wanly when guards relieved him of the necktie and shoestrings which he wore for the first time since his capture. The other Nazis were either too weary or depressed to notice the strict precautions against suicide.

Only Von Schirach had the heart for banter. He was half undressed when dinner was brought to his cell, and though his lids were heavy with strain and weariness, he remarked: "If the victuals continue to get better, they'll be serving us steak by the time they hang us."

Streicher had only one comment: "If possible, I'd like to have a different shirt tomorrow—one with a larger collar."

Von Ribbentrop, white, stiff and shaky after his collapse in the courtroom late in the afternoon, was put to bed immediately after the session ended.

Berlin, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Nuernberg war-crimes trial was made the top-ranking subject in all Berlin schools today as teachers sought to impress the former "Hitler's children" with Germany's war guilt and Allied justice.

Daily discussion periods will be held throughout the course of the trial for all children between the ages of 12 and 18, under a plan supervised by Karl Schulte, deputy mayor and educational commissioner.

All Berlin newspapers will be available in the schools and accounts of the trial will be read and questions answered.

"Teachers will make a special effort to explain to the pupils the differences in American and British legal justice as against what we had under the Nazis—especially as regards rights of accused to have their own counsel," Schulte said.

LABOR OPPOSITION STRIVES TO STIR VOTE OF CENSURE

LONDON, Nov. 20—(AP) Conservative leaders headed by former Prime Minister Winston Churchill said tonight they would seek a vote of censure in Commons against the Labor government for what they called "preoccupation" with its socialization program.

The censure motion, unlike a call for a vote of confidence, could not lead to the government's downfall, and in view of Labor's overwhelming majority, it was considered doubtful the motion would pass.

Churchill and his colleagues said the motion would charge the government with neglecting its "primary duty" of troop demobilization and reconversion while preoccupied in "long-term plans for the nationalization of certain industries."

"In particular," their statement said, "the opposition will complain of the government's total failure to reduce expenditures and concentrate on housing and demobilization."

During the day in Commons debate the Conservatives asserted the "hand of a dictator" was detectable behind the government's proposal to extend its war time powers over labor and business and the right to enter and search premises without a warrant.

A spokesman for the Laborite government termed the opposition's charges "stupid nonsense" and declared the bill was drawn up while Churchill was still Prime Minister.

OPPOSE BRITAIN'S TRANSPORT PLAN

London, Nov. 20 (A. P.).—British transportation officials told the Labor government today that its plan to nationalize railroads and other long-distance hauling services would eliminate all competition and "lead to chaos."

At a meeting to protest the public ownership proposal, Capt. L. D. Gammans, Conservative member of Parliament, said that the country should "wake up and understand what is going to happen" if the government consolidated road transport "into one gigantic State-controlled monopoly."

E. B. Howes, chairman of the National Conference of Road Transport Associations, said that if the consolidated industry's employees should strike it would "paralyze the country and bring its commerce to a complete standstill." Sir Malcolm Campbell, former race driver told the meeting that nationalization of transportation was a "terrible thought."

"You have got to fight it with every weapon you have," he said.

Two hundred persons attended the meeting, called after the government's announcement yesterday that it intended to nationalize transportation and electricity, gas, coal, iron and steel industries.

A charge by the Conservative party that the Labor Government's tax bill was "criminally extravagant" was overridden last night in Commons when the measure was given its second reading. It goes to the House of Lords after a third reading.

LORDS SET JOYCE APPEAL

'Haw Haw's' Last Plea for Life to Be Heard Dec. 10

LONDON, Nov. 20 (AP)—The House of Lords will hear on Dec. 10 the appeal of William (Lord Haw Haw) Joyce from a treason conviction, it was announced today. It is the final court of appeal for the Brooklyn-born prisoner, who has been sentenced to be hanged for broadcasting Nazi propaganda.

Joyce's wife, a German, visited him for an hour today in Wandsworth Prison. She was brought to London from the Continent yesterday.

Joyce's predecessor in the German propaganda set-up, Norman Baillie-Stewart, was committed for trial on a high treason charge after a British intelligence officer had testified that he had broadcast speeches under such titles as "Yankee Ambitions" and "Russian Rule."

Attlee Returns To Britain

London, Nov. 20 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Attlee returned to Britain today from the historic conference on atomic energy in Washington. A heavy London fog forced his Douglas C-54 plane to land at Tangmere, Sussex.

PARIS CABINET ACCORD SEEN

De Gaulle Confident Ministers Will Be Chosen Soon

Paris, Nov. 20 (AP)—President de Gaulle, after day-long political consultations, expressed confidence tonight that he would form a new Cabinet and that it would be announced soon.

One Government official said de Gaulle and representatives of France's three major political parties—Communist, Socialist and Popular Republican—had agreed today on the division of the Cabinet posts.

The sole task remaining, the official declared, was the selection and acceptance of the individuals de Gaulle desired from each party.

'Accord In Principle'

Earlier Felix Gouin, president of the Constituent Assembly, had predicted formation of a Cabinet by tomorrow since "an accord in principle seems to have been realized" during the day.

De Gaulle conferred with the Communist spokesman, Maurice Thorez, party secretary general, and Jacques Duclos, party secretary, before leaving the War Ministry tonight.

The Communists had attended a three-party session this morning and during the afternoon de Gaulle received the leaders of the three parties separately.

"The Communists seem satisfied," Gouin said. He declined to disclose what solution de Gaulle may have to satisfy that party, whose demands for a key policy-making Cabinet post precipitated a crisis last week.

One Possible Solution

One possible solution widely discussed was that de Gaulle had offered to create three ministers of state, with a portfolio going to Communists, Socialists and Popular Republican parties. The same report said a Communist might be made Secretary of War, with a non-party technician as under secretary.

It also was reported that de Gaulle would unify the armed forces under a Minister of National Defense, making the ministries of War, Air and Navy administrative bodies.

The Communists had demanded the portfolio of either Foreign Affairs, War or Interior. De Gaulle told the Constituent Assembly such demands would prevent his forming a unified coalition government as ordered by the assembly, and offered his resignation.

The assembly, however, rejected the resignation, overriding Communist objections, and asked de Gaulle to form a Cabinet giving equal representation to all three major parties.

SEES VICTORY FOR DE GAULLE

Assembly President Looks for Cabinet Tomorrow.

Paris, Nov. 20 (A. P.).—Felix Gouin, president of the Constituent Assembly, said tonight that Gen. de Gaulle's new attempt to form a coalition Government was going well and that a Cabinet may be formed tomorrow. "An accord in principle seems to have been realized," he said. "The Communists seem satisfied."

De Gaulle conferred in secret throughout the day with leaders of the Socialist, Popular Republican (MRP) and Communist parties.

Prior to the conference with De Gaulle, the Communist group met and announced that it remained firm in its request for one of three ministries—Foreign Affairs, War or the Interior. But the Communists made one concession in announcing their acceptance of the Socialist amendment adopted by the Assembly yesterday calling for tri-partite government. They had abstained yesterday from voting on this point.

The delegation that saw de Gaulle included Jacques Duclos, Maurice Thorez and Florimond Bonte, Communists; Vincent Auriol, Daniel Mayer and Andre Philip, Socialists, and Maurice Schumann, Francisque Gay and Andre Colin, Popular Republicans.

De Gaulle was scheduled to receive Thorez, Mayer and Schumann for separate interviews later in the day.

Unified Forces Expected

One government official, who said his opinion was shared by several others in the Foreign Ministry, predicted that de Gaulle would unify the armed forces under a Minister of National Defense, and offer the post of Under Secretary of Air to the Communists under a non-Communist Minister of Defense.

If accepted, the compromise might break the long deadlock over composition of the government that will rule France while the constitution for the Fourth Republic is being drafted.

Resignation Rejected

The Constituent Assembly yesterday in an atmosphere of tense excitement asked General de Gaulle to continue as interim President. De Gaulle's resignation was rejected by a vote of 400 to 163.

A last-minute effort by the Communists to form an alliance with the Socialists and capture control of the Government from de Gaulle was rejected by the Socialists.

The Socialists' rejection, which was published this morning, became plain when the party joined the MRP in supporting de Gaulle in yesterday's vote after saying previously it would abstain.

self when Hitler found a "fat-legged" substitute for her.

She pondered for the diary that Hitler was rather crude in love-making, never kept his promises, and sometimes gave her an envelope with money without saying a word.

Covers 4-Month Period

Entries in the book, found in Eva's treasure chest, covered the four-month period from February to May, 1935, and were translated by U. S. Intelligence officers. They gave the first intimate details of Hitler, the lover.

"The weather is gorgeous and I, mistress of Germany's and the world's greatest man, have to sit at home and look at it through a window," said an entry dated May 10.

Upon learning of "the fat-legged" Walkure, whom a friend had told her was a substitute for her, Eva wrote that "it is mean of him not to tell me."

Jealously, she wrote "her name is Walkure and she looks it, including her legs. But these things are shapes that appeal to him. If that is true he will have her till she gets slim, unless she has Charlie's talent for thriving on worries."

Neither Walkure nor Charlie, nor another woman in Hitler's life named only as "Ondra," were identified further.

On May 28, when Eva, a sleeping pill addict, had not seen Hitler for three months, she sent an ultimatum "that is decisive for me. If I don't get an answer by 10 tonight I'll take my 25 pills and lie down peacefully. x x x

"I'm afraid I won't get an answer today. If only someone would help me—everything is so hopeless. May be my letter reached him at an inopportune time, or maybe I shouldn't have written at all."

Eva made several references to an apparent love nest Hitler had promised, saying once that "the house is ready but I can't go to visit him. 'Love' does not seem to be on his program at present."

The occasions when he silently thinks of anything like that," the diary said.

British intelligence reports have indicated that the dictator and Eva finally were married last spring in the Chancellery beneath the ruins of Berlin and that both committed suicide the following day.

"He is only using me for very definite purposes," she wrote. "When he loves me he takes it about as seriously as his promises which he never keeps. Why does he torture me so much instead of just putting an end to the whole thing?"

Birthday's Bleak

The self-styled mistress described the bleakness of her 23rd birthday on Feb. 6, 1935, when she pined for a Dachshund but never got it.

"He was just here but no dog and no cupboard," the diary read. "He didn't even ask me whether I had a birthday wish. So now I bought myself some jewelry—a necklace with earrings and ring to match. Everything very pretty. I hope he likes it. If not he may buy me something himself."

Once when Hitler left without saying goodbye, after Eva said they had "spent a few wonderful hours" together, she wrote:

"I only wish I were seriously ill for at least eight days and to hear nothing of him. Why doesn't something happen to me? Why do I have to suffer like this? I wish I had never seen him. I am desperate and I'm now going to buy some more sleeping tablets and at least then I'll be half-dazed and won't think about him so much. Why doesn't the devil come and get me? I'm sure it's nicer there than here."

At another time Eva wrote that she stood for three hours outside the Carloton—a hotel—and "had to watch while Hitler brought flowers for Ondra and invited her for supper."

scores of pictures showing her, Hitler and a small girl.

The intelligence division has translated only a four-month period of the diary, from February to May of 1935, a time in which Eva described herself as "the mistress of Germany's and the world's greatest man."

British intelligence reports said she and the dictator finally were married last spring in the Chancellery beneath the ruins of Berlin, and that both committed suicide the following day.

The woman revealed herself as a gold digger, a jealous woman and a sleeping tablet addict, according to the translators. Even when Hitler was courting her, Eva wrote in her diary that things were so bad financially that she was thinking of selling some of her clothes.

On her twenty-third birthday on February 6, 1935, she wrote:

"It seems as though I'll never be rich."

Two months later, she wrote that she had spent Easter alone and:

"I'm getting on everybody's nerves because I want to sell everything from clothes down to my photo camera and even theater tickets. Oh well, things will improve. After all, my debts are not that big."

Eva pictured Hitler as rather crude in love making, a lover who never kept his promises, one who disappeared for weeks at a time, and one who once in a while slipped her an envelope with money without saying a word.

In Eva's own words, Hitler "had so little understanding, and still makes me appear distant when his friends are around."

Romance Close to Bre...

The diary disclosed that Hitler's romance with Eva came near breaking up several times.

Once, she wrote, they spent "a few wonderful hours" together and then he left without saying good-by.

"I only wish I were seriously ill for at least eight days and would hear nothing of him," she wrote. "Why doesn't something happen to me? Why do I have to suffer like this? I wish I had never seen him. I am desperate. I am now going to buy some more sleeping tablets; at least then, I'll be half dazed and won't think about him so much. Why doesn't the devil come and get me? I am sure it is nicer there than here."

At another time Eva wrote that she stood for three hours outside the Carloton—a hotel—and "had to watch while Hitler bought flowers for Ondra and invited her for supper."

The reference to "Ondra" was not otherwise explained.

"He is only using me for very definite purposes," Eva told her diary. "When he loves me, he takes it about as seriously as his promises, which he never keeps. Why does he torture me so much instead of just putting an end to the whole thing?"

VAST MIGRATION PLANNED

BERLIN, Nov. 20—(AP) Six and one half million Germans will be moved from Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Poland into Germany between December and next July in probably the greatest mass migration in history. Under a plan adopted today by the Allied Control council, this great movement, is destined to de-Germanize the borderlands of Germany.

The American commander, in Chicago for the national convention of the American Legion, made the announcement at a new conference. He said he did not believe the agreement had been made known by other sources previously.

On Nov. 7, he said, the arrangement was made with Marshal Zhukov, the Russian commander, whereby reporters of the two nations, accompanied by their own interpreters, may make one-week visits in one another's occupied zones. General Eisenhower said Army officers of the zones would convoy newsmen during the visit.

NEGROES IN SHIP PARLEY

Discrimination Move Checked by Vote of Representatives

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Nov. 20 (AP)—A proposal from delegates of five nations that Negro sailors be excluded from the World Maritime Conference was rejected today by a vote of 26 to 8.

Shipping company representatives from Great Britain, Portugal, Belgium, the Netherlands and Norway offered the proposal, contending that Negro sailors always had been paid less than white sailors and had fewer requirements. Chinese and Indian shipowners were supported by delegates from the United States and Canada in defeating the move.

The conference is being held under International Labor Organization auspices in an effort to establish world standards of wages and working conditions for seamen.

Raiders Find No Sign Nazis Plan Resistance

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 20 (AP). A United States Army spokesman said today that advices so far from Sunday's precautionary raids had revealed no signs of any large-scale preparations by the Germans for organized resistance against occupation forces this winter.

Full reports from the field are not expected before another week, he said, but added that if any sizable Nazi hideout had been discovered "I am sure we should have heard about it right away."

Cabinet Quits In Greece

Athens, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Cabinet of Greek Premier Panayotis Kanellopoulos resigned today.

Kanellopoulos, vice president of the Greek cabinet-in-exile during the war and former Minister of Finance and Reconstruction, became Premier on November 1 on assignment from Regent Archbishop Damaskinos, after a series of Cabinet crises.

Government quarters attributed the Cabinet collapse to recurrent economic troubles, which toook a turn for the worse yesterday with reports reaching Athens that the British Government had turned down a Greek request for a rehabilization loan.

Uneasiness had prevailed since Hector McNeil, British Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, remained noncommittal on financial aid commitments in a speech at the British embassy dinner Thursday.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 20 (AP)—Urging unity between her home and colonial peoples, Queen Wilhelmina today told the Netherlands Provisional Parliament that "we do not plan any act of revenge nor establishment of colonial domination in Indonesia.

In a throne speech the Queen said she would "continue to sponsor a speedy meeting of our Empire conference" to give individual self-governments to parts of the empire through constitutional means.

In Java, she said, the Netherlands Government would "continue to try to salvage the future of this ravaged land for both the Dutch and Indonesians—the future of a commonwealth built on voluntarily accepted solidarity of the parts of the empire."

Eva Braun's Diary Tells of Hitler as Lover

Reveals She Thought of Suicide Several Times—Calls Fuehrer Inconsiderate.

Frankfort, Nov. 20 (A. P.).—Eva Braun contemplated suicide several times when Hitler was cold to her and found temporary new romantic interests, United States intelligence officers said today after an examination of her diary.

The diary was the first intimate detail on Hitler as a lover.

Hitler Crude Love-Maker Eva Braun's Diary Reveals

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 20—(AP) Eva Braun wrote in her diary that she was "mistress of Germany's and the world's greatest man," and threatened to kill herself when Hitler found a "fat-legged" substitute for her.

She pondered for the diary that Hitler was rather crude in love-making, never kept his promises, and sometimes gave her an envelope with money without saying a word.

Sophoulis Forms Greek Cabinet As Canellopoulos' Regime Falls

Veteran Liberal Says Plebiscite on King's Return Is Shelved Till 1948—London Clarifies Stand in Aid Dispute

ATHENS, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Liberal leader, Themistocles Sophoulis, was entrusted tonight with the formation of a new Greek Cabinet after the resignation of Premier Panayot Canellopoulos' government.

The Greek cabinet crisis developed from a series of economic troubles that took a turn for the worse yesterday when reports reached Athens that the British Government had rejected a Greek request for a rehabilitation loan.

Mr. Sophoulis was appointed after a meeting of former Premiers, called by Regent Archbishop Damaskinos.

(In London official circles, who asked not to be quoted by name, denied that any discussion of a loan is under way and said "It is other forms of economic assistance that are being considered."

(The 85-year-olds Mr. Sophoulis formed a new Cabinet, and immediately anounced that his government had agreed to defer a plebiscite on the return of King George II to Greece until early in 1948, a Reuter dispatch reported. Emanuel Tsouderos, former Premier, became general Economic Coordinator in the new government, the dispatch added.]

Professor Canellopoulos, who became Premier Nov. 1 on assignment from the Regent, announced his resignation to correspondents and said:

"I hope all nationally minded parties, regardless of political convictions, will rise to the occasion and contribute to the salvation of the country."

The wartime Vice President of the Greek Cabinet-in-Exile said he thought "conditions now have been created for a satisfactory solution to the Government question, mainly from the economic and financial viewpoint."

Rumors of a Cabinet upheaval began circulating last week-end, following a speech at the British Embassy by Hector MacNeil, British Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in which he failed to mention whether Greece could expect Allied help with its domestic rehabilitation.

Premier Salazar Party Wins Portugal Election

Lisbon, Nov. 20 (AP)—Official figures on the results of Sunday's elections showed today that more than 58 per cent voted for Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar's National Union ticket.

Leaders of the Democratic opposition, who sought unsuccessfully to have the elections postponed on the ground they did not have time to campaign, issued a communiqué saying, "We are determined to continue our struggle actively aiming to reinstall freedoms . . . in Portugal."

ETHRIDGE SEES KING

Bucharest, Nov. 20 (A. P.).—Mark Ethridge, State Department investigator in the Balkans, visited King Michael today. He is studying the Romanian Government to form an opinion on whether it fits the Yalta standards for democratic, representative administration.

Ethridge, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, was to return from the King's mountain retreat at Sinaia, eighty miles north of Bucharest, to confer later with Soviet Ambassador Kaftaradze.

Tomorrow Etheridge is expected to begin interviewing members of the government of Premier Petru Groza and to lunch at the United States embassy with the Soviet Ambassador. On Thursday he expects to see political party leaders, including heads of opposition parties which the Government and the Communist party are demanding should be dissolved.

JEWS PROTEST

Brussels, Nov. 20 (A. P.).—A British communique said today that troops of the Jewish infantry brigade, stationed in Belgium and Holland, staged a twenty-four-hour hunger strike yesterday to signify their "disapproval of the state of affairs prevailing in Palestine."

"The background of the fast was entirely political," the communique said, "and all military duties were carried out as normally."

Jerusalem, Nov. 20 (A. P.).—The Palestine Government issued an official denial yesterday that British officials here had armed Arabs and had permitted a terrorist leader to return to the Middle East with promises of arms and money. The denial called these assertions "a tissue of lies."

The statement was issued in denial of a story by Constantine Poulos of the Overseas News agency. The Government said Palestine police had investigated and could find no trace of the Allied terrorist named by Poulos. Poulos said he could not disclose the source of his information.

Zionists Voice Disappointment

LONDON, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Emergency Conference of Zionists expressed "deep disappointment" tonight in the British Government's new proposals for Palestine and declared that the world's Jews never would accept a policy that "subjects Jewish people in its national home to racial discrimination."

81% Of Bulgarians Vote For Fatherland Front

Sofia Nov. 20 (AP)—Foreign Minister Petko Stainov said today that final election figures showed that 86 per cent of those eligible voted in Sunday's Bulgarian election and that 81 per cent of them voted for the Fatherland Front.

His figures showed 4,378,314 citizens had the right to vote and that 3,757,796 of these voted. Of ballots cast, 3,311,962 were for the Fatherland Front, which was the only political party presenting a slate of candidates.

IRANIAN TROOPS ARE TURNED BACK BY RED MILITARY

TEHRAN, Nov. 20—(AP) Russian military authorities at Kazvin today turned back an Iranian force sent from Tehran to quell Separatist uprisings in Azerbaijan province, the Iranian government announced.

The four Iranian battalions, including infantrymen, motorized troops and gendarmes, were ordered to return from Kazvin, about 100 miles northeast of the capital and a third of the way to Tabriz, Azerbaijan's largest city.

The troops were dispatched to reinforce Iranian garrisons in Aberbaijan, where seven persons were reported killed during the weekend. They were accompanied by two Americans from Col. Norman Schwarzkopf's police advisory mission to Iran.

The official announcement that Soviet authorities had stopped them gave no details.

Schwarzkopf, former head of the New Jersey state police, reported yesterday that there was violent fighting at Mianeh, an Azerbaijan railway terminus. A later government communique said the situation was calm at three other cities where uprisings had been reported.

(In Moscow, the newspaper Izvestia blamed the Azerbaijan disorders on "organized reactionary landowners," and described as "slanderous" reports that Russian trucks had supplied weapons to the Separationists.

(Izvestia declared the events were "artifically inflamed" in a movement by landlords against recent meetings and elections sponsored by all classes of Iranians.

(Earlier reports from Azerzaijan said weapons used by the Separationists were part of 100,000 rifles and machineguns taken from the Iranians by the Russians when Soviet troops entered Iran early in the war.)

Little Iran Talks Tough

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP) Little Iran talked tough to Russia today, then expressed confidence of United States backing in its current difficulties with the Soviet Union.

Hussein Ala, first ambassador to Washington from the country most Americans call Persia, made public a 700-word summary of a stiff note of protest delivered by the Iranian government to the Soviet embassy in Teheran last Saturday.

The ambassador then told a news conference that Russian forces in northern Iran had committed "a flagrant violation of the sovereignty and integrity" of his country.

He said he was "very hopeful" that the United States would use "its influence at Moscow," and added that he gained the impression at the State department that the time had come when this country would have to act.

The note to Russia concerned an uprising of the so-called Iranian Democratic party in the province of Azerbaijan, which has been occupied by Red army forces since early in the war.

Ala believed the incident which brought matters to the showdown stage for the United States was the reported turning back by Soviet authorities at Kazvin of Iranian forces which were being sent into Azerbaijan to quell the uprising.

The ambassador said the uprising was "engineered" by "undesirable individuals" who had infiltrated into Iran from Russia.

American officials would not comment on the ambassador's assertions, but said they were exploring the situation.

Reds Block Iran Blow At Rebels

Tehran, Nov. 20 (AP) — Iranian troops dispatched to Azerbaijan province to quell separatist disturbances there were halted at Kazvin today by Russian authorities and ordered to return to Tehran, the Iranian Government said.

Four battalions of troops and gendarmes had been moving north from Tehran, apparently with the tacit consent of the Russian army commander, to quell the outbreak in which seven persons have been reported killed.

Kazvin is about 100 miles northeast of Tehran—about one-third of the way to Tabriz, Azerbaijan's largest city.

U.S. Advisers With One Unit

The troops Iran sent consisted of Two battalions of infantry, one of motorized troops and one of gendarmes, the latter accompanied by two American advisers from Col. Norman Schwarzkopf's police advisory mission in Iran.

Communications between Tehran and the northern part of the country were still cut and no clear picture of the fighting could be obtained here.

One some previous occasions, too, the Russians have refused to let additional Iran troops enter the area they control.

A Government communique said the situation was calm at Zenjan Astara and Ardabil.

IRAN CALLS ON U. S. TO INFLUENCE REDS

Washington, Nov. 20 (A. P.).—Ambassador Hussein Ala of Iran today appealed to the United States to use its influence at Moscow to put an end to what he described as Russian support of the revolting elements in his country. Ala released at a news conference an official summary of a note delivered by his Government at Tehran to the Russian embassy there last Saturday asking the Russians to let Iranian Army and constabulary units go into the troubled northwestern area and restore peace. The area is part of the zone of occupation of Soviet forces in Iran.

"Should the Iranian Government not succeed in preventing unfortunate incidents owing to the lack of freedom of movement of its armed forces," the Iranian Note said. "it will have the right of imputing responsibility for the failure to the Soviet military authorities."

The note also declared that disastrous consequences might ensue if the situation in the disturbed area is not soon brought under control.

The note set forth the Iranian version of the uprising in Azerbaijan, which was attributed to "a number of Kurds" who possess arms and ammunition and "a printing machine and a lot of newsprint" obtained from Russia."

Ala has conferred with Secretary of State Byrnes. Holding his first news conference today, the Ambassador said: "We are very hopeful that the United States with its moral ideas and its high principles will use its influence at Moscow and in any conferences among the Big Three Powers to see that right and justice are done in Iran."

"Izvestia" Cries "Slander"

MOSCOW, Nov. 20 (AP).—"Izvestia" today blamed police and "organized reactionary landowners" for disorders in the northern Iranian province of Azerbaijan, and declared reports that Russian trucks had supplied arms to separatists there were "slanderous."

The government newspaper said events in Azerbaijan were "artificially inflamed," and that what really took place was a movement by the landlords against recent meetings and elections sponsored by all classes of Iranians.

It accused British news sources of giving undue emphasis to the Azerbaijan disturbances in an effort to distract attention from troubles of "really large scale" in Palestine, Indonesia and Egypt, and to try to unload the responsibilities for Iranian disturbances on the Russians.

"Izvestia" said local police groups inspired by the landowners, who foresaw threats to "their rule of privilege," were taking part against Democratic groups described as representative of the masses. It said great success was won in the elections by Democrats who are trying to "secure elementary democratic rights, the necessary prerequisites of national development, and raising of the local Azerbaijan population into the framework of the Iranian state."

Denies Separatist Movement

The editorial denied this was a separatist movement.

"In separate districts," said "Izvestia," "as, for instance, Sorab and Myan, the matter reached the point of open, armed attacks of police and organized reactionary landowners of the Black Hundred group on more active participants in the Democratic movement. All this resulted in the series of incidents.

"This was enough for some organs of the foreign press, Reuters especially, to represent events in northern Iran in quite a distorted fashion. During recent days the London radio often stated that in northern Iran a separatists' uprising had begun, and that battles were occurring there with police.

"In this fashion, all kinds of slanderous versions and fictions are spread about Russian trucks supplying the local population with rifles and machine-guns, and many other kinds of fables, having as their real aim an effort to conceal the actual character of democratic elections to these local organs of self-administration in northern Iran, and unloading responsibility for events on Russians."

BRITISH BOMBERS HIT INDONESIANS

Planes Pound at Troops Driving Wedge Between Two Indian Forces.

Morton

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 20.—(AP) British Thunderbolts blasted Indonesian positions at Semarang in central Java with 500-pound bombs today, and renewed fighting in Batavia killed or wounded 20 persons.

The planes pounded at Nationalists who drove a wedge between two Indian forces in Semarang. British headquarters declared the bombing was successful and that advancing ground forces were meeting "little resistance."

Troops Edge Forward

Other British Indian troops edged forward in the 11th day of battle at Soerabaja naval base despite Indonesian artillery and mortar fire, and scored a 800-yard advance in one sector.

(In Holland, Queen Wilhelmina declared her government would seek swift convocation of a kingdom-wide conference to establish a Netherlands Commonwealth based on local autonomy.)

The planes over Semarang bombed roadblocks and a large concrete building which had been converted into a strong point after the RAF dropped 10,000 leaflets giving the populace a 90-minute notice to evacuate.

During the night the British repelled a strong Indonesian force which attempted to seize British headquarters in Semarang. The Indonesians were dispersed by mortar fire after losing 50 killed, 50 wounded and 150 captured, the British said.

The fighting in Batavia appeared the most widespread yet experienced in the capital. From Koenigsplein, central square of the city, gunfire could be heard in almost every direction. Men, women and children dashed about seeking cover.

British, Dutch and Indonesian cars and trucks, bristling with weapons, raced through the streets. The British and Dutch hastily threw up roadblocks.

Clashes were reported in widely scattered sectors, including the Menten road area, the Padjagalan area, the Meester Corneliur district, the dock area, the south end and around the railway station.

In the south end British Mahrattas shot seven Indonesians and captured 36. In the dock area all vehicles travelling on the Tandjong Prok road were fired at. In the central area of Batavia a grenade wounded an officer and five soldiers in a British truck. In the north sector of the city Seaforth Highlanders shot three looters.

Attempting to halt disorders in the capital, the unrecognized Indonesian government announced it was concentrating its peace preservation corps (TKR) in areas surrounding Batavia. It issued an appeal to the Indonesian people to place full confidence in the TKR and to refrain from taking individual action "which would only harm our cause."

Describing the fighting in Soerabaja, a British statement said Indonesian shelling and sniping was "fairly heavy".

The chief British gain was along the west bank of the Kali river where Indian troops moved forward about 800 yards, overrunning most of the Kawahan sector south of the government building.

The British shelled Indonesian machine gun positions at the important railway crossing near the British-held Emma school. Sniper fire was persistent there.

Lt. Gen. Sir Philip Christison, Allied commander in the Dutch East Indies, returned from a two-day visit to Soerabaja and commended British troops for the "patience, skill and gallantry" which they displayed "in their methodical advance to clean up the city and rescue the internees."

The British said that 33 guns, 10 mortars, eight tanks, one armored car, 63 armored carriers, 70 trucks and 830 rifles had been captured from the Indonesians so far.

tion, were pouring into the capital by train. Allied authorities had lost control of the railway stations.

The action about Semarang was the first aerial offensive against the city in the current fighting.

The Indonesians had barricaded themselves across three roads which formed the only contact between two Indian forces which were attempting to link up against stiff resistance.

Leaflets Warn Civilians.

After an overnight staff conference, the British dropped 10,000 leaflets on the town, warning the people to leave before the R. A. F. struck. They were given ninety minutes notice.

The British officially expressed anxiety over the situation in Semarang. A crowd which threatened British headquarters sustained fifty casualties when it was dispersed by mortar fire yesterday, and total Indonesian casualties in the district were put at fifty killed, fifty wounded and 150 captured.

In Soerabaja, the Indonesians have stepped up their shelling of British Indian positions, and in Bandoeng, Java's summer capital, the situation was reported more tense.

Japanese still are being used in Bandoeng for police purposes.

Four Reported Slain

Two Dutchmen and two Dutch women were reported to have been slain by Indonesians on the outskirts of Bandoeng.

At Soerabaja, a British official statement said, shelling and sniping by the Indonesians was "fairly heavy."

The statement said "our positions in the center of the town are being shelled, apparently at close range."

In the Menteng road area of Batavia, Indonesians were engaged by Dutch troops and a strong British patrol was sent out. The firing died down after the British arrived.

"Peace Army" Deployed

The unrecognized Indonesian government announced it was concentrating its peace preservation army in areas surrounding Batavia in an attempt to keep order in the capital, after a series of outbreaks was reported.

At the same time it appealed to the Indonesian people to put every confidence in the T.K.R. (Peace Preservation Corps) and to refrain from taking individual action "which would only harm our cause."

FACTIONS RACE IN MANCHURIA

Press Reports Say Communists Have Entered Capital

Chungking, Nov. 20 (AP)—Chinese Communists and Nationalist forces raced today for strategic positions within Manchuria, said press reports which indicated the Communists were in the lead of the contest with entry into Changchun, capital of the huge territory.

Unofficial reports said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government and Soviet officials would soon open a new conference in Moscow or Chungking on the critical situation in Manchuria.

Four thousand Chinese Communist troops have entered Changchun, the China Times said. The newspaper made no mention as to whether Russian forces had evacuated the city.

Airfield Seizure Reported

Unconfirmed reports earlier had said the Chinese Reds had seized airfields at Changchun and other Manchurian cities.

Nationalist troops, exploiting last week's break through the Great Wall at Shanhaikwan, drove 23 miles through faint opposition to occupy Suichung, on the Tientsin-Mukden railroad, 190 miles southwest of Mukden, the China Times reported.

But at Suichung, the Nationalists still were nearly 400 miles from Changchun, and had 65 miles more to go to the rail-junction city of Chinsien, where Communists have predicted the first big battle for the control of Manchuria will be fought.

The Communists have declared that Nationalist troops making the drive into Manchuria were American-armed and equipped, but Tientsin reports said the fighters were handicapped with warm-weather clothing while fighting in a country already turned bitterly cold.

Said To Set Conditions

The unconfirmed reports of the pending Nationalist-Russian conference said the Soviet had advanced twenty conditions which Chiang's government must meet before the Russians would permit Nationalist troops to be flown into Manchuria, removing the necessity for an overland drive.

Supplementing its demands for withdrawal of American army and Marine forces in China, the New China Daily News, Communist publication, charged that the United States is converting the country into an "American colony."

The newspaper asserted that patriotic Chinese were angered at the presence of the Americans, and likened the United States policy to the imperialism of European powers in Asia and the East Indies.

CHINESE REDS ARE REPORTED IN CHANGCHUN

NATIONALISTS DRIVING NORTH

Chiang's Troops Believed on the Loose After Breaking Line at Great Wall.

Chungking, Nov. 20 (A. P.).—Chinese communist troops were reported invading Manchuria's capital in force today in a race with rival Nationalist soldiers, already thirty-five miles inside industrial territory after a breakthrough in the south.

The China Times declared that 4,000 communist troops had entered Chamgchun, but failed to say whether Russian occupation forces still were in the city. The Times also asserted without confirmation elsewhere that new conferences between China and Russia on the tense Manchurian situation would begin soon, either in Moscow or Chungking.

Unofficial reports in Chungking said the Russians had laid down twenty conditions which the Nationalists must meet before being allowed to fly troops into Manchuria, making an overland drive necessary.

Drive Well Under Way.

Chungking newspapers asserted this drive already was well under way, with Nationalist troops racing twenty-three miles almost unopposed beyond positions a dozen miles inside Manchuria to within 190 miles of the great industrial city of Mukden.

With these well-equipped, American-trained troops apparently on the loose after having broken through the Chinese Communist line along the Great Wall, the Communist press leveled new charges at the United States. The United States is converting China into "an American colony," the Communist New China Daily News charged.

The activities of the American forces have enraged all patriotic Chinese, the newspaper asserted. It compared it with the "imperialism" of the British in India, French in Indo-China and the Dutch in the Netherlands East Indies. Noticeably, the criticism was issued swiftly after the other Chungking papers had reported the overnight Nationalist advance along the Tientsin-Mukden railroad.

Nationalists in Suichung.

The Nationalists occupied the railroad town of Suichung, thirty-five miles northeast of Shanhaikwan, where they had sprung the Communist defenses. The advance followed by a day Communist admission that the Nationalists were twelve miles up the railroad and had expanded their southern beachhead to thirty miles, taking the town of Funing.

Occupation of Suichung brought the Nationalists to within sixty-five miles of Chinhsien. A Communist spokesman here asserted that the Nationalist approach to Chinhsien, where the railroad branches out in three directions into interior Manchuria, would see the "first big battle" for control of Manchuria.

Central Government leaders were worried by reports the Communist forces had occupied practically all air fields which had been held by the Russians in southern Manchuria.

FLARE-UP IN INDO-CHINA

Nationalists Active Along Highway Northwest of Saigon

SAIGON, French Indo-China, Nov. 20 (AP)—Viet Minh [Nationalist party] activity has flared along the Go Dau Ha road, running northwest out of Saigon, and Annamese attacked a French convoy near Cucha, an Allied statement said today.

It reported that mopping up was progressing satisfactorily in the Cholon - Gocong - Mytho triangle south of Saigon, and it said that the Viet Minh's efforts to organize widespread guerrilla activity had been fruitless.

Rubber For U.S. Use Loaded In Indo-China

Saigon, Nov. 20 (AP)—The United States Isthmian Line freighter Red Rover is preparing a load of the first postwar cargo of rubber out of Indo-China for American consumption.

The ship will take 8,000 of 15,000 tons initially allocated to the United States while another 15,000 tons will be taken to France as soon as possible. Britain is relying upon Malayan stocks immediately.

The latest official estimates place the Indo-China rubber stocks at 100,070 tons with 48,000 in French hands at Saigon. The remainder is in an area held or threatened by the Annamites.

Korean Group Assails Pro-Jap Jobholders

Robt Myers

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 20 (AP)—Cries of "throw out the pro-Japanese" Koreans from this country's government and political life were raised today at the meeting of the central committee of the controversial people's republic.

Thousands of Koreans were unable to get into the church to watch delegates from both the northern part of Korea occupied by the Russians, and the American-occupied southern section start their three-day meeting.

Woon Heung Lyuh, 60-year-old patriot and one-time Japanese prisoner, was elected chairman of the committee. Notably absent were representatives of the arch-rightists' democratic party, which is small in numbers but powerful in wealth. Dr. Syngman Rhee, former president of the Korean "provisional" government, also was absent.

GEN. YAMASHITA TO OPEN DEFENSE AT TRIAL TODAY

Schedler

Manila, Wednesday, Nov. 12 (AP). Col. Harry Clarke, chief defense counsel today assaile dthe motives of prosecution witnesses Joachin Galang and Narciso Lupas as he opened the defense of Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, on trial for his life accused of condoning wholesale atrocities by the Japanese troops.

Clarke produced letters which he said showed both had offered to assist American (prosecution) authorities if they were given consideration of their own cases and safe conduct out of the Philippines. Both Galang and Lupas face trial in Philippine courts as collaborationists.

Clarke said he would show that Yamashita never gave his consent for, nor ordered, atrocities and that communications were poor and he could not reach certain areas readily. The defense then called Lieut. Gen. Akira Muto, Yamashita's chief of staff.

Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, on trial for his life as an alleged war criminal, showed great composure and even smiled as the prosecution ended its case against him today and the military court rejected a defense motion for acquittal.

However, the five American generals, who have heard more than 200 witnesses tell of Japanese atrocities Yamashita is accused of having permitted, displayed considerable impatience over the time consumed by the trial—now in its third week.

Maj. Gen. Russell B. Reynolds, presiding officer of the court, granted with evident reluctance a delay until tomorrow for the opening of Yamashita's defense.

He added that in his opinion too many members of Yamashita's legal staff spent their time in the courtroom, and that some of them might well be used in outside preparatory work likely to expedite the proceedings.

Yamashita meanwhile sought information on a matter that had been puzzling him.

"Who," he asked his defense counsel, "Is this fellow Jackson?"

Bewildered at first by the question, defense attorneys finally figured out that Yamashita had misunderstood their oft-shouted word "Objection!"

Colonel Harry Clarke, chief defense council, declined to say how many defense witnesses he would call. His only estimate of the time the defense might consume was "three days to three weeks."

In addition to calling more than 200 witnesses, the prosecution used more than 400 exhibits and scores of documents, pictures and translations.

The defense plans to show at least one picture, "Combat Bulletin 44," showing the battle for Manila as filmed by Official Signal Corps cameramen.

Yamashita's Plea Denied

Schedler

Manila, Nov. 20 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, defeated in his latest attempt to escape death as a war criminal, must begin his defense tomorrow.

Yamashita appeared composed and once smiled broadly today, although his pleas for a "not-guilty" verdict and for a delay in presentation of his defense both were denied by the United States military commission trying him.

Speedup Urged

Maj. Gen. Russell B. Reynolds, president of the military commission, reminded Col. Harry Clarke, chief defense counsel, that several times he had requested both defense and prosecution to expedite the 3-week-old proceedings.

"The commission will grant a continuance only for the most urgent need," Reynolds said. He added that he believed only one or two members of Yamashita's defense counsel were needed in the courtroom and could see no reason why others were not used on outside tasks.

Not Prepared

Immediately after denying the defense motion to end the trial on Clarke's contention that the prosecution evidence was "hearsay and opinion," Reynolds asked the defender if he were prepared to make his opening statement. It was with evident reluctance that a delay until tomorrow was granted when Clarke replied: "No."

Clarke declined to say how many defense witnesses would be used, or to give a hint as to their identity. He estimated the defense would require "three days to three weeks"—depending on the extent of cross-examination by the prosecutor, Major Robert M. Kerr.

Prosecution's Effort

The prosecution used 18 days to present more than 200 witnesses and more than 400 exhibits and scores of documents, pictures and translations. Also at two night sessions it presented a Japanese propaganda film, "Orders from Tokyo," and motion pictures of survivors of the Palawan island massacre.

The defense obtained permission to show a picture, "Combat Bu[lletin] 44," showing the battle for M[anila] and taken from official Signal Co[rps] film.

In pleading for dismissal of the charges against Yamashita—who is accused of permitting countless atrocities by troops of his Philippine command—Clarke argued that only two witnesses, both accused as collaborationists, had even remotely linked Yamashita with the horrors described daily by other witnesses.

'Who's Jackson?' Asks Yamashita at Trial

MANILA, Nov. 20 (AP).—Out of all the languages and dialects — at least ten — used at Lieutenant General Tomoyuki Yamashita's war crimes trial, the general's ear caught one word which persistently puzzled him.

Today he asked surprised defense counsel, "Who's this fellow 'Jackson'?"

Momentarily stumped, defense attorneys figured out that Yamashita had misunderstood their oft-shouted "Objection!"

MATSUOKA TELLS OF PEACE EFFORTS

Says He Tried To Negotiate U.S. Neutrality Pact

Tokyo, Wednesday, Nov. 21 (AP)—Yosuke Matsuoka, former Foreign Minister, was quoted in an interview with the newspaper Asahi today as saying he had intended to attempt to conclude a neutrality pact with the United States before the war, but the project failed with downfall of Premier Fumimaro Konoye's Cabinet in October, 1941.

"War with the United States was utterly unthinkable, but it was fate," Asahi quoted Matsuoka in a bedside interview at his Aizome village home in Nagano prefecture.

"Already Doomed"

"I understand I am wanted at Sugamo prison, but I can hardly walk one block due to hardening of my entire body. I am 65 and consider that I already am doomed."

Matsuoka's eldest son said yesterday he was going to see his father to notify him of General MacArthur's arrest order and to determine if he was able to face arrest. The son said Matsuoka was suffering from tuberculosis.

"I concluded the tripartite (Japan-Germany-Italy) treaty with the idea it would lead Japan to peace," the former minister said. "Accordingly, after conclusion of the Soviet-Japanese neutrality pact I intended to go to the United States and conclude a peace pact with that country and talked about it with Konoye. But I lost the chance to do so when the Konoye Cabinet collapsed."

Hirohito's Funds Frozen

Emperor Hirohito's household assets were frozen and all imperial transactions blocked yesterday by order of General MacArthur.

As the occupation command thus extended its control over the Imperial fortunes another of the Mikado's erstwhile war lords chose death rather than arrest and trial as an accused war criminal.

He was Baron Gen. Shigeru Honjo, raised to the nobility by Hirohito for his part in the conquest of Manchuria. He carried out the traditional h a r a - k i r i ceremony, slashing his stomach crosswise and then cutting his throat as he faced toward the palace. The baron's secretary found the body, lying in a pool of blood in his office.

Tenth among Hirohito's prominent war leaders to die by his own hand since the Empire's disastrous defeat, Honjo left a letter saying "I cannot endure as a soldier of our country to appear before a court of Allied powers."

Tojo Trial Nears

Supreme headquarters attorneys meanwhile rushed preparations for the war crimes trial of former Premier Hideki Tojo and announced it might begin within a fortnight.

The order freezing Hirohito's assets—involving Imperial holdings worth hundreds of millions of dollars—coincided with a report by MacArthur's national resources section stressing that revival of Japan's once-flourishing export trade must wait until the threat of starvation had been removed at home and the rebuilding of devastated areas commenced.

The report said tea and silk production is not likely to be increased to exportable proportions as long as food shortages keep the price of rice and other staple crops high.

The freezing of Imperial assets affects not only Hirohito personal but 67 other persons in 15 family groups affiliated with the Imperial household. The order forbids the granting of Imperial gifts of money or property and requires Allied approval of the household's 1946 budget.

Allied headquarters said the order for a certified inventory of the Imperial household's assets was intended to eliminate the "auro of secrecy" heretofore surrounding financial operations of the Emperor's family.

HonjoEndsLife To Escape Trial As War Culprit

Commits Harakiri 24 Hours After Arrest Is Ordered as Leader in Manchuria

Bridges

TOKYO, Nov. 20 (AP).—Baron General Shigeru Honjo, accused war criminal and reputed ringleader in the conquest of Manchuria, committed harakiri today less than twenty-four hours after he was ordered arrested.

The baron was lying on his right side in a pool of blood in his office at the former Japenese War College when Allied reporters and photographers arrived. The hilt of his ceremonial sword was thrust up from the sheet which partly covered the body. A small cup containing tea dregs was beside the body.

The old-line officer performed the Japanese harakiri ritual by slashing his stomach cross-wise, then cutting his throat. But instead of the ritualisic kimono, Honjo wore his army uniform. His upthrust boots were highly polished.

Honjo, one of eleven war leaders of the past imperialistic decade ordered imprisoned yesterday, died shortly after his secretary found his body on his office floor.

"I cannot endure as a soldier of our country to appear before a court of Allied powers," Honjo said in a letter written shortly before he killed himself.

"No Way To Apologize"

"I find no way of apologizing to his Majesty and the people for bringing my nation to such a miserable state of affairs. . . .

"I, therefore, have decided to seek death."

The letter, addressed to his secretary, Kawamura, said it was Honjo's desire that his eldest son, Kazou, not succeed to his title of baron.

The retired general, who was serving as president of the Organization for Relief of Demobilized Soldiers, had gone to his office early this morning as usual although the organization had been ordered abolished by MacArthur.

Reads Of Order In Paper

The 69-year-old Honjo's eldest son said his father learned of the arrest order only when he read a newspaper and he feared he would be tried as a war criminal.

"Upon reading it he felt full responsibility," the son said. "He told us he would go to court and express his beliefs. . . . There were no signs that he contemplated suicide."

Honjo's Tokyo home burned in the May 25 air-raid. The General since had lived in an air-raid shelter in his garden.

Commands Kwangtung Army

Most of Honjo's military career was devoted to the Kwantung Army push northward along the Asiatic continent. He served as captain in the Russo-Japanese war and later as regimental commander in the Siberian occupation. He became commander of the Kwantung Army in 1931 with the rank of lieutenant general.

The Manchurian incident exploded under his command and he was considered the major planner and executioner of the entire imperialistic scheme, which was conducted independent of Tokyo.

Minami Not Advised

Gen. Jiro Minami, once known as the brains of the militaristic clique, said he was not advised in advance by Honjo of the Manchurian action although he (Minami) was War Minister at the time.

After leaving the Kwantung command, Honjo became chief aide de camp to the Emperor and was created a baron. He received the nation's highest decoration in 1935. He retired from his aide's position and from active military service in 1936.

In IRRA

However, he reappeared in 1944 in connection with the Imperial Rule Assistance Association, a totalitarian control scheme originated and perfected by the Kwantung war lords in Manchuria.

Honjo performed the ceremonial disembowelment in the "regular and respectable" manner, said Maj. Gen. Matsutoshi Miyano of the demobilized soldiers' general bureau. "He knelt and died facing the Imperial Palace."

7 Flyers' Bodies Found In Tokyo

Tokyo, Nov. 20 (AP)—Belated attempts by the Japanese to cover up the cold and casual manner in which some Americans were buried in Japan were disclosed today when the bodies of seven American B-29 crewmen were located here.

Grave registration officials were told there were nine bodies on the grounds of Tjurnji Temple on the outskirts of Tokyo. After a search a large mound was found topped by a marker with a newly constructed fence around it.

Bodies 6 Feet Away

The bodies were 6 feet from where the mound was put up and the markers constructed.

American officers who supervised the removal of the bodies quoted one Japanese grave digger as saying: "If I had known we were going to lose the war, I would have given a better burial."

Identification of the seven flyers, shot down April 14, was impossible.

Manila, Nov. 20 (AP)—Public radiophone service between Manila and the United States will be resumed before the end of the year.

The service has been suspended since the beginning of the war.

H. P. Mahoney, Chicago, manager of the Philippine Long Distance Telephone Company, in announcing the resumption, also said local service on a very limited basis will be available as soon as the Army relinquishes the firm's remaining facilities.

The Japanees destroyed the city's two largest automatic exchanges last February.

TRUMAN NAMES SUCCESSORS TO MARSHALL, KING

Eisenhower Will Take Over as Army Chief of Staff Immediately.

OTHERS TO RETIRE

Nimitz to Take Chief of Naval Operations Post After Christmas.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 — (AP) President Truman today designated General Dwight D. Eisenhower and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz to head the Army and Navy.

Eisenhower succeeds General George C. Marshall as Army Chief of Staff immediately. His nomination was sent to the Senate where confirmation appeared certain—all congressmen who commented praised the apponitment. Meanwhile he will serve as acting chief of staff.

Nimitz to Return to Pacific

Nimitz will replace Admiral Ernest J. King as chief of naval operations after Christmas. Meanwhile Nimitz will return to his Pacific command.

General Joseph T. McNarney, who commanded U.S. forces in the Mediterranean theater, succeeds Eisenhower as commander of U. S. Forces in the European theater, commander-in-chief of the U. S. occupation forces in Germany and U. S. representative on the Allied Control Council for Germany. The formerly separate European and Mediterranean theaters will be combined next month.

Admiral Raymond E. Spruance, commander of the Fifth fleet, will step up to Nimitz' place as naval commander-in-chief in the Pacific.

King had the tilte of commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet as well as chief of naval operations but the former title was abolished about two months ago in a departmental reorganization.

Both Marshall and King asked to retire immediately after the Japanese surrender, Mr. Truman reported, but he found himself unable to let them go earlier.

Arnold, Somervell to Retire

General Henry H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air Forces, and General Brehon Somervell, chief of the Army Service forces, also have asked to retire, the President said in response to a question, but their request has not been granted.

A reporter commented that in Eisenhower and Nimitz, the President had Army and Navy commanders who differed on the proposal pending in Congress to unify the armed forces. (Eisenhower strongly favors the merger. Nimitz originally favored it but testified last week that he had altered his view.)

Mr. Truman replied that he shortly would have something to say himself on the matter and forecast with a smile that the service chiefs would then find themselves in the same boat. It was indicated that this would be a message to Congress.

Mr. Truman stood behind his desk and read a typewritten announcement of the Army changes, then announced the Navy shifts, on which he had no prepared statement. This apparently was all he had called the news conference to hear.

But a reporter then asked him whether, in view of reports "that we are going to have peace and that we are not going to have peace," he could give a "message that would be a beacon - - -". The question trailed off uncompleted.

If the reporter would finish the question, Mr. Truman said, he would answer it.

"- - - Something to shoot at," was the reporter's conclusion.

Amid laughter, the President said his conferences on the atomic bomb last week with Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada were not something to shoot at but something for permanent peace.

He said he thought the conference had taken the first step necessary for insuring peace—this was to establish confidence among the governments of the world.

The chief executive next expressed the opinion that every country right now was trying to meet its domestic troubles and that consequenlty the nations were not working as hard on international problems as they would later.

It was then that he said, with an emphatic gesture, that we would have permanent peace.

No Mention of Russia

Throughout the discussion there was no specific mention of Russia or any other foreign country.

One reporter wanted to know whether the U. S. still was making atomic bombs.

Yes, we are, was the President's reply.

"What for?" asked another.

For experimental purposes, was the succinct answer.

The President added, in response to another question, that the program called for the United Nations conference meeting in January to set up the commission for studying atomic bomb controls which the President and the two prime ministers proposed.

There were only two other subjects on which questions were posed.

Was there "any indication" that the President might intervene in the Detroit automobile strike situation? The answer was merely no.

Did he think the residents of the District of Columbia should have the right to vote. Of course, he believed every citizen ought to have the right to vote, including the citizens of the District of Columbia.

UNITY IS URGED BY EISENHOWER IN LEGION TALK

Need Of Universal Military Training Also Stressed Before Veterans

Chicago, Nov. 20 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Army's new acting chief of staff, told the American Legion tonight he favored unified control of the nation's fighting forces and a universal military training program with a minimum of one year's instruction.

The General's speech at the national commander's banquet climaxed a day in which Eisenhower practically took over the third day of the twenty-seventh annual convention of the Legion.

Earlier the supreme commander of Allied forces in the European theater had received the Legion's distinguished service medal from National Commander Edward Scheiberling after a tumultuous welcome in the convention hall that brought tears to the eyes of the recipient.

Most Important Speech

Tonight, General Eisenhower delivered, in an overflowing ballroom of the Palmer House, the address which he had previously announced would be "the most important of my career."

In his address Eisenhower emphasized "the priceless battlefield value of training," and asserted "this value has persisted during all the wars of history."

And then, turning to the controversial issue of unification of the War and Navy departments, Eisenhower declared, "a strong America is a trained and integrated America."

Unified Control At Top

"Nowhere is that integration more necessary than in our armed forces. We must no think, primarily, in terms of ground forces, naval forces, air forces. We must think in terms of co-ordinated action.

"Every consideration of efficiency, economy and progress in research demands the closest possible unity among all our fighting forces, all the way from the top to the bottom," he said. "This great and necessary purpose, I believe can be best achieved by unified control at the top."

At previous sessions of the Legion convention top naval officials, Admiral Ernest King and Admiral Chester Nimitz had voiced opposition to the proposed merger.

Eisenhower's Address

General Eisenhower's address follows:

For any soldier there is always a feeling of special satisfaction in receiving a summons to appear as an honored guest before a convocation of his own country's fighting men. Among all those that have worn their country's uniform in past wars there unfailingly exists a bond, a union, that can scarcely be felt by anyone that is not of that band. Moreover, that feeling of brotherhood makes no particular note of the element in which the service of the individual was rendered, land, sea or air.

It appears that the warrior who has returned to ways of peace automatically responds to the truism that a country's defenders are—and should be—one. Consequently, I have a special pride and high sense of distinction in the honors accorded me today by this great Legion. Those honors I accept as a tribute to the services of 3,000,000 American fighting men that contributed so decisively to the defeat of Hitler and his hordes.

Associated with those Americans in a single Allied command were soldiers of other nations—the majority from the British Empire and large numbers from France. It is therefore particularly gratifying to me that there have appeared before this convention military representatives of those two great peoples, two men who served intimately with me in the Allied Expeditionary Force.

Tribute To Tedder

This happy circumstance gives me opportunity to pay tribute here to Sir Arthur Tedder, marshal of the Royal Air Force and my deputy during all the operations in northwest Europe. A gallant leader and one of the finest airmen of the world, he was in every sense a true ally and a worthy representative of his country and of the more than 1,000,000 British Emnire fighting men of all arms that marched shoulder to shoulder with the Americans through eleven months of bitter campaigning from the Normandy beachhead to final junction with the great Red Army in the heart of Germany.

Every American that served with me in Europe is proud to pay tribute to Sir Arthur Tedder and General Koenig, and to the fighting forces of their two countries. In equal measure we are proud of the magnificent work done by the Red Army and by the allied forces that battled the long and tortuous way up the Italian peninsula to be present in the last few weeks in the final roundup of the once invincible Wehrmacht and Luftwaffe.

Some members of that American expeditionary force of World War II are undoubtedly here today. Others of you are the fathers and older friends of the men who so courageously, loyally and successfully carried out the tasks that it was my responsibility to place before them in Europe. But whether of this war or of the one waged with equally brilliant results by the former generation, all of you here have special knowledge of things that our country must clearly understand and cannot afford to forget.

Have Experienced Tests

You have seen battle and you have experienced the tests it places upon man's moral and physical endurance, upon his skill and upon his ability to follow and to lead.

You understand, more than others, the indispensable requirement of teamwork upon the battlefield, and you have seen the costs of disintegration, when the power derived from complete confidence in the union of the team disappears in the disorganization of purely individual action. In short, you understand and can bear witness to the priceless battlefield value of training. This value has persisted during all wars of history.

A question is: Does it still prevail?

We have just entered upon a scientific age which, in its most fearsome aspects, contains unimaginable threats for civilization. It may be possible that the time will come when the age-old virtues of physical and moral stamina, of courage, of patriotism, and of readiness for self-sacrifice will be meaningless to the nation's preservation. Conceivably—we are told—the day may come when any nation, no matter how small, if guided by perverted thinking, may suddenly unleash upon us or any other, destructive forces against which we would be powerless to defend ourselves.

No Limit To Destruction

There is implied no limit to the capacity of science to reach the maximum in destructive effect unless that limit be found in the destruction of man himself. When the day of that capability comes, if it does, the only hope for the world as we know it will be complete spiritual regeneration, a strengthening of moral fiber that will place upon all men self-imposed determination to respect the rights of others.

To struggle toward the development of that world spirit is one of the noblest and most necessary efforts to which a man can devote himself. But to participate in that struggle does not, of itself, meet the requirements of today.

Three thousand years of recorded history lie behind us to prove that neither will the day of international order, nor that of complete spiritual regeneration, come suddenly and instantly.

A thousand practical considerations always assure that the old gives way only gradually to the new! Although man has recoiled in fear from the introduction of gun powder and, later, explosives of multiplied power, although he has trembled at the advent of the big bomber, of the submarine, the tank and pilotless missiles capable of reaching across hundreds of miles of distance, he has not yet been able to resolve his deep political and economic issues without recourse to violence.

Neither has he sufficiently progressed in the development of moral and spiritual values as to compel him to adhere consistently to the principles inherent in his great historic religion.

Possibilities Are Terrifying

We come then to this: we dwell in a world in which the possibilities of destruction are so great as to terrify peoples everywhere. Yet we must still acknowledge human weaknesses within ourselves and others. It is with this world that we must now concern ourselves, even as we reach toward and strive for a better one.

I see no incompatability between enlisting ourselves under the banner of peace based upon international co-operation and common appreciation of human value on the one hand and, on the other, the effort to make certain that our beloved country shall not become the victim of predatory force.

It is idle to say that our nation can never be endangered. Pearl Harbor should have effectively dispelled that delusion. It is equally idle to say that reasonable preparation to care for ourselves constitutes unwarranted suspicion of those who have been and whom we are glad to class as friends. We call war an emergency, and it is just that. Like all emergencies, it usually comes, at least to us, unexpectedly and from quarters that are not revealed until too late.

From the time that Japan invaded Manchuria in 1931 up until the moment when we were attacked in 1941, we had a few farseeing statesmen that constantly pointed out to us the danger of building up in Asia and Europe to ourselves and to our way of living.

Unprepared At Pearl Harbor

Because we entertained no thought of aggressive war it was difficult indeed for us to ascribe to any other such a motive. And though, eventually, we became sufficiently alarmed to undertake increased measures of preparation, Pearl Harbor day found us with a pitifully small air force, an inadequate fleet, and a poorly equipped and badly trained army.

To be strong nationally is not a sin, it is a necessity! We must be strong first to defend ourselves; secondly, to give the necessary dignity and influence to the words of our leaders as they labor to perfect machinery by which the world may settle its difficulties legally and peaceably, rather than illegally and by force. A weakling, particularly a rich and opulent weakling, seeking peaceable solution of a difficulty, is apt to invite contempt; but the same plea from the strong is listened to most respectfully.

We, as soldiers and veterans, bear the conviction that, given the latest and plentiful equipment, strength still springs from unity, from stamina, from teamwork and from perfected technique. These result from training! And training requires time! The minimum is a year!

Value Of Training

With your knowledge of the difference between trained and untrained men in battle, what greater boon, what greater privilege could be given to all our young men than a degree of training which in emergency will allow them quickly to be integrated into the forces that may have to stand between our country and a thousand Buchenwalds? Even though we should become the victims of sudden and devastating raids, does anyone imagine that America would abjectly sue for peace at the price of surrendering the traditions of free life that have made her great?

Moreover, does anyone imagine that, even under these conditions, trained and disciplined men, ready to fight the conflagrations, to rescue the wounded and to rally instantly behind their leaders, would not be more valuable than an equal number of equally brave and courageous men that had no modicum of training?

A reasonable period of peacetime experience in teamwork, in the development of mutual confidence, in prefected technique of weapons, and in coming to comprehend the leadership and organization that are inherent in intelligent military instruction, would provide for our young men an opportunity they deserve, and would do much to give our nation justified confidence in the matter of national security.

We are still congratulating ourselves and giving thanks to the Almighty for the great victories that this year have crowned our efforts in both hemispheres. Yet let us not forget the circumstances of the early months of that war. From December 7, 1941, it was eight months before we made our first relatively small countermove, in the bitter Guadalcanal campaign of the Western Pacific. It was eleven months before we attacked with our first few divisions in North Africa, and these, because of the circumstances of that year, were only sketchily trained.

It was almost exactly two and one half years from the day the Japs treacherously attacked us, before we made our decisive move in Europe to cross the Channel. And it was several months more before we became strong enough in the Pacific to move definitely against the Philippines. The time we needed was gained for us by the courage of the British Empire, the sacrifices of Russia, and the vastness of the Pacific Ocean and the selfless devotion of the initially few American soldiers, sailors, Marines and airmen in the Pacific theater.

Thus in two world wars we have been dependent upon friends to protect us while we, over a period of many months, devoted feverish attention to repairing the woeful state of unpreparedness in which the outbreak of hostilities found us.

Let us now resolve to be reasonably forehanded in this matter, so far as it is possible for a peaceful citizenry to be.

None Fear Strong America

There is another aspect to this question that deserves attention. Based upon numberless contacts with many people of other nations, I hold the conviction that no other country fears a strong America, no decent preparations of our own will be regarded suspiciously by others, because we are trusted. Indeed, I am convinced that others would interpret any return of ours to our former levels of unpreparedness as an intention to return to what we thought was isolation.

They view with concern what they regard as our unseemly haste in disintegration of the mighty forces that did so much to bring Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito to their deaths or to their knees. A respectably strong America means to others a willingness on our part to bear our full share of our burdens of preserving peace—not an intention to resort to force for our own enrichment or advantage.

I know of no more sincere pacifists than American soldiers and veterans. No one could wish more passionately than they for the assurance that no longer need we devote any of our time and treasure to the maintenance of organizations whose very purpose is, and should be, negative, rather than to constructive development of our country. No consideration of rank, renown, regard or personal advancement has the slightest weight with any officer of my acquaintance, as compared to his concern for peace and his country's welfare.

Moreover, this problem does not primarily belong to the active soldier, except in an advisory capacity. The fighting forces of this country belong to you, our nation's citizens and voters. Your responsibilities are great—and the broader and deeper your knowledge on the requirements of security the more it devolves upon you to give to others that same understanding of the issue here involved.

Futility Of Chronic Weakness

I am told that the purpose of training all our youth, for their own good and for that of the country, is opposed by many of those to whom we have a right to look for spiritual and educational leadership. If this is true, I feel that it must arise from a reluctance to face realities, to study our own history, a history that amply proves the futility of chornic weakness and lack of training in preserving the peace.

There appears to be a failure to understand that if we trust our own motives then our strength can never be that of the bully, but of the peacemaker. If we sincerely believe, as I believe, that the America of the future will be true to our traditions of the past: that we will respect the rights of others and be considerate of the weak: that we will work to increase the fruitfulness of the earth but will not steal from others to satisfy a desire of our own: that so far as it is given for mortals to do we will act in the international field in the spirit of the Golden Rule—if we have faith in these things, then we and the world will be advantaged by our strength.

Military Training Cited

This country can never be militaristic in its thinking—and to pretend that a year of training will develop such a national philosophy can but be answered by yourselves. You—all of you—have military training—do you feel militaristic? Do you feel inclined to urge one country to adhere to a policy of aggressive war? I am perfectly satisfied—I leave that answer to you.

So, why should not we give our sons opportunity in time of peace so to prepare themselves that in the event of war they may, at a minimum risk to themselves, serve their nation as brilliantly, effectively and successfully, but with less delay, than you of World Wars I and II have already done. For in the event of another war it could well be that we would be the first rather than the last to be attacked.

Unity Is Demanded

With this great arsenal of democracy destroyed or defeated, while it was still unready and therefore weak, the aggressive assaults on other peace-loving nations would be less hazardous. But if we are strong there will be given this hypothetical Hitler of the future no advantage in singling us out first for attack, and so he may be deterred by the lessons of two world wars from attempting any resort to force.

A strong America is a trained and an integrated America. Nowhere is that integration more necessary than in our armed forces. We must not think, primarily, in terms of ground forces, naval forces, air forces. We must think in terms of co-ordinated action. Every consideration of efficiency, economy and progress in research demands the closest possible unity among all our fighting forces, all the way from bottom to top. This great and necessary purpose, I believe, can be best achieved by unified control at the top.

And now, once more, may I say that the American and Allied forces that I had the high privilege to lead in Europe, join with you and with me in the devout hope that never again will the children of America be summoned from their peaceful pursuits to face the purgatory of battle.

You, here, can be an effective force in assuaging realization of that hope.

FDR TOLD FLEET NOT SET FOR WAR, SAYS RICHARDSON

Late President Planned Jap Trade End if Tokyo Attacked British.

FIGHT IN SENATE

G.O.P. Pearl Harbor Probers Called 'Apologists for Japan' by Tunnell.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. — (AP) Admiral J. O. Richardson testified today he heard with amazement in 1940 that President Roosevelt was considering shutting off all Japanese trade with the Americas if Japan moved against the British.

"I was amazed and I stated that the fleet was not prepared to put the proposal into effect or for the war that would result," the former commander in chief of the fleet told the joint Senate-House committee investigating Pearl Harbor.

Richardson said the Roosevelt plan, as described to him by the late Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, called for the establishment of patrol lines in the Pacific to bar Japanese ships from the Americas.

As the Admiral was testifying, a new fight over the investigation exploded on the Senate floor.

Called 'Kimono Boys'

There, Senator Tunnell (D-Del) asserted that Republicans on the inquiry committee were "apologists for Japan." He described them as "kimono boys" and contended they were trying "to smirch the memory" of Mr. Roosevelt.

The Republican senators on the committee, Ferguson (Mich) and Brewster (Me) were about at the committee hearing then, but Senator Saltonstall (R-Mass) and Minority Leader White of Maine, jumped quickly to their colleagues' defense.

Angrily, White charged that Tunnell's attack was "violation of the rules of the Senate." Saltonstall expressed confidence in the integrity of committee members and said he was sure none was "trying to bring out anything of slanderous nature for his own aggrandizement."

Tunnell left the chamber about the time Ferguson and Brewster returned. Brewster took up the cudgels, calling Tunnell's remarks "personal vituperation" and contending the committee had turned up "very important information"

Earlier in the day Richardson declared that on a 1940 visit to Washington he got the impression that Washington was trying to bluff the Japanese and that a State department diplomat, Stanley K. Hornbeck, "was exercising a greater influence over the disposition of the fleet than I was."

Sought Inside Data

He said he received this impression when he came to the capital for conferences with the President, Secretary of State Hull and others to find out more fully why the fleet was kept in Hawaii against his recommendations. Richardson wanted the fleet removed to the West coast of the United States to prepare it for an emergency.

Concerning Hornbeck, former head of the Far Eastern division of the State department, Richardson wrote in his notebook:

"He is the strong man in the Far East and the cause of our staying in Hawaii where he will hold us as long as he can."

In response to questions from Representative Gearhart (R-Calif.) Richardson said the fleet was in "absolutely" no condition for a war with Japan. He said the warships were undermanned and did not carry wartime supplies of ammunition.

However, when asked whether moving the fleet to the West Coast would have made an attack on it less "attractive" to the Japanese, he said:

"In my opinion, a Japanese fleet that could cross most of the Pacific ocean and deliver an undiscovered attack on Pearl Harbor would have been very likely able to have delivered a similar attack on Puget sound."

Richardson, who was relieved of his command in February 1941 and replaced by Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, gave this account of the reported Roosevelt plan to bar Japanese trade from the Americas:

"On Oct. 10, 1940 Col. Knox, the Secretary of the Navy, sent for me and Admiral Stark (Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations) to come to his office.

"The secretary stated he had important information, that he had just talked to the Presdient and the President was concerned about Japanese reaction against the British at the reopening of the Burma road scheduled for Oct. 17.

"The secretary said that the President, in the event that the Japanese took aggressive drastic action, was considering shutting off all trade between Japan and the Americas."

This shutting off was to be undertaken, Richardson said, by establishment of two patrol lines of light ships from Hawaii west to the Philippines and from Samoa to the Dutch East Indies.

Some one at the conference raised the question whether Japanese ships were to be stopped, and the view was expressed that this would mean war, the admiral continued.

"I asked, 'If the President was considering a declaration of war,' the blunt, red-faced admiral told the committee. He said Knox replied he didn't know, but was just passing along the Presidential proposal.

Richardson expressed the belief that "war would certainly result at such a course of action and we would certainly lose a number of ships. It would entail such a dispersal as to expose ships in detail."

The hearing room audience broke into laughter as Richardson said "the secretary appeared displeased at the general reaction—mine in particular."

He was told in effect, he said, that "if you don't like the President's plan, draw up one of your own."

Richardson said he was accompanied to the conference by his war plans officer, Commander Vincent F. Murphy and that Stark was accompanied by Admiral Royal Ingersoll and Captain E. M. Cooke.

He told the committee he was giving his recollection of the conference with the aid of a memorandum he had Murphy help him with in the interests of accuracy.

Drily, Richardson related that he prepared the memorandum several weeks ago when "I thought I would be asked that question." The member who posed the question about patrol lines today was Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.).

Loath to Increase Navy

Richardson also told the investigating committee:

1. President Roosevelt "was rather loath to increase the number of men (in the Navy) because he felt, as he expressed it to me, that men in mechanical trade in civilian life could be quickly inducted and made into adequate sailormen if their services became necessary."

2. That had not Admiral Stark, then chief of naval operations, "been influenced by other considerations, he would have agreed with me" that from the standpoint of preparedness, it was better to bring the fleet from Hawaii to the Pacific coast and there prepare it for any eventuality.

3. That Secretary of State Hull "felt that we should take a very strong position, and that retention of the fleet in Hawaii was a reflection of that strong attitude."

"I left here with the distinct impression that there was an opinion in Washington that Japan could be bluffed," said Richardson.

The Admiral testified previously that President Roosevelt told him he believed keeping the fleet at Pearl Harbor had a restraining effect on Japan.

Richardson said that he did not expect an attack by the Japanese fleet in the summer of 1940, but took precautionary measures because his experience with the Japanese mentality led him to believe that "at any time, some fanatical or ill-advised officer in command of a submarine or ship" might take it into his head to attack.

The War department ordered an Army alert in Hawaii in June of 1940, but Richardson said that when he asked the Navy at Washington about it he never got any reply. He explained the absence of a reply on the grounds that Stark "knew that I had enough confidence in him so that if it was the real thing, he would have replied."

Richardson related that he had had an air patrol in operation from Hawaii from April 10 to Dec. 30, 1940, when he was notified he was being relieved by Admiral Kimmel.

Republican Probers Assailed

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—Senator Tunnell (D., Del.) described Republican members of the Pearl Harbor investigating committee today as "the Kimono Boys" and "apologists for Japan."

His remarks on the Senate floor drew quick protests from Republicans who pointed out that the men he criticized—Senators Brewster, of Maine, and Ferguson, of Michigan—were not present to defend themselves.

Defended By Saltonstal

Senator Saltonstal (R., Mass.) declared:

"The speech of the gentleman from Delaware indicates that he is impeaching the integrity of members of the committee. I have a high regard for the integrity of every member of this committee.

"I am confident none is trying to bring out anything of slanderous nature for his own aggrandizement."

Charges Smear Effort

Tunnell had said Republicans on the investigating committee were trying "to smirch the memory" of the late President Roosevelt. He declared they also had "set out to prove that the Japanese were a nice little people that Roosevelt and (Secretary of State) Hull tricked into war."

"What evidence have these gentlemen in borrowed kimonos turned up?" he asked.

Ferguson and Brewster got back to the Senate floor after Tunnell had departed and both demanded an opportunity to reply after they have had a chance to read Tunnell's remarks.

Walker Thinks Kurusu Might Refer To Him

New York, Nov. 20 (AP)—Frank Walker, former postmaster general, said today he worked with Cordell Hull, former Secretary of State, "over a considerable period" in negotiations with Japanese emissaries immediately preceding the war.

"I am not sure, however, whether I am the Cabinet member referred to by Saburo Kurusu," Walker said.

Kurusu, Japan's special envoy to Washington before Pearl Harbor, said in Kuruizawa, Japan, on Sunday that a member of President Roosevelt's Cabinet and another influential but unofficial American worked closely with the Japanese diplomats in an effort to prevent the war.

Vinson Offers 3-Point Plan For Peace

Chicago, Nov. 20 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson said today the United States mus do these three things to avoid still another world war:

Remain powerful, support international discussion to keep the peace, and provide leadership for a world prosperity.

"Shortsighted Policy"

In an address prepared for the Twenty-seventh National American Legion convention, Vinson said:

"We cannot follow the shortsighted policy of reclining in our easy chairs and wallowing in the luxury saying that 'the war is over.' If the nonaggressor nations are strong, the petty international despot will, in all likelihood, be deterred from his nefarious plans," added the Treasury chief.

At the same time, he continued, "we cannot let international problems go by default."

"We must not los interest," he said. "We must insist that the nations of the world, including our own, get together. We must follow through. We must try and try again."

Lesson From Conference

Failure of the five-power conference at London proved, he added, that "we cannot expect epochal agreements at each sitting." However, Vinson cited the reciprocal trade agreements, the Export-Import Bank, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration and the International Monetary Fund as "assurance that the nations of the world can get together."

The Secretary expressed belief no peace can be lasting unless all nations achieve a decent living standard and measure of prosperity.

All Reflect U.S.

"The world does not stand a chance of having a sound, prosperous economic future unless the United States has a high level of employment, production and income," he said.

"Opportunity has knocked again to build a better world," Vinson said. "Last time we failed.

"We have a twofold advantage this time. Not only have we had a lesson o nthis subject but also we have a better base upon which to build."

A-Bomb Factories in U.S. Still Working, Says Truman

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 — (AP) President Truman disclosed today that America's great atomic factories are still producing history's most destructive bombs, but he held out to the world the possibility that later these bombs might be scrapped and their explosives devoted to peacetime uses.

The time when this can be done, the President made clear at a news conference, will depend on reaching a state of international security which he expressed confidence will be reached some time in the future.

Truman Not Pessimistic

Mr. Truman told newsmen he is not at all pessimistic on the final outcome of efforts to bring war under control and that he is certain we will have permanent peace in the world.

We are on the threshold of a great stage in the history of mankind, he said, and we must grasp the opportunities which it opens up; the only alternative road leads to complete destruction.

The President's comments on peace and atomic bombs came after a newsman had pointed out that the papers today were full of evidences that the world was not actually enjoying peace. The reporter (Merwin H. Browne of the Buffalo News) asked whether the President could say something on troubled world conditions.

The President said that the conference last week was, in his opinion, the first step in implementing the United Nations which will be the organization through which the world can have peace. (The conference Mr. Truman referred to was his meeting with the Prime Ministers Attlee and Mackenzie King which resulted in a proposal to turn over the problems of atomic control to the United Nations.)

It is necessary to get confidence among the nations of the world, the President said, and that takes time. At the moment, he added, every country appears to have about the same troubles as the United States. All have domestic concerns and every country is paying more attention to its domestic troubles now and less to international affairs than will be true later on.

But the President declared confidently we will have permanent peace in the world.

Commission in January

He was asked whether the United Nations meeting in January would be expected to set up the commission on atomic controls and he said Yes. He expressed the opinion that every country in the world ought to have a hand in creating the commission.

He said he had no reaction yet from France, China or Russia, the other leading Allied nations to the proposals which Attlee, Mackenzie King and he had put forward.

Then someone wanted to know whether the United States is manufacturing atomic bombs still and the President said Yes. "What for?" was the next query. The President said, for experimental purposes.

Later he stressed that the program calls for converting the whole range of atomic possibilities to peaceful uses. It was at this point that he suggested that the bombs which were still being made for experimental purposes actually could be used for peacetime pursuits once international security had been achieved.

Scientists say the materials which go into the bomb can be converted to peacetime uses by harnessing the force in such a way as to prolong the release of the atomic energy.

Educators Show Divided Front On Universal Military Training

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP) — Educators presented a divided front on universal military training today at a House Military Committee hearing.

Dr. George F. Zook, of Washington, president of the American Council of Education, flatly opposed the proposal outlined by President Truman to Congress last month.

Dr. George William McClelland, of Philadelphia, president of the University of Pennsylvania, supported it on the ground there was "no satisfactory alternative" in keeping the nation prepared.

Dr. Zook said he expressed the views of a majority of 1,685 college, university and junior college heads polled last February.

Dr. McClelland emphasized that he spoke for himself and the trustees and administration of the University of Pennsylvania, but not the entire faculty.

Offers Alternative

As an alternative to legislation which would require every able-bodied youth to take one year of military training at or near the age of 18, Dr. Zook proposed:

1. Elimination through international agreement of compulsory military services from the practices and policies of all nations.

2. Appointment by the President of a national commission to study every aspect of defense before Congress acts on compulsory training.

3. Establishment of definite quotas of minimum military needs to assure defense, with every effort made to meet these needs through voluntary enlistments.

4. That 'we concentrate upon the fundamental and cital issue of world organization to preserve peace an dsecurity by strengthening the existing United Nations Organization."

College Heads Urge 3-Point Plan

Boston, Nov. 20 (AP)—The heads of 34 American colleges and universities joined tonight in urging a three-point alternative plan to pending congressional proposals for universal military training.

The three points as contained in a telegram sent Chairman May of the House Committee on Military Affairs:

"1. Extension of existing selective service on year to year basis, with an amendment limiting the period of military service of draftees to fifteen months.

"2. Vigorous promotion of new program of voluntary enlistment, stressing adequate pay, attractive retirement options, and opportunities for vocation and other training.

"3. Postponement of decision on universay military training, since it is only one element in a long range, comprehensive program of national defense."

Engineer Hopes Foreign Nations Take Long Time to Make A-Bomb

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 20.—(AP) The engineering manager of a company which had a major part in development of the atomic bomb tonight expressed opinion "that it would take foreign nations from five to ten years before they could produce an atomic bomb."

A. C. Klein, engineering manager of the Stone and Webster corporation also proposed an eight point program "which would, in my opinion, lead to the speedy utilization of this new discovery for the promotion of peace and for the early and widespread distribution of its benefits to all mankind."

His proposals as presented to a meeting of the Boston sections of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the American Institute of Electrical Engineers:

"1. Congress should create an atomic energy commission, preferably of civilian membership, but in no event under military domination;

"2. Congress should provide for engineering participation in activities promoted by that commission. Scientific discoveries should not be permitted to remain dormant because of lack of implemented engineering development:

"3. Congress should appropriate funds for at least 10 years' use by the commission. This might be of the order of $1,000,000,000 or more. It would permit the commission to set up a long range program and would make it unnecessary for it to lobby for additional funds each year;

"4. The present production plants should have their operations reduced to at least one line per plant. The present full scale plant operations must be costing at least $1,000,000 per day. A large part of this money could be saved for future operation.

"5. Plant operations should be continued on a commercial basis with special emphasis on the reduction of operating costs.

"6. The United States should accumulate a store of bombs, planes and pilots as determined by military needs.

"7. This force should be placed at the disposal of the council of the United Nations organization for such punitive measures as they may determine.

"8. The surplus production of atomic material should be made available to a limited number of industrial organizations and electric utilities for their use in developing atomic power generation. These should be selected with special reference to their willingness and ability to carry on such development work."

UNION EMPLOYES SET TO WALK OUT IN ALL FACTORIES

Auto Union Calls Strike in Plants Throughout 20 States.

LEADERS CONFER

Action Follows Company's Failure to Answer Union's Latest Proposal.

DETROIT, Nov. 20.—(AP) Authoritative sources close to high ranking officers of the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.) said tonight that a general strike of 325,000 General Motors corporation employes is to begin at 11 a. m. (E.S.T.) Wednesday.

The strategy of the union, it was learned, presumably would be to make no announcement in advance of the actual walkouts but that an official statement would be issued once the strike was "in effect."

Leaders in Conference

U.A.W. President R. J. Thomas and other top officials of the union consulted into late hours tonight formulating the strategy to be used in the nation-wide walkout.

All General Motors units in 20 states, from the biggest auto plants to the smallest feeder uits, are to be struck simultaneously, the usually reliable source said.

The strike call was issued late today by R. J. Thomas after a closed meeting of the strike strategy committee of the union.

In Los Angeles, Eugene Judd, local U.A.W. official, said tonight that approximately 1,200 employes in the General Motors plant in suburban South Gate would strike at the appointed hour tomorrow, on the advice of a phone call from a local union member attending the union meeting in Detroit.

The men will report to work as usual at 7 a. m., pick up their tools and other equipment, and walk out an hour later, Judd said.

Meanwhile, the United Electric, Radio and Machine Workers (C.I.O.) with 30,000 workers in the Electric Division of GM, requested immediate resumption of negotiations with the company on their demands for a $2 a day wage increase.

U.E. Locals Alerted

Neil Brant, international representative on U.E.-C.I.O. who sat in on the GM conference, said he had been invited to attend by U.A.W. officials. He said he had informed these officials that the U.E. locals are alerted for any action that may be necessary.

Brant emphasized, however, the U.E. would not go on strike tomorrow with the GM locals. He added that the U.E.-C.I.O. "is not a party to the U.A.W. proposal to arbitrate the wage dispute."

Thomas' announcement climaxed a succession of rapidly moving events which began earlier today when General Motors said it would reply on or before Friday to a union demand that wage issues be submitted to arbitration.

The U. A. W. had set 4 p. m. (EST) today as a deadline for company reply to the proposal.

Reply Called "Stall"

The 200 delegates to the GM council of the U. A. W. termed the company reply "a stall pure and simple," and spent little time in voting unanimously in favor of a strike.

Their recommendation was passed on to the union's six-man strike strategy committee, including Thomas and other top U. A. W. officials.

They conferred briefly in a closed session before Thomas emerged to announce the strike call.

Company officials said they had been "advised unofficially" of the U. A. W.'s action, but said they would have no comment until official notification from the union.

The company, in saying it would reply to the union demand for arbitration, did not give any indication whether the proposal had been received favorably or unfavorably.

The union's proposals, however, contained two stipulations previously rejected by the corporation —that a proposed board of arbitration have access to the company's books and that any wage increase that might result should not be tied in with increased prices for General Motors products.

Although directed only against General Motors, a strike would have potentialities for an enormous effect on not alone the automobile industry but on American commerce and business in general.

System Nationwide

General Motors is America's largest operating corporation. Its nation-wide factory system turns out a huge flow of products in addition to automobiles, and an extended walkout doubtless would make itself felt in every city of the nation.

From regularly producing plants in nearly a score of states come, besides automobiles, such products as refrigerators, stoves, radios, diesel engines and electric motors.

GM, biggest of the "Big Three" in the automobile industry, also feeds other car producing companies, and an industry authority has said that all but one producer would be out of action within a week if General Motors were shut down.

The statement came from George W. Romney, manager of the Automobile Manufacturers association. He did not name the "one" producer but he ostensibly meant the Ford Motor company. General Motors, Ford and Chrysler are the industry's Big Three.

The Corporation was brief in its reply today to the union's arbitration proposal. GM's communication to the union said:

"We are in receipt of your letter of Nov. 19, 1945, demanding an answer to the proposals contained therein within 24 hours. Our reply to this communication will be delivered to you on or before Friday, Nov. 23."

The U.A.W.-C.I.O. General Motors Council which drafted the arbitration proposal consists of approximately 200 representatives of U.A.W.-C.I.O. locals in 100 GM plants throughout the nation.

The council members came to the opening session of their meeting yesterday wearing lapel buttons reading "30 per cent or fight."

The U.A.W.-C.I.O. has demanded 30 per cent wage rate increases from all the automobile manufacturers. It has carried on negotiations on the wage demands for several weeks with General Motors and Chrysler corporation and today began similar conferences with Ford Motor Co.

Three Reject Demands

Each of the industry's "Big Three" has rejected the demands, although General Motors had made three counter-offers. The last proposed a 10 per cent wage increase, which Walter P. Reuther, U.A.W.-C.I.O. vice-president, said the union could not accept because it was tied to a proposed price increase.

Thomas, when asked this afternoon what the union might do if General Motors asked more time to reply to the arbitration proposal, said he did not know. "But we can't sit stale," he said.

He told the union's GM Council earlier in the day that "the only way the union could get recognition in our early days was by shutting down the plants. The situation today is similar."

The union's arbitration proposal yesterday came with unexpected suddenness. When the 200 local union representatives gathered, spokesmen said they were "in a fighting mood" and probably would recommend strike action to the union strategy committee.

Throughout the negotiations with GM Reuther has insisted the corporation could increase wages 30 per cent and still make "high profits" without raising product prices. He also had demanded that the corporation submit its books to disprove his contentions.

The corporation informed Reuther the books and prices were "none of the union's business."

The Ford Motor company negotiators and the union wage committee reached an agreement at their session this afternoon to discuss the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage increase "at a later date during the present negotiations."

The company made this announcement at the conclusion of the first session of the Ford wage conferences. The company previously had informed the union it did not consider the present time proper for the discussion of general wage increases.

The next meeting of the Ford-U.A.W. negotiators will be held Friday afternoon.

8,000 More Join Phone Strike In Illinois

Chicago, Nov. 20 (AP) — Union leaders said today that support for a strike of 8,700 operators of the Illinois Telephone Traffic Union grew with an accompanying push from affiliates of the National Federation of Telephone Workers.

As picket lines set up in Chicago spread to down-State Illinois, union officials estimated that an additional 8,000 employés of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company had chosen to remain away from their jobs rather than cross the lines.

1,500 "Sympathizers"

In Chicago, the list of non-striking, but sympathizing, workers included 1,500 members of the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Operators, employed in the same building as members of the Illinois Telephone Traffic Union.

Support from the long-lines operators was announced last night in New York by their president, J. J. Moran, who said that throughout the country they would refuse to handle long-distance calls to or from Chicago.

Others Asked To "Stand By"

At the same time, Ernest Weaver, regional director of the National Federation of Telephone workers, said here all affiliated unions across the nation had been asked to "stand by to render full support if necessary." Both the FLLTO and ITTU are affiliates of the national federation.

Meanwhile, another conference arranged by the United States Conciliation Service broke up yesterday afternoon with company and union representatives holding firmly to their previous positions.

$4 Increase Offered

The company has offered union members a $4 weekly wage increase recommended by the War Labor Board's national telephone commission, while the union is asking a $6 increase instead.

The WLB also recommended that the time necessary to reach the maximum salary of $32 weekly from a starting rate of $20 be reduced from nine to eight years. A five-year limit is sought by the union.

Used-Car Prices Over Those Of New Cited

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—Ceiling prices for some new automobiles will be less than present ceilings on comparable 1942 used cars, the OPA acknowledged today.

There are "good reasons" for this, an OPA official said in commenting on a congressman's criticism of higher prices for used models.

The official noted that when used cars were brought under price control in July, 1944, used 1942 autos were given the same ceiling as those applicable on February 29, 1944, to new cars still in the ration pool.

Those new-car ceilings were considerably higher than the March, 1942 price levels at which they had been fixed originally, the official said.

The reason: Dealers were permitted to increase the ceiling by one per cent each month to cover storage charges.

This meant that 24 months of storage charges had been added through February 29, 1944. It was at that price level that ceilings for used 1942 cars were pegged.

How It Works

Here's an example of how this worked out:

The ceiling on a new Ford V-8 de luxe Tudor in March, 1942, was $850. By February, 1944, it was up to $950. (West of the Mississippi River it was up more, in accordance with traditional price differential.)

Thus the ceiling on the same model used car was $950. At present it is $912 because of a 4 per cent cut for depreciation.

The retail ceiling announced Sunday for the same model 1946 Ford is $882, which is less by $30 than the current ceilings for the 1942 used car.

Only Ford and Studebaker new-car ceilings have been announced, and at present only Ford's lend themselves to this kind of comparison.

May Apply To Other Cars

The OPA official said, however, that some other new cars probably will have ceilings less than those on comparable 1942 used models.

He added that this would not be so in the case of older used cars. Prices for these were frozen at levels of January, 1944.

The official said that lower prices on new cars "quite likely" will cause 1942 used-car ceilings to drop below ceilings.

Also, another four per cent depreciation cut in used-car ceilings is slated to go into effect January 1. Dealers have urged that the cut be deeper, perhaps eight per cent.

The congressional criticism of used-car ceilings higher than those for new autos came from Representative Sid Simpson (R., Ill.) in a letter to Price Administrator Chester Bowles.

contracts. As written, the report recommends voluntary arbitration as the final step in achieving peaceable settlement.

The spokesman said the committeemen from industry believe the recommendation should be backed up with penalties or enforcement clauses.

Other Criticisms

Management delegates also criticized the one report so far filed with the executive committee. This report is concerned with procedure for arriving at a first contract between a company and a union.

The management delegates sought, but failed to get, provision for fact-finding bodies that would make public reports on disputes; the fixing of definite lengths of time during which each stage of negotiation and conciliation would proceed without a work stoppage, and also, a guarantee that, if an election were held to decide which union represents the workers, there would be no strike by a losing union.

"More Realism" Wanted

"If nothing is done to make the reports more realistic," the N.A.M. official said, "management delegates will have no alternative but to file separate reports."

Such split reports would mean further delay for the conference.

However, Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said no committee had yet reached a full impasse and he believed there was no reason for pessimism. "I think we are making progress," he said. "But it isn't going as fast as any of us would like."

Labor Parley Units Hit For 'Unrealistic' Work

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—Management spokesmen complained today of what they termed "unrealistic" work being done in committees of the labor-management conference and hinted that they might file separate reports for conference consideration.

This development came as the "Big Six"—the heads of the two industry and four labor organizations represented—took action designed to prevent any of the committees from winding up in deadlocked disagreement.

The six set themselves up as a consultive body to which any floundering committee could bring its problems before arriving at an impasse.

Committee's Situation

In the background was this situation of committee progress:

Of the six spadework committees, only one has filed a progress report. All reports were called for on Friday.

Two other committees turned in reports, then took them back for further debate.

Still another committee, the one seeking remedies for jurisdictional disputes, called off all meetings for the rest of this week, hoping in the meantime to figure out some grounds on which its labor and industry members could get together.

Changes Wanted

A spokesman for the National Association of Manufacturers reported that industry delegates want changes in a proposed report of the committee on settlement of disputes arising under existing labor

HOUSE POSES PRICE PUZZLE

OPA Head Asked To Explain Seeming Discrepancies

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—The House caucus room was lined today with merchandise, all the way from women's panties to children's scooters, and Chester Bowles, price administrator, was called in to take a look and do some explaining.

The display had the motif of Noah's Ark—two of everything.

One pair of panties was at a low price and the other at a higher price, with a tag saying the low-price item was made by an old established manufacturer and the high-price "inferior" panties were the product of a manufacturer newly entered into the field. Tags on the scooters and other items said the same thing.

Reason Is Sought

The House committee investigating whether Government agencies are exceeding their authority wanted to know how come. Why, it was asked, did OPA give comparatively high prices to new manufacturers while holding old manufacturers' prices down?

Bowles said the exhibits "tend to give an exaggerated impression."

"We asked Leu Hahn, of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, to make this exhibit available to our staff," he said, "together with the names of the manufacturers of the merchandise shown. The reply which I received last night from Mr. Hahn indicates that his association is unwilling to make the manufacturers' names available to us."

Needs More Information

Bowles told the committee that without knowing the source of the various items he could not tell whether the high-priced items were being sold above ceilings, whether the old manufacturer had applied for an increase in the ceiling, or whether OPA has erred.

He said OPA will do everything possible to prevent price distortions, with an eye to protecting the consumer without discouraging production. He acknowledged OPA has made many errors in pricing.

However, he told the committee the idea that liberal price increases for old manufacturers is an answer to the new seller problem "is, in my judgment, wholly without merit."

RETURN OF U. S. JOB SERVICE TO STATES VOTED

Senate, 35 to 31, Refuses to Delay the Change Till Next July.

HOUSE HAS ALREADY ACTED

Pleas of Barkley and McKellar to Defer Breakup of USES Ignored by Chamber.

Washington, Nov. 20 (A. P.).—Disregarding protests of administration leaders, the Senate refused by a vote of 35 to 31 today to delay the return of the United States Employment Service to the States until June 30, 1946.

The action left in effect a provision of the Senate Appropriation Committee calling for return of the services to the States in 120 days. The House previously had voted for a return in thirty days.

Majority Leader Barkley told the Senate that during reconversion this service should be a national obligation to find jobs for the wartime wandering population. President pro tempore McKellar descended from his place as presiding officer to back Barkley's plea.

The test came in action on a rescission bill cutting off more than $51,000,000,000 in wartime appropriations and authorizations. Passage of the bill will ease the Treasury's in-the-red operations without taxing anybody.

How the Senate Divided.

The Senators were recorded as follows on the roll call:

FOR AMENDMENT—31

Democrats for: Barkley, Chavez, Connally, Downey, Eastland, Ellender, Fulbright, George, Green, Hatch, Hill, Huffman, Johnston (S. C.), Maybank, McCarran, McClellan, McFarland, McKellar, Mead, Mitchell, Murdock, Myers, O'Mahoney, Stewart, Taylor, Tunnell, Tydings, Wagner, Walsh—29.

WARNS ON BOOM IN FARM PRICES

Federal Reserve Says Signs Point To Swift Rise In Values

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Federal Reserve System said today that "all signs point to the rapid rise of farm land values" and set for the six potential methods of preventing a "tragic and costly" boom.

In an article in one of the "Post-war Economic Studies" published by the system, William H. Fisher, of the research department of the Richmond Federal Reserve Bank, cited more than 2,000,000 involuntary transfers of farms and tracts since 1920.

Increased Costs Cited

He said that as the result of this forced sale of from one fourth to one third of all farm land in the last 25 years, the "whole agricultural fabric is penalized through interruption of the technological progress and by stabilization of improper farm practice," and both the farm and nonfarm segments of the economy have been saddled with increased costs through taxes and higher prices.

As potential barriers to a repetition of the boom which began in 1920 after World War I, Fisher proposed these steps for consideration:

1. Education: Fisher said that machinery already exists to carry out an intensified campaign of public information and that present media should be expanded

Control Of Demand

"In the areas where the greatest harm would result from a land boom, particularly in cash-crop regions," he said, "a last-ditch attempt to create added awareness of the effects of high farm land prices might be implemented by the joint efforts of farm agencies, schools, churches and the like."

2. Control of demand through allocation: Permitting purchase of land by those who could prove need, ability to use it properly and where the price was found to be reasonable.

3. Restrictions on purchasing power through the elimination of excess liquidity in the hands of possible farm buyers and the control of credit extensions on farm mortgages.

4. Price ceilings on land.

Capital-Gains Tax

5. A special capital-gains tax, the extension of the holding period required before this capital gain could be taxable at less than ordinary income-tax rates, and an increased transfer tax.

6. Forced savings of receipts from sales through some method of requiring investiture of some proportion of sales price in nontransferable Government bonds.

U.S. Aid Held Vital To Wool Growers

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—Domestic wool growers must have Government support if the industry is to usrvive, an Agriculture Department official told the Senate Wool Investigating Committee today.

Gail Armstrong, special assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture, called attention to larke surpluses of the fiber owned by this country and Great Britain. He declared that despite existing tariffs foreign wools undersell the domestic and suggested there possible steps:

1. Do nothing, letting existing price-support programs go unrenewed when they expire at the end of the current fiscal year next June 30.

2. Adopt a subsidy, which would require a congressional appropriation.

3. Increase the price of foreign wools sold in the United States, either through a restriction of imports or through a higher tariff on import fees.

The first suggestion involves the present Commodity Credit Corporation purchase program of all American-grown wools at the OPA price ceiling of $1.18 a pound (British imported wool sells for $1.05 per pound, including a 30-cent tariff), and subsidies on sheep and lamb production.

LIST 18 AS KILLED IN SICILIAN CRASH

Washington, Nov. 20 (A. P.).—Pfc. Ray W. Treece of Speedwell, Tenn., is the only reported survivor of a plane crash in Sicily on November 9, the War Department said today, adding that eighteen other persons, including two women were killed and that six more may have been killed.

Sixteen Army men and both women have been identified. The Army said that one woman was First Lieut. Katharine McCarthy, 35, of Boulder, Col., United States Public Health nurse on loan to the UNRRA as Public Health supervisor of its Greek mission.

As received here, the name of the other woman was given as Miss L. True, but she could not be identified by the War Department, the Red Cross or the UNRRA.

The plane was en route from Athens to Naples. It crashed during an emergency landing in Sicily, reports from Palermo said. Those identified as dead include Capt. Morris C. Rughelman of 441 Williams avenue, Brooklyn.

FLYING ACCIDENTS DURING WAR TOOK 26,000 AAF LIVES

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 20--(AP) Flying accidents cost more than 26,000 lives in the Army Air Forces during the war and destroyed 22,000 airplanes more than were destroyed by the Germans and Japs.

Col. George C. Price, chief of the Office of Flying Safety of the AAF, disclosed that today in an address to the Third National Aviation Clinic, a conference of all elements in aeronautics.

Fewer Crashes Urged

He used the story of the Air Force accident record—a record which showed that the accident rate was lower throughout the war than it ever had been in peacetime—to plead for concerted action by the aviation industry to retard and reduce an already alarming rise in civilian flying crash statistics.

In another speech, L. Welch Pogue, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics board, took a firm stand today against the military having "a voice in civil air matters" as proposed by Gen. Henry H. Arnold.

Pogue did not name Arnold or refer directly to his report to the secretary of war as commanding general of the Army Airforces, although he quoted from it.

"I believe that any such proposal would not be acceptable to the American people and that its adoption would defeat—not advance—the national preparedness which all of us most earnestly desire," he said.

Pogue's opposition to a military voice in civil flying was based on two general points:

1—That offensive flying weapons have branched off into a new field with little direct relation to civil aircraft types and might more properly be labelled "military aeronautics."

2—That in any future conflict civil aviation's contribution will be not to any direct striking force but as transportation, and that it could be developed under civil guidance as in the past.

Price, whose headquarters are at Winston-Salem, N. C., offered civil aviation interests the complete cooperation of the AAF, including the results of its extensive studies during the war, for use in a program for safer flying.

Serious Problem Today

The AAF was hard pressed to stave off an overwhelming accident toll," he said. "We are convinced that an equally serious problem faces you today."

Price said civil flying was now involved in more accidents than the military, calling attention to records showing that the number of civil air crashes from V-J day to Oct. 31 was 70 per cent greater than in the comparable 1944 period, and that during the first six months of this year there was a 52 per cent rise in fatalities compared with the first half of 1944.

Accepting estimates of 300,000 airplanes in this country in the next five years and assuming continued improvement in the accident rate, he added, there would be 48,000 serious crashes and more than 5,000 fatalities annually in the early 1950's.

Vets Now Home Exceed Whole AEF Of Last War

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Army said today that, despite strikes and shorter working hours, more soldiers have been brought home in six months than were in the whole AEF of World War I.

A War Department statement said that 2,470,880 were returned from overseas from V-E day, May 8, to November 2 and that discharges totaled 3,114,000 up to November 16. Armistice Day strength in World War I was 3,673,888, and of these 1,929,760 were overseas. Their return was not completed until April, 1920.

Further Prospects

The department said it expects 502,000 men to reach Eastern ports and 195,000 Western ports this month. It expects 423,000 in the East and 306,000 in the West in December. Arrivals will taper off in January to 235,000 in the East and 223,000 in the West.

The statement added that, "except for delays in turning around ships on both coasts because of strikes and shorter working hours, and the loss of some British transports," there would have been shipping enough to exceed withdrawal quotas by the end of the year. But, it said, the original "target dates" will still be met.

June 30 Windup Scheduled

These are:

January 31—All troops back from Europe and the Mediterranean except 370,000 occupation soldiers and 300,000 needed to dispose of surplus property. The 300,000 will trickle back and will be in the United States by June 30.

June 30—All troops back from the Pacific and other areas except occupation and garrison complements, leaving 400,000 in the Pacific, 100,000 in the other areas.

790 Ships Engaged

The last of 97 cargo ships being converted to troop carriers, the department continued, will be ready this week. This will give the Army the use of 790 ships for transporting troops—253 troopships, 210 converted cargo carriers, 38 hospital ships, 178 assault transports and 111 warships.

No more cargo ships will be converted, because by the time they could be made ready they would not be needed, the department explained. It expects to have all the shipping it needs in the Atlantic by January 1 and and in the Pacific in April.

Terming the need for sleeping cars to move the men in this country still critical, the department said it plans to ask the Office of Defense Transportation to withdraw more cars from civilian use. It suggested this be done by raising the minimum trip length for which civilians may obtain Pullman accomodations from 450 miles to 500.

Helen Keller Wins Admiration Of Wounded GI's in Hospital

FORT DEVENS, Mass., Nov. 20.—(AP) Miss Helen Keller was medalled with a new admiration today for her lifetime of courage against deafness and blindness when she walked among the brave beds of hero soldiers at Lovell General hospital.

Her swift fingers touched the faces of wounded combat men "to see what you look like" in her quietly friendly journey through four wards which started her two-day visit to patients here.

With her companion, Miss Polly Thompson, and WAC Lt. Patience Sanderson, the noted Easton, Conn., resident found Pfc. Jack Willen of Framingham, Mass., restoring hurt hands by making a doll. She touched the doll and Jack's face and laughed when she told him, "What nice wavy hair."

She thanked Pvt. Martin Sullaway of Salem, Mass., for fighting with the armies that liberated France and told M/Sgt. Clarence Smith of Lodie, Wis., she hoped he would be home for Christmas.

The lady who would not be conquered by the silence of deafness and blindness which fastened upon her at the age of 19 months brought veterans to what eager postures they could command to greet her as she came to their beds.

T/4 Robert Galvin of Hyde Park, Mass., was embarrassed when she came to him. Galvin hadn't been able to shave.

The seeing fingers found his face.

"This lawn needs to be mowed," Miss Keller said.

T/4 Galvin recovered, laughing, to tell her how he had enjoyed her books. And after she had passed he told the boy in the next bed:

"Wasn't it a privilege? There's an example of what determination can do."

Which is what Pfc. Robert Slaten of Lowell, Mass., probably meant when he looked over his bandaged and tilted leg as Miss Keler walked down the ward.

All he said was: "Gee."

Proposes Army Give 'Hams' Surplus Radio Equipment

WEST HARTFORD, Nov. 20. —(AP) Secretary Kenneth B. Warner of the American Radio Relay League, national organization of "Hams" (amateur radio men), said today it would be "only the act of a gracious nation to give equipment to amateurs who gave so much to the war. That's the least that could be done with it."

Informed by newspapermen that "Hams" were complaining because they were not allowed to purchase Air Forces radio and radar equipment stored in the open near Wright Field at Dayton, Ohio, Warner said he had not heard of the situation, but added:

"I'm not surprised to learn there's a milion dollars worth of stuff going to pot out there in Dayton. The whole surplus disposal problem is a national headache, and the whole policy is one of frightful, unavoidable waste."

He called the Dayton situation "a pinpoint in the national picture," and said he was not particularly concerned about it alone because he doubted that there would be much equipment there that could be used by amateurs without extensive alteration.

He added, however, that in the "frightfully large surpluses" of equipment he said were to be found in Navy, Air Forces and Army Signal Corps supplies there would be material of value to "Hams."

"But they (the government) can't give it away," Warner complained. "It has to be destroyed or go through that rigid system of surplus property disposal, and a lot of it eventually may find its way into the hands of gyp dealers."

300 Navy Men Won't Go On 'U.S.S. Pneumonia'

Portland, Ore., Nov. 20 (AP)—The cargo vessel U.S.S. Procyon was scheduled to depart with 500 of its original 812 navy passengers early today after the veterans rebelled at being crowded into holds they said were unheated.

The other 300 were reassigned to the Swan Island naval barracks here after navy officers held a conference aboard the ship which the seamen dubbed the "U.S.S. Pneumonia."

Most of the men were Californians being forwarded to San Francisco by ship because a shortage of railroad passenger cars would delay their redeployment to separation centers.

Lieut. Com. Emmett E. Shields, assistant port director, conducted the investigation, but did not divulge the report made by naval medical officers.

The navy port office announced the 300 men stricken from the passenger list were to have occupied the lower No. 3 hold, which one enlisted man said was "like a refrigerator."

The veterans complained of 35-38 degree temperatures in the holds where they said they had cots but no pillows or blankets and that sanitary facilities were built for only 200 men.

Senate Prepared To Cut Deficit

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Senate happily took up the chore today of easing the Treasury's in-the-red operations by about $51,000,000,000—without taxing anybody.

This is to be accomplished by passage of the "First Supplemental Surplus Appropriations Rescission Act, 1946."

It is a bill to reduce appropriations and contract authorizations which had been made on the basis that the war might have lasted at least until next June 30.

Largely Paper Deficit

The Treasury deficit will be largely on paper, but it represents money that has been put down in the books as having to be spent—but now will not have to be.

A total of $146,467,221,277 in war appropriations had been made for the current fiscal year. The House voted to cut this by $52,653,713,879. The Senate Appropriations Committee, feeling the House was going a bit too far, recommended a figure of $51,244,680,213.

House Total For Army Cut

The Senate Committee, for example, pared the House figure of $30,903,090,564 to be withdrawn from the Army to $29,752,017,993. This difference is largely for the benefit of the Air Corps, which was left with $204,000,000,000 more for pay, $564,000,000 for operations and $85,000,000 for research than the House had voted to withdraw.

Also whereas the House had voted to cut the Navy by a total of $14,604,721,830, the Senate committe set this figure at $14,309,609,614.

USES Rider Still In

The bill carries a rider objectionable to the Administration. This provides that within 120 days after enactment the Government must return to the states the United States Employment Service. (The House version says 30 days.)

President Truman originally asked that the job-finding service be left under Federal control until June, 1947, on the grounds that many workers still will be migrating from state to state.

Opponents of Federal control contend that the same agency which administers unemployment compensation—the state—ought to handle job-finding activities as well. The Government took over the Employment Service early in the war in an effort to channel more workers into war jobs.

AID BY AUSTRALIA PUT AT 835 MILLION

Washington, Nov. 20 (A. P.).—Australia has put an $835,004,000 valuation on the reverse lend-lease supplies it furnished the United States, the War Department said today. The Army added that the Australian figures covered supplies, services and facilities furnished United States troops through June 30 of this year.

Lend-lease exports to Australia from the United States for the same period were valued at $1,154,000,000, the Foreign Economic Administration said.

Among the supplies furnished the United States were: 257,000,000 pounds of meat, 165,000 tires and tubes annually for three years, 7,899,000 pairs of socks and 1,750,000 pairs of shoes.

The Army declared that Australia's aid was of inestimable help in saving cargo space and man hours.

"In effect," for the United States, it was as if raw materials, industry workers, farms and produce and the willing cooperation were moved 10,000 miles from the States in one big jump," the report stated.

Ample Power Seen For Truman

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—Senator Murdock (D., Utah) predicted today that "President Truman will get ample authority to do a real job" of streamlining the Federal Government.

At the same time he said the President may have to wait "another ten days or so" before he knows exactly what powers Congress has given him to reorganize 100-odd departments, commissions, bureaus, corporations and agencies.

By that time, Murdock said, a Senate-House conference committee should be able to iron out differences between separate reorganization bills passed by each chamber.

"On the whole the Senate bill should be very satisfactory to the President," Murdock said after battling eighteen days to win Senate approval of it. That came yesterday on a voice vote.

Senator Byrd (D., Va.) had a different idea. Just before the Senate acted he discovered a clause that would exempt "quasijudicial" agencies from reorganization. He said this would provide "wholesale exemptions."

Senator Murdock agreed that the "language was bad" but promised that the conference committee would tighten it up.

Truman To Send Message On Unity

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—President Truman said today he would soon make a recommendation to Congress o na proposal to unify the armed forces.

Asked at his news conference about his attitude on the question of consolidating the Army and Navy, he made it clear he has a definite point of view, but he didn't specify what this was.

Mr. Truman laughed when reminded that Gen. Dwifht D. Eisenhower, whom he named Army chief of Staff today, is supporting a merger, while Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimtiz, whom he picked as chief of naval operations, is opposed to it.

He sai dhe had a point of view of his own and that when he gave it to Congress in a message, they will all be in the same boat.

ASKS DATA BOARD FOR LABOR CASES

Washington, Nov. 20 (A. P.).—A suggestion that impartial fact-finding boards be named to help reach solutions in labor disputes was laid before the labor-management conference today.

The Rev. R. A. McGowan, director of the social action department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, outlined the plan to the public hearings committee of the conference.

He said the boards should be composed of disinterested citizens. They would determine all facts connected with a major industrial dispute.

"At present," the priest told the committee, "there isn't any method set up, either publicly or privately, for finding out the facts underlying such disputes." He said this often prevents a speedy solution.

PARLEY MAY CREATE FACT-FINDING BODIES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP) The Labor-Management Conference's Executive committee today considered creating fact-f[illegible] bodies for industrial disputes and aimed at adjournment by the end of next week.

President Truman, at his news conference, expressed a hope that the parley would come up with some machinery for settling disputes.

Patman Introduces Bill To Create Housing Czar

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—A bill to create a national housing "czar," who would have authority to fix price ceilings on houses, was introduced today by Chairman Patman (D., Texas), of the House Small Business Committee.

The measure would authorize establishment of an office of housing stabilization, headed by a director.

His authority would include power to:

1. Set maximum sales prices for housing.
2. Control priorities on housing materials.
3. Specify order of occupancy for available housing facilities.

NYLONS FOR CHRISTMAS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP) Congress heard today that around 24,000,000 pairs of nylon hose will be ready for American women for the Christmas trade.

Thomas W. Montgomery, sales manager of the Granite Hosiery Mills, Souderton, Pa., gave that estimate to members of a House Interstate Commerce committee.

Montgomery voiced concern to the committee that the recent OPA order reducing the price on high cost nylons would discourage expansion of the hosiery industry, and that a large part of the American production might be driven into the export trades where prices are higher.

The committee called the session on nylons to see if OPA in its price order is within a legislative restriction against standardization and interference with brand names.

Defers Curley Trial for Fraud

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP).—Trial of Representative James M. Curley, Mayor-elect of Boston, and five alleged associates in Engineers Group, Inc. a war-contracts firm, on mail-fraud charges was postponed today until Monday in Federal District Court here. The trial had been set to open today. Justice James M. Proctor ordered the continuance because the attorney for two of the defendants was tied up as counsel in trial of a civil suit.

Approves 2 for Export Bank

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Senate Banking and Currency Committee today approved the nominations of William McChesney Martin jr., former president of the New York Stock Exchange, and Herbert E. Gaston, an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, to the board of directors of the Export-Import Bank. The committee delayed action on the nomination of Robert T. Stevens, of New Jersey, to a place on the board because of his inability to appear today for questioning.

'ADOPTED G. I.,' 14, IS HELD AT BOSTON

Boston, Nov. 20 (A. P.).—A 14-year-old French youth, clad in a regulation Army uniform, was taken to the immigration station today following his arrival here as a stowaway aboard the troopship Vassar Victory.

The youngster, Tony Accristo, arrived with elements of the First Airborne Army, which had adopted him when they fought in southern France and with whom he stayed through months of warfare in Europe. He told authorities that he lost all track of his parents, who were French citizens of Italian extraction, when the fighting was thick near Nice, on the French Riviera.

Accristo was escorted ashore by Lieut.-Commander William P. Dukeshire of Brooklyn, first officer of the vessel. He was offered a home by Sgt. Nicholas Botera, bachelor garage owner, of Keating Summit, Pa., if he is allowed to remain.

According to the soldiers, Accristo, who speaks fairly good English and a few other languages, could handle various weapons and often joined the men in the thick of the fighting. As a farewell to him, before he was taken off the pier, members of the airborne unit passed the hat and collected several hundred dollars for the young stowaway.

AMERICAL REGIMENT HONORS WAINWRIGHT

SEATTLE, Nov. 20 — (AP) The first men of the famed Americal Division to return to the United States, with one of the longest combat records of any in the Pacific warfare, were promptly called upon today to honor one of the war's great heroes, Gen. Jonathan B. Wainwright.

The 164th Infantry regiment, First Army ground unit to take the offensive in any theater at Guadalcanal, with 1,578 high-point men, disembarked at 8 a. m. from the S. S. Sea Witch, inbound from Yokohama. The vessel was delayed from arriving yesterday.

Officials chose the regiment's 2nd battalion and men of the 11th Airborne division, now assigned to the Americal, to join in a parade through the business district with General Wainwright and other military units. About 750 returning veterans paraded.

MAJOR BOXER ARRIVES, MARRIAGE IS PLANS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20.—(AP) British Major Charles Boxer, liberated prisoner of war whom Emily Hahn, American author, named in her book as the father of her daughter, arrived today aboard the transport Shirrabank from Hongkong.

He answered reporters questions concerning his future plans, saying:

"I intend to marry Miss Hahn just as soon as I possibly can. I've been in the hoosegow for four years and I don't know definitely whether I have been divorced by my wife, Ursula, but I think I have."

He said he had a letter from Miss Hahn stating that she's heard his wife had started divorce proceedings in England.

Boxer said the last time he saw Miss Hahn and daughter, Crola, was just before they left Hongkong for the United States with a group of American repatriates in 1942.

Boxer said he would leave tomorrow for New York where Miss Hahn is living.

LONDON, NOV 20-(AP)-REPRESENTATIVES OF FOUR NATIONS MET HERE TODAY TO DISCUSS THE POLICIES THAT WILL GIVERN THE RUBBER INDUSTRY IN THE LIGHT OF WAR-TIME DEVELOPMENT OF SYNTHETICS, UPON WHICH THE ALLIES WERE FORCED TO RELY WHEN THE MAJOR SOURCES OF NATURAL SUPPLY WERE CUT OFF BY THE JAPANESE ADVANCE IN SOUTHEAST ASIA.

THE UNITED STATES, BRITAIN AND HOLLAND WERE ORIGINALLY SCHEDULED TO ATTEND THE DISCUSSIONS, BUT AT THE LAST MINUTE FRANCE WAS ALSO INVITED TO SEND A DELEGATION.

THE MEETING OF THE SO-CALLED RUBBER STUDY GROUP IS THE SECOND TO BE HELD WITHIN A YEAR. PRELIMINARY ANGLO-AMERICAN DISCUSSIONS WERE CONDUCTED IN WASHINGTON LAST JANUARY.
THE CONFERENCE IS EXPECTED TO ACT AS A FACT-FINDING GROUP, THEN HEAR DUTCH AND BRITISH REPORTS OF NATURAL RUBBER PRODUCTION IN THE FAR EAST. DEMAND AND SUPPLY WILL BE REVIEWED, THEN PRICES WILL BE DISCUSSED, PARTICULARLY IN RELATIONSHIP TO THE AMERICAN SYNTHETIC OUTPUT.

THE CONFEREES BEGAN THEIR DISCUSSIONS WITHOUT MAKING ANY STATEMENTS, BUT INFORMED SOURCES SAID THE AMERICANS WERE PREPARED TO RECOMMEND THE CLOSING OF HIGH-COST SNYTHETIC PLANTS IF THE BRITISH AND DUTCH ELIMINATE THE LESS EFFICIENT RUBBER ESTATES.

A SPOKESMAN FOR THE HEAD OF THE UNITED STATES DELEGATION, DONALD D.KENNEDY, CHIEF OF THE INTERNATIONAL RESOURCES DIVISION OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT, SAID HEADS OF THE FOUR DELEGATIONS HAD AGREED TO ISSUE NO STATEMENT UNTIL THE CONFERENCE ENDS ON FRIDAY OR SATURDAY.

NIGHT LEAD KELLY

LONDON, NOV. 20-(AP)-MAYOR EDWARD J.KELLY, HEADING A DELEGATION SEEKING TO BRING THE PERMANENT HOME OF THE UNITED NATIONS TO CHICAGO, ARRIVED IN LONDON TONIGHT ON AN INAUGURAL FLIGHT DIRECT FROM THE ILLINOIS CITY AND DECLARED THAT "CHICAGO IS A HUSTLING, BUTLING CITY THAT THE UNITED NATIONS SHOULD COME TO."

WHILE KELLY WILL URGE THAT THE PERMANENT HOME BE LOCATED IN CHICAGO, HE TOLD REPORTERS THAT HE CAME TO BRITAIN PRIMARILY "TO SHOW GRATITUDE TO THE AIR INDUSTRY FOR DEVELOPING A DIRECT LINE BETWEEN CHICAGO AND ENGLAND."

"THEY ARE RIGHT," HE SAID, "IN BELIEVING THAT CHICAGO WILL BE THE GREAT AIR CENTER OF THE UNITED NATIONS."

LONDON, NOV. 20-(AP)-A DELEGATION SEEKING TO MAKE CHICAGO THE CAPITAL OF THE WORLD "BECAUSE IT HAS THE BEST COMBINATION OF ADVANTAGES" HAS DECENDED ON THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION ARMED WITH MOTION PICTURES TO SHOW WHY THE PEACE AGENCY SHOULD SET UP ITS HOME IN THE WINDY CITY.

LEVERETT LYON, CHIEF OFFICER OF THE CHICAGO ASSOCIATION OF COMMERCE, SAID TODAY HE WAS "NOT A HIGH PRESSURE SALESMAN."

"I JUST WANT TO TELL ALL THE UNITED NATIONS DELEGATIONS WHAT CHICAGO CAN OFFER AND THEY'LL SEE THAT'S WHERE THE ORGANIZATION OUGHT TO BE," HE SAID.

A FRIENDLY RIVALRY ALREADY IS SPRINGING UP AMONG REPRESENTITIVES OF THE VARIOUS AMERICAN CITIES SEEKING TO BECOME WORLD PEACE HEADQUARTERS.

PHILADELPHIA PUBLISHER DAVID STERN OVERHEAD LYON STATING CHICAGO WOULD BE READY TO INTERNATIONALIZE THE 100-ACRE ISLE IN LAKE MICHIGAN WHICH WAS BUILT AND USED DURING THE CHICAGO WORLDS FAIR.

"WOULD PHILADELPHIA BE WILLING TO INTERNATIONALIZE THE LIBERTY BELL?" LYON SHOT AT STERN.

"EXACTLY," STERN CAME BACK. "THAT'S A WONDERFUL SLOGAN, BECAUSE THAT'S JUST WHAT WE WANT TO DO. IT IS PROPER THAT THE AMERICAN CRADLE OF LIBERTY SHOULD BE THE HOME OF THE WORLD SECURITY ORGANIZATION."

"WELL," RETORTED LYON, "I'M INCLINED TO BELIEVE IT MIGHT BE A GREATER ADVANTAGE TO MANY NATIONS IF WE INTERNATIONALIZED CHICAGO'S STOCKYARDS."

IN THE DELEGATION ACCOMPANYING LYON ARE CURTIS D. MC DOUGALL,

PROFESSOR AT NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY; BARNET HODES, CORPORATION COUNSEL OF THE CITY OF CHICAGO, AND WILLIAM MC FETRIDGE, LABOR LEADER.

MAYOR EDWARD J.KELLY IS SCHEDULED TO ARRIVE BY AIR TONIGHT ON THE INAUGURAL CHICAGO-LONDON DIRECT FLIGHT, TO REINFORCE THE GROUP OF CHICAGOANS.

LYON SAID HE WAS GOING TO SEE ALL THE DELEGATES TO THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE, AND TELL THEM THE ADVANTAGES OF CHICAGO.

IN ADDITION TO THE PHYSICAL FACILITIES OF THE ISLAND, HE SAID, CHICAGO PROBABLY HAS THE BEST HOTEL FACILITIES AVAILABLE. THERE ARE ALSO, HE POINTED OUT, A GREAT NUMBER OF EXCELLENT RESEARCH LIBRARIES, WHICH COULD BE PUT AT THE STATESMEN'S DISPOSAL, AT THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO AND NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY.

LYON SAID THE CHICAGOANS ARE GOING TO SHOW THE UNITED NATIONS AN AIR MAP DEMONSTRATING THE CITY'S CENTRAL POSITION WITH REGARD TO TRANSPORTATION.

"VERY FEW PEOPLE REALIZE IT," HE SAID, "BUT CHICAGO IS CLOSER TO LONDON BY AIR THAN NEW YORK."

ANOTHER ARGUMENT HE SAID HE WOULD USE TO THE PEOPLE WHO ARE FEARFUL OF UNITED STATES' ISOLATIONISM IS THAT THE SURE WAY TO PLANT WORLD COOPERATION FIRMLY IN THE HEARTS AND MINDS OF AMERICANS WOULD BE TO SET THE PEACE ORGANIZATION IN THE HEART OF THE NATION---THE MIDDLEWEST.

IN THE MIDDLEWEST, HE SAID, "THERE IS NOT A QUESTION OF LOOKING TO EAST OR WEST, IT'S THE HEART OF AMERICA."

WILLIAM R. CHRYSTIE, LODGE-KEEPER AT THE EMBASSY FOR MORE THAN FOUR YEARS DURING THE WAR, RECEIVED THE BRITISH EMPIRE MEDAL FOR DEVOTION TO DUTY.

"THE KING SAID TO ME 'I BELIEVE WE HAVE MET BEFORE,'" CHRYSTIE SAID AFTER THE CEREMONY. "ACTUALLY, HE DECORATED ME WITH THE ROYAL VICTORIAN ORDER IN PARIS IN 1938."

LONDON, NOV. 20-(AP)-HENRY F. GRADY, HEAD OF AN AMERICAN DELEGATION TO OBSERVER THE APPROACHING GREEK ELECTIONS, EXPRESSED CONCERN TODAY OVER THE GREEK CABINET CRISIS.

NOV 21 1945

THE SAN FRANCISCAN SAID HE HOPED THE UNITED STATES COULD HELP GREECE REACH ITS GOAL OF A STABLE GOVERNMENT.

HE IS EXPECTED TO LEAVE FOR ATHENS WEDNESDAY OR THURSDAY, WITH FOY KOHLER OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT, LT. GEN. HARRY MALONEY AND TWO OTHERS OF THE DELEGATION. THEY WILL WATCH ELECTORAL LISTS, REGISTRATION, THE VOTING LAWS AND THE GENERAL POLITICAL SITUATION IN GREECE.

THE DIPLOMATS ~~[illegible]~~ OPTIMISTIC ABOUT WHAT THEY CAN DO IN HELPING THE GREEK PEOPLE TO GAIN CONFIDENCE IN ELECTIONS, SO THAT A GOVERNMENT WITH SUFFICIENT POWER TO ENFORCE ECONOMIC CONTROLS CAN BE ESTABLISHED. THE BRITISH OBSERVERS HAVE NOT YET BEEN ANNOUNCED.

ONE OF THE MAIN GREEK DIFFICULTIES IS THE FANTASTIC INFLATION WHICH HAD DISTORTED COMPLETELY THE COUNTRY'S ECONOMY. ALLIED STATESMEN HERE HERE SAID IMPROVEMENTS WOULD HAVE TO BE MADE INTERNALLY BEFORE FOREIGN CREDITS COULD BE OF ANY HELP.

LONDON, NOV. 20 -- (AP) -- THE INTER-ALLIED REPARATION CONFERENCE TODAY EXPLORED A PROPOSAL TO DIVIDE REPARATIONS ASSETS AMONG 17 PARTICIPATING COUNTRIES BY CATEGORIES, ACCORDING TO THE NATURE OF THE ~~KIND OF~~ LOSSES SUFFERED BY THEM.

THIS SOLUTION WAS SAID TO HAVE BEEN ADVANCED TO MEET OBJECTIONS THAT TOTAL CLAIMS COULD NOT BE MEASURED AGAINST EACH OTHER SATISFACTORILY, BECAUSE WAR EXPENDITURES AND LOSSES WERE OF DIFFERENT TYPES.

FOR EXAMPLE: A BIG PART OF ONE COUNTRY'S CLAIMS MIGHT BE BASED ON SHIPPING LOSSES; ANOTHER'S ON LOSSES IN MAN HOURS BECAUSE OF NAZI DEPORTATIONS. HOWEVER, TAKING REPARATIONS BY CATEGORY, THE FIRST WOULD GET A GREATER SHARE IN GERMANY'S MERCHANT SHIPPING, THE SECOND A GREATER SHARE IN ALLOCATION OF CURRENT GERMAN PRODUCTION.

BY LOUIS P.LOCHNER

NUERNBERG, NOV. 20-(AP)-THEY WERE NO LONGER GLAMOUR BOYS STRUTTING ACROSS THE EUROPEAN STAGE, THESE 20 NAZI LEADERS WHO FILED TODAY INTO THE CROWDED NUERNBERG COURTROOM.

HERMANN GOERING, WITHOUT HIS MEDALS DANGLING ON HIS CHEST AND THE BEJEWELLED MARSHAL'S WAND WHICH HE FLASHED AT ADULATING CROWDS, DIDN'T SEEM TO BE GOERING.

JULIUS STREICHER, NO LONGER IN A BROWN UNIFORM AND NO LONGER DEALING OUT BLOWS WITH A RIDING SWITCH, DID NOT SEEM TO BE THE REAL STREICHER.

JOACHIM VON RIBBENTROP, UNATTENDED BY THE RETINUE OF FOREIGN OFFICE FLUNKIES IN S.S. UNIFORMS WHO HANDED HIM STATE PAPERS BEFORE HIS THEATRICAL SPEECHES AS FOREIGN MINISTER, LOOKED AGAIN LIKE THE CHAMPAGNE MERCHANT HE ONCE WAS -- ONLY NOW HE LOOKS TOO OLD AND SPENT TO INSPIRE THE CONFIDENCE OF A PROSPECTIVE CUSTOMER.

BALDUR VON SCHIRACH AND HANS FRITZSCHE, REPRESENTING THE YOUNGER ELEMENT IN THE NAZI HIERARCHY, APPEARED AS JUST TWO MEEK, PALEFACED DEFENDANTS AT THE BAR OF JUSTICE.

THE IRONY OF FATE PLACED SIDE BY SIDE DEFENDANTS WHO NOTORIOUSLY DISLIKED EACH OTHER.

PUDGY WALTHER FUNK SAT NEXT TO HIS ECONOMIC AND FINANCIAL RIVAL, HIGH-COLLARED HJALMAR SCHACHT, WHOM HE REPLACED AS MINISTER OF ECONOMICS AND PRESIDENT OF THE REICHSBANK. FUNK SEEMED TO TRY TO HIDE HIS NERVOUSNESS BY LOQUACITY, POURING HIS ELOQUENCE INTO SCHACHT'S EAR. BUT HITLER'S ONE-TIME FINANCIAL WIZARD PEERED DISDAINFULLY THROUGH HIS THICK PINCE NEZ AT THE DIMINUTIVE FUNK, KEPT HIS ARMS FOLDED AND REFUSED TO TALK.

WHITE-HAIRED, RUDDY CONSTANTIN VON NEURATH ONCE CONDUCTED THE FOREIGN POLICY OF HITLER'S THIRD REICH, LATER LORDED IT OVER BOHEMIA AND MORAVIW AS PROTECTOR AND WAS KNOWN TO OPPOSE THE METHODS OF PROPAGANDA MINISTER GOEBBELS. TODAY HE FOUND HIMSELF NEXT TO

GOEBBELS' RIGHT-HAND MAN, THE SALLOW-COMPLEXIONED FRITZSCHE. NEITHER SPOKE A WORD TO THE OTHER.

THE ENIGMA FOR ME WAS RUDOLF HESS. IS HE PARTLY DEMENTED AS CLAIMED? ARE HIS SEEMING INDIFFERENCE AND ALLEGED FAILURE TO RECOGNIZE OLD FRIENDS SIMULATION OR REALITY?

FROM THE MOMENT HESS TOOK HIS SEAT BETWEEN GOERING AND VON RIBBENTROP UNTIL THE COURT'S FORMAL OPENING, HESS SEEMED UTTERLY INDIFFERENT TO WHAT WAS GOING ON ABOUT HIM. HE APPEARED TO STARE INTO VACANT SPACE. BUT WHILE OTHERS WATCHED THE PRESIDING JUDGE, LISTENING TO OPENING STATEMENTS, HITLER'S FORMER DEPUTY CAREFULLY SCANNED THE PRESS SECTION AND SPECTATORS' GALLERY.

LATER, DURING THE READING OF THE INDICTMENT, AT THE FIRST MENTION OF HITLER'S NAME, HE PULLED GOERING BY THE SLEEVE AND TOLD HIM SOMETHING WITH A SMILE AND AN EMPHATIC NOD OF THE HEAD. THIS ELICITED NO RESPONSE.

STILL LATER, WHEN HE WAS APPARENTLY BORED BY THE READING, HE ENGAGED IN A LONG CONVERSATION WITH VON RIBBENTROP, OFTEN FLASHING AN ALMOST IMPISH SMILE.

HESS, OF ALL THE PRISONERS, SEEMED THE PALEST. HIS HEAD LOOKED ALMOST LIKE A DEATH MASK.

GOERING SAT IN THE FIRST SEAT NEXT TO THE PRESS BOX AND WAS BEST VISIBLE TO EVERYBODY.

A GLEAM OF RECOGNITION FLASHED OVER HIS FACE AS HE SURVEYED THE PRESS BOX AND SAW THE FACES OF FORMER LONGTIME BERLIN CORRESPONDENTS

BUT HE WASN'T THE SAME GOERING THESE CORRESPONDENTS KNEW DURING THE REICHSTAG FIRE TRIAL OF 1933, WHEN HE THREATENED TO BEAT UP SERGEI DIMITROV IN COURT OR WHEN, DURING SWANKY, EXPANSIVE BALLS, HE WOULD APPROACH WITH PRIDE AND EXCLAIM "WONDERFUL", OR WHEN ON THE DAY AFTER HIS WEDDING IN 1935, HE ASKED THEM TO SEE THE PRESENTS WHICH "LOVE OF MY PEOPLE SHOWED UPON ME."

NUERNBERG, GERMANY, NOV.20-(AP)-NEARLY A QUARTER OF A MILLION WORDS POURED OUT OF A COURTROOM IN A 10-HOUR PERIOD HERE TODAY, AS REPORTERS FROM EVERY MAJOR NATION DESCRIBED THE OPENING OF THE WAR CRIMES TRIAL OF FORMER NAZI LEADERS--AND WROTE EVERY SCRIBBLE OF IT IN LONG HAND.

ACCUSTOMED TO TYPEWRITERS, THE REPORTERS IN THE FLOOD-LIGHTED COURTROOM WERE FORCED TO RESORT TO PENCILS FOR THE COPY THAT FLOODED OVER COMBINED BRITISH, AMERICAN AND FRENCH COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEMS. FROM OTHER BOOTHS, 13 RADIO BROADCASTS WERE MADE DURING THE SESSION.

PHOTOGRAPHERS IN BOOTHS ALONG THE WALLS MADE PICTURES OF THE TRIAL, BUT THEY WERE NOT ALLOWED TO USE FLASH BULBS.

THE JUDGES SIT ON A RAISED PLATFORM AT ONE SIDE OF THE COURTROOM, WITH THE DEFENDANTS ON THE OTHER AND THE LAWYERS IN BETWEEN.

REPORTERS SIT IN ROWS OF PLUSH MOVIE SEATS AT ONE END OF THE COURTROOM, WHICH ALSO HAS A SPECTATORS' BALCONY.

EACH SEAT IS EQUIPPED WITH EARPHONES, TIED INTO AN INTRICATE AUTOMATIC INTERPRETING SYSTEM. BY TURNING A KNOB, A REPORTER CAN LISTEN TO A TRANSLATION OF THE TESTIMONY IN ENGLISH, FRENCH, GERMAN OR RUSSIAN.

BUSY PENCILS TRANSFER THIS IN ENGLISH, DUTCH, NORWEGIAN, CZECH, YUGOSLAV, ITALIAN OR FRENCH, ONTO PIECES OF PAPER. THESE ARE WHISKED OUT OF THE COURTROOM BY GI MESSENGERS OF THE FIRST INFANTRY DIVISION, WHO TAKE THEM TO THE DESIGNATED AMERICAN, FRENCH, BRITISH OR RUSSIAN COMMUNICATIONS BOOTH ON THE FLOOR BELOW.

BOTH PROSECUTION AND DEFENSE LWYERS HAVE MADE THEMSELVES READILY AVAILABLE TO NEWSMEN, BUT THE TRIBUNAL ITSELF HAS BEEN SPHINX-LIKE AND SECRETIVE, WITH LAWYERS AS WELL AS THE PRESS.

AN OFFICIAL MEDICAL REPORT HAS BEEN PREPARED FOR THE INTERNATIONAL MILITARY TRIBUNAL, WHICH MUST DECIDE WHETHER KALTENBRUNNER WILL BE TRIED IN ABSENTIA AS A NAZI WAR CRIMINAL, OR REINDICTED FOR A LATER TRIAL.

SHE DID NOT FURTHER IDENTIFY WALKURE.

"IF I DON'T GET AN ANSWER BY TEN TONIGHT, I'LL TAKE ME 25 PILLS AND LIE DOWN PEACEFULLY," THE DIARY SAID. "IS IT A SIGN OF THE TERRIFIC LOVE OF WHICH HE ASSURES ME THAT HE HASN'T SPOKEN A KIND WORD TO ME FOR THREE MONTHS?

FRANKFURT, GERMANY, NOV. 20-(AP)-EVA BRAUN'S DIARY FOUND BY THE U.S. ARMY AND COVERING THE PERIOD FROM FEB. 2, 1935 TO MAY 28, 1935:

I GUESS TODAY IS THE RIGHT DAY TO BEGIN THIS MASTERPIECE.

HAVE HAPPILY REACHED MY 23RD BIRTHDAY. THE THING IS WHETHER OR NOT I AM HAPPY. THAT IS ANOTHER QUESTION. AT THE MOMENT I CERTAINLY AM NOT HAPPY. THAT IS BECAUSE I HAVE SUCH HIGH EXPECTATIONS OF SUCH AN "IMPORTANT" DAY.

IF I ONLY HAD A DOG, THEN I WOULDN'T BE SO ALONE; BUT I GUESS THAT IS ASKING TOO MUCH.

MRS. SCHAUK CAME WITH FLOWERS AND A TELEGRAM AS "AMBASSADOR."

MY WHOLE OFFICE LOOKS LIKE A FLOWER SHOP AND SMELLS LIKE A MORTUARY. I'M REALLY UNGRATEFUL BUT I HAD HOPED SO MUCH TO GET A LITTLE DACHSHUND, AND NOW NOTHING AGAIN.

PERHAPS NEXT YEAR OR EVEN AFTER THAT, THEN IT WILL BE BETTER SUITED TO AN INCIPIENT SPINSTER.

LET US NOT GIVE UP HOPE. I SHOULD HAVE LEARNED PATIENCE BY NOW.

I BOUGHT TWO LOTTERY TICKETS TODAY BECAUSE I AM CONVINCED IT IS NOW OR NEVER---DUDS.

IT SEEMS AS THOUGH I'LL NEVER GET RICH. I CAN'T DO ANYTHING ABOUT THAT.

TODAY I WOULD HAVE GONE TO ZUGSPITZE WITH HERTA GRATL ISLE AND HER MOTHER AND WE WOULD HAVE LIVED LIKE KINGS BECAUSE ONE ALWAYS HAS THE MOST FUN WHEN OTHERS SHARE THE HAPPINESS. BUT THE TRIP DIDN'T COME OFF.

TODAY I'M GOING TO EAT WITH HERTA. WHAT ELSE MAY A SIMPLE LITTLE WOMAN OF 23 DO? THUS I WILL BRING MY BIRTHDAY TO A CLOSE WITH GLUTTONY. THUS I BELIEVE I SHALL HAVE ACTED IN ACCORDANCE WITH HIS PREFERENCES.

FEB. 11, 1935. HE WAS JUST HERE BUT NO DOG AND NO CUPBOARD. HE DIDN'T EVEN ASK ME WHETHER I HAD A BIRTHDAY WISH. SO NOW I BOUGHT MYSELF SOME JEWELRY. NECKLACE EARRINGS AND RING TO MATCH FOR FIFTY MARKS. VERY PRETTY. HOPE HE LIKES IT. IF NOT HE MAY BUY ME SOMETHING HIMSELF.

FEB. 15, 1935. SEEMS THAT BERLIN DEAL REALLY IS GOING TO COME OFF. THAT IS I WON'T BELIEVE IT UNTIL I'M IN THE REICHSCHANCELLERY. I HOPE IT'LL BE AN AGREEABLE AFFAIR. TOO BAD THAT HERTA CAN'T COME ALONG INSTEAD OF CHARLIE. SHE WOULD BE A GUARANTEE FOR A FEW HAPPY DAYS. THIS WAY THERE WILL PROBABLY BE A BIG ADO BECAUSE I DON'T THINK THAT BRUCKNER FOR A CHANGE WILL SHOW HIS MORE CHARMING SIDE VIS-A-VIS CHARLIE. I DON'T DARE LOOK FORWARD TO IT BUT IT MIGHT TURN OUT TO BE WONDERFUL IF EVERYTHING GOES WELL. LET'S HOPE SO.

B75

FEB. 2, 1935. YESTERDAY HE CAME QUITE UNEXPECTEDLY AND IT WAS A DELIGHTFUL EVENING. THE NICEST THING WAS HIS THINKING ABOUT TAKING ME OUT OF THE FIRM -- I DON'T WANT TO BE TOO HAPPY YET -- TO BUY ME A LITTLE HOUSE. I DON'T DARE THINK OF IT. IT WOULD BE SO WONDERFUL. I WOULDN'T HAVE TO OPEN THE DOOR FOR OUR "HONORABLE" CUSTOMERS AND PLAY SALESGIRL. DEAR GOD, PLEASE MAKE IT COME TRUE WITHIN A REASONABLE PERIOD OF TIME. POOR CHARLIE IS SICK AND CAN'T COME TO BERLIN WITH US. SHE'S REALLY UNLUCKY BUT MAYBE ITS BETTER THAT WAY. MAYBE HE WOULD BE VERY RUDE TO HER AND THEN SHE WOULD CERTAINLY BE EVEN MORE UNHAPPY. I'M SO INFINITELY HAPPY THAT HE LOVES ME SO AND PRAY THAT IT WILL ALWAYS BE LIKE THIS. I SHOULD NEVER WANT TO (BE TO) BLAME IF ONCE HE SHOULD STOP LOVING ME.

MAR. 3, 1935. I'M AGAIN MORTALLY UNHAPPY. SINCE I CAN'T WRITE HIM THIS BOOK MUST SERVE TO ASSUAGE MY PAIN. HE CAME SATURDAY WHEN

THE TOWN OF M'S BALL TOOK PLACE. MRS.SCHWARTZ HAD GIVEN ME A LOGE TICKET FOR IT AND SO I WAS OBLIGED TO ATTEND AT ALL COSTS SINCE I HAD ALREADY ACCEPTED.

THEN I SPENT A FEW WONDERFUL HOURS WITH HIM UNTIL 12 O'CLOCK AND THEN TO THE BALL WITH HIS PERMISSION.

HE PROMISED I WOULD SEE HIM SUNDAY. IN SPITE OF THE FACT I CALLED UP FROM OSTERIA AND THAT I SENT A MESSAGE THAT I AM WAITING FOR HIS NEWS HE SIMPLY DROVE OFF THE FELDAFING. HE EVEN REFUSED HOFFMAN'S INVITATION TO TEA AND SUPPER. ONE MAY LOOK AT EVERYTHING FROM TWO SIDES. PERHAPS HE WANTED TO BE ALONE WITH DR. "G" WHO WAS ALSO HERE BUT HE COULD HAVE LET ME KNOW. I WAS AT HOFFMAN'S PLACE ON PINS AND NEEDLES THINKING ALL THE TIME THAT HE MIGHT COME NOW.

WE WENT TO THE TRAIN LATER BECAUSE HE HAD DECIDED TO LEAVE BUT ONLY ARRIVED IN TIME TO SEE THE REAR LIGHTS. HOFFMAN AND WE OTHERS HAD AGAIN LEFT THE OTHERS TOO LATE AND THUS I COULDN'T EVEN SAY GOODBYE. PROBABLY I'M TOO PESSIMISTIC. AGAIN I HOPE BUT HE HASN'T BEEN HERE NOW FOR 14 DAYS AND I'M SO UNHAPPY AND HAVE NO PEACE OF MIND. INCIDENTALLY I DON'T KNOW WHY HE SHOULD BE ANGRY WITH ME--PERHAPS BECAUSE I WENT TO THE BALL--BUT THEN HE GAVE ME HIS PERMISSION.

I'M USELESSLY WRACKING MY BRAIN AS TO WHY HE SHOULD BE DRIVING AWAY WITHOUT SAYING GOODBYE. HOFFMAN GAVE ME A TICKET FOR TONIGHT'S PERFORMANCE OF "VENETIAN NIGHT" BUT I WON'T GO. I'M MUCH TOO UNHAPPY.

MAR. 11,1935. I ONLY WISH I WERE SERIOUSLY ILL FOR EIGHT DAYS AND TO HEAR NOTHING (FROM) HIM. WHY DOESN'T SOMETHING HAPPEN TO ME? WHY DO I HAVE TO SUFFER LIKE THIS? I WISH I HAD NEVER SEEN HIM. I'M DESPERATE. I'M NOW GOING TO BUY MORE SLEEPING TABLETS. AT LEAST THEN I'LL BE HALF DAZED AND WON'T THINK ABOUT HIM SO MUCH. WHY DOESN'T THE DEVIL COME AND GET ME? I'M SURE IT'S NICER THERE THAN HERE.

FOR THREE HOURS I STOOD OUTSIDE THE CARLTON AND HAD TO WATCH WHILE HE BROUGHT FLOWERS FOR ONDRA AND INVITED HER FOR SUPPER (MARGIN NOTE HERE READ, JUST MY CRAZY IMAGINATION MAR. 26). HE'S ONLY USING ME FOR A VERY DEFINITE PURPOSE (MARGIN NOTE DATED MAR. 26 - BALONEY).

WHEN HE SAYS HE LOVES ME HE TAKES IT ABOUT AS SERIOUSLY AS HIS PROMISES WHICH HE NEVER KEEPS. WHY DOES HE TORTURE ME SO MUCH INSTEAD OF JUST PUTTING AN END TO THE WHOLE THING?

MAR. 16, 1935. HE WENT TO BERLIN AGAIN. IF ONLY I DIDN'T GO OFF THE BEAM WHENEVER I SEE HIM LESS THAN USUALLY. ACTUALLY IT'S QUITE NATURAL THAT HE SHOWS NO GREAT INTEREST IN ME AT PRESENT SINCE THERE IS SO MUCH GOING ON POLITICALLY. I'M GOING TO TAKE A TRIP TO ZUGSPITZE WITH GERTL TODAY AND THEN MAYBE MY STUPIDITY WILL SUBSIDE. EVERYTHING HAS ALWAYS TURNED OUT ALRIGHT IN THE END SO FAR AND IT WILL BE THE SAME THIS TIME. ONE MUST HAVE PATIENCE, THAT'S ALL.

B76

APRIL 1,1935. YESTERDAY WE WERE INVITED BY HIM FOR SUPPER AT "VIERJAHRESZEITEN." I HAD TO SIT NEXT TO HIM FOR THREE HOURS AND COULDN'T SAY A WORD TO HIM. WHEN WE WERE MAKING LEAVE HE HANDED ME AN ENVELOPE CONTAINING MONEY AS HE HAD DONE ONCE BEFORE. IF ONLY HE HAD AT LEAST ADDED GREETINGS OR A KIND WORD I WOULD HAVE BEEN SO HAPPY BUT HE NEVER THINKS OF ANYTHING LIKE THAT. WHY DOESN'T HE GO TO HOFFMAN'S TO EAT? THERE AT LEAST I WOULD HAVE HIM TO MYSELF FOR A FEW MINUTES. I ONLY WISH HE WOULD NOT COME ANY MORE UNTIL HIS HOME IS READY.

APRIL 29,1935. THINGS ARE TOUGH, VERY MUCH SO IN EVERY RESPECT. I KEEP HUMMING TO MYSELF THAT EVERYTHING WILL IMPROVE. BUT IT DOESN'T HELP MUCH. THE HOUSE IS READY BUT I CAN'T GO VISIT HIM. LOVE DOES

NOT SEEM TO BE ON HIS PROGRAM AT PRESENT. NOW THAT HE IS BACK IN BERLIN I FEEL A LITTLE BETTER BUT THERE WERE DAYS DURING THE LAST WEEK WHEN I DID MY SHARE OF CRYING AT NIGHT, ESPECIALLY SINCE I SPENT EASTER AT HOME BY MYSELF.

I'M GETTING ON EVERYBODY'S NERVES BECAUSE I WANT TO SELL EVERYTHING FROM MY CLOTHES DOWN TO MY PHOTO CAMERA AND EVEN THEATER TICKETS. OH WELL, THINGS WILL IMPROVE. AFTER ALL MY DEBTS ARE NOT THAT BIG.

MAY 10,1935. ACCORDING TO FRAU HOFFMAN'S KIND AND EQUALLY TACTLESS REMARKS HE HAS NOW A SUBSTITUTE FOR ME. HER NAME IS WALKURE AND SHE LOOKS IT INCLUDING HER LEGS. BUT THESE ARE SHAPES THAT APPEAL TO HIM. IF THAT'S TRUE HE WILL SOON HAVE ANNOYED HER UNTIL SHE GETS SLIM UNLESS SHE HAS CHARLIE'S TALENT FOR THRIVING ON WORRIES. WORRY SEEMS TO INCREASE HER APPETITE.

IF FRAU HAS' OBSERVATIONS SHOULD TURN OUT TO BE TRUE IT'S MEAN OF HIM NOT TO TELL ME. AFTER ALL HE SHOULD KNOW ME WELL ENOUGH TO REALIZE I WOULD NEVER STAND IN HIS WAY. IF HE SHOULD DISCOVER ANOTHER ROMANTIC INTEREST WHY SHOULD HE WORRY ABOUT WHAT HAPPENS TO ME. I'LL WAIT UNTIL THE THIRD OF JUNE. BY THEN IT'LL BE THREE MONTHS SINCE OUR LAST MEETING AND I'LL ASK HIM FOR AN EXPLANATION BY MAIL. NOW TELL ME GAIN THAT I'M NOT MODEST.

THE WEATHER IS GORGEOUS AND I, MISTRESS OF GERMANY'S AND THE WORLD'S GREATEST MAN, HAVE TO SIT AT HOME AND LOOK AT IT THROUGH THE WINDOW.

B77

HE HAS SO LITTLE UNDERSTANDING AND STILL MAKES ME APPEAR DISTANT WHEN HIS FRIENDS ARE AROUND. WELL, ONE MAKES ONE'S OWN BED. . . . . I GUESS IT REALLY IS MY FAULT BUT IT IS JUST ONE OF THOSE THINGS FOR WHICH BLAME SOMEONE ELSE. THIS PERIOD OF FASTING WON'T LAST FOREVER AND THEN IT WILL TASTE THAT MUCH BETTER. TOO BAD THOUGH IT JUST HAPPENS TO BE SPRING.

MAY 28,1935. I HAVE JUST SENT HIM A LETTER THAT IS DECISIVE FOR ME. WILL HE CONSIDER IT AS I DO? WELL, WE WILL SEE. IF I DON'T GET AN ANSWER BY 10 O'CLOCK TONIGHT I'LL TAKE MY 25 PILLS AND LIE DOWN PEACEFULLY.

IS IT A SIGN OF THE TERRIFIC LOVE OF WHICH HE ASSURES ME, THAT HE HASN'T SPOKEN A KIND WORD TO ME FOR THREE MONTHS? IT IS AGREED THAT HE HAS BEEN BUSY WITH POLITICAL PROBLEMS BUT HAVE NOT THINGS EASED OFF? AND HOW ABOUT LAST YEAR WHEN HE HAD LOTS OF WORRIES WITH ROEHM AND ITALY AND STILL FOUND TIME FOR ME? TRUE, I'M NOT IN A POSITION TO JUDGE WHETHER THE PRESENT SITUATION ISN'T MUCH WORSE BUT AFTER ALL A FEW KIND WORDS TO FRAU HOFFMAN WOULD HARDLY HAVE TAKEN MUCH TIME. I FEAR THERE IS SOME OTHER REASON. IT IS NOT MY FAULT. CERTAINLY NOT. WHAT OTHER REASON COULD THERE BE? I CAN'T FIND ANY.

I'M AFRAID I WON'T GET AN ANSWER TODAY. IF ONLY SOMEONE WOULD HELP ME. EVERYTHING IS HOPELESS. MAYBE MY LETTER REACHED HIM AT AN INOPPORTUNE TIME OR MAYBE I SHOULDN'T HAVE WRITTEN AT ALL. WHICHEVER IT IS THE UNCERTAINTY IS MUCH WORSE THAN EVEN THE SUDDEN END WOULD BE.

DEAR GOD, PLEASE MAKE IT POSSIBLE THAT I SPEAK TO HIM TODAY-- TOMORROW WILL BE TOO LATE.

I HAVE DECIDED ON 35 PILLS SO TO MAKE DEATH CERTAIN THIS TIME. IF HE WOULD AT LEAST HAVE SOMEONE CALL UP FOR HIM.

GYMNASTICS, WEIGHT-LIFTING AND CYCLING WERE AMONG THE DOZEN SPORTS ORGANIZATIONS FORBIDDEN TO BERLINERS BY ORDER OF THE ALLIED KOMMANDANTUR BECAUSE "THEY TEND TO PROMOTE MILITARY PREPARADNESS," THE MILITARY GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCED TODAY.

INSTEAD, THE GERMANS WILL BE WEANED TO SUCH SPORTS AS BASKETBALL AND HOCKEY.

ACTING ON A REPORT BY ITS EDUCATION COMMITTEE, THE KOMMANDANTUR HAS ALSO OUTLAWED GROUPS SPONSORING BOXING, MOUNTAIN CLIMBING, YACHTING, ROWING, [redacted] JIU JITSU, SKING AND FIELD ATHLETICS.

"WE CAN EDUCATE ONLY AS WE LEAD," THE SUPREME COMMANDER SAID IN A THANKSGIVING MESSAGE.

"IN THEIR PAST BLINDNESS THESE PEOPLE HAVE LENT THEMSELVES TO THE PURPOSE OF TYRANNICAL DICTATORSHIP; IT IS ONLY THROUGH EDUCATION OVER A LONG PERIOD THAT WE CAN BUILD IN THEM AN ENLIGHTENED SPIRIT WHICH WILL OF ITSELF BREED FUTURE PEACE."

EISENHOWER WARNED THE TROOPS "OUR WORK IS NOT YET FINISHED," AND DECLARED "WE MUST NOT ALLOW OURSELVES ON THIS DAY IN TURNING OUR THOUGHTS TO THE PAST TO FAIL TO GIVE SERIOUS THOUGHT TO THE FUTURE."

MOSCOW, NOV 20-(AP)-IZVESTIA DECLARED TODAY REPORTS ABROAD THAT RUSSIANS HAD SUPPLIED ARMS TO SEPARATISTS IN THE NORTHERN IRANIAN PROVINCE OF AZERBAIJAN WERE SLANDEROUS.

THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT NEWSPAPER ASSERTED EDITORIALLY THAT THE REPORTS RESULTED FROM AN EFFORT TO CONCEAL THE EFFECT OF AZERBAIJAN ELECTIONS AND ALSO TO DISTRACT ATTENTION FROM ANTI-BRITISH DISORDERS IN PALESTINE AND EGYPT AND A PEOPLE'S UPRISING IN INDONESIA.

ASSERTING THAT EVENTS IN AZERBAIJAN WERE ARTIFICALLY INFLAMED, THE NEWSPAPER SAID THAT "LOCAL POLICE IN SOME CASES TURNED TO A SHOCKING USE OF FORCE AND REPRESSION AGAINST THE POPULATION UNDER THE PRETEXT OF A STRUGGLE WITH SEPARATIONISTS AMONG IRANIAN AZERBAIJANIANS."

THIS OCCURRED, IZVESTIA SAID, AFTER THE "DEMOCRATIC PARTY OF IRANIAN AZERBAIJAN, SUPPORTED BY A LARGE PART OF THE LOCAL POPULATION WHICH IS TRYING TO SECURE ELEMENTARY DEMOCRATIC RIGHTS AS A NECESSARY PREREQUISITE TO NATIONAL DEVELOPMENT," SCORED A "HUGE SUCCESS" IN THE ELECTIONS.

"THE DEMOCRATIC MOVEMENT AMONG AZERBAIJANIANS OF NORTHERN IRAN MEETS MALICIOUS RESISTANCE OF REACTIONARY ANTI-DEMOCRATIC FORCES," THE NEWSPAPER CONTINUED. "THEY SEE IN THIS MOVEMENT A THREAT TO THEIR RULE OF PRIVILEGE."

IZVESTIA CHARGED THAT SOME "ORGANS OF THE FOREIGN PRESS" HAD REPRESENTED EVENTS IN NORTHERN IRAN "IN QUITE A DISTORTED FASHION."

"DURING RECENT DAYS, THE LONDON RADIO OFTEN STATED THAT IN NORTHERN IRAN A SEPARATIONISTS' UPRISING HAD BEGUN AND THAT BATTLES WERE OCCURRING WITH THE POLICE," IT SAID.

"IN THIS FASHION, ALL KINDS OF SLANDEROUS VERSIONS AND FICTIONS ARE SPREAD ABOUT RUSSIAN TRUCKS SUPPLYING THE POPULATION WITH 'RIFLES AND MACHINEGUNS.'"

IZVESTIA DID NOT MENTION WHAT PART WAS BEING PLAYED BY IRANIAN TROOPS, BUT CHARGED THAT LANDOWNERS HAD INSPIRED THE POLICE TO RISE AGAINST THE "DEMOCRATIC" GROUPS, AND ASSERTED THAT THE DISORDERS WERE NOT A SEPARATIONIST MOVEMENT.

HONOLULU, NOV.20-(AP)-THIS ONE-TIME PACIFIC PLAYGROUND, TURNED INTO AN ARMED CAMP AFTER PEARL HARBOR, HAS A POSTWAR HANGOVER WHICH IS STRAINING TEMPERS OF CIVILIANS AND SERVICE MEN TO THE POINT OF CREATING A MAJOR PROBLEM.

THE RECENT ERUPTION OF CLASHES, WHICH PROMPTED INTERIOR SECRETARY ICKES TO ASK THE NAVY TODAY FOR AN INVESTIGATION, IS SURFACE EVIDENCE OF A SOCIAL PROBLEM FAR DEEPER THAN ANY HOSTILE FEELINGS BETWEEN SO-CALLED NATIVE "GOOKS" AND SERVICE MEN.

THIS FRICTION HAS RECHED THE POINT WHERE UNFOUNDED RUMORS OF FIGHTS PUT THE ARMY AND NAVY MEN IN A MOOD TO CARRY A CHIP ON THEIR SHOULDER.

ONE OF THE FACTORS INVOLVED IS THE ISLANDS' JUVENILE DELINQUENCY SITUATION RESULTING FROM UPSETS IN NORMAL LIFE DUE TO THE WER.

AFTER THE JAPANESE ATTACK ON PEARL HARBOR, TROOPS AND NAVY PERSONNEL WERE RUSHED HERE BY TENS OF THOUSANDS. PLAYGROUNDS AND RECREATIONAL FACILITIES WERE TAKEN OVER BY THE ARMY AND NAVY. THE STREETS OF HONOLULU SWARMED WITH SERVICEMEN ON LEAVE, YOUTHS LOOKING FOR A LITTLE RELAXATION FROM THE GRIND OF DUTIES, BORDOM AND HOME-SICKNESS.

JAMES D.LIM, PRESIDENT OF THE KALOALOA SCHOOL PARENT-TEACHERS ASSOCIATION, DECLARED IN A LETTER TO A LOCAL NEWSPAPER THAT JUVENILE DELINQUENCY HAS BECOME "OUR NO.1 SOCIAL PROBLEM REQUIRING SPECIAL CONSIDERATION AND PROMPT ACTION."

"PROFANITY AND INSULTING REMARKS OF INTOXICATED SERVICE PEOPLE WHO CAME TO THE TERRITORY OF HAWAII ALONG WITH THE PEARL HARBOR INCIDENT HAS PERHAPS CONTRIBUTED MOST TO THE PROBLEMS SO PROMINENT IN THE NEWSPAPERS OF LATE," HE SAID.

DEMOBILIZATION WILL EASE THE SITUATION CONSIDERABLY, AND IN THE MEANTIME CIVIL AND MILITARY AUTHORITIES ARE WORKING TO HOLD DISTURBANCES TO A MINIMUM.

Jackson Presents Case Against Nazis

Cites Records To Prove Hitler Planned To War On U. S. As Early As October, 1940.

NOV 22 1945

By Daniel De Luce

NUERNBERG, Nov. 21. (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson asserted today that the 20 top-flight Nazis on trial before the international war crimes tribunal would be convicted by their own "Teutonic thoroughness" for recording everything from plans in 1940 to attack America to the smallest atrocities.

Innocent Pleas Entered

Jackson, presenting the United States' case against the men he described as "living symbols of racial hatred, of terrorism and violence, and of arrogance and cruelty," spoke after the defendants had entered pleas of innocence and their attorneys had sought unsuccessfully to quash the trial.

Except for the brief opening period, when the fallen Nazis faced the microphone one by one to deny their guilt and defense attorneys disputed the court's right to try the defendants, the entire second day of the historic trial was devoted to the 20,000-word statement of the U. S. prosecutor.

Jackson, wearing a black morning coat, cited Nazi records to show that Hitler made plans as early as October, 1940, for war against the United States, that Germany was instigating Japan to enter the war in March, 1941, and that the Nazis in January, 1939, had knowledge the Japanese were plotting the assassination of Stalin.

Four-hour Address

"The real complaining party at your bar is civilization," he declared, asking the tribunal in his masterly four-hour address to strengthen international law against the future menace of armed aggression by punishing the 20 German "mad men."

Jackson, frequently turning his gaze on the score of glum defendants, declared "this trial represents mankind's desperate effort to apply the discipline of the law to statesmen who have used their powers of state to attack the foundations of world's peace."

"Their refuge," he said, "can be only their hope that international law will lag so far behind the moral sense of mankind that conduct which is a crime in the moral sense must be regarded as innocent in law. We challenge that proposition."

Counsel for the defense earlier had declared that "the trial has no legal basis of international law, but is procedure based on new penal law, penal law which has been created only after the act.

"This is a contradiction of a legal principle which is cherished in the world," said the motion, which was denied by the presiding judge, British Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence.

Lays Bare Conspiracy

Jackson, laying bare the workings of the German conspiracy in which he said the accused "bathed the world in blood and set civilization back a century," quoted from document after document to show that the Nazis had violated nine international treaties.

These and other documents, he said, would be used to convict the defendants, rather than the introduction of witnesses which might "prolong the recitals of crime for years."

"We will not ask you to convict these men on the testimony of their foes," Jackson told the tribunal. "There is no count in the indictment that cannot be proved by books and records. x x x These defendants had their share of the Teutonic passion for thoroughness in putting things on paper."

The U. S. prosecutor then singled out the defendants by name and drew them into the horrid network of complicity. Some seemed to flinch, while others gazed at him with a stony glare. But all listened and pondered, even Rudolf Hess, whose blank expression vanished by the third hour of the speech and whose frivolous German novel "Der Loisl" went unread on his knee.

Nazis Copy Down Points

Like schoolboys, suddenly boning up for a stiff examination, the Nazi leaders grabbed pencils and paper to copy down the points Jackson made against them. Fat Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, in his gray Luftwaffe uniform, wrote almost frantically at times.

Jackson's office, meanwhile, disclosed that tomorrow's session would be taken up with the presentation of a great volume of secret German documents never before made public. Col. Robert Storey, one of the assistant U. S. prosecutors, will take the stand at the opening of the session to describe methods used in capturing and compiling the documentary evidence which will form the bulk of the prosecution's case.

Storey will be followed by two others of Jackson's staff, Ralph C. Albrecht, New York City attorney, and Maj. Frank Wallis of Boston, Mass., who will begin introducing a series of basic briefs summarizing the various aspects of the case against the prisoners.

It was announced tonight that Ernst Kaltenbrunner, former chief of the dread security police, who was unable to attend the opening of the trial because of a cranial hemorrhage, had "taken a turn for the worse" and is now considered "seriously ill." He is being tried in absentia, as is Martin Bormann, the missing onetime deputy Fuehrer.

Jackson Says Nazis Planned In 1940 To Attack U.S.

W. GALLAGHER

Nuernberg, Nov. 21 (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson presented the United States case against twenty fallen leaders of Germany today, accusing them of plotting war against America as early as 1940 and perpetrating widespread atrocities against Europe.

He cited Nazi records showing knowledge of a plot by the Japanese Ambassador to Berlin to kill Generalissimo Stalin in 1939.

The twenty defendants pleaded innocent in turn to the war-crimes indictment and then sat subdued and attentative while Jackson, sometimes sarcastic and sometimes scornful, disclosed the secret evidence the United States is presenting against them before the International Military Tribunal.

Talked All Day

He talked all day, except for the brief pleadings at the start and during a futile maneuver of defense lawyers to have the whole trial quashed. Court adjourned when Jackson finished his 20,000-word address.

Hermann Goering, the ranking defendant, scribbled frequent notes. His effort to speak at the time of his pleading was firmly refused by Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence, of Great Britain, presiding over the British-American-Russian-French court.

Rudolf Hess alone of the defendants appeared uninterested.

Own Records As Evidence

Jackson declared that the meticulously kept records of the Germans themselves would convict them rather than witnesses who could "prolong the recital of crime for years."

"We want to reach the planners and designers, the incitors and leaders, without whose evil architecture the world would not have been so long scourged with violence and lawlessness," Jackson declared.

"The real complaining party at your bar is civilization."

A German informant close to former Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop said that defendant had asked for former Prime Minister Winston Churchill and the British publishers, Lord Beaverbrook and Lord Hemsley, to appear for him as defense witnesses.

Reading from German records Justice Jackson said that German General Falkenstein wrote on October 29, 1940, that "the Führer is at present occupied with the question of occupation of Atlantic islands with a view to prosecution of the war against America at a later date."

Japan's Participation

In March, 1941, Jackson said, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command, issued a secret directive that "the Führer has ordered instigation of Japan's active participation in the war."

The pleas of innocence were entered in a hectic ten minutes with responses varying from the doglike bark of "No" from Hess, Hitler's onetime deputy, to a passionate reply of "Not guilty in the eyes of God" from Baldur von Schirach, Hitler youth chief.

The dramatic high point of the morning session was reached when Lord Justice Lawrence called the defendants forward, one by one, warning them to plead merely innocent or guilty and to refrain from speeches which, he said, they would be permitted to make later.

Goering Set For Speech

Despite the warning, Goering, stripped of his medals and insignia as German Reichsmarshal, lumbered to the microphone with a prepared speech in his hand and attempted to read it.

Justice Lawrence halted him. Then, with an angry grimace, Goering intoned:

"I declare myself in the sense of the indictment not guilty."

He waddled back to his seat.

Hess's barked "no" was officially recorded as "not guilty." The court has not yet ruled on Hess's sanity, but since he was permitted to plead it was assumed he would be tried with the rest.

Ribbentrop's Plea

The court called Ribbentrop, still shaky from his near-collapse yesterday.

"Not guilty," he announced.

Field Marshal Keitel: "Not guilty."

Nazi Philosopher Alfred Rosenberg: "I declare myself in the sense of the indictment not guilty."

When the roll of the accused Nazi leaders had been called and all the defendants had pleaded innocence, Justice Lawrence ruled that Ernst Kaltenbrunner, Nazi security chief, who was unable to appear because of a hemorrhage, would be tried in absentia.

Attorney's Contention

The court reconvened at 10.55 A.M. after a recess of fifteen minutes when the tribunal considered the contention of Alfred Thoma, counsel for Rosenberg, that he had been barred from consulting his client last night and consequently could not enter a plea.

Hess, apparently suffering from an attack of abdominal cramps, was led from the courtroom a short time after the defendants had entered their pleas, but returned six minutes later and sat down, his head bowed.

During the brief intermission before pleas were entered relatively few lawyers took advantage of the recess to talk to their clients, with only Goering, Rosenberg and Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz conferring with their counsel.

40 Minutes Early

The former war leaders filed into the court at 9.20 A.M., 40 minutes ahead of time, this morning.

Ribbentrop, still ailing from yesterday's illness, was red-eyed and lackadaisical from lack of sleep. But he smiled at quips exchanged by Goering and Keitel, who sat beside him.

Lord Justice Lawrence tightened the rules for trial procedure when he ruled that counsel cannot talk to defendants in court except by written note.

When Justice Jackson, dressed in a black morning coat, stepped to the center of the courtroom and began reading his 20,000-word statement, the Nazi defendants leaned forward and listened closely in marked contrast to their indifference of the proceedings yesterday.

Laughter From Frank

When Jackson solemnly stated that the Nazi leaders would be convicted by their own documents, Hans Frank, Hitler's ruler over conquered Poland, laughed aloud. There were no smiles from the others, however.

At Jackson's reference to the Reichstag fire, Goering leaned quickly forward.

The muscles in Julius Streicher's neck twitched and he stared at Jackson as the prosecutor accused him of a part in the Nazi plan to exterminate the Jews of Europe. Frank scowled at Jackson when he mentioned charges of his part in the anti-Semitic campaign.

Ribbentrop listened to the recital of crimes against the Jews with his eyes closed. Franz von Papen removed his earphones and gazed pensively at the ceiling.

"Gas Wagon" Executions

Frank shook his head negatively when Jackson spoke of executions in "gas wagons." Then the prosecutor held before the court an opened book containing an S.S. general's report on the destruction of the Warsaw ghetto.

Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, Goering and Hjalmar Schacht all made notations when Jackson declared he found no instance in which any defendant opposed the policy of destroying the Jews.

When Jackson charged that Ribbentrop had coldly ignored the "Vatican's earnest protest" against outrages against the Catholic Church, the former wine vendor turned sharply to Keitel as if to say something, thought better of it, then stared steadily at the rail in front of him. His sharp nose was white. He wet his lips continuously and passed his hand across his chin.

Dachau Visit Recommended

Jackson expressed the hope that the tribunal would visit the Dachau concentration camp, where 40 other Nazis are now on trial before a United States military court for war crimes.

He read an order to the German armed forces from Hitler telling the army to have suspects in occupied countries "disappear without a trace" as a punitive measure against unfriendly acts.

When he accused Arthur Seyss-Inquart of complicity in the betrayal of Austria, Jackson turned his gaze on the defendant. Seyss-Inquart, chin on hand, listened intently.

Plan To Invade England

Jackson told the court he had the German plan for invading England, which started with the words:

"Although the British military position is so hopeless, they show not the slightest sign of giving in."

These plans, he said, as well as others for invading Russia in violation of a nonaggression pact, bore the initials of Keitel and Jodl.

At the prosecutor's order, a large chart was placed before the court showing where the Nazis had violated treaties. The prisoners studied it with evident interest.

Inventory Of Art Loot

Jackson told of a 39-volume inventory of European art looted and sent to Germany and then said bitingly of Rosenberg:

"One cannot but admire the artistry of this Rosenberg."

Several of the defendants leaned forward and listened intently when Jackson declared that members of certain Nazi organizations would be tried if the court held those organizations to be criminal.

Justice Jackson asserted:

"They have subjected their European neighbors to every outrage and torture, every spoilation and deprivation that insolence, cruelty and greed could inflict.

"They have brought the German people to the lowest pitch of wretchedness, from which they can entertain no hope of early deliverance. They have incited domestic violence in every continent."

Civilization The Plaintiff

He said civilization, the real complaining party, "is still a struggling and imperfect thing."

"It does not plead that the United States or any other country has been blameless of the conditions which made the German people easy victims of the blandishments and intimidations of the Nazi conspirators.

"But it points to the dreadful sequence of aggressions and crimes I have recited—it points to the weariness of the flesh, the exhaustion of resources and the destruction of all that was beautiful or useful in so much of the world, and to greater potentialities for destruction in the days to come.

By Own Records

"We will not ask you to convict these men on the testimony of their foes. There is no count of the indictment that cannot be proved by books and records. These defendants had their share of the Teutonic passion for thoroughness in putting things on paper."

Emphasis will be on the common plan of conspiracy against peace and humanity, he declared.

"One of the dangers ever present is that this trial may be protracted by details of particular wrongs. We could, with witnesses' testimony, prolong the recitals of crime for years—but to what avail?"

U.S. Position

If the defendants should escape conviction by this tribunal those who are American-held prisoners will be delivered up to the United States' continental allies, Jackson said. He declared that among the nations the United States, having sustained the least injury, is perhaps in a position to be the most dispassionate.

"But while the United States is not first in rancor, it is not second in determination that the forces of law and order be made equal to the task of dealing with such international lawlessness."

Jackson asserted that Heinrich Himmler, Nazi leader, left a written record of a conversation with General Oshima, Japanese Ambassador at Berlin, on January 31, 1939. In that record Himmler wrote: "He (Oshima) had succeeded up to now in sending ten Russians with bombs across the Caucasian frontier. These Russians had the mission to kill Stalin. A number of additional Russians, whom he also had sent across, had been shot at the frontier."

"Twenty Broken Men"

Jackson said that in the prisoners' dock "sit twenty-odd broken men" whose "personal capacity for evil is forever past."

But, he declared, "these prisoners represent sinister influences that will lurk in the world long after their bodies have returned to dust. They are living symbols of racial hatreds, of terrorism and violence, and of arrogance and cruelty of power."

The defendants have so identified themselves with the philosophies they conceived and the forces they directed that "any tenderness to them is a victory and encouragement to all the evils which are attached to their names," he said.

The Nazis ignored the internationally agreed-upon rules of war, Jackson declared. For example he made the charge:

"On June 1, 1944, it was ordered that captured English and American airmen should no longer be granted the status of prisoners of war. They were to be treated as criminals and the army was ordered to refrain from protecting them against lynching by the populace.

Civilians Incited To Kill

"The Nazi Government took pains to incite the civilian population to attack and kill airmen who crash-landed. Similarly we will show Hitler's top secret order that commandos, regardless of condition, were to be killed to the last man after capture."

NOV 22 1945

NUERNBERG, Nov. 21 (AP).—Following is a partial text of Justice Robert H. Jackson's opening address before the international military tribunal:

The privilege of opening the first trial in history for crimes against the peace of the world imposes a grave responsibility. The wrongs which we seek to condemn and punish have been so calculated, so maglignant and so devastating that civilization cannot tolerate their being ignored because it cannot survive their being repeated. That four great nations, flushed with victary and stung with injury, stay the hand of vengeance and voluntarily submit their captive enemies to the judgment of the law is one of the most magnificent tributes that power ever has paid to reason. . . .

Asks Conviction

We will not ask you to convict these men on the testimony of their foes. There is no count of the indictment that cannot be proved by books and records. The Germans were always meticulous record keepers, and these defendants had their share of the Teutonic passion for thoroughness in putting things on paper. Nor were they without vanity. They arranged frequently to be photographed in action. We will show you their own films. You will see their own conduct and hear their own voices as these defendants re-enact for you, from the screen, some of the events in the course of the conspiracy.

We would also make clear that we have no purpose to incriminate the whole German people. We know that the Nazi party was not put in power by a majority of the German vote. We know it came to power by an evil alliance between the most extreme of the Nazi revolutionists, the most unrestrained of the German reactionaries, and the most aggressive of the German militarists. . . .

In general, our case will disclose these defendants all uniting at some time with the Nazi party in a plan which they well knew could be accomplished only by an outbreak of war in Europe. Their seizure of the German state, their subjugation of the German people, their terrorism and extermination of dissident elements, their planning and waging of war, their calculated and planned ruthlessness in the conduct of warfare, their deliberate and planned criminality toward conquered peoples—all these are ends for which they acted in concert. . . .

The case as presented by the United States will be concerned with the brains and authority back of all the crimes. These defendants were men of a station and rank which does not soil its own hands with blood. They were men who know how to use lesser folks as tools. We want to reach the planners and designers, the inciters and leaders without whose evil architecture the world would not have been for long scourged with the violence and lawlessness, and wracked with the agonies and convulsions of this terrible war.

The Nazi party from its inception . . . contemplated war. . . . .

Hits Party Program

The Nazi party declaration also committed its members to an anti-Semitic program. It declared that no Jew or any person of non-German blood could be a member of the nation. . . .

The party also avowed even in those early days an authoritarian and totalitarian program for Germany. . . . Its hostility to civil liberties and freedom of the press was distinctly announced in these words: "It must be forbidden to publish newspapers which do not conduce to the national welfare. We demand the legal prosecution of all tendencies in art or literature of a kind likely to disintegrate our life as a nation and the suppression of institutions which might militate against the above requirements."

The forecast of religious persecution was clothed in the language of religious liberty, for the Nazi program stated, "We demand liberty for all religious denominations in the state." But, it continues with the limitation, "so far as they are not a danger to it and do not militate against the morality and moral sense of the German race."

The party program foreshadowed the campaign of terrorism. It announced, "We demand ruthless war upon those whose activities are injurious to the common interests" and it demanded that such offenses be punished with death.

It is significant that the leaders of this party interpreted this program as a belligerent one certain to precipitate conflict. The party platform concluded, "The leaders of the party swear to proceed regardless of consequences—if necessary, at the sacrifice of their lives—toward the fulfillment of the foregoing points." It is this leadership corps of the party, not its entire membership, that stands accused as a criminal organization. . . .

The Nazi policy embraced ends always recognized as attainable only by a renewal and a more successful outcome of war. The conspirators' answer to Germany's problems was nothing less than to plot the regaining of territories lost in the first world war and the acquisition of other fertile lands of Central Europe by dispossessing or exterminating those who inhabited them. They also contemplated destroying or permanently weakening all other neighboring peoples so as to win virtual domination of Europe and thereby of the world. The precise limits of their ambition we need not define, for it was and is as illegal to wage aggressive war for small stakes as for large ones. . . .

Assails Terrorism

If aggressive warfare in violation of treaty obligation is a matter of international cognizance, the preparations for it must also be of concern to the international community. Terrorism was the chief instrument for securing the cohesion of the German people in war purposes. Moreover, these cruelties in Germany served as atrocity practice to discipline the membership of the criminal organizations to follow the pattern later in occupied countries. . . .

Germany became one vast torture chamber. Cries of its victims were heard round the world and brought shudders to civilized people everywhere. I am one who received during this war most atrocity tales with suspicion and skepticism. But the proof here will be . . . overwhelming. . . . These defendants will only deny personal responsibility or knowledge.

Under the clutch of the most intricate web of espionage and intrigue that any modern state has endured, and persecution and torture of a kind that has not been visited upon the world in many centuries, the elements of the German population which were both decent and courageous were annihilated. Those which were decent but weak were intimidated. . . .

I will not prolong this address by detailing the steps leading to the war of aggression which began with the invasion of Poland on Sept. 1, 1939. The further story will be unfolded to you from documents, including those of the German high command itself. The plans had been laid long in advance. . . .

On the 23d of May, 1939, the Fuehrer advised his staff that—

"It is a question of expanding our living space in the East and of securing our food supplies. . . . over and above the natural fertility, thoroughgoing German exploitation will enormously increase the surplus.

"There is, therefore, no question of sparing Poland, and we are left with the decision: to attack Poland at the first suitable opportunity.

"We cannot expect a repetition of the Czech affair. There will be war." . . .

The Nazi plans of aggression called for use of Asiatic allies and they found among the Japanese men of kindred mind and purpose. They were brothers under the skin. . . .

On 27th September, 1940, the Nazis concluded a German-Italian-Japanese ten-year military and economic alliance by which those powers agreed "to stand by and co-operate with one another in regard to their efforts in greater East Asia and regions of Europe, respectively, wherein it is their prime purpose to establish and maintain a new order of things." . . .

Planned War Against U. S.

The proofs in this case will also show that the leaders of Germany were planning war against the United States from its Atlantic as well as instigating it from its Pacific approaches. A captured memorandum from the Fuehrer's headquarters dated Oct. 29, 1940, signed by General Falkenstein, asks certain information as to air bases and supply and reports further that "the Fuehrer is at present occupied with the question of the occupation of the Atlantic islands with a view to the prosecution of war against America at a later date. Deliberations on this subject are being embarked upon here." . . .

Even the most warlike of peoples have recognized in the name of humanity some limitations on the savagery of warfare. Rules to that end have been embodied in international conventions to which Germany became a party. This code had prescribed certain restraints as to the treatment of belligerents. The enemy was entitled to surrender and to receive quarter and good treatment as a prisoner of war. We will show by German documents that these rights were denied, that prisoners of war were given brutal treatment and often murdered. This was particularly true in the case of captured airmen, often my countrymen. . . .

Civilized usage and conventions to which Germany was a party had prescribed certain immunities for civilian populations unfortunate enough to dwell in lands overrun by hostile armies. The German occupation forces, controlled or commanded by men on trial before you, committed a long series of outrages against the inhabitants of occupied territory that would be incredible except for captured orders and reports showing the fidelity with which these orders were executed. . . .

To Germanize or to destroy was the program. As Himmler announced, "either we win over any good blood that we can use for ourselves and give it a place in our people or, gentlemen—you may call this cruel, but nature is cruel—we destroy this blood." . . .

Perhaps the deportation to slave labor was the most horrible and extensive slaving operation in history. On few other subjects is our evidence so abundant or so damaging. . . .

The treatment of these slave laborers was stated in general terms, not difficult to translate into concrete deprivations, in a letter to the defendant Rosenberg from the defendant Sauckel, which stated:

"All the men (prisoners of war and foreign civilian workers) must be fed, sheltered and treated in such a way as to exploit them to the highest possible extent at the lowest conceivable degree of expenditure."

In pursuance of the Nazi plan permanently to reduce the living standards of their neighbors and to weaken them physically and economically, a long series of crimes were committed. There was extensive destruction, serving no military purpose. . . .

There was carefully planned economic syphoning off of the assets of occupied countries. . . .

Germans Organized Looting

We will show you that looting was not due to the lack of discipline or to the ordinary weaknesses of human nature. The German organized plundering, planned it, disciplined it, and made it official just as he organized everything else, and then he compiled the most meticulous records to show that he had done the best job of looting that was possible under the circumstances. And we have those records.

We have here the surviving top politicians, militarists, financiers, diplomats, administrators, and propagandists of the Nazi movement. Who was responsible for these crimes if they were not?

The end of the war and capture of these prisoners presented the victorious Allies with the question whether there is any legal responsibility on high-ranking men for acts which I have described. Must such wrongs either be ignored or redressed in hot blood? Is there no standard in the law for a deliberate and reasoned judgment on such conduct?

The charter of this tribunal evidences a faith that the law is not only to govern the conduct of little men, but that even rulers are, as Lord Chief Justice Coke put it to King James, "under God and the law."

I cannot, of course, deny that these men are surprised that this is the law; they really are surprised that there is any such thing as law. These defendants did not rely on any law at all. Their program ignored and defied all law. . . .

These men cannot bring themselves within the reason of the rule which in some systems of jurisprudence prohibits ex post facto laws. They cannot show that they ever relied upon international law in any state or paid it the slightest regard. . . .

It will appear that the defendants Keitel and Jodl were informed by official legal advisors that the orders to brand Russian prisoners of war, to shackle British prisoners of war and to execute commando prisoners were clear violations of international law. Nevertheless, these orders were put into effect. . . .

The fourth count of the indictment is based on crimes against humanity. Chief among these are mass killings of countless human beings in cold blood. Does it take these men by surprise that murder is treated as a crime? . . .

The eighth assembly of the League of Nations in 1927, on unanimous resolution of the representatives of forty-eight member nations, including Germany, declared that a war of aggression constitutes an international crime. At the sixth Pan-American Conference of 1928 the twenty-one American republics unanimously adopted a resolution stating that "war of aggression constitutes an international crime against the human species." . . .

Inherently criminal acts cannot be defended by showing that those who committed them were engaged in a war, when war itself is illegal. . . .

We are not inquiring into the conditions which contributed to causing this war. They are for history to unravel. It is no part of our task to vindicate the European status quo as of 1933, or as of any other date. The United States does not desire to enter into discussion of the complicated pre-war currents of European politics, and it hopes this trial will not be protracted by their consideration. . . .

It is only the plot and the act of aggression which we charge to be crimes.

The idea that a state, any more than a corporation, commits crimes is a fiction. Crimes always are committed only by persons. While it is quite proper to employ the fiction of responsibility of a state or corporation for the purpose of imposing a collective liability, it is quite intolerable to let such a legalism become the basis of personal immunity.

The charter recognizes that one who has committed criminal acts may not take refuge in superior orders nor in the doctrine that his crimes were acts of state. These twin principles working together have heretofore resulted in immunity for practically every one concerned in the really great crimes against peace and mankind. Those in the lower ranks were protected against liability by the orders of their superiors. The superiors were protected because their orders were called acts of state. Under the charter, no defense based on either of these doctrines can be entertained. Modern civilization puts unlimited weapons of destruction in the hands of men. It cannot tolerate so vast an area of legal irresponsibility. . . .

A conscripted private or an enlisted man on a firing squad cannot expect to hold an inquest on the validity of the execution. . . . But none of these men before you acted in minor parts. Each of them was entrusted with broad discretion and exercised great power. Their responsibility is correspondingly great and may not be shifted to that fictional being, "the state" which cannot be produced for trial, cannot plead, cannot testify and cannot be sentenced. . . .

Accused before this tribunal as criminal organizations are certain political and police organizations which the evidence will show to have been instruments of cohesion in planning and executing the crimes I have detailed.

Case Against General Staff

We have also accused as criminal organizations the high command and the general staff of the German armed forces. We recognize that to plan warfare is the business of professional soldiers in every country. But it is one thing to plan strategic moves in the event war comes, and it is another thing to plot and intrigue to bring on that war. We will prove the leaders of the German general staff and of the high command to have been guilty of just that. . . . politicians may have thought of them as soldiers, but soldiers know they were politicians. We ask that the general staff and the high command, as defined in the indictment, be condemned as a criminal group whose existence and tradition constitute a standing menace to the peace of the world. . . .

Among the nations which unite in accusing these defendants the United States is perhaps in a position to be the most dispassionate, for having sustained the least injury, it is perhaps the least animated by vengeance. . . . But while the United States is not first in rancor, it is not second in determination that the forces of law and order be made equal to the task of dealing with such international lawlessness as I have recited here. . . . The American dream of a peace and plenty economy, as well as the hopes of other nations, can never be fulfilled if those nations are involved in a war every generation so vast and devastating as to crush the generation that fights and burden the generation that follows. But experience has shown that wars are no longer local. All modern wars become world wars eventually. And none of the big nations at least can stay out. . . .

Personal punishment, to be suffered only in the event the war is lost, will probably not be a sufficient deterrent to prevent a war where the war makers feel the chances of defeat to be negligible.

But the ultimate step in avoiding periodic wars, which are inevitable in a system of international lawlessness, is to make statesmen responsible to law. And let me make it clear that while this law is first applied against German aggressors, the law includes, and if it is to serve a useful purpose it must condemn aggression by any other nation, including those which now sit here in judgment. . . .

No charity can disguise the fact that the forces which these defendants represent, the forces that would advantage and delight in their acquittal, are the darkest and most sinister forces in society—dictatorship and oppression, malevolence and passion, militarism and lawlessness. . . . These are the things that stand in the dock shoulder to shoulder with these prisoners.

The real complaining party at your bar is civilization. . . .

Nazi Defendants' Motion Denied

Nuernberg, Nov. 21 (AP)—Germany's faded erstwhile rulers, who bathed a continent in blood in a ruthless quest for power, lost out today in an initial move to save their necks when the court denied a motion on behalf of nineteen of the twenty defendants that the international tribunal lacked the authority to try accused war criminals.

The court had reconvened at 10.07 A.M. for the second day of the trials, and recessed briefly eleven minutes later, after one of the German attorneys asked if the pleas of the defendants could be presented in more breadth than a mere "guilty or not guilty."

The motion challenging the validity of the proceedings asked that the tribunal "secure from internationally recognized experts on international law an opinion about the legal basis for the trial." It was received by the court prior to the opening of the session at which the defendants entered their pleas.

Promptly Denied

Lord Justice Geoffrey Lawrence, presiding, promptly denied the motion.

The motion challenging the validity of the trial was filed by German counsel representing all the accused Nazis except Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht, former Reichsbank president.

The attorneys contended that the trial violated the "generally recognized principle of modern criminal procedure," because the Allied powers have made themselves "everything in one: creator of the charter of the penal law, prosecutor and judge."

"That this ought not to be used to be a general legal opinion," the motion said. "The United States of America have always emphasized when international arbitration and jurisdiction was established that the bench should be filled by neutrals or together with representatives of all parties involved.

Hague Court Cited

"In the permanent International Court in The Hague this idea has been realized in a manner which may serve as an example."

It seemed apparent that the twenty Hitler henchmen facing the court would make a tenacious fight to escape the fate of common criminals.

The most spirited defenses were expected to come from Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, from Schacht, and from Franz von Papen, erstwhile "gray fox" of Nazi diplomacy.

Churchill Keeps Role In Commons

London, Nov. 21 (AP)—Former Prime Minister Winston Churchill was reported tonight to have reasserted his right as opposition spokesman in the Commons during a heated 90-minute private session of members of his Conservative party.

Newsmen learned after the session that youthful Conservatives had charged the Churchill old guard with lackadaisical and unplanned maneuvers against the Laborite Government, and in turn had urged a hammer-and-tongs campaign.

Churchill was understood to have argued it would have been bad policy to have opened an immediate attack on the new Government because public sentiment favored giving the Labor Government a "fair chance."

He explained that next Wednesday he would address the Conservative Central Council in London and he implied he would make a fighting speech initiating an all-out offensive against the Government.

BRITISH JET PLANE AND FLYER VANISH

NOV 22 1945

London, Nov. 21 (A. P.).—The Air Ministry announced today that a jet-powered Gloster Meteor Mark III plane and an R. A. F. officer recently suspended "from a conversion course to meteor aircraft" were missing from the R. A. F. airdrome at Molesworth, Huntingdonshire.

The plane, of a type which recently set a world's speed record of 606 miles an hour, "was flown away from the R. A. F. station at 0058 hours (12:58 A. M.) November 20, by an unauthorized person," the Air Ministry said, adding:

"The aircraft took off without the aid of airfield lighting and flew away in a southwesterly direction. The amount of fuel would permit only one hour's flight. An official inquiry into the circumstances is taking place."

The R. A. F. flyer mentioned as also missing was not identified by name. The fuel in the plane would take it about 500 miles. This could be to the tip of Norway, to Denmark, France, Germany, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Ireland or Scotland, but officials said no landing in any of these places had been reported.

Tyler Kent Is U.S.-Bound

London, Nov. 21 (AP)—Tyler Kent, former United States Embassy clerk whom the British imprisoned on charges of revealing contents of coded messages, sailed today for the United States, the embassy announced.

Kent was sentenced to a seven-year term on conviction of violating the British Official Secrets Act. With time off for good behavior, his sentence expired last October 5.

He sailed aboard the British vessel Silver Oak and is due to reach New York about December 1. British officials accompanied him to the London docks, where the departure was twice delayed by the dock strike and because of bad weather.

On October 26, Representative Hoffman (R., Mich.) said Kent's mother had telephoned him saying her son had written that his return to the United States had been postponed indefinitely. Hoffman at the time said Kent wrote that he had been taken to England from the Isle of Wight and was being held in prison awaiting deportation.

Russia Seeking Ten U-Boats

Londonderry, North Ireland, Nov. 21 (AP)—A party of Soviet naval officers has arrived in Londonderry with the announced intention of taking over for Russia 10 of the 60 German submarines lying here.

Commander Morosoff, head of the mission, and Capt. George Shedrin, one of the nine officers accompanying him, disclosed the purpose of their trip, speaking through Royal Navy interpreters who met them at the naval base. They declined to make any further statement.

Communique Expected

In London, however, a Foreign Office spokesman said President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee and Generalissimo Stalin agreed at Potsdam to divide a small number of German submarines among the Big Three "for experimental purposes."

The spokesman said Russia, the United States and Britain each were to get "about a dozen" U-boats.

A three-power naval commission has been meeting in Berlin to settle details of the allocation of the German Navy. The Foreign Office said a joint communiqué could be expected soon from Washington, London and Moscow.

FRANCE GIVEN NEW CABINET

President De Gaulle Creates New Post For Communists

Wilson

Paris, Nov. 21 (AP)—President de Gaulle, ending a nine-day Cabinet crisis, today announced formation of a coalition government in which all France's armed forces are unified under his single command.

NIGHT

De Gaulle created a new Cabinet post for Communists—the Ministry of Armaments. De Gaulle himself, however, as president and as chief of the armies, "assumed direction of the national defense."

The announcement said de Gaulle "will be assisted" in direction of national defense by Communist Charles Tillon, former Air Minister, now appointed Minister of Armaments, and by Armand Michelet, of the Popular Republican Movement (MRP), as Minister of the Armies.

Three Old Posts Abolished

The old posts of Ministers of Air, Navy and Army are abolished.

De Gaulle, who threatened to resign because of demands by the dominant Communist party for either the War, Interior or Foreign Affairs ministries, explained that the role he envisions for France—that of intermediary between the United States and Soviet Russia—prevented him from acceding to the party's demands.

The new "coalition" setup was achieved by giving the three major parties—the Communists, Socialists and MRP—equal shares of the 21 portfolios. Little doubt was seen that the Constituent Assembly would give the Government a vote of confidence on Friday.

Twelve members of de Gaulle's former provisional government remain, including Georges Bidault, Foreign Affairs Minister. A newcomer to a cabinet post is Andre Malraux, novelist, who becomes Minister of Information.

Other Cabinet Members

The new Government includes four ministers of state without portfolio, Vincent Auriol, Socialist; Francisque Gay, MRP; Louis Jacquinot, Rightist, and Maurice Thorez, Communist.

Other cabinet members are:

Minister of Justice, Pierre-Henri Teitgen, MRP; Interior, Andrien Tixier, Socialist; National Economy, Francois Billoux, Communist; Finance, Rene Pleven, Independent; Industrial Production, Marcel Paul, Communist; Agriculture and Food, Pierre Tanguy-Prigent, Socialist; Public Works and Transport, Jules Moch, Socialist.

Labor, Ambroise Croizat, Communist; National Education, Paul Giacobi, Rightist Resistance; Post, Telegraph and Telephones, Eugene Thomas, Socialist; Population, Robert Prigent, MRP; National Reconstruction, Raoul Dautry, Social and Democratic Union of the Resistance (USDR); Colonies, Jacques Soustelle, USDR.

NEW CABINET IS RECRUITED BY DE GAULLE

Communists Get Five Posts Including the Ministry of Armaments.

CRISIS SEEN AS RESOLVED

President Will Present Coalition Selection to Constituent Assembly Friday.

Paris, Nov. 21 (A. P.).—Gen. De Gaulle's chief of cabinet said today that the President had formed a coalition government giving the Communists five portfolios, including a newly created ministry of armaments.

PAY

Gaston Palewski, who read off the list, said De Gaulle would present it to the constituent assembly on Friday. This was expected to resolve the crisis which arose when the Communists, with the largest representation of any party in the assembly, demanded one of three major cabinet posts—interior, war or foreign affairs.

The new government includes four Ministers of State without portfolios. These are Socialist Vincent Auriol, M. R. P. Francisque Gay, Rightest Louis Jacquinot and Communist Maurice Thorex, Secretary-General of the party.

Bidault Retains Post.

Four other Communists were named. Charles Tillon became Minister of Armaments; Francois Billoux, National Economy; Marcel Paul, Industrial Production, and Ambroise Croizat, Labor.

George Bidault of the Popular Republican Party (MRP) was retained as Foreign Minister.

Andre Malraux widely kiown writer often considered to have communist sympathies but officially listed as an independent, became Minister of Information.

De Gaulle retained the presidency and with it the function of chief of the French armies as head of the National Defense Ministry, under which Tillon and the MRP Minister of the Armies, Armanm Michelet, will serve.

The Socialists and the MRP parties, like the Communists, each received five Cabinet posts.

G. I. Students in Florence Protest Rankin Remarks

Assail Speech Upholding 'White Majority' in U. S.

ROME, Nov. 21 (AP).—The student council of the American Army's University Training Center at Florence criticized Representative John L. Rankin, Democrat, of Mississippi, today for remarks it attributed to him concerning "white government" and "the white majority" in the United States.

In a letter written for today's Mediterranean edition of "The Stars and Stripes," the student council—composed of white, Negro and Nisei soldiers—declared, "there is enough dynamite in thirty-five words that Representative Rankin uttered to make us stop and think just what did we fight for." The letter added:

"The words we are referring to are, 'We are not attempting to smear any one but we are trying to keep the flag flying over a white government. It is about time all those minorities stopped attacking the white majority in this country.'

"Those words, uttered by a member of Congress right after America and her allies have won a war which we were told by the Federal government, O. W. I. and the Army was to bring the four freedoms to enslaved peoples, are rather ironical.

"We ask you, 'Representative Rankin, did our buddies die in vain? Will America become a place on the earth where all men, regardless of race, color or creed can work together as peaceful, law-abiding citizens, or will you and your kind win out over the teaching of all religions, morals, ethics and all that is decent?"

Pope Sends Blessing To American People

The Pope praised Americans for "what they already have done and will continue to do to help the suffering people of the world, and especially those in Italy."

Muzzicato said the Pope, in his opinion as a doctor, was "not looking well . . . working too hard."

Greek Cabinet Sworn In After Regent Remains

Athens, Thursday, Nov. 22 (AP)—Archbishop Damaskinos resigned last night as Greek Regent but he was persuaded to reconsider and a new Cabinet headed by Themistokles Sophoulis was sworn in early today by the archbishop.

With political tension rising, Sir Ronald Scobie, British commander in Athens, was said to have banned all public gatherings and confined British troops to their barracks.

Sophoulis, Liberal leader, was ordered by Damaskinos Tuesday to form a new government following the resignation of Premier Panayotis Kanellopoulos.

Hector MacNeil, British Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, was quoted by former Premier Emmanuel Tsouderos, as saying he would assure the Greek people that the Allies would recognize the Sophoulis regime.

GREEK LIBERAL SEEKS CABINET

Athens, Nov. 21 (A. P.).—Themistokles Sophoulis, liberal leader, sought today to form, a new Greek Cabinet which would satisfy British conditions for financial help to the struggling nation.

The Populist party, supporters of King George, whose return to the Greek throne is one of the most hotly disputed issues, revealed indirectly the contents of a British note understood to demand a pledge of early elections, postponement of the plebiscite on whether King George would resume his throne, and formation of a board coalition cabinet as conditions for British financial aid.

In London the British Foreign Office denied last Tuesday knowledge of any such note, but said it assured that Hector MacNeill, British envoy recently dispatched to Athens, was speaking for the British Government.

Russia's Bounty Increases Birth Rate by a Third

1944 Decree Pays $75 to Mother of 3, $950 and $56 a Month for All Over 10

MOSCOW, Nov. 21 (AP).—Soviet Russia's birth rate, which before the war was one of the highest in the world, has increased more than one-third as a result of a 1944 decree giving cash awards to mothers of three or more children, it was announced today.

The Commissariat of Public Health withheld actual figures, but announced that during the first nine months of this year the Soviet birth rate jumped 35.3 per cent over the same period last year.

Last recorded figures list Russia's 1935-'39 birth rate as 44.1 for each 1,000 population, compared with 17.1 for the United States during the same period. Russia's last census, in 1939, disclosed a total population of 183,736,286.

Assistant Commissar M. D. Kovrigina attributed the increase to the Supreme Soviet decree awarding payments ranging from 400 rubles (nominally about $75) to the mother of three children, to 5,000 rubles (nominally about $950) and 300 rubles (about $56) monthly for each child in excess of ten.

French Population Drops

The latest figure of 40,300,000 for the population of France "shows a drop of nearly 1,250,000 since the war began six years ago," the British radio reported yesterday, quoting its Paris correspondent.

"France's population was already declining before the war because of the lower birth rate," the broadcast said. "Added to this there is now a serious increase in infant mortality, and if this continues alongside the low birth rate, France's position as a world power will be gravely affected."

The Columbia Broadcasting System recorded the British broadcast.

Iran Tension Mounts As Soviets Set Up Blockade

NOV 22 1945

TEHRAN, Nov. 21. (AP)—An Iranian military spokesman tonight declared that "approximately 6,000 Russian troops have been moved toward Karaj," 25 miles northwest of Tehran, and asserted "tension is growing" in troubled Northwest Iran.

NIGHT

Soviet Orders Ignored

Karaj is on the highway between this capital and Kazvin, 80 miles to the northwest, where Russian troops yesterday halted Iranian reinforcements sent to put down disorders in Azerbaijan, the mountainous, Russian - occupied Iranian province bordering the Soviet Union. The commander of the four Iranian battalions halted, but ignored Soviet orders to return to Tehran.

The military spokesman did not amplify his statement that 6,000 Russians had moved toward Karaj.

Iranian diplomatic and military representatives were reported seeking to break the impasse with the Russians through conferences.

Iranian Premier Hakimi declared at a special session of Parliament that his government "requests competent and friendly authorities and nations, Allies and signatories to the Tripartite treaty, which still have resident forces in Tehran, not to intervene in matters of internal affairs of our country."

Iran wants these nations to "respect the liberty of action of the Imperial forces as well as the Imperial government's liberty of action in accomplishment of their duties to safeguard Iran's security," he said.

Agreement Signed in 1942

The Tripartite agreement, signed in 1942 by Iran, Britain, and Russia, gave assurances that Russian and British troops would be withdrawn from Iran after the war.

(In Commons tonight British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said British troops were continuing to be withdrawn from Iran, and stated that presence of Russian troops was a "complicating factor" in the Iranian government attempts to deal with outbreaks in Azerbaijan.

("I understand a political group in the province of Azerbaijan x x x which has been carrying on an agitation for autonomy, has resorted to violence against the Persian (Iranian) government," Bevin said. "In dealing with outbreaks of disorders in the past, the Persian government have been handicapped by inability to move their troops there freely, as the presence of Soviet forces in these provinces introduces a complicating factor."

Radio Silent

Military sources said the radio at Tabriz, provincial capital of Azerbaijan, had been silent since yesterday morning.

Tehran newspapers said a member of the Iranian general staff had arrived at Kazvin to consult the Russion commander there on the halting of the Iranian reinforcements.

Premier Hakimi was scheduled to meet Soviet Charge D'Affaires Jukubov tonight to discuss the mater. The Iranian commissioner for foreign affairs appointed a three-man mission, headed by former premier Ghavam Seltaneh, to confer with Russian authorities in Moscow.

The military spokesman said that "when the four battalions of Iranian troops enroute to Azerbaijan passed the town of Karaj and were approaching the village of Sharifabad, seven miles from the Russian headquarters towns of Kazvin, a jeep appeared with one Russian officer and four men armed with machineguns.

"The officer's interpreter ordered the commanding Iranian officer to halt and return immediately to Tehran, otherwise he would be obliged to use the machineguns.

"The Iranian officer agreed to halt but declared he was not returning to Tehran, and was awaiting orders from the Iran government at Sharifabad."

Tehran headquarters today ordered the Iranian columns at Sharifabad to remain there until a decision has been reached in Soviet-Iran discussions, the spokesman said.

Two Possibilities Seen

The force, made up of two battalions of infantry, one motorized battalion and one battalion of gendarmes, was bivouacked in open country, about 7 miles from the Russian barracks in Kazvin. The men were described as huddled in trucks, without adequate supplies, and suffering from cold.

[A Tass correspondent said two leaders of the Iranian Democratic party had been arrested, allegedly for subversive activities, and that Iranian Army and police officials, along with the Internal Affairs Ministry, had commanded Tabriz officials to "establish order by any means," a Moscow broadcast said.

[In Moscow, informed quarters said, discord in Azerbaijan province may lead to one of two developments: either a demand on the part of Iranian Azerbaijans for autonomy within the Iranian state, or to a possible postponement by the Red Army to withdraw from northern Iran by next March.]

Fresh Central Java Fighting Breaks Out

British Gurkhas Rescue Endangered Women And Children—Indonesians Fire Ambarawa Camp—RAF Ready For Action.

By Ralph Morton

NOV 22 1945

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 21. (AP)—Fighting broke out in Ambarawa in Central Java today after Indonesians attacked a civilian internment camp, and British Gurkha troops in a forced overnight march rescued thousands of women and children endangered by the new eruption of battle.

Negotiations May Be Cancelled

The new disorders flared amid reports that Indonesian leaders [illegible] talks scheduled tomorrow with the Dutch and British in efforts to end fighting which has caused an estimated 6,000 nationalists casualties at Soerabaja alone.

NIGHT

Indonesians attacked the Ambarawa camp with mortar and machinegun fire, setting it aflame, dispatches said. The Gurkhas marched from Semarang, scene of bitter fighting yesterday, to protect thousands of terrified internees who had been evacuated to Ambarawa from Semarang and other trouble spots.

British planes flew over the town, and the RAF was reported ready for battle action, or to fly in supplies if needed.

In Batavia, Amir Sjarifuddin, information minister of the unrecognized Indonesian Republic, announced that Dr. Mohammad Roem, chairman of the Indonesian national committee in Batavia, had been shot and badly wounded by Dutch Amboinese troops.

Cabinet Meeting Called

The Dutch news agency Aneta said Premier Sutan Sjahrir had called a special cabinet meeting after the shooting, and said it was indicated the meeting of Indonesians, British and Dutch, scheduled for tomorrow, would be cancelled.

Sjarifuddin was quoted by Aneta as saying the cabinet meeting was called to consider the increasing difficulties faced by the Indonesian government attempting to work "in the present atmosphere."

Earlier, the Allied command had ordered all Dutch native troops withdrawn from Batavia as a result of serious outbreaks of disorders in the capital Monday and yesterday. The order was issued after Indonesian officials charged the Amboinese troops with deliberate attacks on Indonesians.

Smoke billowed over Koenigsplein, Batavia's central square, this morning from a fire in the native quarter, but the British did not state who started the blaze.

Meanwhile, associated press correspondent Vern Haugland reported the situation in Soerabaja had quieted to some extent after 12 days of fighting which a British source estimated cost the Indonesians 6,000 casualties.

Two British Mosquito bombers again dropped 500-pound bombs on Indonesian gun positions yesterday near Tambaksarioso village, 2 miles west of the Soerabaja Airfield. The RAF also strafed these positions.

Barrage Lasts 2 Hours

Two Indian soldiers were killed by snipers during the night. The only other activity reported was a British artillery barrage against Indonesian positions, lasting about two hours.

Aneta said the situation at Semarang was quiet after the British ground and air offensive yesterday, adding that British patrols were steadily cleaning up isolated spots of resistance in the town.

The RAF said that two companies of Indian troops were flown to Semarang from Soerabaja by a hurriedly assembled fleet of Dakota transports.

Command in the wake of what an Allied communique called "serious outbreaks of disorder" in the Java capital during the past several days.

There was no immediate amplification of the order, which apparently affected Amboinese troops. These troops have been employed by the Dutch to guard the Governor's palace, Dutch barracks and other Dutch property. They have been riding about in trucks and pointing tommyguns at crowds in defiance of British protests.

Nationalists' Claims

The Indonesian Nationalists claimed the Amboinese were guilty of indiscriminate shooting, and charged the native Dutch troops had set fire to numerous Indonesian compounds.

Meanwhile, a comparative lull settled over embattled Soerabaja. A dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haugland said, however, that the British threw a fairly strong artillery barrage at Indonesian positions south of the city for several hours last night.

Two RAF Mosquito fighterbombers dropped one 500-pound bomb each on Indonesian Extremists' gun positions several miles west of the Soerabaja airport last night, the dispatch said, and RAF planes strafed the positions.

No Late Reports

There were no late reports from Semarang in central Java, where RAF Thunderbolts yesterday blasted Nationalist positions with 500-pound bombs. At last reports the Indian forces of the British were advancing against "little resistance."

A dispatch from Soerabaja quoted British sources as saying Indoesian casualties there since the beginning of the battle for the city totalled possibly 6,000.

Java Intervention Assailed

SAN FRANCISCO, ov. 21 (AP)—The Netherlands and British consulates were picketed here today by a group of protesting action of those nations in the Indoensian struggle for independence in Java.

Co-sponsors of the picket line were the San Francisco Indonesian Committee for a Free Indonesia and the San Francisco Congress of Industrial Organizations Council. Members o fthe United Office and Professional Workers, National Maritime Union, Marine Cooks and Stewards and the Communist Political Association of San Francisco were among those participating.

Chiang's Soldiers Near Hingcheng

Chungking, Nov. 21 (AP)—Nationalist troops who broke into Manchuria through the Great Wall were reported by the army newspaper Ho Ping Pao today to be approaching Hingcheng on the Pieping-Mukden railroad some 60 miles northeast of Shanhaikwan.

DAY

The Nationalists encountered little or no resistance, the report indicated, as their present position is 25 miles northeast of yesterday's.

The newspaper predicted the Communist-held port of Hulutao, 17 miles northeast of Hingcheng, would be captured in a few days. It said the area between the eastern end of the Great Wall and Funing, about 25 miles westward, had been cleared by the Government forces.

Honan Battle Likely

Communist sources in Chungking, meanwhile, drew attention to what they described as a "serious situation" in central China, where more than 100,000 Government troops were purportedly massing. The insurgent spokesman asserted large-scale fighting is expected soon in central Honan and northern Hupeh provinces, where fourteen Government divisions are strung along a 110-mile front, facing the Communist 8th Route Army and the new 4th Army, which recently joined forces.

The Government advance already has wrested a number of towns from the Communists, including Wuyang, in southern Honan, and Siuwu and Wuchief in northern Honan.

Russ Talks Continue

Negotiations for entry of Chinese Nationalist troops into Manchuria still are in progress with Russia, a Foreign Office spokesman declared.

He declined to answer questions on any negotiations on this subject were necessary in view of the fact Russia, under the Sino-Soviet treaty, affirmed respect for China's full sovereignty over Manchuria and recognized her territorial and administrative integrity.

Wedemeyer In Chungking

Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of United States forces in China, arrived in Chungking today from Shanghai and is expected to be a dinner guest of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek tonight.

A Communist spokesman countered Wedemeyer's recent assertion only 30 per cent of the Japanese troops in North China were under arms with the charge that more than 94 per cent still kept their weapons.

Americans Fail to Arrive: Chiang Dinner Canceled

Plane for Chungking Held by Weather at Peiping

CHUNGKING, Nov. 22 (Thursday) (AP).—Failure of Under Secretary of the Navy Artemus L. Gates and his party to arrive yesterday for a scheduled dinner with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was due to bad weather which kept their plane grounded at Peiping, the American naval attache's office here said today. The plane is expected about noon (midnight Wednesday, Eastern standard time).

DAY NIGHT

Chiang's dinner was canceled after many notables had waited five hours at the airport.

Expected to arrive with Gates are Vice-Admiral Daniel E. Barbey, commander of the 7th Fleet; Edwin W. Pauley, President Truman's representative on the Allied Reparations Commission; Major General Henry L. Larsen, of the Marine Corps, and Rear Admiral John J. Ballentine, deputy commande of the Pacific Fleet Air Force.

U.S. Notables Fail To Reach Chungking

Chungking, Nov. 21 (AP)—Welcoming dignitaries waited in vain at the airdrome for expected arrival from Peiping of United States Under Secretary of the Navy Artemus Gates and other American notables who were to attend a dinner tonight by Generalissimo and Madame Chiang Kai-shek.

It was not known whether the plane took on from Peiping or, if it did, what might have caused its nonarrival.

Scheduled to be aboard with Gates were Vice Admiral Daniel Barbey, commander of the United States 7th Fleet; Edwin Pauley, President Truman's representative to the Allied Reparations Commission; Maj. Gen. Henry L. Larsen, of the Marine Corps, and Rear Admiral John J. Ballentine, deputy commander of the Pacific Fleet Air Force.

Another plane bearing Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer arrived safely from Shanghai.

Reds Expert Big Attacks

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 21 (AP)—Communists said today that the government had massed 12,000 troops and heavy guns at Nankow, the historic invasion, gateway for the Mongol hordes in past centuries, for a drive into Inner Mongolia. Communist quarters also alleged that two American planes strafed three locomotives on the Suiyuan-Peiping railroad on Nov. 7. The planes came from the direction of Paotow, in Suiyuan Province, the Reds asserted.

CHIANG-RUSS RIFT REPORTED

DAVIS

Officials Say Demands Broke Manchuria Negotiations

Peiping, Nov. 20 [AP—Delayed]. It was reported authoritatively today that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek ordered his administrators home from Manchuria because of a breakdown in negotiations with Russia.

Members of the nationalist delegation, which was sent to Manchuria's capital of Changchun after Japan's surrender to take over the administration, said on their arrival by plane here they had been held almost incommunicado.

The group included the chairmen of the nine provinces of Manchuria, the Chungking-designated mayors of the port of Dairen and the city of Harbin, special commissioners and chairmen of the Central Government's military council with their field headquarters staffs.

Two Remain Behind

Two members of the delegation were missing when the group left Changchun Saturday for Peiping. Their names and the reasons why they stayed behind were not revealed.

Members of the delegation, who would not be quoted by name, said the Russian authorities in Changchun had presented "a score of demands" to Gen. Hsiung Shih-hui, representing the Generalissimo, who took them to Chungking in person.

The nature of the conditions which Russia reportedly set up to be met before national troops would be allowed to enter Manchuria by sea or air were not disclosed.

Called Harder Than Japan's

Delegation members described them, however, as "more harsh than the 21 demands made by Japan in China in 1915."

[In 1915 Japan made demands that would have undermined China's sovereignty.]

One provincial chairman asserted the principal reason for the withdrawal of Nationalist officials and personnel was "due to an inability to promote any acceptable work at all in Manchuria."

Nationalists Threaten Port

Chungking, Nov. 21 (AP)—A nationalist army, striking 60 miles into Manchuria without a fight, threatened today to overrun the Communist-held port of Hulutao and seize a solid foothold in the territory.

A triumphant sweep across southern Manchuria was reported by the army newspaper Ho Ping Pao as Communists charged the nationalists had massed 12,000 troops and heavy guns in Hankow pass—historic invasion gateway for the Mongol hordes in past centuries—for a simultaneous drive into Inner Mongolia.

May Quit To Avoid Trap

Advices reaching here said the Communists might be forced to yield the port, seized after the Russians withdrew, to avoid being trapped against the sea by the nationalist columns.

Thus the nationalists would get a port at which they originally had intended to land their Manchurian occupation forces. American ships had refused to put nationalist troops ashore at Hulutao because the Communists had taken over and were prepared to resist.

With Hulutao as a base, the nationalists would be free to strike northward toward Chinhsien and Mukden without relying on the overland coastal route over which they have driven 60 miles since outflanking and capturing the Communist frontier fortress of Shanhaikwan last week.

Southern End Secured

Ho Ping Pao reported that the nationalist forces had secured the southern part of this overland route from Communist attack by cleaning out opposition forces along the Great Wall.

The Communists in Chungking also asserted a "serious situation" was arising in central China. They said 100,000 Government troops were massing in Honan and northern Hupeh province.

They admitted that the nationalist forces already had captured a number of towns but claimed they had driven the nationalists from Tsinyang, 220 miles southeast of Yenan, the Communist headquarters, which guards the approaches to Chenghsien.

U. S. Officer Was Killed By Chinese Communists

5 DAYS

Was Attached to the O. S. S.; 3 Aids Seized, Then Freed

PEIPING, Nov. 21 (AP).—An American Army officer was killed and three other Americans and a group of Chinese were taken prisoner by Chinese Communist guards while on a special mission in North China shortly after the end of the war, it was learned today.

The officer was Captain John M. Burch, who before the war was a Baptist missionary at Hangchow. For twenty-eight months he had operated behind the Japanese lines for the Office of Strategic Services.

With him were Captain Curtis A. Grimes, Peiping-born son of a missionary; Sergeant Albert Meyers and an officer identified only as Lieutenant Ogle (home addresses not available). They were held captive in Yenan, Communist capital in Shensi Province, for three weeks after a 400-mile march.

Word of their capture was reported by O. S. S. headquarters to Lieutenant General Albert C. Wedemeyer, American commander in China, who took up the incident with Communist representatives in Chungking and effected their release.

Byrnes Reveals Pact to Get All Japanese Home

Says U. S. Marines in China Are Carrying Out Secret Promise Made to Tokyo

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP).—Heretofore secret assurances to Japan that the Allies would return its surrendered soldiers to Japan were revealed today by Secretary of State James F. Byrnes in explaining the continued presence of American marines in China.

Mr. Byrnes told a news conference that these assurances go beyond the Potsdam ultimatum, which said merely that the enemy soldiers would be "permitted" to return home. He said it is the duty of the Allied forces to accomplish the surrender of the Japanese units wherever they are and see that they get home. The speed of their return is dependent in some degree on transportation, Mr. Byrnes said.

His comments immediately raised speculation among diplomats here that American marines and other forces would be active in strife-torn China for a fairly long time.

NOV 22 1945

Situation Unchanged

It was, in fact, an inquiry as to how soon the American forces might be withdrawn from North China—scene of conflict between, was communicated by Lieutenant General Albert C. Wedemeyer, American commander in China.

Then Mr. Byrnes added that his information as to the fighting and shooting in China is that reports of it have been exaggerated. He did not say in what way.

He said the marines are in China as the result of Japan's surrender. As far back as Aug. 16 and 17, he said, the United States advised the Japanese government that in carrying out the Potsdam declaration (made by President Truman, Premier Stalin and Former Prime Minister Churchill), the supreme commander, General Douglas MacArthur, would see to it that the surrender was accomplished and Japanese soldiers returned to Japan.

There are now about 300,000 civilians and soldiers of equal number in North China, Mr. Byrnes said. He called it our duty to bring about their surrender and their return home.

Tokyo Got Assurances

The comment by Mr. Byrnes made it apparent that the negotiations respecting repatriation of enemy troops had been carried on within about three or four days after the Japanese surrendered unconditionally. Evidently, according to some officials, the Japanese inquired as to what was to happen to their forces, and received assurances on behalf of the Allies that General MacArthur would see that they were sent home.

Heretofore, inquiries at the State Department about the need for American marines in North China have always been answered with the statement that their presence there was necessitated by the surrender of Japanese forces, because it is this government's policy to give all possible assistance in such matters to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. This is apart from the question of sending a military mission to help train Chinese troops, as General Wedemeyer forecast immediately after his recent return to China from Washington.

U.S. Sells Silver Dinner Set Of Nazi For $500

Honolulu, Nov. 21 (AP)—A 158-piece sterling silver dinner set belonging to Otto Kuehn, German spionage agent, brought $500 at an auction of confiscated goods by the Alien Property Custodian yesterday.

Other prices included $8 for a water color and $48 for a Japanese scroll.

Indo-China Fighting Flares Along Highway

Saigon, Indo-China, Nov. 20 (AP). Viet Minh (Nationalist party) activity has flared up along the Go Dau Ha road, running northwest out of Saigon, and Annamese attacked a French convoy near Cucha, an Allied statement said today.

It reported mopping up progressing satisfactorily in the Cholon-Gocong-Mytho triangle south of Saigon, and said efforts of the Viet Minh to organize widespread guerrilla activity had been fruitless.

Dutch Official Quits

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 21 (AP).—Joris Ivens, film commissioner for the Netherlands East Indies government, told a press conference tonight he had tendered his resignation because "I do not agree with the policy of the Netherlands East Indies government in Indonesia." It was the first reported resignation of an important Dutch employee of the N. E. I. government over the government's policy.

Japs Must Locate Flyers' Graves

NOV 22 1945

Tokyo, Nov. 21 (AP)—Allied headquarters today directed the Japanese Government to compile complete information on the location of graves of Allied personnel in Japan, reporting full details before December 15. The directive coincided with a renewed search for personnel still listed as missing in Japan—including more than 1,500 airmen.

Fewer than 30 graves have been discovered thus far and Japanese report that in many cases the information is known only to local police.

Data To Be Given

The Government is ordered to report the name, rank and serial number of the deceased, the date, place and cause of death, exact present location of the remains and names and addresses of persons who know these locations.

Another headquarters order today forbade Japanese to make any additions to radio circuits or to the number of broadcasting stations, or any other changes in radio communications without prior Allied permission.

Benefactions Held Up

Other developments:

Kyodo News Agency reported today that several recently announced imperial benefactions have been blocked by the new Allied order freezing imperial household assets. It listed, among others, Hirohito's grant of 10,000,000 board feet of lumber to Japan's homeless.

Brig. Gen. Elliott R. Thorpe summoned Japanese officials, including Tokyo's director of police, to hear a stern reprimand for confiscating food from the people on the "false" pretext that occupation forces required it. Thorpe declared that such confiscations "serve only to line the pockets of the guilty officials."

Araki Pledges Statement

TOKYO, Nov. 21 (AP)—Gen. Sadao Araki, one time fire eating Army leader, said today that he would have "plenty to say about past events" when he stood trial before a war crimes court.

Araki, one of eleven top Japanese war leaders named this week by General MacArthur for arrest, said that he would give himself up tomorrow.

A headquarters order today forbade the Japanese to make any additions to radio circuits or to the number of broadcasting stations, or any other changes in radio communications without prior Allied permission.

Other developments today were:

The Kyodo news agency reported that several recently announced Imperial benefactions had been blocked by the new Allied order freezing Imperial household assets. It listed, among other, Emperor Hirohito's grant of 10,000,000 board feet of lumber to Japan's homeless.

Japanese Narcotics Seized

TOKYO, Thursday, Nov. 22 (AP)—Troops of the Ninety-eighth Infantry Division seized three tons of opium and cocaine from Japanese drug plants in a series of raids in the Osaka area today.

Jap Farm Women Uninterested In Vote

Tokyo, Nov. 21 (AP)—Women voters in rural Japan don't care about their newly granted right to vote.

Kyodo news agency today said a survey of farm women conducted by the All-Japan Agricultural Association showed only one district at all interested.

"Most of them don't care for the voting right," the association concluded. "Those who do want the right are regarded as eccentric and strange."

Krueger Trods Emperor's Carpet

TOKYO, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Emperor's red carpet and all of the plush associated with him were rolled out in Tokyo station today for the arrival of Gen. Walter Krueger, commander of the United States Sixth Army. General Krueger came here to confer with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

JAPANESE ARMS FOUND

Cache Discovered in Kobe Schools —7 Arrested in Osaka

KOBE, Japan, Nov. 21 (AP)—The United States Thirty-third Infantry Division recently searched fifteen Japanese schools in the Kobe area and found:

Thirty-three mortars, 1,071 rifles, 1,198 bayonets, forty-six light machine guns, 204 dummy guns, thirty-five swords and assorted wooden rifles and spears.

Armed Japanese Civilians Arrested

Osaka, Nov. 21 (AP)—Seven Japanese civilians were arrested recently while carrying eight hand grenades and some small arms in the vicinity of the Uji powder plant. They reportedly possessed a radio and other unspecified equipment.

American intelligence officers were notified of their arrests (presumably by Japanese police) and of the fact they were held in the Uji police station, but declined to discuss the case further.

Yamashita Defended By His Staff Chief

NOV 22 1945

Muto Maintains General Controlled Only Fraction Of Jap Forces In Philippines, Acted Under Imperial Orders.

D. SCHEDER

MANILA, Nov. 21 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita controlled but a fraction of Japanese forces in the Philippines, the general's chief of staff testified today at Yamashita's trial on war crimes charges, and during the period of alleged atrocities early this year only 1,500 of his men were in Manila.

NIGHT

Terauchi's Subordinate

The defense witness, Lt. Gen. Akiro Muto, said that of 300,000 troops on Luzon under various commands, Yamashita controlled 120,000, and these only as a subordinate of Field Marshal Count Hisaichi Terauchi, commander of southern areas, including the Philippines.

Last December, Muto testified, Yamashita informed Terauchi that the situation was deteriorating and that he planned to fall back on the mountains to fight a delaying action. His evacuation of Manila was largely completed by Jan. 1, 1945, Muto stated, leaving the 1,500 Army troops behind to guard stores which could not be removed beacuse of transportation difficulties.

Muto said Yamashita advised Admiral Iwabuchi, commander of naval forces in Manila, of his plan to withdraw, and urged him to do likewise, but had no power to order him to do so. Moreover, the Navy had prior orders to destroy the waterfront and other Manila intsallations whic htook precedence over any Yamashita directive.

Muto's testimony left the inference that Yamashita, who quit Manila for Baguio last Dec. 29, was not responsible for the actions of Iwabuchi's men.

It was "unthinkable," the witness said that Yamashita could have ordered the killing of civilians and other atrocities. As the general's chief of staff, he stated categorically that Yamashita never issued orders to kill any civilians or prisoners of war.

He insisted that Yamashita did not command the 4th Air Army which was holding Palawan when 141 United States prisoners of war were massacred at the airfield there.

Muto denied that Yamashita was responsible for the treatment of war prisoners in camps, pointing out that regulations for the handling of prisoners were drawn up in Tokyo.

American prisoners, he insisted, got the same rice ration as Japanese soldiers—admittedly an inadequate ration.

Gen. Yamashita Not Real Chief, Court Told

D. SCHEDER

Manila, Nov. 21 (AP)—If American forces had attacked Luzon Island in mid-November or December of last year they would have "undoubtedly captured the island with one blow," the military court hearing war crimes charges against Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita

DAY

30.24—31797

was told today.

The invasion began January 9, and the campaign ended July 5.

Yamashita's chief of staff, Lieut. Gen. Akiro Muto, said Japan was "too slow preparing its Philippines defenses by at least six months and should have started sooner for effective defense."

Shows Big Chart

Muto introduced a large chart showing the Japanese chain of command in the Philippines at the time Yamashita took over October 9, 1944. Since many of the prosecution's cases of atrocities deal with prior periods, it was obvious the defense was attempting to show that many of the incidents occurred prior to his arrival.

Muto said Japanese morale on Luzon was low because of many ship sinkings and air raids and a shortage og supplies, particularly gasoline.

Of nearly 300,000 troops on Luzon under various commands, Yamashita had actual control of 120,000, he testified. Some naval commanders in Manila had coequal powers with Field Marshal Count Jiro Terauchi, commander of southern areas, including the Philippines, leaving only a fraction of the total Japanese force under the defendant's command.

Witness Insistent

He was insistant the chain of command was from Imperial headquarters in Tokyo to Terauchi and then to Yamashita, directly under Terauchi.

Col. Harry Clarke, chief defense counsel, spent the entire morning session with Muto working toward two points:

1. That Yamashita's chain of command was through Tokyo down, and,

2. His principal and paramount occupation was the battles of Leyte and Luzon.

Filipino Group Awarded 600 Purple Hearts

121st Guerilla Regiment Awaits 810 Posthumous Citations.

MANILA, Nov. 20. (AP)—The 121st Filipino Guerrilla Regiment, which fought the Japanese on Luzon from the first week of the war until General Yamashita's surrender in September, has been awarded 600 Purple Heart medals. Another 850 posthumous awards await U. S. War Department authorization.

The regiment suffered 85 per cent casualties.

Formed of remnants of the 71st Filipino Division which were cut off by the rapidity of the Japanese advance from Lingayen in December, 1941, and which retreated into the mountains beyond Baguio, the regiment was officially recognized by Gen. Jonathan Wainwright on the day Bataan fell.

Under leadership of the late Maj. Walter Cushing of Oakland, Calif., an engineer for the Mexican-American Mining Company, the regiment refused to capitulate when Wainwright issued the cease fire order at Corregidor. The unit staged a series of daring raids along the shores of the China Sea, bagging enemy trucks, grounded planes and even one unwary freighter lured onto the reefs.

Killed In Ambush

The Japanese killed Cushing in an ambush in the Cagayan Valley in September, 1942. He was buried in a purposely unmarked grave but his exploits became legendary in the unceasing warfare waged by the guerrillas. In fact, because two brothers of Major Cushing continued actively aiding the guerrillas, many Filipinos refused to believe reports of his death.

Another famed amateur fighter, Col. George Barnett, led the regiment through two years of cat-and-mouse chases. Barnett, with a 50,000-peso price on his head, survived constant pursuit and was able to join the noted guerrilla leader, Col. Russell R. Volckmann.

When General MacArthur landed at Lingayen last June 9, the 121st reversed roles and chased the Japanese through northern Luzon.

Members of the 121st speak such a conglomeration of Philippine dialects that they had to resort to English to understand each other.

Fought In Rugged Area

The area in which they fought was one of the ruggedest in the Pacific war. The 121st stormed supposedly impregnable Japanese redoubts among the knife-edged ridges of northern Luzon.

One unit led by Maj. Herbert Swick of Miami, Ariz., who had escaped from Baguio prison camp, fought up the slopes of mile-high Besang pass in one of those long, dogged, bloody battles dismissed by the communiques with a mere line or ignored altogether.

Capt. Richard R. Green of Phoenix, Ariz., who escaped with Swick, put his long experience in mining to work by blowing up Japanese supply trains. He emerged from the war with a small arsenal of Japanese weapons, including the swords of 17 officers.

The 121st crossed a second equally high range against stiff opposition and were assaulting a third—the one Yamashita chose for his last stand—when Japan capitulated.

General Motors Closed, 75 Plants in 20 States Shut as 200,000 Strike

NOV 22 1945

Greatest Strike Since '37 Sitdowns in Full Swing as Picket Lines Form

Schwellenbach Aid Strives for Solution

U. A. W. Says It Has Fund of 4 Million; Shutdown Faces Other Companies

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Nov. 21.—The bitter wage battle in the automobile industry closed production lines in scores of General Motors plants throughout the nation today.

Responding to a strike order by the Congress of Industrial Organizations United Automobile Workers demanding a 30 per cent wage rate increase, close to 200,000 workers began leaving their jobs shortly before 11 a. m. today. Tonight most of seventy-five General Motors plants in which the U. A. W. represents the works had been closed.

Walter Reuther, vice-president of the U. A. W., told a press conference later that 96 per cent of General Motors' far-flung industrial empire was shut down tight, and "the other 4 per cent is under consideration." Asked if the union could support a strike "until November, 1946," Mr. Reuther replied: "We will travel the road to the bitter end. We're right, and when you're right you can afford to go the whole way. General Motors cannot break the union." Mr. Reuther added that if General Motors "offers to negotiate, we will be willing."

There were no reports of violence in any of the walkouts, involving workers in twenty states.

The strike, bringing to grips the world's largest labor union and one of the nation's largest corporations, was the most far-reaching since the sit-down strikes of 1937 in which union recognition was the issue.

Differ Over Walkout's Extent

There was a difference of opinion between management and the union concerning the number of workers immediately affected by the walkouts. General Motors asserted it had 162,000 production workers presently employed. Union spokesmen have estimated more than 200,000 workers would be immediately affected by the mass walkouts.

To this, industry spokesmen have added that if the strike continued for a week all but one automobile manufacturer (presumably Ford) would be compelled to close down and that nearly three-quarters of a million workers in the motor-car and allied industries would be affected.

This was explained by the statement that most of the companies obtain some car parts, such as spark plugs and ignition harness, from General Motors.

R. J. Thomas, U. A. W. president, asserted the union had a $4,000,000 strike fund, and other union officials intimated additional funds would be forthcoming from the national C. I. O. if needed.

May Attempt Negotiations

In Washington the Labor Department said late today a special assistant to Secretary Lewis B. Schwellenbach is attempting a resumption of negotiations in the General Motors strike.

A department spokesman told reporters that the special assistant, John Gibson, is in Detroit and has arranged for General Motors and U. A. W. representatives to meet with him separately tomorrow.

The purpose of the separate meetings, it was stated, was to get the union and corporation together again in joint negotiation with the government sitting in.

Mr. Gibson has arranged to return by plane to Washington Friday to report personally to Mr. Schwellenbach on the results of his meetings tomorrow with both sides.

It was considered possible that Mr. Gibson may invite the principals in the dispute to a meeting with high government officials in Washington.

Secretary Schwellenbach, in response to reporters' questions as to whether he intended to invite the principals to meet with him in Washington, sent word from his office that his actions would depend on what Mr. Gibson reported after the initial conferences tomorrow.

The U. A. W. has begun wage negotiations with the Chrysler Corporation and the Ford Motor Company, which, with General Motors, constitute the car industry's "big three." These account for approximately 85 per cent of the nation's automobile business.

The U. A. W. struck the scores of General Motors plants after weeks of negotiations. The strike order went out after General Motors informed the U. A. W. yesterday that it would reply "on or before Friday" to a union proposal for arbitration of the dispute. The union had demanded a reply by 4 p. m. Tuesday.

The union proposal had included a stipulation that any wage increase resulting from arbitration should be made within the corporation's present price structure.

Because Mr. Reuther, heading the negotiations with General Motors, has insisted that the union wanted no wage increase that involved higher product prices, that point had come to be regarded as almost as much of an issue as the wage increase demand.

The corporation, with equal insistence, has maintained that product prices were not properly a subject for discussion in the wage negotiations.

NOV 22 1945

Police Plans Ready

State and local police made plans in advance for dealing with any violence, but authorities indicated there would be no intervention unless serious trouble developed. The U. A. W. president, R. J. Thomas, said orders had gone out to the strikers throughout the country to avoid disorder and to maintain peace.

In Michigan, Governor Harry F. Kelly informed State Police Commissioner Oscar G. Olander that the right of the strikers to picket must be respected, as long as they do so peacefully.

Picket lines appeared at many of the plants immediately after the strike began. Generally, they were orderly, with strikers laughing and joking. Not a few of the strikers had come to work clad in hunting caps and coats, prepared to leave immediately for Michigan's deer areas.

Among the first of the plants to be affected by the strike was the AC Spark Plug factory at Flint. Thousands of workers poured from the plant about fifteen minutes ahead of the 11 o'clock zero hour. A picket line quickly formed with signs reading: "Join Now, Support the Picket Line"; "30 Per Cent or Fight," and "No More Buck Passing—This Is It."

Similar scenes were enacted at numerous other plants.

Laboratory Is Affected

Also affected by the strike was the General Motors research laboratory, occupying a building next to U. A. W. headquarters and across the street from the General Motors administration building in Detroit. A picket line marched in front of the laboratory.

Building service employees of the General Motors administration building, whom the U. A. W. claims as members, were urged by the union to remain on their jobs of running elevators and other work.

"We're putting pressure on General Motors and not on the public," said Mr. Reuther. "Our idea is to inconvenience the public as little as possible."

Mr. Reuther said the strike "will not be a blockade—just an old-fashioned strike."

When the 30 per cent wage rate increase demand was first announced, Mr. Reuther explained that if strike action were taken in the wage fight, union strategy would be to "blockade" one of the car industry's "big three" while giving all possible aid to its competitors.

Will Study G. M. Reply

Asked today if a General Motors reply on Friday to the arbitration proposal might result in calling off the strike, a union spokesman said: "We would be willing to study G. M.'s reply."

There was no statement from the corporation that it would now reply to the proposal. In mid-afternoon the management announced that its reports indicated that all its 162,000 production workers throughout the nation had left their jobs.

There was no way of determining, a management spokesman said, how many salaried workers had already been made idle by the strike. The corporation placed its current total employment at 260,000, of whom 73,500 were classed as salaried workers. It had an employment peak of more than 400,000 during the war.

The management directed attention to the fact that nearly a month ago it had sent letters to salaried workers urging them not to "force your way" into the plants "or expose yourself to violence in any way." It added that pay checks would be mailed to the salaried employees' homes on regular pay days.

The letter to salaried workers said that "irreparable damage to our business" would result from a prolonged strike.

Statement by Romney

George Romney, general manager of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, in a statement late today said:

"Despite the reliance of all automobile companies on General Motors for vital parts and the absence of normal parts-supply banks and flexibility of parts sources, each maker will struggle to continue production as long as current strikes will permit.

"None will quit until forced to stop by lack of parts and inability to find alternate sources."

Mr. Romney said that the "economic effects of the present strikes can only be fully measured in terms of loss in wages, loss in purchasing power and prosperity. . . .

"On this basis, when the full effect of current strikes is reflected, the weekly loss in workers' wages will approximate $27,000,000 per week; loss in purchasing power will total $110,000,000 per week; loss in passenger car and truck production will be in excess of 110,000 units a week.

"Consequently the workers cannot win, the country cannot win. Only a power-hungry clique of union leaders, with short-sighted disregard of their members' welfare and the public's interests, stand to gain—and their goal is greater accumulation and concentration of personal power."

The greater New York C. I. O. council, which says it represents 600,000 workers, sent a telegram to Mr. Thomas pledging support in the strike. A spokesman said also that the C. I. O. council was contemplating the picketing of all General Motors offices and display rooms in New York City.

In North Tarrytown, N. Y., Michael McKenna, president of the U. A. W., Local 664, said 400 members employed at the General Motors' Fisher Body and Chevrolet plants had left their jobs.

In Buffalo General Motors officials estimated that more than 9,000 employees would be affected if "hostile" picket lines were established by the 7,200 striking members of the U. A. W. in western New York.

Operations were at a standstill in the six New Jersey plants of General Motors as approximately 5,500 workers joined the strike. Picket lines were established at all plants. Estimated out at each plant were: Hyatt Bearings Division, Harrison, 2,000; Hyatt Bearings Division, Clark Township, 1,000; Eastern Aircraft Division, Linden, 300; Chevrolet Parts Division, Bloomfield, 750; Fisher Body Turnstedt Division, Trenton, 1,400; Overseas Division, Fair Lawn, 80.

In Bristol, Conn., 8,000 production workers at the New Departure Division of General Motors, which manufactures ball bearings for all General Motors products, walked off their jobs.

Both Mr. Reuther and company officials listed the Meriden, Conn., ball-bearing unit as the only one of seventy-five plants covered by U. A. W. contracts which was not closed by today's walkout. Union officials said that the Connecticut unit was represented by an American Federation of Labor union until a month ago and that there had not been sufficient time for them to take part in the strike vote held in General Motors plants. The strike was indorsed by a large majority.

In Philadelpnia, 200 parts workers in two General Motors plants joined the strike.

Company and Union Estimates on Wages

DETROIT, Nov. 21 (AP).—The average General Motors production worker has been earning from $1.12 to $1.15 an hour, by union estimates, and $1.18 an hour by company estimates.

The United Automobile Workers, Congress of Industrial Organizations affiliate, is demanding a 30 per cent wage increase, which would boost the figure from $1.12 to $1.46 an hour, and the weekly pay for forty hours from $44.80 to $58.40. Based on the corporation figure, a 30 per cent increase would bring the $1.18 hourly rate up to $1.53 and make the weekly pay for forty hours $61.20 instead of $47.20.

PRESIDENT ORDERS ODT TO SEIZE ALL CAPITAL TRANSIT

Calls Renewal of Strike a Blow at Very Roots of Orderly Government.

Washington, Nov. 21 (A. P.).—President Truman today ordered Government seizure of the capital's transportation system and termed the walkout by bus and trolley operators, which was renewed today, "a blow at the sanctity of labor agreements."

The President directed the Office of Defense Transportation to take over and operate the lines.

In a statement, Mr. Truman declared that the work stoppage by the A. F. of L. workers strikes "at the very roots of orderly Government." He added that the union's action "brings discredit upon the whole body of organized labor."

The President directed the ODT to request the Secretary of War "to furnish protection of persons employed or seeking employment" with the transportation system and to seek from the Secretary of War, any equipment, manpower, facilities or services he deems necessary.

The President Statement.

Mr. Truman's statement follows:

"I have today directed the Office of Defense Transportation to take over the control and operation of the buses, street cars and other facilities of the transportation system of the District of Columbia.

"The strike now in effect by the members of Division 689 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric, Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America has been called for the second time during this month in violation of a formal written agreement between the union and the employer.

"The present agreement does not expire until June 30, 1946. It provides for arbitration of any disputes, and guarantees that service upon the transportation lines of the district shall not be interrupted or interfered with by either party during the life of the contract. The agreement does provide for opening wage-scale negotiations under certain conditions, but it is clear that arbitration instead of a strike is intended to be the means of settlement if agreement cannot be voluntarily reached.

"The present action of the union in walking out is therefore contrary to the agreement. It is also contrary to the orders of the officials of the local union and of the international union.

"The effect of the strike is to tie up all transportation at the seat of Government and thereby prevent efficient and normal operation of the agencies of Government during this vital reconversion period. It is a blow at the sanctity of labor agreements. It strikes, too, at the very roots of orderly Government. The action of this union brings discredit on the whole body of organized labor which naturally decries any violation of sacred covenants.

"The Federal Government will not permit this kind of action to interfere with its processes either in the capital or any part of the nation."

Efforts On To Jog Up Capital's Labor Parley

NOV 22 1945

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was apparently trying today to pump new life into the labor-management conference.

The conference seemingly has made such little progress that there has been a proposal that President Truman intervene and attempt to prod in into action.

As Johnston entered a closed meeting of the important executive committee today, he told reporters that he was going to tell the committee "something." He indicated that he intended to try to speed up its deliberations, but did not say how.

Example Of Parley Work

As an example of the way the conference has been going. A subcommittee made a recommendation today and then withdrew it before it could be considered. The recommendation was that voluntary arbitration become the final step in grievance procedure and be a substitute for work stoppages. As it was jerked back, one official said there had been a belated disagreement over "the choice of a few words."

Persons concerned over what they consider the failure of delegates to grapple effectively with major problems of labor unrest have suggested that Mr. Truman deliver to the conference a "yardstick" of the work he expects of it.

This was reported by two public officials well posted on conference affairs. One said the suggestion had already been taken up with Mr. Truman, but neither wanted to guess whether the President would act.

The Reasoning

Behind the plan was this argument:

That in calling the conference Mr. Truman desired some voluntary agreement on means of minimizing labor disputes which would make it unnecessary to call on Congress for restrictive labor laws.

That it is time—after more than two weeks of meetings—for the industry and union delegates to be told what steps must be taken to make action by Congress unnecessary.

That a lack of such concrete achievements might leave the way open for industrial upheavals that could submerge any long-range approaches to labor-management understanding.

That the proposed "yardstick" of progress might include agreement first on some machinery for voluntary arbitration of disputes, and second, on fact-finding procedure that would deter stoppages and aid in their settlement by acquainting the public with their cause; possibly also some method of handling jurisdictional disputes—a goal that Mr. Truman has specifically named.

Aides Reported Divided

One of the officials said it had been suggested that Mr. Truman ask the delegates to "come up at least with an agreement on arbitration and fact finding."

The President's advisers were said to be divided on the idea. Those favoring his intervention were perhaps outnumbered, it was said, by those who felt that the Government should let the industry and labor leaders run the conference themselves.

Mr. Truman's only comment on the parley—given at his news conference late yesterday—was that he hoped it would yet produce a concrete formula for settling labor disputes.

Secretary's Comment

Conference Secretary George W. Taylor said the conference had as yet given no consideration "that I know of" to the creation of machinery to replace the War Labor Board or meet the immediate crisis in automobiles, steel and other reconverting industries.

The public members of the conference—Taylor, Chairman Walter P. Stacy, Secretary of Commerce Wallace and Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach — were known to feel apprehension over the lagging deliberations, especially since the parley's windup is now set for the end of next week.

UNION-PENALTY BILL ADVANCES

House Given Measure Aimed At Violating Of Contracts

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Amid angry denunciations of strikes, the House Rules Committee today dispatched to the House floor legislation applying heavy penalties to unions which violate no-strike contracts.

It would deprive such unions of collective bargaining rights for a year, and subject them to civil damages if an employer could prove injury.

Other Provisions

Other provisions in the bill would:

Amend the Corrupt Practices Act to prohibit unions or their subordinate affiliates from participating financially in national primary or general elections.

Strike from the Smith-Connally Labor Disputes Act authority for Government seizure of struck war plants and likewise delete a provision under which the National Labor Relations Board conducts strike ballots.

The Rules Committee also acted to clear the way for a House vote on legislation to punish anyone interfering unlawfully with interstate shipments of goods.

The actions, taken in executive session on a 6-to-2 vote, came despite Administration supporters' pleas for delay.

Showdown Held Near

How long House leaders could keep the legislation from a vote was doubtful, but Representative May (D., Ky.), chairman of the Military Committee, said he expected a showdown late next week.

May's committee some time ago approved, 19 to 9, the bill aimed at unions which strike in violation of contracts.

The Rules Committee acted amid sharp criticism of current strikes, voiced on the House floor as well as in committee.

"The goons have the country at bay," shouted Representative Cox (D., Ga.) during the rules meeting.

Chairman Sabath (D., Ill.), reported to have been one of the two committeemen who opposed the bill, countered with a plea "not to throw a monkey wrench" into the national labor-management conference now in progress.

'Stab In The Back For Labor'

Representative Price (D., Ill.) called the bill "nothing more than a stab in the back for labor." Representative Slaughter (D., Md.) retorted that labor had "stabbed in the back" the labor-management conference.

Opponents of the legislation contended it would permit employers to goad unions into strikes in order to break up organized labor, and pointed out that it imposed no penalty on employers resorting to lockouts.

Representative Arends (R., Ill.), author of the no-strike clause in the Military Committee, defended it as necessary to insure the stability of contracts.

Representative Hook (D., Mich.) told the House he was certain that an investigation would show that "these strikes are company-incited."

Second Bill Explained

The second bill cleared by the Rules Committee was explained by its author, Representative Hobbs (D., Ala.) as intended to prevent "robbery or extortion" in interstate commerce by penalizing anyone interfering with trucks whose operators had not paid certain fees to unions.

Hobbs recently told the House Judiciary Committee that 100 truck drivers are stopped each night at the Holland Tunnel in New York and made to pay $9.42 if driving a heavy truck and $8.41 for a light truck.

Defending his support of both bills, Slaughter issued a statement calling the present labor situation "identical with what France experienced prior to World War II—a systematic spread of strikes, not called at the desire of the members of the union, but to gratify the leaders' craving for power."

"The public does not have to endure this sort of treatment and the public will not long continue to do so," he added.

Gen. Patch Dies of Pneumonia at 55; Led 7th Army in Victorious Drive

By The Asso

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 21 —Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch Jr. died at Brooke General Hospital at 8:10 P. M. today of pneumonia. The commander of the Fourth Army Headquarters, a veteran of the first World War and commander of the United States Seventh Army in Europe during the second World War, would have been 56 on Friday.

General Patch returned to the United States in July to head the Fourth Army.

He leaves a widow, the former Julia Lillell, and a daughter, Julia.

General Patch, who led American troops to victory in the Pacific and in Europe, was recognized by the War Department as one of its most experienced tacticians. After commanding the American forces that occupied New Caledonia and carried out the successful campaign on Guadalcanal, he was made head of the Seventh Army in Europe on April 1, 1944, and led it from the beaches of southern France through the Vosges and Siegfried Line and over the Rhine in a drive that carried ultimately into Austria. His son, Capt. A. M. Patch 3d, was killed in action in France in October, 1944, while leading an infantry company of the Seventy-ninth Division.

From the moment the troops hit the shore in the invasion of southern France, it was General Patch's day. He tired of straining through his green glasses from the bridge of a ship, hurried gratefully ashore and characteristically zipped right to the front. Lean, ramrod-straight, he popped up at critical points, wearing a handsome gold-buckled belt and a trick silk scarf printed with a map of southern France.

As the drive developed sensational speed, General Patch was beginning to look like this country's newest expert in amphibious warfare. But that was a surprise only to the public; Army men had long kept an eye on this scholarly looking soldier's soldier, a classic specimen of the United States Regular Army officer.

After Pearl Harbor, "Sandy" Patch was sent to the French island of New Caledonia in the Pacific. Here, with a collection of stray units which were originally on their way to the Philippines and Australia, he whipped the Americal (American-Caledonia) Division into a sort of shape. The action for which he was awaiting came in the fall of 1942.

Relieved the Marines

He was ordered to relieve the Marines on Guadalcanal and finish the job of clearing the island with his pick-up division. It was his first battle command of the war and in two months he wound up the campaign successfully.

The late General McNair called General Patch one of the finest corps commanders in the Army. Known as a commander who tried to spare his men, he suffered the war with them, had deep lines burned into his gaunt, hard face.

The son of Alexander McCarrell and Annie Moore Patch and the brother of Maj. Gen. Joseph Patch, General Patch was born on Nov. 23, 1889, at Fort Huachuca, Ariz. Following the family precedent in choosing a military career, he was appointed to the Military Academy from Pennsylvania on March 1, 1909. At West Point he excelled in athletics, being a star pole-vaulter and track performer. On his graduation, in June, 1913, he was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry.

Lieutenant Patch served with the Eighteenth Infantry until June 9, 1917. Then, with the rank of captain, he accompanied this organization to France, serving with the Eighteenth until November, 1917. He then commanded the Machine Gun Battalion, First Division, until April 17, 1918, when he became director of the Army Machine Gun School in France for six months. As a lieutenant colonel he returned to the Eighteenth Infantry, serving in France and Germany until Feb. 25, 1919, and participating in the Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives.

In the years between the first World War and the recent conflict General Patch continued his military career. After the start of the second World War he was assigned as a temporary colonel to train raw rookies at Fort Bragg, N. C. Here he earned the reputation as one of the toughest of disciplinarians.

Late in 1941 General Patch had been assigned to command the Infantry Replacement Center at Camp Croft, S. C. He was made a temporary major general on March 10, 1942, and soon after was sent to the Pacific and the defense of New Caledonia.

The most recent honor conferred on General Patch was his appointment last month as head of a special board which will forge the shape and size of the post-war Army.

Addressing his men in the Seventh Army when the war ceased in Europe, General Patch said in part:

"As we rejoice together over the accomplished fact of victory in Europe, it is fitting that we pause a moment to consider the fallen thousands who have laid down their lives to bring about this triumphant day. They gave all they had. Let us hope that the peace to come will justify their sacrifice.

"Sense of Thanksgiving"

"For the survivors, what spoken message could express the deep sense of thanksgiving and satisfaction which all of us must feel to have had some part, however small, in this titanic campaign now crowned with victory!

"You men of the Seventh Army have pursued the Germans through Africa, Sicily, Italy, France and finally to this inner stronghold. Some of you came over the beaches of Normandy to join your brothers-in-arms from the south. The sun has not always shone upon you. Indeed, there have been bitter moments. But you have bravely persevered, and you have won.

LEAHY DENIES HEARING TALK OF PHILIPPINES

Testifies Roosevelt Said Nothing of Islands at 1940 Luncheon.

HE CONTRADICTS RICHARDSON

Latter Asserts He Was Relieved of Command Because He Had Offended Late President.

Washington, Nov. 21 (A. P.).—Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy testified today that he had no recollection that the late President Roosevelt said in October, 1940, that the United States might not fight even if the Japanese attacked the Philippines. Leahy, Chief of Staff to President Truman and Mr. Roosevelt, said he had heard no such statement at a White House luncheon on October 8, 1940.

Admiral J. O. Richardson, who then was Commander in Chief of the fleet, had testified previously that Mr. Roosevelt said at the luncheon in response to a query as to whether this country planned to enter the war that "if the Japanese attacked Thailand or the Kra Peninsula, or the Dutch East Indies we would not enter the war; that if they even attacked the Philippines he doubted whether we would enter the war, but that they could not always avoid making mistakes and that as the war continued and the area of operations expanded, sooner or later they would make a mistake and we would enter the war."

Representative Murphy (D.-Pa.) asked Leahy if he had heard the President refer to the Philippines in any way.

"I did not," the Fleet Admiral replied.

Concerning the White House luncheon, Leahy outlined what he said was a conversation carried on largely by Richardson with the President about the condition of the American fleet at that time. He said a great many things were discussed, including some of his own problems as the Governor of Puerto Rico.

Relates Richardson's Remarks.

Richardson launched on a discussion of the fleet, Leahy said, with the declaration that the fleet was not ready for war for a number of reasons. Richardson told the President, the Fleet Admiral said, that American ships did not have their full complement of men, that the facilities in Pearl Harbor were not sufficient to keep the ships in top condition and that he did not have enough fuel ships to operate at any great distance from the harbor.

Leahy said Richardson felt that if there was a possibility of calling on the fleet for war service, he could prepare it better if it were returned to the West Coast, where he could get equipment, supplies, men, and strip the ships for action.

In response to questions by William D. Mitchell, committee counsel, Leahy said:

"I don't remember that the President made any comment whatsoever as to why the fleet was being kept in Pearl Harbor. He may have made it, but I don't remember it."

Richardson had testified that the President and other officials indicated to him that they wanted the fleet kept in Hawaiian waters for the restraining influence that might have against aggressive Japanese moves.

Questioned by Gearhart.

Emphasizing that he spoke purely from memory and had made no memoranda of the conversation at the White House luncheon, Leahy said with regard to Richardson's account: "I cannot say the conversation did not take place, but I do not remember it."

Replying to a question by Representative Gearhart (R.-Cal.) concerning his 1940 views on the possibility of war, Leahy said: "I was reasonably sure it was going to come."

Gearhart asked whether he didn't have access to the series of intercepted Japanese official code messages after he became Chief of Staff to the President. Leahy replied that he didn't assume the White House staff position until 1942, when the war with Japan already was on.

Under further questioning, Leahy told the committee he was convinced by Japanese troop movements into Indo-China in 1941 that the Japanese soon would attack the Philippines, but he did not foresee any strike against Hawaii. Leahy was then Ambassador to the French Government at Vichy.

Hurt Roosevelt's Feelings.

During the course of his testimony, Admiral Richardson quoted the late Secretary of the Navy Knox as telling him he was relieved as commander of the fleet in 1941 because he had "hurt the feelings" of President Roosevelt. Richardson said that Knox told him in Washington, March 24, 1941, after Richardson was succeeded by Admiral Husband E. Kimmel:

"The last time you were here, you hurt the President's feelings."

Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.) asked Richardson, who said he had argued previously with the President against keeping the fleet in Pearl Harbor, if he knew how he might have hurt Mr. Roosevelt's feelings.

"It would hurt my feelings if a senior subordinate under me disagreed with me and I couldn't make him change his mind," the Admiral replied firmly.

Richardson said he had complained to Knox that in all his experience he never had heard of a commanding officer being relieved "in the same manner I was." When he asked Knox why, the admiral said the late Secretary replied that "the President would send for me and talk the matter over with me."

He added, in reply to questions, that the President never sent for him and he never sought to see the President.

NOV 22 1945

Would Have Done as Chief Did.

As he concluded his testimony just before noon, however, Richardson volunteered the statement that "I never bore any resentment toward President Roosevelt" because of his removal as fleet commander. He continued:

"He was the constitutional Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy; I was one of his senior subordinates; there was a difference of opinion; I was relieved of command of the fleet. Had I been constitutional Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy, I would have taken the same action."

Richardson told the committee he was ordered later to report for duty on the Navy Department General Board which advised the Secretary on building programs. He also said, in response to question, that Kimmel's name was on a list of five or six he had submitted to Navy officials as his possible successor as fleet commander. He said he had expected to complete two full years as commander in chief of the fleet, but was relieved after thirteen months.

Battleships were moored in pairs, side by side, at the time of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941, because there were not enough berths at the base to handle each big ship separately, Richardson told Ferguson.

"That was habitual practice," the admiral said.

Calls Protection Insufficient.

He testified that there were other anchorages in the Hawaiian group but Pearl Harbor was the only one with any anti-aircraft protection. He added that protection was "by no means sufficient."

Asked what steps he had taken to place the fleet at Pearl Harbor in shape for war duty, he replied:

"I did everything in my power to make the officers and men of the fleet war- minded. One deterrent to this, however, was the fact that officers who were long time friends of mine would say: 'Jo, we couldn't be on the verge of war. Otherwise, they would give us sufficient men to man the ships.'"

Under questioning by Ferguson, he said he had discussed with President Roosevelt in July and October, 1940, the question of obtaining more men for the Navy.

"I believe the President had it in his power, by an act of Congress, to increase the number of men in the Navy faster than he did do it," he added.

Representative Clark (D.-N. C.) asked whether having a full complement of men on the ships on December 7, 1941, would have made any difference in the outcome of the Japanese attack.

"If that was the only change, the difference would have been infinitesimal," the witness replied.

Hull Will Testify.

Richardson testified earier in today's hearing that the Navy assumed on October 10, 1940, that the United States was ready to go to war if the Japanese retaliated against a proposed plan to stop Japanese shipping.

Meanwhile, Committee Chairman Barkley (D.-Ky.) disclosed that former Secretary of State Hull, who has been summoned as a witness, may not be heard until after the Thanksgiving holiday.

Richardson told the investigators today that discussion of the plan to halt Japanese shipping—never carried out—had prompted him to send a message to Admiral Thomas C. Hart, then Asiatic Fleet commander, containing ten "assumptions."

NOV 22 1945

How Officers Construct Blockade.

He had testified yesterday that the late Secretary of Navy Knox told him and other officers at a conference October 9, 1940, that President Roosevelt had suggested establishing a line of ships to halt Japanese shipping to the Western Hemisphere in the event Japan moved against the British as a result of the reopening of the Burma Road, set for October 17. Although Richardson protested against the blockade, he said today he had consulted with officers of the War Plans Division here who drew up the message for Hart.

The naval officers assumed, the message showed, that "the United States is prepared to accept war" if the blockade brought counteraction by Japan. Among the other assumptions was that the United States would support British forces in Australia and Singapore and Dutch forces in the East Indies.

Armour Quits Post In Spain

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The White House reported today that Norman Armour, Ambassador to Spain, is retiring from the foreign service. Charles G. Ross, press secretary, told a news conference Armour is expected to return to Washington within two weeks.

American diplomats who know have told reporters the United States may further indicate its dislike of the Franco Government by leaving Armour's post unfilled, possibly for some time.

Armour, 68-year-old career diplomat, entered the State Department 33 years ago and is eligible for a pension.

Armour joined the diplomatic service with the United States Embassy at Vienna in 1912. He has served not only in most European capitals but in this hemisphere as well.

R. A. LOVETT RESIGNS

Assistant War Secretary for Air Will Leave Post on Dec. 8

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (U.P.)—Robert A. Lovett has resigned as Assistant Secretary of War for Air, effective Dec. 8, the White House stated today.

President Truman, in accepting the resignation, "exceedingly" regretted Mr. Lovett's departure and congratulated him on the "excellent results" which followed his advocacy of development of striking power in the air.

Mr. Lovett originally submitted his resignation on Sept. 6, when the then Secretary of War Stimson informed him that he was leaving his Cabinet post. He is the second Assistant Secretary of War to resign since Mr. Stimson left the Cabinet.

Nations Selling UNRRA Goods, Senators Say

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Two Senators asserted today that some foreign nations had been selling United Nations relief supplies for the benefit of their own governments.

The charges were made by Senators Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.) and McKellar (D., Tenn.) after a Senate Appropriations subcommittee completed closed hearings on a bill appropriating an additional $550,000,000 for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

Testimony Cited

Thomas told reporters testimony showed that the Greek Government sold 7,000 UNRRA mules to farmers and "then used the proceeds to improve the agricultural program in that country."

McKellar said that UNRRA was "turning over food supplies to these governments and they are selling supplies for their own currency."

"I want to find some way to stop that," said McKellar. He did not name the governments he said were selling the food supplies.

Assistant Secretary of State Will Clayton and Herbert H. Lehman, UNRRA director, appeared before senators today.

Rounds Out Fund

The $550,000,000 UNRRA appropriation proposed in the Senate legislation rounds out a fund of $1,350,000,000 which the United States pledged originally to UNRRA.

On the House side, meanwhile, a Foreign Relations Committee hearing on a bill to authorize an extra $1,350,000,000 for the agency broke up in a row after a former UNRRA employé criticized its activities in Europe.

The ex-employé, Raymond E. Lindgren, of Evanston, Ill., said he had been told the UNRRA director in the British zone of Germany had "openly advocated" that the United States, Britain and Germany "immediately team together and fight the Russians."

Black-Market Allegations

Lindgren also said a United States Army investigation last summer disclosed extensive black-market activities in the UNRRA mobilization center at Grandeville, France.

Chairman Bloom (D., N.Y.) interrupted and proposed that Lindgren withhold the remainder of his testimony until UNRRA Director Lehman could attend the hearing.

Representative Vorys (R., Ohio) objected, asserting that the "committee is not being run for the benefit" of Lehman.

The hearing was adjourned on a technicality that the committee could not meet while the House was in session.

4-Billion Credit Offer By U. S. Sent to Britain

London Is Expected to Relay Reply Over Week End

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP).—An American offer of $4,000,000,000 credit has been transmitted to London by the British delegation after the latest series of conferences of Anglo-American financial experts, it was learned today. A British spokesman acknowledged this figure was part of an overall proposal put forth by American officials seeking to wind up the ten-week-old discussions as soon as possible.

Approximately $3,500,000,000 of this amount represents a straight loan at 2 per cent interest, and $500,000,000 the sum that some British officials believe they will need at 2⅜ per cent to settle their lend-lease account by paying cash for supplies shipped after V-J Day.

A British informant said London was expected to relay the Labor government's reply over the week end. An end to the talks is possible next week.

Both British and American officials said the major points separating the delegations are near solution, including the heretofore troublesome exchange control and escape-clause issues.

American officials said the terms include a five-year period during which payment of no interest of principal will be required. Altogether, Britain would have fifty years in which to repay the loan.

U. S. Asks Bids for Plants In German Reparations

Buyers Must Show Equipment Will Aid American Output

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP).—The United States government posted a "for sale" sign today on the machinery and plant equipment it expects to get as war reparations from Germany.

Prospective purchasers are invited by the State Department to put in their request now to the Bureau of International Supply of the Civilian Production Administration, at Washington.

They must fulfill one of two requirements, a State Department announcement said. They must need the material either "to break production bottlenecks or to expand production facilities."

Individuals or firms who have ownership interest in German industrial plants and want to get them out of Germany for various reasons also should state their intentions now to the State Department's division of foreign economic development.

Where American-owned plants are taken as reparations, "due consideration" will be given to American property interests in relocating it and fixing the conditions of its sale, the announcement added.

MORE LABOR FOR FRANCE

NOV 22 1945

Movement of German Workmen to Rebuild Is Resumed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—The War Department announced tonight that German war prisoners again were being sent to France from American occupational zones in Germany for use as labor.

The transfers were halted several weeks ago following reports the prisoners were not treated in accordance with international conventions.

The War and State Departments approved resumption of transfers after the American commander in Europe had "received assurances from the French Government obligating itself to make necessary improvements in order that German prisoners of war now in French custody, as well as those to be delivered in the future, shall receive sufficient food and treatment in conformance with provisions of the Geneva Convention."

The Army said that the original plan for sending 1,300,000 prisoners to help rebuild France would be carried out unless it was determined that France could not adequately feed and care for that number.

2-Army Soldier's Deportation Asked

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Army announced tonight it had recommended the deportation to Germany of Sergt. Frederick Emil Bauer, held at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., since early September on suspicion of espionage.

Investigation has shown, said a War Department statement, that Bauer was a member of the German Army sent to the United States on an espionage mission. He enlisted in the United States Army in May, 1942.

The Department's announcement said no specific acts of espionage were committed by Bauer, and therefore it was decided no criminal action against him would be practical. The Army recommended to the Justice Department instead that he be sent to Germany.

BRAZIL TALK DATES SET

Pan-American Union Proposes Meeting Next Spring

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Governing Board of the Pan American Union recommended today that the conference of American Foreign Ministers be held sometime between March 15 and April 15 next year in Rio de Janeiro.

Brazil, the host Government, will choose the exact date. The recommendation was adopted at a closed meeting of the board today.

The conference was originally scheduled for Oct. 20 but was postponed at the last minute when the United States objected to having Argentina participate. Whether Argentina will be invited to the Spring meeting is unsettled.

The conference's main job will be drawing up an inter-American mutual defense treaty to implement the Act of Chapultepec, which was adopted at the Mexico City conference at the beginning of the year.

Attempt For East-West Flight Record Delayed

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—An attempt at a West-East speed record planned by the Army Air Forces for tomorrow has been postponed, the War Department said tonight. Elsewhere it was learned it has been delayed until Saturday because of mid-West weather conditions.

The flight, expected to be on a transcontinental basis from about the area of Los Angeles to Washington, reportedly would use a plane presently listed as the XB-42, built by the Douglas Aircraft Company, and understood to be about medium bomber size.

Various types of planes now hold records of between six and seven hours for such a hop.

WARNS OF A 'BOOM' IN RURAL REALTY

Federal Reserve Expert Gives Six Suggestions to Halt 'Dangerous' Rise

NOV 22 1945

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Federal Reserve System said today that "all signs point to the rapid rise of farm land values" and it set forth six potential methods of preventing a "tragic and costly" boom.

In an article in one of the "post-war economic studies" published by the system, William H. Fisher, of the research department of the Richmond Federal Reserve Bank, cited more than 2,000,000 involuntary transfers of farms and tracts since 1920.

He said that as the result of this forced sale of from one-fourth to one-third of all farm land in the last twenty-five years, the "whole agricultural fabric is penalized through interruption of technological progress and by stabilization of improper farm practice," and both the farm and non-farm segments of the economy have been saddled with increased costs through taxes and higher prices.

As potential barriers to a repetition of the boom which began in 1920 after World War I, Mr. Fisher proposed these steps for consideration:

1. Education—Mr. Fisher said that machinery already exists to carry out an intensified campaign of public information and that present media should be expanded. "In the areas where the greatest harm would result from a land boom, particularly in cash crop regions," he said, "a last ditch attempt to create added awareness of the effects of high farm land prices might be implemented by the joint efforts of farm agencies, schools, churches and the like."

2. Control of Demand Through Allocation—Permitting purchase of land by those who could prove need, ability to use it properly and where the price was found to be reasonable.

3. Restrictions on purchasing power through the elimination of excess liquidity in the hands of possible farm buyers and the control of credit extensions on farm mortgages.

4. Price ceilings on land.

5. A special capital gains tax, the extension of the holding period required before this capital gain could be taxable at less than ordinary income tax rates, and an increased transfer tax.

6. Forced savings of receipts from sales through some method of requiring investiture of some proportion of sales price in non-transferable Government bonds.

Food Price Drop Forecast

Three U. S. Agencies Agree Subsidies Can Be Ended by June 30

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP).—H. B. Boyd, Agriculture Department director of price, said today government food agencies agreed that $1,785,000,000 in Federal subsidies can be removed by next June 30 without increasing overall consumer food cost.

The agencies to which he referred are the Agriculture Department, the Office of Price Administration and the Office of Economic Stabilization.

A few weeks ago, the government announced a schedule for ending food subsidies by next June 30. The announcement said it will be necessary to increase ceiling prices on some items now subsidized. The announcement added, however, that such increases were expected to be offset by decreases on some unsubsidized foods in plentiful supply.

Mr. Boyd said the economic outlook is for a weakening of farm and food prices in 1946 because of prospects of larger civilian supplies and a reduced demand for military and export purposes.

Meat Rationing Causes O. P. A.-Anderson Rift

Bowles Said to Seek Truman's Aid in Settlement

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration was reported today to have appealed to President Truman to settle a dispute with the Agriculture Department over meat rationing policy.

Officials in a position to know of the inter-agency differences told reporters that O. P. A. Administrator Chester Bowles had sent a letter to Mr. Truman outlining the O. P. A.'s position.

These sources, who ask that they not be identified, said they understood Mr. Bowles asked for:

1. A White House study of whether rationing of meats, fats and oils should be continued.

2. A statement, if it's found the program should go on, giving the reasons.

The O. P. A. is reported by these officials to have been trying for two months to persuade the Agriculture Department to issue a statement to support its stand that rationing of meats and fats must continue.

They said that the O. P. A. had been willing to accept this view, but has held that the public is entitled to an explanation.

The Agriculture Department, which has jurisdiction over food rationing, has argued that the reasons already have been made clear.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson has said publicly that foreign requirements for meats and fats necessitate continuance of rationing in this country.

Mr. Anderson has stated that it may be possible to take meat off the ration list "after December," but that the fats and oils program probably will have to be continued in 1946.

24,000,000 Nylons Set For Xmas Trade

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—Congress heard today that around 24,000,000,000 pairs of nylon hose will be ready for American women for the Christmas trade.

Thomas W. Montgomery, sales manager of the Granite Hosiery Mills, Souderton, Pa., gave that estimate to members of a House Interstate Commerce Committee.

Montgomery voiced concern to the committee that the recent OPA order reducing the price on high-cost nylons would discourage expansion of the hosiery industry, and that a large part of the American production might be driven into the export trade, where prices are higher.

The committee called the session on nylons to see if OPA in its price order is within a legislative restriction against standardization and interference with brand names.

Better Inner Tubes Predicted By CPA

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—There will be better inner tubes for passenger car tires after the first of the year, the Civilian Production Administration said today.

Beginning January 1 manufacturers of these tubes may use butyl, which CPA described as "the special purpose synthetic rubber credited with retaining air better than natural rubber."

This characteristic, CPA said, "is one of the most important factors in obtaining long service from synthetic tires."

Civilian Hands Needed For Army Transports

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—An army official said tonight that civilian personnel are leaving army transports for peacetime jobs and delaying the return of soldiers from overseas.

Col. Alexander Corey, chief of the civilian personnel division of the Army Transportation Corps, reported that army transports were in danger of being tied up on both coasts.

"The situation is critical," Corey said. "Many of the men who man these army transports have gone back to their shore jobs. Many more have signed off to stay home during the Thanksgiving and Christmas season.

"We are urgently in need of replacements at once so that some of our boys who haven't been home for a number of Christmases can be with their loved ones this Christmas."

Navy Lowers Point Scores

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—(AP)—The Navy announced today the point score discharge of most enlisted men will be reduced from 41 to 38 on Dec. 1.

On Dec. 15, the score will be lowered to 37 and on Jan. 1 to 36. The navy estimated the cuts will make approximately 150,000 additional men eligible for release.

Previously, the navy had announced plans to reduce the score to 39 on Dec. 1 and 38 on Jan. 1.

Certain specialists such as key punchers and shore patrolman are not affected by the change. In addition, no reduction of scores beyond that previously announced for Dec. 1 and Jan. 1 will be made for enlisted men in the following ratings:

Water tenders, except water tenders (CB); machinists mates, except machinists mates (CB); chief commissary stewards and ships cooks and bakers.

The navy said no further reduction of critical scores for women was made at this time because their demobilization is proceeding ahead of schedule.

Vice-Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, chief of naval personnel, said the navy's demobilization schedule calls for the release of approximately 1,200,000 personnel by Jan. 1. The half-way mark in the demobilization will be reached by February, when more than 1,500,000 will have been released or discharged.

Vet Groups Differ On Military Training

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The House Military Committee today heard diverse views from veterans' organizations on how universal military training should be carried out, if such a training program is authorized by Congress.

President Truman has recommended one continuous year of training for 18 and 19 year olds, but two of the organizations heard on the plan today suggested the training to be given over a period of years.

Backs National Guard Method

Omar B. Ketchum, national legislative representative of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, told the committee his organization is "for compulsory military training," but that "instead of one year's continuous training, which seemed to be the principal target of the opposition, the National Guard method be employed in giving training over a period of years to every young man."

William F. Floyd, national commander of the regular Veterans Association, recommended that men from 18 to 21 to required to take military training for four months each year for three years and then be placed in a reserve corps.

Rice For One-Year Period

Millard Rice, national legislative representative of the Disabled American Veterans, advocated one continuous year of training for youths between 17 and 24, with credits for any training received in the National Guard or the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

A straight one-year training program was advocated by Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

PHILADELPHIA PORT HIT

Strike of Tugboat Crews Ties Up Cargo Ships and Tankers

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21 (AP)—The work stoppage of tugboat crews today had the port of Philadelphia in the grip of spreading paralysis. The effects were these:

The War Shipping Administration diverted two more ships to Baltimore when it found tugs were not available to dock them here. (Three were diverted yesterday).

About fifteen cargo vessels and the same number of tankers were tied up in port.

Coal shipments to piers of the Reading Company were ordered halted by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Telegrams urging settlement of the jurisdictional dispute among union crewman were sent to the National Labor Relations Board, the two Pennsylvania Senators and six Democratic representatives from eastern Pennsylvania.

The workers, affiliated with District 50, United Mine Workers, urged the NLRB to settle a charge of unfair labor practices against the union.

Sergeant Eisenhower Re-Enlists

Pottsville, Pa., Nov. 21 (AP)—Sergt. Roy F. Eisenhower, who married Kathleen Joyce, of Dorset, England, while on his three years' foreign service re-enlisted in the Army today. He wanted to spend his 90-day re-enlistment furlough in England with his wife.

Proposes Peace Day Holiday

BOSTON, Nov. 21 (AP).—A campaign for international observance of an annual peace day holiday was announced today by Frank B. Frederick, Boston attorney. Mr. Frederick has been named chairman of a new "Committee for Peace Day in the United Nations."

MILITARY TRAINING BACKED BY LEGION

Unified Command Also Indorsed In Final Session

Chicago, Nov. 21 (AP)—The American Legion indorsed a program today aimed at safeguarding the nation's security in peacetime, then closed its twenty-seventh national convention with election of John Stelle, of McLeansboro, Ill., as national commander.

The Legionnaires "indorsed the principle of unified command of the armed forces with the Army, Navy and Air Forces on an equal level," and asked Congress to enact a one-year universal military training program administered by a civilian authority.

They recommended that atomic bomb manufacturing secrets be kept by the United States, Canada and Great Britain "for the safeguarding of mankind."

Other Officers

They called for a National Guard strength of 425,000 men, plus officers; an adequate merchant marine; civilian security boards in every community; retention of Pacific island bases; Navy Reserve training fleets and developments of West Coast military training centers like West Point and Annapolis, and congressional establishment of a civilian board to study long-range problems of national defense and security.

Officers elected with Stelle, a 54-year-old World War I veteran, former Governor of Illinois and the man who headed the Legion's fight for the GI Bill of Rights, were:

National Vice Commanders Fred La Boon, Chickasha, Okla.; Dudley Swim, Twin Falls, Iowa; Jeremiah J. Twomey, Lawrence, Mass.; Graham Huntington, Maplewood, N.J., and Sam Lattimer, Jr., Columbia, S.C., and national chaplain, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward J. Smith, Sioux City, Iowa.

Opposing Points Presented

La Boon and Swim are the first World War II veterans elected to Legion national offices.

Throughout the four-day convention army and navy leaders debated the unified command issue in convention speeches, with the topmost representatives, General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, newly designated acting chief of staff, and Fleet Admirals Ernest J. King and his successor as commander in chief of the United States Fleet, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, presenting the opposing service viewpoints.

Doolittle Speaks

Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift, commandant of the Marine Corps, carried on the debate on the proposed Army-Navy merger when in a convention address he called it "a revolutionary scheme, one untried and without precedent."

He reiterated the Navy suggestion that the President create a civilian commission to consider the entire question and report by July 1, 1946.

Lieut. Gen. James H. Doolittle, of the Army Air Forces, the Tokyo bomber, carried the oratorical ball right back for the Army, however, when he told the Legionnaires World War II demonstrated necessity of unity of command in the field but said "you can't have it in the field without unity of command at home."

He recommended a single department of national defense, with the Army, Navy and Air Forces coequal and autonomous.

William Green, American Federation of Labor president, told the convention, "It is my hope that no further attempts will be made to align labor and the veterans against each other."

National Adjutant Renamed

Green asserted organized labor "has supported and will continue to give its full backing" to legislation for better employment, education and business opportunities for men mustered out of uniform.

In other convention action the Legionnaires adopted measures for improved veterans' benefits, for facilitating employment of veterans and asked that the nation adopt a "definite foreign policy."

Selection of the 1946 convention city was left to the national executive committee, which will meet in Indianapolis, national headquarters, on December 13.

Donald G. Glasscoff, national adjutant, was re-elected in an executive committee meeting immediately following the convention.

DISCUSSES SMALL LINES

Wexman Says 80% Can Convert Without Borrowing

CHICAGO, Nov. 21 (AP)—About four-fifths of the nation's small businesses can finance reconversion without borrowing, Joseph K. Wexman, assistant economist for the Committee on Economic Development, said tonight.

"Small firms retained a good proportion of wartime earnings in spite of high taxes," he said in an address at the University of Chicago.

Elimination of the excess profits tax will benefit only 31,000 of the 500,000 corporations next year, he said. The $10,000 exemption from this tax in 1944 left only about 51,000 liable, he declared.

P.O.W.s Aid Nazi Camp Victims

FORT CUSTER, Mich., Nov. 21 (AP).—German prisoners of war at Fort Custer have donated $10,147.58 to be used among victims of German concentration camps by the International Red Cross, it was announced here today. Lieutenant Colonel Edwin C. Reynolds, prison camp commandant, said that the money, given voluntarily, was saved by the prisoners out of the 80 cents daily wages they receive from the government. Once members of Hitler's army, the prisoners have agreed the money is to be used for families of any concentration camp victims, regardless of race, religion or nationality.

ACCIDENT KILLS CAPT. HURT

Commander of Ship Sunk in War Dies in Hunting Mishap

LEBANON, Va., Nov. 21 (AP)—Capt. David A. Hurt, USN, commander of the warship Perch which was sunk in the Java Sea in 1942, was killed instantly today in a hunting accident in Russell County.

Dr. John McGuire, of Bluefield, W. Va., who was hunting with Captain Hurt, said the naval man apparently tripped over a vine in the thickly-wooded area, discharging the gun accidentally.

The captain, 44 years old, was rescued by the Japanese after the Perch was sunk and was held prisoner from April, 1942, to August, 1945.

After it was reported that his ship was lost, President Roosevelt established a scholarship at Annapolis Naval Academy in memory of Captain Hurt. He was a native of Tazewell, Va., and a graduate of Annapolis.

Three Naval Airmen Are Killed In Crash

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 21 (AP)—Three naval airmen were killed last night when two navy scouting planes collided approximately one mile west of Chincoteague City, Va., Coast Guard public relations office here announced today.

Identity of the three flyers was withheld until next of kin were notified. The pilot of one of the planes survived.

The two planes based at the Chincoteague City Naval Air Station were joining a large formation of planes when they collided. One of the aircraft crashed into the bay with the pilot and radioman and the other returned to the Chincoteague City air base. The radioman was dead on arrival and the pilot was suffering from shock.

The bodies of the two flyers in the plane which fell into the bay were recovered by units of the Coast Guard air-sea rescue.

Mechanic Joins Army To Make More Money

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 21 (AP).—Theodore R. Lineback quit his $45-a-week mechanic's job and enlisted as a private in the Army—because he needed more money.

His Army base pay will be $50 a month. But don't forget those allowances for dependents. Because that's where forty-four-year-old Private Lineback hits the jackpot—he has ten of them.

There's his wife, Edith, and four sons and five daughters, ranging from nineteen-month-old Ralph to fifteen-year-old William. Add family allowances to base pay, plus $10 a month due Mr. Lineback in longevity pay for twelve years' Army service after World War I, and it totals $278 a month.

METHODIST ASSAILS PERON

Bishop Says Argentine Hierarchy Is in League With Dictator

ATLANTA, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Methodist Bishop [illegible] Buenos Aires area said in an interview here today that the Catholic hierarchy in Argentina was in league with the dictatorship of Col. Juan Perón.

Bishop Arthur F. Wesley, who heads the Methodist Church in Argentina, Bolivia and Uruguay, told The Atlanta Journal that Colonel Perón was "an out-and-out Fascist who attempts to duplicate the Hitler regime."

"The hierarchy last year put through a decree which said that all private and public schools must offer Catholic instruction. But the people, even the Catholics, resented this so much that the decree was finally reversed."

Methodism, he said, is not undertaking any sort of anti-Catholic campaign, but is trying to bring evangelical Christianity to that part of the population that is not church-going."

Armed Services Unity Urged By Air Clinic

Oklahoma City, Nov. 21 (AP)—Unification of the armed services under a national defense secretary was recommended by the National Aviation Clinic in a resolution passed in its closing session today.

The resolution, one of fourteen adopted, urged that the air forces be placed on a par with the Army and Navy in the advocated setup, with under secretaries of equal rank representing the three divisions.

In the closing address before the clinic, Igor Sokorsky forecast development of a jet-propelled Helicopter with sufficient power to pick up and land heavy loads in small space.

Sikorsky, engineer for the United Aircraft Corporation, said the helicopter would continue to be limited in size and speed, but would be efficient for short hauls from spots where space prohibits conventional airplane landings.

$50 Bill Returns Safe After Trip To Europe

Minneapolis, Nov. 21 (AP)—Two months ago, Mrs. Emily Anderson inadvertently wrapped a $50 bill in a package she was sending to her soldier son, Corporal Dale Anderson, then stationed in Czechoslovakia.

Before its arrival, the corporal was ordered home and told his pal, Staff Sergeant Robert J. Taylor, of the 317th Infantry, that he could have any packages which might come through. Tyrone And Annabella Make Love For GIs

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 21. (AP)—Tyrone Power and Annabella gave a shipload of GI's an unscreened love scene today when the screen star hurdled the ship rail and jumped to the dock as he spotted his blonde wife among the hundreds on hand to greet the arrival of the U. S. S. Marvin McIntyre.

Power's shipmates yelled encouragement from the decks as the bronzed Marine Air Corps Lieutenant embraced his wife, who came here for the surprise greeting after learning the ship was not to berth at San Francisco as planned.

"How'd you get so smart, Blondie?" Power asked his smiling wife. He then mumbled excuses for his apparel. "Lost all my clothes in the Okinawa typhoon," he explained.

Power, a Marine first lieutenant with 1,100 hours flying time on transports, left Japan three weeks ago. He expects to report to the San Diego Marine separation center soon for discharge.

Commander James E. Bassett, Jr., of the Admiral's staff, said that after retiring Halsey probably would identify himself with private industry.

The 104th under Allen took part in five major battles during six and one half months of continuous fighting in Holland and Germany.

Allen, before leaving for El Paso, Texas, gave a farewell talk to the remaining Timberwolves.

Brig. Gen. William Woodward assumed command of the division.

TO MARRY MISS HAHN

Los Angeles, Nov. 21 (A. P.).—Major Charles Boxer, British Army intelligence officer held prisoner in China for three years by the Japanese, today headed for New York and marriage with Emily Hahn, the American author whose autobiography named him as the father of her daughter Carola, 4 years old.

Boxer, arriving yesterday aboard the Shirrabank from Hongkong, readily discussed the romance which Miss Hahn recounted in her book, "China to Me," published after her return to the United States from China in 1943. Asked if they planned an early wedding he said, "That is certainly my intention."

Boxer last saw Miss Hahn and Carola in the Hongkong prison camp office just before she and the baby left for the United States, he said.

Montgomery Ward Strike Called For Monday By CIO

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—A week-long nation-wide strike affecting an estimated 75,000 employés of Montgomery Ward & Co. was called today for next Monday by the United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employés of America (CIO).

Samuel Wolchok, union president, said at a press conference, where he announced the strike call, that the union was willing to call it off if Sewell L. Avery, company board chairman, accepted "in time" a union proposal sent him last Friday by airmail.

The proposal offered to drop demands for a closed shop and check-off and to submit other proposals to arbitration.

Avery Rejects Arbitration

In Chicago, however, Avery rejected the arbitration proposal, which, he said in a letter to Wolchok, might deprive the company "of the general management of the business."

"Ward's fully accepts unionism," Avery said, ". . . Ward's single purpose is to defend its freedom and the freedom of its employés against the coercion of the closed shop. The closed shop has been the real issue between Ward's and your union for the past eight years. . . .

"Ward's will continue to negotiate and bargain on any proposals your union may submit. If the union and Ward's cannot themselves reach an agreement, no true accord can come through the decision of a third party.

"Our Responsibility"

"Neither the union nor Ward's can properly turn over to an outsider the decision of what the contract shall provide. That decision is our responsibility and we must carry it.

"Ward's may accept arbitration when the matters to be arbitrated and the person who is to arbitrate are accepted as satisfactory. Ward's rejects arbitration which might deprive it of the general management of the business."

Wolchok said the union would adopt "unusual" strike methods.

May 'Repeat The Operation'

"Our plan is not for a long strike," he said. "We are going out for one week and then, from time to time, might repeat the operation."

The plan was devised by the union as a way to "impress the average man—the average citizen—in the United States with Mr. Avery's labor policy and his entire doings toward labor as a whole; with his reactionary methods in dealing with labor," Wolchok said.

The union president declared the strike would affect employés in nine mail-order houses and 646 retail stores throughout the country.

Ship Sponsor Unaware Of Second Son's Death

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Mrs. Frances Damato, 54, of Shenandoah, Pa., was unaware that she had lost two sons instead of the one who was honored today when she christened a destroyer-flotilla leader in his name at the Bethlehem Steel Company's Staten Island shipyard.

Mrs. Damato, mother of eight children, had been told by her other children that the 3,500-ton vessel was named for Marine Corporal Anthony F. Damato, one of her sons, who received posthumously the Congressional Medal of Honor for gallantry against the Japanese in the Marshall Islands.

The other son, Capt. Neil Damato, has been listed as missing in action on a bombing raid over Schweinfurt, Germany, in November, 1943. She has not been told that the War Department confirmed his death.

The cargo vessel, ordered into transport service because of shortage of railroad transportation, was cleared by naval physicians as "livable and habitable" after the demonstration here yesterday.

The Tracker and Searcher are due Friday and the Shah on Saturday. After unloading troops the ships will go to the Norfolk Navy Yard for decommissioning, after which they will be sent to the Navy anchorage in the Rappahannock River.

LONDON, NOV 21-(AP)-C[illegible] BELLAMY IS CONVINCED THAT THE BLACK HILLS OF SOUTH DAKOTA WOULD BE THE BEST WORKSHOP IN THE WORLD FOR THE JOB THE UNITED NATIONS HAVE TO DO.

A RETIRED BUSINESSMAN, BELLAMY CAME HERE FROM HIS HOME IN ATLANTIC CITY, WYO., TO BUTTON-HOLE DELEGATES TO THE PREPARATORY COMMISSION WITH AN OFFER OF A PERMANENT HOME FOR THE UNITED NATIONS.

BELLAMY, WHO SAID HIS PLEAS ARE THOSE OF THE GOVERNORS OF NEBRASKA, WYOMING AND SOUTH DAKOTA, ASSERTED THAT THE REGION WOULD OFFER UP TO

30.24—31803

100 SQUARE MILES OF LAND WHICH IT COULD INTERNATIONALIZE FOR THE UNITED NATIONS WITHOUT CHARGE. THAT IS NEARLY TWICE THE AREA OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

SO FAR, BELLAMY SAID, HE RECEIVED A MIXED REACTION.

"MOST OF THEM FEEL THAT AN ISOLATED AREA, NOT OVERSHADOWED BY LARGE CITIES OR THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT, IS MORE LIKELY TO PROVIDE A HEADQUARTERS WHICH COULD ENSURE THE SUCCESS OF THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATIONS," HE SAID.

BELLAMY, ORIGINATOR OF THE IDEA TO PUT THE UNITED NATIONS SEAT IN THE BLACK HILLS, WAS PRESENT AT THE CONFERENCE AT SAN FRANCISCO TO PUT FORWARD HIS PLAN.

NOV 22 1945

SINCE THEN--AFTER AN ANNOUNCEMENT THAT THE PREPARATORY COMMISSION'S EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE HAD VOTED TO PUT THE UNO HEADQUARTERS IN THE UNITED STATES--THE RACE HAS SPREAD SWIFTLY.

BELLAMY INDICATED THAT HE CONSIDERS CHICAGO AN EASTERN METROPOLIS.

HE SAID THE GOVERNORS OF LOUISIANA, MISSOURI, TENNESSEE AND INDIANA HAVE SIGNED A MEMORANDUM SAYING THEY FEEL THE WORLD CAPITAL SHOULD BE IN THE CENTER OF THE UNITED STATES AND, HE ADDED THAT IN HIS OPINION THE BLACK HILLS IS THE ONLY LOGICAL PLACE.

"THE CENTER OF THE UNITED STATES IS MORE DISPOSED TO ISOLATIONISM

BELLAMY ALSO SAW AMERICAN AMBASSADOR JOHN WINANT, WHOSE SON WAS IN THE SAME BOMBER GROUP--39TH--AS BELLAMY'S SON WHO WAS SHOT DOWN, AND IS BURIED IN ENGLAND.

JACKSON, SINGLING OUT GOERING--WHO EARLIER HAD ATTEMPTED TO DELIVER A PREPARED ORATION BEFORE DECLARING HIMSELF NOT GUILTY "IN THE SENSE OF THE INDICTMENT"--TOLD OF THE REICHSMARSHAL'S CO-DIRECTION OF THE NAZI PARTY ON WHAT THE PROSECUTOR CALLED ITS "LAWLESS ROAD TO POWER."

HE MENTIONED SPECIFICALLY THE FAKED REICHSTAG FIRE OF 1933, GOERING'S MEASURES TO CONFISCATE INSURANCE BENEFITS OF JEWISVPVICTIMS OF THE 1938 POGROM AND HIS INTIMATE ROLE IN THE HIGHEST NAZI COUNCILS WHERE CRIMES ABROAD WERE DRAFTED AND EXECUTED.

DAPPER ALFRED ROSENBERG, NAZI PARTY PHILOSOPHER, AND SMIRKING, BALD-HEADED FRITZ SAUCKEL, CZAR OF FOREIGN CONSCRIPT LABOR, WERE CHARGED REPEATEDLY WITH HEINOUS OFFENSES. SAUCKEL'S PLEA OF NOT GUILTY "BEFORE GOD AND THE WORLD AND MY PEOPLE" WAS COUNTERED BY JACKSON WHO QUOTED A SECRET REPORT FROM SAUCKEL TO HITLER. THIS REPORT, JACKSON SAID, RELATED THAT LESS THAN 200,000 OF THE 500,000 FOREIGN WORKERS IMPORTED DURING HIS ADMINISTRATION CAME TO THE REICH VOLUNTARILY.

JACKSON DIRECTED SOME OF HIS HEAVIEST FIRE AGAINST FIELD MARSHAL WILHELM KEITEL AND COL.GEN.ALFRED JODL, TWO SYMBOLS OF THE GERMAN GENERAL STAFF WHICH THE U.S.PROSECUTOR CALLED "A CRIMINAL GROUP WHOSE EXISTENCE AND TRADITION CONSTITUTE A STANDING MENACE TO THE PEACE OF THE WORLD."

THE TWO OFFICERS, CLAD IN THE FIELD GRAY UNIFORMS OF THE WEHRM HAD DENIED THEIR GUILT TO THE COURT AND JODL ADDED: "WHAT I HAVE D OR HAD TO DO, I HAVE A PURE CONSCIENCE FOR, BEFORE GOD, MY CONSCIENCE AND MY PEOPLE."

IN DISPASSIONATE TONES JACKSON DECLARED BOTH OFFICERS HAD INITIALED ORDERS FOR THE BRANDING OF RUSSIAN WAR PRISONERS, THE EXECUTION OF ALL CAPTURED ALLIED COMMANDOS, THE SHACKLING OF BRITISH PRISONERS, AND THE ASSASSINATION OF FRENCH GENERALS HENRI GIRAUD AND MAXIME WEYGAND.

THE LAST ORDER, THE AMERICAN PROSECUTOR SAID, MISCARRIED BECAUSE OF A RUSE BY ADMIRAL CANARIS, ONE OF THOSE WHO DIED LAST YEAR FOR THE PLOT AGAINST HITLER.

JACKSON DISCLOSED THAT THE PROSECUTION IS IN POSSESSION OF JODL'S OWN DIARY AND THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND'S TEXT OF "PLAN OTTO" FOR ATTACKING AUSTRIA IF THE ANSCHLUSS HAD FAILED; "PLAN GREEN" FOR ATTACKING CZECHOSLOVAKIA; THE PLAN FOR WAR IN THE WEST, "CASE WHITE" FOR THE ATTACK ON POLAND, AND "BARBAROSSA CONTINGENCY" OUTLINING THE RUSSIAN CAMPAIGN SEVEN MONTHS BEFORE THE ACTUAL ATTACK.

HESS, WHOSE ATTORNEY'S EFFORTS TO HAVE HIM DECLARED MENTALLY UNFIT FOR TRIAL, SAT WITHOUT HEADPHONES, NERVOUSLY FINGERING AN UNOPENED NOVEL ON HIS KNEE. HE REPLIED WITH A SIMPLE "NO" TO THE CHARGES AGAINST HIM. JUSTICE LAWRENCE SAID THIS WOULD BE ENTERED AS A PLEA OF NOT GUILTY.

HESS HAD TO BE TAKEN FROM THE COURTROOM ROOM AGAIN TODAY, APPARENTLY SUFFERING FROM ANOTHER ATTACK OF ABDOMINAL CRAMPS. HE WAS BROUGHT BACK AFTER A FEW MINUTES, HOWEVER.

THE PROSECUTORS OF BRITAIN, RUSSIA AND FRANCE CONGRATULATED JACKSON AS THE COURT ADJOURNED AFTER HIS LONG STATEMENT. HIS FULL TEXT WAS TELEGRAPHED TO MOSCOW BY SOVIET NEWSMEN WHO DESCRIBED IT AS "SUPERB."

THE COURT KNOCKED THE MAIN DEFENSE PROP FROM UNDER THE NAZI CHIEFTAINS WHEN IT ABRUPTLY DENIED THEIR CLAIMS THAT THEY COULD NOT BE TRIED FOR WAR GUILT UNDER EXISTING INTERNATIONAL LAW.

THE PLEAS OF INNOCENCE WERE ENTERED IN A HECTIC 10 MINUTES WITH REPONSES VARYING FROM THE DOG-LIKE BARK OF "NO" FROM RUDOLF HESS, HITLER'S ONE-TIME DEPUTY, TO A PASSIONATE REPLY OF "NOT GUILTY IN THE EYES OF GOD" FROM BALDUR VON SCHIRACH, HITLER YOUTH CHIEF.

THE DRAMATIC HIGH POINT OF THE MORNING SESSION WAS REACHED WHEN LORD JUSTICE GEOFFREY LAWRENCE, PRESIDING, CALLED THE DEFENDANTS FORWARD ONE BY ONE, WARNING THEM TO PLEAD MERELY INNOCENT OR GUILTY AND TO REFRAIN FROM SPEECHES WHICH THEY WOULD BE PERMITTED TO MAKE LATER.

DESPITE THE WARNING, HERMANN GOERING, STRIPPED OF HIS MEDALS AND INSIGNIA AS GERMAN REICHSMARSHAL, LUMBERED TO THE MICROPHONE WITH A PREPARED SPEECH IN HIS HAND, AND ATTEMPTED TO READ IT.

PRESIDING LORD JUSTICE GEOFFREY LAWRENCE HALTED HIM. THEN, WITH AN ANGRY GRIMACE, GOERING INTONED:

"I DECLARE MYSELF IN THE SENSE OF THE INDICTMENT NOT GUILTY."

HE WADDLED BACK TO HIS SEAT.

WITH NUERNBERG

(ADVANCE)...WASHINGTON, NOV 21-(AP)-THE UNITED STATES PROMISED TODAY TO TRY TO CONVICT T THE NAZI LEADERS ON TRIAL AT NUERNBERG, GERMANY, WITH THEIR OWN METICULOUSLY KEPT RECORDS INSTEAD OF THE TESTIMONY OF THEIR FOES.

JUSTICE ROBERT H. JACKSON, CHIEF PROSECUTOR FOR THE UNITED STATES, MADE THIS CLEAR IN HIS OPENING STATEMENT BEFORE THE FOUR-POWER WAR CRIMES TRIBUNAL. IN A 20,000-WORD STATEMENT, PREPARED FOR THE TRIAL,S SECOND SESSION, AND MADE AVAILABLE HERE, JACKSON MADE THESE POINTS:

"WE WILL NOT ASK YOU TO CONVICT THESE MEN ON THE TESTIMONY OF THEIR FOES. THERE IS NO COUNT OF THE INDICTMENT THAT CANNOT BE PROVED BY BOOKS AND RECORDS. X X X THESE DEFENDANTS HAD THEIR SHARE OF THE TEUTONIC PASSION FOR THOROUGHNESS IN PUTTING THINGS ON PAPER."

EMPHASIS WILL BE ON THE COMMTN PLAN OF CONSPIRACY AGAINST PEACE AND HUMANITY.

"ONE OF THE DANGERS EVER PRESENT IS THAT THIS TRIAL MAY BE PROTRACTED BY DETAILS OF PARTICULAR WRONGS. X X X WE COULD, WITH WITNESSES' TESTIMONY, PROLONG THE RECITALS OF CRIME FOR YEARS--BUT TO WHAT AVAIL?"

"WE WANT TO REACH THE PLANNERS AND DESIGNERS, THE INCITORS AND LEADERS WITHOUT WHOSE EVIL ARCHITECTURE THE WORLD WOULD NOT HAVE BEEN SO LONG SCOURGED WITH VIOLENCE AND LAWLESSNESS."

IF THE DEFENDANTS SHOULD ESCAPE CONVICTION BY THIS TRIBUNAL THOSE WHO ARE AMERICAN-HELD PRISONERS WILL BE DELIVERED UP TO THE UNITED STATES' CONTINENTAL ALLIES.

AMONG THE NATIONS THE UNITED STATES, HAVING SUSTAINED THE LEAST INJURY, IS PERHAPS IN A POSITION TO BE THE MOST DISPASSIONATE.

"BUT WHILE THE UNITED STATES IS NOT FIRST IN RANCOR, IT IS NOT SECOND IN DETERMINATION THAT THE FORCES OF LAW AND ORDER BE MADE EQUAL TO THE TASK OF DEALING WITH SUCH INTERNATIONAL LAWLESSNESS."

HITLER MADE PLANS AS EARLY AS OCTOBER, 1940, FOR WAR AGAINST THE UNITED STATES; GERMANY WAS INSTIGATING JAPAN TO ENTER THE WAR IN MARCH, 1941.

HEINRICH HIMMLER, NAZI LEADER, LEFT A WRITTEN RECORD OF A CONVERSATION WITH GENERAL OSHIMA, JAPANESE AMBASSADOR AT BERLIN, ON JANUARY 31, 1939. IN THAT RECORD HIMMLER WROTE: "HE (OSHIMA) HAD SUCCEEDED UP TO NOW TO SEND 10 RUSSIANS WITH BOMBS ACROSS THE CAUCASIAN FRONTIER. THESE RUSSIANS HAD THE MISSION TO KILL STALIN. A NUMBER OF ADDITIONAL RUSSIANS, WHOM HE ALSO HAD SENT ACROSS, HAD BEEN SHOT AT THE FRONTIER."

NOV 22 1945

JACKSON SAID THAT IN THE PRISONERS' DOCK "SIT TWENTY-ODD BROKEN MEN" WHOSE "PERSONAL CAPACITY FOR EVIL IS FOREVER PAST."

BUT, HE DECLARED, "THESE PRISONERS REPRESENT SINISTER INFLUENCES THAT WILL LURK IN THE WORLD LONG AFTER THEIR BODIES HAVE RETURNED TO DUST. THEY ARE LIVING SYMBOLS OF RACIAL HATREDS, OF TERRORISM AND VIOLENCE, AND OF ARROGANCE AND CRUELTY OF POWER."

THE DEFENDANTS HAVE SO IDENTIFIED THEMSELVES WITH THE PHILOSOPHIES THEY CONCEIVED AND THE FORCES THEY DIRECTED THAT "ANY TENDERNESS TO THEM IS A VICTORY AND ENCOURAGEMENT TO ALL THE EVILS WHICH ARE ATTACHED TO THEIR NAMES," HE SAID.

THE NAZIS IGNORED THE INTERNATIONALLY AGREED UPON RULES OF WAR, JACKSON DECLARED. FOR EXAMPLE, HE MADE THE CHARGE:

"ON JUNE 1, 1944, IT WAS ORDERED THAT CAPTURED ENGLISH AND AMERICAN AIRMEN SHOULD NO LONGER BE GRANTED THE STATUS OF PRISONERS OF WAR. THEY WERE TO BE TREATED AS CRIMINALS AND THE ARMY WAS ORDERED TO REFRAIN FROM PROTECTING THEM AGAINST LYNCHING BY THE POPULACE.

"THE NAZI GOVERNMENT X XX TOOK PAINS TO INCITE THE CIVILIAN POPULATION TO ATTACK AND KILL AIRMEN WHO CRASH-LANDED. SIMILARLY, WE WILL SHOW HITLER'S TOP SECRET ORDER THAT COMMANDOS, REGARDLESS OF CONDITION, WERE TO BE KILLED TO THE LAST MAN AFTER CAPTURE."

JACKSON CONCEDED THERE IS NO JUDICIAL PRECEDENT FOR THE CHARTER UNDER WHICH THE TRIBUNAL EXISTS, BUT HE SAID INTERNATIONAL LAW GROWS, LIKE COMMON LAW, THROUGH DECISIONS REACHED FROM TIME TO TIME "IN ADAPTING SETTLED PRINCIPLES TO NEW SITUATIONS."

HENCE, HE ASSERTED, "I AM NOT DISTURBED BY THE LACK OF JUDICIAL PRECEDENT FOR THE INQUIRY WE PROPOSE TO CONDUCT."

IN CONCLUDING HIS STATEMENT, JACKSON TOLD THE TRIBUNAL:

"THE REAL COMPLAINING PARTY AT YOUR BAR IS CIVILIZATION.

X X X

"CIVILIZATION ASKS WHETHER LAW IS SO LAGGARD AS TO BE UTTERLY HELPLESS TO DEAL WITH CRIMES OF THIS MAGNITUDE BY CRIMINALS OF THIS ORDER OF IMPORTANCE.

"IT DOES NOT EXPECT THAT YOU CAN MAKE WAR IMPOSSIBLE. IT

NOV 22 1945

DOEE EXPECT THAT YOUR JURIDICAL ACTION WILL PUT THE FORCES OF INTERNATIONAL LAW, ITS PRECEPTS, ITS PROHIBITIONS AND, MOST OF ALL, ITS SANCTIONS, ON THE SIDE OF PEACE, SO THAT MEN AND WOMEN OF GOOD WILL IN ALL COUNTRIES MAY HAVE 'LEAVE TO LIVE BY NO MAN'S LEAVE, UNDERNEATH THE LAW.'"

DEPUTY FUEHRER RUDOLF HESS--"NOT CRAZY BUT WE HAVE TO PUT HANDCUFFS ON HIM BY HIGHER ORDER EVERY TIME HE GOES ACROSS THE YARD TO BE INTERROGATED OR EXAMINED. ACTUALLY HE HAS NEVER BEEN VIOLENT OR CAUSED ANY TROUBLE. THE LAST TIME WE SNAPPED THEM ON HE GRINNED AND REMARKED, "I'M GETTING TO BE AN EXPERT ON HANDCUFFS, I WEAR THEM SO OFTEN."

NAZI PHILOSOPHER ALFRED ROSENBERG--"VAIN AND ARROGANT. HATES TO TAKE ORDERS FROM AMERICANS."

DOENITZ--"GRUFF, SHORT TEMPERED AND GENERALLY MEAN.

NEVER SEEMS TO BE RIGHT WITH THE WORLD."

COL.GEN.ALFRED JODL--"LIKES TO KEEP HIS HEAD UNDER THE BLANKETS, WHICH IS A BOTHER. A GUARD MUST GO INTO HIS CELL AND PULL THE BLANKETS DOWN AGAIN, FOR THE RULE IS THAT THE PRISONER'S HEAD MUST BE SEEN ON EACH PATROL OF THE CORRIDOR."

FIELD MARSHAL WILHELM KEITEL--"NEATEST OF THE WHOLE BUNCH. KEEPS HIS QUARTERS ORDERLY AS IF HIS LIFE DEPENDED UPON IT."

FORMER REICHSBANK PRESIDENT HJALMAR SCHACHT--"HAS THE MOST PERSISTENT INJURED AIR. CLAIMS HE CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY HE IS BEING PROSECUTED BECAUSE HE WAS ALSO ONCE ARRESTED BY HITLER. THINKS EVERYBODYS AGAINST HIM."

DACHAU, GERMANY, NOV. 21--(AP)--PRINCE FRIEDRICH LEOPOLD OF PRUSSIA, DISTANT COUSIN OF THE LATE KAISER WILHELM II AND AN INMATE OF THE NOTORIOUS DACHAU HORROR CAMP FOR A SHORT TIME, TESTIFIED BEFORE AN AMERICAN MILITARY COURT TODAY THAT HE OFTEN SAW INMATES BRUTALLY BEATEN.

THE PRINCE, WHO SAID HE WAS ARRESTED AT BAD GASTEIN, AUSTRIA, IN MAY 1944 FOR LISTENING TO A FOREIGN BROADCAST, TOLD THE COURT HE HAD SEEN MANY DEAD BODIES OF STARVED PRISONERS LYING ABOUT THE CAMP AND THAT HE SAW DEATH TRAINS FROM WHICH BODIES SPILLED WITH AN AWFUL STENCH.

HE TESTIFIED THAT MANY INMATES HAD BEEN BEATEN, KICKED AND PUNCHED UNTIL THEY FELL TO THE GROUND UNCONSCIOUS AND DESCRIBED HOW HE HAD SEEN QUEUES OF NAKED MEN WAITING IN THE OUTDOORS IN THE BITTER COLD FOR EXAMINATION BEFORE BEING SUBJECTED TO MEDICAL EXPERIMENTS.

THE PRINCE DESCRIBED HIMSELF AS LUCKY AFTER RELATING THAT HE HAD SPENT TWO WEEKS IN THE "BUNKER OF HONOR," A TERM WHICH WAS NOT EXPLAINED

NOV 22 1945

IN COURT. HE THEN CONTRACTED DIPHTHERIA AND WAS HOSPITALIZED, ALTHOUGH DR. FRITZ HINTERMEIER, ONE OF THE DEFENDANTS, DIAGNOSED HIS CASE AS ONLY SORE THROAT. HE COMPLAINED BITTERLY OF THE FOOD AND THE HOSPITAL TREATMENT.

THE PRINCE SAID HE WAS EVACUATED TO AUSTRIA, A FEW DAYS BEFORE AMERICAN FORCES LIBERATED THE CAMP, ALONG WITH SOME OTHER DISTINGUISHED INMATES INCLUDING FORMER FRENCH PREMIER LEON BLUM AND DR. KURT SCHUSCHNIGG, FORMER CHANCELLOR OF AUSTRIA.

GERMAN COMMUNIST JOHANN KALTENBACHER, WHO SPENT 11 YEARS IN DACHAU, DESCRIBED MANY ACTS OF BRUTALITY BY DEFENDANT JOSEF SEUSS AND CLARED THAT SEUSS IS NOT A HUMAN BEING." HE DISPLAYED SCARS ON HIS WRISTS WHICH HE SAID WERE CAUSED WHEN SEUSS SUSPENDED HIM BY THE ARMS.

HE QUOTED [redacted] ANOTHER DEFENDANT, [redacted] CHRISTOF-KNOLL, AS SAYING "I HAVE FINISHED 97 JEWS--THREE MORE AND I'LL HAVE EARNED A BREATHING SPACE."

MADRID, NOV. 21-(AP)-THE RETIREMENT OF U.S. AMBASSADOR NORMAN ARMOUR, ANNOUNCED TODAY IN WASHINGTON, LEAVES THE FRANCO GOVERNMENT WITH THIS BIG QUESTION: WILL HE BE REPLACED.

(IN WASHINGTON, INFORMED AMERICAN DIPLOMATS SAID THE UNITED STATES MIGHT FURTHER INDICATE ITS DISLIKE OF THE FRANCO GOVERNMENT BY LEAVING ARMOUR'S POST UNFILLED.)

NOV 22 1945

THE SPANISH AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED STATES, JUAN FRANCISCO DE CARDENAS, IS NOW IN MADRID, PRESUMABLY FOR CONFERENCES WITH HIS GOVERNMENT. LIKEWISE MANUEL AZNAR, SPANISH NEWSPAPERMAN WAS SEVERAL MONTHS AGO WAS NAMED PRESS ATTACHE TO THE SPANISH EMBASSY IN WASHINGTON, ALSO IN SPAIN.

REPORTEDLY THERE ARE MANY REPORTS THAT ARMOUR'S FORTHCOMING DEPARTURE IS CAUSING MUCH CONCERN TO THE SPANISH GOVERNMENT, ALTHOUGH NO OFFICIAL OR SEMI-OFFICIAL REACTION IS AVAILABLE.

SPAIN HAS BEEN INFORMED OF THE SPANISH GOVERNMENT IS AWARE OF PRESSURE WITHIN THE UNITED STATES TO WITHDRAW ITS THE AMERICAN ENVOY, BUT NO MENTION

OF THIS PRESSURE HAS BEEN ALLOWED TO APPEAR IN SPANISH NEWSPAPERS.

ALTHOUGH FAILURE TO NAME A NEW AMBASSADOR IS REGARDED AS A LIKELIHOOD, SOME QUARTERS HOLD THAT SUCH ACTION IS UNLIKELY AS LONG AS THE BRITISH ENVOY REMAINS.

WALTER BUTTERWORTH, COUNSELLOR, WILL BE IN CHARGE OF AFFAIRS AFTER ARMOUR LEAVES.

CHUNGKING, NOV 21 (AP)-A NATIONALIST ARMY, STRIKING 60 MILES INTO MANCHURIA WITHOUT A FIGHT, THREATENED TODAY TO OVERRUN THE COMMUNIST-HELD PORT OF HULUTAO AND SEIZE A SOLID FOOTHOLD IN THE TERRITORY.

A TRIUMPHANT SWEEP ACROSS SOUTHERN MANCHURIA WAS REPORTED BY THE ARMY NEWSPAPER HO PING PAO AS COMMUNISTS CHARGED THE NATIONALISTS HAD MASSED 12,000 TROOPS AND HEAVY GUNS IN HANKOW PASS--HISTORIC INVASION GATEWAY FOR THE MONGOL HORDES IN PAST CENTURIES--FOR A SIMULTANEOUS DRIVE INTO INNER MONGOLIA.

ADVICES REACHING HERE SAID THE COMMUNISTS MIGHT BE FORCED TO YIELD THE PORT, SEIZED AFTER THE RUSSIANS WITHDREW, TO AVOID BEING TRAPPED AGAINST THE SEA BY THE NATIONALIST COLUMNS.

THUS THE NATIONALISTS WOULD GET A PORT AT WHICH THEY ORIGINALLY HAD INTENDED TO LAND THEIR MANCHURIAN OCCUPATION FORCES. AMERICAN SHIPS HAD REFUSED TO PUT NATIONALIST TROOPS ASHORE AT HULUTAO BECAUS THE COMMUNISTS HAD TAKEN OVER AND WERE PREPARED TO RESIST.

WITH HULUTAO AS A BASE, THE NATIONALISTS WOULD BE FREE TO STRIKE NORTHWARD TOWARD CHINHSIEN AND MUKDEN WITHOUT RELYING ON THE OVERLA COASTAL ROUTE OVER WHICH THEY HAVE DRIVEN 60 MILES SINCE OUTFLANKIN AND CAPTURING THE COMMUNIST FRONTIER FORTRESS OF SHANHAIKWAN LAST W

THE COMMUNISTS IN CHUNGKING ALSO ASSERTED A "SERIOUS SITUATION" WAS ARISING IN CENTRAL CHINA. THEY SAID 100,000 GOVERNMENT TROOPS WERE MASSING IN HONAN AND NORTHERN HUPEH PROVINNE.

THEY ADMITTED THAT THE NATIONALIST FORCES ALREADY HAD CAPTURED A NUMBER OF TOWNS BUT CLAIMED THEY HAD DRIVEN THE NATIONALISTS FROM TSINYANG, 220 MILES SOUTHEAST OF YENAN, THE COMMUNIST HEADQUARTERS, WHICH GUARDS THE APPROACHES TO CHENGHSIEN, WHICH LIES 45 MILES TO THE SOUTHEAST AT THE JUNCTION OF THE GREAT NORTH-SOUTH ARTERY, THE PEIPING-HANKOW RAILROAD, AND THE LUNGHAI RAILROAD--MOST IMPORTANT LATERAL ROUTE ACROSS NORTH CHINA.

WHILE NATIONALIST TROOPS DROVE DEEPER INTO MANCHURIA, A FOREIGN OFFICE SPOKESMAN SAID NEGOTIATIONS WITH RUSSIA FOR THE ENTRY OF CHUNGKING'S FORCES BY AIR AND SEA STILL WERE IN PROGRESS.

SHANGHAI, NOV. 21-(AP)-SHANGHAI BAR OWNERS MAY NEVER HAVE HEARD OF EXAS GUINAN'S FAMED "HELLO, SUCKER", BUT THEY USE THE SAME LINE WITH EVEN GREATER SUCCESS--EXCEPT THAT THE SUCKERS DON'T LIKE IT HERE.

AMERICANS ALMOST UNANIMOUSLY SAY THEY HAVE BEEN ROBBED FROM HONOLULU TO SYDNEY TO MANILA AND FROM BOMBAY TO CHUNGKING, BUT NEVER QUITE SO THOROUGHLY AS IN SHANGHAI.

THEY ASSERT THE MODERATION OF THE AUSTRALIAN SQUEEZE, THE FINESSE OF THE INDIAN GOUGE AND THE LAUGHING ACCEPTANCE OF THE HAWAIIAN GYP ARE MISSING HERE---BUT THEY CAN'T SAY THEY AREN'T WARNED.

RESTAURANTS FEATURE PLACARDS WHICH PRACTICALLY ANNOUNCE THAT THE PLACE IS A GYP JOINT. OTHERS SIMPLY WARN YOU TO LOOK AT THE PRICE LIST BEFORE ORDERING.

SEVERICEMEN CLAIM PRICES AUTOMATICALLY RISE FROM 100 TO 200 PER CENT TO UNIFORMED MEN. A CIVILIAN CAN GET HIMSELF PULLED ACROSS TOWN FOR 200 CHINESE DOLLARS BUT A YANK SERVICEMAN OFFERING LESS THAN 600 IS SUBJECTED TO SCREAMED EPITHETS.

NOV 22 1945

THE ANSWER, OF COURSE, IS THAT THE YANKS DON'T HAVE TO BUY, BUT MOST OF THEM WANT TO BRING SOMETHING HOME.

TOKYO, NOV.21-(AP)-MAJ.GEN.CHARLES A.WILLOUGHBY, GENERAL MACARTHUR'S INTELLIGENCE OFFICER FROM CORREGIDOR TO AUSTRALIA AND BACK AGAIN, TOLD A PRESS CONFERENCE TODAY THAT HE WAS "COMPLETELY BAFFLED" BY WHAT HE CALLED UNJUST CRITICISM IN AMERICA OF MACARTHUR'S OCCUPATION POLICY.

THERE WAS ONLY ONE ALTERNATIVE (TO MAKING FULL USE OF THE JAPANESE AND THEIR GOVERNMENT IN CARRYING OUT ALLIED WISHES), HE SAID, "AND THAT WAS TO COME IN SHOOTING."

LANDING IN JAPAN "WITH AN AIRBORNE DIVISION AND A SMILE," HE ADDED, "WE ENTERED INTO A POTENTIALLY DANGEROUS SITUATION AND GOT AWAY WITH IT...WE CARRIED IT TO A BRILLIANT CONCLUSION. AND YET WE HAVE A CURIOUS, OBSCURE, MENACING UNDERTONE, INSPIRED BY SOMETHING TO RAISE A QUESTION ABOUT OUR WORK."

HE SAID, WHEN ASKED ABOUT THE CRITICISM BY AN "OBSCURE SOURCE," THAT "I HAVE AN ACCURATE RECOLLECTION OF WHAT NEWSPAPER IN THE UNITED STATES MENTIONED IT FIRST."

REPLYING LATER TO QUESTIONS BY THE NEWSMEN, HE SAID THAT HE HAD NOTED JAPANESE REPORTS THAT RUSSIANS WERE OCCUPYING THE KURILES, BUT HE DID NOT KNOW THE EXTENT OF SUCH A MOVE. THERE WAS NOTHING QUESTIONABLE IN SUCH AN OCCUPATION, HE ADDED; RUSSIA WAS SUPPOSED TO HAVE THE KURILES AS HER ZONE OF OCCUPATION.

FULL EMPLOYMENT

BY CLAIR JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, NOV. 21-(AP)-SPONSORS OF THE SO-CALLED "FULL EMPLOYMENT" BILL HAILED WITH DELIGHT TODAY THE APPROVAL BY A HOUSE EXPENDITURES SUBCOMMITTEE OF A SUBSTITUTE FOR THEIR MEASURE.

THEY TOOK THIS OPTIMISTIC VIEW DESPITE INDICATIONS THAT THE SUBSTITUTE IS NOT AT ALL WHAT THEY WANT------PROBABLY NOT EVEN A "FULL EMPLOYMENT" BILL.

THEIR REASONING WAS SUMMED UP BY REP. PATMAN (D-TEX), AUTHOR OF THE ORIGINAL ADMINISTRATION-BACKED MEASURE WHICH HAS BEEN STALLED FOR TWO MONTHS IN THE EXPENDITURES COMMITTEE DESPITE PLEAS BY PRESIDENT TRUMAN FOR ACTION.

TOLD THAT COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN MANASCO (D-ALA) HAD DESCRIBED THE APPROVED VERSION AS "A COMPROMISE OF COMPROMISES X X CONTAINING NOTHING OBJECTIONABLE," PATMAN TOLD A REPORTER:

"WE ARE NOT CONCERNED TOO MUCH WITH JUST WHAT KIND OF LEGISLATION THE C IIIIIIIII

"THEN WE CAN AMEND AND REWRITE IT INTO GOOD, WORKABLE LEGISLATION."

BEFORE THE SUBSTITUTE CAN REACH THE FLOOR, HOWEVER, IT STILL HAS TO WIN APPROVAL BY THE FULL EXPENDITURES COMMITTEE. THAT GROUP WILL TAKE IT UP NEXT TUESDAY.

MEANTIME, SUBCOMMITTEE MEMBERS DECLINED TO REVEAL ITS CONTENTS.

MANASCO TOLD NEWSMEN, HOWEVER, THAT HE BELIEVED THE VERSION WOULD BE "AGREEABLE" TO THE FULL GROUP.

ASKED IF IT COULD STILL BE DESCRIBED AS A "FULL EMPLOYMENT" MEASURE, HE REPLIED:

"YOU WILL HAVE TO JUDGE FROM OUR PAST COMMENTS ABOUT THAT."

ON MONDAY MANASCO TOLD NEWSMEN THE FINAL VERSION PROBABLY WOULD NOT CONTAIN ANY ASSURANCE OF A GOVERNMENT GUARANTEE OF JOBS AFOR ALL.

THE PATMAN MEASURE WOULD ENUNCIATE A GOVERNMENT POLICY OF SUPPLEMENTING PRIVATE ENTERPRISE WITH A PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM, IF NECESSARY, TO ASSURE JOBS FOR ALL ABLE-BODIED AMERICANS WHO WANT THEM. A VERSION PASSED BY THE SENATE EARLY IN OCTOBER MODIFIED THIS WORDAGE TO SPECIFY THAT ANY SUCH ACTION MUST BE CONSISTENT WITH FEDERAL "NEEDS, OBLIGATIONS AND OTHER ESSENTIAL CONSIDERATIONS OF NATIONAL POLICY."

SENATE LEADER BARKLEY (D-KY) HAS TERMED THE LATTER LANGUAGE "WATERED DOWN" VERSION OF WHAT MR. TRUMAN WANTS.

ATOMIC-FOREIGN

WASHINGTON, NOV. 21-(AP)-LEFT-OVER ATOMIC BOMBS CAN BE CONVERTED FROM WAR TO PEACE.

OF THE FUTURE---A FUTURE OF PERMANENT PEACE.
THAT IS THE OPINION OF PRESIDENT TRUMAN, WHO QUALIFIES THE CONVERSION POSSIBILITIES, HOWEVER, BY SAYING THAT FIRST THE WORLD MUST ARRIVE AT A STAGE OF INTERNATIONAL SECURITY THAT WILL ASSURE IT AGAINST DESTRUCTION.
THE IMMEDIATE PROBLEM IS ONE OF CONFIDENCE AMONG NATIONS, MR. TRUMAN TOLD A NEWS CONFERENCE YESTERDAY, AND THAT TAKES TIME. RIGHT NOW NATIONS EVERYWHERE, HE ADDED, ARE PAYING MORE ATTENTION TO DOMESTIC TROUBLES AND LESS THAN THEY WILL LATER ON TO FOREIGN PROBLEMS.
HOWEVER, FOREIGN ISSUES ARE PILING UP ON THE CALENDARS AT THE STATE DEPARTMENT AND WHITE HOUSE. HERE ARE SOME OF THE TOP LISTINGS:
1. THE IRANIAN GOVERNMENT, WITH A REVOLT ON ITS HANDS IN RUSSIAN OCCUPIED AZERBAIJAN, WANTS THE UNITED STATES TO USE ITS INFLUENCE WITH THE SOVIET UNION TO HAVE IRANIAN TROOPS ADMITTED TO THEAREA TO PUT DOWN THE REBELS. THE UNITED STATES, ALONG WITH BRITAIN AND RUSSIA, SIGNED A DECLARATION IN 1943 GUARANTEEING IRAN'S INDEPENDENCE, AND THERE WERE STRONG SIGNS HERE THAT SOME SORT OF COMMUNICATION TO BRITAIN AND RUSSIA MIGHT BE DISPATCHED SOON.
2. AMERICAN OFFICIALS HAVE EXPRESSED BELIEF PRIVATELY THAT RUSSIA WOULD LIKE TO SEE CHANGES OF GOVERNMENT IN BOTH IRAN AND TURKEY IN ORDER TO GET REGIMES WITH AT LEAST A COMMUNIST FLAVOR IN WHICH THE KREMLIN COULD FEEL GREATER SECURITY.
3. BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES ARE STILL FUSSING AROUND WITH THE ORGANIZATION OF AN ANGLO-AMERICAN PALESTINE COMMISSION. AN AGREEMENT TO FORM THIS INQUIRY GROUP WAS ANNOUNCED LAST WEEK ALONG WITH A STATEMENT THAT IT WOULD BE SET UP IMMEDIATELY BECAUSE THE PROBLEM OF MAKING A DECISION ON JEWISH IMMIGRATION INTO PALESTINE IS URGENT. MR. TRUMAN SAID HE HAD BEEN CONSIDERING SEVERAL PEOPLE FOR APPOINTMENT TO THE COMMISSION BUT THAT HE COULDN'T NAME ANYONE YET BECAUSE THE BRITISH AND AMERICAN GOVERNMENTS HAVE TO AGREE ON HOW LARGE A COMMISSION IT SHOULD BE.

4. A REPORT BY BRYON PRICE ON CONDITIONS IN GERMANY PROBABLY WILL BE ISSUED SOON. PRICE VISITED GERMANY AS A SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE OF THE PRESIDENT AND STUDIED RELATIONS BETWEEN AMERICAN OCCUPATION FORCES AND THE GERMAN PEOPLE. HE ALREADY HAS SPOKEN OUT SHARPLY AGAINST THE FAILURE---WHICH HE BLAMES ON THE FRENCH---TO ORGANIZE NATIONAL AGENCIES FOR DEALING WITH GERMAN FOOD AND SIMILAR PROBLEMS. MR. TRUMAN SAID THERE WAS NO REASON WHY THE REPORT COULDN'T BE RELEASED BUT THAT IT WAS NOT READY YET. THIS LED TO SPECULATION THAT PERHAPS IT WAS TO BE MODIFIED SOMEWHAT FOR PUBLICATION.
5. CREATION OF A UNITED NATIONS COMMISSION TO TACKLE THE PROBLEM OF ATOMIC ENERGY CONTROLS BEGAN TO SHAPE UP AS ONE OF THE OUTSTANDING ISSUES FOR THE ORIGANIZATIONAL MEETING OF THE UNITED NATIONS AT LONDON IN JANUARY. MR. TRUMAN SAID HE THOUGHT THE COMMISSION SHOULD BE UNDERTAKEN BY THE ASSEMBLY RATHER THAN BY THE SMALLER SECURITY COUNCIL BECAUSE EVERY COUNTRY IN THE WORLD OUGHT TO HAVE A HAND IN IT.
THE PRESIDENT SAID HE HAD NOT YET HEARD FROM FRANCE, CHINA, AND RUSSIA ON THE PROPOSAL PUT FORWARD BY PRIME MINISTERS ATTLEE, MACKENZIE KING AND HIMSELF TO HAVE THE UNITED NATIONS UNDERTAKE TO SET UP ATOMIC ENERGY CONTROLS.

REPLYING TO QUESTIONS, HE SAID THAT ATOMIC BOMBS STILL ARE BEING MANUFACTURED IN THIS COUNTRY FOR EXPERIMENTAL PURPOSES. HE DIDNOT DEFINITE THESE PURPOSES, BUT HE ADDED THAT THE BOMBS COULD BE USED FOR PEACETIME PURPOSES JUST AS WELL BECAUSE THE WHOLE OBJECTVE OF THE ANGLO-AMERICAN-CANADIAN PROGRAM IS TO CONVERT ALL ATOMIC ENERGY TO PEACEFUL USES.
THE PRESIDENT DECLARED WE ARE NOW ON THE THRESHOLD OF THE GREATEST AGE IN THE HISTORY OF MANKIND AND THAT WE MUST GRASP THE OPPORTUNITY AT HAND BECAUSE DOWN THE OTHER ROAD LIES COMPLETE DESTRUCTION.
HE SAID, AND HE GESTURED FOR EMPHASIS, THAT WE WILL HAVE PERMANENT PEACE.

LOS ANGELES, NOV.21-(AP)-WASHINGTON, THE NATION'S CAPITAL, COULD BE DESTROYED BY A TIDAL WAVE CAUSED BY THE DETONATION OF AN ATOMIC BOMB IN THE ATLANTIC OCEAN, SAYS DR. LESLIE W.BALL, LOS ANGELES PHYSICIST WHO WORKED ON THE ATOMIC BOMB PROJECT IN HANFORD, WASH.
ADDRESSING THE UNITED NATIONS COMMITTEE OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA TODAY, DR.BALL SAID THAT WHILE THE UNITED STATES HAS ENOUGH ATOMIC BOMBS FOR THE WHOLESALE DESTRUCTION OF CITIES THROUGHOUT THE FACE OF THE EARTH, ATOMIC WARFARE, NEVERTHELESS, HAS GREATLY WEAKENED THIS COUNTRY AS A WORLD POWER.
"EVEN A RELATIVELY SMALL NATION, SUCH AS PORTUGAL, COULD DEVASTATE THIS AREA BEFORE WE HAD TIME TO MUSTER MORE POWERFUL FORCES. WEALTH OR THE LACK OF IT NO LONGER IS A FACTOR IN MANUFACTURING BOMBS, FOR WHILE WE MAY HAVE TO USE DOLLARS, OTHER NATIONS CAN USE SLAVE LABOR."
DR.BALL SAID THE DEVELOPMENT OF PLUTONIAM AS A SUBSTITUTE FOR URANIUM MEANS THAT THOUSANDS OF BOMBS CAN BE MADE NOW IN THE TIME THAT IT TOOK TO MAKE ONE OR TWO BEFORE.

FRENCH
BY GRAHAM HOVEY
WASHINGTON,NOV.21-(AP)-FRENCH EFFORTS TO GAIN AMERICAN SUPPORT FOR IMMEDIATE PARTITION OF THE RUHR AND RHINELAND FROM GERMANY APPEAR TO HAVE GOT NOWHERE.
MAURICE COUVE DE MURVILLE, POLITICAL DIRECTOR OF THE FRENCH FOREIGN OFFICE, ARRIVED HERE NOV.13 TO PRESENT THE CASE FOR:
1. INTERNATIONALIZATION OF THE COAL-RICH RUHR.
2. CREATION OF A SEPARATE, INDEPENDENT STATE IN THE RHINELAND, WHENCE GERMANY MOUNTED TWO INVASIONS OF FRANCE IN A QUARTER OF A CENTURY.
TONIGHT, THE TALL, YOUTHFUL DIPLOMAT WAS PACKING HIS BAGS. HIS PORTFOLIO DID NOT CONTAIN THE HOPED-FOR PROMISE OF U.S. BACKING.
AMERICAN OFFICIALS TOLD COUVE DE MURVILLE BLUNTLY THAT THE ISSUE THEY WERE MOST CONCERNED ABOUT AT PRESENT WAS IMMEDIATE ESTABLISHMENT OF CENTRAL GERMAN ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES.
THEY MADE IT PLAIN THIS GOVERNMENT RESENTED TACTICS USED BY THE FRENCH TO PREVENT CREATION OF CENTRAL ADMINISTRATION PRIOR TO SETTLEMENT OF THE RUHR AND RHINELAND ISSUES.
BRITISH AND AMERICAN OFFICIALS HAVE IMPLIED THAT THE FRENCH REPRESENTATIVE ON THE ALLIED CONTROL COUNCIL IN BERLIN WAS USING

NOV 22 1945

HIS VETO POWER TO BLOCK SETTLEMENT OF ALL OTHER ISSUES UNTIL GERMANY'S WESTERN BORDER FINALLY HAD BEEN DETERMINED.

THE AMERICAN OFFICIALS INDICATED THEY FELT THIS WAS PREVENTING CARRYING OUT THE POTSDAM TERMS FOR ADMINISTERING GERMANY.

IN ANSWER, COUVE DE MURVILLE AND HIS COLLEAGUES MADE THESE POINTS:

1. FRANCE WAS NOT REPRESENTED AT POTSDAM AND HENCE DOES NOT FEEL BOUND BY DECISIONS OF THAT CONFERENCE.

2. THE FRENCH BELIEVE IT A MISTAKE TO SET UP CENTRAL GERMAN ADMINISTRATIONS BEFORE DETERMINING THE AREA TO BE ADMINISTERED.

3. THE BIG THREE AT POTSDAM ESTABLISHED GERMANY'S EASTERN FRONTIER, IN LINE WITH RUSSIAN AND POLISH WISHES, BUT REACHED NO DECISION ON THE WESTERN BORDER--A MATTER VITAL TO FRANCE.

4. FRANCE BELIEVES NOTHING IS MORE IMPORTANT OR IMMEDIATE TO ITSELF AND ITS ALLIES THAN DECISIVELY STRIPPING GERMANY OF ITS CAPACITY TO PREPARE ANOTHER WAR.

THE CONVERSATIONS ENDED WITH THE U.S.HAVING TAKEN NO STAND FOR OR AGAINST EVENTUAL REMOVAL OF THE RUHR AND RHINELAND FROM GERMANY.

OPPOSING POINTS OF VIEW CAME OUT IN SEPARATE NEWS CONFERENCES.

SECRETARY OF STATE BYRNES TOLD HIS NEWS CONFERENCE THAT HE WOULD CONFER SHORTLY WITH ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE JAMES C.DUNN ON POSSIBLE PLANS FOR MACHINERY TO DEAL WITH THE RUHR AND RHINELAND ISSUES. HE THOUGHT A CONFERENCE OF SEVERAL GOVERNMENTS ON IT MIGHT BE A POSSIBILITY.

Goering Key Figure In 1934 Blood Purge Military Court Told

PRISONER LINKED TO HITLER'S GRAB FOR REICH POWER

American Lawyers Present Convincing Evidence at War Crimes Trial.

SHOW DOCUMENTS

NIGHT

Minutes of Early Meeting of Nazi Officials Presented in Court.

NUERNBERG, Nov. 22. — (AP)— Nazi Interior Minister Wilhelm Frick slipped a legal dagger today into fat Herman Goering, identifying the former Reichsmarshal as the engineer of Adolf Hitler's blood purge of 1934.

NOV 23 1945

NIGHT

The accusation, made in an affidavit, was of two surprises American prosecutors introduced at today's session of the International War Crimes tribunal trying Frick, Goering and 18 other top Nazis.

The second was introduction of the secret minutes of Hitler's first cabinet meetings, at which Hitler, Frick, Goering, former German ambassadors Franz von Papan and Konstantin von Neurath and Walther Funk, economic, minister, plotted to seize power.

The American prosecutors presented a huge mass of documentary evidence in their attempt to prove the first phase of the historic indictment against the Nazi hierarchy —that it had a "common plan or conspiracy" for snatching illegal control of Germany as a first step in world conquest.

Surprise swept the faces of the defendants as Maj. Frank B. Wallis of Boston produced Frick's affidavit, given only a day before the trial opened last Tuesday.

Frick identified Goering as the prime mover in the blood purge of 1934.

While Goering glared at Frick, Wallis read from the affidavit, quoting Frick as saying that Hitler, persuaded by Heinrich Himmler that a putsch was being planned by Capt. Ernst Roehm, gave Goering the order to carry out the mass killings.

"Many people were killed, I don't know how many, who actually did not have anything to do with the putsch — people who just weren't liked very well," said Frick's statement.

Among these Frick named former Reichs-Chancellor Gen. Kurt von Schleicher and his wife, and former Nazi party leader Kregor Strasser, who had differed with Hitler.

Frick's statement said "something like a hundred, even more, were killed who were accused of high treason. All of this was done without resort to legal proceedings. They were just killed on the spot."

The long months of legal work by the American staff bore bitter fruit for the Nazi defendants as time and time again their words came back to plague them. Wallis wove such a skillful legal net with his documents that even the court had trouble keeping up under the deluge of evidence.

Twice German attorneys broke in to stress they must have time to read the hundreds of documents before accepting them as evidence. Justice Geoffrey Lawrence, the court chairman, assured them they would have time.

At the time of the cabinet meetings in 1933 Von Papen was deputy Reichs-Chancelor, Von Neurath was foreign minister, Frick was minister of the interior, and Goering air minister.

Hitler was chancellor, but because the Nazis had less than one third of the members of the Reichstag they were planning to pass an enabling law which put all power into the hands of the cabinet.

Such a law would require a two-thirds vote.

The minutes disclosed that the first suggestion that the Nazi try to obtain such a law came from Von Papen, who said "the German nation needs a rest."

Feared General Strike

Hitler was quoted as saying he would like to suppress the Communist party, because he never could pass the law while the party was in the Reichstag, but that he feared a general strike would result.

Minutes from another cabinet meeting in March, 1933, quoted Goering as saying that the bill could be passed in the Reichstag by refusing admission to a few social democrats.

Frick then pointed the way to elimination of communists from German life by sending them to concentration camps. He was quoted as saying "eventually it might well be necessary to commit to work camps those persons who remain faithful to communism."

It was shortly after this meeting that the enabling law was passed and Hitler became dictator in fact.

The defendants listened carefully.

Goering scribbled furiously for a good part of the day, shaking his head slowly in negation when the prosecution erroneously identified Rudolf Hess as Hitler's successor. When this later was corrected Goering smiled with satisfaction.

Jew baiter Julius Streicher grinned sardonically as he and Dr. Alfred Rosenberg were named among the most vigorous practitioners of the Nazi creed of a "master race."

The tribunal announced acceptance of an examiners' report deeming Streicher sane.

The court also ruled against a motion which asked postponement of the trial in absentia of Martin Bormann, deputy fuehrer who is listed officially as missing.

Streicher Ruled Sane, Must Be Tried

Nuernberg, Nov. 22 (AP)—A mounting pile of documents, ranging from intimate diaries of leading Nazis to carefully worded secret plans of the German high command, was placed before the international tribunal today as the Allied prosecution moved to convict twenty of Hitler's highest aides as war criminals.

As the third day's session opened the four-power court ruled that Julius Streicher, Jew-baiter, was sane and must stand trial and denied a defense motion that asked postponement of the trial of Martin Bormann, Hitler's missing deputy, who is being tried in absentia.

The tribunal accepted a medical board report finding Streicher sane and Lord Justice Geoffrey Lawrence, presiding, ruled that his trial will proceed.

In High Spirits

For the first time since the trial opened two days ago, the accused German leaders appeared in high spirits. Smiling all the time, Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering chatted animatedly with defense counsel. Rudolf Hess, who has had only a vacant stare for most of the court proceedings, laughed for the first time as he talked with former Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop. Even the stern high-command generals, Wilhelm Keitel and Alfred Jodl, were smiling.

Several hundred German documents selected from the file of more than 2,500 amassed by United States investigators will outline in the Germans' own words the scheming and aggression by which Hitler and his henchmen led the world into World War II, declared Col. Robert Storey, of Dallas, Texas, an assistant United States prosecutor.

Rosenberg's Diary

The vital documents, many of them seized by special army intelligence teams, range from Nazi Philosopher Alfred Rosenberg's diary and letters discovered behind the false wall in an eastern Bavarian castle to top-secret Luftwaffe records secreted in Hitler's proposed Alpine redoubt.

Others came from salt mines and buried caches, Storey told the court. He credited Major William S. Coogan with most of the responsibility for screening and analyzing the tons of such material for evidence against the Germans on trial.

Nazi Motion Pictures

The prisoners were in the box well before court convened promptly at 10 A.M., and they gazed with interest at the large white screen at the end of the courtroom, upon which the prosecution intended to project motion pictures of Nazidom in its heyday — more evidence against the German leaders. The films will be familiar to the Germans; they are a Nazi product.

As Storey finished his presentation, Lord Justice Lawrence conferred with his colleagues on the bench, and announced that the tribunal accepted the American method of presenting evidence.

Chain Of Command

Assistant Prosecutor Ralph C. Albrecht, of New York, offered a chart of the construction of the Nazi party, and the defendants, with the exception of Goering, leaned forward and watched the blackboard with great interest.

Albrecht was attempting to establish the chain of the Nazi party command and prove that the leaders could be only National Socialists. The chart showed how each defendant fitted into the system and the part each played. He noted that Goering and Hess were Hitler's chosen successors—and Hess leaned forward and looked inquiringly at Goering, seated beside him.

Assistant Prosecutors Albrecht and Major Frank Wallis, of Boston, Mass., were chosen to introduce the briefs that summarized the mass of evidence that was to follow.

In these documents the prosecution is attempting to show that the Nazi leaders convict themselves. Little of the tons of documentary evidence has come from friendly sources.

Their Own Words

On the contrary, much of it consists of the words of the defendants themselves, neatly recorded with the German passion for thoroughness.

Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief United States prosecutor, reminded the court yesterday that the fate of thousands of more Nazis in Allied hands depended on the outcome of the trial—prisoners such as the SS men, the Gestapo, the German general staff, the Nazi Cabinet and others in Nazi-dominated organizations.

There was some indication that Hitler's henchmen themselves were beginning to understand the true significance of the world's abhorrence of Nazism and its works. This appeared evident in the declaration of the attorney for Hans Fritzsche that the one-time deputy to Propaganda Minister Paul Josef Goebbels was "ready to acknowledge moral guilt for having placed his energies at the disposal of the Nazi regime."

"Carrying Out Orders"

His counsel said Fritzsche reached this conclusion after learning "all about the concentration camps and the other evidence produced." But Fritzsche did not consider himself criminally guilty, because he was "carrying out orders," his counsel said.

Whether any of the other defendants felt the same way was not known, but it was noted that a number of them replied, "Not guilty in the sense of the indictment," when they made their pleas.

Fritzsche was one of those who used those words.

The way was still open, apparently, for hearing on the German attorney's motion that the court was not authorized to try the defendants—possibly after completion of the prosecution's case. The court told the defense that remaining arguments for the motion might be heard at a later date. The motion was denied by the court as the second day's proceedings opened yesterday.

Affidavit From Frick

Before the morning session was adjourned at 12.27 P.M., the rise to power of the Nazi party in the early 1930s was traced by a chart which Prosecutor Albrecht said "has been certified as to accuracy in an affidavit by the defendant Frick." The rest of the defendants gazed without love at the uncomfortable Wilhelm Frick, one-time "protector" of Bohemia.

Albrecht pointed out that under the Nazi structure, party leaders automatically became officers in the SS and the SA.

"The sinister use these men made of this power will be brought out by the prosecution later," he said.

Goering, with lips pursed tightly, furiously scribbled notes as he held with one hand his earphones relaying the translation of the prosecutor's statement.

"Strength Of Character"

Pointing out how the Nazis took over all power, although not representing all the people, Albrecht declared that "only one Cabinet member had the strength of character to remain out of the Nazi party."

"This example was not followed by the defendant Raeder (Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, German fleet commander) nor by the defendant von Neurath (former Foreign Minister Constantin von Neurath)," Albrecht continued. "And if the defendant Schacht (Hjalmar Schacht, former Reichsbank president and Economic Minister) was not already a member of the party —it was not followed by him.

"We are moving in a somewhat shadowy land," Albrecht said in tracing the usurpation of legislative powers by the Nazis, "because many of these acts were by decrees that were secret. Many were never published and were kept from the German people."

Jodl's Part

Albrecht noted that all of the defendants except Jodl were named on the chart of Nazis in key governmental positions. He explained that Jodl was chief of staff of all the armies and that his part would be shown later.

Correcting an earlier statement that Hess was once the No. 1 designee to succeed Hitler, the prosecutor told that court that actually Goering had always held first place as a successor in case the Führer died. Goering nodded emphatic agreement.

Hess Looks Inquiring

Hess, whom British psychiatrists say has complete amnesia, looked inquiringly at Goering when he heard the statement. Goering ignored him. But a few minutes later the plump marshal glanced at Hess and smiled broadly at mention of Hess's flight to Scotland in 1941.

After the noon recess Wallis went back to 1919, tracing the rise of the Nazi party.

He asked the court to take judicial note of the aims of the party, which were the overthrow of the Versailles Treaty, the acquisition of territory lost by German, the acquisition of areas inhabited by "racial Germans" and the acquisition of other territory for "living space."

He declared the Nazis announced again and again they would achieve these objectives by any means whatsoever, legal or illegal, or by war.

NOV 23 1945

Hitler Quoted

He quoted Hitler as saying he was ready "to tear anyone to pieces" who dared interfere with the Nazi aims. Wallis charged that the abortive beer cellar Putsch of 1923 in Munich was an indication that the Nazis intended to proceed illegally.

Touching upon the Nazi doctrine of the master race, Wallis turned directly to the dock and said:

"The defendants (Alfred) Rosenberg and Streicher were particularly prominent in spreading this doctrine."

The assistant United States prosecutor said the "Fuhrer system," on which Nazism was based, is authoritarianism and totalitarianism.

"Can Do No Wrong"

"It meant that the Fuhrer can do no wrong and all under him owe unconditional obedience to him and sub-leaders apointed by him," Wallis said. Supporting this contention, Wallis quoted the oath of allegiance to Hitler.

He continued that totalitarianism meant that the Nazi party dominated everything public and private within the state and touched on every phase of German life.

Wallis traced the noisy demonstrations in the Reichstag after 1930 which made orderly parliamentary progress impossible. He told how governments of Heinrich Bruening and Franz von Papen fell and how Hitler finally became Chancellor in 1933.

Cabinet-Meeting Minutes

He produced the original minutes of the first Hitler Cabinet meeting and quoted Hitler as saying he could suppress the Communist party, but he feared a strike would result.

Under the impact of disturbances caused after the Reichstag fire, Wallis charged, personal liberties were abolished by decree. He said that at the succeeding Cabinet meeting Frick and others urged passage of an enabling act, so worded that the constitution could be broken.

The defendants showed surprise when the prosecutor produced minutes of meeting after meeting of Hitler's first cabinet which included Papen, Frick, Walther Funk and Goering—all on trial. The minutes told in themselves how the Nazis plotted to take over the government by illegal means in the Reichstag.

Concentration Camps

Wallis said that shortly before the elections of March 21, 1933, Frick announced in the Cabinet that concentration camps would be established. By March 24 when the Reichstag convened after the election, an enabling act was passed while many members were absent because they had been detained illegally.

The act virtually set aside the constitution and gave the Nazis unlimited power.

Ribbentrop Appeals to Peers

NUREMBERG, Nov. 22 (AP)—Dr. Fritz Sauter, counsel for Joachim von Ribbentrop, has formally requested the International Military Tribunal to subpoena five members of Britain's House of Lords as witnesses in his trial.

Dr. Sauter said today that von Ribbentrop wanted the Earl of Londonderry, Lord Beaverbrook, the Earl of Derby, Lord Robert Vansittart and Viscount Kemsley to appear. "My client," he said, "wishes to prove he always wanted a treaty of friendship with England. * * * He never participated in any measures looking to war with Britain."

Dr. Sauter said that von Ribbentrop had also asked for the subpoena of a "General Wood" of the United States, whose first name, he said, he did not know.

Will Of Hindenburg Was Forged By Germans, Von Papen Declares

By GEORGE TUCKER

[Copyright, 1945, by the Associated Press]

Nuernberg, Nov. 22 — Franz von Papen has informed the International War Crimes Tribunal that the genuine "last testament" of Field Marshal Paul von Hindenburg urged Adolf Hitler to help restore the Hohenzollern monarchy in Germany and to avoid combining the offices of head of the state and head of the Government.

"The legislative and executive branches must always remain separate," Hindenburg said, as quoted by Papen. "It is my wish that Germany return to the monarchial form of government after my death."

Combined Offices

Hitler was President Hindenburg's Chancellor in the last nineteen months of the Hindenburg regime, and after Hindenburg's death in 1934 combined the presidency and chancellorship into the office of Reichsführer.

The Nazi Government that year published a document described as Hindenburg's last will and testament. Its authenticity was widely questioned, particularly a section that by implication urged Hitler to combine the offices of head of the Reich and head of the Government.

Papen says he drew up the original document at Hindenburg's request, and in a letter dated October 24, 1945, has told the Nuernberg War Crimes Court that the true Hindenburg will was never published. By American request, Papen reconstructed the will from memory while awaiting trial as a war criminal.

"Thoughts Authentic"

"The wording is not identical," he said, "but the thoughts and desires of the Reich President are authentic."

The original document, which Papen says he prepared in April, 1934, while acting as Hindenburg's Vice Chancellor, was reconstructed in a Nuernberg jail cell on the request of Thomas J. Dodd, of Hartford, Conn., a member of Justice Robert H. Jackson's senior trial panel.

Papers relating to the conspiracy count in the indictment against the major Nazi war criminals include a "testament" declared spurious which the Nazis published under Hindenburg's name.

Reason For Warning

Papen told Dodd and the international tribunal that Hindenburg's warning against consolidation of the two high offices was promoted by the obvious danger that Hitler would attempt to have himself elected Reich president or else promote the acquisition of this post by one of his followers.

"Both possibilities had to be prevented," Papen said. "As an alternative, it seemed best to restore the constitutional monarchy."

Papen said he then broached the matter to Hitler, who semed to be completely in favor of the idea. Hitler frequently had voiced admiration for Prussia's rulers, he said.

"It is a good idea to consider restoration of the monarchy," Papen quoted Hitler as saying. "We can do it as soon as I have restored order to the Reich reasonably well. The monarchy must have a good start."

Papen said he went straight to Hindenburg and suggested that he draw up a statement dealing with the monarchy and the question of its succession, through which he might express his last will to the German people.

Papen said Hindenburg agreed and instructed him to prepare the testament.

"As the result of further discussion, it was deemed necessary that if Hindenburg should bequeath such a 'public testament,' he should in his last will express his views not only on the question of succession but also on general foreign and domestic policies and such problems as were occupying the German people at that time," Papen said.

NOV 23 1945

Twice Chancellor

Papen, himself twice Chancellor of Germany, said that Hindenburg's son, Oskar, gave him the will and testament at the time of the funeral.

"Several days later, I personally passed it on to Hitler with the urgent request to carry out the last will of this great historical figure of the German nation," Papen wrote. "The testament was never published as far as I know, not even in parts."

Following is what Papen gave as the reconstructed last will and testament:

"To the Chancellor of the Reich, A. Hitler, Berlin.

"My last will:

"In my advanced age, God may soon call me away from this life. Therefore, I wish to proclaim hereby to you and the German people, to whom the services of all my life were dedicated, my conception and my wishes for the future of the people and the state.

People "Torn Apart"

"In one of the gravest hours in the German people's inner political life, I have called you, Mr. Chancellor of the Reich, to be head of the Government of the Reich. The German people are torn apart into many parties and split and shattered by social struggles which were aggravated by unemployment on an unheard-of scale.

"You have built up a movement which represents a big social program and which desires to re-establish the full sovereignty of the German Reich in matters of foreign policy and to clear it from the unjust blame of being the only one guilty for the World War.

"In approval of this program, to be carried out by peaceful means, I have entrusted to you the leadership of the Government.

"It gives me great happiness to see that the lost sense of national unity is growing again, that the German worker considers himself again a valuable and important part of the German people, that class hatred is vanishing and that peasants, business men and scientists today are again marching hand in hand.

Daily Bread Secured

"A large program of work procurement again secures work and the daily bread for the major part of our people.

"All this represents a big step forward. For, if Germany is to reoccupy her once so respected place in the council of European nations, her inner balance must first be reestablished by unity, law and order.

"The more orderly and just the manner in which a state is governed and administered, the greater the respect and confidence it enjoys in the life of nations, the sooner also will it find readiness to be accorded the rights to which a soverign state is inalienably entitled and which it has the duty to demand by peaceful means.

"Although it is true that in extraordinary times the use of extraordinary methods by a Government is indicated and permitted, the experience of a long life, ripened in long and hard discipline, has taught me that it is necessary to return as early as possible to normal conditions under which the powers of the state can be controlled by parliament and independent agencies.

"Advantageous as it may seem for the moment to replace the many parties of the country by one big, single movement, it is nevertheless necessary that the Government, be it even inspired by the best intentions, should not suppress an opposition which constitutes a control that is valuable and indispensable for the Government itself.

Education Of Youth

"I have especially at heart the education of German youth, which had to suffer so much from the scourge of unemployment.

"It is the (standard) bearer of the German future. Its admission to labor service and education is a gratifying progress. But it is also necesary, above all, not to let degenerate the spiritual basis upon which all education rests.

"The rich history of our fatherland was based for more than a thousand years on the strong foundation of the Christian conception. It is the foremost duty of any government to keep this foundation unshaken.

"Measures against both the servants and the institutions of the Christian churches—although they may have appeared necessary for political or moral reasons—must never shake the Christian heritage on which rests Occidental civilization and the historic mission of Germany.

In Favor Of Monarchy

"When God decides to call me from this life, the question of the head of the Reich will have to be settled anew. A faithful servant of my Emperor and King throughout my long life, I have always been a staunch supporter of the monarchial system of government. History teaches us that the Reich and Prussia, as well as other states, owe their rulers immeasurably much. Therefore, it concerns me deeply that, as a result of the last war, the monarchial form of government was replaced by a republican form. Despite these scruples, I have not hesitated to serve the German people under this form of government when called upon to do so.

"Yet, experience showed me that our nation—politically still weaker than other old democracies without strong authoritative and steady leadership becomes too easily a pawn of its parties and its exploiters. Election of a head of state and formation of governments often were the source of great disturbances and shameful strife.

Separate Branches

"It would also violate sound policies of the state to combine the offices of head of the Reich with the head of the Government on one person. The legislative and executive branches must always remain separated.

"Therefore it is my wish that Germany return to the monarchial form of government after my death. The House of Hohenzollern has a legitimate claim which has been fortified by centuries of glorious history and I am convinced that the descendant of that House will do all to secure peace, happiness and prosperity for the German people of the future.

"I say farewell to the German people with a feeling of deep gratitude for the confidence which it had placed in me, as a soldier in the field and as Reich President. My life and thoughts belong to Germany only. I pray that God may give the fatherland, which has been hit hard by the war, a new future in peace and in prosperity and in brotherly unity of the whole German people. Signed: Von Hindenburg."

ATTLEE AND EDEN ASK COOPERATION

British Leaders Appeal for Mutual Confidence Among Nations.

NOV 23 1945

LONDON, Nov. 22—(AP) Prime Minister Attlee and Anthony Eden today appealed for mutual confidence among all peoples to avoid war, and Eden urged that veto rights under the United Nations Charter be abandoned to lessen the dangers of nationalism in a world of atomic power.

NIGHT

Opening the first full dress debate on foreign affairs since the Labor government came in, Attlee told Commons of his atomic bomb conversations in Washington, and warned that civilization would "perish." if war again engulfs the world

Eden, the wartime Foreign Secretary, speaking for the Conservative opposition, declared the veto power given to Britain, Russia, the United States, France and China in the United Nations Charter was an "anacharonism of the modern world," and asserted, "We have got to take the sting out of nationalism."

Attlee declared the United Nations organization is the one instrument thus far devised which could establish the rule of a law and prevent war—if all nations would resolve to use it.

"I say 'Resolve to use it' because to me here is the essence of the problem: Just as no system of inspection or control of weapons will work without goodwill, so no international organization, however carefully framed, will be of any value unless the nations resolve to lay aside war or the threat of war as instruments of policy, unless they are determined to establish between themselves such mutual confidence that war is unthinkable.

"We can make up our minds that if the world again lapses into war on a scale comparable with that from which we have just emerged, every weapon will be used, and we can confidently expect that full-scale atomic warfare will result in the destruction of great cities, the deaths of millions and the setting back of civilization to an unimaginable extent."

Eden, following Attlee, concurred and declared he was "unable to see any final solution that will make the world safe for atomic power, other than that we all abate our present ideas of sovereignty."

Nothing, Eden added, shows more clearly the continued hold of nationalism on all nations than the decision of the San Francisco conference to retain the power of veto for the Big Five nations in the Security Council of the United Nations organization on any question of using armed force.

"We have got somehow to take the sting out of nationalism," he said. "The United Nations ought to review their charter in the light of discoveries made about atomic energy, which were not before us when the charter was drawn up.

Eden said he hoped that the nations, having looked at the veto clause again, "will decide that the retention of that power (in the charter) is an anachronism of the modern world."

Turning to relations with Russia, Eden said, "No one would deny there has been an increase of suspicion and distrust between the Soviet Union and the other two great partners in victory, the United States and ourselves."

Eden deplored this suspicion, and said he was convinced that future peace depended upon understanding between Britain, the United States and Russia.

To a cheering house, Eden begged "Our Russian friends to believe" that they could make no greater contribution to international understanding than to allow foreign correspondents into Russian territory or territory under Russian control.

He asked Russia to grant "the same full freedom as is allowed Russian correspondents here."

Referring to the troubles in the Iranian province of Azerbaijan, Eden said the Soviet Union would allay world suspicion if it would invite world newsmen to go in and see for themselves what is going an in that area.

"Drop those barriers of censorship and you will blow away in one gust much of the black fogs of suspicion," he said.

Speaking of the report that Iranian reinforcements going to Azerbaijan from Tehran were "turned back by the Soviet authorities," Eden said.

"I must say that I find it impossible to reconcile such action either with the Anglo-Soviet Persian treaty of 1942 or with the Tehran Declaration of 1943" which pledged Russia, Britain and the United States to maintain Iran's sovereignty and territorial integrity.

"I am afraid," he continued, "that this incident is not the only occasion when the Soviets have refused permission to the Persians to move their troops and gendarmerie about in the area under their (Soviet) control" and consequently "suspicions have been raised."

Russia, he said, could take two steps to remove such suspicion—by allowing free movement of Iranian troops in the Russian-occupied area of Iran, and by inviting the press of the world to enter and report its observations freely.

"We want the fullest Russian participation in world affairs on equal terms," said Eden. "We know Russia's arrangements are not aimed against us. We can surely ask her to believe that our arrangements are not aimed against her."

Atom Bomb May Set Civilization Back: Attlee

London, Nov. 22 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee warned all nations today that if the world again lapsed into war on a large scale "atomic warfare will result in the devastation of towns and the deaths of millions."

Opening the Labor Government's first full-dress debate in Commons on foreign affairs, Attlee said atomic warfare would set civilization back "to an unimaginable extent."

Reports On Trip To U.S.

He gave Commons an account of his recent talks in Washington with President Truman and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada on the future control of the atomic bomb.

"In my view, it is impossible to isolate the problem of the atomic bomb from that of the use of other weapons," he said. "The atom bomb is the latest word in destructiveness, but it may not be the last.

"It has brought home to us, as nothing else has done, that if civilization is to survive there must be no repetition of the first and second world wars."

Calls For Reciprocity

Throughout his opening remarks Attlee pleaded for peace and understanding among nations.

"We desire to promote the use of advances in scientific knowledge for peaceful and humanitarian ends and we declare our willingness to exchange fundamental knowledge with any nation that will fully reciprocate," he said.

"I ask the house to note the desire for full reciprocity."

Says UNO Is Practical

Attlee then declared that the United Nations Organization—"if all nations are resolved to use it—could establish the rule of law to prevent war."

"The atomic bomb is here, not something vague and just to be noticed," he said. "I want everyone here and throughout the world to be personally concerned in the success of the United Nations."

He emphasized that no international organization, "however carefully framed," would serve unless the nations were resolved to lay aside war and the threat of war as instruments of policy.

Must Spread Confidence

"Mutual confidence is already established over great areas of the world," the Prime Minister added. "War between Britain and one of the dominions, or one of the dominions with the United States is unthinkable.

"It seems to me that it is the task of statesmen to spread that confidence throughout the whole world."

NOV 23 1945

Partial Text of Attlee Speech

LONDON, Nov. 22 (AP).—An abridged text of Prime Minister Attlee's speech in the House of Commons today on foreign affairs:

Toward the end of September last, I made known to the President of the United States my views on the vital importance to the world of the discovery of atomic energy and that its application to warfare made it essential that those in a responsible position should consider the problems to which it had given rise, and the implications which the emergence of this weapon has on the endeavors we are all making to banish war from the world.

In conveying to him the tentative conclusion to which the government had arrived, I suggested a personal discussion might follow, and in October I received an invitation from President Truman to visit Washington to discuss the whole matter with him and the Prime Minister of Canada.

The Prime Minister of Canada had been over here on a visit and I had the advantage of exchanging views with him. . . .

Met With U. S. Officials

During my stay in Washington I was most kindly entertained and had numerous opportunities of meeting members of the Cabinet, with Senators, Congressmen and other leading figures in the political world. From the day of my arrival, we had constant meetings and talks, most of them taking place at the White House, and we had one long fruitful and pleasant talk on a yacht in the River Potomac.

While the principal subject of our talk concerned the problem we had met to consider, I naturally discussed with the President, Mr. Byrnes and others, matters of common interest and found, as always, a friendly cooperative attitude.

I had the honor of addressing a joint session of Congress and I paid tribute, as I felt sure the House would have wished me to do, to the unsurpassed war effort of the United States of America.

I also told them that I had come with the united good wishes of Britain for the tasks which lay ahead. I am quite sure in the United States of America it is fully realized that there is no difference of opinion in this House about their desire for the utmost co-operation in world affairs with the great republic across the Atlantic. . . .

I should like to say something, first of all, with regard to the approach I made to this question of atomic energy as applied to war. In my view it is impossible to isolate the problem of the atomic bomb from that of the use of other destructive weapons.

There was a time when wars were locally fought out with weapons which to us seem extraordinarily primitive, and in those days the losses and destruction caused by war could often be made up in a few years and, great as was the misery caused, the thing was measurable. Sometimes, even, the losses were slight. Men in authority might count the cost of war as worth while for the advantages, though those advantages seem to us today sometimes almost trifling.

Such an attitude to war is to us impossible. We have seen two world conflagrations and we know the cost, or some of the cost, in human suffering and the destruction of the work of generations of men.

The obliteration of great cities which took place in the last war as a result of shelling and bombing was bad enough. We know too well what the effect of bombing was in London, Coventry, Plymouth and other cities, but any one who has seen Aachen or Stalingrad or Warsaw knows how infinitely greater are the ruins of the continent of Europe.

It was with that object in their minds that the representatives of the nations met at San Francisco, but since then we have had the atomic bomb. Two only were dropped on Japan, but in each instance a large part of a great city and its inhabitants were wiped out. The atom bomb is the latest word in destructiveness, but it may not be the last.

Dangers of a New War

It brought home, as nothing else has done, that if civilization is to survive there must be no repetition of the first and second world wars.

Therefore, when I spoke in the Mansion House [at London on Nov. 9] and in all my discussions, I have considered not just the elimination of the atom bomb from the armory of the nations, but what kind of a world order was necessary in an epoch in which science had placed in man's hands such horrible weapons.

I emphasize this because there have been attempts in the past to eliminate certain weapons and certain methods of warfare, and there have been some successes in the past.

There have been wars in which the Geneva convention has been pretty fairly observed on both sides but, broadly speaking, the attempt to abandon certain weapons has failed.

Gas was banned before the war of 1914-'18, but it was used and I have no doubt that, had the Nazis thought it worth while, they would have used it again. The bombing of open cities once filled the world with horror but it had become an everyday experience of the citizens of London during this war.

NOV 23 1945

No Queensberry Rules

I do not believe that in a warring world except to a very limited extent, there can be a set of Queensberry rules.

I think an attempt on those lines is as futile as the attempt of the knightly conclave at the close of the middle ages to ban that unsporting weapon—gunpowder. We can make up our minds if the world again lapses into war on a scale comparable with that from which we have just emerged, every weapon will be used and we can confidently expect that full-scale atomic warfare will result in the destruction of great cities, the deaths of millions and the setting back of civilization to an unimaginable extent.

That was expressed in a section of the joint declaration which stated the only complete protection for the civilized world from the destructive use of scientific knowledge lies in the prevention of war.

No system of safeguards which can be devised will, of itself, (I emphasize those words), provide an effective guaranty against the production of atomic weapons by a nation bent on aggression.

Role of the U. N. O.

The declaration further says "every nation will realize the overwhelming need to maintain the rule of law among the nations and to banish the scourge of war from the earth."

We have in prospect the meeting of the United Nations Organization.

There is the instrument which, if all the nations resolve to use it, can establish the rule of law and prevent war.

I say "resolve to use it" because, to me, here is the essence of the problem.

Just as no system of inspection or control of weapons will work without good will, so no international organization, however carefully framed, will be of any value unless the nations resolve to lay aside war or the threat of war as instruments of policy, unless they are determined to establish between themselves such mutual confidence that war is unthinkable.

While this is the only real solution, no safeguard having any chance of success should be overlooked or ignored. I say mutual confidence is needed, but it is well to remember that over great areas of the earth's surface this confidence is already established. War between Britain and any one of the dominions is unthinkable. War between Britain or Canada or any one of the states of the United States of America is unthinkable. It is the task of statesmen to spread that confidence throughout the whole world. The declaration made at Washington was made with this object of increasing confidence in order that we may press on with the great task of ridding the world of the fear of war.

Accomplishments So Far

What have we actually done? We the three countries concerned in the discovery and development of atomic energy—the countries which possess the knowledge—have already made available to the world the basic scientific information essential for its development for peaceful purposes.

We declare our willingness to extend the fundamental knowledge and arrange the interchange of essential knowledge with any nation that will fully reciprocate.

We cannot tell what other scientific discoveries may be made and may be used for the purposes of warfare.

Therefore, we ask of nations that they should be prepared to do what we have done and what we are prepared to do.

I now turn to the disclosure of the detailed information concerning the industrial application of atomic energy.

Atomic energy has already

been used for destruction. Its development for peaceful purposes for helping instead of destroying the human race is not likely to be attained for many years.

In the first place, this knowledge cannot be given in a formula or in a blueprint. It can only be done by scientists and technicians being taken to the plant and explaining everything in detail involving these processes and specialized knowledge, which is only in possession of a number of men. That is a matter which would take a long time and to do this for all nations would clearly be a matter of very great difficulty and I can see no reason for singling out particular nations.

Safeguards Desirable

Secondly, this discovery can be used either for peace or war. Can it be wise when the United Nations Organization is only just born and not out of its cradle to broadcast to the world methods of making such a destructive weapon? In our view this must await the growth of confidence and the development of safeguards.

It may be said, what safeguards are of any use? I would ask the House to note the words "by itself" and the words "nations bent on aggression" in section three of the joint declaration.

Where there is not mutual confidence no system will be effective, but where it exists there will be no difficulty. For instance, there is no difficulty between Britain, Canada and the United States. We trust each other and are able to have full, free and frank discussions.

We are working on plans for future co-operation between us in this field and we wish to establish in all nations just such confidence.

It is to be remembered that, although the processes for producing atomic energy are complicated, the product itself is a small thing and the weight of the bomb on Hiroshima was not great. Clearly there must be the most sedulous care taken to control this most dangerous substance.

[Attlee then said that the House would have seen the duties which it was proposed to intrust to the commission.]

It will be remembered that the United Nations organization was set up for the prevention of war and the establishment of the rule of law.

Wants Commission to Act

It is therefore natural to intrust this weapon to the commission which would make recommendations to the organization.

[Here he stressed the importance of the provision that the work of the commission should proceed by stages, which he said emphasized the need for specific action to be based on confidence.]

There is not only atomic energy to be dealt with, but all weapons adaptable for mass destruction. Not one of these weapons had any legitimate place in the armaments necessary for a country's internal security or the protecting of a government against lawlessness.

They are weapons of total warfare designed for mass destruction and we must banish total war from the world if civilization is to continue.

Here is our declaration, and I hope there will be world-wide response to its principles.

The next step will lie with the United Nations organization when the matter is brought before it. It is a matter which cannot be solved by Britain, Canada and the United States of America; it would have been a disservice to the cause we had at heart if we had tried to do so. We have set out our views and pointed out the immediate steps necessary.

This is a world question and for its solution we need not merely co-operation of governments but the will and faith of the people. They have been through so many horrors that perhaps it is difficult for most people to grasp the vista of still greater devastation that is stretched before them unless men could so order their affairs to alter it.

The atomic bomb is here present in the world itself, not something to be noted or a newspaper sensation to be read about; it is a danger that is hung over every one of them—all the people of the world.

The United Nations Organization is here present in the world. It was born almost at the same time as the atomic bomb but it is not something vaguely here, something outside the range of national life; it is the hope of the world and full of immense possibilities. I want men and women in this country and in the world to feel the most vivid personal concern in the success of the United Nations Organization. Unless they applied to a solution of these problems a moral enthusiasm as great as scientists brought to their research work, then our civilization built up over so many centuries would surely perish.

Mr. Eden's Speech

LONDON, Nov. 22 (AP)—An abridged text of former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's speech in Commons today follows:

All sections of the House will join in welcoming home the Prime Minister and Sir John Anderson. A flight across the Atlantic in midwinter is not without its risks, and it is characteristic of both of them that they covered with becoming modesty the fact that there was only one airdrome left in England upon which they could land. It is part of the business of Ministers in these days to take such risks.

We are happy that Mr. Attlee has done so this time without any unhappy consequences. We are glad to see him looking well, here with us again.

I had hoped the Prime Minister would tell us a little more about what steps are to be taken now to give effect to the conclusions reached in Washington. As I understand it, a really new departure at the Washington discussions was that the three powers there charged with this particular responsibility decided it was their duty to take the initiative in this matter in relation to the other nations of the world, and their initiative had been to ask that a commission of the United Nations should be set up which would, by stages it was hoped, and by agreement, deal with this subject.

Asks About Composition

Who is going to compose that commission? Presumably it would be the members of the Security Council. Are there to be any others as well? If so who else, and have the invitations gone out? If they had not when would they go out and who would send them? When would this commission meet? Those were the kinds of questions which we had in mind when we read the admirable basis of work agreed on in Washington.

As I understand the commission was to proceed by stages. In view of the immense intricacy of this subject I think that is right. As I see it, what will happen is if these invitations are accepted, the United Nations commission will meet together and will first exchange this information.

If this exchange is accepted by all of them they had the first stage in the creation of international confidence and would move to the next stage, to the control of atomic energy to the extent necessary to ensure its use for peaceful measures.

The other thing we would like to know is if communications have gone to other nations since the talks were completed. Have any communications gone to Russia about the outcome of the talks?

[Mr. Attlee interposed here and said the Washington declaration was communicated to the Russian Governme[illegible] before it was made public.]

I am much obliged. I think it was useful to get that out.

[Mr. Attlee interposed that the United Nations Organization would itself set up the commission, saying "Therefore, until you have got the United Nations Organization I cannot tell you what the composition of the commission would be. It would be a matter for the United Nations."]

Is the conception that there will be a special meeting of the United Nations Organization to set up this commission? Otherwise, it may be a long time before anything will happen. I understand there is an acting chairman and his suggestion is that someone should send a communication and ask for the commission to be set up; otherwise we may have to wait a long time before even the preliminary stages were taken.

This is what seems to be the fundamental of this problem: The truth is that by the discovery of this atomic energy science has placed us several laps ahead of our international political development, and yet unless we can catch up politically to the point we have reached in science and thus command the power which at present threatens us, we are all going to be blown to smithereens.

Mr. Byrnes put it well when he said the civilized world cannot survive atomic war. I agree with the Prime Minister that no set of rules is going to enable us to survive a future war when this weapon is latent for use, and no safeguards by themselves are going to provide an effective guarantee. They have got to be accompanied by the acceptance of the rule of law among nations.

During this war we had thought at San Francisco to lay the foundations of a new world order. But the truth is that all the events of recent years have tended the same way: to narrow the world and bring us closer together and, therefore, to intensify the shocks and sharpen the reactions before the shock absorbers are ready.

Sovereignty Crux of Problem

Every succeeding scientific discovery makes greater nonsense of old-time conceptions of sovereignty, yet it is not the least use deluding ourselves. It is yet true that national sentiment is still as strong as ever, and here and there it is strengthened by this further complication—the differing conceptions of forms of government and differing conceptions of what words like freedom and democracy mean. So despite some stirrings the world has not been ready to abandon or to modify its old conceptions of soverengty.

Now atomic energy has come to enforce the call for something more. The world family is smaller today than was the European family at the end of the last war. I have thought much of this business of atomic energy both before and since that bomb burst on Nagasaki, and for the life of me I have been unable to see—and I am still unable to see—any final solution that will make the world safe from atomic power other than that we all abate our present ideas of sovereignty. We have got somehow to take the sting out of nationalism. We cannot hope to do this at once. But we ought to start working for it now, and that I submit should be the first duty of the United Nations.

We should make up our minds where we want to go. I know in this respect where I want to go. I want to go to a world where the relations between nations can be transformed in a given period of time. As the relations between England, Scotland and Wales have been transformed.

In the light of discoveries about atomic energy I think that the San Francisco Charter should be reviewed particularly with respect to the veto which is an anachronism in the modern world.

Nobody here will deny that there has been an increase of suspicion and mistrust recently between the Soviet Union and the other two great partners in victory, the United States and ourselves. We all deplore that, and if I make some remarks upon it I hope it will be understood that those remarks are made by one who always has been convinced, and is still convinced, that the future peace of the world depends upon understanding between ourselves, the United States and Russia.

Russians Want Security

We want the fullest Russian participation in all world affairs on equal terms. Many times Russian statesmen have spoken to me and Mr. Churchill of their need for security and the anxiety they feel for friendly relations with their neighbors. We have never disputed that.

The Russians had gone very far in making arrangements with all their neighbors. Against whom are all these Russian arrangements being made? I know the answer. They have given it to us many times. They are made against a possible resurgence of German plans for domination of Europe. The Russians are not as convinced as some people that the Nazi spirit is entirely dead.

Any arrangements between us and our western neighbors are no more aimed against Russia than are Russian arrangements with her neighbors aimed at us. I think it is desirable that that should be plainly stated because I am convinced it is the literal truth. We know that Russian arrangements are not aimed against us.

There continues to be in Britain amongst virtually all sections of the people, a deep desire for friendship with Russia as close and as cordial as we have with the U. S. A. But there is another unhelpful influence which militates against this and which I think should be mentioned. It is the difficulty of getting information out of Russia and out of territories controlled by the Soviet Union.

I would beg our Russian friends to believe that they could make no greater contribution to real understanding between our countries than to allow foreign correspondents in their territory or in territories under their control, the same full freedom as is allowed Russian correspondents here. We have got to get to know each other, and that involves freedom to speak and to comment across frontiers. Drop those barriers of censorship and you will blow away in one gust much of those black fogs of suspicion.

The Iranian Troubles

We have read with some concern in the press of recent disturbances in Northwest Persia [Iran] and of a decision by the Persian Government to send troops to deal with those disturbances and a report that those troops were turned back by the Soviet authorities.

I must say that I find it impossible to reconcile such action either with the Anglo-Soviet-Persian treaty of 1942 or with the Teheran declaration of 1943. That declaration said "the Governments of the United States, the U.S.S.R. and the United Kingdom are at one with the Government of Iran in their desire for the maintenance of the independent sovereignty and territorial integrity of Iran."

From 1940 and still more in 1941, when Russia was attacked, Persia became the happy hunting ground for German agents. The moment that Russia was attacked we had need of those communications through Persia as the only alternative route to the northern convoys, the full story of whose gallantry I pray somebody will one day write as it should be written. To deal with the German agents and to prevent sabotage to the railway it was necessary to take certain military steps. We did so, but we made it plain it was only to insure our supplies to Russia that we intervened in Persia and that we wished to interfere as little as we could with Persian sovereignty.

We were most anxious not to revert to that past and pernicious policy which was called the "spheres of influence" in Persia.

In view of that, when the German war began to come to an end, we became anxious to withdraw our troops and we first raised this matter at Yalta. No decision was reached then about the withdrawal of troops but the Russians there did reaffirm to us their determination to stand by the Teheran agreement. Later, at an early stage of the Potsdam conference, we raised the matter again, and our desire then was to arrange for an early withdrawal, even before the treaty obligation came into force.

The treaty obligation is to withdraw six months after the close of the Japanese war. In London, agreement was reached to withdraw by March 2.

Our task in Persia, and our only task, was to guard the lines of communication and supply and not to interfere in internal affairs in Persia. Those lines of supply are no longer of any importance except for the maintenance of our troops and the Soviet troops who are there. I am afraid this incident is not the only occasion when the Soviets have refused permission to Persians to move their troops and gendarmerie about in the area under their control, and in consequence it is not very surprising that suspicions have been raised.

There are two steps that our Russian allies could take that would remove suspicion. They could make it plain that they have no objection to the free movement of Persian troops in their area and that they would be prepared to give those forces opportunity to move and act when they reached the area. I might also add that here, as elsewhere, the Soviet Union would greatly strengthen its case and remove suspicion and charges by inviting the press of the world to go and see for themselves what is going on in that area and allowing them freely to publish their observations.

I do think it is better in the long run for our relations with Russia, which I hope my record shows I care very deeply about, that one should thus speak frankly when the occasion arises.

I should like to ask what exactly was going on in Greece. We read that the Archbishop has resigned. That is deplorable if it is true because he had given very valued service to Greece at a very critical time; but perhaps resignations in Greece are not quite so serious as they are in this country. Maybe he will come back again.

Even more serious is the news of the postponement for two or three years of the plebiscite in respect of the constitutional future of

Greece.

I am not going into the merits of my desire, if I have any, as to the outcome of the plebiscite, but what I want to say about this delay is that it does run counter to the undertakings which were given to the King by the then Prime Minister and myself when he himself offered not to go back to his country until the country had voted.

We then said and we told the House that the idea was that the plebiscite would be held at an early date. No one in the world can think that two or three years from now can be regarded as an early date.

Regarding the report of financial assistance being conditioned in some way perhaps he can give some information about that also.

I know the Foreign Secretary was disappointed by the breakdown of the London conference. Despite that it is hoped that he would persevere in his efforts to bring about another meeting at which we could do better.

It is, I am sure, only through direct contacts with the Russians and other Allies that suspicions can be ventilated and allayed as they must be if the world is to have a chance to enjoy the enduring peace it deserves. Earlier, I spoke of the destructive possibilities of atomic energy, but there is another side to this stupendous discovery—the possibilities for good, though not so immediate. The world sees, perhaps not so far away, the chance of security or even plenty for all. The world must seize that chance if we are to prove worthy of those who fought and died that we might have it.

Farmers Warned

NOV 3 1945

London, Nov. 22 (AP)—Tom Williams, Minister of Agriculture, told British farmers tonight that failure to co-operate in the Labor Government's planned agriculture program might mean confiscation of their land.

In a radio address, Williams said the Government's policy is intended "to ensure that land is properly farmed, managed and equipped."

He warned that, as "a last resort," land would be taken, at a valuation, from farmers and landowners "who fail to play their part."

Can Tell What To Grow

"There may be a minority, a small minority," Williams said, "who fail to fulfill the responsibilities attaching to ownership or occupation of the land. These we must have the power to control, and we shall seek legislative authority from Parliament to serve compulsory directions."

The Socialist plan for permanent control over Britain's highly intensified agriculture was disclosed in Commons last week. Regarded as certain of passage, it would empower the Government to tell farmers what they must grow. In return, markets and prices would be guaranteed.

Williams said farmers and owners would have the right to put their cases before independent tribunals in the event of confiscation proceedings.

All-Time U.S.-British Alliance Is Forecast

London, Nov. 22 (AP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, told United States service men today that out of the British and American alliance in World War II had grown the conviction that "for all time our two countries shall stand together."

In a special Thanksgiving Day sermon to 3,000 American troops, the Archbishop said "our common cause held us together in an equal partnership of close knit effort, suffering and sacrifice. . . . These things will never be forgotten."

British Paper Warns Of Far East War Peril

LONDON, Nov. 22 (AP).—"The New Statesman and Nation," liberal British weekly, said in an editorial today that the struggle in China "between American imperialism and Soviet Communism provides "the greatest danger of renewed international war."

The editorial asserted that the United States is assisting Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in the training and transport of his armies for action against the Communists.

"It is in the Far East that we are faced with the greatest danger of renewed international war," the paper declared. "It is especially in Manchuria and Korea that the future of Soviet-American relations is now being determined."

27 DIE IN CRASH

LONDON, Nov. 22—(AP) An India-bound Liberator plane crashed and burned on Blackdown Hill, in Devonshire, today, killing 22 British soldiers and five crewmen, the Air Ministry announced.

De Gaulle To Outline Reform Plans Today

NOV 23 1945

NIGHT

Paris, Nov. 22 (AP)—Nationalization of France's credit and electrical systems are first on the list of prime reform legislation which President de Gaulle will outline to the Constituent Assembly tomorrow, usually reliable reports said tonight.

De Gaulle will go before the assembly for expected approval of his new government and its program of action.

De Gaulle held the first meeting of the Cabinet today, and reportedly told Rene Pleven, Finance Minister, and Ambroize Croizat, National Economic Minister, to present to him by next Tuesday the plans for putting credit and electrical power under state control.

SOPHOULIS TAKES OVER PREMIERSHIP IN GREEK CRISIS

ATHENS, Nov. 22—(AP)—Archbishop Damaskinos said today he was definitely resigning as regent of Greece but the new premier, Themistokles Sophoulis, was reported making new attempts to presuade him to change his mind.

NIGHT

Sophoulis, 85-year-old liberal leader whose coalition government was sworn in early today by Damaskinos, was reported holding up the elderly churchman's telegram of resignation to King George II in London in an attempt to stay the withdrawal.

NOV 23 1945

The left wing EAM served notice it would accept the new government "as long as its composition and program remain actually democratic and republican." It was the first time the EAM had reacted favorably to any Greek government.

An EAM communique said it would not insist on participation in the new cabinet, but warned against "any future inclusion of reactionary elements."

The monarchist populist party criticized the new cabinet as "anti-constitutional and dictatorial, a government of oligarchy."

Sophoulis told a press conference that the British had forced Damaskinos to delay up his resignation last night and swear in the new government.

Damaskinos told newsmen simply that "yes, I have tendered my resignation."

Sophoulis said Hector MacNeil, British envoy in Greece, had told Damaskinos that unless he helped set up the new government, MacNeil would leave at once for London as a mark of protest.

John Sophianopoulis, new foreign minister, denied reports appearing in two royalist newspapers saying that if Damaskinos refused to withdraw his resignation the new government might dethrone the king and proclaim a republic.

King George, living in exile in London, handed the reins of government to Damaskinos on Dec. 30, 1945.

Greek Regent Declares He Will Resign

NOV 23 1945

Athens, Nov. 22 (AP)—Archbishop Damaskinos announced today he definitely would resign as Regent of Greece.

He made the announcement to a press conference shortly after the 85-year-old liberal leader, Themistokles Sophoulis, was sworn in as Premier, heading a new Cabinet. Damaskinos said he would make a statement to the Greek people later in the day.

DAY

Sophoulis said in a press conference that Damaskinos was forced by the British to hold up his resignation last night and swear in the new government. He said British envoy Hector MacNeil called upon Damaskinos and told him that unless he helped set up the new government, he (MacNeil) would leave at once for London as a mark of protest.

Retiring Cabinet Lacks Power

Earlier it had been announced that Damaskinos had withdrawn his resignation so that he could swear in the new Government because the outgoing cabinet of Panayotis Kanellopoulis had no constitutional power to do so.

Damaskinos was apparently determined, however, to resign. To his press conference, looking somewhat dejected, the elderly churchman announced: "Yes, I have tendered my resignation."

The announcement of a new Cabinet resolved a sustained crisis.

Follows Day Of Tension

The solution to the crisis came after a day and night of discussions, amid rising political tension, during which British Commander Sir Ronald Scobie was reported to have banned all public gatherings and to have confined British troops in Athens to their barracks.

Sophoulis, ordered Tuesday by Damaskinos to form the new Government, named John Sophianopoulos as his Foreign Affairs Minister. Sophianopoulos held the same post in the Greek Cabinet formed under Premier Petros Voulgaris last April. He resigned the Ministry after his return from the San Francisco United Nations Conference, with a statement demanding a more representative government.

Sophianopoulis also was named Press Minister, provisionally.

Other Cabinet Members

Other appointments included: First Vice Premier without Portfolio, George Kafandaris, leader of the progressive Liberal party, like Sophoulis lauded by the Communist-flavored EAM (National Liberation Front), coalition of a half dozen leftist parties.

Second Vice Premier and Minister of Co-Ordination, Emmanuel Tsouderos, who is known to oppose the monarchist attempts to return King George to his throne.

Mulonas Finance Minister

Minister of Finance, Alexander Mulonas, Peasant Democrat and former Minister of Economic Affairs.

Minister of Interior and, provisionally, Minister of Justice, Constantine Rentis, of the same political faith as the new Premier.

Minister of Supply, George Kartalis, leader of the EKKA (Democratic minority) party.

Minister of Public Works, Theodore Havinis; Minister of Public Order, Stamatis Merkouris; Minister of Education, Athanassiades Novas.

Liberal Cabinet Heads In Italy Due To Resign

NOV 24 1945

Rome, Friday, Nov. 23 (AP)—The Liberal party said early today that Vice Premier Manlio Brosio and other Liberal Cabinet members would withdraw from Premier Ferruccio Parri's coalition Government—an action which probably would force the Premier to resign.

The Liberals, who have been feuding with Leftists over Fascist purge measures and general elections, said their decision to resign from the Cabinet came after a five-hour conference of the six coalition parties with Parri. The Liberals are the most conservative group in the Government.

Germans' Victims Found in Italy

ROME, Nov. 22 (AP)—Dispatches from Massa, in the Ligurian region north of Leghorn, said that workmen had discovered in a pit 360 bodies of persons arrested and shot by the Germans. A commission has been named to exhume and try to identify the bodies.

Another Italian Village Is Reported Raided

Rome, Nov. 22 (AP)—The Italian news agency Ansa said today a masked gang carried off a tenth of the male inhabitants of the village of Villarbasse, near Turin in northern Italy, after ransacking the village while keeping residents at bay with modern automatic weapons.

The invaders fled with their prisoners in automobiles after stealing clothing, food, household goods and money. Turin police began a hunt for the brigands.

Four days ago a gang was reported to have seized the village of Caggio Montano, 170 miles southeast of Turin, and to have held it six hours while robbing the bank and homes. Other instances of banditry have been frequent in northern Italy during recent months.

Belgium Gets 124 U.S. Cows

Antwerp, Belgium, Nov. 22 (AP)—A shipment of 124 cows sent by the Brethren Society Committee of the United States to augment Belgian milk rations, arrived here today. A total of 210 more cattle is expected shortly from the same organization.

Turks Say Reds' Iran Acts Hold War Danger

Green Wald

Ankara, Nov. 22 (AP)—Turkey kept a tense watch toward the East today, but officials kept silence on the reported uprisings in the Soviet-garrisoned Iranian province of Azerbaijan.

The Istanbul newspaper Watan asserted, "This is not an interior problem any more." It said Japanese imperialism started the second World War, and added:

"In the same way Soviet imperialism in Azerbaijan may be the beginning of a third war. The problem is really serious. After a barrel of powder has been set afire, nobody knows where the disaster will stop.

U.S. And Britain Mentioned

"Britain and America have a great responsibility toward the situation."

The newspaper Tasvir said the reported revolt in Azerbaijan was assuming the proportions of a catastrophe, and "if the Allies do not stop Russia, it can be expected that Tehran will fall, as well as the Iran Government, and that a leftist regime will be organized in Iran."

"If countries are not left alone to their own constitutions, the world is being swept toward a third world war," the newspaper said.

Conferences Sought

Tehran, Nov. 22 (AP)—Iranian diplomatic and military men were reported today to be seeking through conferences to break an impasse with Russian occupation forces concerning unrest in the Iranian border province of Azerbaijan.

Without amplification, an Iranian military spokesman declared last night that about 6,000 Soviet troops had been moved toward Karaj, 25 miles northwest of Tehran on the 80-mile highway to Russian winter quarters at Kazvin.

It was near Kazvin that Red Army men on Tuesday halted four battalions of Iranian troops en route to reinforce Government garrisons at Azerbaijan.

Several persons have been reported killed in disturbances attributed by Iranian officials to separatist Democratic party activities.

Russian Report

[In Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass said in a dispatch from Tehran that the speakers of the Azerbaijan language had been forbidden in the schools of Ardebil, a town 21 miles from the Russian-Iranian frontier, and that the school superintendent of Gorgan "has begun preparations for dismissing democratic-minded teachers."]

Premier Hakimi told a special session of the Iranian Parliament that his Government "requests competent and friendly authorities and nations, allies and signatories to the tripartite treaty which still have resident forces in Tehran not to intervene in matters of internal affairs of our country."

The tripartite treaty, signed in 1942 by Britain, Russia and Iran, gave assurances that Russian and British troops would be withdrawn after the war.

6 Palestine Arab Parties Form Joint High Council

Reconcile Differences Under League Leadership

JERUSALEM, Nov. 22 (AP).—For the first time since 1939 political differences among Palestine's six Arab parties have been reconciled under urgent pleas of the Arab League.

Jamil Mardam Bey, former Syrian Premier and chairman of the league's current council session, said today that a new twelve-member Arab higher committee had been formed after nearly a week of conferences at the King David Hotel here.

The committee, formed under Mardam's leadership, includes five members of the most powerful Arab political voice in Palestine—the Palestine Arab party—and leading members of the five other Arab parties. Its members also include Ahmed Hilmi Pasha, Jerusalem banker and president of the Arab Umma (Land Acquisition) Fund.

The committee will present the case of the Arabs in Palestine at a forthcoming meeting of the Arab League Council in Cairo.

12 American Soldiers Injured As Indians Riot In Calcutta

Donald Hutton

Calcutta, Nov. 22 (AP)—Twelve American soldiers were injured today and at least ten other persons were reported killed as rioting crowds surged through Calcutta in demonstrations marking Indian national army day.

At least [illegible] persons were known dead with [illegible] killed by police gunfire today, and scores of demonstrators and police were injured.

The rioting intensified tonight after two days of disorders. Hospitals were jammed. Trucks, including United States vehicles, were set afire.

Begins In Student Protest

The demonstration started yesterday when Calcutta University students marched toward Dalhousie square for a meeting observing Indian national army day to protest resumption of the trials of army personnel at New Delhi. The Indian national army was organized by the late Subhas Chandra Bose to fight beside the Japanese against the Allies.

All Calcutta was placed out of bounds to American troops by Brig. Gen. Robert R. Neyland, commander of the United States base section headquarters here.

Two American officers were beaten by a mob after being forced to halt their command car before a fire barricade across a road in the southern part of the city. The attackers rushed the officers as they were turning the car around. One officer reportedly suffered a fractured skull, while the other, who was able to drive to an army dispensary with his companion, had head lacerations.

One American soldier was attacked by a mob while he was on guard duty at army headquarters. Nine other soldiers were cut and bruised by rocks thrown at military vehicles.

At least 22 military trucks, including some American vehicles and a United States Red Cross truck, were burned by the rioters. The main trouble area appeared to shift from the downtown section to the Tollygunge area in southern Calcutta.

Calcutta's transportation system was paralyzed.

Police Fire Into Crowd

Earlier today police fired at a crowd at a precinct police station, killing one person. Three persons were killed and 53 injured yesterday when police blazed away at demonstrators in downtown Calcutta.

The students had disbanded early this morning, after fourteen hours of unrest, but later they converged on Wellington square in processions from various parts of the city. The square was a sea of faces, flecked with flags from the Congress party, Hindu Mahasaba, Moslem League and Khaksar organizations.

3 Killed In Student Demonstration In India

Calcutta, Nov. 22 (AP)—University students marched off peacefully early today following a fourteen-hour demonstration in the heart of the city, during which three persons were killed and three were seriously injured.

Fifty persons are still in Calcutta hospital receiving treatment, and several others have been treated and released.

Most of the casualties occurred when police fired into demonstrators, who were attempting to reach Dalhousie Square for a meeting to mark the Indian National Army Day, and to protest the resumption of the Indian National Army trials in New Delhi yesterday.

Twelve of the demonstrators have been taken into custody.

British Using Japanese in Java Battle

'Good Troops' Attacking Briskly in Fight for Semarang, Officer Says

Indonesians Avoid New Peace Parley

Morton

Demand First the Dutch End Hostilities; British Had Arranged Meeting

NOV 23 1945

By The Associated Press

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 22.—Japanese troops under British command fought Indonesians in eastern suburbs of the mid-Java port city of Semarang today, while attempts in Batavia to negotiate a peace between the Dutch and Indonesian Republic leaders collapsed.

A British spokesman said the Japanese were "good troops" who fought well.

At least twenty Indonesians were killed in Batavia in the past 24 hours by intermittent sniping and attacks, and a British communiqué reported a "serious outbreak of unrest" in Bandoeng, 75 miles southeast of Batavia.

Refuse To Meet With Dutch

Indonesian leaders here declared they would not meet with the Dutch as long as they keep "their present attitude." A terse communiqué, pointing to a complete breakdown in Dutch-Indonesian negotiations, said:

"Due to actions of the Dutch disturbing the peace among the Indonesians, the Government of the Republic of Indonesia is of the opinion that as long as the Dutch keep their present attitude, we are unable to take part in any meeting attended by the Dutch."

A conference with Lieutenant General Sir Philip Christison, Allied commander in chief in the Netherlands East Indies, had been scheduled for tonight.

One Indonesia spokesman said the Indonesians would negotiate with the British alone, and asserted "when the Dutch give the order for cessation of shooting and when the burning of our villages, and the murdering of our people are stopped by the Dutch, then we shall be willing to talk with them."

Battles Spreading

Battles between Indonesian and British forces were spreading ominously.

From Semarang, the British sent a motorized infantry company of Mahrattas to relieve "beseiged Ambarawa, where 10,000 Dutch women, children and men were reported under attack by Indonesian extremists. Ambarawa was described as the current western Java "hot spot."

En route with artillery, mortars and two tanks to relieve the small garrison forces protecting the internees, the Mahrattas killed eighteen Indonesians and one Japanese deserter in clearing out a bunker just outside Semarang blocking the 25-mile road leading south to Ambarawa. One Mahratta was killed.

Fight Night-Long Battle

A Gurkha battalion, dispatched from Magelang to Ambarawa, fought a night-long battle with Indonesians near Ambarawa, and the British estimated 150 nationalists were killed or wounded. There were ten Gurkha casualties.

Japanese troops directed to clear kampongs (suburban areas) on the eastern side of Semarara, were meeting resistance, and they attacked briskly during the morning.

A British spokesman said the Japanese, like the British forces, were permitted to shoot anyone bearing arms, but they have been "very good" about taking Indonesians prisoners rather than killing them.

Soerabaja Relatively Quiet

The Japanese troops ignored Indonesian pamphlets asking in poor Japanese: "Why are you fighting with the British? The Japanese and Indonesians are friends."

Soerabaja remained relatively quiet. The dawn artillery fire was confined to half a dozen rounds.

A British communiqué said nine Indonesians were killed in shooting affrays in Batavia. The streets of the capital were being patrolled by Mahrattas, aided by tanks of the 11th Cavalry.

Unrest was reported in several other cities, including Bandoeng.

Allied officers said Indonesians in Bandoeng appeared determined to interfere with the work of the organization caring for internees and former Allied prisoners of war.

Indonese Balk At Talks With The Dutch

Morton

Batavia, Nov. 22 (AP)—A tense atmosphere pervaded Java today as leaders of the unrecognized Indonesian republic announced they would refuse to meet with Netherlands East Indies officials "so long as the Dutch keep their present attitude."

DAY

The announcement apparently ended hopes for a conference of Nationalist leaders and Dutch officials with Lieut. Gen. Sir Philip Christison as chairman, scheduled for tonight.

"Due to the actions of the Dutch . . . the government of the Republic of Indonesia is of the opinion that as long as the Dutch keep their present attitude we will be unable to take part in any meeting attended by the Dutch," the communiqué said.

When They Will Talk

The Indonesians made it clear they were willing to negotiate—but with the British alone.

An Indonesian spokesman said that "when the Dutch give an order for the cessation of shooting, and when the burning of our villages and murdering of our people is stopped by the Dutch, then we shall be willing to talk with them."

He took a grave view of the situation in Batavia. In the past 24 hours at least a score of Indonesians were killed in fighting in this capital. Sniping and intermittent attacks continued today while unrest was reported in several other cities.

Amboinese Criticized

The Indonesian spokesman said the Allied announcement that Amboinese troops (Dutch native troops) would be withdrawn from Batavia would not solve the problem, contending that the Amboinese still were being used by the Dutch in other parts of Java. The British indicated that these troops would be evacuated from Java.

The spokesman added that "Dutch troops, many of whom have been interned during the war," were "nervous, high-strung and trigger happy, and just as guilty of indiscriminate shooting as the Amboinese."

Indian troops, reinforced by tanks of the British Indian 11th Cavalry still patrolled the streets here. The patrols killed nine Indonesians in a series of affrays, it was announced officially.

Unrest In Bandoeng

A British communique from Bandoeng said there was a "serious outbreak of unrest" there.

Semarang was said to be quiet, although the streets are still being patrolled.

Fighting broke out yesterday in Ambarawa in central Java, where Indonesians attacked a civilian internment camp with mortar and machine gun fire.

SERGEANT SEEKING HOLIDAY AT HOME

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 22—(AP) Four turkeys flown from Calcutta provided Mess Sergeant Shannon the material for Thanksgiving dinners today for the 14-man air transport command detachment in this tropical, revolution-torn city.

"It was swell but next Thanksgiving meal I want to be home," he told Lt. M. Ashman of Dorchester Mass.

COMMUNIST LEADER IN CHINA 'KILLED

Moosa

Gen. Hsiao Keh Reported Slain in Action in Inner Mongolia.

NOV 23 1945

CHUNGKING, Friday, Nov. 23—(AP) An official dispatch today quoted communist deserters as reporting that the famous communist general, Hsiao Keh, was killed in action in inner Mongolia, Nov. 13.

NIGHT

Teh dispatch also reported abatement of communist attacks against Kweisui, capital of Suiyuan province, and Paotow, western terminus of the Peiping-Suiyuan railroad, both in inner Mongolia.

Paotow has been under seige more than a month.

Chinese Nationalist troops yesterday outflanked the port of Hulutao—military prize of southern Manchuria—with a 15-mile sweep that also menaced the Communist-fortified city of Chinhsien, press dispatches reported.

Plunging 75 miles deep into Manchuria, the Nationalist soldiers of Gen. Tu Li-Ming made the Chinese Communist position in Hulutao untenable and it was possible the latter might flee to avoid being pinned against the coast.

Chungking press reports said Nationalist forces were near the railway town of Lienshan, whose fall would cut off by rail any escape from Hulutao, less than eight miles east of Lienshan.

Thirty miles to the north lies Chinhsien, flanked by frowning hills and a logical place for a Communist stand if they intend to attempt to check the so-far-unchallenged drive toward Mukden.

(Associated Press Correspondent Olen Clements in a dispatch from Tientsin said reports reaching there indicated the Communists were massing troops in Mukden, a city of industries of great strategic value.

(Clements said the Communists were expected to offer stiff resistance at Chinhsien. A Communist spokesman in Chungking also has said the first "big battle for Manchuria" would be fought there, but there have been no indications elsewhere that the Communists were yet ready to bring the Nationalists to battle.)

In their northward thrust, Tu's troops overran Hingcheng on the Peiping-Mukden railroad and pushed on north toward Lienshan without stopping. Lienshan is 150 miles southwest of Mukden.

Railroad Reported Destroyed

The Communists were reported to have destroyed sections of the railroad south of Chinhsien in an attempt to slow the advance.

Other press reports said fighting had flared up again west of the Manchurian operations in the Inner Mongolian province of Suiyuan. They said the Communists had renewed their attacks on the provincial capital of Kweisui and on the Nationalist stronghold of Paotow, farther west.

Peace talks between Nationalist and Communist representatives, which originally were scheduled to open last week end, were further delayed today.

Chou En-lai, Communist leader, is still here, although he was supposed to have left several days ago to consult Communist headquarters at Yenan.

A plane from Shanghai which was to take him to Yenan was found on arrival to need an overhaul, and a second plane supposed to come here from Shanghai never arrived.

Correspondents To Go

A group of foreign correspondents has been given permission by the Chinese Government to accompany Chou to Yenan.

It was not at all certain here that the Communists would send delegates to the peace meeting, which will be delayed at least until next month.

30.24 31825

The Communists at first agreed to attend. Later Yenan asserted there was little use in sending delegates because the central government had convoked a national assembly to draft the new Chinese constitution for next May 5 without consulting the Communists. The Communists have held out for a later date.

Nationalists Take Town Near China-Red Port

Chungking, Nov. 22 (AP)—Nationalists stabbing into Manchuria have captured Hingcheng on the Peiping-Mukden railroad 60 miles northeast of the Great Wall gateway of Shanhaikwan, and are approaching the rail town of Lienshan fifteen miles beyond, a Chinese dispatch said today.

Lienshan is less than eight miles west of the Communist-held seaport of Hulutao, Manchuria, which Nationalists hope to capture as a potential debarkation point for seaborne forces.

Press reports here said that Nationalist defenders of the besieged Inner Mongolian cities of Paotow and Kweisui in Suiyuan province had beaten off fresh assaults of Chinese Communists.

Drive On Kalgan Possible

Another dispatch reported Nationalists were massing in historic Nankow Pass, northwest of Peiping, for a drive against Kalgan, Communist-held capital of Chahar province.

The welter of unconfirmed reports on Chinese-Russian negotiations for the transport of Nationalists into Manchuria widened confusedly. One report alleged that Chinese are renewing appeals for Soviet co-operation to enable movement of 45,000 Nationalist troops by air to Mukden, Manchuria.

Russian restrictions have hitherto made such movement to Manchuria impossible, Nationalist sources here declared.

Communists have destroyed sections of the Peiping-Mukden railroad south of Chinhsien, a rail city north of Hulutao and 100 miles beyond the Great Wall, Chinese dispatches reported. Chinhsien reportedly will be the scene of a major stand by Chinese Communists against Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's advancing troops.

Communists Say U.S. Builds Shanghai Base

Chungking, Nov. 22 (AP)—A Communist spokesman charged tonight the United States was turning Shanghai into a naval base as part of a program to give military and financial aid to Nationalist China.

Without confirmation from any quarter, the Communist spokesman, who never is identified by name, declared that work already had begun on the Shanghai base.

In this latest Communist allegation of American intervention in the undeclared civil war, the spokesman alleged the United States would construct a number of naval bases along China's coast.

He also asserted that the United States would create an economic mission and would make substantial contributions to the enlargement of China's army and navy.

The spokesman said the Communists objected to such a program now because it would strengthen the central government in the civil strife, but that if and when China attained peace under a "democratic" government United States aid would be both welcome and sought.

British To Make Hong Kong Base

Chungking, Nov. 22 (AP)—Major General Festing, commanding British troops at Hong Kong, told correspondents today that these forces, now numbering about 11,000, probably would be increased to 24,000 "eventually."

Festing said Hong Kong would be a naval base supplementing but not superseding Singapore. He said Admiral Sir Bruce Faser, commander in chief of the British Pacific Fleet, would set up headquarters at Hong Kong within a month.

China Wants Board To Control Atom Bombs

Chungking, Nov. 22 (AP)—China's views on control of atomic energy have been communicated to United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes by Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Shih-Chieh, who stressed two points:

1. China hopes that the proposed United Nations commission for control of atomic energy can be set up without delay, to insure that such energy will be diverted from destructive to peaceful ends.

2. China believes that the only complete protection for the civilized world lies in abolition of war, and this can only be brought about by consolidating and extending the authority of the United Nations Organization.

Cotton From U.S. Reaches China

Shanghai, Nov. 22 (AP)—The first cargo of cotton to reach China since the war ended arrived today from the United States in the Victory ship Tucson. She carried 5,000 bales of Mexican cotton from Los Angeles harbor. Shanghai is a leading textile center of the Orient.

U.S. Counterfeit Money Appears In Shanghai

Shanghai, Nov. 22 (AP)—United States military and naval personnel today were warned to watch for an increasing quantity of counterfeit United States currency being passed in Shanghai. The Army's criminal investigation division has made three arrests on charges of counterfeiting $5, $10 and $20 notes by bleaching and reprinting dollar bills. Washington's portrait had been been left intact.

Hotel Boosts Prices, Ruled Out Of Bounds

Shanghai, Nov. 22 (AP)—The United States Navy today placed the sky terrace grill and ballroom of the Park Hotel—one of Shanghai's finest—out of bounds to all military and naval personnel.

Only the fourteenth floor of the hotel is affected by the order, which followed by a few hours a 30 per cent increase in prices posted by the hotel management. Scotch and soda was boosted to $2 per drink, United States currency.

French Say Annamese Are Burning Buildings

Saigon, Indo-China, Nov. 22 (AP)—Jean Henri Cedile, French commissioner for Cochin-China, southernmost Indo-China colony, today said organized Annamese were intensifying a campaign of earth scorching and burning of French buildings at the approach of French reoccupation troops.

Five or six junks, flying the Viet Minh (Nationalist party) or Chinese flags, were sunk by a French gunboat when they ignored its challenges and raced inshore, he said.

Cedile said the French have made concessions to allow greater participation by the Annamese in civil affairs and that reoccupied Mytho had 70 natives among the civil servants up to last week. Some Annamese also have been made provincial prefects in Cochin-China taking over offices formerly held by Frenchmen.

TWO JAPANESE ON LIST JAILED

Araki And Kuzuu Surrender To Occupation Forces

Tokyo, Nov. 22 (AP)—Two prominent Japanese, one of them the sponsor of Hideki Tojo as war premier and the other the leader of the Black Dragon terrorists, surrendered today and were jailed as suspected war criminals.

First to arrive at Sugamo prison was Baron General Sadao Araki, so-called "high priest of the military clut," accused by General MacArthur of being an important influence behind Tojo.

Three minutes later, Yoshihisa Kuzuu, whose Black Dragons injected jingoism into the Japanese people by assassination and terror, pulled up at the gates of the three-story prison.

First Of List Of 11

They were the first to surrender among eleven Japanese war leaders ordered arrested earlier this week. A third, Baron General Shigeru Honjo, who precipitated the conquest of Manchuria, committed hara-kiri.

"The trial will be the best opportunity for clearing the Japanese position, which has been misunderstood by the world," said Araki.

Kuzuu said nothing.

They were clapped into unheated cells and their names were chalked over the doors.

Col. Robert M. Hardy, Yakima, Wash., commander of the prison, said that, this being Thanksgiving Day, the 41 non-Japanese war criminal suspects in Sugamo were fed turkey.

The Japanese were served rice, asparagus soup and tea.

He and Kuzuu were two of the eleven Japanese war leaders ordered arrested earlier this week by General MacArthur. A third, Baron General Shigeru Honjo, committed hara kiri to escape arrest.

Friends Accompany Kuzuu

Araki, a striking figure with long, white mustaches, arrived at the gloomy prison wearing a dark overcoat and morning trousers and carrying a bedding roll and several pieces of luggage.

Kuzuu's appearance three minutes later was considerably more ostentatious. He was accompanied by a large group of friends in a four-auto convoy.

Kuhara "Too Ill"

At the same time it was reported another of the eleven men, millionaire Tokyo politican Fusanosuke Kuhara, was too ill to report at the prison. The 76-year-old former president of the Seiyu-Kai party recently had said he hoped to become one of Japan's reconstruction premiers.

Previously reported ill and unable to give himself up was Yosuke Matsuoka, former Foreign Minister instrumental in negotiating the tripartite pact which bound together Germany, Italy and Japan.

Made Loan To Sun Yat Sen

Kuhara recently asserted he had advanced China's famed Sun Yat Sen over a million yen during that country's revolution. He showed correspondents a scrapbook of receipts signed by Sun in both English and Chinese characters.

The headquarters indictment charged Kuhara with advocating a strong policy toward China and backing Japanese nationalist leaders, including Araki. However, Araki yesterday denied any connection with the Tokyo industrialist, saying, "I haven't even written him a letter."

Prince Fumimaro Konoye, former Premier, submitted a preliminary report on constitutional reform to Emperor Hirohito today, but details were not announced, Kyodo news agency reported. Konoye earlier said that he sought greater powers for the Japanese Diet (Parliament) and fewer for the Emperor.

Two More Jap War Leaders Surrender

Tokyo, Nov. 22 (AP)—Baron General Sadao Araki, socalled "high priest of the military cult," and Yoshihisa Kuzuu, head of the once-feared Black Dragon society, surrendered at Sugamo prison today.

Araki said "the trial will be the best opportunity for clearing the Japanese position, which has been misunderstood by the world."

Yamashita's Aide Blames Others

Manila, Nov. 22 (AP)—Blame for the rape of Manila and thousands of Japanese atrocities in the Philippines became a will-o'-the-wisp in the crossexamination testimony today of Lieut. Gen. Akira Muto in defense of his former boss, Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita.

The man who was Yamashita's chief of staff sought at "the Tiger's" war-crimes trial to shift the blame away from his chief to superiors, subordinate commanders and colleagues.

Who Was In Command?

Who commanded the Japanese divisions whose men raped, tortured and killed, particularly when Nippon's war machine in the Philippines was in its death throes, the General was asked.

Muto replied that the various divisions, while coming under Yamashita at times, actually worked through various field staff generals and field armies. In direct examination, he had said most orders came direct from Tokyo.

And who had responsibility of civil affairs—a field where atrocities were rampant—after Field Marshal Count Hisaichi Terauchi pulled up stakes?

Ambassador Is Blamed

Muto acknowledged that Yamashita was the successor—but insisted the "Tiger of Malaya" actually administered through Ambassador Murata, who held a parallel position.

What about the horrible deaths in prisoner of war camps?

Muto said he heard Yamashita say many times he was "anxious about the care and handling of prisoners of war." But General MacArthur's divisions returned to the Philippines at Leyte in October, 1944, and after that the officers were "so busy" they simply had to depend on the reports of staff officers such as Lieut. Col. Saburo Ishikawa.

Question Of Starvation

But didn't some of the prisoners starve to death?

Muto's reply was that so did Japanese soldiers, adding he believed "the rate in the Army was even higher, due to shortages."

The trial was recessed at noon, for a Thanksgiving Day half holiday. It will reconvene tomorrow morning.

Manila Military Court Bars Hearsay Evidence

Manila, Friday, Nov. 23 (AP)—Trial of seven Japanese officers on charges that they killed two American airmen and five Filipinos at Cebu City last March began today on a startling tone—a ruling that hearsay evidence is unacceptable.

The ruling by Brig. Gen. Arthur Trudeau, law member of the military commission, prompted the prosecution to demand a commission vote on it but Trudeau said his opinion was final.

At today's trial of the seven Japanese, varying in rank from colonel to corporal, a Catholic sister said she saw the Japanese tie the hands of the two American victims, Paul J. Mansella and Harold Scott, and march them away.

Aide Tries To Clear Yamashita Of Blame

Manila, Nov. 22 (AP)—Defense testimony designed to absolve Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita of blame for Japanese atrocities in the Philippines was introduced today at the war crimes trial of the one-time enemy commander here.

Lieut. Gen. Akira Muto, who was Yamashita's chief of staff, sought in his replies during crossexamination to shift the blame to superiors, subordinate commanders and colleagues of Yamashita.

Questioned about deaths in prisoner-of-war camps, Muto said he heard Yamashita say many times he was "anxious about the care and handling of prisoners of war." Asked whether some prisoners had not starved to death, Muto replied that some Japanese soldiers starved, too, "due to shortages."

The trial recessed at noon until Friday morning, for a half-day observance of Thanksgiving.

JAPANESE COLONEL BLAMES NIP NAVY

NOV 23 1945

Witness for Yamashita Declares Food Short for Soldiers and Prisoners.

MANILA, Friday, Nov. 23—(AP) A thin, poorly dressed colonel of the Japanese army tried to pass the buck to the Navy today for the rape of Manila.

A defense witness at the war crimes trial of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, Col. Hiroshi Hashimoto stood before a map and pointed to south Manila — where the heaviest destruction was wrought by the trapped Japanese defenses—as the sector where the bulk of 20,000 Nipponese naval personnel was concentrated. Hashimoto was chief of staff in the Manila defense army group.

He said there were only 1,800 army troops in Manila when General MacArthur's men entered it from the north last February. Navy witnesses previously testified for the prosecution that the naval personnel were turned over to Yamashita's command in those closing days of the fight for the city.

Yamashita's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Akira Muto, another defense witness, was asked why Yamashita did not declare Manila an open city as General MacArthur did in the first weeks of the war, thus sparing it from street fighting.

Muto replied that at least three years of supplies were in the city and the acute transport problem made it impossible to remove them.

Questioned about deaths in prisoner of war camps, Muto said he heard Yamashita say many times he was "anxious about the care and handling of prisoners of war." Asked whether some prisoners had not starved to death, Muto replied that some Japanese soldiers starved too, "due to shortages."

The trial recessed at noon until Friday morning, for a half-day observance of Thanksgiving.

Jap Nurses' Complaints

Tokyo, Nov. 22 (AP)—Nurses of the Japanese Metropolitan Police Hospital in a "bulletin from our hearts" today petitioned the managemen for higher pay and protested that "we can no longer can submit tamely to beast-like treatment."

The hospital director said the 125 petitioning nurses were behaving like "angry children," and that it was all a misunderstanding anyway.

The nurses' demands, distributed in three mimeographed leaflets to patients as well as to the management, asked:

1. Thirty per cent more pay. (They now receive 45 yen—approximately 3 United States dollars—monthly.)

2. Some soap and a place to take a bath.

3. New nurses' robes twice a year.

4. And can't someone please fix the leaks in the roof?

Americans Halt Chinese Clash

TOKYO, Nov. 22 (AP).—American military police, firing shots into the air, broke up a clash between 800 Chinese and 1,500 Koreans in a small mining town on Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost home island, Kyodo news agency said today. One Chinese was killed and scores were wounded in the fighting, which broke out during a theatrical performance. Chinese and Koreans have been used as laborers in the mines of northern Japan throughout the war.

Japanese Observe Own 'Thanksgiving' Holiday

Tokyo, Friday, Nov. 23 (AP)—Japan, facing still unsolved food problems, today commemorated "Niina Mesai," the country's equivalent of Thanksgiving, upon harvesting the autumn rice crop.

Emperor Hirohito offered the first rice to his ancestors at a ceremony within the imperial palace shrine. Other commemorative rites were conducted at the Ise grand shrines.

Many offices and government staffs took a holiday. Otherwise there was little observance.

Yanks Overseas Are Observing Thanksgiving

NOV 23 1945

[By the Associated Press]

Tokyo Rose and the war lords were only memories in the studios of Radio Tokyo today. American Protestant, Catholic and Jewish chaplains were on the air, thanking God once more for the peace that marked their first steps on enemy soil.

Throughout Japan, the Philippines and the American-occupied Orient, troops bowed their heads in equally sincere gratitude—then snapped to grinning attention before mess-hall tables loaded with more than a million pounds of American turkey.

Many Soon To Be Home

Thousands ate in replacement depots where they were awaiting transportation home. Thousands more hope to be home in time for Christmas with their families; yet all realized what the chaplains had stressed: if Japan had not yielded, they'd be dining in foxholes this Thanksgiving Day.

One Victory ship, the Great Republic, arrived in Tokyo Bay recently almost filled with Thanksgiving fare for the troops. Occupation forces in Japan and Korea alone received nearly 1,000,000 pounds of fresh turkey, complete with state-site trimmings.

A Holiday For All Troops

From Yokohama turkey sped by rail and ship to the United States 6th Army troops in southern Japan and to the United States 24th Corps men in Korea. Everywhere army commanders proclaimed a holiday.

In Shanghai naval personnel aboard 105 American ships dined in similar style, although army men ashore ate turkey from cans. Their fresh birds had not yet arrived from the States, but mess sergeants unpacked case after case of tinned turkey á la king.

GI's and generals joined this morning in special worship services at Shanghai's Holy Trinity Cathedral and aboard each ship riding peacefully at anchor offshore came the familiar order as church hour struck:

"Knock off all unnecessary work. Keep silence about the decks."

Football In Europe

American soldiers remaining in Europe on occupation duty observed the day with church services, turkey with all the trimmings, football games and Red Cross dances and parties.

The menu for troops throughout Germany included tomato juice cocktail, roast turkey, giblet gravy and sage dressing, cranberry sauce, mashed sweet potatoes, asparagus, celery, carrot sticks, hot rolls, bread and butter, jelly, hard candy, oranges, apples, pumpkin pie and coffee.

Thousands Send Flowers

Thousands remembered their loved ones at homes with radioed orders for flowers.

Sailors in the crew of the United States carrier Enterprise, who spent last Thanksgiving in the Pacific war zone, observed this Thanksgiving at the Mayor's Thanksgiving service in the Guild Hall of Southampton, England. The ship docked there to embark troops returning from Europe.

In Nuernberg, Germany, 500 military and civilian members of the United States prosecution staff were invited by Justice Robert H. Jackson to attend a Thanksgiving service late today in the courtroom where a score of high Nazi leaders are being tried for war crimes.

Chinese-Korean Clash Broken Up By MP's

Tokyo, Nov. 22 (AP)—American military police, firing shots into the air, broke up a clash between 800 Chinese and 1,500 Koreans in a small mining town on Hokkaido, northernmost home island, Kyodo news agency said today. One Chinese was killed and scores were wounded in the fighting, which broke out during a theatrical performance.

Chinese and Koreans have been used as laborers in the mines of northern Japan throughout the war.

Munition Ship Blast Kills 21

3 G. Is and 18 Japanese Aboard Vessel Dumping Gunpowder

KYOTO, Japan, Nov. 22 (AP).—Three Americans and eighteen Japanese laborers were killed today by an explosion in a small Japanese cargo ship carrying captured munitions in Osaka Bay. The boat was demolished.

Captain William D. Gregorie, commanding a unit assigned to the Island of Awaji in the Bay, said the craft was carrying gunpowder to be dumped at sea. It presumably struck a strax mine.

Names of the Americans killed were withheld pending notification of relatives.

International Press League Urged By Japs

Tokyo, Nov. 22 (AP)—Shingoro Takaishi, chairman of the Newspaper League of Japan, today urged establishment of an international press league "as the most effective way to prevent future wars."

In a statement prepared at the request of Wilbur Forrest, chairman of the American Society of Newspaper Editors committee on postwar press freedom, Takaishi asserted: "Where there is no freedom of news and press, democracy can never be a reality."

Speaking specifically of Japanese newspapers, which now enjoy freedom of the press as the result of an order by General MacArthur, he said papers which once were forced to support the war "are now all out to consolidate the foundation for the country's rehabilitation."

Japanese Relic (Ship) Becoming U.S. Canteen

Tokyo, Nov. 22 (AP)—The Meiji Maru, once one of the largest schooners in the world, is being converted into a Red Cross canteen.

Built in Glasgow in 1875, she was commissioned in 1880 during the reign of Emperor Meiji. She made her last cruise in 1914, then was moored in Tokyo Bay to become a training ship for Japanese merchant seamen.

Subsequently, she was placed on a concrete base in the Sumida River as a relic. There she will be used by the Red Cross, which is installing a snack bar, reading rooms, game rooms and dance hall.

Title Renouncing Opposed

TOKYO, Nov. 22 (AP)—An article in the newspaper, Mainichi, reported today that Emperor Hirohito frowned on the decision of Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni to become a commoner and that he would not permit any prince to renounce his royal status without an extremely urgent reason.

Emperor Hirohito's attitude was reported to have been learned in interviews with the Imperial Household Minister, Sotaro Ishiwata, and other ministry officials.

Prince Higashi-Kuni, whom the Emperor named Premier after Japan's surrender, had proposed that all Princes except the three brothers of the Emperor give up their royal rank.

7 Clergymen Returning

Yokohama, Nov. 22 (AP)—Dr. William S. Jernagin, director of the Washington Bureau, Fraternal Council of Negro Churches of America, was scheduled to leave for the United States today after a two-month tour of all Pacific bases in which Negro troops were stationed.

Buenos Aires Official Accused Of Nazi Link

Buenos Aires, Nov. 22 (AP)—Agustin Rodriguez Araya, a former national deputy, in a court action tonight charged Filomeno Velazco, federal police chief, with malfeasance in office in giving alleged preferential treatment to accused German spies and exposing Argentina to a foreign declaration of war.

Rodriguez, who returned two days ago from exile in Uruguay, made the charge before Judge Horacio Fox and asked for an investigation. He said that while he was in jail in Argentina before his exile he observed the treatment accorded seven men accused of espionage in behalf of Germany.

The men had short-wave radios and photos of Hitler in their cells, he said, and were permitted to sleep at any hour of the day or night, receive visitors, partake of alcoholic drinks and leave the jail without guards.

Decreased Cable Rates Advocated

Bermuda, Nov. 22 (AP)—Spokesmen for British and American delegations at the Anglo-American Telecommunications Conference opening today agreed that international telegraph rates should be reduced.

Sir Raymond Birchall, deputy director general of the United Kingdom Post Office and chairman of the British delegation, said "the level of existing rates is too high and we hope we can agree to substantial reductions." Heads of dominion delegations concurred.

U.S. Objectives Outlined

Paul Porter, FCC chairman, outlined the United States delegation's objectives for maintenance of direct circuits with the British Empire commonwealths instead of routing traffic through the empire system eliminating "artificial restrictions."

He advocated abolition of "exclusive arrangements by which one government deprives all others from communication contacts with certain countries," and called for rates sufficiently low "to stimulate the widest possible dissemination of press and other intelligence."

A British spokesman indicated he would insist on a rate structure that would protect cable systems against ruinous competition from cheaply operated wireless systems. The proposal was supported in principle by the American delegation.

HULL TO TESTIFY TODAY AT PROBE OF PEARL HARBOR

Ailing Former Secretary of State Reported Anxious to Take Stand.

RESENTS INSINUATIONS

Expected to Deny His Counter-proposals Touched Off Attack

NOV 23 1945

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP) Ailing Cordull Hull will give congressional investigators tomorrow his account of the historic events that preceded the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Despite his ill health, the former Secretary of State was described as desirous of appearing before the Senate-House inquiry committee because of implied criticism leveled at him by an Army investigation board.

That board said counterproposals which Hull presented to the Japanese on Nov. 26, 1941, touched off the attack on the Hawaiian naval base at a time when military officials wanted to stall for time to get prepared.

After the board's report was issued last August, Secretary of State Byrnes took sharp issue with its criticism of his predecessor. He said the attack was planned long before Hull's counterproposals.

Naval witnesses, giving the Congressional committee the Japanese version of the attack as complied from captured documents and interviews of the Japanese high command, said the attacking force left its anchorage Nov. 25, 1941. They said it had instructions which left open the possiblity of a return without attack if diplomatic negotiations succeeded.

A coded message from Tokyo, "climb Mt. Niitaka," was described as the final signal for the attack.

Hull's family requested and the committee agreed that his questioning should be limited to 45 minutes at a time to keep from overtiring him.

Summer Welles, who was Undersecretary of State during the period; Joseph C. Grew, Ambassador to Japan in 1941, and Maxwell Hamilton, former head of the department's far eastern division, will help present the state department story.

Questions already have arisen as to the influence the state department was exerting on the disposition of the United States fleet.

Admiral J. O. Richardson, who commanded the fleet for 13 months prior to Feb. 1, 1941, said he found during a visit to Washington in October, 1940, that Dr. Stanley Hornbeck, adviser on Far Eastern affairs, apparently had more to say about it than he did.

It was during this visit, Richardson said, that he protested to President Roosevelt that the fleet should be returned from Hawaiian waters to the west coast.

He quoted the President as saying it must stay in Hawaii because of the "restraining influence" its presence there had upon Japanese aggression.

Richardson said he argued the fleet was undermanned and unready for operations and the Japanese knew it. He said he contended, too that the influence on Japan would be greater if the ships were sent to the West Coast, given full complements and made ready for war.

Lucas Requests Pearl Harbor Plane Data

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP)—Senator Lucas (D., Ill.) called today for army and navy testimony on how many planes were available at Pearl Harbor in 1941 and why no long-range patrols were being flown when the Japanese struck.

A member of the Senate-House committee investigating the disaster, Lucas said he wants to know why, if it was possible to fly a 300-mile patrol in 1940, similar daily reconnaissance could not have been in effect a year later.

"I want to know if the planes were available and weren't being used," he said.

Patrol Called Off

Admiral J. O. Richardson testified earlier that he instituted the air patrol June 18, 1940, when the Army ordered an alert in Hawaii but called it off in December of that year. Previous army and navy inquiries have shown that no regular patrol was flown after Admiral Husband E. Kimmel took over command of the fleet from Richardson on February 1, 1941.

The committee's hearings were in recess today for Thanksgiving, but Lucas asked William D. Mitchell, committee counsel, to obtain information on the number of planes attached to the fleet under Richardson's command and the number under Kimmel's command.

He asked also for a listing of the long-range planes available at the time of the Japanese attack. Lucas said he also wants information on an Army night patrol.

Hull Called Tomorrow

The committee may delay inquiry into this subject, however, because Mitchell announced that the diplomatic side of the story will be aired with testimony tomorrow from former Secretary of State Hull.

Hull, in ill health, can appear for only 45 minutes at a time, the counsel said. He added that Sumner Welles, former Under Secretary; Maxwell Hamilton, former head of the Far Eastern division, and Joseph C. Grew, Ambassador to Japan in 1941, would be called.

Yesterday the committee heard Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy testify that he had guessed late in 1941 that the Japanese might attack the Philippines but that he did not foresee an assault on Pearl Harbor.

How He Reached Decision

Then Ambassador to the Vichy French Government, Leahy said he decided that the Philippine attack might come soon when he was informed that the Germans had forced Marshal Pétain to agree to the entry of Japanese troops into Indo-China.

Leahy, who later became personal chief of staff to the late President Roosevelt, also was asked about a White House luncheon conference, attended by him and Richardson, then commander in chief of the fleet, on October 8, 1940.

Richardson testified earlier that Mr. Roosevelt said then the United States would not fight if the Japanese attacked Thailand or the Dutch East Indies and might not declare war even if they assaulted the Philippines.

Leahy said he couldn't remember hearing any such statement.

Thinks F. D. R. Would Have Acted

"I feel very sure that if Japan invaded the Philippines, which then were under our Government, the President would have recommended that we go to war," the witness added.

Leahy said he remembered well Richardson's telling the President that the Navy was not ready to fight and arguing for its return to the West Coast from Hawaiian waters. But he couldn't remember that the President had expressed any opinion on the latter point, he said.

Lucas said after the hearing he thought "the wind was taken out of the sails" of those who might have thought that Richardson would be a bitter witness against President Roosevelt's 1940 decision to keep the fleet based at Pearl Harbor.

GEN. EISENHOWER IN FAVOR OF UNRRA

NOV 23 1945

Acting Chief of Staff Appears Before House Foreign Affairs Committee.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP) Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower defended UNRRA today on two points its critics have stressed—its operating efficiency and its international makeup.

Although flushed and hoarse from a heavy cold, the Army's new acting chief of staff appeared before the House Foreign Affairs committee on America's national feast day to declare:

1. He knew from his own observation in Germany that the relief agency "is operating with steadily increasing effectiveness." He added that "UNRRA has been infused with new and vigorous leadership in whom I have the fullest confidence."

2. He was "convinced that the best way of developing the habit of (international) cooperation is by building and supporting the effective operating international organizations such as UNRRA." He said that "no nation is opulent enough" to do by itself the relief job Europe needs and that it must be a cooperative venture.

Lehman Reports

Later Herbert H. Lehman, UNRRA director-general, reported in a Thanksgiving Day broadcast over CBS that the agency's operations are "grinding to a standstill" for lack of funds.

Congressional delay in appropriating the remaining $550,000,000 of this fiscal year's authorization, Lehman said, "has added to the suffering of innocent war victims in Europe and China." The appropriation bill, carrying a controversial "free press" amendment, is pending in the Senate.

Even with these funds, Lehman continued, UNRRA operations will stop by mid-February unless the $1,350,000,000 allocation for next year is forthcoming. This measure is before the House Foreign Affairs committee and it was technically on behalf of this that Eisenhower testified.

"A ton of supplies shipped today will achieve immeasurably more than five tons shipped six months from now—after famine and disease have got out of control," Lehman asserted. "It represents the saving of lives by the millions. That is a sober fact.

"Today, the decision whether those millions of lives are to be saved is in the hands of the American people and their government.

"Tonight in ruined Warsaw, nearly a million men, women and children are living in squalid holes and dugouts—without food, without fuel, or warm clothing, or sanitation.

"This month, the month in which we celebrate Thanksgiving in America, 10,000 people in Warsaw alone will die of starvation and disease. It is not pleasant as we sit down to our dinners to know that millions of disease-carrying rats are feeding on corpses lying beneath the uncleared ruins of Warsaw. It is not pleasant—but it is tragically true."

Eisenhower spent 45 minutes before the Foreign Affairs committee. He told it:

"The ravished nations of the world are looking to UNRRA for their relief in this period of their necessity.

"If UNRRA were to fail them, they could not help but feel that not only had the United States failed them but the the hope of solution of world problems through United Nations action was an illusory one."

NOV 23 1945

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—The statement on UNRRA made to the House Foreign Affairs Committee today by General Eisenhower was as follows:

It is a privilege for a soldier to have the opportunity of pleading for assistance in repairing the ravages of war. The Congress has appropriated many billions of dollars during the past few years to enable us to forge the weapons of destruction.

Now that the fighting has ceased and the danger is less obvious, it is perhaps difficult for people in this country to visualize the desperate needs of the people of Europe and the necessity, if our military victory is to have lasting significance, of our successfully completing the job of making possible a peaceful world.

In discharging the responsibility this Government placed upon me during the past few years, I have had the opportunity of seeing conditions in Europe at first hand.

World War II has left most of Europe prostrate. Many cities have been devastated beyond imagination and are a shambles of roofless walls and rubble. Transportation systems have been disrupted. Destroyed bridges still block the waterways of Europe. Railroad travel is a rare and cumbersome operation.

Highway travel is hampered not only by poor condition of the roads but also by shortage of gasoline, trucks and other vehicles. Even the earth has not escaped the effects of six years of war. Such things as the absence of farm labor, the ruinous effects of actual fighting and shortages of the necessary fertilizers have prevented Europe from reaping anything like a normal harvest. There are few places in Europe today where people are not cold, hungry and apprehensive of the future.

"Causes of Despair" Given

In order to eliminate the stagnation and despair in Europe today, it is necessary as a first step to understand their causes. Even in peacetime Germany's key geographical and industrial position in Europe made the rest of Europe dependent upon it to a large extent. After Germany launched her aggressive war and swallowed up one by one the countries of Europe, the Nazis sought to integrate the economies of the conquered countries with that of Germany in order to strengthen the greater Reich as an arsenal of tyranny.

The Nazis not only physically moved factories and imported millions of forced laborers into Germany but took control of those facilities which were left in their normal locations.

Germany controlled raw materials, exhausted foreign credit and tied the currencies of Europe to the mark. Moreover, Europe's transportation was looted and exhausted to support the German war effort. As a result of this natural and forced dependence of Europe upon Germany, the crushing defeat of Germany has had fearful repercussions.

Allied countries were laid waste by the retreating German armies, by patriotic scorched-earth policy, by Allied bombings and combat operations in the area. Moreover, the shattering of Germany automatically eliminated the controls which the Germans had imposed.

Plight of Liberated Areas

The liberated areas of Europe were left without the ability to produce adequate coal, without transportation, without their own skilled labor, with their currencies unsettled, without foreign exchange and without the raw materials to revive industry in the facilities which were left to them.

Since the defeat of Germany every effort is being made to revive liberated Europe. A large proportion of German industrial facilities, eventually, will be distributed to European countries as reparation. Millions of displaced persons have been returned to help rebuild their homelands.

Production of coal in Germany is being maximized for distribution to neighboring countries. Intensive efforts are being made to restore vital transportation systems.

The European countries themselves are exerting every effort to rebuild their own economies. However, no matter how vigorously these efforts are pursued, as a result of the destruction and dislocation caused by the war and the dissipation of their resources in the fight against the Nazis, there will inevitably be a grave transition period through which these countries will have to pass, when they will have to receive outside assistance.

I am fully confident that the people of Europe can recover from the grievous blows they have suffered if they can be helped through this period. However, if this bitter situation is not to become so disastrous as to make men wonder if it was worth while to have taken up arms against the Nazis, we in the United States—which is truly the land of plenty as compared to Europe—must be prepared to discharge a very heavy responsibility.

We must, now, make our proportionate contribution to the relief of Europe in order to insure the permanence of our military victory.

"Wasteful" to Change Now

I have noted suggestions that the United States should discharge this responsibility single-handed. While such a method might prove to be efficient, time will not wait while we organize, as a new venture, the gigantic relief system which is required. The need for the services of an experienced and effective relief organization is immediate. The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration was established to do this specific job and it would be wasteful to dissipate its experience, trained personnel and operating momentum.

In its relief activities, UNRRA now has behind it that experimental period through which any relief organization must pass. It is already operating throughout much of Europe and I know from my own observation in Germany that it is operating with steadily increasing effectiveness.

There are in the western area of Germany over 5,000 trained UNRRA personnel who are rendering valuable assistance to the military in the care and handling of United Nations and stateless displaced persons. UNRRA has its own central organization, and its individuals are operating most of the stations in which displaced persons are housed. This is a remarkable achievement in the face of the many difficulties which have confronted UNRRA.

Shipping Situation Eased

During the war it was inevitable that our military forces and those of our Allies should have had the first call on resources of personnel, shipping, equipment and supplies of all kinds. This situation seriously handicapped UNRRA in its earlier operation. Today the shipping and supply situation has eased.

Moreover, UNRRA has been infused with new and vigorous leadership in whom I have the fullest confidence. The British have made available to UNRRA my former Deputy Chief of Staff, General Morgan, and my former chief administrative officer, General Gale, who are now in active charge of UNRRA operations in the field. These men, typical of the new leadership, are experienced administrators of unquestionable competence.

I think there is an even more important reason why UNRRA and not a purely United States relief organization should do this job. In the war against the Axis powers we recognized that all the world was a battleground. It was impossible to consider one theatre of operations separat ly from the others. There was but one war even though fought around the globe. Every battle, wherever fought, affected the outcome of the war. In this situation we achieved military success only by the splendid cooperation and mutual tolerance and respect of the Allied powers and Associated United Nations.

I am one of those who believes freely that any permanent maintenance of the peace is dependent on the continuance of that cooperation and the broadening of those activities in which the nations of the world can join hands and with mutual understanding solve their ommon problems.

"Relief a World Problem"

The relief of Europe and those areas of Asia which have similarly suffered is not the responsibility of our nation or of a single group of nations. It is a world problem and no nation desirous of a peaceful world can ignore it.

UNRRA represents one major effort of the United Nations to act constructively in meeting the challenge of the peace. The United States assumed leadership in organizing UNRRA. The United States has also assumed leadership in urging upon the other nations of the world the thought that by united action and consultation through such a medium as the United Nations Organization resort to war shall not again be necessary.

The ravished nations of the world are looking to UNRRA for their relief in this period of their necessity.

If UNRRA were to fail them, they could not help but feel that not only had the United States failed them but that the hope of solution of world problems through United Nations action was an illusory one.

I am convinced that the best way of developing the habit of cooperation is by building and supporting effective operating international organizations such as the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

Even more immediately important is the fact that this civil organization, representing the United Nations, is already in position to meet the currently critical problem—the prevention of widespread suffering and starvation during the coming winter, of liberated peoples in Europe.

END OF STRIKE AT G.M. SEEN BY JANUARY 15

NOV 23 1945

'And Probably Before That,' Says U.S. Aide; UAW Girds For Fight

UAW-CIO picket lines scheduled to form here today at two plants.....Page 28

Detroit, Nov. 22 (AP)—John W. Gibson, special assistant to the Secretary of Labor, Lewis B. Schwellenbach, tonight predicted that the strike of more than 200,000 General Motors Corporation workers would be settled by January 15 "and probably before that."

Gibson, who was sent here by

Schwellenbach in preliminary Government efforts to bring about an end to the strike, made his statement when asked about reports that the United Auto Workers (CIO) were preparing for the possibility that the strike might last throughout the winter.

In Touch With Union Officials

"I have a feeling that the strike won't last any longer than January 15 and it probably will be settled before then," he asserted.

Gibson disclosed that he had been in touch with UAW officials during the day and that he would meet Walter Reuther, UAW vice president in charge of G.M. negotiations, tonight.

He did not indicate whether he had made contact with General Motors officials during the day.

Meanwhile, as preliminary efforts to mediate the strike got under way, both the UAW and G.M. gave indications they were braced for the possibility the strike might be a long-drawn-out affair.

The strike, affecting 70-odd plants of the corporation, began yesterday following a breakdown in negotiations on union demands for a 30 per cent general wage increase.

Sees Total Of Idle Soaring

An industry spokesman predicted the number of idle workers might be double or trebled eventually because of other companies' dependence on G.M. for vital auto parts.

Gibson, who earlier described his visit here as a "feeler," planned to fly to Washington late tonight or early tomorrow.

Gibson's presence raised the question of how far Washington would go in any effort to bring about a settlement in this first "all-out" struggle between General Motors and the UAW-CIO since the sit-down strike of 1937 over union recognition.

The labor-management conference in Washington has yet to draw up strike-settlement procedure or policy. A four-day Thanksgiving recess has now intervened and no early guidance from that quarter was expected.

President Truman has stated the Government's peacetime labor position as one of greater reliance on voluntary bargaining between parties to a dispute, though the Government would be willing to offer aid through its conciliators.

'Token Picketing'

The G.M. strike scene was quiet on Thanksgiving Day today. There was only "token picketing" of affected plants, with a few pickets appearing for short intervals.

At the same time, the union prepared to get out its full forces tomorrow. UAW-CIO headquarters in Detroit was closed, but offices of locals stayed open, laying plans for feeding and equipping picket battalions.

Reuther was in telephone communication from his home with locals throughout the country.

Strikers received promises of cooperation from AFL unions and railway brotherhoods, which said they would refuse to go through picket lines.

Builders Threaten Walkout

At Flint a brotherhood spokesman said one picket would be enough to stop a train from entering a G.M. plant. The AFL-Building Trades Council said 1,000 tradesmen would leave their G.M. reconversion jobs.

Edward Thal, secretary of the Detroit Building Trades Council, said "our members are not going through the CIO's picket lines unless arrangements are made for them to go through peaceably."

"If they (the strikers) do not want us in the plants, the work will be there for us when the strike is over," Thal said.

"We do not want to see the strikers get beat," he added, "although the CIO, I suppose, would not give us much consideration if we were in a strike."

Jurisdictional Fights Cited

The AFL and CIO in Detroit have had numerous jurisdictional battles in past years and have accused each other of membership "raids" as well as other protested practices.

Still in question was whether General Motors would be able to keep its full salaried force on the job. The corporation has 73,500 salaried employés, including office workers and supervisory employés.

The UAW-CIO, in its strike instructions to locals, left it to the locals' "own judgment" whether to permit entry of office workers to G.M. buildings.

General Motors arranged to mail pay checks to salaried workers unable to reach their offices. Management cautioned them against trying to "force" their way past picket lines.

Strikers said foremen and supervisors would be permitted into G.M. factories only on an agreement with management that they would not do strikers' work.

5-Point Labor Peace Plan Drawn Up

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP)—A five-point program designed to achieve industrial peace through voluntary arbitration, fact-finding procedures and a strengthened Federal Conciliation Service has been placed before the labor-management conference.

A four-day Thanksgiving recess, however, will delay its consideration until Monday.

The program was submitted by the conference's public hearings committee, headed by Dr. Frank Graham, president of the University of North Carolina. Graham's group has heard reports from a number of labor, business men and civic groups not represented in the conference.

"Very Minimum" Pattern

The executive committee withheld Graham's report from publication, but a copy was made available by a delegate who said he felt it should be made public.

It termed the suggestions the "very minimum" pattern of settlement machinery that should be considered by the conference under its previously established agenda.

"We pray," the committee said in its report, "that this conference will not fail America in this potentially tragic hour but that, through your leadership, America will rise to the responsibility of her power and the opportunity of her greatness."

Bargaining, Arbitration

The recommendations:

"1. Genuine collective bargaining without adamant positions in matters customarily negotiable but with a give and take spirit in good faith on both sides of the conference table in the best American tradition of reaching an agreement of value to both parties and in the public interest of co-operation for full employment in these critical times.

"2. Provision in contracts for final arbitration or for the decisions of an impartial umpire as the conclusion of the grievance procedures for the settlement of disputes over the interpretation and application of the terms of the contracts.

"3. Provisions for the structure and machinery of voluntary arbitration according to specified criteria and within specified areas of conflict.

Conciliation, Fact-Finding

"4. The strengthening of the true values of the Conciliation Service by a more adequate budget for higher salaries and a larger staff selected by the director on the basis of character, ability, personality, experience, training, and with the advice of a committee representing labor and management.

"5. Public provision for the procedures of fact finding regarding the issues in dispute whether by competent public or tripartite experts, before any strike or lockout is resorted to, for the final determination of the dispute.

Delegates Pessimistic

Delegates and conference officials alike were pessimistic over prospects for the creation of voluntary arbitration machinery, as recommended in the report, since the problem has not yet been tackled seriously even though the conference is slated for adjournment at the end of next week.

They felt, however, that this problem might be turned over to the proposed semi-permanent board on industrial problems to which the executive committee gave tentative approval yesterday.

NEW JET BUZZ BOMB MADE IN AIR PLANT

Another West Coast Plane Concern Tells of Fighter With Range of 2,500 Miles

NOV 23 1945

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22 (AP)—Development of a jet-propelled buzz bomb which could be used on landing craft and of a twin-fuselage military fighter with a range of 2,500 miles was announced today by two aircraft concerns.

Northrop Aircraft described its buzz bomb as a single jet creation with a thirty-foot wingspread, much like a small fighter in appearance, and revealed that it had been making such bombs for the Army since the summer of 1944.

Designated as the JB1A, it succeeds a twin-jet machine which Northrop built first for the Army, patterned after its Flying Wing. The company's announcement said it had no information as to how or where the Army used the bomb, but it gave these details:

Improvements to the launching platform cut the length of the tracks to fifty feet, capable of installation on an LST. The backbone of each launching sled is a fourteen-foot aluminum tube, with the bomb resting on cradles within the tube. It is catapulted into the air at 220 miles an hour with the aid of four rockets.

What speed it reaches after the jet engine takes over was not disclosed nor was the number of bombs manufactured, although the company said delivery of 1,000 sleds had been completed. The craft's weight is 7,000 pounds, including explosive charges of 3,700 pounds.

In contrast to the earlier twin-jet craft, which carried its bombs on either side of the engine, the JB1A's explosives are in magnesium cast housings within the wing on either side of the fuselage.

North American Aviation made public details of its P-82 Twin Mustang—latest in the series of Mustang fighters which saw action on many war fronts. The company said the P-82 would replace the P-15H on production lines.

The new craft houses a pilot in each fuselage and, North American's statement said, culminates five years of research. It has a 2,500-mile combat range, carrying full armament. Two 2,200-horsepower, twelve-cylinder engines give it speeds in excess of 475 miles an hour, the company added, with efficient operation up to 45,000 feet.

Armament includes six .50-caliber machine guns, twenty-five rockets, which the company asserted provide the firepower of a light cruiser broadside, and four 1,000-pound bombs. By use of adapters, however, two of the bomb racks can carry 2,000-pounders.

M'KELLAR FIGHTS ARMY FLIGHT PAY FOR HIGH GROUPS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 — (AP) Senator McKellar (D.-Tenn.) announced today he would ask the War and Navy departments to support his effort to reduce the extra flight pay of high officers.

"I think it is wrong for any highly paid officer to get 50 per cent additional pay just by going up in the air and staying there for four hours once a month," McKellar told a reporter.

McKellar, chairman of the Appropriations committee, already has suffered a double defeat on the issue.

He and Senator Overton (D.-La.) attempted to attach a rider to the wartime cutback on appropriations limiting the flight pay of high officers to $125 a month.

The appropriations committee rejected this 9 to 8, and the Senate reached the same decision this week by voice and standing votes.

Senators O'Mahoney (D.-Wyo.), Hill (D.-Ala.) Gurney (R.-S. D.) and Walsh (D.-Mass.) spoke up against the limitation on the floor. They offered letters from the secretaries of War and Navy and General H. H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air forces, in opposition.

"This proposed amendment will, in my considered opinion, have the effect of destroying the Army Air forces in the most critical period of its history,' Arnold wrote.

"A Little Excited"

McKellar disputed this and said that Arnold "simply became a little excited about this matter."

Regulations provide that flying officers receive a 50 per cent pay increase. McKellar proposed to stipulate that this increase should not exceed $125 a month. Thus, he said, it would not affect the flight pay of army lieutenants and captains.

It would affect, on the basis of War department figures which McKellar introduced, 1,700 of 10,000 majors who receive flying pay and all officers above that grade who receive flying pay. These, the department figures showed, number 6,000 lieutenant colonels, 3,000 brigadier generals, 72 major generals, 13 lieutenant generals, four generals and one general of the army. None was identified by name.

McKellar said the limitation also would affect a few lieutenant commanders in the Navy and all commanders, captains and admirals who draw flight pay.

These high officers at present can get 50 per cent extra pay, McKellar said, "by simply going in the air and flying to Chicago and return, or to New York and return, or remaining in the air in any way for four hours" a month.

HALSEY'S FLAG IS HAULED DOWN

Admiral, Giving Up His Command, Says It Is Like Losing His Right Arm

NOV 23 1945

LONG BEACH, Calif., Nov. 22 (AP)—Admiral William F. Halsey, who led the Third Fleet from Pearl Harbor to Tokyo Bay, hauled down his four-star flag on his flagship South Dakota today.

In a colorful ceremony, he turned over the command to Rear Admiral Howard F. Kingman, preparatory to retirement in about a month.

Then he inspected units of the fleet assembled here while guns roared seventeen-gun salutes.

Some fifty officers, headed by Rear Admiral Robert B. Carney, Chief of Staff, stood behind Admiral Halsey and his successor as the change of command took place in the Navy manner.

Admiral Halsey marched briskly from his cabin between lines of blue, and after his talk and the reading of his and Admiral Kingman's orders, stood beneath a battery of three 16-inch guns to order, in clear tones, the lowering of his flag.

Eyes of veteran seamen misted as the blue standard with its four white stars fluttered down.

"In hauling down my flag," Admiral Halsey told the officers and bluejackets standing at attention, "I am terminating my seagoing career of slightly over forty-five years. This is far from a pleasure. But I deem it necessary for men of my age (he is 63) to step aside so that younger men can take over the greatest Navy in the world.

"I want to congratulate the veterans of all the crews returning from four hard years of war in the Pacific.

"I am told that the conduct of those already returned has been splendid, and I am proud of that. I like to see the younger men joining today follow that pattern. They can see they don't have to be rough and tumble to be great fighters.

"You have heard the nation say, 'Well done'—the finest tribute to the Navy. Well done, well done, well done. May you all have happy careers. Godspeed and God bless you."

Admiral Kingman, in response, described Admiral Halsey's retirement as "the last scene, last act of one of the most brilliant performances in Navy history."

"This is a memorable but unhappy occasion," he continued. "Admiral Halsey inspired his men to victory * * * his unswerving determination overcame all enemies from hell to high water."

In an interview, Admiral Halsey confessed that leaving the fleet was like cutting off his right arm. He said he would leave Saturday for Washington, and would testify before the Pearl Harbor inquiry.

Asked if he had been summoned to appear, he replied:

"No comment."

Admiral Halsey left Pearl Harbor Nov. 28, 1941, with a force including a carrier, three cruisers and nine destroyers. Returning Dec. 9, two days after the Japanese attack, he began building up the fleet which ultimately played such a great part in beating the Japs into submission.

Washington Trolleys Moving Again Under U.S. Rule

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP) — Federal seizure of the Capital's strike-bound transit system provided bus and streetcar service today for holidaying Washingtonians.

President Truman stepped into the tieup, which was the second in as many weeks, with a seizure order and a statement terming the walkout "a blow at the sanctity of labor agreements."

The Office of Defense Transportation took over the idle facilities of the Capital Transit System in mid-afternoon yesterday.

Half Normal By Midnight

A massmeeting of the AFL Amalgamated Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés broke up in confusion a short while later over whether to go back to work for the ODT. But a company official reported ten per cent of normal service restored within an hour, 30 per cent by 8 P.M. and 50 per cent by midnight.

The union is demanding a 30-cent hourly wage increase. The company offered to increase the present 95-cent hourly rate to $1.02 with a stipulation for a 48-hour week.

Truman's Statement

President Truman said the union's contract called for arbitration of differences, and that local and international officers had ordered the strikers to agree to a Government Conciliation Service proposal to arbitrate.

Saying the walkout strikes "at the very roots of orderly government," he added:

"The action of this union brings discredit upon the whole body of organized labor, which naturally decries any violation of sacred covenant. The Federal Government will not permit this kind of action to interfere with its processes either in the Capital or any part of the nation."

OLD AGE PENSION INCREASE SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP) An increase in old age pensions to a uniform level of $40 a month was proposed today by Rep. Knutson (R-Minn).

The Minnesotan, senior Republican on the House Ways and Means committee, said he would put the proposal before the committee when it begins consideration of general revision of the Social Security law.

Moreover, he told newspapermen, he will suggest to the committee that pensions be provided for persons unable to earn a living because of physical or mental handicaps.

The present system of "matching" state and local funds for pensions to the aged is not working well, he said, pointing out that under this system pensioned persons in one county may get $30 a month, while in an adjoining county the pension is $20 a month.

"In many localities the benefits are wholly inadequate," he said.

Knutson has not worked out a formula for federal-state participation in the proposed increase to a uniform $40 a month, but said he believes the state participation should be larger.

The Ways and Means committee probably will begin its new social security study before the Christmas holiday, although the legislation is not expected to be completed for several months.

Congress to Put on Speed, Plans to Recess on Dec. 20

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP) Congress is aiming to put on an extra burst of speed in the next month and then recess Dec. 20 until after the first of the year.

Leaders disclosed they have fixed that as their goal, despite demands of many members for an earlier recess.

Administration men explained that knocking off work sooner is just about impossible with four major actions yet to be taken and many more minor matters to be cleaned up.

For the next four weeks, there lie ahead:

1—Action on the so-called "full employment" bill.

2—Agreement between House and Senate on the final draft of the bill authorizing President Truman to reorganize and streamline the government.

3—Approval of deficiency appropriations to tide agencies over until the fiscal 1946 funds are voted.

4—Renewal of the President's wartime powers.

Some steam was put behind a variation of the so-called "full employment" bill this week. A subcommittee of the House Expenditures committee got a compromise drafted but is sitting tight on the details until it is reported out officially. That, members said, is to stall off "pressure" on the full committee.

The Democratic leaders have figured privately that they must do something to get an employment measure rolling. Unless one materialized, they reasoned, the President's prestige might suffer. When that happens, the party prestige suffers with it.

On the deficiency bill and the reorganization measure, the leaders do not anticipate much difficulty. But they aren't so sure of clear sailing in the appraisal of the second war powers.

This act is the authority for the President to do many things he cannot do in peacetime. It involves continuance of rationing and other emergency controls. It expires Dec. 31.

There may be some demands here and there—enough to delay action—to cut back wartime powers. Mr. Truman, it was reported, may have a special message on this subject, defining what powers should be retained and why.

DENTAL STUDENTS RELEASE SOUGHT

CHICAGO, Nov. 22—(AP) The Journal of the American Dental association today urged prompt discharge of servicemen qualified to study dentistry to reduce "the serious deficit of dental personnel that now faces the country."

In an editorial the Journal said a "persistently short-sighted policy on the part of official government agencies" was reponsible for a freshman dental school enrollment of less than one-half the number enrolled a year ago.

From present signs, the publication added, there will be a ratio of one dentist for every 2,000 persons by 1950. "The full importance of this problem is seen only when this decreasing dental population is matched against an increasing national population and an increase in the demand for dental care."

The Journal association requests for a program aimed at meeting the nation's dental needs "were largely ignored throughout the war by the war and navy departments," and "the end of the conflict apparently has brought about no material change in the situation."

Unmarried Authoress, Major And Their Daughter Reunited

New York, Nov. 22 (AP)—Emily Hahn, the author, finaly met her man today.

After two years of war and some airline delays, Major Charles R. Boxer, a British officer, arrived at LaGuardia Field and was greeted by the writer and her 4-year-old daughter, Carola. She had named Boxer in her autobiography as the father of the child.

As the plane taxied up to the line, the little girl pointed and exclaimed: "Daddy, daddy, here comes daddy."

The three embraced beside the plane and the major said he would marry Miss Hahn if she "will have me." The author added: "I don't know how the divorce stands."

Divorce Move Status Sought

Boxer declared he would cable England as soon as possible to obtain exact information on the status of divorce proceedings brought there by his wife, Ursalla.

Miss Hahn said she would serve a Thanksgiving dinner in her East Side apartment "if I can borrow a roasting pan."

Miss Hahn, author of "China to Me," said she last saw Boxer before she left Hong Kong on the exchange liner Gripsholm in September, 1943. The major was interned there as a British officer on Christmas Day, 1941, and spent eighteen months in a Japanese prison. He said on several occasions that he would come to the United States to marry her.

Home In U.S. Planned

He left Hong Kong for this country October 23, landed at San Francisco and was held up there awaiting air transportation. Miss Hahn waited in vain for him at LaGuardia Field yesterday.

Miss Hahn said that after their marriage she hoped they would go to England and thence to Hong Kong. She hopes ultimately to make a home in the United States.

The major is on 30-day leave and this is his first visit to the United States.

Senator Indorses Military Merger

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP)—Senator Elbert Thomas (D., Utah) said today that a seven-week trip to Europe has strengthened his opinion that the armed forces of this nation should be placed in a single department.

"Everything I saw while I was away increased my belief in unification," the chairman of the Senate Military Committee said on return to his office.

Public hearings will be resumed by Thomas's committee tomorrow, with John J. McCloy, Assistant Secretary of War, as the witness.

Expects To See Truman

Thomas said he has not yet had time to talk with other members on a date for ending the hearings, nor with President Truman about a message the Chief Executive told newsmen he would send to Congress concerning merger proposals.

The Senator went to Europe as one of two American delegates to the International Labor Organization's conference in Paris. Later Thomas visited Italy. The other United States delegate was Frances Perkins, former Secretary of Labor, who remained in Europe to study conditions in France and Belgium.

PLAN GEN. PATCH RITES ON SATURDAY

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 22—(AP) Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, Jr., who died here late yesterday of pneumonia, will be buried in the National cemetery at West Point, N. Y., near the academy where he started his brilliant military career.

The body will be flown to West Point tomorrow in Patch's private plane, a B-25 bomber, and private funeral services have been tentatively set for 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the cemetery of the military academy.

Troops at Fourth Army stations will take part in memorial services at 9 a. m. tomorrow. General Patch had been headquartered here since last July as commander of the Fourth Army.

Members of the family will leave San Antonio by plane Saturday to attend the services.

Maj. Gen. Lucas, former deputy commander of the Fourth Army, has assumed temporary command of the unit.

Led by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, officers and enlisted men alike today paid tribute to Gen. Patch, who headed mopping up operations on Guadalcanal, then went to Europe to lead the U. S. Seventh Army to victory over the Germans.

In Washington, Gen. Eisenhower said:

"The untimely passing of Gen. Patch has cost the United States one of its outstanding troop leaders. The Army mourns his passing."

Knutson To Ask Raise In Old-Age Pensions

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP)—An increase in old-age pensions to a uniform level of $40 a month was proposed today by Representative Knutson (R., Minn.).

The Minnesotan, senior Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee, said he would put the proposal before the committee when it begins consideration of general revision of the social security law.

Moreover, he said, he would suggest to the committee that pensions be provided for persons unable to earn a living because of physical or mental handicaps.

MacArthur Press Aide Will Return To Pacific

San Francisco, Nov. 22 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Le Grande A. Diller, press chief for General MacArthur, is visiting friends here and will complete his 45 days' leave in Washington before returning to the Pacific, army sources said today.

Major Donald G. Weiss, West Coast liaison officer for the War Department, stated published speculations that Diller would not return to MacArthur's staff were incorrect.

Adm. Kinkaid in Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP).—Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, former commander of the 7th Fleet in the Southwest Pacific, arrived by plane today. The Navy reported he came here to assume his new post as commander of the Western Sea Frontier. He will have headquarters in San Francisco.

President's Daughter To Christen Plane

Philadelphia, Nov. 22 (AP)—A huge American Overseas Airlines DC-4 transport is scheduled to take off tomorrow in the first commercial trans-Atlantic passenger flight between Philadelphia and London.

Christened the flagship Washington ,the ship will carry 14 passengers and gifts for Princesses Elizabeth, Margaret Rose, Prime Minister Clement Attlee, Ambassador John G. Winant and others.

The flight will originate in Washington, where Miss Margaret Truman, daughter of the President, is scheduled to christen the plane.

General Has Severe Cold

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP).—A severe cold may keep General Eisenhower from returning to Europe tomorrow, as he had planned.

Appearing before the House Foreign Affairs Committee today, the newly designated Army Chief of Staff reported he was not feeling well, and added: "I'm afraid my doctors may forbid me to go to Europe as I planned."

Earlier, the committee chairman, Representative Sol Bloom, Democrat, of New York, had asked committee members to limit their questioning because of the general's cold. Each member who said he had no questions got a special "Thank you" from the witness.

While testifying, General Eisenhower spoke firmly, but at times huskily. His face was flushed.

He has been traveling almost constantly since his return from Germany ten days ago. Mrs. Eisenhower accompanied him for a few days, until she was stricken with pneumonia at Boone, Iowa, five days ago. She is in a hospital there now, but is reported improving.

NO TURKEY, BUT THANKSGIVING

3,253 Troops Disembark At Staten Island

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—This was not turkey day for the 3,253 home-coming troops who disembarked from the transport Athos II at Staten Island after a rough eleven-day crossing from Le Havre.

But, Major Lambert A. Turner, transport commander, Malvern

Park, N.Y., said it was "Thanksgiving Day for them in more ways than one."

In the morning, he said, "we had joint Protestant, Catholic and Jewish services—and as for the turkey, we fed the boys plenty of it on the way across."

112 Civilians Aboard

Besides the troops, most of them high-point men due for discharge, the Athos II brought in 112 civilians, including Latin-American representatives to the International Labor Conference in Paris.

Among the ships arriving today at East ports were:

At Boston—John Walker, 573; Walter Ranger, 533; Wakefield, 7,119; Thomas Page, 546; William Pender, 514.

FIRST LEAD COMMONS (ATTLEE)

LONDON, NOV. 22-(AP)-FORMER FOREIGN SECRETARY ANTHONY EDEN URGED SCRAPPING OF VETO POWERS UNDER THE UNITED NATIONS CHARTER IN COMMONS TODAY AS A RESULT OF ATOMIC ENERGY DISCOVERIES.

A SPOKESMAN FOR THE CONSERVATIVE OPPOSITION, EDEN URGED IN COMMONS DEBATE THAT ALL NATIONS STATE THEIR "PRESENT IDEAS OF SOVEREIGNTY."

THE FORMER FOREIGN SECRETARY PROPOSED REVISION OF THE UNITED NATIONS CHARTER AFTER PRIME MINISTER ATTLEE WARNED THAT IF THE WORLD AGAIN LAPSED INTO WAR ON A LARGE SCALE "ATOMIC WARFARE WILL RESULT IN THE DEVASTATION OF TOWNS AND THE DEATHS OF MILLIONS."

AGREEING WITH ATTLEE THAT NO SET OF RULES WOULD ENABLE THE WORLD TO SURVIVE A FUTURE WAR IF THE ATOMIC BOMB WAS "LATENT AND USED," EDEN DECLARED:

"WE HAVE GOT SOMEHOW TO TAKE THE STING OUT OF NATIONALISM. THE UNITED NATIONS OUGHT TO REVIEW THEIR CHARTER IN THE LIGHT DISCOVERIES MADE ABOUT ATOMIC ENERGY WHICH WERE NOT BEFORE US WHEN THE CHARTER WAS DRAWN UP."

NOTHING, EDEN ADDED, SHOWS MORE CLEARLY THE HOLD THAT "NATIONALISM HAS ON US ALL THAN THE DECISION" OF THE SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE TO RETAIN THE POWER OF VETO. HE SUGGESTED THAT THE UNITED NATIONS REVIEW THE VETO CLAUSE AGAIN, SAYING HE HOPED THAT "THEY WILL DECIDE THAT THE RETENTION OF THAT POWER IS AN ANACHRONISM IN THE MODERN WORLD."

SWITCHING TO RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA, THE DAPPER FORMER FOREIGN SECRETARY SAID "NO ONE WOULD DENY THERE HAS BEEN AN INCREASE OF SUSPICION AND DISTRUST BETWEEN THE SOVIET UNION AND THE OTHER TWO GREAT PARTNERS IN VICTORY, THE UNITED STATES AND OURSELVES."

EDEN DEPLORED THIS SUSPICION AND SAID HE WAS CONVINCED THAT FUTURE PEACE DEPENDED UPON UNDERSTANDING BETWEEN THE THREE BIG POWERS.

"WE WANT THE FULLEST RUSSIAN PARTICIPATION IN WORLD AFFAIRS ON EQUAL TERMS," HE ADDED. "WE KNOW RUSSIA'S ARRANGEMENTS ARE NOT AIMED AGAINST US. WE CAN SURELY ASK HER TO BELIEVE THAT OUR ARRANGEMENTS ARE NOT AIMED AGAINST HER."

EXPLAINING THAT RUSSIA HAD "GONE VERY FAR IN MAKING ARRANGEMENTS WITH ALL HER NEIGHBORS," EDEN TOLD COMMONS THAT THE RUSSIANS WERE CONCERNED OVER "A POSSIBLE RESURGENCE OF GERMAN PLANS FOR DOMINATION OF EUROPE."

"THE RUSSIANS ARE NOT AS CONVINCED AS SOME PEOPLE THAT THE NAZI SPIRIT IS ENTIRELY DEAD," HE ADDED.

EDEN SAID, HOWEVER, IT WAS DIFFICULT TO GET INFORMATION OUT OF RUSSIA AND TERRITORIES UNDER SOVIET CONTROL.

"I WOULD BEG OUR RUSSIAN FRIENDS," HE SAID, "TO BELIEVE THAT THEY COULD MAKE NO GREATER CONTRIBUTION TO REAL UNDERSTANDING BETWEEN OUR COUNTRIES THAN TO ALLOW FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS IN THEIR TERRITORY OR IN TERRITORY UNDER THEIR CONTROL, THE SAME FULL FREEDOM AS IS ALLOWED RUSSIAN CORRESPONDENTS HERE."

THE HOUSE CHEERED.

"WE HAVE GOT TO GET TO KNOW EACH OTHER BETTER AND THAT INVOLVES FREEDOM TO SPEAK AND TO COMMENT ACROSS FRONTIERS," EDEN CONTINUED. "DROP THOSE BARRIERS OF CENSORSHIP AND YOU WILL BLOW AWAY IN ONE GUST MUCH OF THOE BLACAFOGS OF SUSPICION."

GUST MUCH OF THOSE BLACK FOGS OF SUSPICION."

TURNING TO DISTURBANCES IN IRAN, EDEN CITED REPORTS THAT SOVIET AUTHORITIES HAD TURNED BACK IRANIAN TROOPS SENT TO DEAL WITH THE OUTBREAKS. HE SAID THIS COULD NOT BE RECONCILED WITH THE TEHRAN DECLARATION OF 1943 NOR WITH THE BRITISH-SOVIET-IRANIAN TREATY OF 1942.

30.24 — 31831

EDEN SAID HE WAS AFRAID THE PRESENT INCIDENT WAS "NOT THE ONLY OCCASION WHEN THE SOVIETS REFUSED PERMISSION TO THE PERSIANS TO MOVE TROOPS AND GENDARMERIE IN AN AREA UNDER THEIR CONTROL, AND IN CONSEQUENCE IT IS NOT VERY SURPRISING THAT SUSPICIONS HAVE BEEN RAISED."

RUSSIA, HE CONTENDED, SHOULD MAKE IT PLAIN THAT SHE DID NOT OBJECT TO THE FREE MOVEMENT OF IRANIAN TROOPS IN THEIR OWN AREA.

EDEN ASKED THE LABOR GOVERNMENT "EXACTLY WHAT IS GOING ON IN GREECE?" HE EXPRESSED REGRET THAT THE GREEK REGENT HAD RESIGNED AND THAT THE PLEBISCITE ON THE RETURN OF KING GEORGE OF THE HELLENES HAS BEEN DELAYED TWO OR THREE YEARS. HE SAID HE AND WINSTON CHURCHILL IN THE PREVIOUS BRITISH GOVERNMENT HAD ASSURED THE KING OF AN EARLY PLEBISCITE.

THEN HE POSED THIS QUESTION TO COMMONS ON THE ATOMIC BOMB:

"CAN IT BE WISE, WHEN THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION IS ONLY JUST BORN AND IS NOT OUR OF ITS CRADLE, TO BROADCAST TO THE WORLD THE METHODS OF MAKING SUCH A DESTRUCTIVE WEAPON?"

HE EXPLAINED THAT THERE WAS NOT ONLY ATOMIC ENERGY TO BE DEALT WITH, BUT "ALL WEAPONS ADOPTED FOR MASS DESTRUCTION."

"NO ONE OF THESE WEAPONS," ATTLEE SAID, "HAS ANY LEGITIMATE PLACE IN THE ARMAMENTS NECESSARY FOR THE ORDINARY PURPOSES OF INTERNAL SECURITY OR THE PROTECTION OF A GOVERNMENT AGAINST LAWLESSNESS."

ATTLEE SAID HE HOPED THERE WOULD BE A "WORLD-WIDE RESPONSE" TO THE PRINCIPLES OF THE DECLARATION MADE BY HIMSELF, MR.TRUMAN AND MACKENZIE KING.

"THIS IS A MATTER WHICH CANNOT BE SOLVED BRY TRITAIN, CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES," HE SAID. "IT WOULD HAVE BEEN A DISSERVICE TO THE CAUSE WE HAVE AT HEART IF WE HAD TRIED TO DO SO." NOV 23 1945

AT ANOTHER POINT, THE PRIME MINISTER SAID:

"I DO NOT BELIEVE THAT IN A WARRING WORLD, EXCEPT TO A VERY LIMITED EXTENT, THERE CAN BE A SET OF QUEENSBURY RULES. SUCH AN ATTEMPT WOULD BE AS FUTILE AS THAT AT THE END OF THE MIDDLE AGES TO BAN THE USE OF GUNPOWDER."

WE-FD1200PES

A15 ADDLON (NL Commons) Smith xxx against her

EXPLAINING THAT RUSSIA HAD "GONE VERY FAR IN MAKING ARRANGMENTS WITH ALL HER NEIGHBORS," EDEN SAID THE SOVIETS INTENDED THEM "AGAINST A POSSIBLE RESURGENCE OF GERMAN PLANS FOR DOMINATION OF EUROPE." HE ADDED THAT THE RUSSIANS ARE NOT CONVINCED "THAT THE NAZI SPIRIT IS ENTIRELY DEAD."

EXPRESSING DISAPPOINTMENT THAT THE GREEK REGENT RESIGNED, EDEN SAID THAT NEWS OF THE POSTPONEMENT OF THE GREEK PLEBISCITE ON THE RETURN OF KING GEORGE II WAS EVEN MORE SERIOUS. HE RECALLED THAT HE AND FORMER PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL HAD PROMISED AN EARLY PLEBISCITE IN THEIR TALKS WITH KING GEORGE II, AND SAID "NO ONE IN THE WORLD CAN THINK TWO OR THREE YEARS FROM NOW CAN BE REGARDED AS AN EARLY DATE."

A BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE SPOKESMAN YESTERDAY SAID A POSTPONEMENT OF THE PLEBISCITE WAS ADVISABLE.

SUMMING UP HIS REPORT ON THE ATOM BOMB CONVERSATIONS, ATTLEE TOLD COMMONS THAT BRITAIN, THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA HAVE "ALREADY MADE AVAILABLE TO THE WORLD THE BASIC SCIENTIFIC INFORMATION ESSENTIAL FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF ATOMIC ENERGY FOR PEACEFUL PURPOSES." NOV 23 1945

"WE DECLARE," HE ADDED, "OUR WILLINGNESS TO EXTEND THE FUNDAMENTAL KNOWLEDGE AND ARRANGE THE INTERCHANGE OF ESSENTIAL KNOWLEDGE WITH ANY NATION THAT WILL FULLY RECIPROCATE."

ATTLEE SAID, HOWEVER, THAT OTHER SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERIES MAY BE MADE AND USED FOR WARFARE, AND "THEREFORE WE ASK OF NATIONS THAT THEY SHOULD BE PREPARED TO DO WHAT WE HAVE DONE, AND WHAT WE ARE PREPARED TO DO."

THE PRIME MINISTER SAID THE INDUSTRIAL APPLICATION OF ATOMIC ENERGY COULD NOT BE GIVEN IN A FORMULA OR A BLUE PRINT, BUT COULD BE PASSED ON ONLY BY HAVING SCIENTISTS AND TECHNICIANS WORK TOGETHER IN ALREADY SET UP PLANTS.

HE SAID THIS PROCEDURE OF INSTRUCTION WOULD TAKE A LONG TIME, AND THAT HE COULD SEE NO REASON FOR SINGLING OUT ANY PARTICULAR NATION AS THE FIRST STUDENT GROUP.

"SECONDLY," SAID ATTLEE, "THIS DISCOVERY CAN BE USED EITHER FOR PEACE OR WAR. CAN IT BE WISE, WHEN THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION IS ONLY JUST BORN, AND NOT OUT OF ITS CRADLE, TO BROADCAST TO THE WORLD METHODS OF MAKING SUCH A DESTRUCTIVE WEAPON?

"IN OUR VIEW THIS MUST AWAIT THE GROWTH OF CONFIDENCE AND THE DEVELOPMENT OF SAFEGUARDS."

AT THIS POINT ATTLEE SAID IT WAS THEREFORE NATURAL THAT THE WEAPON SHOULD BE ENTRUSTED TO A UNITED NATIONS COMMISSION, AND SAID PROVISIONS OF THE COMMISSION'S PROCEDURE WOULD EMPHASIZE THE NEED FOR ANY ACTION TO BE BASED ON CONFIDENCE.

LONDON, NOV. 22-(AP)-THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION POSTPONED WORK TODAY UPON THE AGENDA FOR THE MEETING OF THE 51-NATION PREPARATORY COMMISSION HERE SATURDAY BECAUSE HEAVY FOGS ENVELOPING BRITAIN DELAYED THE ARRIVAL OF THE RUSSIAN DELEGATE, ANDREI A.GROMYKO. NUERNBERG, NOV. 22-(AP)-A SCORE OF HIGH NAZIS LISTENED IN SHOCKED SURPRISE TODAY WHILE AMERICAN PROSECUTORS TOLD THE INTERNATIONAL MILITARY TRIBUNAL HOW THE NAZIS PLOTTED AND SEIZED POWER IN GERMANY, KILL OR IMPRISONING ANY WHO OPPOSED THEM.

AN AFFIDAVIT SIGNED BY WILHELM FRICK, ONCE "PROTECTOR" OF BOHEMIA AND MORAVIA, THE DAY BEFORE THE TRIAL OPENED TOLD HOW HERMANN GOERING CARRIED OUT THE 1934 BLOOD PURGE IN NORTHERN GERMANY ON HITLER'S ORDERS, AFTER HEINRICH HIMMLER CONVINCED THE FUEHRER OF A PLOT.

"MANY PEOPLE WERE ARRESTED," THE FRICK AFFIDAVIT SAID. "SOMETHING LIKE A HUNDRED, OR EVEN MORE, WERE KILLED. ALL THIS WAS DONE WITHOUT RESORT TO LEGAL PROCEEDINGS. THEY WERE JUST KILLED ON THE SPOT. MANY PEOPLE WERE KILLED--I DON'T KNOW HOW MANY, WHO ACTUALLY DID NOT HAVE ANYTHING TO DO WITH THE PUTSCH.

MAJ. FRANK WALLIS OF BOSTON, ASSISTANT U.S.PROSECUTOR, PRODUCED NUMEROUS MINUTES OF EARLY HITLER CABINET MEETINGS AT WHICH FIVE OF THE CURRENT DEFENDANTS LAID THE GROUNDWORK FOR THE RAPE OF GERMANY IN AN AMBITIOUS STEP TOWARD ATTEMPTING TO DOMINATE THE WORLD.

GOERING, FRANZ VON PAPEN, FRICK, WALTHER FUNK AND KONSTANTIN VON NEURATH ALL WERE LISTED AS PRESENT THAT DAY IN THE REICH CHANCELLERY WHEN HITLER CONFIDED IN THEM THE NECESSITY OF SEIZING ABSOLUTE POWER TO MAKE LAWS, SINCE HIS NAZI PARTY WAS BADLY OUTNUMBERED IN THE REICHSTAG.

WALLIS TRACED THE AIMS OF THE NAZI PARTY BACK TO 1919, WHEN EVEN THEN THE HITLER GANG WAS PLOTTING TO SCRAP THE VERSAILLES TREATY AND ANNEX TO GERMANY TERRITORY LOST IN 1918, AREAS INHABITED BY "RACIAL GERMANS" AND LAND NEEDED FOR "LIVING SPACE."

THE PROSECUTION TOLD WITH MOUNTING STACKS OF DOCUMENTS, ALL METICULOUSLY KEPT BY THE NAZIS THEMSELVES, HOW THE FOLLOWERS OF HITLER FINALLY GAINED POWER IN 1933, ALMOST IMMEDIATELY SET UP CONCENTRATION CAMPS AND OUTLAWED OPPOSING POLITICAL PARTIES.

NUERNBERG--FOURTH ADD WAR CRIMES XXX UNLIMITED POWER.

RUDOLPH DIX, ATTORNEY FOR FORMER REICHSBANK PRESIDENT HJALMAR SCHACHT, INTERRUPTED WALLIS TO SAY THAT DEFENSE LAWYERS WERE HAVING GREAT DIFFICULTY IN UNDERSTANDING AMERICAN-BRITISH PROCEDURE. HE ASKED IF THE DEFENSE WOULD BE GIVEN TIME TO STUDY THE DOCUMENTS AND RAISE OBJECTIONS LATER, IF DESIRED.

LORD JUSTICE LAWRENCE SAID THE HANDLING OF THE DOCUMENTS WOULD BE DISCUSSED AFTER THE TRIBUNAL ADJOURNED, AND ADDED THAT "YOU ARE RIGHT IN THAT YOU WILL HAVE TIME TO MAKE OBJECTIONS LATER."

WALLIS THEN CONTINUED HIS STORY OF THE NAZI USURPATION OF POWER WITH THE ENACTMENT OF THE ENABLING ACT:

"THE NAZIS NOW PROCEEDED TO CONSOLIDATE THEIR POWER. THE FIRST STEP WAS BY MURDER OR CONCENTRATION CAMPS TO PUT POLITICAL OPPONENTS OUT OF CIRCULATION."

HE SAID THAT "THE EVIL OF THESE CAMPS" WOULD BE PROVED IN DOCUMENTS AND FILMS. WALLIS SAID U.S.CONSUL RAYMOND GEIST HAD SUBMITTED REPORTS ON THE CAMPS AND OF TERRORISTIC METHODS IN CITY STREETS AND ELSEWHERE.

WALLIS THEN TURNED TO THE PARTY PURGE OF 1934, SAYING:

"FRICK IN A RECENT AFFIDAVIT ADMITTED THAT MANY WERE KILLED ON THE SPOT WHO HAD NOTHING TO DO WITH THE ALLEGED PUTSCH."

AFTER THE PURGE, WALLIS SAID THAT GOERING HAD DECLARED THAT "ANYONE WHO RAISES HIS HAND AGAINST A MEMBER OF THE PARTY MUST KNOW DEATH WILL FOLLOW."

HE THEN QUOTED FROM A REPORT OF GEIST SAYING "EVERY GERMAN FAMILY SOON KNEW THE HORRORS OF CONCENTRATION CAMPS." GRAND ADMIRALS KARL DOENITZ AND ERICH RAEDER, YOUTH LEADER BALDUR VON SCHIRACH, COL. GEN. GUSTAV JODL AND VON PAPEN EAGERLY TOOK NOTES.

WALLIS TOLD HOW THE COMMUNIST AND SOCIAL DEMOCRATIC PARTIES WERE OUTLAWED AND HOW LATER ALL PARTIES EXCEPT THE NAZIS WERE MADE ILLEGAL.

"AFTER SCARCELY FIVE MONTHS, HITLER COULD SAY 'THE PARTY IS THE STATE,'" THE PROSECUTOR DECLARED.

HE QUOTED FROM AN AFFIDAVIT SIGNED BY FRICK WHICH SAID THAT HEINRICH HIMMLER, SELF-SLAIN HEAD OF THE GESTAPO, CONVINCED HITLER IN JUNE OF 1934 THAT CAPT.ERNST ROEHM WAS ORGANIZING A PUTSCH. THE DOCUMENT SAID GOERING WAS ASSIGNED TO SUPPRESS ALL ACTIVITY IN NORTHERN GERMANY AND THAT GOERING TOOK MEASURES WHICH RESULTED IN THE DEATHS OF MANY SCORES.

THE AFFIDAVIT ADDED:

"ON ACCOUNT OF THIS ORDER, MANY, MANY PEOPLE WERE ARRESTED. AS WAS HEARD IN THE COURSE OF TIME, LITTLE BY LITTLE, SOMETHING LIKE 100 OR EVEN MORE WERE KILLED. ALL THIS WAS DONE WITHOUT RESORT TO LEGAL PROCEEDINGS. THEY WERE JUST KILLED ON THE SPOT."

WALLIS DECLARED THAT SOON AFTERWARD, COURTS INDEPENDENT OF THE CENTRAL GOVERNMENT BUT SUBJECT TO THE PARTY, WERE ESTABLISHED AS "THE PARTY SPREAD LIKE AN OCTOPUS THROUGHOUT GERMANY."

HE TOLD HOW THE NAZIS CRUSHED ORGANIZED LABOR AND PLACED MEMBERS OF THE PARTY IN CONTROL OF THE PRODUCTION PROCESSES WITHIN THE NATION.

AS DOCUMENTS PILED UP BEFORE THE JUDGES OF THE UNITED STATES, RUSSIA, GREAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE, WALLIS TOLD HOW THE NAZIS PERSECUTED THE CHURCH.

HE QUOTED SECRET DECREES ISSUED BY HITLER'S DEPUTY, MARTIN BORMANN, SAYING "NOT UNTIL THE PEOPLE ARE SEPARATED FROM THE CHURCH CAN THE NAZI PARTY GAIN CONTROL." BORMANN, THOUGHT BY SOME TO HAVE DIED IN THE SIEGE OF BERLIN, IS ON TRIAL IN ABSENTIA.

"NO HUMAN BEING WOULD KNOW ANYTHING OF CHRISTIANITY IF NOT DULLED BY PASTORS," BORMANN'S DECREE SAID. "THEREFORE IF YOUTH KNOWS NOTHING OF CHRISTIANITY, IT WILL DISAPPEAR BY ITSELF."

WALLIS SAID THE PERSECUTION OF THE JEWS "AS A MEANS OF IMPLEMENTING THE MASTER RACE POLICY WAS A RELENTLESS PROGRAM OF EXTERMINATION" DESIGNED BY JULIUS STREICHER, ANOTHER DEFENDANT. STREICHER SMILED SARDONICALLY.

THE PROSECUTOR SAID MOST ANTI-SEMITIC LAWS WERE SIGNED BY GOERING AS DIRECTOR OF GERMAN ECONOMY. HE REMINDED THE JUDGES THAT A BILLION MARKS FINE WAS LEVIED ON THE JEWS IN LATE 1938. GOERING TOOK COPIOUS NOTES.

THE SESSION ADJOURNED AT 3:27 P.M. (10:27 A.M. EASTERN STANDARD TIME.)

Bevin Asks Nations To Dispel Suspicion

NOV 24 1945

Ed Creech

LONDON, Nov. 23—(AP) Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin today asked that nations dispel world suspicion by stating their aims openly and frankly, and clashed with Winston Churchill over the labor government's policy in Greece.

Referring to former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's suggestion in Commons yesterday that suspicion of Russia could be allayed if the Soviet government would relax censorship throughout her territory, Bevin declared:

"If the great powers which are primarily concerned will say exactly what they want, either in territory or bases or any other form, then it can be examined, and there is no need to take any action of any kind which will cast reflection on the actions of one another.

"I really think that if any large or small nations are suspicious of Great Britain I invite—I repeat, I invite—them to tell me frankly what their suspicions are, and I will frankly face them. Great Britain will not decline. . . .To have anything it does or wants, or seeks to promote, discussed in open assembly. I do not think I can be franker to remove suspicion than that."

Speaking in Commons in the second day of a foreign affairs debate, Bevin tangled with Churchill when he said he had suggested to the Greek government that the plebiscite over the return of King George II be postponed to March 1948.

Burning Question

Churchill interrupted, shouting; "A day or two or three years would be wrong, for it's a burning question in Greece."

Bevin answered: "I defy anybody to run a plebiscite in Greece at the present time."

Bevin explained that the suggestion for postponement originated with the Greek regent, Archbishop Damaskinos.

"It was my hope," said Bevin, "that if the reconstruction of Greece could be put on a sound basis, this would remove many of the country's political differences. The regent informed me that he had decided to tell the political leaders in Greece that, in the interests of Greek unity, the plebiscite must in his view be postponed for three years."

The Foreign Minister told Commons that he had first disapproved postponement, but then had put this three-point program before the archbishop and admonished him to stick to it, if accepted.

1. Elections to be held at the latest by the end of next March;
2. The plebiscite to be held in March, 1948;
3. Immediate steps to be taken to deal on a sound basis with the economic and financial situation and to provide for the reconstruction of Greece.

"I offered no bribe, or loan condition," said Bevin, "in dealing with the elections or the plebiscite."

During the debate yesterday Eden said he and Churchill had assured King George II that the plebiscite would be held soon after the war.

Apparently smarting from Churchill's attack, Bevin charged that he had been given "a raw deal." He said there had been "influences in this country which, everytime I try to get an all-party government in Greece, prevented me."

Churchill instantly asked Bevin to "make it clear" that he was not "making aspersions on the conservative party."

"Oh, no," said Bevin. "This country is full of emigres of all kinds, and no one knows better than Mr. Churchill how difficult this is."

Bevin said he had "No objection to monarchy," in Greece, "but let it be constitutional monarchy and not a party monarchy."

Appealing for international frankness, Bevin said Britain would "utilize the United Nations—stretch it to the limit of its capacity from the security point of views" but said he saw no use for a special meeting of the organization to consider action suggested by the Washington declaration on atomic energy.

"There will be opportunities for the consideration of this very vital document when the general assembly meets next January," he said.

fluences in this country which, every time I try to get an all party government in Greece, prevented me."

Churchill rose again, this time to ask Bevin to make it clear that he was not casting aspersions on the Conservative party."

"Oh, no," Bevin replied, "this country is full of emigres of all kinds and no one knows better than Mr. Churchill how difficult this is."

The Foreign Minister said he had "no objection to the monarchy but let it be a constitutional monarchy and not a party monarchy." He continued: "Greece must decide without one word of influence from Great Britain."

He added that he had preferred to let Greece have her trials and errors, "but I could not see her go down economically."

Churchill Clashes With Bevin

Foreign Secretary 'Defies Anybody' to Hold Greek Plebiscite at Present.

NOV 24 1945

London, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin clashed in the House of Commons today over the Laborite Government's suggestion of a three-year postponement of the Greek plebiscite on the question of retaining the monarchy or setting up a Greek republic.

Bevin precipitated the argument during a debate on foreign affairs by saying that he had suggested that the vote be held by March, 1948. Storming to his feet, the wartime Prime Minister now leader of the opposition, shouted: "A delay of two or three years would be wrong, for it is a burning question in Greece."

Bevin snapped back: "I defy anybody to run a plebiscite in Greece at the present time."

Yesterday former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden disclosed that he and Churchill had promised King George of Greece that a plebiscite would be held at an early date. The minarch has since protested against the proposed postponement as an insult to the Greek people.

Blames 'Influence.'

Apparently smarting under Churchill's interjection, Bevin declared that there had been "influences in this country which, every time I try to get an all party government in Greece, prevented me."

Sees Burning Question.

Churchill said that the three years' delay on the plebiscite "would not be a bonifide interpretation of the pledges and undertakings we have given, not only to the Government but to the Greek people." He added: "It is, in my view, vain to suppose that political peace will come to that country by the kind of arrangement which has been proposed and which postpones this burning question."

Bevin declared that he was told "that if I forced this constitutional question until I got tranquality in the country I ran the danger of civil war, and God knows Greece had had enough of that—disturbances and economic disaster." He said he had offered "no bribe or loan conditions" in dealing with the elections and the plebiscite. He said that a marked deterioration in Greek economics had prompted him to send Foreign Under-Secretary Hector MacNeil to Athens to examine conditions and make proposals. He quoted MacNeil as saying the Greek Government was "not strong enough and did not enjoy sufficient popular support to carry through the drastic measures which would have to be taken."

Calls for Frankness.

Earlier the Foreign Secretary called upon the Great Powers to "say exactly what they want, either in territory or bases," in order to allay all those suspicions that might jeopardize the peace.

Peaceful Action Pledged

Resuming the two-day debate on foreign affairs, Bevin pledged that Britain would not commit any actions that would be unfriendly toward any other nation, great or small.

"If any great power is suspicious of Great Britain," Bevin continued, "I invite them to tell me frankly what their suspicions are, and I will frankly face them."

Pleading for "aboveboard" tactics in international affairs, he said: "Nothing can remove suspicion but the utmost frankness as to our respective policies. I cannot see why there should be any suspicion at all. Great Britain will not be afraid, and will not in any way decline to have anything it does or wants, or seeks to promote, discussed in an open assembly of the United Nations, if necessary."

Refers to Moscow.

In an apparent reference to Russian opposition to the formation of any West European bloc, Bevin said: "Suspicion or no suspicion, I cannot help it if people have groundless suspicions. We shall not commit, in any arrangements that we make, any unfriendly act toward any other nation, great or small." In the next breath he declared that he could not accept the view that "all my policy and the policy of his Majesty's Government must be based entirely on the Big Three.

"I must try to decide an issue on the basis of the facts and to do right because it is right to do right and not because of my fears of what may happen," Bevin said.

Anthony Eden, Bevin's predecessor as foreign secretary, has asked that the five powers forming the permanent membership of the United Nations Security Council abandon their veto rights. There was no indication whether Bevin would discuss this proposal.

Under the United Nations Charter any one of the five powers—Britain, the United States, Russia, France or China—could keep disputes from reaching the Security Council by exercising the veto power.

Speaking as a member of the Conservative opposition, Eden described this veto provision yesterday as an "anachronism of the modern world" and asserted that "we have got to take the sting out of nationalism." The former foreign secretary added that the United Nations should review their charter "in the light of discoveries made about atomic energy, which were not before us when the charter was drawn up" at the San Francisco Conference.

Eden also suggested that Russia could allay suspicion of her motives by dropping "barriers of (news) censorship" and by granting foreign correspondents "the same full freedom as is allowed Russian correspondents here."

Prime Minister Attlee opened yesterday's debate with a plea for "mutual confidence" among nations and the outlawing of war. Eden suggested as a concrete step that nations should "abate" some of their national sovereignty.

Investment Control Bill Seen By British Laborite

London, Nov. 23—(AP)—Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton predicted last night the passage of statutes arming the Labor Government with powers which he said would prevent depressions by controlling investment in capital development.

Addressing the Fabian Society, Dalton said: "What we are trying to do is establish now a framework of economic planning and control which shall stand as a framework for many years to come."

He forecast the introduction of an investment control bill in Commons "in a matter of weeks."

DE GAULLE WINS FULL SUPPORT FOR PROGRAM

NOV 24 1945

Calls for Nationalization of Credit, Insurance and Electric Businesses.

DEMANDS REVALUED FRANC

Far-reaching Reform Project Is Met With Unanimous Vote of Confidence.

Paris, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—President de Gaulle presented to the Constituent Assembly today a program calling for quick nationalization of France's credit, electricity and insurance industries. He also demanded reforms in public service and administration, judicial reforms and a constitutional change in the military structure of the national defense. He asked for a "modernization" of mining, industry and agriculture, and said that the franc must be revalued so that French money can be "established on an indisputable base."

The Assembly gave De Gaulle's new Cabinet a unanimous vote of confidence. The Communists, who precipitated last week's Government crisis, pledged loyal "but not blind support."

De Gaulle declared that the threat of atomic destruction was hanging over the world and that French foreign policy would be directed toward a role of harmony among the nations of western Europe.

Bars Policy of Blocs.

He said that France's policy would not be one of blocs, but one of co-operation. This, he declared, would not exclude France from signing accords with specific countries. He recalled the Franco-Russian treaty of 1944, and described Russia as a country "like ourselves, primarily interested in preventing in the future any Germanic menace."

He said that in the spirit of this treaty, France is trying to foster good relations with the United States and was discussing a possible future accord on questions of common interest with Great Britain.

"It is thus that we tighten our traditional bonds with our western European neighbors, notably Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg, without ceasing to hold out our hand to the central European Balkan and Scnadinavian states," de Gaulle said.

Half of National Fortune Gone.

Discussing his domestic program, de Gaulle reminded the deputies that the war "cost us half of our national fortune." He gave assurance that the French program of imports would be continued "to the full extent allowed by our financial accords with other states, notably the United States." and said that his Government would soon propose a more extensive program for the reconstruction of France and her colonies.

This greater new deal, he said, would extend particularly to French Indo-China to aid in the development of that Asiatic possession "toward progress and liberty."

He stressed the necessity of international co-operation, saying: "The appearance in the world of the overwhelming possibilities of atomic energy, either for destruction or for progress, henceforth makes international organization a categorical imperative."

HITLER ORDERED MASS KILLINGS IN POLISH INVASION

NOV 24 1945

Generals Given Orders Ten Days Before Attack, Court Is Told.

DOCUMENTS REVEALED

Promised to Accept Consequences if Japs Became Involved with U. S.

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 23—(AP) Adolf Hitler told his generals 10 days before the invasion of Poland that he had given orders "to kill without mercy all the men, women and children of the Polish race or language," American prosecutors disclosed at the war crimes trials today.

The brutal words of the Fuehrer, delivered in a hitherto secret speech at Obersalzburg on Aug. 22, 1939, so delighted Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering that he leaped on a table "and danced like a savage," a stenographic record of the address showed.

Another secret document told of a Hitler promise to the Japanese eight months before Pearl Harbor that Germany would accept the consequences "if Japan would get involved with the United States."

Planned to Slice Britain

Still another secret document disclosed that Hitler in May, 1939, had told his general staff that Britain was the "driving force against Germany" and that he planned to slice Britain off from the remainder of Europe by cutting her food supplies. He demanded the immediate destruction of the British fleet after the outbreak of war.

The speech on Poland was made the day after the announcement that Russia and Germany had concluded a non-aggression pact. Of that document Hitler said:

"Today's publication of the non-aggression pact with Russia hit like a shell. Stalin also said this course will be of benefit to both countries. The effect on Poland will be tremendous."

That Hitler regarded the fact as only a temporary device was indicated in these words:

"And besides, gentlemen, in Russia will happen just what I have practiced with Poland. After Stalin's death—he is seriously ill—we shall crush the Soviet Union."

(The signing of the Soviet-German non-aggression pact was preceded on Aug. 19 by a Soviet-German trade agreement, which provided for a German credit to the Soviet Union of 200,000,000 marks for purchase of German goods, and for the purchase of Russian goods by Germany to the value of 180,000,000 marks.

(The non-aggression pact was announced in Berlin Aug. 21, and signed in Moscow on Aug. 24. A ten-year treaty, it provided that each country was bound to refrain from any act of force against the other, and that they would not support warlike acts against either by a third power).

Hitler asserted that "Russia has no interest in Poland and Stalin knows that it is the end of his regime, no matter whether his soldiers come out of a war victorious or beaten."

He told his generals that personal contact with Stalin "is established. We need not be afraid of blockade. The East will supply us with grain, cattle, coal, lead, zinc. I am only afraid that at the last minute some Schweinhund (filthy pig) will make proposals for mediation."

Admired Stalin

Hitler indicated admiration for the Russian leader, asserting "on the whole there are only three great statesmen in the world—Stalin, myself and Mussolini."

He said Mussolini, "the weakest, has not been able to break either the power of the crown or the church. Stalin and I are the only ones that see the future. So I shall shake hands with Stalin within a few weeks on the common German-Russian border, and undertake with him the new distribution of the world."

Hitler said that Field Marshal Walther Von Brauchitsch had promised him to bring the war with Poland to an end within a few weeks.

"If he had told me it would take two years or even one year I would not have issued the order and would have temporarily entered into an alliance with England instead of Russia," Hitler added.

Wear Polish Uniforms

In an attempt to conceal the aggression against Poland, the German troops would wear Polish uniforms, Hitler said.

"The invasion and extermination of Poland begins on Saturday morning," Hitler said. "I will have a few companies in Polish uniform attack in Upper Silesia or in the protectorate. Whether the world believes it does not mean a damn to me. The world believes only in success.

"The occasion is favorable now as it has never been. I have only one fear, and that is that Chamberlain (British prime minister at the time of Munich) or such another dirty swine will come to me with propositions or change of mind.

"He will be thrown downstairs, even if I must personally kick him in the belly before the eyes of all the photographers."

This speech, and other Nazi secret documents, requiring hours even to read, were presented to the court just before the tribunal adjourned for the week end.

They were introduced as the American prosecution sought to prove that the 20 high Nazis on trial are guilty of conspiring with Hitler to wage the costliest war in the history of mankind.

In another speech to his military commanders on May 23, 1939, three months before the war began, Hitler said blitz attacks would be made to seize Holland and Belgium as bases for smashing Brita and France.

"Declarations of neutrality must be ignored," Hitler said bluntly. "If Holland and Belgium are successfully occupied and held, and if France is also defeated, the fundamental conditions for a successful war against England will have been secured."

Still another secret document disclosed that Hitler informed Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka on April 4, 1941, that "Germany on her part would immediately take the consequences if Japan would get involved with the United States."

Japs Feared U. S.

Matsuoka had told Hitler that Japan wanted to attack Singapore, but feared war with the United States. The Japanese minister, who said he personally favored a surprise attack on the United States, was successful in getting Hitler's promise to share German secret weapons with the Japanese.

Assistant U. S. Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman, who presented the Hitler speeches and other documents this afternoon, said punishment of the 20 top Nazis for planning world conflict was "the heart of the case."

He said the case against German aggression would be considered in these five phases: 1933-36, utilization of control of Germany to prepare for war; 1936-39, seizure of Austria and Czechoslovakia; March 1939 to September 1939, start of the war; September 1939-41, expansion of war through Europe; 1941, attack on Russia and the declaration of war which brought the United States into the conflict.

Dodd Presents Case

Preceding Alderman was his colleague, Assistant U. S. Prosecutor Thomas Dodd, who brought in evidence to show how Goering and Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht, chief financial adviser to Hitler, cracked the whip over German finance and industry to gear up armaments production.

Schacht, who in his talks with foreigners used to deride the Nazis, was disclosed by the documents as being an ardent follower of Hitler.

Addressing Vienna bankers after the German grab of that country, Schacht was quoted as saying "The Reichsbank will always be national socialist, or I'll cease to be its manager."

Dodd named munitions King Gustav Krupp Von Bohlen Und Halbach, who has been granted a delay in trial by the international war crimes tribunal because of his health, officials of the I. G. Farben Chemical Trust and other industrial leaders as entering into the conspiracy with the Nazis for world aggression.

These industrial leaders agreed to finance the Nazi party as an antidote to communism, then later cooperated in a secret rearmament program, Dodd's evidence charged.

HITLER IS SHOWN TO HAVE ORDERED MURDER OF POLES

U. S. Offers Record at Trial —Proves Decree Covered Even Children.

Nuernberg, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—Ten days before the Germans attacked Poland in 1939 Hitler told his generals he had given orders "to kill without mercy all men, women and children of the Polish race or language" and that German troops wearing Polish uniforms would be used in an attempt to conceal the Nazi aggression, the American prosecution charged at the war crimes trial today.

The prosecution, outlining its major case that Hitler and his chief twenty aids on trial at Nuerenberg plotted aggressive warfare that cost the lives of millions, began to introduce "ten documents never before revealed."

Among them was the speech, a copy of which was captured from the Germans, which Hitler made to his generals at Obersalzberg on August 22.

"The invasion and extermination of Poland begins Saturday morning," the Fuehrer was qnuoted. "I will have a few companies in Polish uniform attack in Upper Silesia or in the Protectorate. Whether the world believes it or not does not mean a damn to me. The world believes only in success."

At the conclusion of this speech, the German stenographic record showed Hermann Goering jumped on a table and "danced like a savage."

Hitler also declared:

"The occasion is favorable now as it never has been. I have only one fear and that is that Chamberlain (Prime Minister of England) or such another dirty swine comes to me with propositions to change my mind. He will be thrown downstairs even if I must personally kick him in the belly before the eyes of all the photographers."

Attempts to introduce the surprise documents brought a storm of protest, however, from German defense counsel. The session was adjourned for the day to permit study by lawyers for the accused Nazis.

Emphasizing the hopes of Allied nations that the charter of the international military tribunal outlawing aggressive war would open a new era of peace, Assistant United States Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman said punishment of the Nazis for planning world conflict was "the heart of the case."

Hitler's Plans Revealed.

One of the documents submitted by Alderman disclosed that Hitler told his military commanders May 23, 1939—more than three months before the outbreak of world war II—that lightning attacks would be made to seize Holland and Belgium as bases for smashing Britain and France.

"Declarations of neutrality must be ignored," the Fuehrer bluntly asserted on that occasion. If Holland and Belgium are successfully occupied and held and if France is also defeated, the fundamental conditions for successful war against England will have been secured."

The minutes of the meeting were among the ten hitherto secret documents submitted to the tribunal.

To Japanese Foreign Ministers Yosuke Matsuoka, Hitler was quoted as saying on April 4, 1941—eight months before the attack onu Pearl Harbor—that "Germany on her part would immediately take the consequences if Japan would get involved with the United States."

Plot Against Russia.

A High Command plan for the invasion of Russia dated December 18, 1940, and initialed by Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Col.-Gen. Gustav Jodl, declared that Germany must be prepared to crush Russia in a quick campaign before the end of the war against England.

In another document, Hitler was quoted as telling his commanders August 22, 1939, that Russia had no interest in maintaining the independence of Poland and "Stalin knows it is the end of his regime, no matter whether his soldiers come out of a war victorious or beaten."

"Poland is in the position where I wanted her . . .," he added. "A factor favorable to us is Franco. We can ask only benevolent neutrality from Spain. . . . Complete destruction of Poland is the military aim."

Reviewing the legal points of the indictment under the charter, Alderman said that all other phases of the case against the Nazis have "little judicial international significance" compared with the conspiracy to wage total aggressive warfare.

Five Phases in Case.

The case against German aggression will be considered in five phases, Alderman said. He listed the phases as:

One, 1933-36—Utilization of the control of Germany to prepare for war.

Two, 1936-39—Seizure of Austria and Czecho-Slovakia.

Three, March, 1939—September, 1939—Start of the war.

Four, September, 1939-1941 — Expanding of the war throughout Europe.

Five, 1941—Attack on Russia and finally the declaration of war which brought the United States into the conflict.

Krupps and Farben Accused.

Heads of the vast Krupp steel empire and the I. G. Farben chemical trust, Assistant Prosecutor Thomas Dodd charged, agreed to finance the Nazi party as an antidote to Communism and later co-operated in a secret rearmament program.

Hjalmar Schacht was red-faced as he heard himself described from German documents as the financial wizard who was secretly appointed as "plenipotentiary for war economy" in 1935 and won the praise of a Reich General as "the man who made reconstruction of the German Army economically possible."

The head of the great Krupp works, Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach—who was indicted but thus far has escaped trial because of illness—was shown by German records, Dodd asserted, to have aided in raising campaign funds for Hitler in 1933 and to have declared after Hitler's ascension to power that German industry "puts itself at your disposal."

May Call Americans.

Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel denied earlier that he participated in the Hitler Cabinet meetings that planned the Nazi flood of aggression.

With the prosecution's attack on Germany's industrial and financial leaders, Dr. Rudolf Dix, Schacht's counsel, declared at a recess that he was considering summoning American business men as witnesses for the defense.

Dodd linked German industrial leaders and Schacht, former Reichsbank president, directly to the Nazi party even before the election which resulted in Hitler becoming Reichschancellor in 1933 with an affidavit from Georg von Schnitzler of the I. G. Farben firm. Schnitzler said that Schacht "acted as kind of a host" at a meeting in February, 1933, of Hitler, Krupp, Albert Volger, chief of the steel combine, and other industrialists.

Hitler warned the industrialists of the dangers of Communism, Schnitzler's affidavit declared, and after the Nazi leader left the room "Schacht proposed to the meeting the raising of an election fund, as far as I remember, of 3,000,000 Reichsmarks."

Schacht, who protested in a recent interview that he had little to do with German rearmament, listened earnestly and jotted down notes as the affidavit and other documents were introduced.

One letter signed by the Reichsbank president and sent to Hitler January 7, 1939, said: "From the beginning the Reichsbank has been aware of the fact that successful foreign policy can be attained only by the reconstruction of the German armed forces. The Reichsbank therefore assumed to a very great extent the responsibility to finance rearmament in spite of the inherent dangers to the currency."

Another of Schacht's letters told of risking inflation in order to give the Army all the funds it needed to assure "a successful foreign policy."

Another affidavit read by the prosecution was signed by Emil Puhl, a director of the Reichsbank, who said Schacht has created a fake organization called "Metallurgische Forschungs Gesellschaft," presumably a research fund into which armaments funds flowed and then out again to munitions makers, cloaking the German rearmament program.

Dodd's Diary Read

The prosecutor read from the diary of Former Ambassador William E. Dodd the statement that Schacht admitted to the American envoy in September, 1934, that the Hitler Party was absolutely committed to war and that the people were willing.

A basic directive of the Reich Economic Ministry issued September 30, 1934, was introduced by the prosecution to show Hitler started preparing for war. It read:

"(The ministry) has been charged with the economic preparation for war, a task considered important in view of the lessons of the First World War. The theoretical part includes legal and organizational preparation, such as laws and directives. The practical preparation includes the building up of stockpiles, new construction of facilities to produce scarce goods, redeployment of industry to secure areas and influence over fiscal and trade policies. The task of stockpiling is being hampered by lack of foreign currency. The need for secrecy and camoflage is also a retarding influence."

Lord Justice Geoffrey Lawrence cut short the reading of the I. G. Farben Company officials' affidavit describing the 1933 meeting in which Schacht proposed raising campaign funds for Hitler, remarking that it seemed to prove merely that a meeting had been held.

Defense Protests

At one time during the presentation of documents, Alf Ed Seidl, counsel for defendant Hans Frank, jumped to his feet to complain that some of the evidence had not previously been listed with defense counsel. He asked for a delay in the trial, but proceedings were resumed when Col. Robert G. Storey, an assistant U. S. proescutor, promised a better distribution system would be worked out.

The prosecution said secret German plans for war as early as February 22, 1933, were contained in the minutes of a working committee of "delegates for Reich defense" in which Field Marshal Keitel was quoted as saying:

"Secrecy of all Reich defense work has to be maintained very carefully. No document must be lost, since otherwise enemy propaganda could make use of it. Matters communicated orally cannot be proved. They can be denied by us in Geneva (League of Nations)."

Keitel's Plea

As the fourth day of the historic trial opened, counsel for defeated Germany's No. 1 soldier declared that prosecution charts naming Keitel as a cabinet minister without portfolio were false and asserted that the general never participated in Hitler's cabinet meetings.

Dr. Otto Nelte, Keitel's attorney, said that although a secret cabinet council with which the High Command chief was linked had been created by law February 4, 1938, the council never was appointed and held no sessions.

Lord Justice Geoffrey Lawrence, presiding, ruled that the prosecution documents were admissible and that the defense could later challenge material in them. Justice Lawrence announced that there would be no session tomorrow in order to allow defense council more time for consideration of documents.

Excerpts From Hitler-Matsuoka Documents

NUREMBERG, Germany, Nov. 23 (AP)—The following excerpts from the official German report on discussions between Adolf Hitler and Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka in Berlin on April 4, 1941, were introduced in the Nuremberg war criminals trial today:

Furthermore, Matsuoka had endeavored to convince the Pope that the United States and, particularly the American President, prolonged the war in Europe and in China. It was not a question to determine if America or its President were right or wrong. They certainly had their definite reasons for their policy.

Notwithstanding the question of right or wrong, one had to state the fact that they prolonged the war in Europe and in China. In regard to China, he tried to convince the Pope that Japan was not fighting Chinese or China herself but merely bolshevism which threatened to spread in China and in the entire Far East. It is regretful that America and England sided with bolshevism.

The Fuehrer interrupted that both countries also sided in Spain with bolshevism.

Matsuoka then also expressed the request that the Fuehrer should instruct the proper authorities in Germany to meet as broadminded as possible the wishes of Japan's Military Commission. Japan was in need of German help, particularly concerning U-boat warfare, which could be given by making available to them the latest experiences of the war, as well as the latest technical improvements and inventions. Japan would do her utmost to avoid a war with the United States.

Japanese Prepare for War

In case that country should decide to attack Singapore, the Japanese Navy, of course, had to be prepared for a fight with the United States, because in that case America probably would side with Great Britain. He, Matsuoka, personally believed that the United States could be restrained by diplomatic exertions from entering the war at the side of Great Britain. The Army and Navy had, however, to count on the worst situation, that is, with war against America.

They were of the opinion that such a war would extend for five years or longer, and would take the form of guerrilla warfare in the Pacific, and would be fought out in the South Sea. For this reason, German experiences in her guerrilla warfare are of the greatest value to Japan.

It was a question of how such a war would best be conducted, and how all technical improvements of submarines in all details, such as periscopes and the such, could best be exploited by Japan.

To sum up, Matsuoka requested that the Fuehrer should see to it that proper German authorities would place at the disposal of the Japanese those developments and inventions concerning the Navy and Army that were needed by the Japanese.

The Fuehrer promised this, and pointed out that Germany, too, considered a conflict with the United States undesirable, but that it had already made allowances for such a contingency.

In Germany one was of the opinion that America's contributions depended upon the possibilities of transportation, and that this again is conditioned by the available tonnage. Germany's war against tonnage, however, means a decisive weakening, not merely against England but also against America. Germany has made her preparations so that no American could land in Europe.

She would conduct a most energetic fight against America with her U-boats and her Luftwaffe, and due to her superior experience, which would still have to be acquired by the United States, she would be vastly superior, and that is quite apart from the fact that the German soldier naturally ranks high above the American.

In the further course of the discussion the Fuehrer pointed out that Germany on her part would immediately take the consequences if Japan would get involved with the United States. It did not matter with whom the United States would first get involved, if with Germany or with Japan.

They would always try to eliminate one country at a time, not to come to an understanding with the other country subsequently, but to liquidate this one just the same. Therefore, Germany would strike as already mentioned without delay in case of a conflict between Japan and America, because the strength of the tripartite powers lies in their joined action.

Their weakness would be if they would let themselves be beaten individually.

Saw War With U. S. Inevitable

Matsuoka once more repeated his request that the Fuehrer might give necessary instructions in order that proper German authorities would place at the disposal of the Japanese the latest improvements and inventions which are of interest to them because the Japanese Navy had to prepare immediately for a conflict with the United States.

As regarding the Japanese-American relationship, Matsuoka explained further that he had always declared in his country that sooner or later a war with the United States would be unavoidable if Japan continued to drift along as at present. In his opinion this conflict would happen rather sooner than later.

His argumentation went on: Why should Japan, therefore, not decisively strike at the right moment and take the risk upon herself of a fight against America? Just thus would she perhaps avoid a war for generations, particularly if she gained predominance in the South Seas.

There are to be sure in Japan many who hesitate to follow those trends of thought. Matsuoka was considered in those circles a dangerous man with dangerous thoughts. He, however, stated that if Japan continued to walk along her present path one day she would have to fight anyway, and that this would then be under less favorable circumstances than at present.

The Fuehrer replied that he could well understand the situation of Matsuoka, because he himself was in similar situation, in the clearing of the Rhineland, and the declaration of the sovereignty of the armed forces.

He, too, was of the opinion that he had to exploit favorable conditions, and accept the risk of an anyhow unavoidable fight at a time when he himself was still young and full of vigor. How right he was in his attitude was proved by events. Europe now was free. He would not hesitate a moment to instantly reply to any widening of the war, be it by Russia, be it by America. Providence favored those who will not let dangers come to them, but who will bravely face them.

Matsuoka replied that the United States, or rather their ruling politicians, had recently still attempted a last maneuver toward Japan by declaring that America would not fight Japan on account of China or the South Seas, provided that Japan gave free passage to consignments of rubber and tin to America and to their place of destination.

However, America would war against Japan the moment she felt that Japan entered the war with the intention to assist in the destruction of Great Britain.

Such an argumentation, naturally, did not miss its effect upon the Japanese, because of the education of the oriental on English lines, which many had received.

The Fuehrer commented on this that this attitude of America did not mean anything, but that the United States had the hope that as long as the British world empire existed, one day they could advance against Japan together with Great Britain, whereas in case of collapse of the world empire they would be totally isolated and could not do anything against Japan.

The Reich Foreign Minister interjected that the Americans precisely under all circumstances wanted to maintain the powerful position of England in East Asia, but that on the other hand it is proved by this attitude to what extent she fears a joint action of Japan and Germany.

Matsuoka continued that it seemed to him of importance to give to the Fuehrer an absolutely clear picture of the real attitude inside Japan. For this reason he also had to inform him regretfully of the fact that he, Matsuoka, in his capacity as Japanese Minister for Foreign Affairs, could not utter in Japan itself a single word of all that he had expounded before the Fuehrer and Reich Foreign Minister, regarding his plans.

This would cause him serious damage in political and financial circles. Once before he had committed the mistake, before he became Japanese Minister for Foreign Affairs, to tell a close friend something about his intentions.

It seems that the latter had spread these things and thus brought about all sorts of rumors, which he, as Foreign Minister, had to oppose energetically, though as a rule he always tells the truth. Under this circumstances he also could not indicate how soon he could report on questions discussed to the Japanese Premier or to the Emperor.

Opportune Moment Sought

He would have to study exactly and carefully in the first place the developments in Japan, so as to make his decision at a favorable moment to make a clear breast of his proper plans toward Prince Konoye and the Emperor. The decision would have to be made within a few days because plans would otherwise be spoiled by talk.

Should he, Matsuoka, fail to carry out his intentions that would be proof that he is lacking in influence, in power of conviction and in practical capacities. However, should he succeed, it would prove that he had great influence in Japan.

He, himself, felt confident that he would succeed. On his return, being questioned, he would indeed admit to the Emperor, the Premier, and the Ministers for the Navy and Army that Singapore had been discussed. He would, however, state that it was only on a hypothetical basis.

Besides this, Matsuoka made the express request not to cable in the matter of Singapore, because he had reason to fear that by cabling something might leak out. If necessary he would send a courier.

The Fuehrer agreed, and assured, after all, that he could rest entirely assured of German reticence.

Matsuoka replied he believed, indeed, in German reticence, but unfortunately could not say the same of Japan. The discussion was terminated after the exchange of some personal parting words. Berlin, 4th of April, 1941, signed Schmidt.

GOERING HAS I. Q. OF NEAR GENIUS

Nuernberg, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—Hermann Goering with an I. Q. bordering on the genius rating, is the "natural born leader" of the twenty Nazis being tried by the international war crimes tribunal, an American Army officer said today.

Major Douglas Kelley, former University of California psychiatrist, found the fat ex-Reichmarshal had an intelligence quotient of 138 and that he still exerted a dominating influence over nearly all of the Hitler aids on trial.

"Goering is a natural born leader," Kelley reported. "He and (Grand Admiral Karl) Doenitz and (former Reichbank President Hjalmar) Schacht are the brainiest of the lot.

"Goering is the most aggressive and energetic. He keeps after the others to 'maintain German dignity!' As if he has a phobia, it's of being made to appear ridiculous. He asserts he is not afraid of any verdict. He says the Luftwaffe commander who asked so many of his best flyers to go to their deaths shouldn't flinch at losing his own life."

LAWYERS DENY NAZI LINKS

13 of 17 at Nuremberg Say They Never Joined That Party

NUREMBERG, Germany, Nov. 23 (AP)—Seventeen solemn defense attorneys participating in the war crimes trials submitted brief autobiographies to the press today, showing that thirteen had never joined the Nazi party, two had been expelled, one had never had his application accepted, and one had been a Nazi since 1938.

The lone attorney who admitted being a party member of unquestioned standing was Dr. Alfred Seidl, who represents Hans Frank, the former Governor General of Poland.

Dr. Fritz Sauter, counsel for Joachim von Ribbentrop, Hitler's Foreign Minister, noted on his biographical sketch that he had been dropped from the Nazi party in 1940, after five years' membership, because he had defended Jews and Communists.

Julius Streicher's counsel, Dr. Hans Marx, said that he had joined the Nazi party in 1933 and had been dismissed in 1935, but did not give the reason for his dismissal.

LIVE PRISONERS SENT TO DACHAU CREMATION

DACHAU, Germany, Nov. 23 (AP)—A former Dachau concentration camp inmate testified today that prisoners in one compound were executed for such a simple offense as losing their shoes.

The witness, Norbert Fried of Prague, Czechoslovakia, who said he was in the Kaufering Camp of Dachau, told the American Military Court that his wife had been gassed a few days before their baby would have been born and that he had been spared only because his German guards liked to hear him sing American songs.

Another witness, Michael Peles, accused Friedrich Rupert, a defendant, of ordering some prisoners to be taken to the crematory although they were still alive when thrown into carts filled with the dead.

An 18-year-old Pole, whose right leg had been shot off by SS guards, accused Wilhelm Tempel, a guard, of beating his father to death in the concentration camp. A 17-year-old Pole charged that Tempel had shot him in the leg and had killed his young Russian comrade.

At the end of the seventh day of the war crimes trial, all but nine of the forty defendants have been identified by prosecution witnesses as having committed atrocities at Dachau.

SAYS NAZIS HAULED LIVING TO OVENS

NOV 24 1945

Dachau, Germany, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—The Nazis hauled some prisoners to the crematorium at the Dachau concentration camp while they still were alive, Michael Peles testified today at the war crime trial of forty German guards. The witness told the United States military court that he was able to say that they were put into the furnace while they still breathed.

He said he noticed some living inmates still moving in the death carts, and he took them to the hospital, where admittance was refused. He added that the commandant, Friedrich Ruppert, one of those on trial, ordered the prisoners taken back because "none will come out of the creamatorium alive anyway."

Capt. John A. Burnett, of Saginaw, Mich., told the court that he found 268 bodies of prisoners who had been burned alive in their quarters as the liberating American troops approached. Burnett, a war crimes investigator, also said that 4,500 bodies were found in fresh burial pits at the horror camp, which is near Munich.

3,000 GERMANS HELD AFTER MASS RAIDS

FRANKFORT-ON-THE MAIN, Germany, Nov. 23 (AP)—American troops arrested 3,000 Germans and seized large stores of ammunition in mass raids Sunday in the United States occupation zone, Brig. Gen. Edwin L. Sibert announced today.

"No symptoms of German rebellion" were found, General Sibert said, "but it is serious to find so many weapons.

"There have been an increasing number of instances of American troops being attacked and a number of insulting posters. Wirecuttings are a little on the increase."

These, said General Sibert, Chief of Intelligence of American forces in Europe, are the "natural result" of returning prisoners of war facing the shock of defeat and signs of increasing despair among German civilians.

The Americans captured 300 small arms weapons, 50,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, 1,000 rounds of artillery ammunition and seventy-five radio transmitters. Three black market centers were found and 200 operators of them were jailed.

Of the total arrested, about 750 had possession of United States property and equipment, 700 had faulty identification papers, 250 illegally possessed German Army equipment and about 150 were seized as Nazi suspects.

All will face trial by military government courts. The maximum sentence is death for illegal possession of firearms. In similar raids last July, 80,000 Germans were arrested.

3000 ARRESTED BY U. S. IN REICH

Frankfurt, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—More than 3,000 Germans were arrested Sunday and a comparatively large store of guns, ammunition and radio transmitters were seized in widespread raids in the United States zone, the Army said today.

Army Urged to Speed Wives to Germany

BERLIN, Nov. 23 (AP).—Brigadier General J. L. Whitelaw said today that the sooner the United States Army brings over wives the better, in order "to stop this adultery and loose living going on here."

The deputy chief of staff in the Berlin District told correspondents he understood wives would arrive in the spring and that families would live on a basis which likely would be equivalent to that in Army posts in the United States.

Reds Asked to Help Find Kaltenbach

Berlin, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—An American Military Government officer said today that Russian authorities had been asked to assist in the search for Fred W. Kaltenbach of Waterloo, Iowa, Nazi propaganda broadcaster indicted in 1943 for treason.

The Russians asserted they did not have Kaltenbach in custody. There have been persistent reports that the Iowan was held by the Russians in Berlin or near by.

DAMASKINOS ASKS HIS RESIGNATION BE SENT TO KING

ATHENS, Nov. 23—(AP)—Archbishop Damaskinos, regent of Greece, insisted today that his letter of resignation be forwarded immediately to exiled Greek King George in London.

This disclosure came after Liberal Leader Themistokles Sophoulis, 85-year-old premier of the new Greek cabinet, had called on the Archbishop twice. The letter was held up by the retiring premier, Panayotis Kanellopoulos, pending installation of the Sophoulis government.

Damaskinos' insistence that his resignation be sent to London coincided with release in Athens of British foreign secretary Bevins' letter to the regent declaring, "I personally consider it would be important in your country's interest that you should remain at your post and take care of your country until integration of the task" is complete.

At the same time British Foreign Undersecretary Hector McNeil, in a radio broadcast from Athens to the Greek people regarding the new Sophoulis government, declared that "I did not select it nor was it imposed upon Greece by my chief, Ernest Bevin."

Rightists Protest

He spoke after charges had been made by the Rightist elements that the new government was set up in an unconstitutional manner. Rightists sent protests to the British, French and American governments.

Bevins' letter to Damaskinos said Greek "economic and financial problems must be met seriously and successfully: I cannot believe you will divest yourself of responsibilities at this juncture.

"If you and I jointly tackle the task I feel sure we shall be able with your government to succeed in securing for Greece both prosperity and freedom."

McNeil's speech echoed his chief's words. He declared "every good Greek will support" the Sophoulis government and said the regent was a "Patriot" who "I hope will carry on his arduous duties."

The regent, McNeil added, "consulted with us about the reconstruction program," one proposal of which" is that the plebiscite on the king should be deferred until March, 1948.

"Do not consider that a political move," McNeil said. "My chief and your regent agreed that if all the spirit and strength of Greece were united in rebuilding your homes x x x this issue should be put aside for the time being."

(In the British House of Commons the issue of a vote in Greece on the return of the king precipitated a clash between Bevin and former Prime Minister Churchill with the latter shouting that "Delay of two or three years would be wrong, for it's a burning question in Greece.

(Bevin retorted: "I defy anybody to run a plebiscite in Greece at the present time.")

No Pressure Exercised

Earlier at a press conference, McNeil said correspondence soon to be published would show Britain hand not exercised any pressure on Damaskinos.

Replying to a question whether the resignation of Kanellopoulos, retiring premier, was due to British refusal to extend financial help to Greece, McNeil said: "It is not true we refused to help Kanellopoulos because the question of help was not discussed."

He added that the Sophoulis cabinet would undoubtedly obtain economic assistance.

Former Premier Imredy Sentenced To Be Hanged

Hungarian Fascist Minister . . Appeals Death Penalty . .

BUDAPEST, Nov. 23 (AP).—Bela Imredy, Premier of Hungary in 1938-'39, was sentenced today to be hanged for treason. He appealed the death sentence to the National Council of People's Courts.

As a minister in the Fascist Sztojay cabinet, Imredy was found responsible in part for severe anti-Semitic policies which resulted in the death of several hundred thousand Jews. He was convicted in a ten-day trial for high treason for his part in forcing Regent Admiral Nicholas Horthy to carry out Hitler's demands for resistance to the Russian armies.

Imredy, internationally known in financial circles, was accused of sacrificing his country for personal ambitions.

Laszlo Bardossy, one-time Premier and Foreign Minister, was sentenced to death in Hungary's first war-crimes trial earlier this month.

Budapest, Hungary, Nov. 23—(AP)—Former Hungarian Premier Bela Imredy was sentenced by the Peoples Court today to hang. He was convicted after a 10-day trial on charges of committing war crimes and anti-Jewish acts.

Government prosecutors had accused Imredy of sacrificing his country for his personal ambitions. The former premier immediately filed an appeal to the National Council of Peoples Courts.

Witnesses against Imredy included German S. S. General Winckelman and Eric Veesenmayer, described as Hitler's personal representative in Hungary.

MORE POLICE SENT TO GUARD TEHERAN

Schwarzkopf Calls In Extra Gendarmes as 20 Slayings Are Reported in North

IRAN-SOVIET TALKS HELD

New Protest Reported Made to Moscow—Byrnes' Interest Declared to Be Increasing

TEHERAN, Iran, Nov. 23 (AP)—Col. Norman Schwarzkopf, chief of the Iranian gendarmerie, moved to safeguard Teheran itself today as an Iranian general declared that rebels had killed twenty officials and landowners in continuing fighting at Mianeh in Azerbaijan Province.

The general, reporting by radio from the Azerbaijan capital of Tabriz, said that the rest of the troubled, Soviet-occupied province was quiet, but added that "foreign adventurers" still were loitering in Tabriz.

Colonel Schwarzkopf, former head of the New Jersey State Police, said: "I have ordered certain gendarmerie posts from the south provinces to Teheran to reinforce the capital's garrisons and concentrated in vital places in case something happens in Teheran."

Say Teheran Is Orderly

He added that "there is no indication of any disturbances" and that "the Teheran situation is under control."

[On Wednesday an Iranian military spokesman without amplification said about 6,000 Russian troops had been moved toward Karaj, twenty-five miles northwest of Teheran.]

Colonel Schwarzkopf said that he had been "in touch with the military and the government since the outbreak of the revolt in Azerbiajan."

Colonel Schwarzkopf came to Iran in September, 1942, to reorganize the country's national police. Before the war the gendarmerie numbered about 7,000 men.

The Iranian general commanding at Tabriz said that fighting still was in progress at Mianeh, railway town 240 miles northwest of Teheran, where insurgents captured the railway station last week.

He said that the rebels had seized and shot twenty landowners and officials, and said that there had been other casualties, but his report did not elaborate. Seven persons were reported killed when an uprising, described by Teheran officials as staged by separatists, occurred last week in the mountainous Azerbaijan Province, in northwestern Iran bordering the Soviet Union.

Soviet-Iranian military talks continued at Kazvin—eighty miles northwest of Teheran on the road to Tabriz—where the Russians had blocked Iranian reinforcements bound for Tabriz.

(The Iranian embassy in Washington announced that a second note had been sent to Moscow, expressing "surprise" over the halting of Iranian troops, and asking for an explanation. The first note, last Saturday, had protested against alleged Soviet assistance to the uprising in Azerbaijan.)

In Teheran diplomatic discussions begun Wednesday continued between Iran's Premier Ebrahim Hakimi and Soviet Chargé d'Affaires Jakuboff. Premier Hakimi asked Parliament yesterday to refrain from discussing Azerbaijan problems while these negotiations were under way.

A Government spokesman said that Iran hoped to settle international aspects by direct conversations with Moscow. The spokesman added that United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes had told Khan Ali Hussein, Iranian envoy in Washington, that the United States had a growing interest in the developments.

Attributing Azerbaijan fighting to peasants and herdsmen, he added that the Shah's Government had been surprised when Russian troops barred Iranian forces from entering the occupied province this week to quell the fighting.

[Moscow dispatches attributed the outbreak to "reactionary landowners," who opposed meetings and elections sponsored by "democratic" elements in the province.]

The Iranian spokesman said that his Government had been surprised by the Russian attitude, because Red Army authorities had at first agreed to let Iranian battalions into the occupied province, and then withdrew the permission on what the spokesman termed the "pretext" that not all formalities had been observed.

A "council" of Azerbaijans living in Teheran sent a proclamation to the Shah and the Government accusing foreigners of having fomented the disorders in their home province. The message said that these foreignrs had called themselves "Democrats" to mislead the public, and urged that representatives of the foreign Allied press agencies go into Azerbaijan "and see for themselves."

Iran Protests to Moscow

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—The Iranian Government has sent to the Soviet Union its second note within a week protesting the behavior of Soviet forces in the northern Iranian provinces, the embassy in Washington disclosed today.

The second note, dated yesterday, expressed "surprise" over the halting of Iranian troops by Red Army forces near Tabriz and requests an explanation.

The Iranian troops had been dispatched from Teheran to the Province of Azerbaijan to quell an uprising for which Iranian officials have implied that Russian troops are responsible.

Last Saturday, the Iran Government sent a detailed note to Moscow, protesting against alleged Soviet assistance to rebellious tribesmen in northern Iran.

The Iran Government repeatedly has asked for United States assistance in persuading both Russian and British forces to evacuate Iran before the agreed-upon deadline date of March 2, 1946.

North Iran Rebels Shoot 20

Officials and Landowners Executed—New Clash Reported at Rail Town.

Leopold Hermann

Tehran, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—An Iranian general reported by radio from troubled Azerbaijan province today that twenty officials and landowners had been seized by rebels and shot.

Fighting is still in progress at the Railway town of Mianeh, 250 miles northwest of Tehran, the General also said. His report reestablished military radio communication between Tabriz and the capital. The Government has attributed the disorders to Separatists.

A Government spokesman said meanwhile that Secretary of State Byrnes had told Khan Ala Hussein, the Iranian envoy to Washington, that the United States has a growing interest in the developments. The spokesman added, however, that Iran hopes to settle the international aspects of the problem by direct conversations with Moscow. The Government had been surprised, he added, by Soviet action barring Iranian reinforcements from entering the wild, mountainous Azerbaijan province this week to quell the disturbances in which at least seven persons were killed. The uprising was blamed upon rebellious peasants and herdsmen.

[Moscow dispatches said that they were democratic patriots.]

The spokesman said that the Red Army authorities had agreed to permit Iranian battalions to enter the Soviet-occupied zone and then withdrew the permit on what he called the pretext that not all of the formalities had been observed.

A council of Azerabaijan residents in Tehran sent a proclamation to the Shah, Parliament and the Government declaring that the troubles in Azerbaijan were the work of foreigners who "have given themselves the name of Democrats to mislead public opinion." It suggested that representatives of foreign Allied press agencies in Iran go to Azerbaijan "and see for themselves."

Order Returning In Calcutta; American Soldier Is Missing

Donald Huth

Calcutta, Nov. 23 (AP)—Order was being restored gradually in Calcutta tonight after three days of rioting in which one United States soldier was missing, 30 others injured and 31 persons killed.

No trace has been found of the missing American. His name was not disclosed.

British military police began patrolling the streets. Submachine guns and steel helmets were issued to United States military police.

The city was quiet in all sections for the first time since the shootings began Wednesday during student demonstrations against the trial of Indian Army officers who fought for the Japanese during the war. Police said there had been no serious clashes since late afternoon.

Disturbances Hit Bombay

A canvass of five major hospitals in Calcutta showed that in the three days 31 were killed, 16 injured seriously and 243 admitted for treatment. Scores of others received minor injuries.

The riots threw Calcutta into civil turmoil with 20,000 municipal workers going on strike. There were disturbances in Bombay and demonstrations in New Delhi.

Representatives of minor political parties in Bengal demanded appointment of a nonofficial committee to investigate the violence.

The missing American soldier left Camp Howrah, across the Hoogly River from Calcutta, last night in an ambulance. This morning the vehicle was found overturned and burned.

In three days, at least fifteen American trucks and ambulances have been attacked and burned by mobs. Today American base section headquarters began issuing United States flags to fly on army vehicles for identification.

Some Americans have been accosted while on duty, and their cars taken from them despite all attempts to reason with the rioters. In some instances American soldiers have been severely beaten.

Steel helmets and submachine guns were distributed today to United States military police after some of them suffered severe head and face injuries when attacked by rioters while on duty at base headquarters.

Students Leave Classes

Charred and burning trucks littered the streets of Calcutta, which has been placed out of bounds for United States troops. Gunfire echoed through the outlying sections as the uncontrolled mob action spread from the downtown section to the southern, southeastern and northwestern areas of the city.

In Bombay, 500 university and school students left their classes when a strike was called by the Bombay Students Congress in protest against police firing on demonstrators in Calcutta.

Crying "down with British imperialism," the students clashed repeatedly with police. Student leaders said twenty of their number were hurt, but none seriously.

Police charged their lines twice, but they formed again each time.

26 Students Arrested

Students beat up a policeman who had arrested a student, and a British soldier who refused demands that he shout "jai hind," the battle cry of the Indian National Army meaning victory to India.

After a third charge by police, the students branched out, threatening storekeepers unless they agreed to suspend business. They smashed furniture in one shop until the owner agreed to close it.

Police arrested 26 students, and released five later.

In New Delhi a column of male students marched peaceably past the Red Mogul fort in the old city, where the Indian National Army officers are on trial. A group of girl students urged the marchers not to attempt to enter the fort.

The students said they would try to get all college students to strike in protest against the Calcutta shootings.

30 G. I.'s Hurt in Calcutta

One American Soldier Is Missing as Mobs Riot for Third Straight Day.

Calcutta, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—One American soldier was missing and more than thirty had been injured today as anti-British rioting raged for the third day in Calcutta and spread to Bombay and Delhi. The demonstrations, touched off by the trial of Indian officers who sided with the Japanese, threw Calcutta into civil turmoil, and more than 20,000 municipal workers went out on strike.

The missing soldier was reported to have left Camp Howrah, across the Hooghly River from Calcutta, last night in an ambulance. The ambulance was found this morning overturned and burned. The name of the missing man was not disclosed.

At least fifteen American trucks and command cars have been attacked by unruly mobs since the disturbances began.

[The All-India radio said tonight that Gov. Cassey of Bengal had ordered the British military police to stand by to aid the civilian police in restoring order in Calcutta.]

Clash in Bombay.

Crying "Down with British imperialism," students clashed repeatedly with the police in Bombay. Twenty demonstrators were reported injured. A British soldier who refused student demands that he shout "Jai Hind" ("Victory to India"), was beaten.

The red Mogul fort where the Indian National Army men are on trial on charges of aiding the enemy was the scene of Delhi's demonstration. A column of students marched past the fort. Their leaders indicated that all college students in Delhi would be asked to quit their classes in protest against shootings in Calcutta.

The total injured in Calcutta street fighting rose to 228 as a result of today's disorders, but the dead still numbered fifteen.

Among the injured were the American soldiers. Charred and burning trucks littered the streets and gunfire echoed through the outlying sections as uncontrolled mob action spread from the downtown section to the southern, southeastern and northwestern areas.

After the American soldiers had been injured in attacks on military vehicles in Calcutta, military policemen armed with sub-machine guns were assigned to convoy United States vehicles through the streets. The American flag was carried by each. Demonstrators had previously stopped one American truck, forced the driver to alight, looted the vehicle of food supplies and set it afire. The city was placed out of bounds for all American troops except those on essential duties.

The city's water supply was reported seriously depleted as a result of the strike of 20,000 municipal workers and drinking water was rationed. Demonstrators were reported lying on the railroad tracks between Belur and Lilooah, preventing the movement of trains.

New Delhi, Nov. 24 Saturday (AP)—Fifty-eight persons, including six American soldiers, were killed in an explosion of smokeless powder at an army hospital plant 30 miles outside Calcutta, United States Army headquarters announced here today.

Forty-five others are in the hospital, including five Americans. The other casualties were Indian workmen.

George VI Honors 4 U.S. Admirals

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 23 (AP) The Duke of Gloucester, governor general of Australia, tonight said King George VI had conferred high military honors on four United States Vice Admirals for services in the Pacific.

Vice Admiral Thomas C. Kincaid, commander of Allied naval forces in the Southwest Pacific from November, 1943, was named an honorary companion of the military division of the Order of the Bath.

Awards as honorary commanders of the military division of the Order of the British Empire were made to Vice Admiral Daniel E. Barbey, Vice Admiral Herbert F. Leary and Vice Admiral Arthur S. Carpender.

Wife Of Yank To Fly To U.S. To See Husband

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 23 (AP)—Mrs. William Bingham and her two children will fly from Wellington to Auckland, New Zealand, tomorrow on the first stage of their journey to Charleston, S.C., where her American sailor husband is reported going blind.

They will board at Auckland a Catalina flying boat supplied by Rear Admiral Paul Hendren and transfer to another aircraft in Hawaii. Lieut. E. O. Bowman, a navy nurse, is accompanying Mrs. Bingham.

The United States Navy made the arrangements to allow Bingham to see his family before his sight fails. He is in the naval hospital in Charleston. Mr. and Mrs. Bingham were married in New Zealand. He contracted an eye infection while serving on islands of the Pacific.

CHINESE REDS RECAPTURE TOWN

New Crop of Rumors Come from Maneuvering in Manchuria.

CHUNGKING, Nov. 23 — (AP) The Chinese Communists have recaptured highway town of Tsaoyang in Central China, 145 miles northwest of Hankow, the Nationalist government acknowledged today as the civil conflict developed a new crop of unconfirmed reports on the maneuvering for possession of Manchuria.

NIGHT

The Communists themselves officially claimed capture of Tinghsien, 125 miles south of Peiping on the Peiping-Hankow railway, and Yencheng, big town near the seacoast 120 miles northeast of Nanking and 160 miles northwest of Shanghai.

(A smaller town also named Yencheng is situated on the Peiping-Hankow railway in a zone where the Nationalists have said the communists were operating.)

A usually reliable source here reported that Soviet Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, commander of the Transbaikal front, had asked Chinese Nationalist officials to return to Changchun, the Manchurian capital, and resume negotiations with him. The Nationalists fled the city one week ago lest the expected Russian withdrawal leave them at the mercy of the Communists.

Russians on Scene

The Russians have not yet pulled out, but Chungking newspapers alleged that Chinese Communists already were in Changchun in strength. A few Nationalist officials still were in Changchun but presumably were prepared to leave with the Russians as a safety measure.

Chungking's welter of rumors included a recurrent one that the Russians and Chinese Communists in Manchuria were disappointed in each other.

The China Times said that when the Nationalist official party of 300 persons left Changchun it was escorted to the airport by a protective Russian force because the Communists had surrounded the field.

40,000 Troops Massed

The Nationalist Army Paper Ho Ping-Pao (the name means "Peace Daily") said that 40,000 Communist troops were massed at Chinhsien in southern Manchuria on the Peiping Mukden railway and were erecting fortifications there.

The Communists have predicted that "the first big battle" for Manchuria would occur in that neighborhood, but thus far the Nationalists have punched into Manchuria against light, sporadic opposition.

Town's Fall Will Provide Debarkation Port.

Moosa

Chungking, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—Nationalist capture of the strategic Manchurian port of Hulutao is imminent, press dispatches said today, while Chinese Communists claimed belatedly the seizure of Yencheng and Tinghsien far to the south.

The Reds asserted officially that they took Yencheng, important town 120 miles northeast of Nanking, on November 10, and that Tinghsien, on the Peiping-Hankow railroad forty miles north of the junction city of Shihkiachwang, was captured October 27.

Hulutao already has been outflanked by Nationalist troops driving into Manchuria against light opposition.

Capture of this Communist-held port would give the Nationalists a debarkation point for seaborne forces needed for the drive on the vital city of Changchun, Manchurian capital and focal point of a race between the Government and Communist troops.

Chungking was a welter of rumors, mainly contradictory. The only definite development in the civil strife wracking China was an official admission that Communists had occupied for the second time the important highway center of Tsaoyang, about 145 miles northwest of Hankow and 425 miles northeast of Chungking.

Russians in Changchun.

It was reported that Russian withdrawal from Changchun had not yet been completed, but Chinese Communists had already entered in strength. The few remaining Nationalist officials there were said to be keeping contact with the Russians and presumably will withdraw with them to avoid capture by the Chinese Reds.

Another informant, usually trustworthy, said Russian Marshal Rodion V. Malinovsky, commander of the Transbaikal front, had requested the Nationalist officials to resume negotiations with him.

The Chinese press asserted that Gen. Hsiung Shih-hui, senior Nationalist official in Manchuria, was presented with a demand by Malinovsky for joint Sino-Russian operation of all mines in Manchuria before he left Changchun.

Communists Erect Defenses.

The army mouthpiece, Ho Ping-pao (Peace Daily), alleged there were about 40,000 Communists already massed at Chinhsien on the Peiping-Mukden railway, about half way between the Great Wall and Mukden. It said the Communists were busily erecting defense works there.

An official dispatch quoted Communist deserters as reporting that the famous Communist general, Hsiao Keh, was killed in action in Inner Mongolia November 13.

Byrnes Says Marines In China To Keep Promise Made Japs

Washington, Nov. 23—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes said Wednesday that American Marines are in strife-torn North China because of a promise made to the Japanese Government last August to help in the surrender and repatriation of Japanese soldiers there.

This was the first disclosure of a pledge to the Japanese to use American forces in China to help get Nipponese troops home.

Heretofore, the U. S. Government position has been that it was helping an ally, the Government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, to rid China of defeated enemy forces.

Questioning of Byrnes started at a news conference when he was reminded by newsmen that two weeks ago he had said that plans were under way for withdrawal of the Marines from China.

He said that his information now is the same as it was then.

OPEN HONGKONG PORT

Hongkong, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—The military government, announcing the removal of most trade restrictions in this British Crown Colony, opened the port of Hongkong today to the free movement of all commodities except a few vital ones which are under world control. A spokesman said, however, that the import licensing system would prevail, at least temporarily, and that restrictions also would continue on foreign exchange.

He explained that the shortage of foreign exchange within the sterling bloc dictated a policy of approving foreign exchange grants in respect of American dollars, Swiss francs and other hard currencies only for imports which the Government considers essential. The interpretation of this policy, the spokesman continued, would be liberal and such items as refrigerators, American films and tobacco would be regarded as essential.

Bretton Pact Ratified by China

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Secretary Vinson said today that he had been advised by the Chinese Embassy that the Chungking Government had ratified the Bretton Woods agreements. China was the first nation or State in addition to the United States to sign the act which was enacted July 31, 1945, to stabilize international currency and to provide an international bank for reconstruction and development.

Mountbatten Gets Protest

Correspondents Charge They Can't Get Information

SAIGON, French Indo-China, Nov. 23 (AP).—American, British and Australian correspondents have protested to Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, southeast Asia commander, about the "impossibility of securing regular and accurate information on matters of fact and policy" in Indo-China.

The correspondents said they were unable to get regular progress reports on Japanese disarmament in the area, which presumably is the main function of the British here, and have been denied access to a military spokesman for several days.

Indonesian resistance melted before the fire power of the Shermans, and by nightfall Indian troops held two thirds of Soerabaja in the swiftest advance yet scored in the drive to occupy entirely the great port city.

30 G. I.'s Hurt in Calcutta

One American Soldier Is Missing as Mobs Riot for Third Straight Day.

Calcutta, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—One American soldier was missing and more than thirty had been injured today as anti-British rioting raged for the third day in Calcutta and spread to Bombay and Delhi. The demonstrations, touched off by the trial of Indian officers who sided with the Japanese, threw Calcutta into civil turmoil, and more than 20,000 municipal workers went out on strike.

The missing soldier was reported to have left Camp Howrah, across the Hooghly River from Calcutta, last night in an ambulance. The ambulance was found this morning overturned and burned. The name of the missing man was not disclosed.

At least fifteen American trucks and command cars have been attacked by unruly mobs since the disturbances began.

[The All-India radio said tonight that Gov. Cassey of Bengal had ordered the British military police to stand by to aid the civilian police in restoring order in Calcutta.]

Clash in Bombay.

Crying "Down with British imperialism," students clashed repeatedly with the police in Bombay. Twenty demonstrators were reported injured. A British soldier who refused student demands that he shout "Jai Hind" ("Victory to India"), was beaten.

The red Mogul fort where the Indian National Army men are on trial on charges of aiding the enemy was the scene of Delhi's demonstration. A column of students marched past the fort. Their leaders indicated that all college students in Delhi would be asked to quit their classes in protest against shootings in Calcutta.

The total injured in Calcutta street fighting rose to 228 as a result of today's disorders, but the dead still numbered fifteen.

Among the injured were the American soldiers. Charred and burning trucks littered the streets and gunfire echoed through the outlying sections as uncontrolled mob action spread from the downtown section to the southern, southeastern and northwestern areas.

After the American soldiers had been injured in attacks on military vehicles in Calcutta, military policemen armed with sub-machine guns were assigned to convoy United States vehicles through the streets. The American flag was carried by each. Demonstrators had previously stopped one American truck, forced the driver to alight, looted the vehicle of food supplies and set it afire. The city was placed out of bounds for all American troops except those on essential duties.

The city's water supply was reported seriously depleted as a result of the strike of 20,000 municipal workers and drinking water was rationed. Demonstrators were reported lying on the railroad tracks between Belur and Lilooah, preventing the movement of trains.

New Delhi, Nov. 24 Saturday (AP)—Fifty-eight persons, including six American soldiers, were killed in an explosion of smokeless powder at an army hospital plant 30 miles outside Calcutta, United States Army headquarters announced here today.

Forty-five others are in the hospital, including five Americans. The other casualties were Indian workmen.

George VI Honors 4 U.S. Admirals

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 23 (AP) The Duke of Gloucester, governor general of Australia, tonight said King George VI had conferred high military honors on four United States Vice Admirals for services in the Pacific.

Vice Admiral Thomas C. Kincaid, commander of Allied naval forces in the Southwest Pacific from November, 1943, was named an honorary companion of the military division of the Order of the Bath.

Awards as honorary commanders of the military division of the Order of the British Empire were made to Vice Admiral Daniel E. Barbey, Vice Admiral Herbert F. Leary and Vice Admiral Arthur S. Carpender.

Wife Of Yank To Fly To U.S. To See Husband

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 23 (AP)—Mrs. William Bingham and her two children will fly from Wellington to Auckland, New Zealand, tomorrow on the first stage of their journey to Charleston, S.C., where her American sailor husband is reported going blind.

They will board at Auckland a Catalina flying boat supplied by Rear Admiral Paul Hendren and transfer to another aircraft in Hawaii. Lieut. E. O. Bowman, a navy nurse, is accompanying Mrs. Bingham.

The United States Navy made the arrangements to allow Bingham to see his family before his sight fails. He is in the naval hospital in Charleston. Mr. and Mrs. Bingham were married in New Zealand. He contracted an eye infection while serving on islands of the Pacific.

CHINESE REDS RECAPTURE TOWN

New Crop of Rumors Come from Maneuvering in Manchuria.

CHUNGKING, Nov. 23 — (AP) The Chinese Communists have recaptured highway town of Tsaoyang in Central China, 145 miles northwest of Hankow, the Nationalist government acknowledged today as the civil conflict developed a new crop of unconfirmed reports on the maneuvering for possession of Manchuria.

The Communists themselves officially claimed capture of Tinghsien, 125 miles south of Peiping on the Peiping-Hankow railway, and Yencheng, big town near the seacoast 120 miles northeast of Nanking and 160 miles northwest of Shanghai.

(A smaller town also named Yencheng is situated on the Peiping-Hankow railway in a zone where the Nationalists have said the communists were operating.)

A usually reliable source here reported that Soviet Marshal Rodion Y. Indonesian resistance melted before the fire power of the Shermans, and by nightfall Indian troops held two thirds of Soerabaja in the swiftest advance yet scored in the drive to occupy entirely the great port city.

No British Casualties

The British made the gains without a single reported casualty, while at least 40 Indonesians were killed or wounded.

NOV 24 1945

Lieutenant General Sir Miles C. Dempsey, commander of Allied land forces in the Southeast Asia Command, and M. E. Denning, SEAC's political adviser, visited the Soerabaja battle area for the first time and commented favorably on the military progress.

Bitter fighting raged elsewhere, particularly along the 25-mile road from Semarang to Ambarawa, where the Dutch news agency Aneta said sixteen persons, mostly women and children, were killed last night in attacks upon a civilian internment camp by Indonesian extremists.

Quieter At Ambarawa

One company of Mahrattas which set out yesterday from Semarang for Ambarawa had failed to reach the city, and in battles en route lost nine wounded and one killed. At least 150 Indonesians were believed killed.

A company of Gurkhas which had started from Magelang reached Ambarawa last night, and the British said the situation there today was "much quieter."

In Batavia, Hubertus van Mook, acting governor general, expressed disappointment over the refusal by Indonesian leaders to participate in further negotiations with the Dutch, but added that "as far as I am concerned I shall always keep the door for discussion wide open."

Dutch Restraint Claimed

Van Mook, at a news conference, said the Indonesian refusal "to meet with us is in no way conducive to decreasing tension and discussion of our joint problems is the only way a solution to this most intricate problem can be found."

Referring to Indonesian claims that outbreaks in Batavia were largely due to the Dutch, van Mook declared the Dutch had shown the greatest restraint despite the fact they had relatives and close friends in the strife-torn areas of Java.

BRITISH TROOPS CCNTROL MOST OF SOERABAJA

Batavia, Java, Nov. 23—(AP)—Employing Sherman tanks for the first time in their Soerabaja offensive, British Indian troops pushed 2,000 yards southward in that naval base today and by nightfall held two-thirds of the city.

At the end of a day of swiftest advances yet, the British were fighting for the principal hostelries, capturing Hotel Oranje on the northern limits of the wealthy Simpang residential area.

Resistance Melts

Indonesian resistance melted before the firepower of the tanks and the British suffered no casualties. Indonesian casualties were about 40.

The British command, sending a battalion of Gurkhas 30 miles south from Semarang, today lifted the siege of Ambarawam where 10,000 Dutch civilians earlier had been reported under attack by Indonesian Extremists.

The Dutch news agency Aneta said that sixteen persons, mostly women, were killed last night in Ambarawa when extremists attacked the internment camp where the civilians were housed. Aneta said the camp had been surrounded and under attack since Tuesday.

In Semarang itself, Japanese troops were being used by the British to drive the Indonesians from the suburban areas on the eastern side of the port city. A British spokesman described the Japanese as "good troops who fight well."

All road blocks in Ambarawa, a central Java city, have been removed, a British communique said, adding that the situation there was reported to be much quieter. The 10,000 Dutch men, women and children were reported to be in the hands of Rapwi, the agency which cares for repatriated Allied prisoners of war and internees.

The communique did not state whether the relieving force had reached the internees, but did say that more troops were en route from Semarang, and that another company of Gurkhas was clearing the roads between the two cities.

The Gurkhas who reached Ambarawa punched their way through heavy resistance put up by the Indonesians, and at least 150 of the latter are reported killed. The British reported ten casualties.

Looting in Bandoeng.

Robberies, looting and kidnaping were reported in Bandoeng, where the British charged that the Indonesians were attacking RAPWI personnel, a majority of whom were Dutch. A RAPWI supply train of twenty cars, escorted by Gurkhas was reported at Tjikambek, and only one car arrived at Bandoeng. The British said "no further details are at hand yet about the remainder of the train and its Gurkha escort."

The Japanese troops fighting under British control in Semarang met stiff opposition from the Indonesians and attacked briskly yesterday. Like the British troops, they are permitted to shoot any one bearing arms, but a British spokesman said they had been "very good" about taking Indonesians prisoner instead of killing them.

Meanwhile, the Cabinet of President Soekarno formally turned the reins of the unrecognized Indonesian Government over to the new Premier, Sutan Sjahrir in a ceremony at Soekarno's home. In brief speeches, Soekarno called for the "unity of all sons of Indonesia in these strenuous days," and Sjahrir said, "We must face the world as a united force. That is now our main concern."

JAPS FACING BIG EXPENSE

American Occupation Put At $667,000,000 Annually

Tokyo, Saturday, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Japanese people were told today that the American occupation might cost Nippon 10,000,000,000 yen annually, or about $667,000,000 at the present rate of exchange.

Kyodo News Agency gave that figure in a news story which quoted unofficial Japanese circles.

The Bank of Japan has announced it ha sset aside 3,000,000,000 yen to pay the cost of occupational troops for the first three months.

Jap Office Abolished

Edwin W. Pauley, President Truman's personal representative on the Allied Reparations Commission, said recently on his visit to Japan that he doubted if Nippon would be able to pay the occupation costs, not to mention the reparations.

Meanwhile, as the latest of chances wrought in Japanese life following surrender, the office of lord keeper of the privy seal, an advisory institution which has been close to the Emperor since 1885, was abolished formally today with imperial sanction.

The imperial household minister, confirming frequent reports, announced the end of the position, currently held by Maquis Koichi Kido who figured in the elevation to office of such premiers as Heideki Tojo, No. 1 on the Japanese war criminal list.

Japs Seize American Food

General MacArthur's headquarters today issued authorization for the payment of debts owed banks closed September 30 on his orders. The action was taken after a number of debtors expressed a desire to pay maturing obligations. Accounts may not be drawn upon except on specified approval of MacArthur.

200 Famished Japanese Raid U. S. Army Storehouse

TOKYO, Nov. 23—(AP) More than 200 famished Japanese broke into an American army warehouse today at Sendai, within 200 miles of Tokyo, and seized food and other stores, Sendai police reported.

The police said they arrested 180 persons, including 94 women.

No further details were available on the outbreak, which was the first to be reported involving American supplies, although there have been similar raids on Japanese stores in the northern island of Hokkaido.

Gen. Koiso Surrenders

While the food riot was in progress in Sendai, Gen. Kuniaki Koiso, one of Japan's wartime premiers, surrendered at Sugamo prison to American occupation authorities who had placed him on the "wanted" list of war criminal suspects.

The grayclad 65-year-old Koiso, leaning on a heavy cane and fingering a close-cropped mustache, told correspondents, "we believe in our innocence."

Koiso was premier from July, 1944, to April, 1945, resigning as a result of the American invasion of Okinawa. He said that actually, he knew the war was lost when he took office at the time Saipan fell but that he had hoped to recapture that island when the Philippines campaign was in progress.

Koiso said that as premier he made a vain effort through China to negotiate peace. He did not elaborate.

Another member of the wanted fraternity, former Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, also talked peace today.

In a statement issued from his mountain home near Aisome village, Matsuoka contended that he had planned to go to Washington to seek a neutrality treaty with the United States in 1941 but was unable to do so because of illness.

He also contended that his alignment of Japan with the Rome-Berlin Axis and the Japanese-Russian non-aggression pact were intended as peace moves.

Matsuoka said he still was ill, giving this as a reason for not yet surrendering to American authorities. Friends said the Americans intended to give him a medical examination to determine his condition

The latest name on the wanted list was that of Col. Tadashi Kawashima, formerly with the Japanese Sixth army headquarters in Hankow, China. The Japanese government was ordered today to deliver him to jail.

Sugamo and Omori prisons now house 250 Japanese and 41 non-Japanese war criminal suspects.

Third To Surrender

Gen. Kuniako Koiso, successor to Pearl Harbor Premier Hideki Tojo, surrendered this afternoon at Sugamo Prison. He is the third of 11 warlords newly listed by General MacArthur to surrender on war crimes charges and he protested:

"We believe in our innocence."

He said he also believed—as early as July, 1944—that Japan had lost the war, and he added made unsuccessful efforts through China to negotiate a peace.

Baron Gen. Sadao Araki, known as "The high priest of the military cult," and Yoshihisa Kuzuu, head of the terroristic Black Dragon Society, surrendered at Sugamo Prison yesterday. A fourth, Baron Gen. Shigeru Honjo, who precipitated the Mukden incident and the conquest of Manchuria, committed hara-kiri rather than give himself up.

MacArthur's headquarters today ordered the Japanese Government to apprehend Col. Tadashi Kawashima, formerly with the Japanese Sixth Army headquarters at Hankow, and deliver him to Sugamo Prison.

With Koiso's surrender, 291 Japanese and non-Japanese prisoners now are held on war-crimes complaints at Sugamo and Omori Prisons. Omori holds 41 non-Japanese.

Resigned as Premier

Koiso, 65, resigned as Premier after Okinawa was invaded last April. A former member of Japan's once-mighty Kwantung Army clique, he once was military ruler and governor of Korea.

Government leaders who thus far have escaped the Allied war-criminal list meanwhile completed drafts of labor union and farm land adjustment bills, two drastic reform measures to be presented to the special Diet (Parliament) session Monday.

The labor law specifically recognizes labor's right to organize and strike. The farm bill would limit land holdings on Honshu to 12 acres by any individual, providing for expropriation where necessary to secure such division.

Mines Need Labor

The government also sought additional labor for the nation's coal mines by doubling the rice rations of miners. Prefectural authorities have been instructed to obtain 130,000 workers during the Winter—half of them by the end of December. Housing and medical treatment will be provided, with a double rice ration.

There have been similar outbreaks in recent weeks on Hokkaido, the northernmost home island, but none involving American stores had been reported. Sendai, on Honshu, is within 200 miles of Tokyo.

200 Rioters Break Into Army Warehouse—War Lords Surrender One by One.

Tokyo, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—An American Army warehouse was broken into by rioting, hungry Japanese at Sendai today, while the war lords whose dreams of conquest had brought incipient famine surrendered one by one to Allied jailers.

Two hundred Japanese laborers, including women, ransacked the warehouse, taking food and other items, the Sendai police reported. They arrested 180 persons, including ninety-four women. There was no indication that there were any Americans guarding or near the warehouse at the time.

JAPANESE ATOMIC SECRETS WRECKED BY U. S. SOLDIERS

Spencer

TOKYO, Saturday, Nov. 24—(AP)—American troops wielding sledges, crowbars and cutting torches began today the destruction of five cyclotrons through which Japan worked on the secrets of atomic power.

By order of General MacArthur, occupation forces started at 10 a. m. (8 p. m. Friday, EST) to wreck a 200-ton American-made cyclotron and a smaller model in the Nishina laboratory in Tokyo; two smaller machines at Osaka Imperial university; and a fifth at Kyoto Imperial university.

Made No Progress

Simultaneously, American scientists after studying Japanese records asserted that the Nipponese had made "no important progress toward working out the principles involved in the atomic bomb."

30.24 – 31843

Prof. Seishi Kikuchi, head of the physics department at Osaka Imperial university, said intensive work on the mass separation of unstable elements was considered by the Japanese in 1941, but that they concluded it would be useless —other nations were too far ahead of them, and Japan had no substantial deposits of uranium.

He said that the Japanese army was consulted on the project but had not understood the significance of the develpoment and declined to aid the project.

Destruction of the costly cyclotrons was another step in the Allied policy of eliminating Japan's warmaking potential. The destruction was directed by Maj. Joseph A. O'Hearn of Cambridge, Mass., who said that by nightfall, "Japan's potential for atomic research will have been substantially reduced."

Although troops and Allied scientists took over the laboratories several days ago to obtain records of the Nipponese research, neither Japan's imperial government nor her scientists knew until 8:30 a. m. today that the equipment actually was marked for destruction.

The small machines from Osaka and Kyoto were being dismantled for removal to a clearing where they will be wrecked by explosives and the remnants dumped into the sea. The huge machine at the Nishina laboratory here, too heavy for demolition by explosives, was being cut into sections which will be loaded on barges and dumped in the Pacific.

Laboratories Important

The machines at the Nishina laboratories were considered the most important in Japan. Allied headquarters said that Japan's leading nuclear physicist, Dr. Yoshio Nishina, bought the 210-ton magnet of his larger cyclotron in America with a financial grant from the Japan society for the promotion of scientific research and through the assistance of Prof. Ernest O. Lawrence of the University of California.

Dr. Monroe E. Spaght, member of the U. S. strategic bombing survey party, made the first examination of Japanese cyclotron records in Tokyo after Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger's Eighth Army troops had moved in and seized records and equipment of the Kyoto Imperial University.

Equipment found at that time consisted of one small cyclotron which Prof. Bansaku Arakatsu had started to build in 1934 but had never finished. Arakatsu told Allied scientists he had not yet been able to obtain a chain reaction in atom-splitting—a necessary feature of the atomic bomb.

Both of Osaka University's small cyclotrons were dismantled, and G. B. Zimmerman, physicist of the research division, Universal Oil Products Co., Chicago, investigating for the Allied command, reported the laboratory had discontinued atomic research in 1943.

MATSUOKA DECLARES HE SOUGHT U. S. AMITY

Brief

TOKYO, Nov. 23 (AP)—Yosuke Matsuoka, former Foreign Minister of Japan, said today that only illness had prevented him from attempting to negotiate a neutrality pact with the United States in 1941 that might have averted the war.

NOV 24 1945

Matsuoka, who has been named by Gen. Douglas MacArthur as one of eleven leading war criminals to be arrested, made the statement in a letter written to the Associated Press from his mountain retreat. He said that he had planned the neutrality pact as a prelude to a renewed request by his office that the Japanese military withdraw its forces from China.

"I meant later to obtain an opportunity for myself to proceed in person to Washington to conclude a treaty on the Pacific," he wrote, "and gradually ask our Army and Navy to withdraw our forces from China. Later I wished to cooperate with America to end the European war."

Matsuoka's letter, responding to questions carried to him by his son, Kenichiro, in a recent visit, said that he was planning to return to Tokyo in a few days. Here he would undergo examination by American doctors to determine whether he should be permitted more time to convalesce from a present illness before being imprisoned.

The tripartite pact which bound Italy, Germany and Japan in 1941 was a peace pact, not a war alliance, the diplomat asserted.

COUNTER-SPY WORK BY JAPS ALMOST COMIC

LANDSBERG

Kobe, Japan, Nov. 23—(AP)—The Japanese Kempeitai (Thought Police) throughout the war suspected foreign nationals, including Germans, of acting as American spies and worked with the Gestapo in a hunt for evidence.

How the Japanese distrusted all foreigners is shown in records of the investigation of Gerhard Kahner, who puffed himself into sobriquet "No. 2 Nazi of the Orient" but whose wartime career appears mainly to have consisted of spying on his own nationals and working with the Japanese secret police. Kahner is in American custody.

Capt. Allen C. Blakely, of Perry, Iowa, chief counter-intelligence agent in the Kobe area, said the red-haired Kahner caused the arrest of two German Seventh Day Adventist missionaries on charges of spying for the United States and watched secret police torture other foreigners. One old man, not named, died as the result of beatings.

American intelligence officers are investigating reports that Kahner witnessed the interrogation of 14 B-29 fliers later executed at Osaka.

Checked German

In a signed statement, Kahner said that Josef Alfred Meisinger, "Butcher of Warsaw," ordered him to investigate a Tokyo resident known as Dietrich who long was suspected by the Japanese gendarmerie of "working with the United States Secret Service."

He said the Japanese reported Dietrich had no visible business but drew 2,000 yen (about $900 at wartime rates) monthly. Every trip he made was watched. In January, 1945, for instance, it was noted that he came to Kobe and was seen talking to German sailors and soldiers.

Dietrich was arrested March 16.

Kahner said a Czech girl named Hazarowa and a Swiss named Lineuberger, jailed as alleged spies, were released to work for the Japanese on the understanding they would give the United States information "fixed" by Kempeitai by means not stated.

Kahner added that the police suspected that the two did not keep the agreement.

Another source said a German was picked up by the gendarmerie because he was seen with a paper on which was written strange heiroglyphics. The suspected code was knitting instructions.

Kahner said in a statement that the Japanese arrested a Dane and 12 Germans, including a Mrs. Zimmerman who was found with a notebook record of ship sailings from Kobe. She said she kept the date merely as a remembrance of acquaintances aboard.

"Mrs. Zimmerman got fairly good treatment," Kahner said.

DELAY IN TOJO TRIAL ASKED

U.S. Instruction To MacArthur Covers Other Japs

Night Ed

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—The War Department said tonight that because of the international aspects of the case against the former Japanese Premier, Tojo, and other Japanese officials, General MacArthur had been instructed to delay their trials as war criminals.

Cases involving violation of the laws of war or of inhumane acts against civilian populations will be pushed at once, however.

Text Of Statement

Text of the War Department statement:

"Because of the international aspects of the case against Tojo and other former Japanese high officials, who might be charged with planning and initiating a war of aggression or in violation of treaties or of conspiring for those purposes, General MacArthur has been instructed not to proceed immediately with the prosecution of persons involved in those cases since it was necessary to consult with other governments concerned. These consultations are being carried on at present by the State Department and prosecution will begin at the earliest practicable date.

"As to other cases involving violation of the laws of war and inhumane acts committed against civilian populations, General MacArthur has been advised to proceed immediately."

Role For Other Nations Sought

An American diplomatic official explained that because Tojo and the other high diplomatic officials were regarded as international war criminals it was desired to have other nations participate in their trials.

But the order sent MacArthur, it was added, apparently has no connection with any current discussions with Russia on Far Eastern affairs.

Yamashita Trial Told Of Concern Over Food

Manila, Saturday, Nov. 24 (AP)—The American blockade of the Philippines cut the Japanese soldier's rice ration to 100 grams per day, supplemented by wild grass, a Japanese supply officer testified today at Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's trial on war crimes charges.

Maj. Gen. Goichi Kira, a prisoner of war, was the defense witness whose testimony attempted to show that the lot of American war prisoners and civilian internees was no worse than that of the Japanese soldier.

Kira, quartermaster of Yamashita's 14th Area Army Group in the Philippines, said that the rice supply on Luzon Island was practically exhausted last December and January, and repeated calls for supplies from Indo-China went unanswered due to the American sea and air blockade.

Concern Over Food Claimed

Yamashita was greatly concerned over the food situation, and "expressed the desire that internees and prisoners of war be taken care of properly," Kira said.

The witness, speaking through an interpreter, also told the United States Military Commission hearing the charges that Yamashita issued an order prohibiting his soldiers from stealing from civilians.

Yamashita had another defender in a Japanese colonel, who testified that Japanese soldiers left in Manila when the general fled the city last December merely "assisted military police" in rounding up suspected Filipino guerrillas.

Col. Hiroshi Hashimoto, called as a defense witness, said Yamashita had no power to declare Manila an open (undefended) city; that most of the Japanese forces there during the period of atrocities were Naval personnel not under Yamashita's control, and that only 1,800 of his men remained in the capital—to guard supplies.

Later, however, Hashimoto—who was chief-of-staff of the Manila defense group—testified that these soldiers "assisted military police in raids and arrests of suspected guerrillas in and around Manila." He explained that Yamashita's men stood guard around designated areas while the military police moved in and mopped up.

Many of the worst atrocities described by prosecution witnesses in previous sessions were in connection with such "anti-guerrilla" operations.

Defends Own Reputation

Before finishing his testimony, most of which was aimed at showing Yamashita could not have been responsible for most of the atrocities in Manila, Hashimoto found it necessary to defend his own reputation.

He was asked if it was not a fact that when the Americans entered Manila he was drunk at a local night club. The colonel vigorously denied this accusation.

The Philippines supreme court, petitioned by Yamashita's defense counsel for a writ of habeas corpus which would take him out of the hands of the military court presently trying him, held a hearing on the matter today but reserved its decision.

Yamashita's legal staff argued that he was being "blitzed before a firing squad," that the military court lacked jurisdiction in this case and that he should be tried, if at all, by Philippines courts.

The U. S. Army sent no representative to the hearing. Its contention is that Philippines courts have no jurisdiction over Army procedure.

DELAYS ON YAMASHITA

Grover

Manila, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—The Philippines Supreme Court today reserved decision on an argument that Japanese Lieut.-Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita is being illegally "blitzed before a firing squad" in his current war crimes trial before an American military commission.

NOV 24 1945

Defense counsel asked for a writ of habeas corpus on the grounds that the United States military commission is without jurisdiction and that Yamashita should be tried, if at all, by Philippines courts.

The court withheld decision on the plea that it take custody of Yamashita, despite the fact the United States Army did not answer at the hearing. Army officials have taken the position that Philippines courts have no jurisdiction over Army procedure.

MAC ARTHUR AIDE BRANDS CRITICISM OF POLICY UNJUST

Tokyo, Nov. 23—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, General MacArthur's Intelligence officer from Corregidor to Australia and back again, told a press conference Wednesday that he was "completely baffled" by what he called unjust criticism in America of MacArthur's occupation policy.

There was only one alternative (to making full use of the Japanese and their government in carrying out Allied wishes), he said, "and that was to come in shooting."

Landing in Japan "with an airborne division and a smile," he added, "we entered into a potentially dangerous situation and got away with it . . . We carried it to a brilliant conclusion. And yet we have a curious, obscure, menacing undertone, inspired by something to raise a question about our work."

He said, when asked about the criticism by an "obscure source," that "I have an accurate recollection of what newspaper in the United States mentioned it first."

Replying later to questions by the newsmen, he said that he had noted Japanese reports that Russians were occupying the Kuriles, but he did not know the extent of such a move. There was nothing questionable in such an occupation, he added; Russia was supposed to have the Kuriles as her zone of occupation.

213,446 Japanese Returned To Homeland

Tokyo, Nov. 23 (AP)—Kyodo news agency today reported that 213,446 demobilized Japanese service men and civilians had been repatriated between November 1 and November 15. They included nearly 60,000 aboard Allied ships.

This brought the total since the surrender to 509,463 from China, Korea, the Philippines and central Pacific islands.

G. I.'s Have Own Network in Japan

Tokyo, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—News and entertainment are being broadcast to Allied occupation forces in Japan and Korea by a network of eighteen radio stations to the armed forces.

The key outlet is WVTR, Tokyo, with 50,000 watts at 590 kilocycles. The original network was established late in September. It was made up of the main station at Tokyo and relay stations at Kumamoto, Osaka, Nagoya, Hiroshima, Sendai and Sapporo.

2,000 G. I.s Re-enlist in Japan

YOKOHAMA, Nov. 23 (AP).—Nearly 2,000 veterans of Pacific fighting, attracted by the prospect of immediately returning to the United States, re-enlisted in the regular Army at ceremonies held in the Octagon Theater today. They will receive thirty-day furloughs on arrival in the United States.

U. S. Women Doctors Land at Nagoya

Nagoya, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—The first American women to land here since the port was opened on October 28 arrived today. Seventy-six nurses, five Red Cross workers and two women doctors landed from the U. S. S. Gage from Okinawa.

First ashore was Capt. Harriet Dawley of West Palm Beach, Fla., head nurse. Doctors in the party were Capt. Mae Josephine O'Donnell of Madison, Wis., and Capt. Hilda J. Koppell of New York city. The group, overseas for seven months on Oahu and Okinawa, will serve at the 307th Hospital in Osaka.

More Treasure Found In Japan

Nagoya, Japan, Nov. 23 (AP)—American troops have recovered precious metals valued at $285,000 in a naval warehouse at Atami, it was disclosed today. The cache included 350 silver ingots, weighing over 13 tons.

Philippine Congress Will Be Called Soon

Manila, Nov. 23—(AP)—President Sergio Osmena announced today that he would call the Philippines Congress into session within 15 days to legalize prompt election of national officials—because "the United States is determined to give us independence not later than July 4, 1946."

He told a news conference that he found "no sentiment in the United States supporting an extension" of the terms of present Philippines officials, including himself.

The islands' first post-war election probably can be held by April or May, he indicated.

AERIAL BROADCAST

Manila, Nov. 23—(AP)—The local Army radio station, preparing to broadcast the Western Pacific Olympics next month, sent a microphone aloft today to cover a baseball game at Rizal Stadium, which will be the scene of the Olympics.

Announcer Fred Barr, New York City, gave armed forces radio listeners a play by play description from a heicopter piloted by Lt. Frank Cote, Belmont, Mass.

ADMIRAL TRANSFERRED

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 23—(AP) Vice Admiral William W. Smith of Springfield, Mass., has been transferred from command of the U. S. Pacific Fleet's Service Force to temporary duty in the Navy Department at Washington, the Navy announced today.

HEAD OF URUGUAY ESCAPES ATTACK

Montevideo, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—A well-dressed young man armed with a revolver was arrested today when he approached President Juan Jose Amebaga as he was leaving his residence.

Ramon Ginocchio, secretary to the President of Uruguay, said the man "began to speak to the President in the name of the fatherland" and appeared so excited that a guard quickly seized him. The revolver was found in the man's clothing, the secretary said. The man, apparently a student, was 24 years old. His identity was not announced.

The President attached no "importance to the event" and went on to his office, Ginocchio said.

Amezga, a member of the Colorado party, was elected in November of 1942.

Last May, more than eighty persons were injured and 100 arrested in riots resulting when crowds tried to shout down the President and demanded the resignation of his Minister of Interior, Juan Carabajal Victorica, and Police Chief Juan Gomez Folle. The crowds stoned and looted stores along the main streets of the capital and attempted to force the liberal newspaper El Dia to fly the Russian flag.

Santiago Strike Brings Out Cuban Soldiers

Santiago, Cuba, Nov. 23 (AP)—Soldiers with drawn bayonets patrolled Cuba's second largest city tonight after violence flared between law-enforcement officers and workers, who staged a six-hour general strike today.

About 200 members of the Provincial Federation of Workers were ordered arrested, after the organization called the strike which paralyzed the city's transportation, commerce and industry. Strike leaders said the movement was directed against "reactionary employers and the deplorable state of public sanitation."

Santiago, Cuba, Hit By General Strike

Santiago, Cuba, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—A six-hour general strike today tied up industry, trade and traffic in this second largest Cuban city. It began at noon at the call of the Provincial Federation of Workers, demonstrating in support of the Government's labor legislation and against "deplorable sanitation facilities in the city."

Armed troops patrolled the street. The police reported numerous incidents.

Argentine Conservative Party To Stand Alone

Buenos Aires, Nov. 23 (AP)—The powerful National Democratic (Conservative) party, second largest in the country, said today it would present its own candidate in the forthcoming presidential election and not join a "democratic union" of parties against the candidacy of former Vice President Juan Perón.

All other major parties have joined the front against perón, who is supported by at least two newly-organized labor parties and a dissenting section of the radical party.

HULL, WELLES DENY ANY COMMITMENT FOR ENTERING WAR

Disclaim Knowledge of Roosevelt Making Such Pact with Churchill.

WATCHED JAP MOVES

Pearl Harbor Not Considered as Possible Site of Nipponese Attack.

NOV 24 1945

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP) Cordell Hull and Sumner Welles declared today they had no knowledge of any commitment for the United States to go to war if Japan attacked a British or Dutch possession.

NIGHT

Secretary and Under-[illegible] of State were asked, at the Senate-House Pearl Harbor inquiry, specifically whether President Roosevelt made such an arrangement with Winston Churchill at the Atlantic Charter meeting in the summer of 1941. Both Hull and Welles replied that they never heard of such a thing, then or at any other time.

Watched Jap Moves

The two also testified that in the tense days before the Pacific War broke out they never got so much as a hint that Pearl Harbor might be attacked. Hull said American military attention was primarily centered on possible Japanese moves in the southwest Pacific.

The investigating committee received a memorandum in which General George C. Marshall and Admiral Harold R. Stark, the Army and Navy chiefs, suggested to President Roosevelt six points where the Japanese might attack—and Hawaii was not among them.

Hull testified that he had hoped by "some remote, speculative possibility" to sway the Japanese from their aggressive course. He and Mr. Roosevelt, he said, strove in every way to avert or delay an armed clash with Japan without surrendering fundamental principles

Grabbed at Straws

"We proceeded in an atmosphere practically of grabbing at straws," he told the committee with a smile.

While Welles was testifying, Rep. Murphy (D-Pa), a member of the investigating committee, remarked that there had been rumors that at the Atlantic Conference, Mr. Roosevelt told Churchill America would "Stall the Japs along for a period of four months." Murphy asked Welles whether there was any promise or commitment.

Welles replied that the only thing along the line "to the best of my knowledge and belief" was agreement for a parallel stand by the U. S. and Britain that it could not regard with indifference a continued aggressive expansion.

Murphy also asked about previous testimony by Admiral J. O. Richardson that President Roosevelt over-ruled the admiral when he suggested in 1940 that the U.S. fleet be removed from Pearl Harbor to the West Coast of the United States.

Fleet Was Insecure

Welles recalled that Richardson had said the fleet was insecure at Pearl Harbor.

"My feeling," Welles said, "was that moving the fleet from Hawaii — leaving Hawaii defenseless — would have had an important and prejudicial influence." He said China would have been discouraged, and Japan would have been led to believe that America was giving her a "wide open road" in the Pacific.

Hull testified that a special Japanese envoy, Saburo Kurusu, had told him in mid-November, 1941 that the Pacific was "a powder keg" and that Japan had reached "an explosive state."

By this, Hull explained, Kurusu "was simply pleading that we must agree on the diplomatic side or something awful would happen."

It was in response to questions that Hull said the possibility of an attack on Pearl Harbor had not occurred to him. American officials were receiving almost constant advices that the Japanese were moving men and ships to the lower end of Indo-China, he said, and "we knew that was the jumping off place for an attack."

Amid the threatening situation, Hull reported, the State, War and Navy departments were "very much like a family, seeing and talking with one another" and keeping in constant touch.

The gray, 74-year-old former secretary of state denied emphatically that the counter-proposals he gave to Japanese "peace ambassadors" on Nov. 26, 1941, constituted an "ultimatum." Japanese leaders called the proposals that after the sneak assault on that Hawaiian naval base.

An army board of inquiry into the Pearl Harbor disaster had criticized Hull, in a report made public last August, on the grounds that he had precipitated a crisis when Army and Navy leaders were urging delay so Hawaiian and Philippine defenses could be strengthened.

Hull gave the committee a memorandum sent by Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, to the President on Nov. 5, 1941.

It recommended:

"That the dispatch of United States armed forces for intervention against Japan in China be disapproved. (Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek was pleading at the time for American air support.)

"That material aid to China be accelerated consonant with the needs of Russia, Great Britain, and our own forces.

"That aid to the American volunteer group be continued and accelerated to the maximum practicable extent. (This group was composed of volunteer American airmen in China, better known as the "Flying Tigers.")

No Ultimatum Delivered

"That no ultimatum be delivered to Japan."

Saying he agreed generally with all these recommendations, Hull declared:

"I concurred completely in the view that no ultimatum should be delivered to Japan. I had been striving for months to avoid a showdown with Japan, and to explore every possible avenue for averting or delaying war between the United States and Japan.

"That was the cornerstone of the effort which the President and I were putting forth with our utmost patience."

Yet he had felt all along, he said, that there was "not one chance in 20 or one in 50 or even in 100 of reaching a peaceful settlement" and had constantly warned the cabinet before Dec. 7 that Japan could be expected to attack "anywhere, anytime."

Congressional hearings are notorious for seldom starting on time, but the punctual Hull appeared 10 minutes before the committee's scheduled 10 a. m. reconvening after a Thanksgiving Day holiday.

He wore a black, pin-striped suit with a white handkerchief in his breast pocket and looked a bit thinner than when he left the State department. Spectators filled the big hearing room to overflowing.

Carries Personal Statement

Hull had with him a 20,000-word personal statement and an even larger volume of documents supplementing it.

To spare his strength, he turned the statement, with committee approval, over to Gerhard Gesell, assistant committee counsel, for reading and left with the understanding that he would return in the afternoon for questioning. It had been agreed beforehand that he would not be kept on the witness stand for longer than 45 minutes at a time because of his recent months of ill health.

Nearly half the spectators left along with him.

Hull's file made public many documents from what heretofore were among the government's most secret files.

One was the Marshall-Stark memorandum of Nov. 5 which disclosed that the United States and Britain long before had agreed on "basic military policies and strategy."

This said:

"The primary objective of the two nations is the defeat of Germany. If Japan be defeated and Germany remain undefeated, decision will still have not been reached. In any case, an unlimited offensive war should not be undertaken aaginst Japan, since such a war would greatly weaken the combined effort in the Atlantic against Germany, the most dangerous enemy.

"War between the United States and Japan should be avoided while building up defensive forces in the Far East, until such time as Japan attacks or directly threatens territories whose security to the United States is of very great importance. Military action against Japan should be undertaken only in one or more of the following contingencies:

"A direct act of war by Japanese armed forces against the territory or mandated territory of the United States, the British commonwealth, or the Netherlands East Indies;

"The movement of Japanese forces into Thailand to the west of 100 degreer east or south of 10 degrees north; or into Portuguese Timor, New Caledonia, or the Loyalty Islands."

Hull Denies Secret Agreement To Defend British and Dutch

Ex-Secretary of State Says Roosevelt Made No Commitments With Regard to Far East Colonies.

NOV 24 1945

Washington, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—Former Secretary of State Hull declared today that he never had heard of any secret arrangement by President Roosevelt for the United States to go to war in the event the Japanese attacked British or Dutch possessions.

The point came up, with particular reference to the Atlantic Charter meeting of Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill, at hearings of Senate-House committee investigating the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor which brought war. Gerard Gesell, committee counsel, asked the former right hand man of President Roosevelt:

"Did you ever hear of any arrangement, or agreement or understanding by President Roosevelt or any other official prior to December 7, 1941, to the effect that in the event of an attack on British or Dutch possessions, or any ABCD Power, in the Pacific by Japan, this country would go to war without an attack by Japan on us?". Hull replied that he had not.

Welles Also Testifies.

Later Gesell asked specifically if Hull had ever heard of such an agreement in "the Atlantic Charter or any other conference."

"No, I did not," Hull said.

After Hull had completed an hour on the stand and had left the room with spectators applauding, Sumner Welles, former Under-Secretary of State, also testified that he had no knowledge of any such agreement. Chairman Barkley (D.-Ky.) announced that Hull would return either tomorrow or Monday for questioning by committee members.

Welles said that the only agreement for joint action with the British which he knew about was diplomatic in its nature. He said that at the Atlantic conference in August, 1941, President Roosevelt told him that he had agreed with former Prime Minister Churchill to make a parallel declaration to Japan.

Pearl Harbor mentioned.

Welles said that he prepared a copy of a proposed statement for the President to give to the Japanese, but that it was "watered down" before it was presented by Mr. Roosevelt to Kichishaburo Nomura, Japanese Ambassador.

Hull told the committee that it never had occurred to him that the Japanese might attack Pearl Harbor and that he never received a hint during prewar diplomatic conversations that such a blow would be struck.

Hull testified orally before the committee after submitting a long prepared statement in which he detailed the diplomatic background of the last few weeks before hostilities began.

In this, he said that he had warned the Cabinet a month before Pearl Harbor that Japan might strike at any time and that he and President Roosevelt sought frantically to avoid a showdown. The prepared statement was read by a committee counsel at a morning session. Hull returned for questioning during the afternoon.

The former Secretary, who is 74 and ailing, talked slowly, in spaced phrases. He had an overcoat draped over his shoulders to protect him from drafts in the hearing room. He testified in response to questions from Gesell.

The hearing room was packed as he testified to what he called the "duplicity of the Japanese" during diplomatic negotiations late in November, 1941. Outside, capital police held back an overflow crowd.

Basic American Policies.

Gesell asked Hull when he decided that the possibility of solving Japanese difficulties had become "most improbable" and that it was likely that Japan would strike. Hull replied that it "was manifest, after long months of conversations with the Japanese," together with other information, that "they had no idea of yielding their policy—a policy of conquest and aggression by force, and enslavement of conquered people."

He said that it was equally manifest that "we were not going to depart from our basic policies—policies prevalent among peaceful, civilized nations, of peace, law, order, justice and equality." In October, 1941, "it looked more and more like they were prepared and intended to act," Hull said of the Japanese.

The former Cabinet member said that the State, War and Navy departments and the White House were "very much like a family, seeing and talking with one another" constantly, and communicating to each other what they knew of the threatening situation.

Hull said that the possibility that the Japanese would attack Pearl Harbor had not occurred to him in the critical last days of diplomatic negotiations in 1941. He told the committee that never once during the final months of negotiations had he received any hint that Pearl Harbor would be assaulted.

He said that though he had warned the late President Roosevelt and others that the Japanese might strike at any time, and at any place, American military attention primarily was directed toward the Southwestern Pacific. Under the questioning of committee counsel, Hull said that late in 1941 American officials were receiving almost constant messages that the Japanese were moving men and ships to the lower end of Indo-China.

"We knew that was the jumping-off place for an attack," he said. He added that the attack from there might have been directed against the Dutch East Indies, the Philippines, Singapore and other areas.

"We were watching that very closely as the days passed by," he said. "I didn't think anything either way about other places in the Pacific that might be attacked, including Pearl Harbor."

Asked if he had reports, rumors, intimations or hints that Pearl Harbor might be hit, the former Secretary replied that he had not.

Walker May Be Called.

Before the inquiry resumed after a Thanksgiving Day recess, Senator Lucas (D.-Ill.) told reporters that former Postmaster General Frank Walker probably would be called to tell of his part in the diplomatic talks with Japan before the Nipponese struck at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941.

Hull arrived ten minutes early for the meeting and had to wait an additional ten minutes for counsel to enter various documents in the record. These included a proposed draft of a message to Congress, given to the late President Roosevelt by the State Department. It said that the policy toward Japan would not be influenced "by fear of what attacks Japan may make upon us." Mr. Roosevelt, however, never delivered the message.

While Hull was waiting, chairman Barkley (D.-Ky.) wedged through a circle of photographers to shake his hand. They chatted a while and a smile creased Hull's lined cheeks.

NOV 24 1945

Well-considered Views.

Hull told the committee that his statement had been prepared under his direction by State Department experts, and represented his considered views.

"I consider it accurate and would not, under any circumstances, have any one doubt that I stand for the statement," he said. In it, he made these points:

1. He gave the Cabinet repeated warnings before December 7, 1941, that Japan could be expected to attack "anywhere, any time," since there appeared to be no hope of successful diplomatic negotiations.

2. Hull said that only by the United States yielding fundamental principles could the Pearl Harbor attack have been prevented, with the prospect that it would have come after Japan "consolidated the gains she would have made without fighting."

Avoiding Showdown.

3. He asserted that the cornerstone of his and President Roosevelt's efforts were to avoid a showdown with Japan while this country strengthened its defenses, adding that he "concurred completely in the view that no ultimatum should be delivered to Japan."

4. He revealed that most information which this Government received indicated that the Japanese would concentrate attacks on the Kra Peninsula and the Dutch East Indies.

5. He disclosed that at the Atlantic conference President Roosevelt had agreed with Prime Minister Winston Churchill to take parallel action in informing Japan that in the event of further aggression they would be forced to move defensively.

Indo-Chinese Move.

Committee members were cautioned in advance that because of his health, Hull could not testify more than forty-five minutes at a time. There had been doubt that he could appear at all.

Hull said in his statement that the original Japanese move into southern Indo-China was the overt act which so changed the Far Eastern situation that it became a question no longer of this country's avoiding the risk of war, but of making "a definite and clear move in self defense." That act, he said, brought about the July 2, 1941, order of President Roosevelt to freeze Japanese assets in this country.

Hull noted that at the Atlantic conference of the President and Churchill in August, 1941, "Mr. Churchill had informed President Roosevelt that the British Government needed more time to prepare for resistance against a possible Japanese attack on the Far East."

Defense Preparation.

"This was true also of our defense preparations," Hull said. "Furthermore," he went on, "President Roosevelt and Churchill had agreed that the American and British governments should take parallel action in informing Japan that, in the event the Japanese Government should take further steps of aggression against neighboring countries, each of them would be compelled to take all necessary measures to safeguard the legitimate rights and interests of its country and nationals and to insure its country's safety and security."

Mr. Roosevelt gave the Japanese Ambassador this warning on August 17, but agreed, at the same time, to continue negotiations. He and the President knew that the Japanese were "unreliable and treacherous," Hull said, adding that while "our Government desired peace, it could not brush away the realities of the situation."

Accordingly, they continued to talk with the Japanese in the hope that, at least, "the conversations would give our Army and Navy time to prepare." Hull said that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek reported early in November that the Japanese appeared to be preparing to attack Kunming. He asked for American air units and for a warning against Japan.

Experts Sought Delay.

At Hull's suggestion, the Army and Navy studied this appeal, but recommended against any armed intervention in China beyond the Flying Tigers' volunteers. They urged additional material aid to China, but wanted no ultimatum delivered to Japan.

"I concurred completely in the view that no ultimatum should be delivered to Japan," Hull said. "I had been striving for months to avoid a showdown with Japan and to explore every possible avenue for averting or delaying war between the United States and Japan."

The former Secretary said that as early as November 7, 1941, he told the Cabinet that "relations were extremely critical and we should be on the lookout for a military attack anywhere by Japan at any time."

Kurusu's Proposal.

He added that Ambassador Joseph C. Grew cabled warnings on November 3 and 17 "of the possibility of sudden Japanese attacks which might make inevitable war with the United States." He said that Saburo Kurusu, Japanese "peace" ambassador, suggested that a temporary agreement might be reached, but that on November 20 the Japanese envoy presented a new proposal "which, on its face, was extreme."

Hull said that he told Kurusu this formula offered nothing helpful. The same day, the witness continued, word was received from the Dutch that a Japanese force had arrived near Palao, nearest point in the mandated islands to the heart of the Indies.

"The whole issue presented," he said, "was whether Japan would yield in her avowed movement of conquest, or whether we would yield the fundamental principles for which we stood in the Pacific and all over the world. They were armed to the teeth, and we knew they would attack whenever and wherever they pleased."

Critical Situation.

Regarding the situation as critical and virtually hopeless, he said he nevertheless went ahead with efforts to draft a temporary agreement. On November 25, he said that he told the War Council consisting of the President, Secretaries of State, War and Navy, the Army Chief of Staff and the Chief of Naval Operations, that "the Japanese military were already poised for attack."

The temporary agreement never was presented to the Japanese. Instead, Hull restated to them on November 26 the principles of peaceful co-operation and non-agression on which he said the United States stood. This, he went on, was what Japanese propagandists later called his "ultimatum."

At a November 26 meeting of the War Council, Hull said he pointed out that there was "practically no possibility of an agreement being achieved with Japan." He reiterated, he declared, that it was up to the Army and Navy to safeguard national security.

Phone to Roosevelt.

Hull recounted various reports received of Japanese military activities, including a reported plan for them to attack the Kra Peninsula on December 1, and the landing of additional troops in southern Indo-China.

"On November 30," he said, "I was informed by the British Ambassador that the British Government had important indications that Japan was about to attack Siam and that this attack would include a seaborne expedition to seize strategic points in the Kra Isthmus." Hull telephoned Mr. Roosevelt on November 30 to come back from Warm Springs.

Then, on December 6, Hull said that the Government received reports that a Japanese fleet of thirty-five transports, eight cruisers and twenty destroyers was moving from Indo-China toward the Kra Peninsula.

Cable to Mikado.

"This was confirmation that the long-threatened Japanese movement of expansion by force to the south was under way," he said. He noted the President's telegraphic appeal that day to the Emperor of Japan to avert "tragic possibilities."

"On December 7, the Japanese struck Pearl Harbor," he concluded at this point.

Hull said that from the very outset of the pre-war talks with Japan, he estimated that there was "not one chance in twenty or one in fifty or even in a hundred of reaching a peaceful settlement." He so concluded, he said, in the light of Japan's record of duplicity and wide divergencies between Japanese and United States policies in the Far East, "but if there was a chance that new agreements would contribute to peace in the Pacific," he added, "the President and I believed that we should not neglect that possibility, slim as it was."

Hull attributed Japan's record of duplicity largely "to the fact that the Japanese military were a law unto themselves and consistently overrode commitments which civilian Japanese had given." Under a subheading, "Situation in the United States," the former Secretary recalled that as far back as 1933 the Senate Foreign Relations Committee turned down a proposal which would have authorized United States co-operation in an arms embargo against aggressor nations.

This and similar actions, he said, were interpreted by aggressors as meaning that the United States would "not oppose effectively their policies of conquest." For further illustration, he mentioned efforts which he and Mr. Roosevelt had made to revise the neutrality legislation in the summer of 1939 to strengthen the Western democracies. This, Hull recalled, "was violently opposed and blocked on the wholly mistaken theory that no war was likely to occur and, if it did occur, no attack against us was likely."

Hull's Testimony On Pearl Harbor

Washington, Nov. 23 (AP)—A condensed text of testimony prepared for the congressional Pearl Harbor Committee by Cordell Hull, former Secretary of State, follows:

It is pertinent to allude briefly to the estimate which we made of the situation at this juncture. (July, 1941.)

The hostilities between Japan and China had been in progress for four years. During those years the United States had continued to follow in its relations with Japan a policy of restraint and patience. . . . It had desired to give the Japanese every opportunity to turn of their own accord from their program of conquest toward peaceful policies.

Willingness To Co-Operate

The President and I, in our effort to bring about the conclusion of an agreement, had endeavored to present to the Japanese Government a feasible alternative to Japan's indicated program of conquest. We had made abundantly clear our willingness to co-operate with Japan in a program based upon peaceful principles.

We had repeatedly indicated that if such a program were adopted for the Pacific, and if thereafter any countries or areas within the Pacific were menaced our Government would expect to co-operate with other governments in extending assistance to the region threatened.

While these discussions were going on in Washington, many responsible Japanese officials were affirming in Tokyo and elsewhere Japan's determination to pursue a policy of co-operation with her Axis allies. . . .

The Japanese move into southern Indo-China was an aggravated, overt act. It created a situation in which the risk of war became so great that the United States and other countries concerned were confronted no longer with the question of avoiding such risk but from then on with the problem of preventing a complete undermining of their security. It was essential that the United States make a definite and clear move in self-defense.

Assets Are Frozen

Accordingly, on July 26, 1941, President Roosevelt issued an executive order freezing Chinese and Japanese assets in the United States. . . . The effect of this was to bring about very soon virtual cessation of trade between the United States and Japan. . . .

On August 28 the President was given a message from the Japanese Prime Minister, Prince Konoe, urging that the meeting of the heads of the two governments be arranged to discuss all important problems by Japan and the United States covering the entire Pacific area. Accompanying that message was a statement containing assurances, with several qualifications, of Japan's peaceful intent. . . .

A meeting between the President and Prince Konoe would have been a significant step. Decision whether it should be undertaken by our Government involved several important considerations.

We knew that Japanese leaders were unreliable and treacherous. We asked ourselves whether the military element in Japan would permit the civilian element, even if so disposed, to stop Japan's course of expansion by force and to revert to peaceful courses. . . .

An Inescapable Fact

Japan's formal partnership with Nazi Germany in the tripartite alliance was a hard and inescapable fact. . . .

A meeting between the President and the Japanese Prime Minister would have had important psychological results.

It would have had a critically discouraging effect upon the Chinese. . . .

It was clear to us that unless the meeting produced concrete and clear-cut commitments toward peace, the Japanese would have distorted the significance of the meeting in such a way as to weaken greatly this country's moral position and to facilitate their aggressive course. . . .

As a result of our closeup conversations with the Japanese over a period of months, in which they showed no disposition to abandon their course of conquest, we were thoroughly satisfied that a meeting with Konoe could only result either in another Munich or in nothing at all, unless Japan was ready to give some clear evidence of a purpose to move in a peaceful direction. I was opposed to the first Munich and still more opposed to a second Munich.

Realities Of Situation

Our Government ardently desired peace. It could not brush away the realities in the situation.

Although the President would, as he said, "have been happy to travel thousands of miles to meet the Premier of Japan," it was felt that in view of the factors mentioned the President could go to such a meeting only if there were first obtained tentative commitments offering some assurance that the meeting could accomplish good. Neither Prince Konoe nor any of Japan's spokesmen provided anything tangible. . . .

On October 2 I gave the Japanese Ambassador a memorandum of an "oral statement" reviewing significant developments . . . and explaining our Government's attitude toward various points in the Japanese proposals which our Government did not consider consistent with the principles to which this country was committed. Disappointment was expressed over the narrow character of the outstanding Japanese proposals, and questions were raised in regard to Japan's intentions regarding the indefinite stationing of Japanese troops in wide areas of China. . . .

In the last part of October and early November . . . Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek . . . requested that the United States send air units to China to defeat this threat. He made a similar request of the British Government. He also asked that the United States issue a warning to Japan. . . .

Study Of Appeal Suggested

I suggested that the War and Navy departments study this Chinese appeal. . . . At the conclusion of this estimate the chief of staff and the chief of naval operations recommended:

"That the dispatch of United States armed forces for intervention against Japan in China be disapproved.

"That material aid to China be accelerated consonant with the needs of Russia, Great Britain and our own forces.

"That aid to the American volunteer group be continued and accelerated to the maximum practicable extent.

"That no ultimatum be delivered to Japan."

I was in thorough accord with the views of the chief of staff and the chief of naval operations that United States armed forces should not be sent to China for use against Japan. . . . I concurred completely in the view that no ultimatum should be delivered to Japan. I had been striving for months to avoid a showdown with Japan, and to explore every possible avenue for averting or delaying war between the United States and Japan.

NOV 24 1945

Cornerstone Of Effort

That was the cornerstone of the effort which the President and I were putting forth with our utmost patience.

Early in November the Japanese Government decided to send Mr. Saburo Kurusu to Washington to assist the Japanese Ambassador in the conversations. . . .

In telegrams of November 3 and November 17 the American Ambassador in Japan cabled warnings of the possibility of sudden Japanese atacks which might make inevitable war with the United States.

On November 20 the Japanese Ambassador and Mr. Kurusu presented to me a proposal which on its face was extreme. I knew, as did other high officers of the Government, from intercepted Japanese messages supplied to me by the War and Navy departments, that this proposal was the final Japanese proposition—an ultimatum. . . .

Supplying Of Oil

The plan thus offered called for the supplying by the United States to Japan of as much oil as Japan might require, for suspension of freezing measures, for discontinuance by the United States of aid to China, and for withdrawal of moral and material support from the recognized Chinese Government. . . .

The whole issue presented was whether Japan would yield in her avowed movement of conquest, or whether we would yield the fundamental principles for which we stood in the Pacific and all over the world. . . .

There was never any question of this country's forcing Japan to fight. The question was whether this country was ready to sacrifice its principles.

To have accepted the Japanese proposal of November 20 was clearly unthinkable. It would have made the United States an ally of Japan in Japan's program of conquest and aggression and collaboration with Hitler. It would have meant yielding to the Japanese demand that the United States abandon its principles and policies. It would have meant abject surrender of our position under intimidation.

"Situation Was Critical"

The situation was critical and virtually hopeless. . . .

Three possible choices presented themselves.

Our Government might have made no reply. The Japanese war lords could then have told their people that the American Government not only would make no reply, but would also not offer any alternative.

Our Government might have rejected flatly the Japanese proposal. In that event the Japanese war lords would be afforded a pretext, although wholly false, for military attack.

Our Government might endeavor to present a reasonable counter-proposal.

Last Course Is Chosen

The last course was the one chosen.

I emphasized the critical nature of this country's relations with Japan at the meeting of the war council on November 25. . . . I felt that virtually the last stage had been reached and the safeguarding of our national security was in the hands of the Army and the Navy. . . .

On November 26 I recommended to the President—and he approved—my calling in the Japanese representatives and handing them the broad basic proposals. . . .

The document handed the Japanese on November 26 was essentially a restatement of principles which have long been basic in this country's foreign policy. . . . As one practical example of a program to be worked out.

It did not rule out other practical examples which either government was free to offer. . . .

As To Jap Propaganda

It is not surprising that Japanese propaganda, especially after Japan had begun to suffer serious defeats, has tried to distort and give a false meaning to our memorandum of November 26 by referring to it as an "ultimatum." This was in line with a well-known Japanese characteristic of utilizing completely false and flimsy pretexts to delude their people and gain their support for militaristic depredations and aggrandizement.

On November 28, at a meeting of the war council, I reviewed the November 26 proposal which we had made to the Japanese, and pointed out that there was practically no possibility of an agreement being achieved with Japan. I emphasized that in my opinion the Japanese were likely to break out at any time with new acts of conquest and that the matter of safeguarding our national security was in the hands of the Army and the Navy.

With due deference I expressed my judgment that any plans for our military defense should include an assumption that the Japanese might make the element of surprise a central point in their strategy and also might attack at various points simultaneously with a view to demoralizing efforts of defense and of co-ordination. . . .

Kept In Constant Touch

Throughout the critical years culminating in Pearl Harbor and especially during the last months, the President, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy and the heads of our armed services kept in constant touch with each other. There was the freest interchange of information and views.

It was customary for us to pick up the telephone and for the caller to ask one of the others whether he had anything new of significance on the situation and to communicate whatever the caller may have had that was new. These exchanges of information and views were in addition to those which took place at Cabinet meetings and at meetings during the Fall of 1941 of the war council, and in numerous other conversations.

ROOSEVELT HAD PLAN FOR PACT TO DELAY WAR

NOV 24 1945

Pencilled Note by Ex-President Outlines Program

Washington, Nov. 23—(AP)—A copy of a pencilled note in the handwriting of the late President Roosevelt outlining a possible temporary agreement with Japan late in 1941 was placed in the record of the Pearl Harbor Investigating Committee today.

A notation said it was given by the President to the Secretary of State—"not dated but probably written shortly after November 20, 1941." Apparently it was prepared for some sort of proposition never submitted to Japan.

Roosevelt's Notes

It read:

"6 months

"1. U. S. to resume economic relations—some oil and rice now—more later.

"2. Japan to seend no more troops to Indochina or Manchurian border or any place south (Dutch, Brit. or Siam).

"3. Japan to agree not to invoke the tri-partite pact even if U. S. gets into European war.

"4. U. S. to introduce Japs to Chinese to talk things over but U. S. to take no part in their conver-

"Later on Pacific agreements."

Handwritten Addition

Mr. Roosevelt added a handwritten addition to the draft of a telegram to British Prime Miniter Churchill November 24, describing a proposed "modus vivendi" or temporary agreement between this country and Japan. The "modus vivendi" never was submitted.

"This seems to me a fair proposition for the Japanese but its acceptance or rejection is really a matter of internal Japanese politics. I am not very hopeful and we must all be prepared for real trouble, possibly soon."

Pearl Harbor Warning By Peru In '41 Reported

Washington, Nov. 23 (AP)—The Peruvian Minister to Tokyo passed along to the American Embassy in January of 1941 a report that the Japanese were considering a surprise attack on Pearl Harbor in the event of trouble" breaking out.

This information was placed today in the files of the joint Senate-House committee investigating the disaster at Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941. The army board which investigated Pearl Harbor told of the same tip in a report made public last August but did not identify its source.

A message from the chief of naval operations to the commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet on February 1, 1941, said:

"1. The following is forwarded for your information. Under date of 27 January the American Ambassador at Tokyo telegraphed the State Department to the following effect:

"'The Peruvian Minister has informed a member of my staff that he has heard from many sources, including a Japanese source, that in the event of trouble breaking out between the United States and Japan, the Japanese intend to make a surprise attack against Pearl Harbor with all of their strength and employing all of their equipment. The Peruvian Minister considered the rumors fantastic. Nevertheless, he considered them of sufficient importance to convey this information to a member of my staff.'

"2. The division of naval intelligences places no credence in these rumors. Furthermore, based on known data regarding the present disposition and employment of Japanese naval and army forces, no move against Pearl Harbor appears imminent or planned for in the foreseeable future."

Brewster Plans To Answer Tunnell Attack on G. O. P.

Washington, Nov. 23—(AP)—Senator Brewster (R-Me.) demanded time at today's Senate session to reply to what he called a "fantistic" speech by Senator Tunnell (D-Del.) criticizing Republican members of the Pearl Harbor Committee.

The Maine Senator, one of four Republicans on the 10-member investigating group, spent part of Thanksgiving Day reading the Congressional Record account of the speech delivered by Tunnell late Tuesday afternoon.

Brewster indicated to a reporter he regarded the incident in the light of a political utterance and was not inclined to take it too seriously. He said he nevertheless felt duty bound to reply "because of the overtones and undertones."

Tunnell charged the Republicans with conducting a "sneak attack upon the grave of Franklin Roosevelt" in a "smear campaign" against the wartime President. He said they planned "to rake through the wreckage of Pearl Harbor and find there the evidence that the friendly, pacific Japanese were trapped by Roosevelt's diplomatic cunning into fighting for their sacred liberty."

COMPANY CALLS OFFER OF WORKERS' LEADERS A 'DEMAND FOR ABDICATION'

Says Proposal Means It Should Give Up Management Right

Detroit, Nov. 23 (AP)—General Motors Corporation tonight bluntly rejected a union request for arbitration of wage issues that led to a strike of 200,000 G.M. employés Wednesday.

The company action came within a few hours after Lewis B. Schwellenbach, Secretary of Labor, had conferred with President Truman at the White House on the strike situation.

Terming the offer of the United Auto Workers (CIO) a "demand for abdication, not an offer of arbitration," the nation's largest automobile manufacturing concern bitterly assailed the union's stand.

"Stripped of its deception, the union proposal is that G.M. should relinquish its right to manage its business," the company statement said.

Settlement Hopes Dampened

The company's declaration came as a temporary damper to hopes for speedy settlement of the strike which has closed down more than 70 G.M. plants in twenty states. Earlier today, a G.M. spokesman admitted the strike was "100 per cent effective."

The original union demand that G.M. submit the dispute over 30 per cent wage increases to arbitration was submitted to the company Monday and the union set a 4 P.M. Tuesday deadline for reply.

On Tuesday, G.M. officials notified the union their reply would not be available until today and this action was followed by a strike call, which was recommended Tuesday by the 200 delegates to the G.M. council of the UAW, which held a two-day meeting here.

Reply What Union Expected

The G.M. statement brought a quick reply from R. J. Thomas, UAW president, who said: "This is what we expected today, because General Motors had actually rejected the whole principle of voluntary arbitration in their letter of last Tuesday.

"If the corporation were willing to accept the principle of arbitration in any form they would have made a counterproposal," the UAW chieftain added.

G.M. not only rejected the 30 per cent wage demands but also withdrew its counteroffer of ten per cent increases declaring, "in view of the union's summary rejection of our proposals, this offer is hereby withdrawn."

The company spokesman said the ten per cent offer had been made without regard as to whether or not the Government would approve an increase in prices of new cars.

To Invite Both Sides To Capital

Schwellenbach disclosed that Mr. Truman had approved a proposal to summon both parties in the dispute to Washington for conferences.

Schwellenbach said General Motors officials and representatives of the United Auto Workers would be invited to Washington to talk with Edgar L. Warren, chief of the Federal Conciliation Service.

He indicated the meeting could not be held before Wednesday because the union is planning an executive committee meeting in Detroit Monday and Tuesday.

Labor Is Willing

Walter P. Reuther, UAW vice president in charge of General Motors negotiations, commented, "We will be most happy to confer at Washington and to help in any way we can to effect an early settlement of this strike.

Company officials withheld comment pending official notification from Washington.

Asked if he was optimistic about the situation, the Secretary said: "It is too early to know."

Schwellenbach said he gave the President a summary of a report on the G.M. dispute received today from John Gibson, a Labor Department conciliator, who studied the Detroit situation over the holiday.

200,000 Workers Out

General Motors and UAW-CIO officials were agreed that close to 200,000 employés were out. Among them were about 73,000 office workers advised by the management not to attempt to "force" their way through picket lines.

The strike already involves more than twice the number of workers involved in the 44-day "sit-down" strikes in G.M. plants in 1937.

A corporation spokesman estimated today that G.M. plants had produced slightly more than 20,000 of the 1946 model cars up to the time the strike started Wednesday. In 1941, General Motors assembled 2,257,124 of the industry's over-all production of 4,838,561 vehicles.

Snowstorm Cuts Picket Lines

Picket lines at Michigan plants were small today. Union officials attributed this to a swirling snowstorm along with temperatures in the twenties. They said larger "and more colorful" lines would be on the job next week.

Today was pay day for hourly rated workers in most General Motors plants, but company reports indicated the picket lines kept office workers away from at least half the plant offices.

A company statement said that at two plants in Buffalo the pickets permitted only accounting department employés to enter the administration buildings.

Under instructions from the union high command each union local was permitted to decide for itself whether to let office workers through the gates.

Union To Use Soup Kitchens

The union was completing plans today to set up soup kitchens early next week. UAW-CIO officials said the union's $4,000,000 strike fund would not permit compensation for the strikers, but was expected to provide food, shelter and medical care in any case of hardship.

In another major development in the automotive labor picture, the Ford Motor Company, pressing its demands for what it terms "company security," today called upon the UAW-CIO to assume financial responsibility for unauthorized work stoppages in a proposed new contract the company said the union could make "labor history" by agreeing to such a proposal.

SENATE REJECTS FREE PRESS RULE ON UNRRA FUNDS

NOV 24 1945

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP) The widely-discussed "Free Press" amendment was struck from the $550,000,000 UNRRA fund bill today by a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee. The members acted unanimously.

The House had stipulated that none of the fund could be spent in countries which refuse American reporters free access to news of UNRRA activities there.

The deletion is subject to review by the full committee Monday and on the Senate floor later. The $550,000,000 would fulfull the balance of this country's pledge of $1,350,000,000 for this year to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

The subcommittee tacked on another amendment, however, designed to buoy farm prices. It was opposed vigorously by the state department and UNRRA.

Maintain Farm Prices

Sponsored by Senater Elmer Thomas (D-Okla) chairman of the Agriculture committee, it stipulates that none of the $550,000,000 can be used to buy any farm commodity, or article processed out of a farm commodity, at a price which does not reflect full parity.

Parity is a level designed to give the farmer purchasing power equivalent to that held in a previous favorable period, in most cases 1909-14.

The Thomas amendment also says farm products shall not be bought from foreign sources if they are available at parity in the United States.

Goods already in the hands of the government—such as surplus army and navy supplies—would be exempted from the proviso.

90 Per Cent Cut for Food

Thomas said his amendment was an effort to force the payment of parity prices as Congress has directed. He estimated that 90 percent of the $550,000,000 would be spent for food, and expressed belief the expenditures would bring parity returns to the farmer on his domestic sales as well.

Thomas thought the amendment would raise the prices of oats, wheat, cotton and probably eggs. He said most other crops are selling at or above parity now.

Senator Mitchell (D-Wash) commented that the principle might have merit but that it was out of place in the relief bill.

WORK OF UNRRA ABROAD LAUDED BY EISENHOWER

Washington, Nov. 23—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower thinks UNRRA is doing its European job "with steadily increasing effectiveness."

The Army's acting Chief of Staff, nursing a heavy cold, appeared at an unusual holiday meeting of the House Foreign Relations Committee yesterday.

More Funds Considered

The committee is considering legislation to provide an additional $1,350,000,000 for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

Eisenhower disagreed with a previous witness, a one-time Army sergeant. This witness, Raymond E. Lindgren of Evanston, Ill., who had gone with UNRRA after leaving the Army, termed UNRRA a "noble experiment which failed miserably."

Lindgren said he and other UNRRA workers quit because they were "completely and utterly disillusioned." He suggested that UNRRA be abandoned and that the U. S. set up its own relief agency.

Eisenhower declared that "time will not wait" for any such new venture. He claimed it would be "wasteful to dissipate UNRRA's trained personnel and experience.

"UNRRA already is operating throughout much of Europe," Eisenhower said, "and I know from my own observation in Germany that it is operating with steadily increasing effectiveness."

Free Press Clause

Over in the Senate, which is considering a $550,000,000 UNRRA appropriation, there was a prediction by Senator Elmer Thomas that the so-called "free press rider" would be stricken from the bill.

To leave it in, Thomas said, would be a "slap at Russia."

"I think the provision will go out," the Oklahoma Senator told a reporter. "We are not in a position to slap at Russia and if we were, we should do it directly."

The provision was inserted in the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration measure by a coalition of Republicans and Democrats when the House passed the bill several weeks ago. This and other provisions of the legislation were scheduled for action by a Senate appropriations subcommittee today.

EMPLOYMENT BILL IS REWRITTEN BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

NOV 24 1945

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP) The so-called "full employment" bill already revised by the Senate, has been rewritten by a House sub-committee to set a goal of "a high level of employment," legislators said today.

A Congressman who would not permit use of his name showed a reporter a copy of the substitute for one of the key measures in President Truman's legislative program. It omits all reference to "full employment" and "full production."

To Create Opportunities

Instead, it declares the government's policy shall be to create "the maximum opportunities for employment" and to maintain "a high level of employment (including self-employment), production, and purchasing power."

It states that this shall be done "in a manner consistent with the American system of free enterprise" and calls for encouragement to private investment and individual initiative and the adoption of "sound fiscal policies."

A House Expenditures Subcommittee drafted the measure after prolonged hearings that prompted President Truman to criticize the committee for "damaging delay."

The full committee is to meet Tuesday to pass on the new draft.

In the subcommittee's bill, provision is made for a public works program capable of expansion when "widespread unemployment" exists or threatens and of contraction in case of inflation.

The measure says the public works feature and "Programs for Loans" in times of unemployment shall be "consistent with a financially sound fiscal policy." It calls for encouraging state and local governments to adopt similar public works programs.

The annual "Production and employment budget" to be submitted by the President is eliminated.

Require Economic Report

In place of that estimate of jobs available and needed, the President would submit an "economic report" declaring whether the bill's objectives are being achieved and whether government policies are helping or hurting.

Whatever the situation, the President would analyze the causes and suggest remedial legislation.

Sweeping Action Leaves Only Sugar and Tires on Restricted List.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP) Rationing of all meats, canned fish, and food fats and oils, including butter, was ordered abandoned effective at midnight tonight.

The sweeping action left sugar as the only food commodity, and tires the only non-food item, remaining under the rationing programs instituted early in the war to assure supplies for military requirements and to provide equitable distribution.

Besides butter and meat, foodstuffs removed from rationing included margarine, lard, shortening and cooking and salad oils.

The action was announced today by Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson at a news conference, two days after he and Price Administrator Chester Bowles had laid the matter before President Truman. It had been reported that the two officials could not agree on whether to end rationing of the food items now.

Bowles, in a formal statement, hailed the rationing decision as "good news for everyone." He said his agency now will be able to concentrate upon "holding the price line against increasing inflationary pressure."

Meat Supply Abundant

Anderson said there is an abundant supply of meats, including poultry. He said the supply should be sufficient to allow civilians consumption in December at an annual rate of 165 pounds compared with 145 now, a war-time low of 100 pounds last spring and summer, and a 1935-39 prewar average of about 127 pounds.

On the other hand, food fats—particularly butter—are expected to continue short of demands for some time. The December supply of fats and oils is expected to be at an annual level of 50 pounds per capita compared with average prewar consumption of 48 pounds.

Anderson did not say when consumers may be freed of sugar rationing. He did state, however, that because of a serious world-wide shortage, there is no "immediate prospect" of ending it. At a news conference early this month, he said sugar rationing may be necessary through 1946.

Tires, on the other hand, may come off the ration list shortly after the first of the year, government rubber authorities said recently.

Meats, fats and oils were first rationed on March 29, 1943, after heavy military and lend-lease purchases had so reduced civilian supplies that acute shortages had developed in many areas. Today's action on meat directly affects only the better grades of beef and lamb and most pork and pork products. Lower grades of beef and lamb and all mutton were made ration-free in October.

To Aid Stricken Nations

Anderson emphasized that termination of rationing will in no way affect government plans for aiding Allied and war-liberated areas.

"We intend," the secretary said, "to carry out the President's promise to ship the maximum amount of food to help relieve distress and prevent starvation in devastated countries, including those paying directly for food supplies and those being served by the United Nations relief and rehabilitation."

Ending of meat rationing comes after several months debate between Anderson and Bowles. Bowles opposed piecemeal ending of rationing, which was started in October at Anderson's direction with removal of lower grades of meat from the ration list.

Since then Bowles has questioned the necessity of continuing partial rationing.

Anderson said the civilian meat supply during the first quarter of 1946 may drop from the estimated December rate of 165 pounds to between 160 and 150—the amount depending upon exports.

Exports, in turn, will be governed in large measure by funds available to the United Nations Relief and rehabilitation Administration. Measures appropriating additional funds for UNRRA are pending in Congress.

Anderson said that foreign shipments in the first quarter may reach 625,000,000 pounds compared with about 550,000,000 expected to be shipped this quarter.

Must Surrender Points

OPA announced that to prevent their misuse, all red ration tokens in the hands of the trade should be surrendered to ration banks before Dec. 12.

The public, OPA said, will not be required to turn in tokens "because of the burden this would impose."

The red stamps can be disposed of, the OPA said.

Any civil suits which had been pending in connection with red-point rationing are automatically dismissed, the OPA said, but criminal suits will be prosecuted.

The OPA said that any case of suspension of the right to deal in rationed red point foods is now cancelled.

Rationing of Meat, Oils, Butter, Food Fats Ended

Uruguay Urges Joint Action to Uproot Tyranny

NOV 24 1945

Note Seen Aimed Against Argentine Regime Is Being Studied by U. S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP).—Uruguay has suggested that the American nations adopt the principle of collective intervention when one of their number denies its people essential rights or fails to fulfill its international obligations, the State Department disclosed tonight.

The proposal was advanced in a 2,500-word note which Dr. Alberto Rodriguez Larreta, Uruguayan Foreign Minister, handed to United States Ambassador William Dawson and other American chiefs of mission in Montevideo yesterday. Its adoption would mark a broad departure from past inter-American policy, which has been strongly against interference in the internal affairs of other countries.

No mention of Argentina was made in the note, but diplomats saw it as applying directly to the military regime in that South American nation.

The strongest support for non-intervention policy in the past has come from expressed or implied fears of Latin-American countries that the United States might interfere in their affairs.

No Shield for Violations

In the note, which the State Department said it understood Uruguay was making public today, Dr. Rodriguez Larreta said the non-intervention principle would not shield without limitation "the notorious and repeated violation by any republic of the elementary rights of man and of the citizens."

It added that the principle would not excuse any American republic from "obligations freely contracted" with respect to "its external and internal duties and which entitle it to be an active member of the international community."

Summing up, the Uruguayan note asserted that non-intervention "cannot be converted into a right to invoke one principle in order to be able to violate all other principles with immunity."

Thus, it added, a "multi-lateral collective action" exercised unselfishly by all other American republics could not be construed as injuring the government against which the action was directed. Rather, it said, such action "must be recognized as being taken for the benefit of all, including the country which has been suffering under such a harsh regime."

Wants Parley to Discuss It

The Uruguayan Foreign Minister suggested that the proposal be discussed at the Pan-American Conference in Brazil next spring.

Diplomats here pointed it out as significant that the suggestion comes from a tiny country separated only by the River Plata from the militaristic Argentine regime.

At the State Department, officials authorized only the following quotation on the note:

"It deals with a subject which we must now face and therefore represents a very important contribution to inter-American relations.

"As soon as we have an opportunity to analyze the message in detail, the department will probably issue a full statement of its comments."

Braden Believed for It

Despite this official reticence, there seemed little doubt that the Uruguayan proposal would get sympathetic consideration from Spruille Braden, Assistant Secretary of State for Latin-American Affairs and outspoken critic of the repressive tactics of the Argentine militarists. This country frequently has accused Argentina of violating its hemisphere and United Nations obligations.

One of the closing paragraphs of the note was written in language much like that which Mr. Braden has frequently used in expressing his concern over the Argentine situation. The paragraph said:

"Pusillanimity or unenlightened selfishness may counsel a passive attitude, but the result would then be that the mission of the Americas would transfer itself into that of making our continent a refuge for evil doctrines, practices and interests and into a field favorable to their future rebirth."

Eisenhower Ill; His Return to Europe Put Off

He Enters Hospital With Severe Cold; Nomination as Staff Chief Approved

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP).—General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, new Acting Chief of Staff, went on sick call today.

Suffering from a severe cold, he entered the Ashford General Hospital at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., "to prevent any complications developing," the War Department announced.

A hospital report issued tonight by Brigadier General Clyde M. Beck, commanding general, said: "General Eisenhower was admitted to the hospital, suffering from acute respiratory infection, this morning. Condition is not critical. Progress is satisfactory."

His illness "canceled for the time being General Eisenhower's plans to return to Europe, where he intended to fulfill several important engagements," the announcement added. He left here by train last night after a Thanksgiving Day appearance before a Congressional committee in favor of more money for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

The Senate Military Affairs Committee today gave speedy and unanimous approval to the nomination of General Eisenhower as Chief of Staff to succeed General of the Army George C. Marshall, resigned. The committee dispensed with customary hearings.

With General George C. Marshall already on terminal leave preparatory to retirement, the duties of the Chief of Staff now are being performed by General Thomas T. Handy, deputy chief.

General Eisenhower had planned to fly back to Europe today to clean up his affairs there as chief of American occupation forces in Germany. He apparently had arranged to go to American occupation headquarters in Germany with General Joseph McNarney, appointed to succeed him as Chief of United States forces there. General McNarney, who had a date for a conference with President Truman today, now plans to leave Washington late this week or early next week.

Mrs. Eisenhower is ill with pneumonia at Boone, Iowa, but is reported improving satisfactorily.

HATCH ATTACKS BRITISH, SOVIET

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP) Senator Hatch (D-N.M.) spoke out today against "present unilateral steps being aggressively taken by the Soviet Union."

He said that "many students of international affairs" see them as "a grave danger to permanent world accord."

Criticizing what he viewed as insistent attempts by some European countries "to try to dominate internal affairs of neighboring nations," Hatch asserted after his reference to Russia:

"Others also declare Great Britain is following in some places a similar course. Even we are accused of like policies in certain areas. No matter which nation pursues such a course, it is wrong.

"It is time to change. It is time to try something new. It is time to substitute law instead of force. It is time to adopt complete freedom of thought, communication and of press everywhere in the world."

Hatch, a close associate of President Truman when the latter was a senator, spoke on the floor in behalf of a pending measure to authorize the President to use the armed forces which the U. S. allocate to the World Security Council without further congressional checks.

Hatch, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, said it was his belief that the United Nations Charter must be amended to eliminate the veto powers of the Big Five nations over forceful action by the league.

He proposed that the charter also be changed to grant legislative authority to the general assembly.

In discussing the European situation, Hatch contended that unilateral action not only would deal a serious blow to the United Nations organization, but might be "a death knell for a world order based upon the principles of law for which I so earnestly contend today."

ADVISORY GROUP TO VISIT JAPAN

NOV 24 1945

Washington, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—The Allied Far Eastern Advisory Commission will go to Japan "in the near future," with the ap- was announced today. The commission—made up of representatives of ten Allied governments—has been meeting here since it was established at the end of last month. The decision to go to Tokyo was made at a commission meeting at the State Department today.

Announcing the impending trip, the commission said it had decided it would be a mistake to consider "in detail the many complicated problems connected with control of Japan in a purely academic atmosphere.

"Therefore, the commission has decided that it would be wise to visit Japan in the near future for the purpose of consulting with the Supreme Allied Command and to familiarize itslef with conditions on the spot. The Supreme Allied Commander has concurred in this thought."

BIG 3 PARLEY IS URGED ON ATOMIC BOMB

Rep. Douglas Wants Russia to Be Included in Talks

Washington, Nov. 23—(AP)—Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas (D-Calif) demanded today that this country invite Russia and Britain to a Big Three atomic bomb conference.

"We can afford to split the atom, but we cannot afford to split the Big Three," Mrs. Douglas said in a speech prepared for House delivery.

She described as "a disappointment" the recent Anglo-American-Canadian statement proposing to turn over to a United Nations commission the problem of working out atomic bomb controls.

Such a commission "is useful but not likely to be adequate," Mrs. Douglas said, because it "is no substitute for direct consultation between the heads of states."

Resolution Offered

In a resolution released with her speech, she proposed that President Truman invite the British and Russian Governments "immediately . . . in order to discuss the common danger created by atomic weapons and to plan for the joint approach by these three nations to the other members of the United Nations . . ."

Across the Capitol, meanwhile, members of the special Senate committee on atomic energy—just returned from an inspection of atomic plants in Tennessee—arranged to have public hearings Monday.

Prospective witnesses include Maj. Gen. Leslie Groves, the top man in running the $2,000,000,000 project which brought forth the atomic bomb, and Dr. Harold C. Urey, Columbia and Chicago University scientist who was among the experimenters and developers.

Groves guided the super secrecy of the war work; Urey is one of the most vocal of the scientists who have contended that too much secrecy now is both unnecessary and unwise.

Under Special Group

All legislation affecting atomic energy is within the scope of the special committee, headed by Senator McMahon (D-Conn.). He led a nine-man group of Senators through an inspection of the Oak Ridge, Tenn., plants Tuesday and Wednesday.

On their return members were asked about the statement by Anthony Eden in the House of Commons yesterday that the big powers ought to scrap their right of veto in the United Nations organization, in view of atomic energy discoveries.

Eden, former British foreign minister, urged that all nations abate their "present ideas of sovereignty" and recognize that the power to veto use of force in peace-keeping steps is "an anachronism in the modern world."

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Col.) told a reporter that Edin has a strong point. But he said that from a realistic point of view he doubted whether it would find much favor "with either the American people, or the Russians."

Senator Millikin R.-Col.) told a reporter he thought this issue would be befort the committee later, and for that reason wanted to withhold comment.

OPA REJECTS RISE IN STEEL PRICES

NOV 24 1945

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP) OPA today refused to grant higher ceilings on steel—price increases which industry leaders declared to be necessary before they can discuss wage demands of their C.I.O. employes.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles announced that he finds "no cause at this time for a general increase in steel prices," but would review the plea early in 1946.

For a minor segment of the industry, perhaps 45 small non-integrated concerns suffering financial hardship, Bowles indicated some price increases may be granted soon.

The United States Steel Corporation, bellwether for the industry in wage and price matters, has announced it must have better prices before it can grant any part of the C.I.O. United Steel Workers' demand for a $2-a-day wage increase.

Reject Government Requests

U. S. Steel twice has turned down government requests that it resume stalemated negotiations with the union, saying the talks would be useless in the absence of price action.

The union, asserting no price increase is necessary, has scheduled a strike vote for next Wednesday in 766 steel, iron and aluminum plants over the country, employing 600,000 workers.

There was no immediate statement from U. S. Steel, but in the corporation's Washington office employes received Bowles' statement without attempting to disguise their concern over the strike outlook.

Bowles promised that OPA will "continuously watch" the steel cost and price situation.

Claim Labor Rise

U. S. Steel President Benjamin F. Fairless last week told secretary of Labor Schwellenbach—who twice had tried to get the wage negotiations resumed under federal conciliation—that present ceiling prices for steel products are generally less than in 1937, while labor and other costs mounted.

"It is unreasonable to assume that a further wage increase can be granted until OPA gives us adequate relief," he said in a letter rejecting the secretary's offer of conciliation.

The union had accepted the conciliation offer. Philip Murray, president of the C.I.O. and the steel workers, had declared the corporation could grant the increase, operate under present price ceilings, and still show a higher profit in 1946 than in any normal peace time year.

Murray described Fairless' refusal to resume wage negotiations as a "brazen attempt to bludgeon the government" into higher prices.

STRUCK VETERANS SEEK JOBLESS AID

Washington, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—The Veterans of Foreign Wars complained today that world war II veterans made idle by the General Motors strike are being denied unemployment compansation under the G. I. bill of rights.

The organization said it had asked F. W. Kelsey, director of finance of the Veterans Administration, for an immediate investigation.

"Protests are pouring in," a V. F. W. spokesman told reporters. "Some of the veterans report they had just gone to work, others that they had not joined the union."

The V. F. W. said that veterans were being denied readjustment allowances under the G. I. bill because of a section of the act which lists among disqualifications for benefits, the following:

"If it is found that his unemployment is due to a stoppage of work which exists because of a labor dispute at the factory, establishment, or other premises at which he is or was employedl, provided he is participating in, interested in, or belongs to a class of workerrs who are participating or are directly interested in the dispute."

HALSEY RETIRES FROM NAVY DUTY WITH CEREMONY

Long Beach, Calif., Nov. 23—(AP)—At 63 Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey, a sturdy sailor who served his country for 45 years, has relinquished command of the Third Fleet.

His blue four-starred flag was hauled down from the main truck of his flagship, the battleship South Dakota, in colorful ceremonies yesterday as the Admiral released command of the fleet that so readily steamed along the Japanese coast and poured thousands of tons of damage on the enemy.

Halsey's voice trembled a little and his eyes misted as he spoke briefly before the two-starred flag of his successor, Rear Adm. Howard F. Kingman, replaced his.

"In hauling down my flag I am terminating my seagoing career of slightly over 45 years," he said. "This is far from a pleasure. But I deem it necessary for men of my age to step aside so that younger men can take over the greatest navy in the world."

Admiral Kingman, responded, describing Halsey's retirement as the "last scene, last act of one of the most brilliant performances in naval history." "Admiral Halsey inspired his men to victory . . . his unswerving determination overcame all enemies from Hell to high water."

The retiring Admiral stepped into his crash boat and made a quick review of the mighty ships anchored in the harbor. The South Dakota fired a 17-gun salute and similar honors were accorded by the batteries of other ships — the battleships Alabama, Iowa and Wisconsin, the cruisers Chicago, Atlanta, Dayton, Topeka and Vicksburg, and the carrier Bennington.

Truman Pay-Price Policy Called 'Dangerous' by Taft

He Tells Senate It Will Bring Boom, Then Depression

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP).—Senator Robert A. Taft, Republican, of Ohio, described President Truman's policy on wages and prices today as "ridiculous, dangerous and ultimately impossible."

The Ohio Republican told the Senate that the Chief Executive had announced he would try to freeze prices and at the same time allow wages to rise.

"It is about as reckless and irresponsible a policy as any administration has ever proposed," Senator Taft said, asserting such a policy would cause a "boom" to be followed by depression.

The Ohioan said the President and Chester Bowles, Office of Price Administration administrator, were engaged in a "planned policy of inflation." Senator Taft advocated an end for nearly all wartime controls.

Mentioning the recent streetcar and bus tie-ups in Washington, Senator Taft said these workers could not be blamed for demanding an increase when the White House openly advocated substantial increases over pre-war levels for Federal civil service workers and a 100 per cent increase for top government officials and Congressmen.

The Senator said wages and prices should be held in balance, that some changes should take place in both but these should be determined by free enterprise and collective bargaining rather than by government order.

Senator Taft said he would introduce legislation to carry out his ideas for encouraging post-war production and prosperity.

UNO Atomic Curb Proposed By Taft

Washington, Nov. 23 (AP)—Senator Taft (R., Ohio) proposed today that Congress instruct the United States representatives on the United Nations security council to urge immediate action on limiting the use of such weapons as the atomic bomb, rockets and gas.

As one of a series of amendments to legislation listing details of American participation in the international organization, Taft proposed that:

"The representatives of the United States on the security council shall urge upon the security council immediate action under Article 26 looking to a limitation of armament, the use of weapons such as the atomic bomb, rockets and poison gas, and effective amendments to the Charter to secure the enforcement of the undertakings of nations with respect thereto."

What Article 26 Provides

[Article 26 says the security council shall formulate plans to be submitted to members of the United Nations "for the establishment of a system for the regulating of armaments."]

The other Taft amendments were designed to emphasize the say-so of Congress on international relations.

The enabling legislation would give the President the right to apply measures short of force (such as interruption of communications and severance of diplomatic relations) against another nation when called upon to do so by the security council.

NAVY'S ARGUMENTS ON MERGER SCORED

Washington, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—John J. McCloy, Assistant Secretary of War, told Senators today that Navy arguments against a single post-war armed forces department are based on "bogies" and "pure fantasy." He urged immediate congressional approval of proposals before the Senate Military Committee to unify the War and Navy departments.

McCloy discounted at length a Navy argument that under the unification plan the traditional civilian control over the military would be lost. He said the single armed forces plan was merely an expansion of the same system under the War Department for some twenty years.

The witness, whose resignation as Assistant Secretary becomes effective tomorrow after five and a half years of service, said that any idea that present War Department civilian heads are "isolated from any connection with the War Department except through Gen. Marshall (recently retired chief of staff) is pure fantasy."

RAMSEY TAKES POST WITH PACIFIC FLEET

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP) Rear Admiral Dewitt C. Ramsey today was named deputy commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet succeeding Admiral Raymond A. Spruance.

Spruance recently was designated by President Truman to head the Pacific command succeeding Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz, who has been ordered to Washington as chief of naval operations.

Ramsey, 57, served as chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics from Aug. 1943 to June 1945, when he was assigned duty as chief of staff to Spruance, then commander of the Fifth Fleet. He recently was ordered to duty with the commander of the Pacific Fleet prior to Spruance's elevation. Ramsey was born at Whyple Barracks, Ariz. He lists his present address as Avon by the Sea, N. J.

The State Department, making the announcement, said it will also be possible to send five-pound gift parcels from this country to displaced persons in those zones.

The announcement said it will be necessary that the first dispatch of mail originate in every case with the displaced person. U.S. Considers Italian Request For More Grain

Washington, Nov. 23 (AP)—The United States is considering a request by the Allied Commission in Italy for shipment of an extra 334,000 tons of grain to that country this year, State Department officials said today.

In addition to the 100,000 tons monthly which the United States has agreed to ship in November and December, the commission has asked for an additional 125,000 tons this month and 209,000 tons more in December.

The request was made because severe drought virtually ruined crops in Italy, State Department officials told a reporter in response to queries about Rome reports that this country had agreed to send Italy 248,000 tons of grain monthly.

They also reported that the United States has agreed to ship 500,000 tons of coal to Italy during December.

No pledges of coal for Italy have been made beyond that date, they said.

The Italian News Agency Ansa had reported in Rome that the United States had decided to send Italy 500,000 tons of coal during the month of January.

INVITE AVERY TO NAME STRIKE DISPUTE AGENT

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 — (AP) Samuel Wolchok, international president of the United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employes of America (CIO), said today he had invited Sewell Avery, chairman of the board of Montgomery Ward, Inc., to designate one of five agents to name an arbitrator in a company-union dispute.

A week-long strike of 75,000 Ward employes is scheduled to begin Monday. It was called last Wednesday by Wolchok. He said the purpose of the strike was to "impress the average man — the average citizen—in the United States with Mr. Avery's labor policy x x x."

Wolchok said he had telegraphed Avery the union would accept any arbitrator chosen by "the President of the United States, the Secretary of Labor, the Secretary of Commerce, the President of the United States Chamber of Commerce or the American Arbitration association."

His wire, he said, replied to a telegram from Avery in which the board chairman had said he "may accept arbitration if the person who is to arbitrate is satisfactory."

Washington, Nov. 23 (AP)—Opening of a limited mail service for exchange or personal correspondence between Americans and displaced persons in the United States zones of Austria and Germany was announced today.

The State Department, making the announcement, said it will also be possible to send five-pound gift parcels from this country to displaced persons in those zones.

The announcement said that in the interest of efficiency, it will be necessary that the first dispatch of mail originate in every case with the displaced person. Special postcard forms are being distributed in the American zones for this purpose.

Americans wishing to carry on the correspondence must present these cards before United States post offices will accept letters or parcels for mailing.

MARGARET TRUMAN CHRISTENS PLANE

Washington, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—Blonde Margaret Truman today bettered her mother's batting average on plane christenings, splattering herself and the London-bound flagship Washington with champagne on the third swing.

Mrs. Harry S. Truman told a reported she was "so thankful" that Margaret hadn't had as much trouble as she had last May. On that occasion, the First Lady swung a champagne bottle nine times at an Army plane but only dented its soft aluminum nose.

The American overseas airlines had given Margaret an assist, however, by riveting a special steel christening plate to the nose of its flagship which inaugurated Washington-to-London commercial flights by land planes.

As the champagne drenched Margaret's gloves and brown fur coat, she jumped back, grimacing, and dropped the shattered bottle on the concrete apron of the national airport.

Later she told Ralph S. Damon, president of American airlines, that she hoped the transatlantic flight would be concluded safely. He presented the president's daughter with a bracelet of interlaced pink-and-yellow gold hoops as a souvenir.

Hollywood Canteen Rings Down Curtain

Hollywood, Nov. 23 (A. P.).—The Hollywood Canteen played its last show last night and a lot of high priced cheers marked the occasion.

Shortly after midnight, Kay Kyser and Bette Davis led the canteen's volunteer workers and entertainers and the audience of G. I.'s in singing "Auld Lang Syne." There were few dry eyes as the last song was sung in the famed building that has entertained more than 3,000,000 service men and women.

Five thousand soldiers, sailors and Marines streamed in and out of the canteen from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until closing. They ate turkey dinners and watched an array of talent which couldn't be seen under any other auspices.

NIGHT LEAD FREMCH
BY ROBERT C.WILSON

PARIS, NOV. 23-(AP)-PRESIDENT DE GAULLE CALLED TODAY FOR NATIONALIZATION OF CREDIT, ELECTRICITY AND INSURANCE, AND FOR A FOREIGN POLICY BASED ON VIGOROUS, SINCERE INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION.

THE CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY UNANIMOUSLY VOTED CONFIDENCE IN DE GAULLE'S NEW CABINET, AND THE COMMUNISTS PLEDGED LOYAL BUT "NOT BLIND" SUPPORT OF HIS INTERIM GOVERNMENT. THE VOTE ENDED A NINE-DAY CRISIS IN WHICH DE GAULLE ONCE THREATENED TO RESIGN BECAUSE OF COMMUNIST DEMANDS FOR CERTAIN POSTS.

NOV 24 1945

DE GAULLE CALLED FOR REFORM OF GOVERNMENT ADMINISTRATIVE MACHINERY, OF THE CIVIL SERVICE AND THE JUDICIARY SYSTEM; FOR A CONSTITUTIONAL CHANGE IN THE MILITARY STRUCTURE FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE; FOR "MODERNIZATION" OF MINING, INDUSTRY AND AGRICULTURE, FOR AN IMMEDIATE BUDGET, AND REVALUATION OF THE FRANC.

FRANCE'S FOREIGN POLICY, SAID DE GAULLE, WOULD BE FOR INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION, "A CATEGORICAL IMPERATIVE" IN A WORLD OF ATOMIC POWER.

A PLAN FOR COOPERATION WITH ALL NATIONS, ALREADY BEGUN IN THE TREATY WITH RUSSIA, SAID DE GAULLE, ENVISAGES CLOSER RELATIONS WITH BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES, RESUMPTION OF THE PRE-WAR FRIENDSHIP WITH ITALY, CLOSER TIES WITH HOLLAND, BELGIUM AND LUXEMBURG--AND A RESUMPTION OF RELATIONS WITH SPAIN WHEN THAT COUNTRY BECOMES DEMOCRATIC.

TODAY DE GAULLE SAID FRANCE WAS TIGHTENING HER BONDS WITH BELGIUM, HOLLAND, AND LUXEMBOURG, BUT WAS DOING IT "WITHOUT CEASING TO HOLD OUT OUR HANDS TO THE CENTRAL EUROPEAN, BALKAN, AND SCANDINAVIAN STATES."

NUERNBERG, NOV. 23-(AP)-HITLER, COLD AND PURPOSEFUL AS HIS ARMIES PREPARED TO STRIKE, DESCRIBED BRITAIN AS THE "DRIVING FORCE AGAINST GERMANY," AND PLANNED TO CUT HER OFF FROM THE REST OF EUROPE AND THUS ASSURE HIS CONQUESTS.

THE FUEHRER'S ONCE SECRET PLANS, PRODUCED IN WAR CRIMES COURT HERE LATE TODAY, WERE CAREFULLY EXPLAINED TO REICHSMARHSAL GOERING, FIELD MARSHAL KEITEL, GRAND ADMIRAL RADER AND OTHER MEMBERS OF THE NAZI GENERAL STAFF IN HITLER'S QUARTERS IN THE NEW REIC

FIELD MARSHAL KEITEL, GRAND ADMIRAL RAEDER AND OTHER MEMBERS OF THE NAZI GENERAL STAFF IN HITLER'S QUARTERS IN THE NEW REICH CHANCELLERY ON MAY 23, 1939.

"ENGLAND," HITLER TOLD HIS HENCHMEN, "KNOWS THAT TO LOSE THE WAR WILL MEAN THE END OF HER WORLD POWER. ENGLAND IS THE MOTOR DRIVING AGAINST GERMANY."

"THE BRITISH THEMSELVES," HE CONTINUED, "ARE PROUD, COURAGEOUS, TENACIOUS, FIRM IN RESISTANCE AND GIFTED AS ORGANIZERS. THEY HAVE THE LOVE OF ADVENTURE AND BRAVERY OF THE NORDIC RACE."

BUT THIS TIME, HITLER WARNED, THERE MUST BE NO RECURRENCE OF FACTORS THAT LOST WORLD WAR ONE FOR GERMANY. "THE MOMENT ENGLAND'S FOOD SUPPLY ROUTES ARE CUT," HE SAID, "SHE IS FORCED TO CAPITULATE."

HITLER ARGUED FOR THE IMMEDIATE DESTRUCTION OF THE BRITISH FLEET WITH THE OUTBREAK OF WAR. HE SAID DESTRUCTION OF ENGLAND'S AIR ARM MIGHT MEAN EVENTUAL DEFEAT, BUT THAT THE BRITISH WOULD QUIT ONLY WHEN THEIR FLEET WAS ON THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA.

"IF IN WORLD WAR ONE WE HAD HAD TWO BATTLESHIPS AND TWO CRUISERS MORE," HE SAID, "AND IF THE BATTLE OF JUTLAND HAD BEGUN IN THE MORNING, THE BRITISH FLEET WOULD HAVE BEEN DEFEATED AND ENGLAND BROUGHT TO HER KNEES. IT WOULD HAVE MEANT THE END OF THE WAR."

DECLARING THE REICH DETERMINED TO ATTACK POLAND AT THE FIRST OPPORTUNITY, AND ANTICIPATING AN ALLIED WESTERN STAND AGAINST HIM, HITLER PROMISED AN ANNIHILATING CAMPAIGN JGAINST THE BRITISH.

"IF THERE WERE AN ALLIANCE OF FRANCE, RUSSIA AND ENGLAND AGAINST GERMANY, ITALY AND JAPAN, I WOULD BE CONSTRAINED TO ATTACK ENGLAND AND FRANCE WITH A FEW ANNIHILATING BLOWS," HE SAID.

HIS OPENING PLAN CALLED FOR, FIRST, OCCUPATION OF POLAND; SECONDLY, SWIFT DESTRUCTION OF FRANCE, AND THIRDLY, ATTACK ON THE BRITISH FLEET.

CRYPTICALLY HE STATED HIS BELIEFS: "ENGLAND WILL NOT BE ABLE TO FIGHT ON THE CONTINENT. DAILY ATTACKS BY OUR AIRFORCE AND NAVY WILL CUT ALL HER LIFELINES. TIME WILL NOT BE ON ENGLAND'S SIDE. GERMANY WILL NOT BLEED TO DEATH ON LAND."

NEURNBERG, NOV. 23-(AP)-JAPANESE FOREIGN MINISTER YOSUKE MATSUOKA TOLD HITLER AT THEIR MEETING IN APRIL, 1941, THAT JAPAN WANTED TO ATTACK SINGAPORE BUT FEARED WAR WITH THE UNITED STATES, MINUTES OF THE CONFERENCE DISCLOSED TODAY.

THE SECRET DOCUMENT, INTRODUCED BY THE PROSECUTION AT THE WAR TIMES TRIAL, TOLD THIS STORY:

MATSUOKA BEGGED THE GERMANS TO SHARE THEIR SECRET WEAPONS AND TOLD HITLER HE PERSONALLY FAVORED A SURPRISE ATTACK ON THE UNITED STATES. HE SAID JAPANESE OFFICIAL CIRCLES WERE MORE CAUTIOUS, BUT RECOGNIZED THAT WAR WITH THE UNITED STATES WAS "INEVITABLE."

THE FOREIGN MINISTER TOLD HITLER THAT HE HAD "ENDEAVORED TO CONVINCE THE POPE THAT THE UNITED STATES, AND PARTICULARLY THE AMERICAN PRESIDENT, PROLONGED THE WAR IN EUROPE AND CHINA."

NOV 24 1945

(MATSUOKA THEN WAS ON HIS "PEACE MISSION" IN WHICH HE SIGNED A NON-AGGRESSION TREATY WITH RUSSIA, CALLED ON POPE PIUS AND SAW HITLER.)

MATSUOKA TOLD HIM THE JAPANESE ARMY AND NAVY ESTIMATED THAT IF THE UNITED STATES ENTERED THE WAR IN THE PACIFIC, THE CONFLICT WOULD LAST "FIVE YEARS OR LONGER AND A FORM OF GUERRILLA WARFARE" WOULD BE FOUGHT IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC.

HITLER SAID IF THE UNITED STATES CAME INTO THE WAR, GERMANY WAS PREPARED "TO CONDUCT A MOST ENERGETIC FIGHT AGAINST AMERICA WITH HER U-BOATS AND HER LUFTWAFFE."

HITLER AGREED THAT WAR WITH THE UNITED STATES WAS INEVITABLE, BUT SAID GERMANY AND JAPAN SHOULD "TRY TO ELIMINATE ONE COUNTRY AT A TIME."

A WEEK BEFORE THE ATTACK ON POLAND, LOCHNER, THEN CHIEF OF THE AP'S BERLIN BUREAU, RECEIVED A COPY OF THE HITLER SPEECH FROM A SECRET INFORMANT. LOCHNER MANAGED TO PRESERVE THE DOCUMENT EVEN WHILE INTERNED FOR FIVE MONTHS BY THE GERMANS AFTER THE WAR'S OUTBREAK.

IN HIS BOOK "WHAT ABOUTGERMANY" WRITTEN IN 1942, LOCHNER QUOTES HITLER AS HAVING SAID:

"X X X I HAVE PLACED MY DEATHS' HEAD FORMATIONS IN READINESS--FOR THE PRESENT ONLY IN THE EAST--WITH ORDERS TO THEM TO SEND TO DEATH MERCILESSLY AND WITHOUT COMPASSION, MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN OF POLISH DERIVATION AND LANGUAGE. X X X

NUERNBERG, NOV.23-(AP)-A DOCUMENT SUBMITTED AT THE TRIAL OF 20 NAZI LEADERS TODAY DISCLOSED THAT HITLER DISGUISED GERMAN PLANS FOR THE 1941 ATTACK ON RUSSIA BY INSISTING THAT SOVIET ORDERS FOR GERMAN ARMS BE FILLED PROMPTLY.

THE COMPILATION WRITTEN BY MAJ.GEN.GEORGE THOMAS SAID THAT ON AUG.14, 1940, REICHSMARSHAL HERMANN GOERING INFORMED THE OFFICE OF WAR ECONOMY:

"THE FUEHRER DESIRES PUNCTUAL DELIVERY TO THE RUSSIANS ONLY UNTIL THE SPRING OF 1941. LATER ON, WE WILL HAVE NO FURTHER INTEREST IN COMPLETELY SATISFYING RUSSIAN DEMANDS."

THOMAS WROTE THAT THE SUBTERFUGE WORKED WELL BECAUSE "THE RUSSIANS CARRIED OUT THEIR DELIVERIES AS PLANNED RIGHT UP TO THE START OF THE ATTACK; EVEN DURING THE LAST FEW DAYS, TRANSPORTS OF INDIA RUBBER FROM THE FAR EAST WERE COMPLETED BY EXPRESS TRANSIT TRAINS."

THE DOCUMENT SAID THAT BECAUSE THE RUSSIANS WERE KEEPING UP PROMPT DELIVERIES OF ESSENTIAL FOODS AND RAW MATERIALS TO GERMANY DURING 1940, THE NAZI HIGH COMMAND DECIDED TO OFFER RUSSIA WAR MATERIALS ALREADY MADE FOR THE GERMAN ARMY.

THE GERMANS EVEN OFFERED THE SOVIET THE HEAVY CRUISER LUETZOW AND PATTERNS FOR ARTILLERY, TANKS AND OTHER IMPORTANT WEAPONS.

THOMAS SAID HITLER CONFIDED HIS PLANS FOR INVADING RUSSIA TO THE OFFICE OF WAR ECONOMY IN NOVEMBER, 1940, SEVEN MONTHS BEFORE THE ATTACK.

THE OFFICE IMMEDIATELY PREPARED A VAST PROGRAM FOR SEIZING THE CAUCASIAN OIL FIELDS, POWER PLANTS AND INDUSTRIAL ESTABLISHMENTS INTACT AND PUTTING THEM TO WORK SWIFTLY FOR THE REICH.

THE AMBITIOUS PROGRAM ENVISAGED THE ESTABLISHMENT THROUGHOUT RUSSIA OF COMMUNICATIONS WITH THE FAR EAST WHICH WOULD ENSURE AMPLE SUPPLIES OF RUBBER, TUNGSTEN, COPPER, TIN, ASBESTOS AND HEMP.

SENILE, 75-YEAR-OLD GUSTAV KRUPP VON BOHLEN UND HALBACH--THE CHARGES AGAINST HIM EXPECTED BY DOCTORS TO BE CANCELLED ULTIMATELY BY HIS DEATH--STILL LAY IN SALZBURG, REPORTED SUFFERING FROM SOFTENING OF THE BRAIN. HIS SON, ALFRIED, WAS SAVED FROM THE CURRENT TRIAL WHEN THE TRIBUNAL REFUSED TO SUBSTITUTE HIS NAME FOR THAT OF THE ELDER KRUPP ON THE INDICTMENT BUT FRENCH AND BRITISH PROSECUTORS SAID THEY WERE PLANNING TO BRING HIM AND OTHER GERMAN INDUSTRIALISTS TO TRIAL LATER.

USE OF THE GERMANS' OWN METICULOUSLY-WORDED DOCUMENTS AS EVIDENCE AGAINST THEM BROUGHT PAINFUL LOOKS OF SURPRISE TO THE FACES OF FAT HERMANN GOERING, HITLER'S HEIR PRESUMPTIVE DURING THE DAYS OF NAZI POWER, AND OTHER DEFENDANTS YESTERDAY WHEN THE PROSECUTION PRODUCED THE ULTRA-SECRET MINUTES OF HITLER'S FIRST CABINET MEETINGS.

ILL FEELING AMONG THE ACCUSED NAZI DEFENDANTS THEMSELVES WAS EVIDENCED BY GOERING'S GLARES AT WILHELM FRICK, FORMER REICHSMINISTER OF THE INTERIOR, WHO CHARGED IN AN AFFIDAVIT THAT GOERING AND GESTAPO CHIEF HEINRICH HIMMLER CARRIED OUT THE NOTORIOUS "BLOOD PURGE" OF 1934 WHEN HITLER FEARED A PUTSCH FROM DISSIDENT MEMBERS OF HIS OWN PARTY.

JAPAN ORDERED TO TAX TO HILT ALL WAR PROFITS

Capital Levy on Corporate, Private Fortunes Directed by MacArthur.

PENSIONS HALTED

Imperial Household Included in Move for More Even Wealth Distribution.

SPENCER

TOKYO, Sunday, Nov. 2[illegible]-(AP) General MacArthur in a stern "war does not pay" directive today ordered the Japanese government to tax away the war profits of all Nipponese firms and individuals and make a capitol levy ranging up to 70 per cent on corporate and private fortunes, including the Imperial household's.

NIGHT

A statement accompanying the directive said it would "result in a more equitable distribution of wealth than Japan has ever had."

In the most strongly worded order of the occupation to date, the supreme commander prohibited all government credit or subsidy activities pending sweeping reorganization of government finances, and directed the Japanese to submit a complete war-profits tax program to the first session of the diet in 1946.

Soldiers, Sailors Hit

Reaching down to the very soldiers and sailors who fought the war as well as the generals and admirals who directed it and the Zaibatsu (big family concerns) who supplied it, MacArthur also ordered the government to terminate by Feb. 1 the payment of any discharge allowances, service pensions to Japanese veterans "except compensation for physical disability limiting the recipient's ability to work."

MacArthur told the Nipponese, "certain Japanese interests have used unjustified and aggressive war to illegally enrich themselves for many years. You will demonstrate to all Japanse that war is financially unprofitable, by insuring that the tax includes the period not only dating from the perfidious attack on Pearl Harbor but includes the period prior to that date to the maximum extent possible."

The directive blocked government funds intended for payment of war indemnities to Japanese firms and individuals, on which the government still owes approximately 50,000,000,000 yen. It gave the government 30 days to recover all such war indemnity payments, in excess of 5,000 yen, which have been made since Aug. 15.

The purpose of this freezing is to assure that funds are kept available for taxing purposes under the new war-profits tax. At the same time, the supreme commander said, efforts would be made to permit the Japanese farmer, laborer and small business man to retain their legitimate savings.

Generally the tax program contemplates a 100 per cent war-profits tax on all war industries and a graduated tax up to 100 per cent on all other corporations and individuals, supplemented by a graduated capital levy up to at least 70 per cent.

The Imperial household is included, since the directive specifies that there must be no exemptions.

The recapture of war profits and the capital levy are expected to yield well over 100,000,000,000 yen, thus providing "the financial basis for the reorganization of government finances toward peaceful ends."

MacArthur described the directive's termination of all service pensions as "another major step toward lightening the deadweight burden which Japanese militarism forced the rest of the country to bear."

Removes Heavy Burden

Supreme headquarters estimated that the abolition of military pensions would remove a yearly burden of 1,500,000,000 yen.

The Ministry of Finance informed supreme Allied headquarters that the government had assumed war indemnity insurance liabilities totaling 56,500,000,000 remains unpaid. Of this total, war industries have claims for 13,500,000,000 yen, plus 12,600,000,000 yen for war risk insurance and 4,100,000,000 for cancellation of war contracts.

The broad purpose of MacArthur's directive was outlined in an accompanying statement which said:

"The Japanese government already is heavily in debt. New taxes and anti-military pension plans should convince everybody else in Japan, from the biggest industrialist down to the man in the street that war does not pay.

"At the same time those who are to be hit hardest are those who made the greatest profits out of Japanese aggressions, and the overall plan is going to result in a more equitable distribution of wealth than Japan has ever had.

"The power of wealth of these few big people is being taxed away so that a greater number of little people can have a chance to run their farms, get decent prices for work in industry, get a fair wage, and enter business with less fear of monopoly controls. x x x There is a large share of war guilt among those who will lose the most money.

"Outstanding Japanese government bond issues now total more than 120,000,000,000 yen, with a floating debt of another 40,000,000,000 yen, not including contingent liabilities. The continuation of uncontrolled government borrowing and spending would be disastrous."

Meanwhile, b[illegible] and bedraggled Japan c[illegible] permission from MacArth[illegible] mport food, cotton, petrol[illegible] salt, thus opening the [illegible] vival of its foreign trade.

JAPS GRANTED IMPORT RIGHTS

Food, Cotton, Petroleum and Salt Trade Allowed.

Tokyo, Nov. 24 (AP)—General MacArthur today granted the Japanese Government permission to import food, cotton, petroleum and salt—clearing the way for revival of foreign trade.

An Allied headquarters press release said neither extent nor sources of the imports in 1946 has been determined. Amounts will depend upon availability of shipping and world supplies as well as Japan's ability to pay in commensurate exports.

To Help Restore Economy

The order, headquarters said, was in furtherance of MacArthur's policy of "aiding Japan to restore her essential economy and thus make it possible for her to carry her share of producing the goods and services required by own civilian population and other countries as well."

DAY

Sankuro Ogasawara, Minister of Commerce, on November 14 revealed the Japanese government had applied for permission to import 3,000,000 tons of food, mostly from North America; 180,000 tons of cotton, and 1,130,000 tons of coal.

Exporting Coal, Timber

Japan already is sending vitally needed exports to Far East points, going to Korea and to Hong Kong, and timber is being shipped to China.

Other developments:

Kazunobu Kanokogi, fourth on the new eleven-man list of Japanese war leaders ordered arrested by MacArthur, surrendered today at Sugamo prison. Kanokogi, 61, long has been identified with the Black Dragon secret society and nationalist activities, headquarters said.

Premier Kijuro Shidehara consulted General MacArthur, presumably about next week's Diet session, which is scheduled to chart reforms leading away from wartime totalitarianism. Shidehara in all probability outlined to MacArthur the Diet speech on Government policy he will deliver Wednesday.

Shidehara conferred for a half hour in this third such meeting with the supreme Allied commander since becoming Premier last month.

The Diet session, opening Monday, is expected to legislate such reforms as women's suffrage and recognition of labor's right to organize.

Privy Seal Post Ended.

A long standing post in Japan's Imperial setup was erased today. The Imperial Household Minister announced the formal end of the office of Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal, held by Marquis Koichi Kido. Since 1885, the office served as an advisory institution close to the Emperor.

The Japanese people were told today by Kyodo news agency, quoting unofficial circles, that the occupation of the country would cost Nippon 10,000,000,000 yen annually. That would amount to about $667,000,000, Edwin M. Pauley, President Truman's personal representative on the Allied reparations commission, already has voiced doubt that Japan can meet the occupation costs.

As part of the task of cutting away Japan's war-making potentialities, American troops today began destroying with sledges, crowbars and torches the five cyclotrons with which Nipponese scientists were probing the secrets of atomic power.

UNO May Receive Atomic Plea

London, Nov. 24 (AP)—British Minister of State Philip John Noel-Baker told the opening session of the United Nations Preparatory Commission today that the question of control of atomic energy might be placed before the first meeting of the United Nations Assembly.

DAY

"There is no doubt," Noel-Baker said, "that the governments of the world owe it to their peoples to do something about science pretty soon."

Noel-Baker is serving as temporary chairman of the commission composed of representatives of 47 nations.

"Grotesque And Wicked"

"Some urgent tasks may be laid on the first assembly," Noel-Baker continued, "perhaps even the control of atomic energy."

He said it was "grotesque and wicked" to believe any government in the world wants or is preparing for another war. He added:

"No people, without exception, would allow its government to start another war."

"It (atomic energy) must be controlled or it will end us," Noel-Baker said. "International thought produced it, and international thought can control it."

Drawing attention to the pessimism of some persons about international relations, Noel-Baker said there were certain unpleasant facts, "but it is only a blind observer who does not see that the world has already begun to recover."

The Soviet delegate, Andrei Gromyko, said that some delegations needed time to study the proposed agenda and suggested that the conference adjourn to Monday, and a motion to that effect was adopted.

Missouri Site Urged For UNO Headquarters

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP) — The United Nations Organization was asked by Representative Ploeser (R., Mo.) today to consider Weldon Springs, Mo., near St. Louis, for the United Nations headquarters.

In a letter to Edward R. Stettinius, United States representative on the preapratory commission of the UNO, Ploeser called attention to a letter from the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce suggesting that site.

The Weldon Springs ordnance plant property has been declared surplus by the Government, he told Stettinius, and it is considered an ideal location for headquarters offices.

"I hope you will submit this proposal to the United Nations Organization at the earliest possible date," he said.

Bomb Can't Bluff Soviet, Red Says

London, Nov. 24 (AP)—Harry Pollitt, general secretary of the Communist party in Great Britain, said today that "the Soviet Union will never be blackmailed by the atomic bomb or anything else" and that "what the Chamberlains and the Hitlers failed to do no Anglo-American imperialist bloc will ever accomplish."

Addressing the opening session of the party's eighteenth national conference, Pollitt expressed alarm at Britain's foreign policy and said Britain's future depended more on relations with the Soviet Union than on any other single factor in the international situation.

Distrust Criticized

"Such relations are not improved by decisions indicating lack of trust in the Soviet Union or by 'cards upon the table' talk," he added.

"Mr. Attlee would do well to note that only one nation possesses the atom bomb secret and that nation is not Britain," Pollitt said. "No country would suffer more than Britain if ever this deadly weapon were used."

Disunity Laid To Bomb

William Gallacher, Communist member of Parliament, told the conference that the atomic bomb had been used "to make a serious breach in the unity so essential for the peace of the world."

The Daily Worker, Communist newspaper, charged that Britain and the United States were uniting in an "imperialist conspiracy" against the Soviet Union.

The newspaper said an "atomic bomb diplomacy" was being created and charged that the United States was protecting "reaction in Japan" and aiding "war lords of China against the democratic forces of that country."

Bevin Assembly Plan Supported

London, Nov. 24 (AP)—Many delegates representing 47 countries at the United Nations Preparatory Commission said today they favored the idea of a popularly-elected world assembly suggested by British Foreign Secretary Bevin, but "it won't work now."

Bevin told Commons yesterday that the fullest use must be made of the current United Nations Organization, but he looked ahead to the day when an elected world assembly would strengthen the peace structure.

Bevin said he was "willing to sit with anybody of any party, of any nation, to try to devise a franchise or a constitution for a world assembly for a limited objective, the objective of peace," and "when we can get to that stage we shall have taken a great progressive step."

The majority of United Nations delegates asked that their names and countries not be mentioned in comment on Bevin's statement.

Two RAF Planes Listed As Vanished From Bases

London, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Air Ministry reported today that no trace had been found of two planes, including a jet-propelled Meteor, which vanished this week from RAF bases. Two pilots have been posted as missing and the unofficial theory is that both planes crashed at sea.

The planes were a single-seater Vengeance, which took off Thursday from Exeter airfield on a half-hour test flight, and the jet-propelled Meteor, which took off from Molesworth airdrome Wednesday on an unauthorized flight. The Meteor carried fuel enough for only an hour.

The pilot of the Vengeance was on his last flight before being discharged from the Army. A RAF pilot recently suspended from a conversion course to Meteor aircraft disappeared at the same time as the jet-propelled craft.

TRANSPORT IS REFLOATED

Grounds With 500 U. S. Soldiers in Dover Strait—Then Is Freed

LONDON, Sunday, Nov. 25 (AP)—The grounded 7,000-ton American Victory ship Leland Stanford, with about 500 United States soldiers aboard, was refloated off Goodwin Sands early today, the British Coast Guard station at Deal announced.

Tugs were used to free the vessel, which ran aground last night in the shallow waters at the northern end of the Strait of Dover. The vessel then proceeded to an anchorage off Deal.

Coast Guardsmen said they understood the Leland Stanford was en route from Antwerp to New York. A spokesman for the War Shipping Administration said the ship was transporting homeward-bound American soldiers when the mishap occurred.

1,000 Tommies Refuse to Sail

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP).—One thousand British soldiers walked off the Dutch liner Johan De Witt as she was about to sail from Southampton for Italy today, protesting the vessel was overcrowded and that the food was poor. The War Office ordered an inquiry. The liner sailed with only about 4,000 of 5,000 troops originally scheduled to be returned from furlough in England to bases in Italy.

British Battle Chinese Pirates

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Chinese river pirates hijacked a crowded Hong Kong steamer in the Canton River and robbed fifty passengers before British marines and sailors recaptured the vessel, the Air Ministry said tonight. One passenger was killed and eight were hurt in the shooting that accompanied the recapture.

U-Boats Reported Russia-Bound

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland, Nov. 24 (UP).—Reliable sources said today that ten German submarines left the Lough Foyle, Northern Ireland, naval base yesterday and today are bound for Russia. The U-boats were part of sixty which have been lying in port here since Germany surrendered. Informants said they are being taken to a Soviet port by British crews.

Winant Emphasizes Food

Bucksburn, Aberdeenshire, Scotland, Nov. 24 (AP)—United States Ambassador John G. Winant said in a speech today the United Nations must not only prevent starvation in Europe, but "step up consumption of all nutrients needed for health by the masses of the people in every country."

De Gaulle Sets Out To Modernize Army

Paris, Nov. 24 (AP)—President de Gaulle has asked the Constituent Assembly for a complete reorganization of France's armed forces—a step he repeatedly urged on his superiors without success in his years of service as a French army officer.

French newspapers said today that de Gaulle's program would permit a through shakeup of the country's tradition-ridden army and the introduction of new ideas and methods made necessary by the advent of the atomic bomb.

Germans Paid The Heed

Before France's collapse in 1940, de Gaulle urged greater mechanization of the army. His ideas were largely ignored by his own country, but were studied closely by the Germans.

Observers interpreted the announcement of a widespread demobilization from the classes of 1938 through 1942 in the Medical and Sanitation Corps as a possible indication that the new army would be fashioned after the closely knit elite force so often proposed by de Gaulle.

De Gaulle Is Defense Head

After outlining to the Assembly yesterday his new constituted Government's economic and foreign affairs policies, de Gaulle said:

"Finally it appears to the Government that the assembly cannot complete its career before laying new foundations for national defense."

De Gaulle's Cabinet has been so organized that he heads the single National Defense Ministry. He is assisted by a minister of armies in charge of personnel and a minister of armament for supplies.

In his discussion of foreign affairs, de Gaulle foresaw France's role in the world as a link between the east and west. He added that the nation would not become a "pawn" in a game of international politics.

His Policies

De Gaulle said his Government was striving to reach "a real agreement" with Britain while tightening France's "traditional links" with Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Italy and eventually Spain, when France finds Spain "on our road, which is that of democracy."

He said the Government intends to nationalize first the credit services and power industries and, second, insurance companies.

French Countess Sentenced To Death

Paris, Nov. 24 (AP)—Antoinette Hugues, who called herself the Countess de Bernardi, has been sentenced to death by a Paris criminal court on a charge of being a Vichy informer.

The dignified 62-year-old woman was accused of tipping off the French Gestapo that Vichy Information Minister Philippe Henriot had been assassinated by French resistance forces. She was said to have received a 1,000,000 franc reward for the service.

Nazi Plan For High Britons To Testify Expected To Fail

Nuernberg, Germany, Nov. 24 (AP)—Defense attorneys said today they would call titled members of the "Cliveden set" and other prominent Britons as witnesses in the historic war-crimes trial, but it appeared they would be blocked by legal red tape.

The lawyers for the accused Nazi leaders disclosed their plans at a press conference. It was learned authoritatively later that restrictions on bringing in foreigners as defense witnesses before the international military tribunal are so multifold that "big names" are almost excluded at the outset.

Planned To Call Lady Astor

The defendants who planned to call British witnesses were Joachim von Ribbentrop, former Foreign Minister; Wilhelm Keitel, Field Marshall, and Rudolf Hess, former Deputy Führer.

Von Ribbentrop's attorney said the one-time German Ambassador to London would call Lady Astor and others who used to meet in the 1930's at the Cliveden estate of Lord and Lady Astor, including Lords Beaverbrook, Londonderry and Derby.

Keitel's attorney announced that his client would call Giles Rommily, a nephew of Winston Churchill, who was captured by the Germans at Narvik, Norway, in 1940, and Capt. Michael Alexander, a cousin of Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander, also a prisoner of war.

Procedure Outlined

Hess's attorney indicated he would call the Duke of Hamilton, on whose estate the former No. 3 Nazi landed when he parachuted upon Scotland in 1941, and the British physician who first examined Hess after he landed.

Procedure for bringing in foreign witnesses, an authoritative source said, entails a written request by the defense which stipulates clearly what evidence the witness is expected to give, approval of the request by Allied prosecutors and then approval by the tribunal.

Afterward the tribunal must make a request to the government of the country where the witness is a resident. The government may either approve or deny the request. In Britain the Cabinet has full power, for example, to rule that any witness shall not appear because it would "not be in the public interest."

Objection Could Block Calling

This objection alone would block the calling of Britons now active in public life and might block requests for former officials acquainted with British operations still classed as official secrets.

Other defendants who wish to bring in witnesses from abroad include high-collared Hjalmar Horace Greely Schacht, former Minister of Economics and president of the Reichsbank, whose attorney said he was considering subpoenaeing a former Berliner named Jeidels, who is now in New York.

High Nazis Seek Allied Defense

Witnesses

Nuernberg, Nov. 24 (AP)—Defense counsel announced today that a majority of the twenty Nazi leaders on trial before the international military tribunal would testify in their own behalf and that witnesses would be sought from Britain and the United States.

The outline of plans to combat the war-crime charges developed at a press conference of the defense attorneys. The trial was recessed over the week end after the prosecution presented documentary evidence topped by the words of Hitler ordering a war of extermination against the Poles.

Romilly, Alexander Sought

Attorneys for Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, who was chief of the German high command, said a nephew of Winston Churchill and a cousin of British Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander who were once prisoners of the Germans would be asked to testify in his behalf.

Churchill's nephew was identified as Giles Romilly, a correspondent of the London Daily Express who was captured at Narvik. Field Marshal Alexander's cousin was dentified as Capt. Michael Alexander, who was made a prisoner in Italy.

Hess Aide Wants Duke

It was indicated that Keitel wished the two to swear to his interest in the welfare of Allied prisoners. Both Romilly and the captain were liberated by the Allies. Romilly broke out of Dachau a few days before American troops reached that horror camp.

Rudolph Hess's attorney is seeking "on his own responsibility" to subpoena the Duke of Hamilton, whose estate the No. 2 Deputy Führer said he was seeking when he bailed out of his plane on a mysterious flight to Scotland May 10, 1941. The attorney added that Hess, who claims amnesia, "doesn't know anything about the Duke of Hamilton, because he can't remember."

Lady Astor Sought

Joachim von Ribbentrop, who was Hitler's Foreign Minister, wishes to call the Virginia-born Lady Astor and other notables in England, including Lords Londonderry, Beaverbrook and Derby.

Attorneys said that among the defendants who definitely would take the stand were Hans Frank, who was Governor-General of Poland; Hjalmar Schacht, former Economics Minister; Hans Fritzche, radio propaganda chief; Wilhelm Frick, who headed the Bohemia-Moravia protectorate; Julius Streicher, No. 1 Nazi Jew-baiter; Alfred Rosenberg, party philosopher; Konstantin von Neurath, former Foreign Minister, and Field Marshal Keitel.

Man In U.S. Wanted

Schacht's attorney said he was considering subpoening a former Berlin banker named Jeidels from the United States to testify that Schacht "was very helpful when he emigrated to New York."

Frank's counsel said he wished to summon two Polish witnesses to testify. He said: "Frank was not responsible for the things he is charged with in the indictment and he personally was very much interested in the Poles. The SS was responsible, not him."

The attorney for Martin Bormann, Hitler's missing aide who is being tried in absentia, was asked whether he was in contact with his client.

"I'm no spiritualist," he responded. "I can't conduct a seance."

More than 100,000 words of evidence were presented yesterday. The court then took a two-day recess to give the defense time to study the evidence submitted since the trial opened last Tuesday.

Reichsbank. "The only trouble is it never functioned."

"You're not kidding," chimed in Albert Speer, former Reichsminister of Production.

Goering Sarcastic

"I don't envy the prosecution the task of figuring out the party organization, since we Germans never could figure it out," said Hans Fritzsche, a leading German radio propagandist.

"I see they've just promoted von Schirach (Baron von Schirach, leader of the Hitler youth) to Cabinet Minister," said fat Hermann Goering sarcastically. "And then they wanted to have me as Hitler's successor after Hess. Imagine the crust."

"Just A Lot Of Talk"

When asked what he remembered about the trial, Rudolf Hess, one-time deputy Führer who claims he is suffering from amnesia, said there was just a lot of talk, and professed not even to know what had gone on the day before.

"The one pleasant aspect of my memory loss," he said, "is that I don't have to answer a lot of silly questions about past events that concern only me as a German and are nobody else's business."

Julius Streicher, anti-Semitic propagandist, said he has decided three of the judges were Jews.

Nazi Plan Absurd, Lady Astor Says

London, Nov. 24 (AP)—Lady Astor said tonigh tthe idea that she and other members of the so-called "Cliveden Set" be called as defense witnesses at the Nuerenberg war-crimes trial was absurd.

The suggestion was made by former Nazi Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, one of the defendants.

Lady Astor, a former member of Parliament, was quoted by the British Press Association as saying Ribbentrop "has never been to Cliveden," her country home 30 miles from London.

"I had a perfect horror of Nazis," she said. "I had chances to meet both Hitler and Mussolini, but refused."

Nazi Party Setup Puzzling To Chiefs

Nuernberg, Nov. 24 (AP)—The prosecution's outline of the Nazi party organization before the International War Crimes Tribunal yesterday produced sarcastic luncheon table comment by the Nazi leaders on trial.

"It looks like a wonderful organization on the chart," said Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the

As Hitler Saw Reds

Nuernberg, Nov. 24 (AP)—Adolf Hitler, ever a claimant to prophetic and intuitional powers, made this appraisal of Russia's strength and his own future to his generals in 1939, documents introduced before the international war-crimes tribunal disclosed:

"Russia has the far-reaching goal, above all, of the strengthening of her position in the Baltic. . . . Further, Russia is striving to increase her influence in the Balkans and is striving toward the Persian Gulf.

"Russia will do that which she considers to be to her benefit. . . . At the present moment, Russia has retired from internationalism. In case she renounces this, she will proceed to pan-Slavism. It is a fact that at the present time the Russian Army is of little worth."

Of himself, Hitler said:

"I shall shrink from nothing and shall destroy everyone who is opposed to me. In the past few years I have experienced many examples of intuition. I shall stand or fall on this struggle. I shall never survive the defeat of my people."

War-Crime Trials Legal Fees

Berlin, Nov. 24 (AP)—Funds to pay defense counsel at the Nuernberg war-crimes trials will be taken from the defendants' blocked bank accounts, the Allied co-ordinating committee has decided. Fees will be fixed by the court.

Liquor Kills 100 in Berlin.

Berlin, Nov. 24 (A. P.).—More than 100 Berlin civilians died and many more were blinded during the past few months by poison liquor obtained in the black market, a police report published in the American-licensed Tagesspiegel said today.

WITNESS PULLS A NAZI'S EARS

Dachau Defendant Attacked In Prisoners' Dock

Dachau, Nov. 24 (AP)—A vengeful witness at the Dachau trials today violently pulled the ears of Vinzens Schoettl, whom the witnes identified as a horror-camp official who sh t his comrades for getting out of formation to obtain a drink of water.

Schoettl stood under the attack. The Court reprimanded the witness and ordered the prosecution to cease having witnesses enter the prisoners' dock to single out defendants they accused of cruelties.

Arrogant Attitude Gone

With Schoettl's identification only four out of the 40 defendants charged with war crimes remain without a personal accusation against them from the witness stand.

Most of the defendants looked weary and worried in sharp contrast to their arrogance at the opening of the trial eight days ago. A few were even shamefaced as witnesses continued to relate the tortures at the Dachau camp.

Those Corpse-Filled Boxcars

One witness said today that hundreds of Jewish children were taken from their parents in Dachau and sent to the Osweicim camp for extermination on the orders of Johann Kirsch, one of the 40 defendants.

An explanation of the corpse-filled boxcars Americans troops found at Dachau when the camp was liberated was given by Alli Kuci, who said 2,400 Jews were locked in a train on April 21, 1945, and left without food and water until the troops arrived on April 29.

"I only know of 560 who survived," Kuci said.

Riva Levy, first woman witness at the trials, testified that the women and aged prisoners were beaten as mercilessly as the young men. She charged Kirsch with mistreating one group of 80 elderly persons so severely that 75 died.

Girl Tells How SS Beat Women

Dachau, Nov. 24 (AP)—Riva Levy, pretty 29-year-old Lithuanian, testified at the Dachau concentration camp atrocity trial today that SS guards used iron rods to beat women who were too weak to carry the heavy stones they were required to move.

Another witness, Selman Greedberg, said he was greeted at Dachau with this speech by Johann Kirsch, one of the defendants:

"You filthy Jewish swine must know from now on you eat the bread of Dachau. This means that if you do not do your duty you will go to hell before your time."

PARRI, ITALY'S PREMIER, QUITS

Consultations To Start Today For New Government

Rome, Nov. 24 (AP)—Ferruccio Parri, his coalition Cabinet shattered by a rightist revolt, stepped down from Italy's premiership tonight after warning the nation's political leaders that a prolonged crisis would "open the road to fascism."

In a valedictory to which he summoned the world press, Parri handed his resignation to the Committee of National Liberation which placed him in power last June; then, driving through rain to the Royal Palace, he formally bowed out before Crown Prince Umberto.

The Prince, for whom the crisis may provide a long-sought chance to strengthen the embattled monarchy, announced he would begin consultations tomorrow toward formation of a new government.

Long Stalemate Seen

With Leftists struggling bitterly for control before general elections are held in the spring, observers predicted a long stalemate before the crisis is resolved.

While Parri, 55-year-old former resistance leader, spoke to the Liberation Committee, a crowd estimated at 1,000 gathered in the street outside Viminale Palace and shouted, "We want Parri." Police reinforcements guarded the palace.

The committee included representatives of the Liberal and Christian Democrat parties, whose withdrawal from the government coalition precipitated the cabinet crisis.

Climaxes Weeks Of Tension

Parri's decision climaxed several weeks of tension in the government, Liberals (conservatives) feuding with Leftists chiefly over control of machinery for elections scheduled for next spring.

The Liberal party and the Christian Democrats broke with the government in the face of the warning of Parri that "very grave international and internal reasons" made it necessary to avoid fall of the cabinet at this time.

In addition to disputing over election machinery, the Liberals—have also opposed a decree which would extend the purge of Fascists from Government employés to private citizens. The Liberals feared this would hit many industrialists and landowners.

Took Over Power Last June

Parri wa sa relatively unknown patriot leader of northern Italy when he was given the reins of the new coalition Government last June 17.

He succeeded Ivanho Bonomi who had resigned five days earlier, in keeping with a pledge he would step down after all of Italy was liberated.

Parri, speaking to the committee, flatly denied reports that foreign powers wanted to see a change in the government. He said the Allies had denied that to him, declaring they were concerned only because Italy, in the period of reconstruction, was too vulnerable to Cabinet crises.

Rejoinder By De Gasperi

The Premier indicated his resignation would result in rightist withdrawals and charged that the Liberal withdrawal was in reality a maneuver to achieve a coup d'etat. He said the Christian Democrats had engaged in the same tactics.

These statements brought a heated rejoinder from Alcide de Gasperi, Foreign Minister, leader of the Christian Democrats, that his party was not "blocking a return to democracy."

"We do not want a return to Fascism; we do need the fundamental principles of liberty," de Gasperi said.

During his speech Parri defended his leadership, declaring he had mediated between left and right, and had been criticised as often from the left as from the right.

ITALIAN PREMIER RESIGNS IN CRISIS

Rome, Nov. 24 (A. P.).—Pietro Nenni, Socialist Vice-Premier, announced after a Cabinet meeting today that Premier Feruccio Parri had decided to resign as a result of the breaking of the six-party coalition upon which his government rests. The left-wing press reported that a general strike was threatened throughout northern Italy as a result of the crisis and that workers of the big Fiat plant in Turin had walked out as a gesture of support for Parri.

Parri will announce his resignation after a meeting of the Committee of National Liberation today, Nenni said. Police reinforcements guarded the Viminale Palace where the party heads met.

Parri's decision was precipitated by the withdrawal of the pivotal Christian Democrat party from the government coalition. Earlier the Liberal party, a conservative group, had withdrawn, an action forecasting the break-up of the Cabinet. The two parties broke with the government in the face of the warning of Parri that "very grave international and internal reasons" made it necessary to avoid a government crisis at this time.

The uneasy coalition has governed Italy the last nine months. Behind the crisis is a struggle for control of the election machinery, dissension over a leftist move for a new purge of Fascists and middle-class demands for a government which would gain greater confidence of Great Britain and the United States.

Dollar in Rome Brings 425 Lire

Rome, Nov. 24 (A. P.).—A dollar would bring you 425 lire in Rome's black market today, as against the official rate of 100 to the dollar. This sharp jump from yesterday's 375 level was attributed in financial quarters to fear of inflation.

IRANIAN DELEGATES ON WAY TO MOSCOW

Plan to Discuss Disturbances as Leftists Demand Self-Rule in Azerbaijan

MOSCOW, Nov. 24 (AP)—An Iranian Embassy official said today that a delegation from Iran was expected to arrive in Moscow soon to discuss the situation in the Iranian province of Azerbaijan, where disorders have occurred recently.

Soviet Government news agency dispatches from Teheran, the Iranian capital, said that 744 delegates from every district of Azerbaijan had met in Tabriz last Tuesday and had demanded "genuine self-administration" for the population of northern Iran.

Political observers in Moscow interpreted the developments in northern Iran as the first step by the population to gain local autonomy within the framework of the Iranian Government.

The observers pointed out that the conference in Tabriz did not stipulate local autonomy, but added that this was the next logical step to expect.

Russians Favor Move

Demands by the residents of northern Iran for self-government or local autonomy naturally would be looked upon favorably by the Russians, who are desirous for security reasons of having friendly relations with their neighbors on the south. The Tudeh [People's Masses] Party is in closest relations with the Soviet Union and is the leading advocate for self-administration and local autonomy for Azerbaijan.

Observers paid particular attention to the Kurdish angle, saying that it might be playing a much more important part in the Iranian situation than appeared on the surface.

A dispatch from Teheran today said that recent disorders included Kurdistan in addition to Iranian Azerbaijan. No details were given.

NOV 25 1945

Kurdistan is a mountainous district that lies partly in Turkey, Iran and Iraq. As its name implies it is populated by Kurds. There also is a Kurd district in the southwestern corner of the Azerbaijan Soviet Socialist Republic. Iranian Azerbaijan is adjacent to Soviet Azerbaijan.

Say Democracy Is Aim

Delegates to the Tabriz conference, the Tass dispatches said, were elected at numerous meetings held all over northern Iran.

"The demand for self-administration was put forward at all these meetings," the dispatches added.

All Want Self-Rule

"The demand for self-administration was put forward at all these meetings," Tass said.

Dispatches said the recent meeting of the Tudeh parties in northern Iran show that the "aims of the Democratic party and the Tudeh meetings pursue no other objective than the fulfillment of the constitutional provision guaranteeing democracy."

[Iranian officials have said that armed members of the Democratic party have conducted separatist disorders in Azerbaijan. There have been some reports that the Democratic party was an offshoot of the Tudeh party.]

Russian Oil Plants Reported

TEHERAN, Iran, Nov. 24 (AP)—An article in the newspaper, Nasim I Saba, said today that if the Iranian oGvernment were unable to send representatives to the north, the reason might be that Russia wished to conceal the fact that she had built oil installations near Shahi and Tabriz.

"Some weeks ago we reported that Russians, apparently without the knowledge or consent of the Iran Government, had set up oil installations near Shahi," the article declared.

"According to travelers from Tabriz, similar installations have been recently set up near Tabriz. We interpret this as an infringement of Iranian sovereignty."

Tabriz and Shahi are in Azerbaijan, northwestern Iran. Last year Moscow put heavy pressure on the Iran Government to grant oil concessions in the area.

Russ Building Iranian Oil Plants, Paper Says

Tehran, Iran, Nov. 24 (AP)—The newspaper Nasim i Saba said today that if the Iranian Government were unable to send representatives to the North, the reason might be that Russia wished to conceal the fact that she had built oil installations near Shahi and Tabriz.

"Some weeks ago we reported that Russians, apparently without the knowledge or consent of the Iran Government, had set up oil installations near Shahi," the newspaper said.

Other Work Reported

"According to travelers from Tabriz, similar installations have been recently set up near Tabriz. We interpret this as an infringement of Iranian sovereignty."

Tabriz and Shahi are in Azerbaijan, northwestern Iran, scene of current disorders which the Iran Government has attributed to separatists. Last year Moscow put heavy pressure on the Iran Government to grant oil concessions in the area.

PROGRESS WITH RUSSIA

Diplomats at Moscow Optimistic Over Allied Plan for Japan

MOSCOW, Nov. 24 (AP)—Diplomats said today that the exchange of views between the United States and the Soviet Union over policies for control of Japan had taken a somewhat better turn, with definite progress achieved in the last week.

The exchange is being carried on mostly by radio and telegraph communications between the Russians and the United States State Department.

The diplomats said that, while an agreement may still be far away, there are reasons for optimism. The Russians want an Allied control council for Japan similar to that ruling occupied Germany.

Absence of Generalissimo Stalin from Moscow was said to be holding up many phases of discussions between the Big Three, but his return was expected at almost any time. Premier Stalin left Moscow on Oct. 9 and has been vacationing at a Black Sea resort.

Soviet Papers Play Up Trial

Moscow, Nov. 24 (AP) — Soviet newspapers devoted almost all their foreign pages today to the Nuernberg war crimes trial and published two photographs of the court room. L. Shenin, Ivestia correspondent wrote: "The court is open. How many months and years have the peoples of Europe waited for these words?"

DAMASKINOS IS SAID TO DECIDE TO REMAIN

ATHENS, Nov. 24 (AP) — Archbishop Damaskinos was reported in Greek Government quarters today to have withdrawn his resignation as regent, apparently yielding to requests of the new Greek Premier and the British that he remain in office.

The Archbishop refused yesterday to comply with these requests, made by Premier Themistokles Sophoulis, British foreign secretary Ernest Bevin and the British emissary to Greece, Hector McNeil. He also declined to sign any laws or decrees.

It is believed that Archbishop Damaskinos might have bargained with the Government for more authority in naming ministers in return for withdrawing his resignation.

Mr. Bevin, in a letter to the regent, said he considered it "important in your country's interest that you should remain at your post and take care of your country until integration of the task."

Damaskinos Again Regent

Greek Archbishop Withdraws His Resignation

ATHENS, Nov. 24 (AP).—Greek government quarters said today that Archbishop Damaskinos had withdrawn his resignation as regent. It was believed that Damaskinos might have bargained with the government for more authority in naming ministers, in return for remaining as regent.

Damaskinos had been asked yesterday by new Greek Premier Themistokles Sophoulis, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and the British emissary to Greece, Hector McNeil, to remain as regent. The archbishop steadfastly refused then and also refused to sign any laws or decrees.

A letter to Damaskinos from Bevin, released here yesterday, said: "I personally consider it would be important in your country's interest that you should remain at your post and take care of your country until integration of the task."

McNeil, in a radio address to the Greek people, declared that "every good Greek will support" the Sophoulis goyernment and said he hoped Damaskinos would carry on. He added that the Sophoulis government would undoubtedly obtain economic assistance.

To Let Russia Have Fugitives

Stockholm, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Swedish Government has agreed to a Russian request to turn over 2,700 German, Austrian and Baltic soldiers who fled to Sweden after serving in the German Army on the Eastern front.

Spy Plot Against Church Unit Revealed

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 24 (AP)—the World Council of Churches said today that a secret Gestapo document, dated 1938 and found in southern Germany, disclosed that the Nazi secret police was assigned to get a "confidential agent" into the organization's meetings.

The council said in a statement that "in spite of close research, no trace of a Gestapo agent could be found in the World Council."

The organization said that the document was now in its possession and that it stated that the world church movement had a "Marxistic, pacifistic, Jewish character and its influence on the life of the German church is very great."

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Government electoral commission announced today that opponents of Marshal Tito's Fatherland Front cast only about 10 per cent of the votes in the election of a Constituent Assembly on Nov. 11.

The official figures were 6,725,049 for the Fatherland Front and 707,422 for the Opposition for the First House of the Assembly. The Opposition registered a slightly larger vote for the Second House.

SOERABAJA'S FALL TO BRITISH NEAR

Powerful Indonesian Forces Battle English in Two Other Java Sectors.

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 24—(AP) The British virtually completed capture of Soerabaja tonight, but were battling powerful Indonesian forces in at least two other areas of Java and were reported to have set the torch to native settlements in one locality in retaliation for mutilation of captured British troops.

The latter measure, coupled with a disclosure that the British were ready to go into action tomorrow with rocket-fitted Mosquito bombers, indicated that the British were adopting a stern attitude as a result of a wave of massacres during the past few days.

Plane Crew Slain

The incidents which were said to have caused the British to get "tough" included the slaying and dismembering of 25 occupants of a transport plane which was forced down; the massacre of 11 Gurkhas guarding a supply train enroute from Batavia to Bandoeng, and the killing or wounding of 32 women and children in an internment camp.

Heavy fighting was reported in central Java at Semarang and Ambarawa. In Soerabaja the British blasted Indonesian positions with Sherman tanks to advance more than a mile in the two-weeks' old battle for the big naval base.

The new gains placed the British in control of Soerabaja's prosperous residential area of Simpang and left only the southern suburb of Darmo to be taken.

"There is every sign that the Indonesians have pulled out," a British spokesman said. "For the most part we are encountering only scattered and half-hearted resistance from occasional snipers and machineguns."

A captured Indonesian lieutenant estimated Nationalist casualties in the Soerabaja fighting at around 5,000.

The burning of native settlements was ordered by a British brigadier, the Dutch news agency Aneta reported, after a searching party found the mutilated bodies of five RAF crew members and 20 Indian soldiers whose plane had crashlanded yesterday six miles from Batavia.

Brutality is Supported

At the same time, British authorities officially disclosed what they described as instances of brutality by both the Indonesians and by Dutch and Amboinese forces.

British Lt. Col. H. C. G. Harding, provost marshal, said the Indonesians had stormed a civilian internment camp at Ambarawa before the arrival of British troops and "butchered women and children." He said the Nationalists, armed with rifles, pistols, swords and grenades, had left nine persons dead, three dying and 20 wounded, including children three to 10 years old.

Harding's report also asserted that 60 Indonesian police were shot down in cold blood by Dutch and Amboinese, when units of the 10th Dutch battalion attacked the Indonesian central police station in Batavia a few days ago.

Fighting at Ambarawa was described as "heavy" and was concentrated mainly near a lake in the center of the town. British reinforcements were rushed to the north and west shores of the lake, where large numbers of Indonesians were reported to have landed.

Thunderbolt fighter-bombers "successfully" strafed boats on the lake, a British statement said. One plane crashed on the target and the pilot was presumed dead.

British Maj. Gen. D. C. Hartihorn hurried to Semarang, where thousands of armed Indonesians were repulsed yesterday with the help of artillery and naval gunfire in a new outbreak of fighting.

The British reported the situation now in hand, but added "the town has suffered considerably from fighting of the last three days."

Jap Troops Used

Japanese troops, under British command, were assigned to clear the eastern half of Semarang, British officers said, while Indians cleaned up the western half. Later Japanese units were reported by the British to have been given the task of clearing native settlements east of Semarang.

The British said the Japanese were doing an excellent job.

Orders were issued today to Gen. Mabushi, commander of the Japanese 10th army, to start his 67,000 men moving toward seaports where they will be placed aboard Japanese transports and taken to islands off Malaya to be interned until shipping is available to return them to Japan.

Observers awaited the meeting tomorrow of the Indonesian National convention, composed of 150 delegates from all over Java. In its two-day meeting, the convention is expected to approve or reject the moderation policy of Premier Sutan Sjahrir.

In Java

Batavia, Java, Nov. 24 (AP)—Heavy fighting between British and Indonesian troops broke out today in Semarang and Ambarawa. The British said Indonesian extremists in Ambarawa had stormed the civilian internment camp and "butchered women and children."

A statement, by Lieut. Col. H. C. G. Harding, British provost marshal, also said that Dutch and Amboinese troops of the 10th Dutch Battalion shot down 60 Indonesian police "in cold blood" in the Indonesian central police station in Batavia a few days ago.

The British used naval and artillery fire in repulsing 1,000 armed Indonesians in Semarang yesterday. The official communiqué said the town had suffered "considerably" from the fighting in the past three days.

24 Hacked Bodies Found

Aneta, Dutch news agency, said today that a British brigadier ordered native settlements in the vicinity set afire in retaliation when the mutilated bodies of four British arimen and twenty Indian soldiers were found floating in a stream where their plane had crashed.

The brigadier who led the search party and found the bodies said they had been hacked by Indonesians.

The plane, a Dakota, made a crash landing in a paddy field six miles from Batavia yesterday.

Batavia has been comparatively quiet during the past 48 hours, with only a few cases of sniping and looting reported.

Victims Aged 3 To 9

The British report on Ambarawa said that when the Gurkhas lifted the siege of the city they found nine persons dead, three dying and twenty wounded, including children ranging in age from 3 to 9. The raid, the report said, was carried out by groups of ten Indonesians, each armed with rifles, pistols, swords and hand grenades. The report added that the Indonesians made no attacks on the Dutch men, who were unarmed, but attacked the women and children.

The heaviest fighting in Ambarawa was concentrated in an area near a lake in the center of town, where Indonesians were reported trying to land on the north and west shores.

Thunderbolts Strafe Boats

Hard Fighting Continuing

RAF Thunderbolts from Batavia strafed Indonesian boats "successfully," the British communiqué said. One Thunderbolt was lost.

Ten Chinese were killed last night in Soerabaja, when Indonesians hurled artillery shells into the city's Chinatown. There were no British casualties. South of Soerabaja the British continued to advance, meeting occasional rifle and machine-gun fire. American-made Sherman talks were being used by the British to wipe out strong points.

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 24 (AP)—Orders were issued today to General Mabushi, commander of the Japanese Tenth Army, to start his 67,000 men moving toward seaports, where they will be placed aboard Japanese transports and taken to islands off Malaya to be interned until shipping is available to return them to Japan.

MANCHURIAN PORT SEIZED BY CHIANG

Moose
Nationalist Troops Wrest Hulutao from Chinese Red Forces.
NIGHT

Chungking, Nov. 24 (AP)—Chinese Nationalist troops reportedly seized Chinhsien's railway station today and surrounded that city 120 miles from Mukden in an uncontested drive 100 miles deep into Manchuria.

Although the Chinese Communists had predicted the "first big battle for Manchuria" would be fought at Chinhsien—a strategic city girt by hills—the Chungking World Daily News asserted the Nationalist Army threw its lines about the city against only "unorganized resistance."

Pact Report Unconfirmed

Wholly unconfirmed reports circulated in Chungking, meanwhile, that Chungking and Moscow had reached an agreement under which Russia would delay her withdrawal from Manchuria, previously set for completion December 3.

These reports, whose accuracy can be determined only by events, said Chungking was unwilling to see Chinese Communists filling up the vacuum left by the Russian withdrawal and for that reason wanted the Russians to stay on temporarily.

It also was reported without substantiation that Chungking had asked Moscow to guarantee the safe Nationalist reoccupation of Mukden and Changchun and to disarm "armed bands" (Communists) but Moscow has yet to reply.

The only support for these rumors was an insistent Chinese press report that Chungking's representatives who fled last week from Changchun, the Manchurian capital, were preparing to return on Russian invitation.

Said To Mass In Mukden

Communist reports declared that their Chinese forces were pouring into the industrial city of Mukden. They asserted 200,000 men, including the "peoples militia," were ready to fight for Manchuria.

Suspicions were voiced in some quarters here that the Communists might be setting a trap for the Nationalist army and might loose a drive to the sea that would cut the spearhead off from its base.

The Communist New China Daily News for the first time today demanded autonomy for Manchuria and urged the Russian forces of occupation, scheduled to withdraw next month, to stay until autonomy was granted by Chungking.

Negotiations with Russia still are in progress for some arrangement to assure free entry of Nationalist troops into Manchuria. Chungking, according to latest accounts, is awaiting a reply from Moscow on a number of proposals for adjusting the Nationalist position in Manchuria.

Unconfirmed reports reaching here meanwhile said that in Inner Mongolia Mongol cavalry had broken through Chinese Communist lines around Paotow, western terminal of the Peiping-Suiyuan railroad, and had relieved the long besieged Nationalist garrison inside the city.

With Nationalist - Communist peace talks still up in the air, Chiang will make an "important announcement" Monday on the economic situation in China and measures to be taken to improve it, an official statement said.

It was believed the measures were planned after talks with Edwin A. Locke, President Truman's special representative in China. Locke recently made an extensive tour of China.

He disclosed that small cadres of Americans were in Manchuria some time ago to aid in embarkation and debarkation of central government troops, but these were withdrawn, along with a handful of intelligence officers, at the request of the Soviet consul.

Wedemeyer would not estimate when the more than 50,000 United States marines in North China will start leaving, but "instructions from Washington do not contemplate their immediate removal."

Ask Free Port at Haiphong

CHUNGKING, Nov. 24 (AP).—Hope that France will acquiesce in the conversion of Haiphong, Indo-China, into a free port was expressed today by Lin Chi-han, a special representative of the Chinese Foreign Ministry.

Fullest possible use should be made of the Kunming-Haiphong railroad in order to augment China's trade, he added—a hint that China wanted joint Chinese-French operations of the French section of the line.

Any independence movement in Indo-China is a question for Indo-China itself to settle, and China neither recognizes nor will interfere with the natives' "provisional government," Lin told interviewers.

Chinese Reds Demand Manchuria Autonomy

17005A

Chungking, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Chunking World Daily News today reported that Nationalists have surrounded vital Chinhsein, 100 miles inside Manchuria—while the Communist New China Daily News flatly demanded autonomy for Manchuria and said its inhabitants were urging Russian forces to delay their withdrawal until it was granted.

Communists earlier had forecast a full-scale battle if Nationalists attempted to take Chinhsien, but the World Daily News reported only "unorganized" resistance.

Depot Said To Be Taken

The Communistic new Szechwan daily also said that Chinese Reds meanwhile have poured into Mukden in strength, and asserted that Gen. Chu Teh, commander in chief of the Chinese Communist forces, already has 200,000 men massed in "People's Militia." The report made no reference to the Russian forces which—so far as is known here—still are occupying Mukden.

The World Daily News attributed its report that Chinhsien has been surrounded to "reliable sources."

It said that Nationalists already have occupied the railroad station at Chinhsien.

The same source also reported Nationalists have captured Lienshaw on the Peiping-Mukden line 75 miles north of the Great Wall, and now are approaching the Communist-held Manchurian seaport of Hulutao, 7 miles to the east.

Siege Reported Broken

If the Nationalists actually have surrounded Chinhsien, it is possible they have bypassed Lienshaw and cut across-country, observers here pointed out.

From Paotown, western terminus of the Peiping-Suiyuan (Inner-Mongolian) Railroad, came reports that Mongol cavalry units had broken through the encircling Communists to relieve the Nationalist defenders of the city. There was no confirmation of the Chinese press dispatch reporting this first slashing of the Red siege ring.

Hulutao Reported Taken

CHUNGKING, Sunday, Nov. 25 (AP)—Chinese Government troops have wrested the Manchurian port of Hulutao from the Chinese Government Communists, Chungking newspapers reported today.

Capture of Hulutao would give the Government its first port in Manchuria at which to land reinforcements for the campaign aimed at securing Manchurian strongpoints, many of which are already reported being entered by Chinese Communists as the Russians withdraw.

Chinese Communists report that their forces are pouring into Mukden, Manchuria. They asserted that 200,000 men, including the Peoples Militia, were ready to fight for Manchuria.

American Barbecue in China

CHUNGKING, Nov. 24 (AP).—Twenty Americans were enjoying a barbecue in a United States Army slaughterhouse this evening when seventy-five unarmed Chinese soldiers attempted to raid the building in search of meat. The Americans proceeded calmly with the barbeque; American-employed coolies drove off the attackers, and no one was seriously injured in the scuffle.

Gen. Rockey In Chungking

Chungking, Nov. 24 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Keller Rockey, commander of United States Marines in North China, arrived today to be the guest of Generalissimo and Madame Chiang Kai-shek. He was expected to discuss the current situation in North China although United States headquarters has described his visit as of no political significance.

RETURN OF HURLEY TO CHINA UNCERTAIN

SHANGHAI, Nov. 24—(AP) Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer told correspondents today he did not know "when or if" U. S. Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley would return to China but "if his health permits I think he will be back." Hurley now is in the United States.

There have been various rumors that he considered his mission completed and would not return to China.

(In Washington, Hurley declined comment on Wedemeyer's statement).

EXPLOITATION OF YANKS ANGERS WEDEMEYER

SHANGHAI, Nov. 24—(AP) Angered at the rapidly ascending prices in Shanghai, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of American forces in China, said today he was "determined to smash this exploitation of Americans.

The general emphasized that his statement was "not a veiled threat—I am not bluffing and not intimidating."

He told correspondents his staff was studying "a correct approach" and if that fails he will place out of bounds all price cougers.

25 MORE JAPANESE SEIZED

They Are Linked to Deaths of 3 U. S. Fliers in Hankow

SHANGHAI, Nov. 24 (AP)—Twenty-five more Japanese have been arrested in connection with the death parade and torture deaths of three American fliers in Hankow last December, the United States Army announced today.

The suspects, twelve of them civilians, were taken to the huge Ward Road jail where ten other Japanese, apprehended last month on the same charges, are awaiting trial.

The Army said that the War Crimes Commission was "establishing a firm case" against all thirty-five, who are held incommunicado.

Changchun Press Said To Be Communist-Run

DAILY NEWS

Peiping, Nov. 23 (AP—Delayed). The Chinese Communist 8th Route Army was reported today to be in control of most of the newspapers and the radio station in Changchun, capital of Manchuria.

The Peiping newspaper, Social Welfare, said China Communist troops were running six of the seven newspapers in the city, although the Russians still occupy the capital and recently brought in 20,000 more soldiers to maintain order.

Other reports from Manchuria, all unconfirmed here, said Changchun was not openinly in Communist hands but both the mayor and chairman of the board of public safety favored the 8th Route Army. Neither was said to be a Communist, however.

26 HURT IN BOMBAY AS RIOTS CONTINUE

Students and Police Clash—One GI Is Killed in Calcutta —Total Death Toll Is 37

Hu Tth
NIGHT

CALCUTTA, India, Nov. 24 (AP)—Twenty-six persons were injured in Bombay today in new outbreak of violence that already has produced scores of casualties in various parts of India, including one American soldier killed and twenty-six injured in Calcutta.

The death toll for three days of demonstrations against the trial of members of the "Indian National Army" as war criminals mounted to thirty-seven when American authorities announced that the charred body of a missing soldier had been found near the wreckage of a burned ambulance in Calcutta.

[The known death of one American soldier in Calcutta contradicted a United Press dispatch Friday to the effect that the demonstrations there had reportedly taken the lives of "four Americans and injured thirty others."]

The new clashes in Bombay broke out when students of Khalsa and Ruia Colleges walked out of their classes and attempted to stage a demonstration without a permit. Police blocked the street and charged the demonstrators with canes. They later opened fire after the students had showered them with bricks and stones.

Three police inspectors, three policemen and twenty students were injured by flying missiles. No one was reported hit by gunfire.

The name of the dead American soldier was withheld pending notification of next of kin. He was reported to have left Camp Howrah for Calcutta, driving an ambulance, Thursday night. The burned ambulance and his body were found near an intersection which was the scene of some of the worst rioting.

Five of the injured Americans still were in hospitals, but all were reported recovering. A complete record of damaged and destroyed American vehicles was not yet available, but at least eight were known to have been destroyed and more than fifty damaged.

The American 142d General Hospital, largest hospital in the base section headquarters area, could be reached only by a circuitous route during the height of the disturbances in Calcutta. Military police, however, convoyed ambulances and cars to the hospital without incident.

Calcutta was gradually returning to normal, although British troops still were patrolling the entire city and the strike of 20,000 municipal workers continued.

British Royal Engineers were operating two of the city's main water pumping stations, supplying three-quarters of Calcutta's water supply. The city's transportation system, paralyzed since Thursday, was beginning to function again and the transportation unions issued a joint statement announcing restoration of service.

Meanwhile, fifty-eight persons were killed, including six American soldiers, in an explosion of smokeless powder at an Army disposal plant thirty miles outside Calcutta yesterday afternoon. Forty-five were injured. All the casualties, except the six American dead and five injured, were Indian workmen.

Army headquarters said there was no connection between the explosion and Indian demonstrations in Calcutta.

dump in Kanchrapara, 30 miles north of here, yesterday killed 58 persons, including six American soldiers. Five American soldiers and 40 Indian workmen were injured.

The dump, said to have been the largest American ammunition dump in the world during the war, was being used for the disposal of ammunition left in the India-Burma theater.

The Kanchrapara camp area was being used as a processing center for American troops sent to India for redeployment.

United States Army officials in New Delhi said there was no connection between the explosion and the Indian demonstrations in Calcutta.

Missing Since Wednesday

The missing American, whose name has not been disclosed, has not been seen since he left Camp Howrah in an ambulance Wednesday night. The ambulance was found overturned and burned yesterday morning.

2 British Indian Soldiers Are Killed by Annamites

GRAVE

30 Civilians Wounded in New Violence in Saigon Area

SAIGON, French Indo-China, Nov. 24 (AP).—Two British Indian soldiers and thirty civilians were wounded in an outburst of violence at Bien Hoa, a town thirty miles northeast of Saigon, a British-French communique said today, as the Annamites continued to resist French attempts to regain control of Indo-China.

NIGHT

A British spokesman asserted that "we are not here to reconquer this country for the French," and added that British operations against the Annamites were concerned chiefly with protecting outskirts of areas where disarmed Japanese prisoners have been concentrated.

Today's communique said French troops have cleared Traon, 75 miles southwest of Saigon, and siezed an important headquarters of the Viet Minh at Benco. An attack on a French post north of Mytho was repulsed with losses, the bulletin added.

Explosions from three fires which started almost simultaneously in separate areas of Cholon and Saigon Thursday night were said officially to have been caused by accidental discharge of ammunition and not by the Annamese.

It was learned that the explosions from three fires which started almost simultaneously last night in separate areas of Saigon and Cholon have been attributed to the accidental discharge of ammunition.

No Evidence Fires Were Set

There was no evidence, it was officially stated, to show that any of the fires were set by rebellious Annamese soldiers.

Heavy gunfire heard in Saigon during the night was believed to have been the result of clashes between Gurkha units of the British force and roving bands of Annamese. The natives were reported to have attacked the Gurkhas. Annamese troops also were said to have been driven off in their attempt to destroy the new canal bridge in the dock area.

Police Fire Upon Crowd In New Bombay Outbreak

GRAVE

New Delhi, India, Nov. 24 (AP)—New violence marked by police gunfire flared in Bombay today and United States Army headquarters announced that 30 American soldiers had been injured at Calcutta in anti-British rioting.

DAY

American headquarters said no Americans had been reported killed, however, and Calcutta dispatches said reports that a United States major and soldiers had been killed there were without foundation. One American soldier was missing, however.

Police Open Fire

While Calcutta gradually returned to normal, with no new outbreaks today, police in Bombay, India's second largest city, opened fire on demonstrators who threw stones and injured one police officer and four constables. No shooting casualties were reported.

Troops had taken over the policing in Calcutta, starting point of the demonstrations which were touched off by the British trial of Indian army officers who had joined the Japanese-sponsored Indian National Army in Burma during the war.

Leaders Ask Order

Improvement in the Calcutta situation developed after members of the All-India Congress party, as well as Hindus and Mahasabha party leaders, toured the city and appealed to crowds to be peaceful.

Casualties at Calcutta totaled nearly 250. Gunfire yesterday took the lives of five more persons, bringing fatalities in Calcutta to 36.

Indo-China Action Protective, British Say

DAY

Saigon, Indo-China, Nov. 23 [AP—Delayed]—A British spokesman said today that British operations against the Annamese were devoted mainly to protecting the outskirts of areas where disarmed Japanese prisoners have been concentrated and added:

"We are not here to reconquer this country for the French."

JAP ADMIRAL BLAMES TOJO

Says War Was Designed To Cover Up China Losses

GRAVES

Tokyo, Nov. 24 (AP)—A retired Japanese admiral declared today that Hideki Tojo and his henchmen plunged Japan into the war with the United States to escape the wrath of the people for the failures in China.

Rear Admiral Katsugi Masaki in an interview named ment high in Japan's affairs—some not on General MacArthur's list of suspected war criminals—as involved in the militaristic plot for war and conquest.

NIGHT

"These generals," said Masaki, "became desperate at the failure in China, knowing they would be punished if they lost, and they propelled Japan into the Pacific far."

Names General Suzuki

Among others he named Gen. Teiichi Suzuki, former adviser to Tojo, who has not been placed on Allied lists, and Lieut Gen. Akiro Muto, chief of staff to Lieut Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita. Muto faces trial in Manila after an American military tribunal settles the fate of Yamashita.

"There were other factors," leading to the war, Masaki continued, "notably a feeling among Japanese that they were being oppressed by the Western powers—but the major cause of all these conflicts was the intrigue by which Tojo and other army Fascists sought domestic totalitarian power."

As far back as 1936, the Admiral declared, Lieut. Gen. Kanji Ishihara sought to conclude a tripartite alliance with Germany and Italy against Russia because "he knew then Germany planned to attack Russia and figured the Nazis would be ready by 1940, after which Japan would assault from the east."

Expected Easy Victory

But Tojo, Masaki said, wanted to avenge the defeat suffered by the Kwintung army in Inner Mongolia and decided to attack China instead of Siberia, expecting an easy victory.

Whereupon, he declared, Ishihara who was army chief at the time of the Manchurian invasion, broke ith Tojo, who was supported by Lieut. Gen. Yoshijiri Umezu, recent chief of staff and signer of the Japanese surrender.

Becoming hopelessly enmeshed in China, Masaki added, Tojo and his desperate supporters then settled on war with the Allied powers as the only way out.

Jap Says Tojo Started War Because Of China Failure

GRAVES

Tokyo, Nov. 24 (AP)—A retired Japanese rear admiral asserted today that wartime Premier Hideki Tojo "[illegible] desperate supporters" started the Pacific war primarily "to save themselves from punishment for their failure in China."

DAY

Katsugi Masaki, 60, currently a member of the Japanese House of Representatives and former commander of the Ominato Naval Base, made the assertion in an interview. He included in it "evidence" which he said would be used by the defense in the war-crimes trial of his brother Gen. Jinzaburo Masaki.

Domestic Intrigue, Too

Vicious domestic intrigue in Japan was a major factor in precipitating the Manchurian and China incidents, the retired naval officer said.

"There were other factors, of course—notably a feeling among Japanese that they were being oppressed by western powers—but the major cause of all these conflicts was the intrigue by which Tojo and other army facists sought domestic totalitarian power," he added.

Suzuki Chief Aide

Tojo's principal henchman, he declared, was Gen. Teiichi Suzuki, who has not been placed on General MacArthur's list of suspected war criminals. A third in the trio of early-day ring-leaders of this clique, he asserted, was Lieut. Gen. Tetsuza Nagata, assassinated a decade ago by a fanatic.

Among other military plotters, Masaki said, was Lieut. Gen. Akiro Muto, chief of staff to Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita in the Philippines. Like Tojo in Tokyo, Muto awaits war-crimes trial in Manila.

The comment followed War Department announcement in Washington last night that Tojo's trial would be delayed until other Allied nations have been consulted. Consultations now are under way, the War Department reported.

Trial By Commission

Headquarters also disclosed that when it became apparent Tojo's trial would be delayed by "international ramifications," MacArthur had proposed that the United States try Tojo through a military commission, just as Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita now is being tried in Manila.

The orders to delay Tojo's trial came as a surprise, headquarters sources explained. Officials here had been discussing starting the trial the first week of December, and were awaiting only the arrival of Joseph B. Keenan, named counsel to try such cases.

No. 1 War Criminal

Tojo is No. 1 on every war-criminal suspect list here.

Text of the headquarters comment, prepared in response to newsmens' quarters today:

"As early as October 7, MacArthur was prepared to try Tojo and his Cabinet and so recommended.

Ramifications Not Explained

"When it became apparent that delays would result because of international ramifications, he proposed their trial by an American military commission in much the same way as the trial of Yamashita."

There was no elaboration of the phrase "international ramifications."

HQ Set For Tojo's Trial Since Oct. 7

Tokyo, Nov. 24 (AP)—Allied headquarters said today that General MacArthur had recommended as early as October 7 that Japan's wartime Premier Hideki Tojo be tried "immediately" as a war criminal—and that MacArthur was ready then and is ready now to begin the trial.

MACARTHUR WANTS JAPS TO SEE HIM

Tokyo, Nov. 24 (A. P.).—Gen. MacArthur personally rescinded an order given by a "zealous" staff officer prohibiting Japanese from walking in front of Allied headquarters.

Large crowds had been gathering around the entrance to the Dai Ichi building each noon to see Gen. MacArthur as he left for lunch.

"The respectful attitude of these crowds is in itself an inspiration," his press relations office stated. "More pointedly is the impression made upon Japanese people by the fact their Supreme Commander, without pomp, ceremony or red carpets, and with no special escort, passes through their midst freely. It is an example of democracy at its best."

After learning of the order clearing the sidewalks, said the statement, Gen. MacArthur "in furtherance of his policy of 'freedom of a republic'" cancelled it.

3 Koreans Reported Slain In Alcohol Raid

Tokyo, Nov. 24 (AP)—The newspaper Asahi reported today that American military police and a Japanese police shot and killed three Koreans and arrested 53 others when nearly 200 broke into an American barracks at Ogawara November 21 and stole United States Army alcohol stored there.

Ogawara is near Sendai, the scene of food rioting in which an American warehouse was reported entered forcibly yesterday. The area is about 200 miles north of Tokyo.

The newspaper said the Americans at Ogawara have burned remaining medicinal alcohol stocks.

War To Peace Transition

Tokyo, Nov. 24 (AP)—Pictures of Emperor Hirohito in military uniform which are displayed in schools, Government offices and other places will give way January 1 to others of the Mikado in civilian attire.

Announcing the contemplated change today, the Household Ministry said the photograph of Hirohito in war dress is "unsuitable to the present times."

TOKYO, Nov. 24 (AP)—Col. Raymond C. Kramer, chief of the Economic and Scientific Section of Allied Headquarters, received today the Distinguished Service Medal at a ceremony attended by Gen. Douglas MacArthur. The presentation was made by Maj. Gen. R. J. Marshall, acting chief of staff.

Colonel Kramer, whose home is at 32 East Seventy-fourth Street, New York, is returning to the United States for separation from the service.

PRISON-CAMP FOOD DEFENDED IN TRIAL

Jap Supply Officer Testifies It Was Best Available

Manila, Nov. 24 (AP)—A Japanese lieutenant colonel who has been getting regular nourishment in an American prisoner-of-war camp testified today at the war crimes trial of Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita that military and civilian prisoners fo the Japanese during the Philippines occupation received "the best available" food and treatment.

NIGHT

The witness, Lieut. Col. Kikuo Ishikawa, formerly in charge of prison-camp supplies in Yamashita's 14th Army Group area, said he inspected Bilbid prison, Santo Tomas camp and othe incarceration centers, and thought the food was "ample."

20-Minute Inspection

He looked into the kitchens and elsewhere, he said, and found nothing of a disturbing nature "on the surface."

Sharply questioned by members of the military court Ishikawa admitted that it took him all of 20 minutes to make an "inspection" of Bilibid (where other witnesses have testified they were tortured and starved) and a similar amount of time to check conditions at Santo Tomas.

The colonel explained that transportation difficulties often hampered the task of getting food to prison camps, or even to Japanese troops, but that it was his observation that prison rations "although gradually diminishing, were the same as Japanese soldiers were receiving."

Denies Receiving Complaints

He vigorously denied that any prisoners' complaints had ever reached him. In fact, he said, prisoners and internees were getting the best available food and treatment, and medical supplies and Red Cross packages were plentiful.

Ishikawa admitted that Yamashita had "some responsibility" for the handling of prisoners of war in the Philippines, but that primary responsibility rested with the camp commanders. He said an order from Tokyo to Yamashita about December 20 instructed the general to treat prisoners of war in a friendly manner "in case American armed elements approach."

Responsibility Put On Yamashita

SCHEPLER

Manila, Nov. 24 (AP)—A defense witness under sharp questioning by the United States Military Commission hearing war-crime charges against Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita today admitted that Yamashita had "some responsibility" for the treatment of prisoners of war in the Philippines.

"Who in Tokyo or imperial headquarters held responsibility for prisoners of war and civilian camps?" the witness, Lieut. Col. Kikuo Ishikawa, was asked.

"Camp commanders," he replied.

"Some Responsibility"

Maj. Gen. Russell B. Reynolds, president of the trial commission, interrupted to ask sharply:

"Do you mean to tell me that the Japanese high command in Tokyo held that Yamashita did not have complete responsibility for prisoners of war under his control?"

"I believe there is some responsibility," Ishikawa acknowledged.

Testimony On Food

Ishikawa, in charge of supplies for prison camps in Yamashita's 14th Army Group area, said an inspection he made of Bilibid, Santo Tomas and Fort McKinley prisons revealed that food supplies, "although diminishing, were the same as Japanese soldiers were receiving."

Earlier Maj. Gen. Goichi Kira had testified that Yamashita was greatly concerned over the food situation and "expressed the desire that internees and prisoners of war be taken care of properly."

M'Nutt Outlines 5 Top Filipino Problems

Manila, Nov. 24 (AP)—The seven-month chore of getting the Philippines on their economic feet and settling internal differences before their scheduled independence next July cannot be overemphasized either in importance or difficulty, United States Commissioner Paul V. McNutt said today.

Newly arrived, McNutt said in a three-hour press conference that the major problems were:

1. Economic rehabilitation and restoration of stable commerce, with the emphasis on industrialization of the islands.

2. Physical reconstruction of the war-battered areas.

Agrarian Unrest

3. Solution of Agrarian unrest, stemming largely from absentee landlordism.

4. Restoration of a stable currency, "an honest one," and elimination of inflation.

5. Punishment of collaborators and unification of dissident elements.

McNutt said the United States would keep its promise to grant the Philippines independence on schedule unless there was a clear demand for deferment on the part of the Filipino people.

To Confer With MacArthur

The commissioner, returning to a post he held before the war, plans to confer soon with General MacArthur and with Edwin M. Pauley, President Truman's personal representative on the Allied Reparations Commission.

McNutt said all Federal agencies which can give aid to the Philippines will be utilized under the commissioner's direction. He asserted that some enabling legislation may be necessary but that the bulk of the agencies such as the Federal Economic Administration and the Export-Import Bank can aid immediately.

He said it was not part of his program to recommend large monetary gifts to the Philippines but rather to aid in creating a "healthy economic climate" in the islands.

NIMITZ GIVES UP COMMAND

Turns Pacific Fleet Over To Spruance At Pearl Harbor

Pearl Harbor, Nov. 24 (AP)—Aboard the submarine Menhaden in these confined waters where the Japanese struck four years ago, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz transferred command of the United States Pacific Fleet today to Admiral Raymond A. Spruance.

Nimitz, the gray, grave Texan who took over the battered, crippled fleet not quite four years ago and saw it grow under his control into the world's most powerful sea force, will become chief of naval operations.

A veteran submariner, Nimitz chose to make the transfer of command aboard a submarine in the calm, sunlit blue waters which on December 7, 1941, were churned by enemy bombs and littered with the wreckage of American warships.

Quietly Dramatic Ceremony

It was a quietly dramatic 10-minute ceremony. Nimitz read his orders, spoke briefly in high praise of the men who had fought under him to victory and handed over the fleet to Spruance, who began the war as commander of Cruiser Division 5 and rose to command of all Allied naval forces in Japanese waters.

Witnesses were high army and navy officers, the white-uniformed crew of the Menhaden and curious sailors ashore who lined the rooftops and hung from windows of near-by buildings.

"Today," said Nimitz, "I take leave of the Pacific Fleet and turn over my command to Admiral Spruance, who has contributed so much to make this fleet the greatest fighting force in the history of naval warfare.

Setting Deemed Appropriate

"In hauling down my flag as commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet, it seems to me appropriate that I do this aboard a submarine at Pearl Harbor and that it is Spruance who is relieving me.

"It was in the submarine Grayling that my flag was hoisted when I took command of the fleet nearly four years ago; it was from Pearl Harbor that this fleet fought its way across the Pacific to victory. It was under the able and aggressive leadership of Admirals Halsey and Spruance that in several crucial actions the Japanese Navy was severely crippled."

Nimitz Congratulated By General MacArthur

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz today received congratulations from Gen. Douglas MacArthur on Nimitz's appointment as chief of naval operations.

"All your old comrades of the Southwest Pacific send you heartiest congratulations and best wishes," MacArthur messaged the Admiral.

In reply, Nimitz said:

"Many thanks for your kind congratulations. I wish you continued success in the occupation and demilitarization of Japan which you have already carried on so effectively. You can count on my continuing full support."

The Navy made the messages public.

Nimitz To Return To Frisco Monday

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 24 (AP)—Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, en route by plane to Honolulu today to relinquish his command of the Pacific Fleet "either today or tomorrow," said he would return to San Francisco Monday to further affirm his stand against unification of the nation's armed forces.

Nimitz's four-engined craft took off from the Oakland airport last night.

He said on his arrival here from Washington that he probably would pass over his command to Admiral Raymond Spruance aboard a submarine. It was on an undersea boat that he hoisted his flag when he became Pacific commander in chief.

Anti-Jewish Demonstration

Buenos Aires, Nov. 24 (AP)—A portion of the crowd attending a political rally for Col. Juan Peron, Argentina's strong man and presidential candidate, entered the Jewish quarter of Buenos Aires last night shouting anti-Jewish slogans. Some windows were broken and some shots were fired. No one was reported injured.

Spanish Liners to Dock Here

HAVANA, Nov. 24 (AP),—Garcia and Diaz, shipping agents for the Compania Transatlantica Espanola, announced today that steamships of the line will dock at New York instead of Philadelphia, as in the past. Among ships operated by the company are the Spanish passenger liners, the Marques de Comille and the Magallanes. Both have regular runs between Spain and the United States via Havana.

Keeping U. S. Fleet In Hawaii Retarded War, Asserts Welles

ACTED AS BRAKE ON AGGRESSION, COMMITTEE TOLD

Removal in 1940-41 Would Have Signaled Jap Move, Probers Informed.

PRESS FOR DETAILS

Pearl Harbor Committee Seeks Data on Roosevelt-Churchill Dealings.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—(AP) Sumner Welles, former undersecretary of state, expressed conviction today that keeping the American fleet in Hawaii during 1940-41 acted as a brake on Japanese aggression.

NIGHT

"If the fleet had been withdrawn from Hawaii the Japanese war lords would unquestionably have interpreted it as acquiesence in their policy of aggression," he testified to the congressional committee investigating the attack on Pearl Harbor.

In clipped tones, the tall, bald-ing former diplomat also gave unqualified endorsement to the statement presented to the committee by former Secretary of State Hull.

"I agree completely," he said.

In that statement, Hull had said that he and President Roosevelt did everything they could, short of surrendering principles, to avert or delay a conflict with Japan.

Churchill Urged Protests

In the unfolding of the diplomatic story of the events preceding the attack, the committee also learned that Prime Minister Churchill of Britain twice took the initiative in suggesting moves by this country.

The first was at the Atlantic charter meeting, held in August, 1941, aboard the U. S. cruiser Augusta off the New Foundland coast.

There, Churchill proposed that the United States and Britain each issue a warning to Japan against further aggression. President Roosevelt agreed and personally gave the warning to the Japanese ambassador on Aug. 17.

Mr. Roosevelt elected, however, to use somewhat milder language than his British friend had originally proposed.

Again, on Nov. 30, 1941, Churchill suggested in a message that the President tell the Japanese "that 'any further Japanese aggression would compel you to place the gravest issues before congress' or words to that effect."

No action in line with that suggestion was taken, so far as the record shows. Welles said he knew of no communication sent the Japanese between Nov. 30 and Dec. 7, 1941, except the President's message of Dec. 6 to Emperor Hirohito urging that peace be maintained.

The British also raised questions about the effect on China of a proposed temporary arrangement with Japan which never went into effect.

Welles was on the stand throughout the day with a standing room only crowd listening to his testimony in the Senate caucus room.

Chairman Barkley (D-Ky) raised the question of whether the fleet's presence in Hawaii had influenced Japan. He recalled that Admiral J. O. Richardson, then commander of the fleet, had testified that he protested to President Roosevelt on Oct. 8, 1940, against keeping it there.

Richardson said he argued the ships could be better prepared for war at West Coast bases but the President replied that he believed the presence of the fleet at Pearl Harbor would have a "restraining influence" on Japan.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) told Welles at one point that Senator Pepper (D-Fla) had been quoted as saying in a speech at Boston on Nov. 24, 1941, that the Navy had "drawn a line in the Pacific" and that if the Japanese crossed it there would be shooting.

"Was that true?" he asked.

"I know of no such arrangement," Welles replied.

Pepper is now in Europe and could not be reached for comment.

Regarded War Inevitable

Welles testified that as early as mid-September of 1941 he regarded war with Japan as "probably inevitable."

He told Congressional investigators of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor that in his opinion only "complete acquiesence" in Japan's policy of aggression could have forestalled hostilities. In fact, the Japanese proposals of Nov. 20, 1941, amounted to an "ultimatum," he said.

30.24 — 31867

Under question by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich), Welles said he did not know, however, what information and views were relayed by the State department to the War and Navy departments. Secretary of State Hull handled that, he said, but added an expression of belief that military and diplomatic phases of the Pacific situation were being coordinated.

Welles named former Postmaster General Frank Walker as one of the "Influential persons" with whom Japanese ambassadors Nomura and Kurusu were dealing in the critical days immediately before the war. He said, however, that the report as to Walker was only "hearsay" so far as he was concerned.

Earlier in the hearings, the committee had been given a copy of a dispatch from Nomura and Kurusu to Tokyo advising that they were talking with "influential" individuals behind their "frontal negotiations" with Hull and President Roosevelt.

They told Tokyo to keep it secret, not knowing that the United States had broken their code and a copy of their dispatch would be laid on Hull's desk the following morning.

"Did Walker ever confer with you?" Ferguson asked.

"Not at any time."

"Was there anyone else—did you ever hear the name of Jones—the Rev. Stanley Jones?"

"I never understood that he took part," Welles replied. Ferguson did not press that line of questioning and, to questioning reporters later, would identify Jones only as a "Methodist Bishop."

Hammers at Meeting

Ferguson hammered continuously at the disclosure that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill reached an understanding at their Atlantic charter meeting in the summer of 1941 that each nation would warn Japan they would act if the Japanese engaged in further aggression.

President Roosevelt gave such a warning to the Japanese ambassador on Aug. 17—the day he returned from the meeting with Churchill—but no public announcement of it was ever made, Ferguson developed in the questioning, until after Pearl Harbor.

In general, Ferguson's questioning on that point followed a line of contention that the August warning was, in effect, notice to Japan that war would result if she moved south of northern Indo-China; that on Dec. 6, 1941, the United States was advised that Japan was moving southward and hence American officials should have recognized that war was at hand.

Welles asserted, however, that the August warning had told the Japanese only that the United States would "take such steps as we might regard as necessary for our safety."

The committee was given a first draft, prepared by the British, of proposed "parallel communications" declaring:

"1. Any further encroachment by Japan in the Southwest Pacific would produce a situation in which the U. S. government would be compelled to take counter measures even though these might lead to war between the U. S. and Japan.

"2. If any third power becomes the object of aggression by Japan in consequence of such counter measures or of their support of them, the President would have the intention to seek authority from Congress to give aid to such power.

Welles testified the actual United States communication to the Japanese was not in as strong language as that. He said he returned from the Atlantic charter meeting on Aug. 15 and prepared a proposed draft for Mr. Roosevelt which was "watered down" before presentation.

Ferguson also pressed questions as to whether President Roosevelt had made an agreement with the British and the Dutch that th's country would fight if Japan attacked territory of one of the others.

Welles Denies Knowledge

Welles repeatedly said he knew of no such agreement.

In raising this question, Ferguson brought out a photographed copy of the New York Times of Jan. 27, 1942. A dispatch from London quoted Churchill as telling Commons he had been assured at the Atlantic Charter meeting that the United States, even if not attacked itself, would come into any war involving Britain in the Far East.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill) asked for the original of the speech and committee attaches said they would try to get the British equivalent of the Congressional Record for the official version.

Ferguson read from what he said was testimony by Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, to an Army Pearl Harbor inquiry board on Oct. 22, 1944.

Marshall was quoted as saying the United States, British and Dutch military forces had agreed that joint military action should be taken only in event Japan attacked territory of one of the three, Thailand, Timor, New Caledonia, the Loyalty islands, or moved south of 10 degrees north or west of 100 degrees east.

"Are you familiar with that agreement?" Ferguson asked.

Welles said he knew nothing of it.

"How could you carry on your duties as acting secretary of state without such information?" Ferguson demanded, alluding to Welles' acting as secretary in 1941 when Hull was ill.

On such occasions, Welles said, he only acted as "the mouthpiece" for Hull or the President.

With Welles on the stand, committee counsel put into the record a message from Churchill to President Roosevelt on Nov. 30, 1941, suggesting that Mr. Roosevelt make "a plain declaration, secret or public," to Japan that further aggression would "lead immediately to the gravest consequences."

"I realize your constitutional difficulties," it said, "but it would be tragic if Japan drifted into war by encroachment without having before her fairly and squarely the dire character of a further aggressive step. I beg you to consider whether, at the moment which you judge right which may be very near, you should not say that 'any further Japanese aggression would compel you to place the gravest issues before Congress' or words to that effect. We would, of course, make a similar declaration or share in a joint declaration, and in any case arrangements are being made to synchronize our action with yours. Forgive me, my dear friend, for presuming to press such a course upon you, but I am convinced that it might make all the difference and prevent a melancholy extension of the war."

The communication was marked "personal and secret for the President from former naval person."

It developed that "former naval person" was the usual designation the President put on his dispatches, sent via State department channels, to the British prime minister.

Churchill is a former First Lord of the Admiralty.

So reported Joseph C. Grew, then Ambassador, in a November 17, 1941, telegram to Washington that was placed in the records of the Senate - House investigating committee.

Grew spoke of the probability that the Japanese in extending their conflict "would exploit all available tactical advantages, including thos of initiative and surprise." But he cautioned against expecting persons on the embassy staff to get out an advance word of warning. The message said:

"We fully realize that possibly our most important duty at this time is to watch for premonitory indications of military or naval operations which might be forthcoming against such areas, and we are taking every precaution to guard against surprise.

"However, our field of military and naval observations is almost literally restricted to what can be seen with our own eyes, which is negligible."

Secrecy Foiled U.S. In Tokyo Before War

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Japanese had such tight control over military information for weeks before Pearl Harbor that American envoys could obtain virtually no inkling of what was going on.

Congress May Name Body On Pearl Harbor Claims

Would Handle Citizens' Suits for Indemnity From Japan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP).—The State Department plans to ask Congress to create a new commission to pass on claims of American citizens for indemnity from Japan for the killing of service-men relatives and destruction of property at Pearl Harbor, Senator Eugene D. Milliken, Republican, of Colorado, said today.

Claims of citizens for such indemnity can be filed now with the State Department, the Senator told a reporter. They will be turned over to the commission if it is created.

Senator Milliken explained that a movement has been initiated in Denver by a group of leading citizens to secure indemnities on the ground the attack was a criminal and not a legitimate act of war.

The Senator conferred yesterday with State Department legal advisers and was told this procedure would be followed:

The United States and its allies will make a claim against the Japanese government for reparations. The reparations then will be divided among the Allied nations under an agreement to be reached later.

When the United States' share is ascertained, the State Department will ask Congress to set up the commission to pass on the individual claims, and to establish priorities for their payments, Senator Milliken said.

Charter-Change Plan Discussed By Senators

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Senators discussed today the possibility of revising the United Nations Charter to meet the changed conditions of the atomic age.

The Senate on Monday will begin debating legislation designed to give life to this nation's commitment as a member of the peace-preserving organization.

Would Limit Armaments

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) wants to instruct the United States representative on the Security Council to urge immediate action on the limitation of armaments and the use of such weapons as the atomic bomb, poison gas, and rockets.

Senator Hatch (D., N.M.) told the Senate yesterday that the Charter should be amended to eliminate the veto power of the Big Five—the United States, Russia, Great Britain, France and China.

Hatch also said the General Assembly of all the United Nations should be given legislative authority.

Offered As Amendment

Taft offered his proposal as one of several amendments to the United Nations implementing legislation. Their general effect, if adopted, would be to emphasize the role of Congress in validating United States commitments.

There was no immediate indication whether Hatch would propose any amendments to the bill, whose approval up to yesterday had been expected with very little debate and no changes.

Senator Fulbright (D., Ark.) also called for changes in the Charter and criticized the Administration conduct of foreign relations. He said that a good starting point on the Charter would be the establishment of machinery to control armaments, including the atomic bomb.

Offers Suggestions

In a broadcast last night Fulbright asserted that such a provision, coupled with abolition of the veto and delegation of rulemaking powers to the UNO, would "go far toawrd . . . the creation of rules of conduct applicable to all peoples."

Fulbright complained that the Government's foreign policy is being "improvised on the spur of the moment" with apparently "no plan of action, no principles or convictions to guide us." Such methods, he asserted, "can lead only to disaster."

"We have a choice between two policies, armed might and imperialism on the one hand or rules of law enforceable by the United Nations on the other," he said.

Would Restrict Sovereignty

Fulbright contended that the Government's efforts should be bent toward the restriction of national sovereignty and expansion of international laws. He added, however, that he had been unable to find any such policy underlying Government actions.

"On the contrary," he said, "many of the statements of the Government have directly the opposite effect. At this critical time in history . . . we are dangerously irresolute and beset by contraditions. hTe Senate formally disavowed isolationism in August and the President professes a faith in the United Nations, but his actions and statements are not designed to give life or vitality to that organization."

RIOS APPROVES URUGUAY PLAN

Spanish Exile Government Official Talks On Intervention

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Foreign Minister Fernando de los Rios said today the Spanish Republican Government set up in Mexico wants the intervention policy Uruguay proposes for America to be applied to Franco Spain.

The Republican Government was established by Spaniards in exile.

De los Rios said in a statement that it subscribes entirely to what Uruguayan Foreign Minister Rodriguez Larreta has said in a note to the United States State Department:

"Non-intervention must be used on the basis" that it is not a shield behind which crimes may be perpetrated, law may be violated, agents and forces of the Axis may be sheltered, and binding obligations may be circumvented."

Exceptions To Policy

The Uruguayan official proposed that exceptions to the American policy of non-intervention in the internal affairs of other countries be approved when needed to regain peoples' fundamental rights or to obtain compliance with international commitments.

De Los Rios declared that the proposal will have "enormous repercussions in the future development of international ideas in Hispano-America." To a news conference he added that the policy applying to Argentina must be applied also against the Franco regime in Spain.

De Los Rios said th eRepublican Government believed it would be "easy" to change the régime in Spain and by peaceful means."

Attlee And Jackson

De Los Rios remarked that Prime Minister Attlee of Britain and Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson had said that moral principles are to be considered as basic principles for international order and moral laws as laws. The same ideals were expressed from the Atlantic Charter to the Potsdam declaration, he added.

"We believe," he said, "that the first assembly of the United Nations Organizations in January will be teh propitious moment to implement these principles and declarations with positive resolutions."

The United Nations Organization will be a failure, the Foreign Minister said, if it cannot force free election in Spain.

AGREEMENT EXPECTED ON LOAN TO BRITAIN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—There were strong indications today that the long Anglo-American financial discussions would end next week with an agreement satisfactory to both sides.

It was learned that some members of the British delegation had obtained reservations on the Queen Mary which leaves Friday.

Unless there is an unexpected rebuff from the Labor Cabinet, some American and British officials say they will not be surprised if an agreement is signed by the middle of next week. An offer has been referred to London.

Amrican and British informants have indicated that it will offer to Britain a $3,500,000,000 loan at 2 per cent interest and about an additional $500,000,000 to wind up Britain's lend-lease account.

Such an arrangement would represent a compromise. British delegates first sought aid at no interest charge, then at less than one per cent and finally asked $2,000,000,000 at 2 per cent and a similar amount interest free.

Oil Industry Backs U.S.-British Pact

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—A Petroleum Association general counsel said today the "preponderance of sentiment" in the oil industry appears to favor Senate ratification of the present Anglo-American oil agreement.

Russell Brown, counsel for the Independent Petroleum Association of America, said in a statement the treaty has been indorsed by his organization, the Petroleum Industry War Council and the American Petroleum Institute.

"Little opposition has been raised in the correspondence that has come to me; such objection as appeared was founded on erroneous interpretation of the wording of the agreement," the statement said.

1,000 Former Agents Of Nazis Listed In Spain

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—State Department officials said today that investigation of a list of 9,000 Germans living in Spain showed that at least 1,000 are former Nazi agents.

The list is still being checked, these officials said in response to a query. They also disclosed that a mass of German documents found in the Reich are being translated and analyzed to ferret out details on the extent to which the Franco Government in Spain collaborated with the Axis.

One official said that the documents, amounting to thousands of pages, "merely underlines the notorious fact that Franco collaborated with the Axis."

Flow Of War Prisoners To France Is Resumed

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The War Department tonight announced that German war prisoners again were being sent to France from American occupational zones in Germany for use as labor.

The transfers were halted several weeks ago after reports that the prisoners were not treated in accordance with international conventions.

6 Million Outlay Approved for Guam

Washington, Nov. 24 (A. P.).—Authorization for expenditure of $6,000,000 for civilian reconstruction on Guam was approved late yesterday by the Senate.

The bill, permitting expenditure of the sum for construction of "such permanent facilities for the civil population of Guam as the Secretary of the Navy may deem necessary for their economic rehabilitation," now goes to the House.

Jap War Claims Commission Urged

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—The State Department plans to ask Congres to create a new commission to pass on claims of American citizens for indemnity from Japan for the killing of service men, relatives and destruction of property at Ueark Harbor, Senator Milliken (R., Col.) said today.

Claims of citizens for such indemnity can be filed now with the State Department, the Senator told a reporter. They will be turned over to the commission if it is created.

Milliken explained a movement has been initiated by a group to secure indemnities on the ground the attack was a criminal and not a legitimate act of war.

Surplus Of Rubber Forecast For World Within Few Years

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Tire-hungry motorists take note—the world now faces a huge rubber surplus for the next two or three years.

This is the conclusion of an international "rubber study group" of American, British, French and Dutch experts. They have concluded a meeting in London, and their report was released simultaneously here and there.

It contains no recommendations for production controls among the nations which produce natural and synthetic rubber, so that the way apparently is left open for intense competition on a cost basis between the manufacturers of synthetic rubber in this country and the producers of natural rubber in the Malaya-Dutch Indies area.

Developments Expected

Some experts believe and the rubber study group implies that this may lead to the development of a great variety of new uses for rubber and new production of rubber articles in the near future.

The international experts summed up the world's rubber situation this way:

United States capacity to produce synthetic rubber stands at 1,055,000 tons a year out of a total maximum world capacity of 1,400,000 tons.

Natural rubber output in the Far East in 1946 may reach 600,000 tons, and the eventual natural rubber production if needed may rise to a total of 1,500,000 tons.

Thus the world faces a total potential rubber production of 2,700,000 to 2,800,000 tons a year, although actual production will be much more in line with requirements. By contrast, the maximum rubber requirements of the next few years for the whole world are estimated at possibly 1,500,000 tons annually.

The study groups say that some rubber users would prefer the natural product because of its special qualities, and others would prefer synthetic. Between these extremes, many users may be able to employ either kind of rubber and will determine their preference on the basis of cost.

Production Costs

The present selling price of synthetic rubber in this country is 18½ cents a pound, and the experts say that more than covers the manufacturing cost. No estimate is given of the probable future production costs of natural rubber in the Far East.

Of the natural product, the report said that Far Eastern stocks were between 200,000 and 300,000 tons at the time of liberation of the producing areas, but it is uncertain how much of this will be exported to the rest of the world immediately. Natural rubber deliveries to industrial countries of the world may reach approximately 600,000 tons next year, it was said.

STRATTON TAKES NEW POST

General Succeeds Goethals as Army Civil Works Head

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP) Brig. Gen. James H. Stratton became today the new director of Civil Works in the Office of the Chief of Army Engineers. He succeeds Col. George R. Goethals, son of the builder of the Panama Canal, who retired for a second time.

The Army Civil Works program involves building dams, reservoirs, docks and piers, dredging harbors and other projects to improve navigable waters or control floods.

General Stratton, a native of Stonington, Conn., wears the Legion of Merit for his work as Chief of Operations at headquarters of the Services of Supply in the European Theatre during the war.

Admiral Wagner Gets New Air Post

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Rear Admiral Frank D. Wagner, a native of Pottstown, Pa., will take over in the near future as chief of naval air training at Jacksonville, Fla., the Navy has announced.

Wagner will be transferred from Glenview, Ill., where he has been chief of naval air reserve training.

Now 52, Wagner was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1915. He was on North Atlantic escort duty in the first World War, and in 1921 he began his career in aviation. At the outbreak of the last war he commanded aircraft of the Asiatic Fleet. He headed the famous Patrol Wing 10 in the Philippines.

He was called to assignments on the mainland and in April, 1944, became commander of a carrier division of the Pacific Fleet. In July he was named commander of the air force of the 7th Fleet, which based all the way from Brisbane, Australia, to the Philippines as the campaign advanced.

Truman To Present D.S.M. To Marshall

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—President Truman will present the Distinguished Service Medal to Gen. George C. Marshall in a ceremony in the courtyard of the Pentagon Building on Monday.

The War Department said today that at that time Marshall will pay his respects to the Army, of which he has been chief of staff throughout the war. The White House said Mr. Truman will read a citation and possibly add a few informal remarks.

Marshall has left the office and will go on inactive status and leave army life within the near future.

His successor, nominated but still to be confirmed by the Senate, is Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who is ill in a hospital at White Sulphur Springs, W.Va. The deputy chief of staff, Gen. Thomas T. Handy, is carrying on the duties of the office until Eisenhower takes over.

Col. Rex Smith Cited For Legion of Merit

Washington, Nov. 24.—Col. Rex Smith, formerly chief of the public relations of the Air Transport Command and now director of public relations of American Airlines, yesterday received a citation for the Legion of Merit. The citation was made by Lieut.-Gen. Harold L. George, commanding general of the Air Transport Command.

Infantry To Hold Place In War, Patterson Says

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Robert P. Patterson, Secretary of War, predicts that the infantry "will be as essential in war in the future as they have been in the past."

Patterson, who commanded an infantry rifle company in World War I, gave his ideas in a letter the Infantry Journal will publish tomorrow.

"Even with the atomic bomb and the great panoply of ingenious weapons we have or will have," Patterson wrote, "the soldier of the infantry will still be the backbone of the army, the man who takes and holds the ground."

Tyding's Measure

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Senator Tydings (D., Md.) has introduced a bill providing for national elections in the Philippines not later than April 30, 1946, and a sesion of the National Legislature not later than May 28, 1946.

Service Academy Bill Is Approved

Washington, Nov. 24 (A. P.).—President Truman today signed bills providing for military or naval academy appointments for the sons of service men who were awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor or who died in action. Such appointments will be subject to the applicant's ability to meet the West Point or Annapolis requirements. Youths entering the academies under provisions of the legislation would not be charged against existing admission quotas of the various States, which are based on congressional representation.

Los Alamos Group Asks Exchange Of Scientists

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Los Alamos scientists, an organization of experts who worked on the atomic bomb, said today they were eager to co-operate with a proposed United Nations atomic bomb commission.

President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee of Britain, and Prime Minister King of Canada have proposed that control of the bomb be turned over eventually to such a commission.

The Los Alamos scientists said in a statement that the commission "might well devote its attention first to the wide exchange of scientists and scientific information," which should do much "to create the atmosphere of mutual confidence which is necessary for successful international co-operation."

Atom Bombing, In One Brief Lesson

Los Alamos, N.M., Nov. 24 (AP)—The Association of Los Alamos Atomic Bomb Laboratory Scientists held a meeting of nontechnical workers to give them an idea of the fundamentals of the secret project.

This was the process as explained by the scientists:

"Take some fissionable matter in several pieces as pure as possible and slap them together as quickly as possible."

783,000 More To Be Eligible For Release By Drop In Points

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—The job of demobilizing America's huge World War II army of 8,300,000 is expected to be half-way complete by mid-December, soon after another drop in discharge points becomes effective.

Effective December 1, changes in the point system will make an additional 783,000 men and women eligible to return to civilian life.

The latest War Department figures show that from May 12 through November 16 a total of 3,114,000 had been released. About 287,000 are being discharged every week.

On the basis of the present discharge rate and the accelerated rate in December, at least half of the Army should be out of uniform by mid-December, or seven months after V-E day.

Officers' Discharge Score

On December 1 the discharge score for all male officers, except those in the medical department, will drop from 75 to 73. Officers also can be released if they have four years and three months of honorable service. Likewise they can leave the Army if they have reached the age of 50 years.

The present discharge score for doctors, dentists and veterinary corps members is 80 points, and for medical administrators and sanitary corps members 70 points, but army rumor has it that these scores will be lowered during December.

On December 1 all married members of the Women's Army Corps, both officers and enlisted women, who enlisted prior to May 12, 1945, will be eligible for discharge. Prior to this time only WAC'S married to discharged members of the military forces are being released.

For WAC Enlisted Personnel

The release point score for WAC officers continues at 37 but for the enlisted personnel it drops from 34 to 32.

The point score for enlisted men on December 1 will drop 5 points to 55. Also they will be eligible for release if they have four years of honorable military service or have three or more dependent children under 18 years of age.

Also previous factors for discharge of enlisted men continue in effect. Under these an enlisted man can get out if he is 35 years of age and has two years of service. If he is 38 he can get out regardless of the length of service. Returned overseas veterans with 50 points, if declared surplus, will be discharged when they return from furloughs.

Prisoners Of War

Prisoners of war for 60 days were declared eligible for discharge November 7.

WAC officers can be discharged if they have reached 40 years of age. Enlisted women who are 35 and have tyo years' service are eligible. Discharge without regard to length of service is automatic at age 38.

The Air Forces have authorized release of enlisted men within the continental United States if they are declared surplus and if they have two years' service and 50 points. Enlisted WAC's, declared surplus, will be released by the Air Corps if they have 25 points and one year of service in the United States.

Air Force Specialists

The Air Forces have declared surplus pilots, navigators and bombardiers and certain other crew specialists, such as radar equipment observers on B-29's, with 44 points and two years' duty in the United States.

So far there is no change for women officer members of the medical departments. The discharge score for nurses is 35 points and for dietitians and physical-therapy aides 40 points. Nurses can get out if they are 35 years of age and the other two classifications if they are 40. Marriage to discharged members of the military forces, and dependent children under 14, are grounds for release.

32,856 VETERANS' LOANS

$130,000,000 Already Lent for Buying Homes, Businesses

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—War veterans have received 32,856 loans totaling more than $130,000,000 to buy homes, farms and small businesses under the G. I. Bill of Rights.

The Veterans Administration said in a statement today that nearly 30,000 of the loans were for homes. It guarantees repayment of $50,000,000 of the $130,000,000 total.

The agency said that it had saved veterans about $385,000 through renegotiation of sale prices on homes. In those cases original propositions were turned down on the ground that properties were priced above "reasonable normal value."

Ban On Overseas Yule Greetings Off This Season

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Soldiers, sailors and the folks back home can exchange cable and radio holiday greetings this year without restrictions.

The War and Navy Departments announced today the flat ban on holiday messages, imposed last year after two previous years of message rationing, has been ended and plans made to handle a heavy volume of good cheer.

Messages should be filed not later than December 18 and care taken to give the full name, rank, organization, location and APO number. Greetings are selected from the form offerings contained in the "expeditionary force message blanks," available at telegraph and radio offices.

AAF PLANS TO CUT SEPARATION BASES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—(AP) The number of Army Air Force separation bases will be cut from 35 to 20 by Dec. 5.

Brig. Gen. Charles F. Born of the Continental Air Forces said today the move is designed to concentrate more separations activities in the heavily populated northeast—without reducing the daily discharge rate.

Sixteen bases will cease handling separations. However, one, Drew Field at Tampa, Fla., will be replaced by a new separations base, McDill Field, also at Tampa.

Necessary separations personnel will be transferred to the 20 remaining bases to enable the AAF to maintain its capacity of 10,000 discharges daily.

OPA Launches Drive To Hold Down Prices

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—OPA launched an intensified drive today to keep food prices in check as meat, butter and all other red-point products came off the ration list.

George Moncharsh, chief of OPA's enforcement department, predicted it would be a "somewhat more difficult" job to hold prices now that rationing has ended.

He said, however, that OPA is "all set" to crack down on any violators of price ceilings.

Staff Enlarged

Investigators already have been transferred from other OPA price programs to augment the regular staff assigned to see that ceilings on meats and fats are observed.

Moncharsh said OPA expects the job to be toughest in areas remote from meat, butter and other food-production centers.

"Under rationing," he explained, "points were set to assure even distribution. This helped to ease the pressure on prices.

East Is Shortage Area

"Now that rationing is out we have to guard against any bidding up of prices to obtain supplies in potential shortage areas."

The East, particularly New York, where meat consumption is high, is an example of such an area, Moncharsh said.

The biggest task, the enforcement chief added, will be policing prices for pork, butter, margarine, lard, shortening and salad and cooking oils, since supplies of these products are expected to remain short of demand for a while.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, in announcing the termination of the red-point rationing program yesterday, said it would not be practical to keep points on these foods and free only beef, veal, lamb and canned fish.

Anderson said this would require establishment of a new rationing program and that OPA was not prepared to undertake such a job.

Meat Supply "Adequate"

The Secretary estimated that the over-all supply of meats is adequate to assure consumption next month at the annual rate of 165 pounds per capita. Last spring and summer the rate was down to around 100 pounds, while the 1935-39 prewar average was about 127 pounds.

As for butter and other fats and oils, they'll be available in December at the yearly rate of 50 pounds per capita, only 2 pounds more than before the war.

Sugar Rationing To Last

Sugar, the only food still rationed, may stay on the list for some time. Anderson said yesterday there is no immediate prospect of terminating the program. Earlier he had stated sugar might have to be rationed through 1946.

Foreign requirements for meats and fats from this country will in no way be affected by discontinuance of red-point rationing, Anderson explained.

He said the "maximum amount of food" promised by President Truman would be shipped "to help relieve distress and prevent starvation in devastated countries. . . ."

Abolish OPA, Schwabe Says

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Representative Schwabe (R., Mo.) wants President Truman to abolish the Office of Price Administration immediately.

In a letter to the President, Schwabe declared that OPA has become a "profit regulating" agency instead of a price regulating authority as was intended by Congress when it created the bureau.

"If the nation is to remain solvent, the budget balanced and the national debt paid off the revenue must be from profits," he said. "It cannot be done if OPA puts a lid on profits."

"We must release the wheels of industry," he said. "We are in a strait jacket now."

Schwabe asserted the OPA is "retarding speedy reconversion."

National Figures

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP).—Individuals so far have purchased $2,916,000,000 in Victory bonds, or 72 per cent of the $4,000,000,000 quota for individual purchasers, the Treasury said today.

Ted R. Gamble, national director of the Treasury's war financing division, reported that $770,000,000 of the total sales to individuals is in E bonds, the total E bond purchase goal is $2,000,000,000.

Only 40 per cent of the income-earnings public, Gamble said in a statement, however, has purchased Victory bonds.

"This shows good progress on the part of our volunteer workers throughout the nation," he commented, "but, as those volunteers know, the remaining 60 per cent of the income earners of the country must buy bonds if the $2,000,000,000 E bond objective is to be reached."

MOSHER ASKS LABOR CHANGE

Conference Success Depends On New Attitude, He Says

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said today labor delegates must change their position on fundamental issues if the labor-management conference is to achieve major results.

Mosher, a management delegate at the three-week-old gathering called by President Truman, said that unless labor spokesmen change their viewpoint "there is little hope" that the conference "can do more than deal with some of the less important causes of labor unrest."

Mosher Lists Five Points

With sessions to be resumed Monday after a Thanksgiving recess, Mosher in a statement recommended that the conference renew efforts to reach quick agreements on these five points:

1. The strengthening and improvement of collective-bargaining practices.

2. Reducing the number of disputes resulting from "attempted invasions of the legitimate functions of management."

3. Ending jurisdictional strikes.

4. Providing for voluntary arbitration in disputes over interpretation of agreements.

5. Providing for impartial fact-finding "when disputes threaten the public health and safety."

Mosher asserted that the conference thus far has failed to do the job for which the President set it up.

Big Issues Declared Ahead

Although agreement has been reached on a number of minor problems Mosher said, the big issues still must be faced.

"Little progress has been made as yet," he observed, "in regard to certain fundamental issues that must be resolved if we hope to accomplish results expected by the President, who invited us here. . . .

"Labor, so far, has refused to agree fully to substitute orderly procedures for its unlimited 'right to strike' at any time and under any circumstances, or to accept equal status with management under the laws of the land," Mosher continued.

"The President asked us to build a broad and permanent foundation for industrial peace.

"Bed-Rock" Pledges Sought

"In my opinion, such a 'foundation' must be built on the bed-rock of management's pledge to forego lock-outs and unfair labor practices; on labor's willingness to forego strikes, boycotts, slow-downs and work stoppages until every means for a peaceful settlement of disputes has been exhausted; and on the acceptance of both labor and management of responsibilities under the law commensurate with their respective privileges.

"Management is ready to give this pledge and accept all its responsibilities. . . . Unless labor is willing to agree . . . there is little hope that this conference can do more than deal with some of the less important causes of labor unrest."

Labor Department Plans

Labor Department conciliators, meanwhile, laid plans for important meetings here next week with representatives of the strike-bound General Motors Corporation, and the CIO United Auto Workers union. The union demands and the company has rejected a 30-per-cent wage increase.

Also in the offing is the probability that department mediators will become involved next week in efforts to settle the strike of Illinois telephone workers over demands for a $6-a-day wage increase.

Montgomery Ward Situation

Although Conciliation Service officials said they have heard nothing officially, it is reported that Government intervention will be sought in an effort to avert a scheduled week-long strike of 75,000 Montgomery Ward employés beginning Monday.

The National Labor Relations Board meanwhile dismissed protests by 75 steel companies against a strike vote called in 766 steel, iron and aluminum plants next Wednesday. The vote would involve some 600,000 CIO United Steelworkers who are seeking a $2 daily increase in pay.

The NLRB turned down the companies' protest on the basis of statements from the unions that a dispute actually exists at the plants involved.

U. S. Relief for Strikers Is Called Up to the States

Social Security Board Cites Rule on Use of Funds

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP).—Social Security Board officials said today there can be no single, clear-cut answer to the question: Can auto workers, on strike in various states, draw unemployment pay?

Employers, but generally not workers, have to pay a certain percentage of their pay rolls into the unemployment fund. The money is handled by the government. But in distributing the money to the unemployed each of the forty-eight states makes its own decision on who is entitled to receive unemployment pay.

A. J. Altmeyer, chairman of the Social Security Board, has said: "With the exception of five states (New York, Tennessee, Louisiana, Rhode Island and Pennsylvania) employees participating in strikes are not entitled to benefits."

In those five states strikers are disqualified from receiving pay for a longer period of time than a person who has lost employment through no cause of his own.

This was the explanation given at the board for being unable to say specifically what states would or might not give unemployment pay to the United Auto Workers who are striking against General Motors:

Because decisions vary by states and the decisions even within a state change from situation to situation, it is not possible to say what the various states will do in the case of the striking auto workers.

U.A.W. MAY SEEK TO WIN SUPPORT OF SECOND UNION

Cooperation of Tool, Die Workers May Be Asked by Strikers.

IDLE RANKS GROW

Eventual Halt of All Auto Production Seen if Stoppage Continues.

DETROIT, Nov. 24 — (AP) Cooperation of tool and die workers may be sought by the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers union in the strike against General Motors Corp. union sources indicated today.

At the same time a spokesman for automotive parts makers asserted the strike which already has idled close to 200,000 workers in 51 cities will result in early lay-off of 100,000 parts industry employes and eventually halt all automobile production.

The U. A. W.- C. I. C. demanding a 30 per cent wage rate increase within General Motors' present price structure, has announced acceptance of an invitation to meet in Washington with Labor Secretary Schwellenbach.

Invitation is Awaited

A spokesman for General Motors, which yesterday rejected a union arbitration proposal, said no invitation had been received from the Labor Secretary. Until it has been received, he added, there would be no management comment on the proposed conferences in Washington.

Walter P. Reuther, U. A. W.-C. I. O. vice-president, in a prepared statement today asserted that "General Motors has committed itself to industrial war all along the industrial front."

"America's postwar problem," the statement said, "is not production; it is maintenance of purchasing power so that the American people can buy back the abundance they can produce."

Reuther said the union on Monday would suggest to GM that the wage negotiations be resumed while the strike was in progress.

Asked at a news conference why the union's arbitration proposal had included stipulations that the management's books should be opened to the union, Reuther said:

"That's an accepted procedure of bargaining."

The union, Reuther added, did not plan to make another arbitration offer without the provisions.

Offer called "Demand"

General Motors in spurning the proposal described it as "not an offer of arbitration but a demand for abdication," and "so unsound, unfair and unreasonable as to insure its rejection."

The proposal to seek cooperation of tool and die workers, union sources said, did not necessarily mean a strike among such workers, but rather an agreement on their part to refuse to work on material for General Motors. Reuther said the plan had been considered by the union strategy committee, but had been "taken under advisement." A meeting of the U. A. W.-C. I. O. Tool and Die Workers local here wil discuss the plan further next Tuesday night.

"You will see in this strike," Reuther asserted, "the greatest demonstration of labor's solidarity ever seen in this country."

Frank Rising, general manager of the Automotive and Aviation Parts Manufacturers' association, asserted in a statement that the parts industry would have to lay off thousands of workers soon because of the loss of GM business.

Seen Part of Strategy

This brought from Reuther a comment that "If these parts companies deliberately shut down their plants they'll have to answer for their conduct," He added:

"This may be part of General Motors' strategy."

There were no reports of disorder today as pickets continued to march at most of the closed plants. The lines will be enlarged next week, union spokesmen said, adding that by Monday the total number of GM employes out of work probably will reach 248,000, including 175,000 strikers and 73,000 salaried employes kept from their posts by the pickets.

A company spokesman commenting on Reuther's statement that the closing of parts manufacturing plants might be part of General Motors strategy, remarked:

"That's too ridiculous to comment on."

He added that there would be no comment on other statements at Reuther's news conference.

The same spokesman asserted that even had there been no strike against GM at this time the corporation's production next week would have been curtailed sharply because of strikes in the glass industry.

FORD ASKS UNION FOR GUARANTIES

Detroit, Nov. 24 (A. P.).—The Ford Motor Company called upon the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers today to assume financial responsibility for unauthorized work stoppages in a proposed new contract.

Pursuing their demand for what they term company security, the firm's negotiators asserted that experience had shown that more than pledges were needed to halt strikes and slowdowns.

"The union could make labor history, particularly at this time when the public is crying for responsible labor leadership, by agreeing to such a proposal," the company said.

Today's session, the second between the Ford company and the U. A. W.-C. I. O., was taken up entirely with a discussion of the company demand. The firm notified the union two weeks ago that it intended to press for some form of company security in the new contract.

75 Steel Plants Lose Protest On Strike Vote

N. R. L. B. Bases Decision on Reply by Union; Poll Is Set for Wednesday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP).—The National Labor Relations Board dismissed today protests of seventy-five steel producing and fabricating companies against a strike vote planned by the Congress of Industrial Organizations Steel Workers Union next Wednesday.

Each of the companies had contended that no dispute existed in their plants. The Labor Board ordered the union to show grounds for the strike vote and, on the basis of the union's reply, the company protests were denied.

The C. I. O. has called for a vote in 766 steel, iron and aluminum plants to support demands for a $2-daily increase in pay.

Among the firms involved are the Allegheny-Ludlum Steel Corporation, Brackenridge, Pa.; Inland Steel Corporation, Chicago; International Nickel Company, Huntington, W. Va.; Molybdenum Corporation of America, Washington, Pa., the American Can Company, New Castle, Pa., and Blaw Knox Company, Pittsburgh.

A.F.L. Suspends Machinists, Its Giant Affiliate

750,000-Man Union Ousted in Jurisdictional Dispute Over Per Capita Levies

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP).—A jurisdictional row in the American Federation of Labor has culminated in suspension of the organization's biggest affiliate, the International Association of Machinists.

The action was taken under an A. F. of L. constitutional provision for automatic suspension for delinquency in per capita tax payments. An aid of William Green, A. F. of L. president, said he had sent notices of the suspension to all A. F. of L. affiliates.

Harvey W. Brown, I. A. M. president, said the suspension "came as no surprise" to his group's 750,000 members.

"For seven and a half years the jurisdiction of the machinists' union has been made a football for those who control the policies of the federation," Mr. Brown said in a statement at Chicago.

"For a number of years the A. F. of L. council has pursued a policy directed toward the dismemberment of the machinists' trade," he said, and "has forced thousands of machinists to carry two union cards, one belonging to a union which serves no function in their trade."

Mr. Brown said the I. A. M. has withheld a year's per capita tax payments, amounting to $100,000, in waiting for "the day that the A. F. of L. council will agree to give the I. A. M. the same treatment . . . accorded all other affiliates."

TOLEDO PARTS PLANT CLOSES INDEFINITELY

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Toledo Steel Products Company manufacturing division is "unable to operate profitably" and, for "economic reasons," has shut down for an indefinite period.

The firm, employing 400 persons, produced automotive engine valves.

The company, after a meeting with union officials, announced that it had no plans for resuming production.

A company spokesman, who said "the decision was based solely on economic reasons" and who cited the firm's inability to operate at a profit, declared the General Motors strike had no bearing on the situation.

Production employes had not worked since Nov. 13, but voted Tuesday to end their strike. They delayed returning to work until after the meeting yesterday.

The strike had been called after the union said the firm had treated unfairly returned war veterans. Company officials said the workers struck after two men were dismissed for fighting in the plant.

The Toledo Steel Products Company is a subsidiary of Thompson Products, Inc., Cleveland, maker of automotive and aircraft parts, which issued an appeal to its employes Wednesday for more efficient production, saying that it was operating "at tremendous loss."

ILLINOIS PHONE STRIKE ENDED

Six-Day Stoppage Of 8,700 Threatened To Spread

Chicago, Nov. 24 (AP)—The six-day strike of 8,00 Illinois telephone operators ended tonight, averting a possible nationwide walkout of 250,000 telephone workers and restoring outside service with Chicago and 115 other Illinois communities and Lake and Porter counties in Indiana.

Announcement of the settlement was made by United States Conciliator W. G. Murray following a conference with officials of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company and representatives of the Illinois Telephone Traffic Union (Ind.).

Service was restored at 6.10 P.M., Murray said.

Both Accept Recommendation

Murray said the union and company agreed to accept a WLB Telephone Commission recommendation of a $4 weekly wage increase, retroactive to last May 9.

In addition, he said, the company agreed to open negotiations "as soon as the union desires" for new wage scales, and to grant an additional non-retroactive wage boost of $2 weekly, effective "not later than February 1, 1946."

The conciliator's report stated that the union agreed to end the strike immediately, dismiss picket lines, direct workers to return and prevent "disciplinary action against any union member who may have crossed picket lines."

Murray's statement said the company agreed to "take no punitive or prejudicial action against any employé who refused to work during the walkout."

$2 Difference Is One Issue

At issue in the dispute was a $2 difference between a War Labor Board recommendation and the union demands. The WLB telephone panel recommended a $4 weekly increase, retroactive to May 9, which was agreed to by the company. The union is demanding $6 leading to a top of $38 in five years instead of the present top of $32 after nine years.

Previously, J. A. Maloney, a company spokesman, said operators in Cincinnati, Boston and Washington refused to put through calls to Chicago. St. Louis, Des Moines and Detroit operators also were reported to have refused to make Chicago and Illinois-bound calls.

Following Friday's negotiations, Joseph Beirne, president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, affiliated with the ITTU, said he would alert some 250,000 telephone workers for a national walkout. He said before issuing a call for such a walkout he would inform Lewis B. Schwellenbach, Labor Secretary, of the dispute.

Eisenhower, suffering from a severe cold and under treatment at the Army's Ashford General Hospital here, "spent an excellent night," it was announced today. A report issued by Brigadier General Clyde Beck, commanding officer at Ashford, termed General Eisenhower's condition "very satisfactory." The newly designated chief of staff entered the hospital yesterday.

Flyer Will Be Reunited With Dog Adopted in War

English Pup, Bereft When Master Was Felled, Coming to U.S.

HOLYOKE, Mass., Nov. 24 (AP).—A mongrel hound, Thunderbolt, is sailing to America to meet the pilot master he lost in war skies over England.

The dog that raced barking down the runway of an 8th Army Air Force base in England whenever he saw Lieutenant Robert A. Payne's B-17, Gremlin's Buggy, coming in to land after a mission is going to Florida to meet the flying friend he mourned for days after Lieutenant Payne was shot down over Germany in 1943.

Thunderbolt was a legend in loyalty among American air crewmen in England. When the Fortresses taxied out in the early morning dark to take off for the day's strike, Thunderbolt watched until Gremlin's Buggy was off and wheels up.

Somehow, crewmen say, the dog always knew Lieutenant Payne's ship as soon as it turned into the landing pattern when the mission was over.

Other crews kidded Lieutenant Payne about his pup; wanted to know if Thunderbolt took notes at the briefings before each mission.

But, the crew chiefs agreed, "nobody was sweated home the way Thunderbolt sweated home Bob Payne and his crew."

Until Nov. 29, 1943. That day Thunderbolt ran wildly along the strips, but his plane didn't come in. Gremlin's Buggy had been knocked down over a German target.

Tnunderbolt waited, waited and when night closed in ran to Lieutenant Payne's bunk. He lay on the pilot's bed for days, snarling at food, bristling at other flyers who tried to make friends.

Finally he broke his vigil and wandered around the squadron, but, the crewmen say, whenever he heard the roar of returning 17s he ran to look for one plane.

The pilot of that plane is now serving in Florida, following his return to duty after being liberated from a German prison camp.

His wife, Mrs. Rosamond Payne of Holyoke, said today that she had received a cable saying Thunderbolt has left England on the Queen Mary.

Mrs. Payne says she will meet Thunderbolt in New York and send him to Bob.

Legion to Offer Draft Bill For 4-Month Training

Instruction in Intensive Basic Fundamentals Planned

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 24 (AP).—John Stelle, national commander of the American Legion, said today in a radio address over the National Broadcasting Corporation that the Legion plans to present to Congress a bill providing for universal military training which would require only four months' active service.

Under the Legion's bill, Mr. Stelle said, every physically qualified man of eighteen would take a four-month course of intensive basic fundamentals under regular military or naval officers.

He could remain on active duty for the next eight months or select one of three alternatives, the commander said. He could return to school or college and join a National Guard unit or naval reserve unit; he could enroll in the R. O. T. C. or Civilian Military Training Corps at a college or university; or he could spend "eight months or the equivalent working in some industrial plant engaged in national defense work of a type set up by the civilian authority.'

Mr. Stelle is going to the national American Legion headquarters at Indianapolis on Monday to set up a committee to draft the bill.

Prussian States Reported Due For Division

Kansas City, Nov. 24 (AP)—A State Department official predicted today that German Prussia, home of the militaristic Junkers, will be partitioned.

"Present developments indicate clearly that Prussia is to be broken into a number of autonomous states and that most of the other states will probably survive in modified form as constituent units of a new federal union," said James W. Riddelberger, chief of the Division of Central European Affairs.

In an address prepared for delivery to the Kansas City Council on World Affairs, he stressed that Germany itself "is to be maintained for the present as an entity but the administration of affairs is to be directed toward the 'decentralization of the political structure and the development of local responsibility.' "

Reviews Declaration

Noting that the State Department "has often been accused of having no Germany policy," Riddelberger reviewed the Potsdam Declaration and the government directive to General Eisenhower as evidence of a policy which it had tried to make conform "as well as possible with the consensus of informed opinion."

Allied occupation of Germany will last "as may be necessary" to carry out Allied objectives, he said, while Germany's economy is being "systematically decentralized."

Gen. Pick To Return To Missouri River Job

Omaha, Nov. 24 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, builder of the Ledo road in Burma and China, will return as Missouri River Division engineer here, it was announced recently.

Pick is author of the "Pick Plan" for multiple-purpose development of the Missouri River. He left his post here in September, 1943, to build the Ledo road, later officially named the Stilwell road, from Burma across the mountains into China.

He will succeed Brig. Gen. Roscoe C. Crawford, division engineer two years. Pick will, as did Crawford, head the Missouri Basin Interagency Committee, an organization of Missouri State governors and representatives of Federal agencies now co-ordinating river development work.

Crawford will become assistant chief of engineers in Washington.

Helen Keller Inspects Submarine at Navy Yard

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Nov. 24—(AP) Miss Helen Keller eagerly made her first tour of a submarine today at Portsmouth Navy Yard and after visiting the U.S.S. Tuna went through the German undersea boat U-873 "to compare it" with the American craft.

Miss Keller, who rose above the handicaps of deafness and blindness, ran her hands swiftly over the mechanism and fittings of the vessels as she inspected them from stem to stern.

One of the most thrilling incidents of the tour, she said, was trying on a Monsen lung, a breathing device worn by crewmen "escaping" through the water from an underseaboat that cannot surface.

Troop Train, Freight Hit Head-On

Atlanta, Nov. 24 (AP)—A crowded troop train and a freight train crashed head-on 37 miles northwest of here today, killing at least two persons and injuring an undetermined number.

An ambulance brought two bodies to Rockmart, a town several miles from the scene. Hoke Durham, a Rockmart policeman, said the ambulance driver reported four persons had been removed from the wreckage when he left the scene.

The collision was near Hanlin, btween Rockmart and Dallas. Hanlin is on the Seaboard Airline Railway's Atlanta-Birmingham route.

The Seaboard Airline headquarters at Norfolk in a preliminary report listed Engineer E. T. Pope as killed. Another engineer, J. B. Weaver, and a fireman were listed among the injured.

Ambulances were sent to Hanlin from a half dozen nearby towns—Rockmart, Cedartown, Austell, Powder Springs, and others.

The troop train was headed toward Atlanta and the freight toward Birmingham.

462d Bomb Group At MacDill Field

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 24 (AP)—The first bomb group to take the B-29's into tactical combat—the 462d—has returned to this country and is establishing headquarters at MacDill Field, the public relations office said.

The famous group, known as the Hellbirds, was part of the secret project at Walker Army Airfield, Victoria, Kan., where its handpicked crews were organized long before the Superforts rolled off the assembly line. In those days B-26's and B-17's were used in training flights.

Major Arch C. Fleming, Wheeling, W.Va., the group-adjutant, and Mast. Sergt. Benj. F. Kokot, of Wenatchee, Ore., group sergeant major, arrived here as an advance unit to organize the new headquarters. Sergeant Kokot, the first man assigned to the group, and Major Fleming, also a charter member, came to MacDill from overseas last month without furlough after more than 22 months in combat service.

Most of the 462d personnel is now on leave or furlough.

Strike Vote Asked In 5 Plane Plants

Los Angeles, Nov. 24 (AP)—United Automobile Workers (CIO) has petitioned the National Labor Relations Board to conduct a strike vite in 30 days among 40,000 or more union members in five Southern California airplane plants.

Named are Douglas plants at Long Beach and Vernon, North American at Inglewood, Consolidated-Vultee at Downey and Ryan at San Diego.

Noah Tauscher, assistant regional director of the union, said the action arose from North American's proposal to raise wages of employés not bargained for by the CIO by fifteen per cent. This, Tauscher asserted, would be "an attempt to drive a wedge" between union and non-union workers.

A North American Company statement said that since union leaders are in possession of the industry's offer of a 15 per cent wage increase, "we feel it is only fair and equitable that employés not represented by the unions should know the company's plan to adjust their wages."

It added that union leaders were advised of the company's plan to make the announcement of the proposed increase before employés were notified, and that it covered both union and nonunion employés.

Declared "Swell Trip"

Sergt. John Fletcher, of Akron, Ohio, declared it was a "swell trip" and said, "we could have taken 100 more men with us and still had plenty of room.

Major Edward Hofstatter, of Washington, assigned to the ship as an army observer, acclaimed the trip successful and said he would recommend an additional 100 men be brought back as passengers on such ships.

Corporal Joseph Miller, of Chicago, said he "would rather come back on a slow ship than stay over there."

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 24 (AP)—The super-destroyer Hamner, named in honor of the late Lieut. Henry Rawlings Hamner, a victim of a kamikaze attack, was launched this afternoon from the ways of the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company at Port Newark.

Lieutenant Hamner was killed aboard the destroyer Howorth on April 6, when a kamikaze plane crashed and exploded on the ship, destroying the control tower in which he was directing fire.

Peace Principles Are Listed

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—The executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, central organization for 27,021,153 members in 25 denominations, today adopted a report calling upon "our people" speedily to "cleanse themselves from moral contaminations of war."

"Too easily," the report said, "we have condemned whole peoples because of their race and have hardened our hearts to inflict on them wholesale death and destruction (and) have come to tolerate, as aids to victory, qualities and deeds which, when they appeared in Nazism, rightly revolted us.

Urged To "Cleanse" Selves

"Therefore, as a first prerequisite to a just and durable peace, we call upon our people speedily to cleanse themselves from the moral contamination of war."

The report was drafted in Philadelphia, November 9, by the Federation's Commission on Just and Durable Peace, headed by John Foster Dulles, authority on international affairs. Since it has been approved by the executive committee it now will be referred to the various churches for their consideration.

Principles Outlined

The report urged application of these principles in the making of any peace treaties:

1. Territorial changes to conform to the "natural long-term aspirations of the inhabitants,' and the subordination to "human considerations" of "strategic and economic considerations."

2. "Colonial peoples should be assured independence or self-government within a fixed term wherever practicable."

Limits On Arms

3. "Armaments and military establishments should be limited to the needs of internal order and of international order as planned by the United Nations."

4. "Reparations should be limited to productive capacity over and above that required to maintain average living standards. It should not be an instrument of vengeance."

5. "The treaties of peace should make a beginning in realizing the conception of an international bill of rights."

"Incalculable Value"

The commission declared the United Nations Organization was "an asset of incalculable value" established to fight against "common threats to the general welfare" of all peoples, such as the "menace of militarism and the necessity for controlling such forces as atomic energy."

"Therefore," it concluded, "pending the time when the United Nations Organization can function, and, indeed, in order to make that functioning possible, the people of our nation should take whatever remedial and sacrificial action they can to alleviate the appalling conditions which are the aftermath of war."

Foreign Copper May Aid Demand

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—Copper production continued less than demand this week, with domestic mines reporting increasing labor shortages.

Government purchases of foreign copper may be resumed to meet the deficit, traders reported. The metals reserve office allocated 55,000 tons of foreign copper for domestic use this month, part of it being garrivals under old contracts and the remainder from the Government-owned stockpile. December will see the cleaning up of all foreign copper deliveries under the old purchase agreements, which expired in October.

The trade heard the Government was considering contracting for deliveries of 25,000 tons a month for the first quarter of 1946.

Transport Surplus Expected Next Month

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—There will be no dearth of available shipping space next month to bring American service men home from Europe, according to Capt. Granville Conway, deputy war shipping administrator.

In fact, Conway said yesterday, the movement of troops from the European and Mediterranean areas has progressed so rapidly that American ships will have 34,000 more berths available than there are troops scheduled to return home in December.

He also said that the WSA is now operating 551 ships capable of carrying 584,908 troops and that because of an expected surplus of vessels in the Atlantic 50 Victory ships were scheduled for transfer to the Pacific.

Army To Consider New York Police Plea

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—Mayor F. H. LaGuardia plans to go to Washington, possibly today, to seek release of 750 New York City policemen from the armed services in an effort to halt a swelling tide of lawlessness.

LaGuardia has attributed the rise in crime to a steadily dwindling police force and figures have shown that the department is 4,776 short of its normal quota of 18,791.

In Washington, Secretary of War Patterson said regarding the Mayor's plans:

"That application will be received with keen interest and will be given thorough attention. I don't know the details of the New York situation, but if the need of separation from the service of people needed by the City of New York is shown to us, it will receive our most careful attention."

The New York crime wave has caused a death toll of 67 within 75 days.

Two British Carriers Bring 917 U.S. Troops

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 24 (AP)—The British escort carriers Tracker and Searcher arrived at the naval operating base here about 9 A.M. today, and debarked 917 American veterans of the European theater.

Shortly after tying up to Pier 7, gangplanks were thrown down and the American troops, all unassigned personnel, marched onto the dock and then aboard two scuttle boats which took them to Newport News. The troops went to Camp Patrick Henry from Newport News.

H.M.S. Shah, a third escort carrier carrying the 185th General Hospital, and originally scheduled to arrive today, will not get here until Tuesday morning, it was said.

NIGHT LEAD UNITED NATIONS

BY FLORA LEWIS

LONDON, NOV 24-(AP)-THE ESTABLISHMENT OF WORLD WIDE CONTROLS OVER ATOMIC ENERGY MAY BE ONE OF THE FIRST TASKS HANDED THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE UNITED NATIONS, BRITISH MINISTER OF STATE PHILIP NOEL-BAKER DECLARED TODAY AT THE OPENING SESSION OF THE UNITED NATIONS PREPARATORY COMMISSION.

ATOMIC ENERGY "MUST BE CONTROLLED OR IT WILL END US," BAKER TOLD DELEGATES FROM THE 47 NATIONS REPRESENTED. "SOME URGENT TASKS MAY BE LAID ON THE FIRST ASSEMBLY, PERHAPS EVEN THE CONTROL OF ATOMIC ENERGY."

THE 14-MEMBER EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE APPROVED A RUSSIAN PROPOSAL THAT VOTING IN THE COMMISSION REQUIRE A TWO-THIRDS MAJORITY ON SUBSTANTIVE ISSUES, AND A SIMPLE MAJORITY ON MATTERS OF PROCEDURE.

THE COMMISSION IS TO ELECT OFFICERS AND ADOPT RULES OF PROCEDURE. MONDAY. ITS CHIEF TASK, HOWEVER, IS TO GO OVER THE REPORT PREPARED BY THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, LAYING OUT DETAILS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY AND THE AGENDA FOR THE OPENING MEETINGS IN JANUARY.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE APPROVED RULES PROVIDING FOR PUBLIC MEETINGS OF THE COMMISSION EXCEPT IN UNUSUAL CASES, AND DISTRIBUTION OF DOCUMENTS IN FIVE LANGUAGES.

CZECHOSLOVAK DELEGATE IVAN KERNO COMPLAINED THAT THE AMERICAN PRESS HAD BEEN PLAYING UP DISPUTES AND IGNORING AGREEMENTS REACHED IN THE COMMITTEE. THE BRITISH AND AMERICAN DELEGATES REPLIED THAT IT WAS THE ARGUMENTS THAT MADE THE NEWS, AND SUGGESTED THAT A FULLY INFORMED PRESS WAS THE BEST ASSURANCE OF WELL BALANCED REPORTING ON UNITED NATIONS DELIBERATIONS.

ONE DELEGATE WHO HAS BEEN A DRIVING FORCE IN ORGANIZING THE UNITED NATIONS SAID: "IT JUST WON'T WORK NOW. THE DELEGATES WOULD STILL BE GUIDED BY THEIR GOVERNMENTS."

ANOTHER SAID THE WORLD WAS "NOT YET READY FOR SUCH AN AMBITIOUS UNDERTAKING," EXPLAINING: "THERE ARE TOO MANY PROBLEMS ARISING FRESH FROM THE WAR."

THE DIPLOMATIC REPRESENTATIVE FROM ONE OF THE MEDIUM-SIZED POWERS POSED THE QUESTION: "HOW WOULD THE SEATS BE DISTRIBUTED?"

HE SUGGESTED THAT A DISTRIBUTION ON THE BASIS OF NATIONAL POPULATIONS WOULD GIVE SOME NATIONS A DOMINANT VOICE.

A SOUTH AMERICAN DELEGATE OBJECTED: "THERE HAS GOT TO BE A CONNECTION BETWEEN THE DELEGATE ELECTED BY THE PEOPLE AND THE COUNTRY'S GOVERNMENT. I THINK THE BIGGEST PROBLEM WOULD BE IF A DELEGATE HAD IDEAS DIFFERENT FROM HIS GOVERNMENT AND TRIED TO APPLY THEM. WHAT WOULD BE THE OUTCOME?"

LONDON, NOV. 24-(AP)-A PROPOSAL BY FOREIGN SECRETARY ERNEST BEVIN FOR EVENTUAL ESTABLISHMENT OF A POPULARITY ELECTED "WORLD ASSEMBLY" TO KEEP THE PEACE MET A MIXED RESPONSE IN LONDON NEWSPAPERS TODAY.

BEVIN URGED THE FULLEST UTILIZATION OF THE NEW UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION IN HIS FOREIGN AFFAIRS SPEECH BEFORE COMMONS YESTERDAY, BUT SAID HE LOOKED FORWARD TO THE DAY WHEN THERE WOULD BE A DIRECTLY ELECTED WORLD ASSEMBLY WITH ITS OWN COURTS AND POLICE.

THE DAILY HERALD, ORGAN OF THE DOMINANT LABOR PARTY, CALLED THE PROPOSAL "A GESTURE OF IDEALISM AND REALISM COMBINED, AN ACT OF TRUE MORAL LEADERSHIP."

THE HERALD ADDED, HOWEVER, THAT "IT WOULD BE FOOLISH TO EXPECT A CHORUS OF ASSENT FROM OTHER NATIONS," AND THE TIMES AND THE DAILY TELEGRAPH AGREED WITH THIS STATEMENT.

THE TELEGRAPH SAID SUCH AN ASSEMBLY WOULD BE IMPOSSIBLE UNTIL "THE DAY WHEN ELECTIONS MEAN THE SAME THING ALL THE WORLD OVER."

THE TIMES SAID THE SUGGESTION IGNORED THE FACT THAT SIMILAR INSTITUTIONS "HAVE NEVER BEEN EITHER SUCCESSFULLY UNDERSTOOD OR APPLIED OVER THE GREATER PART OF THE WORLD."

WAR CRIMES

BY WES GALLAGHER

NUERNBERG, NOV. 24-(AP)-THE AMERICAN PROSECUTION HAS INTRODUCED INTO EVIDENCE THE GHOST WORDS OF ADOLF HITLER ORDERING A WAR OF EXTERMINATION ON THE POLES AS PART OF THE ALLIED CASE AGAINST 20 NAZI LEADERS ON TRIAL BEFORE THE INTERNATIONAL WAR CRIMES TRIBUNAL.

THUS FAR THE DEFENDANTS, WHO SAT GLUMLY TODAY IN THE GRIM NUERNBERG JAIL, HAVE SEEN THE AMERICAN PROSECUTORS PRODUCE NOTHING BUT OFFICIAL GERMAN DOCUMENTS IN AN EFFORT TO CONVICT THEM OF PLOTTING AND CONDUCTING A WAR OF AGGRESSION.

MORE THAN 100,000 WORDS OF EVIDENCE WERE PRESENTED YESTERDAY--MANY OF THEM THE WORDS OF HITLER TELLING OF HIS PLANS TO ATTACK THE NETHERLANDS, BELGIUM, FRANCE, BRITAIN, POLAND AND RUSSIA MONTHS AND IN SOME CASES YEARS BEFORE THE ATTACKS ACTUALLY TOOK PLACE. THE COURT TOOK A TWO-DAY RECESS TO GIVE THE DEFENSE TIME TO STUDY THE PORTION OF THE PROSECUTION'S CASE WHICH HAS BEEN SUBMITTED SINCE THE TRIAL OPENED LAST TUESDAY.

THE AMERICAN PROSECUTORS DISCLOSED THAT HITLER TOLD HIS GENERALS 10 DAYS BEFORE THE INVASION OF POLAND THAT HE HAD GIVEN ORDERS "TO KILL WITHOUT MERCY ALL THE MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN OF THE POLISH RACE OR LANGUAGE."

NOV 25 45

HITLER MADE THIS STATEMENT IN A SPEECH AT OBERSALZBURG ON AUG. 22, 1939. A STENOGRAPHIC RECORD OF THE ADDRESS SHOWED THAT THE FUEHRER'S WORDS CAUSED THE DELIGHTED REICHSMARSHAL HERMANN GOERING TO LEP ON A TABLE AND DANCE "LIKE A SAVAGE." POMPOUS, HEAVY-JOWLED GOERING IS ONE OF THE DEFENDANTS ON TRIAL.

EVIDENCE ALSO WAS INTRODUCED TELLING OF A PROMISE BY HITLER TO THE JAPANESE EIGHT MONTHS BEFORE PEASNOG

T G

EVIDENCE ALSO WAS INTRODUCED TELLING OF A PROMISE BY HITLER TO THE JAPANESE EIGHT MONTHS BEFORE PEARL HARBOR THAT GERMANY WOULD ACCEPT THE CONSEQUENCES "IF JAPAN WOULD GET INVOLVED WITH THE UNITED STATES."

TEN CAPTURED DOCUMENTS WERE SUBMITTED BY THE STAFF OF JUSTICE ROBERT H.JACKSON, CHIEF U.S. PROSECUTOR, SHORTLY BEFORE THE CLOSE OF YESTERDAY'S SESSION.

ONE OF THEM DISCLOSED THAT HITLER IN MAY, 1939 HAD TOLD HIS GENERAL STAFF THAT BRITAIN WAS THE "DRIVING FORCE AGAINST GERMANY" AND THAT HE PLANNED TO SLICE BRITAIN OFF FROM THE REMAINDER OF EUROPE BY CUTTING HER FOOD SUPPLIES. HE DEMANDED THE IMMEDIATE DESTRUCTION OF THE BRITISH FLEET AFTER THE OUTBREAK OF WAR.

THREE MONTHS BEFORE THE WAR BEGAN HITLER BLUNTLY TOLD HIS MILITARY COMMANDERS:

"DECLARATIONS OF NEUTRALITY MUST BE IGNORED. IF HOLLAND AND BELGIUM ARE SUCCESSFULLY OCCUPIED AND HELD, AND IF FRANCE IS ALSO DEFEATED THE FUNDAMENTAL CONDITIONS FOR A SUCCESSFUL WAR AGAINST ENGLA WILL HAVE BEEN SECURED."

HITLER'S SPEECH ON POLAND, THE DOCUMENTS REVEALED, WAS MADE THE DAY BEFORE THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT RUSSIA AND GERMANY HAD CONCLUDED A NON-AGGRESSION PACT. THAT HITLER REGARDED THAT PACT AS ONLY A TEMPORA DEVICE WAS INDICATED IN THESE WORDS OF HIS:

"AND BESIDES, GENTLEMEN, IN RUSSIA WILL HAPPEN JUST WHAT I HAVE PRACTICED WITH POLAND. AFTER STALIN'S DEATH--HE IS SERIOUSLY ILL--WE SHALL CRUSH THE SOVIET UNION."

O PRESENTING HITLER'S SPEECH

IN PRESENTING HITLER'S SPEECHES AND OTHER DOCUMENTS ASSISTANT U.S. PROSECUTOR SIDNEY S.ALDERMAN SAID THE PUNISHMENT OF THE 20 NAZIS ON TRIAL FOR PLANNING A WORLD CONFLICT WAS "THE HEART OF THE CASE."

THE BRITISH COMMUNIST PARTY HAS A MEMBERSHIP OF ABOUT 50,000 AND TWO SEATS IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

"UNLESS THE LABOR GOVERNMENT COMPLETELY CHANGES ITS PRESENT FOREIGN POLICY X X X THERE CAN BE NO FUNDAMENTAL SOCIAL PROGRESS IN BRITAIN AND THE WHOLE FUTURE OF THE COUNTRY WILL BE IN GRAVE PERIL.

"THE FUTURE OF BRITAIN DEPENDS MORE ON OUR RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA THAN ON ANY OTHER SINGLE FACTOR IN THE INTERNATIONAL SITUATION. SUCH RELATIONS ARE NOT IMPROVED BY DECISIONS INDICATING THE LACK OF TRUST IN THE SOVIET UNION X X X."

LONDON, NOV 24-(AP)-ROGER LAPHAM, GENIAL, WHITE HAIRED MAYOR OF SAN FRANCISCO, DROPPED INTO LONDON TODAY WITHOUT ANY PAJAMAS BUT WITH AN ARGUMENT WHY THE GOLDEN GATE SHOULD BE THE PERMANENT SITE OF THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION.

THE PAJAMA QUESTION WAS BROUGHT UP BY A BRITISH NEWSPAPER MAN, WHO PERSISTED IN FINDING OUT JUST HOW THE MAYOR DRESSED FOR RETIREMENT. APPROACHING THE SUBJECT CAUTIOUSLY, THE NEWSPAPERMAN DISCOVERED THAT LAPHAM IS FOND OF BRIGHT DRESSING GOWNS -- "ANYTHING WITH RED IN IT."

AND THE NEWSMAN ASKED, "WHAT ABOUT YOUR PAJAMAS?"

"THE CLIMATE IS WONDERFUL IN THE GOLDEN GATE AREA," LAPHAM SAID. "PAJAMAS, YOU SAID -- I NEVER WEAR THEM."

MOSCOW, NOV. 24-(AP)-RUSSIA'S NEW FIVE-YEAR PLAN FOR THE AUTOMOTIVE INDUSTRY, DETAILS OF WHICH WERE MADE PUBLIC TODAY, WILL SEE THE SOVIET UNION MANUFACTURING CARS AND TRUCKS IN SUCH VOLUME THAT IT MAY COMPETE SERIOUSLY WITH THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN FOR THE WORLD MARKET.

NOV 25 1945

ALREADY A LAR[illegible] INDUSTRY, THE NATION'S AUTOMOTIVE PLANTS WILL BE INCREASED FROM THREE TO FOUR TIMES THEIR PRESENT SIZE BY THE END OF THIS FIVE-YEAR PLAN, ACCORDING TO S.R.AKOPOV, COMMISSAR OF THE MEDIUM MACHINE BUILDING INDUSTRY.

EXPANSION OF THE MOTOR INDUSTRY, IN WHICH GENERALISSIMO STALIN HAS TAKEN A PERSONAL INTEREST, WILL INVOLVE THE ENLARGEMENT OF ALL PLANTS IN MOSCOW, GORKI AND THE URALS AND COMPLETION OF RECONSTRUCTION OF THE HUGE YAROSLAV WORKS.

THE RUSSIANS SAY THE GORKI PLANT, WHICH MADE GREAT NUMBERS OF TANKS DURING THE WAR, WILL BE STEPPED UP TO AN OUTPUT OF MORE THAN 1,000 CARS DAILY.

IT WAS NOT ANNOUNCED WHETHER THIS 1,000-CAR OUTPUT WOULD BE FOR A REGULAR EIGHT-HOUR DAY OR FOR AROUND THE CLOCK SHIFTS.

30.24 — 31877

GREAT ENGINE PLANTS IN THE URALS, WHICH ALSO TURNED OUT TANKS BY THE THOUSAND DURING THE WAR, WILL BE EXPANDED MORE THAN TWO AND A HALF TIMES, AKOPOV DECLARED.

HIS STATEMENT SAID RECONSTRUCTION OF THE YAROSLAV PLANT WOULD MAKE IT ONE OF THE GREATEST ENTERPRISES IN THE WORLD FOR BUILDING HEAVY DUTY TRUCKS. NEW PLANTS ARE SCHEDULED TO BE BUILT IN SIBERIA, THE UKRAINE, WHITE RUSSIA AND GEORGIA.

AKOPOV DISCLOSED THAT STALIN KEPT THE INDUSTRY IN MIND AND ORDERED NEW DESIGNS DRAFTED DURING THE WAR.

THE PREMIER HAD AN OFFICIAL REVIEW OF THE SOVIET UNION'S NEW MODELS OF CARS AND TRUCKS IN A YARD OF THE KREMLIN LAST JUNE AND APPROVED THEM FOR PRODUCTION.

RUSSIA'S NEWEST CAR, THE ZIS 110, IS SOMEWHERE BETWEEN A BUICK AND A CADILLAC AND A VERY FLASHY JOB. I SAW ONE OF THE MODELS TODAY.

IT IS BLACK, LOW AND SPACIOUS, WITH SUBDUED RED TRIMMING AND WHITE-WALLED TIRES. THE TOP SPEED IS RATED AT FROM 90 TO 100 MILES AN HOUR. THE EIGHT-CYLINDER ENGINE DELIVERS 104 HORSEPOWER. SEATING SEVEN PERSONS, THE CAR HAS A RADIO, HEATER AND AUTOMATIC HYDRAULIC LIFTING DEVICES FOR ALL WINDOWS.

THE SOVIET UNION'S NEW POPULAR CAR IS A FOUR-CYLINDER, FIVE-PASSENGER JOB CALLED "VICTORY," SAID TO BE HIGHLY ECONOMICAL. ITS TOP SPEED IS 65 MILES AN HOUR.

FIVE NEW TYPES OF TRUCKS ARE SCHEDULED:

1--A TWO AND ONE HALF-TON CARRIER WITH A SIX-CYLINDER GASOLINE ENGINE.

2--A TWO-TON DOUBLE AXLE TRUCK.

THE FLIERS WERE FORCED DOWN 14 DAYS AGO DURING A FLIGHT FROM PEIPING TO TIENTSIN.

EFFORTS TO OBTAIN THE NAMES OF THE PRISONERS WERE UNAVAILING AT MARINE HEADQUARTERS BUT I AM INFORMED RELIABLY THAT ONE PILOT LT.R.A.HOLBROOK, OF THREE RIVERS, TEXAS.

THE PLANE HAS BEEN SPOTTED ON A FIELD, PARTIALLY CAMOUFLAGED. DEEP RUTS IN THE FIELD WHICH WERE MADE BY THE PLANE HAD BEEN PLOWED OVER IN AN EFFORT TO KEEP AERIAL SPOTTERS FROM FINDING IT.

BECAUSE OF THE REMOTENESS OF THE VILLAGE AND THE CONDITION OF THE RUGGED COUNTRY, THE NEGOTIATIONS HAVE BEEN SLOW. MESSENGERS REQUIRE SEVERAL DAYS TO MAKE THE ROUND TRIP FROM THE VILLAGE TO TIENTSIN.

OFFICIALLY THE THIRD AMPHIBIOUS CORPS HAS BEEN SILENT ON THE WHOLE EPISODE. IT IS KNOWN, HOWEVER, THAT THE MATTER HAS BEEN TAKEN UP WITH GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK IN CHUNGKING. NATIONALIST FORCES THERE HAVE CONTACTED COMMUNIST REPRESENTATIVES IN AN EFFORT TO OBTAIN RELEASE OF THE AMERICANS.

JAPANESE CYCLOTRONS (500)

BY MORRIE LANDSBERG
TOKYO,NOV.24-(AP)-JAPAN WAS STRICKEN FROM THE FIELD OF ATOMIC RESEARCH TODAY AS AMERICAN SOLDIERS ARMED WITH SLEDGE HAMMERS AND BLOW TORCHES SUDDENLY STARTED THE DESTRUCTION OF FIVE CYCLOTRONS--ONE OF THEM A 200-TON GIANT MADE IN THE UNITED STATES.

THE CYCLOTRONS, ORDERED DESTROYED BY GENERAL MACARTHUR IN ANOTHER BLOW AT JAPAN'S WAR-MAKING POTENTIAL, WILL BE BROKEN UP AND THE PIECES DUMPED INTO THE SEA.

TWO OF THEM--THE 200-TON APPARATUS BOUGHT IN AMERICA THROUGH THE ASSISTANCE OF PROF.ERNEST O.LAWRENCE, FAMED UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA PHYSICIST, AND A SMALLER ONE--WERE IN THE LABORATORY OF DR.TOSHIO NISHINA AT TOKYO.

NISHINA, 55, MDEAN OF JAPAN'S NUCLEAR PHYSICISTS, WAS "HEARTBROKEN" WHEN AMERICAN OFFICERS TOLD HIM HIS HUGE CYCLOTRON WAS TO BE DEMOLISHED, THE SCIENTISTS' SECRETARY SAID.

THE SECRETARY, MISS SUMIKO YOKAYAMO, CRIED WHEN SHE TOLD OF NISHINA'S DISMAY.

OF THE OTHER CYLOTRONS, TWO SMALL ONES WERE AT OSAKA IMPERIAL UNIVERSITY AND THE FIFTH AT KYOTO IMPERIAL UNIVERSITY.

AMERICAN OFFICIALS ALHXCBG
PTAKEN OVER THE JAPANESE LABORATORIES AND STUDIED RECORDS OF NIPPONESE RESEARCH INTO ATOMIC POWER, BUT NOT UNTIL 8:30 A.M. TODAY DID THE JAPANESE IMPERIAL GOVERNMENT AND THE SCIENTISTS LEARN THE APPARATUS WAS TO BE DESTROYED.

WHILE OCCUPATION TROOPS IMMEDIATELY PROCEEDED WITH THEIR WORK OF DESTRUCTION, AMERICAN SCIENTISTS SAID JAPAN'S PROGRESS TOWARD DEVELOPING THE ATOMIC BOMB HAD BEEN OF NO IMPORTANCE.

THE JAPANESE SCIENTISTS EXPLAINED THAT NIPPONESE MILITARISTS HAD SHOWN LITTLE INTEREST IN THE DESTRUCTIVE POTENTIALITIES OF THE ATOM UNTIL TOO LATE.

PROF.BUNSAKU ARAKATSU, HEAD OF THE PHYSICS DEPARTMENT AT THE KOYOTO IMPERIAL UNIVERSITY, SAID THAT NEAR THE END OF 11944 THE NAVY BEGAN TO MAKE INQUIRIES AND EARLY IN 1945 ARAKATSU WAS ASKED IF HE COULD PRODUCE THE ATOMIC BOMB.

ARAKATSU SAID HE REPLIED THAT HE COULDN'T BECAUSE HE HADN'T CONDUCTED EXPERIMENTS IN THE PRACTICAL APPLICATION OF ATOMIC ENERGY. HOWEVER, LAST MAY OR JUNE NAVAL OFFICIALS ORDERED HIM TO PROCEED WITH EXPERIMENTS TO DETERMINE THE POSSIBILITY OF CHAIN REACTION IN THE SPLITTING OF THE ATOM.

THE NAVY SENT HIM 16 BOXES OF URANIUM COMPOUND WHICH WAS SECRETED IN A FARMHOUSE AND NEVER USED, ARAKATSU SAID.

THE SCIENTIST EXPRESSED DOUBT WHETHER THERE WAS ENOUGH URANIUM OXIDE IN ALL JAPAN TO MAKE ONE SUCCESSFUL TEST CHAIN REACTION.

COL.NEWSOM COOPER, NASHVILLE, TENN., IN CHARGE OF DEMOLITION FOR THE U.S. EIGHTH ARMY, SAID HE EXPECTED TO GET THE DISMANTLED PIECES OF THE 200-TON CYCLOTRON AND THE SMALLER ONE FROM NISHINA'S LABORATORY LOADED ABOARD SHIPS IN FOUR DAYS.

THE PIECES WILL BE DUMPED INTO THE SEA WELL BEYOND THE 100-FATHOM MARK, COOPER ADDED.

COL.G.C.TIBBITTS, WASHINGTON, D.C., AN ORDNANCE EXPERT, SAID THAT FIRST THE COOLING OIL WILL BE DRAINED FROM THE BIG CYCLOTRON AND THEN THE APPARATUS WILL BE TAKEN APART WITH CUTTING TORCHES. EXPLOSIVES CANNOT BE USED BECAUSE OF THE CONFINED QUARTERS IN A CONCRETE BUILDING.

"IT'S A SHAME IT IS NECESSARY TO DESTROY THE CYCLOTRON," SAID G.B.ZIMMERMAN, RESEARCH ENGINEER WITH THE U.S.STRATEGIC BOMB SURVEY, "BUT THERE DOESN'T SEEM TO BE ANY ALTERNATIVE."

OTHER OFFICERS EXPLAINED NISHINA'S CYCLOTRON ALREADY WAS OBSOLETE FOR EXPERIMENTAL PURPOSES IN THE UNITED STATES, AND FOR THAT REASON WAS BEING THROWN INTO THE SEA.

POLICIES ALREADY OUTLINED OR SUGGESTED BY AMERICAN DIRECTIVES WILL BE BROUGHT, FOR LEGAL IMPLEMENTATION, BEFORE MEN WHOSE VERY MEMBERSHIP IN THE DIET MEANS THEY OFFERED NO IMPORTANT OPPOSITION TO THE MILITARISTS DURING THE PAST FEW YEARS. ALL WERE ELECTED UNDER A SINGLE PARTY SYSTEM WHICH DEMANDED ACQUIESCENCE TO THE GOVERNMENT PROGRAM.

THE AGED PREMIER, KIJURO SHIDEHARA, WILL ADDRESS THE PLENARY SESSION WEDNESDAY, OUTLINING GOVERNMENT POLICIES. INTERPELLATIONS WILL FOLLOW -- THE FIRST COMPLETELY FREE QUESTIONING SINCE 1931. SOME MAY BE SHARP, PARTICULARLY ON GOVERNMENT PLANS TO SOLVE THE FOOD AND HOUSING PROBLEMS.

THEREAFTER DELIBERATIONS WILL BEGIN ON NUMEROUS GOVERNMENT MEASURES ROUGHLY FALLING INTO TWO CATEGORIES:

1. MEASURES LEGALLY ABROGATING REPRESSIVE WARTIME LAWS, WHICH THE AMERICANS HAVE ORDERED SUSPENDED, AND SUBSTITUTING OTHER LEGISLATION. THESE LAWS ARE STILL ON THE BOOKS BUT ARE INOPERATIVE THROUGH IMPERIAL DECREES ISSUED AFTER AMERICAN DIRECTIVES.

2. OTHER BASIC REFORMS WHICH THE AMERICANS HAVE SUGGESTED BROADLY MUST BE MADE, NOTABLY REVISION OF THE ELECTION LAWS AND ENACTMENT OF LABOR AND LAND MEASURES.

THE DIET WILL PASS WITHOUT OPPOSITION ALL IN THE FIRST CATEGORY. STRONG DEBATES ARE EXPECTED ON DETAILS OF SOME MEASURES IN THE SECOND GROUP.

THE DELIBERATIONS IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES WILL PROVIDE A PREVIEW OF THE POLITICAL SHADINGS AND ALIGNMENTS WHICH WILL FIGURE PROMINENTLY IN FORTHCOMING ELECTIONS. Washington Asks Moscow To Define Stand On Iran; Azerbaijan Rebels Demand Autonomy From Tehran

U. S. Is Reported Asking Russia To Explain Her Actions in Iran

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The United States has appealed directly to Moscow, it was learned today, for information on the operations of Red Army forces in northern Iran.

The State Department declined to say anything about the inquiry. The persons who disclosed that it had been sent could not be quoted by name.

Specific information desired is whether the Russians have denied to the government at Tehran the right to send reinforcements and supplies to their troops in the revolt area, and whether the forces already in that area are denied communications and the freedom of movement necessary to restore and maintain order.

The United States got a legal interest in Iranian affairs two years ago when Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin, meeting at Tehran, signed a declaration assuring Iran full independence. The country has long been regarded by diplomats as a post-war trouble spot because it is a place where the Soviet Union and British Empire meet at close quarters.

It was on the basis of the Big Three declaration, and with an eye on United Nations commitments as well, that American officials drafted the message to Moscow. Persons in a position to know describe that inquiry as asking in a manner quite polite and friendly whether the Red Army has taken actions which violated the independence of Iran in its own territory.

[Iranian Government officials said last week that the Russians had refused to permit Iranian troops to enter the province when they had been dispatched to quell disturbances.]

Stories of Red Army interference have been described here officially as exaggerations. When the Iranian representative brought up a report that weapons were being supplied to Azerbaijan residents from Russian trucks an official denial was given.

The conversations were regarded in diplomatic quarters as leading to a possible solution of the situation in the Iranian province. It was understood that the progress had been such that the Iranian mission scheduled to come to Moscow to consult on the Azerbaijan problem had been canceled.

Battle To Obtain Aim Threatened By Separatists

Moscow, Nov. 25 (AP)—Diplomatic quarters said today that V. M. Molotov, Soviet Foreign Commissar, and Madjid Ahy, Iranian Ambassador, had engaged in full and frank discussions on the situation in Azerbaijan province, and that Molotov had given assurances that Russia would respect Iranian sovereignty.

Molotov was said to have expressed surprise at reports that the Red Army troops had refused free passage to Iranian forces in Azerbaijan province, and to have told Ahy that Russia has no intention or desire to interfere with legitimate Iranian troops' movements.

L. HERMAN

Tehran, Nov. 25 (AP)—The self-styled "National Congress" of Soviet-occupied Azerbaijan province demanded autonomy today from the Central Iranian Government, but disclaimed any intention of splitting Iran or altering present boundaries.

Iranian Government officials have charged that the separatist movement in the province, whose northern frontiers adjoin Russia, has been given encouragement from the outside.

The congress said it intended to attain its goals peacefully, but would fight for them if necessary.

Parliament Planned

Asserting that Azerbaijan had "the right to plan out its own destiny and acquire autonomy," the congress said its just and legal demands" would be made known to the Central Government in Tehran, and also to the United States, Russia, Great Britain and China.

Willingness to participate in a democratic Iranian Government was expressed by the congress, but it announced that a regional parliament would be created to govern Azerbaijan affairs.

The congress, organized last week in the province capital of Tabriz, said it based its claims on the principle of self-determination as contained in the Atlantic Charter.

Iranian Police Kill 3 Peasants, Tass Says

Moscow, Nov. 25 (AP)—A Tass dispatch from Tehran declared today that three peasants have been killed by Iranian police terrorizing residents of Azerbaijan, quoting as its source a letter in the Democratic party newspaper Dad.

The dispatch gave the names of two peasants killed in two villages, and said a third peasant was beaten so severely in another village that he died.

Peasants Reported Fleeing

Tass said peasant homes were being burglarized, and that peasants were fleeing with their families into the fields to escape the police.

The Tass report suggested the Russians were disturbed because they were anxious to have order maintained behind their lines of occupation.

Russians are openly sympathetic to the desire of the Azerbaijans for autonomy within the framework of the Iranian state, and would like to see more recognition given the Tudeh (Peoples' Masses) party.

Leading Advocate Of Autonomy

The Tudeh party is the leading advocate of autonomy for Azerbaijan and is in close touch with the Soviet Union. Tass dispatches said many thousands of Azerbaijans have attended numerous meetings in the province at which self-rule was asked.

That the Tudeh party will gain representation in the Iranian cabinet is regarded by Russians as a logical conclusion.

Demand For Ouster Of Bevin

ED CAMPBELL

London, Nov. 25 (AP)—The British Communist party's eighteenth convention today unanimously demanded the removal of Ernest Bevin, Foreign Secretary, on the ground that he had continued the foreign policy of the "Tory" Government and "endangered peace and economic co-operation."

Bevin's removal was asked in a resolution which criticized the Labor Government's policy on Greece, Spain, the Soviet Union, the "new peoples' governments of Europe" and its attitude toward colonial peoples.

Critical Stand Urged

"We must be more critical and more challenging," declared W. Rust, a member of the party's executive committee, who presented the resolution to the convention.

"Our purpose must be a clear one—to strengthen the labor movement and not discredit it," Rust continued. "The question we have to raise is a change in its composition—the bringing forward of new people and the removal of some people who have proved their worthlessness.

"No. 1 is the removal of Ernest Bevin from the Foreign Office."

Harry Pollitt, Communist party general secretary, added, "There are bigger things in the world than Ernest Bevin."

Pollitt said the political situation in Greece was "changing for the better because of the amazing strength of the Communist party" and added that Bevin "was now beginning to squeal that he was being let down."

Bevin made his "let-down" statement in a Commons debate on foreign policy Friday, defending the government's stand against an immediate Greek plebiscite on the question of whether the monarchy should be retained. He blamed Greeks in England for difficulties in forming a solid coalition government in Greece.

Opposes Mass Strikes

"He will be let down a good deal more before he has finished," Pollitt declared.

Turning to domestic questions, Pollitt cautioned the delegates against encouraging the idea of mass strikes.

"You can get a strike in the coal fields tomorrow," he said, "but will it advance the working-class movement?"

The delegates, however, defeated a proposed amendment to a general policy resolution which would have viewed "with grave concern the growing number of industrial disputes and unofficial strikes."

The Communists have two members in Parliament.

Reds Call for Co-operation

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP).—The Moscow radio said today it was essential that the United Nations Preparatory Commission "should not be dominated by any great power."

The broadcast declared that "what is needed is a practical means of stopping the peace-breaker before he has a chance to do any harm," and added, "it is not enough to make fine-sounding declarations."

"All this means that the United Nations Organization, to get good results, must necessarily count on great democracies continuing their friendly co-operation of recent years," said the broadcast.

The Russian comment said the Soviet Union is "ready to co-operate fully and wholeheartedly" to make the U. N. O. organization a success.

New Luxembourg Government Asked

London, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Brussels radio today said Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxembourg had asked Pierre Dupong, who was Premier before the elections last month, to form a new Luxembourg government of reconstruction.

Dupong is head of the Christian Socialist party which holds half of the 50 seats in the Chamber of Deputies. The Communists hold five seats.

U.S. Flag Presented To Ulster Cathedral

Londonderry, Northern Ireland, Nov. 25 (AP)—An American flag was presented today to the St. Columba Cathedral here by United States naval forces stationed at this port throughout the war.

Lieut. Com. John Fahey, of Concord, N.H., commander of the naval station, presented the flag to the Very Rev. R. G. S. Kingma, dean of Derry county.

The flag was carried up the aisle of the 300-year-old cathedral by a color party, including Lieut. J. C. Poole, of Aliquippa, Pa., Boatswain's Mate 2/c E. Ellison, of Hinton, W.Va., and Coxswain V. M. Bruscia, of Buffalo.

Scots Give Part Of Castle To 'Ike'

Edinburgh, Scotland, Nov. 25 (AP). Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has accepted the gift of part of 160-year-old Culzean Castle in Ayrshire for use as a residence during visits to Scotland, the National Trust for Scotland said today.

The gift includes 2,000 acres of shooting preserves. The trust said it also would provide a number of houses on the estate for veterans, with tenants to be selected by Eisenhower.

The castle is the residence of Lord Ailsa and family and had been given to the trust under the "country house scheme" by which title is surrendered to avoid heavy inheritance taxes.

The Ailsa family will continue to occupy a new wing of the building, and the spacious top flat of the central block will be furnished and staffed for the Eisenhowers or anyone to whom they wish to lend it.

GOERING TO CALL COL. LINDBERGH

Flier, at Home in Fairfield, Says He Is Unaware of Move.

LOCHNER

The Associated Press reported from London last night that an Exchange Telegraph Dispatch from Nuernberg said Herman Goering's defense counsel, Dr. Otto Stahmer, had announced that he intended to call Col. Charles A. Lindbergh as a witness.

The Dispatch added that Stahmer did not disclose "what evidence he would seek from Lindbergh."

At his home in Fairfield, Col. Lindbergh issued the following statement:

"I have received no such request.

"My contacts with Goering were arranged by officers of the American Embassy, one of them at the personal request of the American ambassador. The information I obtained on my trips through Germany is in War and State department reports.

"If I were to testify at Nuernberg, I would be guided now, as I was guided before, by the advice of appropriate officers of my government."

Vatican Correspondence To Be Used as Evidence

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 25—(AP) Sixty pages of correspondence between the Vatican and the Nazi government arrived here today for use as evidence against the 20 top-flight Nazis whose trial before the International War Crimes Tribunal will go into its second week tomorrow.

The correspondence was made available by the Vatican.

The Rev. Edmund Walsh, S. J., vice president of Georgetown University, who is serving on the staff of U. S. prosecutor Robert H. Jackson, began translation of the documents immediately. They probably will be introduced sometime this week as a part of the mass of documentary evidence which Jackson said was sufficient to convict the defendants.

Jackson, in his opening speech disclosed that the Vatican had made several protests to the German government against persecution of the Church and its priests, but that Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, one of the defendants, had never answered them.

Lt. Roger Barrett, former Chicago attorney in charge of the documents room at the Palace of Justice building, said more than 20 carloads of documents had been assembled by the American prosecution to prove its case and to assist the British, Russians and French to prove theirs.

To Windup Case

The volume of documentary evidence the Americans intend to present was indicated Friday when members of Jackson's staff introduced approximately 100,000 words before the tribunal. They expect to take all this week to wind up their case.

Barrett is personally responsible for the vast treasure trove of priceless Nazi documents bearing such signatures as Hitler, Goering, Von Ribbentrop, Keitel, Jodl, Raeder and Doenitz. He locks away in fireproof cases such documents as are needed in the course of the trial and, whenever they are produced in evidence, he personally hands them to the judge.

The American prosecution, after screening "thousands of tons" of material captured by the victorious American army, brought about 20 carloads to Nuernberg. From these, in turn, about 3,000 documents were finally selected for placing in evidence.

Such evidence has hitherto been multigraphed, including those given to the press Friday. The total is estimated at three million sheets of paper.

"When I saw 3,000 documents I really mean much more," Barrett explained. He said that often a whole series of decrees by Hitler, for example, is bunched together and numbered as one document.

The labyrinth of documents is indexed, multigraphed and filed by a staff of more than 30 clerks headed by Sgt. John E. Back of Kokomo, Ind.; T-5 Russell Cardoza of New London Conn, and Pfcs. John H. Power of Augurn, N. Y., Charles D. Abel of York, Pa., and Berthold Fuld of New York city.

In Separate Covers

Each document is placed in separate covers accompanied by summary sheets, concisely indicating its contents, as well as so-called analysis sheets, showing its pertinence as evidence. Photostats have been made, or are being made, of all original documents.

Just where the American fund of documents will finally repose has not been settled. All evidence submitted must become a part of the court record, to be deposited wherever the tribunal agrees it should go, but the charter provides that any nation may withdraw original documents and supply photostats instead.

This means that the United States retains title to everything, for instance bearing Hitler's signature.

Colleges Seek Treasure

Certain American institutions are understood already to be seeking Jackson's treasure. These are said to include the library of Congress, the United States archives, the Hoover War Library, and several of America's largest universities.

Only an infinitesimal part of the captured documents can be used as evidence, and a wealth of sensational material for historians will never be made public at Nuernberg.

Almost all of the defendants, except former Deputy Fuehrer Rudolf Hess, worked on their defense over the week-end recess. Hess has shown little interest in the trial since it started last Tuesday.

Although there is no prohibition against the prisoners conducting a joint conference on defense, none thus far has been requested. This was seen as an indication that each will put up a separate defense.

All the defendants attended services in the prison chapel today, except Alfred Rosenberg, Julius Streicher and Hess.

SOCIALISTS GAIN IN AUSTRIA VOTE

More Than 80 Pct. Cast Ballots in First Election in 15 Years.

N. HORAN

VIENNA, Nov. 25—(AP) The Socialist party on the basis of early unofficial returns received a heavy vote in the capital city of Vienna today in Austria's first free elections in 15 years.

No incidents were reported as the country voted for 165 members of the National Assembly and 408 members of provincial assemblies.

Observers had said the main contest for control of the assemblies would be between the Socialist party and the Volkspartei, which is regarded as very strong in the provinces. The Socialists, led by Premier Karl Renner, are regarded as middle-of-the roaders; the Volkspartei, the right wing, and the Communists the left.

(The Graz radio said tonight that 80 per cent of eligible voters in the country cast ballots, with more than 90 per cent turning out in Vienna. In rural areas Allied occupation force trucks carried voters to polling centers. Election results will be announced tomorrow, the radio added).

Vienna voted quietly and there were longer lines befor movie houses than polling places. The streets were littered with handbills given out by the contending parties in last-minute exhortations.

The last opportunity Austrians had to participate in an election was foiled by the Nazi occupation of the country. Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg on March 9, 1938 called for a plebiscite to determine whether the country wished to remain independent of Germany, but Hitler moved in two days later.

Observers predicted that as many as 3,000,000 ballots were cast, but this seemed high even with women voting. Former Nazis were barred from the polls.

Under the Austrian proportional system, the majority party does not win all the seats, but all parties are given representation according to the percentage of the vote polled.

Izvestia Reports Cosmic Ray Gain

Moscow, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Government newspaper Izvestia said today new information about the action of cosmic rays at high altitudes was obtained by observers in a Soviet sub-stratosphere balloon which ascended from Moscow Thursday.

The balloon landed near Kiev after a flight of 17 hours and 40 minutes, during which it drifted almost 500 miles.

The four-man crew was headed by Lieut. Col. P. P. Polosukhin, chief observer for the Red Army's Central Aerological Observatory.

The ascension was the second this month by the Russians in connection with cosmic-ray research. Dr. Niels Arly, Danish scientist, recently was quoted in Copenhagen as saying latest experiments by Danish, Swedish and Russian scientists showed that the rays derive from a series of explosions in space, resembling those of atomic bombs.

Orlando Arrives in Rome To Confer with Umberto

BRIA

ROME, Nov. 25.—(AP) Amid threats of violence and speculation on a monarchist resurgence, elder statesman Vittorio Emanuele Orlando arrived in Rome for a conference tonight with Crown Prince Umberto on the political crisis in which Premier Ferrucio Parri resigned.

Orlando, a colleague of Woodrow Wilson, David Lloyd George and George Clemenceau in the making of the peace after the First World war, is mentioned prominently as a possible successor to Parri. He arrived in a special plane sent by the Lieutenant General of the Realm Umberto to the 85-year-old former premier's home in Palermo.

A highly placed monarchist said Umberto hoped to resolve the crisis quickly "for the good of the country." There has been speculation that Umberto would attempt to strengthen the role of the monarchy in the Italian government, but there was no official indication whether the Crown Prince would attempt to form a government outside the Committee of National Liberation.

Foreign Minister Alcide de Gasperi denied published reports that the Vatican had caused the present Italian government crisis.

De Gasperi, leader of the powerful Christian Democrat party, said some newspapers in the United States had "spread news that the crisis broke out through the influence of the Vatican."

Says Church Not Involved

"Impartial observers will have to agree that the church does not enter into the situation at all," the Foreign Minister declared. "The crisis broke out because of disagreements among governmental parties and because Premier Ferruccio Parri was not able to overcome (them).

"The church would have no reason whatsoever to provoke changes since both the Parri and (Ivanoe) Bonomi governments maintained the status quo with respect to relations between the church and the state as established in the Lateran treaty."

De Gasperi said the base of the new Italian government must "always be six anti-Fascist parties," even though "other competent elements" should participate.

Parri resigned last night as the result of a right-wing revolt of the Committee of National Liberation, which had placed him in power at the head of a six-party coalition government last June.

Italia Nuova, the monarchist organ, declared today that "the Committee of National Liberation has been smashed and its government has fallen miserably. It is useless to keep it alive. The nation has had enough of experiments. Another experiment would mean the failure of Italy."

The Socialist Avanti, which had supported Parri, asserted that "one word from democratic workers' parties would be enough to change indignation into anger, and anger into rebellion," but added "the word will not be given because we do not need violence to win."

Risorgimento Liberale, organ of the Liberal party, which with the Christian Democrats broke with the Parri regime, expressed hope that violence would not be an outgrowth of the crisis. "A common plan which satisfies demands of all parties must be found," the paper added.

Threaten Strike in North

Rumblings of discontent have already appeared, however, in the threat of a general strike throughout northern Italy, where Parri had led Italian resistance forces against the Nazis before the end of the war. Workers at the big Fiat plant in Turin walked out briefly yesterday as a gesture of support for Parri.

An authoritative source said the Allies would welcome "as broad based a government as possible." The Allies brought no pressure on Parri to resign, this source added. Parri said yesterday reports of such pressure were "an insiduous maneuver."

Allied policy on the armistice terms and the question of the monarchy is expected to be the same with respect to the new government as with previous provisional regimes. Former governments were required to observe the surrender terms and to pledge to make no moves on the monarchy question until the Italian people have a chance to vote on whether they want a king or a republic.

REGENT IN GREECE DECIDES TO STAY ON

ATHENS, Nov. 25—(AP) Archbishop Damaskinos withdrew his resignation as Greek Regent tonight, it was announced officially.

The Archbishop's decision followed visits by the American and British ambassadors, both of whom requested Damaskinos not to resign.

The official announcement said Damaskinos received a message from British Foreign Secretary Bevin in which Bevin said the Archbishop's resignation would be a "terrible disappointment" to the British people.

It was also reported that a factor in the Archbishop's decision to withdraw his resignation was a message from the exiled King of Greece, George II, now living in London.

BRITISH IMPOSE CURFEW ON JEWS

Airborne Troops Surround Settlements Along Palestinian Coast.

JERUSALEM, Nov. 25—(AP) British airborne troops surrounded three Jewish settlements and ordered a curfew along a large section of the Palestinian coast tonight after a party of armed Jews" had attacked two coast guard stations and wounded 14 police.

One Jewish curfew breaker was shot in the hand when he ignored an order to halt.

The disorders were believed to be connected with the capture yesterday of the Greek motor schooner Demetrois which brought 200 illegal Jewish immigrants to the Palestine coast.

Troops of the Sixth Airborne division were thrown around the Jewish settlements of Givath Haim, Rishbon and Shefayin. A representative of the local council at Givath Haim threatened to resist any attempt to search the settlement.

Jewish sources at Shefayin reported their leaders were in conference with the British seeking to prevent a search of that colony.

"We have nothing to do with last night's attacks and we will resist any military or police searches in our settlement," the Jewish spokesman at Givath Haim told the British commander.

The coast guard stations at Givat Olga and Sidna were badly wrecked in the attacks, a British communique said. An unexploded bomb was found in the Sidna building after the raid.

There were indications that the attackers suffered heavy casualties. They left behind widespread traces of blood and a number of blood-stained bandages. The wounded police included six British members of the Palestinian police force and eight Palestinians.

patch from Cairo said that "riots broke out in Palestine this afternoon. The dispatch quoted information telephoned from Tel Aviv to the effect that clashes had occurred there "between police and Jews.")

The curfew was ordered by Maj. Gen. A. L. Bols, British military commander of the civil district of Lydda. The measure, effective from 5:30 p. m. to 5:30 a. m., was taken presumably to increase coast guard precautions against ships carrying illegal immigrants.

Restrictions Extended

The restrictions were extended along the entire Palestinian coast to a point about 12 miles south of Jaffa and Tel Aviv. The curfew, however, does not apply to the immediate area of towns and villages.

20 Ars Seized

The police arrested 20 of the immigrants, including two girls, but the remainder of the party escaped.

The clandestine Jewish radio station "Voice of Israel," which broadcasts for the Jewish resistance movement, declared anonymous warnings had been given the police at both coast guard stations "to avoid loss of life" but police disregarded the warnings, opening fire and "compelling the Jewish volunteers to defend themselves with their weapons."

Military patrols, including several airplanes and armored cars, began a search of the area for members of the raiding party.

Inhabitants of several towns were warned that any of the attackers or illegal arms must be turned over to authorities by 5 p. m.

CHINA STUDIES RUSS DEMANDS

Press Report Hints Virtual Joint Control Is Sought

Chungking, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Chinese Communists said today that Soviet forces were holding key cities in Manchuria until Chinese Nationalists could arrive to take control, but the Chungking press asserted that the Russians were making new demands as the price of such aid.

The extent to which Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek might have to accede to Russia in order to win part control over Manchuria for his Central Government rather than for the Communists was occasioning conjecture here.

Some observers expressed belief that it might entail virtual joint Chinese-Russian dominion over Manchuria.

Progressing Steadily

Regardless of these reports, Nationalist papers indicated that Government forces were progressing steadily with their thrusts into Manchuria, announcing the capture intact of Hulutao on Thursday night, thus opening a sea lane into the territory.

News reports said Nationalist forces yesterday marched into Chinhsien, Peiping-Mukden railroad town 100 miles northeast of the Great Wall. The Communists earlier had predicted that the first real battle for Manchuria would be fought in the vicinity of this town.

The troops which took Chinhsien were part of the 52nd Nationalist Army, which originally was landed at Chinwangtao, south of the Great Wall.

Newspaper Lists Demands

Demands which the China Times alleged — without confirmation — were presented to China by Russia beyond the scope of the Chinese-Russian treaty included:

1. Chinese - Russian development of the important Anshan iron and coal mines of Manchuria.

2. Russian navigation rights on the Sungari River of northern Manchuria.

3. Joint Chinese-Russian ownership and operation of all former Japanese and puppet electric enterprises, the Kirin-Heilungkiang gold mine, and the main arsenals of Manchuria.

Communist sources, however, asserted that the Russians were guarding key Manchurian railway points until Nationalist troops could be flown in, and that the Russian attitude toward Chiang's government was "very friendly."

New Communist Charges

American planes were alleged by one Communist dispatch to have been conducting reconnaissance flights over Communist-held areas in the Inner Mongolian province of Chahar. The assertion that "not a few" Nationalists were hoping Americans "will lend a few atomic bombs to try against the Communists" was contained in an editorial in the Communist China Daily News.

The seating of Chang Su-aye, a Chahar native, as provincial governor was announced by the Communists, aggravating the break between Chungking and Yenan. Unless the Communists change their minds, however, they are scheduled to send representatives to Chungking within the next two weeks to participate in new peace discussions.

Much is expected to depend on the report to be presented by Gen. Chou En-lai, Communist leader, who flew to Yenan from here today.

Reports Move Into Jehol

In Peiping, Spencer Davis, Associated Press correspondent, quoted a Government spokesman as reporting a large movement of Communist troops from northern Hopei province into Jehol, where they would parallel the Nationalist advance into Manchuria.

Minor clashes have occurred between Communists and reorganized puppet troops in the vicinity of Tsun-Hsien.

French Said To Reject China's Haiphong Plan

Chungking, Nov. 25 (AP)—The China Times said today that France has rejected a request by China that Haiphong, Indo-China, be converted into a free port and that the Kunming-Haiphong railroad be placed under joint Sino-French control.

Such a request has never been officially announced in Chungking, although Lin Chi-han, special representative of the Chinese foreign office in Indo-China, indicated in a news conference here yesterday that French acquiescence in such developments would be welcomed.

INDIANS ASK PROBE OF POLICE IN RIOTS

Inquiry Into Trial Of National Army Figures Also Urged

Calcutta, India, Nov. 25 (AP)—Indian newspapers demanded today a searching inquiry into the part played by police in riots which broke out Wednesday and resulted in scores of casualties in various parts of India.

The newspapers also called for a thorough probe of the trial of members of the Indian national army as war criminals. The national army was organized in Burma to fight against the Allies.

At least 37 persons, including one American soldier, were killed in the disorders which followed demonstrations against the trial.

3-Day Strike Ends

A three-day strike of 20,000 Calcutta municipal employés ended tonight, said Sudhir Kumar Roy Chowdhury, president of the employés' association, relieving a serious threat to the city's water supply, which had been reduced to one quarter the normal amount.

Streets had not been lighted or swept since the strike was called, and refuse bins were overflowing.

The Nationalist daily Amrita Bazar Patrika said the demonstrations were "inspired by a solemn resolve to challenge the authority of an alien government to decide whether certain Indian national army officers and men were traitors to this country."

It accused Richard G. Casey, Australian governor of Bengal, of "indiscretion and thoughtlessness" and demanded an "impartial committee of inquiry."

The Nationalist Hindustan Standard said a meeting of Indian party leaders had resulted in a decision to ask for such an inquiry.

BOMBERS BLAST INDONESIANS IN SEVERAL CITIES

British Use Rocket-Firing Planes As Fighting Spreads in Java.

RADIO STATIONS HIT

Heaviest Blows Concentrated in Soerabaja and Semarang.

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 25—(AP) British authorities, adopting a gloves-off policy against the Indonesians, sent rocket-firing Mosquito bombers into action for the first time today as fighting raged in Soerabaja, Semarang, Batavia and Ambarawa, and spread to Bandoeng, Java's summer capital.

The Mosquitos struck their first blow at Indonesian radio stations at Soerakarta and Jogjakarta, which a British spokesman said had been pouring out "vicious propaganda," inciting the people to war against the British.

The pilots, ordered to wipe out the stations, attacked an hour after Allied planes had dropped warning leaflets. Thirteen direct rocket hits were made on the Jogjakarta station and nine on the Soerakarta station.

The national committee of the unrecognized Indonesian government met in Batavia and heard Premier Sutan Sjahrir counsel patience among the people.

"I can see from your attitude that you are often close to despair," he told the 140 delegates gathered from all part of Java. "Whatever the difficulties, our cause stands strong amid the typhoons and storms which endanger our countrymen. We cannot be forced to follow a road we do not wish to take."

Minister of Information Amir Sjarifuddin, hearing that the British complained of anti-British Propaganda published in the Indonesian newspaper Mederka (Freedom) announced that he would place an official in the office to the paper to review its contents.

Beginning tomorrow, he said, the Indonesian government would take full responsibility for all stories published in the paper.

Fighting in Soerabaja

The heaviest fighting was at Soerabaja and Semarang, where the Indonesians hurled counter-attacks against the British without regard to loss of lives. Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haugland reported 100 Indonesians were killed in Soerabaja during the past 24 hours.

Despite two strong Indonesian attacks the British extended their forces east and west of the big naval base and occupied the entire Soerabaja peninsula, about four miles square.

A British statement said Indonesian forces shelled British positions in Soerabaja during the night in the heaviest artillery attack yet experienced. About 30 shells were dropped in the British headquarters area.

At Semarang, a British report said, 1,000 Indonesians, including 400 well-armed units of the TKR (peace preservation corps), attacked British positions, but were driven off. Some native settlements in Semarang were cleared.

Cruiser Sussex at Semarang

The British cruiser Sussex arrived at Semarang and landed a small force of Royal Marines as reinforcements.

The British expressed concern over what they described as a "carefully planned" uprising at Bandoeng, where electric and telephone lines were cut and Indonesians fired on a hotel housing European and Eurasian internees.

A statement said Indian troops acted swiftly to suppress the uprising, and late today the situation was reported officially to be in hand.

Aneta news agency said, however, that armed bands were roaming the streets of Bandoeng tonight and that shoting had broken out again around the hotel. The Indonesians were said to have set up roadblocks on the outskirts of Bandoeng.

At Ambarawa, Indonesians attacked internment Camp No. 8, east of the town. Aneta said the British were clearing out a large Nationalist pocket.

Aneta also reported a new flare-up of fighting in Batavia where tank-led British Seaforth Highlanders were said to have smashed an Indonesian roadblock.

BRITISH DENY USE OF JAPANESE TROOPS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(AP) A British official report said today Japanese prisoner of war troops had never been used in any offensive action against Indonesians.

The statement came from the Foreign Office in London quoting Admiral Mountbatten, Supreme Allied commander in Java, and was issued here by the British Information Service.

"They had been used for guard duty and defended themselves when attacked," the announcement said. "Many Japanese whom it has so far proved impossible to disarm are siding with the Indonesian insurgents."

Force Sent To Malta

Valletta, Malta, Nov. 25 (AP)—Two British infantry battalions have arrived in Malta, bringing the island's garrison to five battalions compared with the normal peacetime establishment of two.

[In London a War Office spokesman said he believed the troop movement was "routine" and that the new battalions probably would relieve two of those previously stationed at Malta.

[He declined to speculate on the possibility that Britain was building up a large force in Malta in the event reinforcements should be needed in the troubled Middle East.]

Unity Plea Expected As Diet Opens Session

Tokyo, Monday, Nov. 26 (AP)—The second extraordinary session of the Diet since the occupation was convoked today amid indications that Premier Kijuro Shidehara in a one-hour speech Wednesday will emphasize "close relationship between the Emperor and the people" as a plea for unity on important domestic issues.

Emperor Hirohito personally will read an imperial rescript before a plenary session tomorrow. The rescript in broad terms will outline the scope of the business session.

The rescript will order the Diet to abolish repressive laws.

Japanese said Shidehara, in a speech covering the entire range of Government problems, would devote considerable attention to new directives from General MacArthur. These directives abolished war pensions and ordered a heavy wartime profits tax.

The Premier also will discuss at length plans for improving the people's livelihood, including contemplated measures for relief of war sufferers and war wounded. The Cabinet, which had been working with American authorities on the new directives, approved the speech shortly before the directives were issued.

Tokyo Cabinet May Fall After Meeting of Diet

End of Military Pensions Is Seen as Last Straw for Dissatisfied Legislators

TOKYO, Nov. 26 (Monday) (AP).—The life of the unsteady Shidehara Cabinet appeared today to have been foreshortened by supreme headquarters' newest economic directive—which delivered a solar plexus blow by its elimination of military pensions—and a downfall of the Cabinet is expected after the Diet (Parliament) session which opens today.

The pension issue crowns a series of unsolved domestic problems certain to bring sharp criticism of the government by the election-conscious Diet. In addition to the recurrent headaches of food and housing, the newspapers reported a new crisis approaching as a coal shortage threatens to force suspension of key industries manufacturing reconversion products. Some steel plants, the press said, already have been shut down.

Indications are that the eighty-ninth extraordinary Diet session will open on a critical note. The Social Democrats announced they would challenge at today's organizational meeting the "war responsibility" of some of the Diet members, including Speaker Toshio Shimada of the House of Representatives.

The new supreme headquarters order for the heavy war-time profits tax probably will give Premier Baron Kijuro Shidehara little trouble. It is certain to win overwhelming public support and be easy to sell to the Diet. The suspended payment of war indemnities likewise can be sold to the country.

The elimination of the pensions, however, hits the people, already restless over problems of personal livelihood which will be far more influential at the next election than will political philosophies.

The Kyodo news agency, terming the military pensions a "cancer" upon the state finances, said that originally the contemplated pension payments for the 1945-'46 budget totaled nearly 2,000,000,000 yen. Pensions were paid last year to 1,630,000 persons of whom 87 per cent were service men and more were expected to benefit next year.

The Shidehara government will be forced to take the responsibility for the directive, just as the Higashi-Kuni Cabinet was forced into responsibility for General MacArthur's order for elimination of repressive Japanese war-time laws.

MacArthur Welcomes Visit by Advisory Board

Looks for 'Greatest Possible' Aid From Allied Commission

TOKYO, Nov. 25 (AP).—General Douglas MacArthur expressed today the "greatest satisfaction" at the decision of the Far Eastern Advisory Commission to visit Japan.

The commission, established in Washington last month and composed of representatives of ten Allied governments, said Friday it would be a mistake to consider in purely academic atmosphere the many problems connected with the control of Japan, and therefore it would visit that country.

MacArthur said the commission would see "at first hand actual conditions as they exist" and its advice and guidance "in the complicated problems that confront me cannot fail to be of the greatest possible assistance and support."

EX-WAC TRIO LIKES CIVIL LIFE IN TOKYO

Pacific Veterans Start to 'See World' Outside the Army by Clerking for MacArthur

TOKYO, Nov. 25 (AP)—Army life gave them ideas about seeing the world and having fun, so three recently discharged Wacs are cool right now to thoughts of matrimony and the diaper[illegible] They want to travel first.

The [illegible] among eighty girls who received their discharges from the Army in Manila and flew to Tokyo to work in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters as civilian clerks and typists. They think many others will feel as they do.

"I'm young, so why should I go home and tie myself down by marriage?" asked one of the trio, former Sgt. Mary Coira, 24, of Lexington, N. C. "I'll get married later. Right now there are lots of things for us to see in this wide open world of ours."

The other two are Nancy Lyon, 22, of Herkimer, N. Y., who was a technician, and Eve Davies, former New York newspaper woman, who was a staff sergeant. Not to be forgotten is their dog mascot, Sossy, who came with them from Australia via Hollandia, Leyte and Manila.

Miss Coira, a blonde, remarked of the trio's decision not to go home, that "we had come so far—Australia, New Britain, New Guinea and the Philippines—that we decided to come on to Tokyo."

"We had to sign up for at least nine months in Japan, but that won't be the end," she said. "We are going on to China, Russia, France and Italy. The man who signed us promised that we could go on."

Miss Lyon said their association was a "Three Musketeers" affair.

"We really don't know exactly how much we're earning right now, as a matter of fact, but it is more than we got as Wac non-coms," she added.

Each of the three collected $300 discharge money in Manila, and of the $900 there seems to be about $50 left. They were a bit vague about where it went, except to say they had "a swell time, and also bought clothes." They wear nurses' uniforms without insignia of rank.

Miss Davies noted that, "now that we are no longer enlisted personnel, officers and civilians crowd our billet for dates, dinners and dances."

MacArthur Names New Aide

TOKYO, Nov. 25 (AP).—Brigadier General Carl A. Russell, of Washington, has been appointed assistant chief of staff by General Douglas MacArthur and will head the plans and operations division at Allied headquarters. He replaces Brigadier General William E. Chambers, of Ithaca, N. Y., who has returned to the United States for reassignment.

Japan Workers Repatriated

TOKYO, Nov. 25 (AP).—Repatriation of Chinese and Korean coal miners from northern Japan has been resumed with the lifting of General Douglas MacArthur's ban on railroad movement of workers to reception centers at four Japanese ports. The ban was designed to prevent overcrowding of the ports when shipping was inadequate.

Diseases Checked in Japan

TOKYO, Nov. 25 (AP).—Communicable diseases in Japan are being held below the 1944 rate, Allied Headquarters announced today. Typhus cases thus far this year totalled 2,102, as compared with 3,964 for all of 1944, and diptheria cases, 58,496, as compared with 93,884 for 1944.

Special U. S. Naval Unit Studies Japanese Ships

By The Associated Press.

TOKYO, Nov. 25—If the skeleton of the Japanese Navy has any secrets left, "Navtechjap" expects to find them.

Navtechjap is the United States Naval Technical Mission in Japan. Headed by Capt. G. C. Grimes, it is compiling a record on the make-up of the Japanese fleet, along with results, tests and comparisons with American equipment.

The 500 Navtechjap staff members have found at least one good specimen of each type of Japanese submarine, from the tiny one-man craft to the big cargo plane-carrying underwater vessels. These have been taken to sea and tested by American crews.

The staff has the badly damaged battleship Nagato for the study of that class of vessel. Two cruisers remain in good condition. Nine damaged ones were found. The six available carriers are inoperative.

Twenty-seven destroyers and fifty-four submarines were reported in good condition.

Ask Data on Sinkings

TOKYO, Nov. 25 (AP)—Supreme Headquarters today directed the Japanese Government to provide occupation forces with the names of the submarines responsible for the sinking of nine Allied vessels.

The ships sunk were the U.S.S. Richard Harvey, the British Daisy Moller, Ascot, Sutley, Chivalry, Duth; the Norwegian Tjisalak, and the French Scotia and Jean Nicolet. There was no elaboration on the directive.

The Government also was ordered to report the location and condition of eleven foreign vessels belonging to the Messageries Maritime Steamship Company.

Yokohama Will Have New Year's Bowl Game

Yokohama, Nov. 25 (AP)—Thirty professional football players will stage an exhibition game for occupation troops New Year's Day. Names of the players have not been announced.

Col. Henry W. Clark, United States 8th Army athletic officer, also reported a group of top-ranking American football coaches will come to Japan to set up divisional teams for G.I. competition. The group will include Jeff Cravath, University of Southern California; E. E. Weiman, Columbia University; A. N. McMillin, Indiana University; Henry Frnka, Tulsa, and E. E. Mylin, Bucknell.

SPRUANCE TAKES FLEET COMMAND

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 25—(AP) Aboard the submarine Menhaden in these confined waters where the Japanese struck four years ago, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz transferred command of the U. S. Pacific fleet yesterday to Admiral Raymond A. Spruance.

Nimitz, the gray, grave Texan who took over the battered, crippled fleet not quite four years ago and saw it grow under his control into the world's most powerful sea force, will become chief of naval operations.

A veteran submariner, Nimitz chose to make the transfer of command aboard a submarine in the calm, sunlit blue waters which on Dec. 7, 1941, were churned by enemy bombs and littered with the wreckage of American warships.

NAVY TO REORGANIZE HAWAIIAN ACTIVITIES

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 25—(AP) Vice Admiral S. A. Taffinder, commandant of the 14th Naval district and commander of the Hawaiian sea frontier, said today the reorganization of naval activities in the area of Hawaii would become effective Nov. 30.

The reorganization, similar to that being effected in other naval districts and on the mainland, calls for establishing in this district a naval base to co-ordinate and direct fleet activities.

The Pearl Harbor base henceforth will be known as the naval shipyard at Pearl Harbor, and the naval base will be expanded to include both the shipyard and other shore activities and installations in the Pearl Harbor area.

Rear Admiral E. W. Hanson will be the new commandant of the naval base, and Rear Admiral C. O. Kell, shipyard commander.

NIGHT

The former private is Mr. Justice Ligertwood, who served in the First World war in 1914-18.

The investigation was ordered by the Australian government following charges by the Australian army that Bennett, in escaping from Singapore at the time of its surrender to the Japanese, had deserted his post. These charges were investigated by a closed military tribunal appointed by Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, Australian commander-in-chief, with whom Bennett has had frequent public clashes.

The report of the military tribunal has not been published, but as a result of its perusal by the government it was decided to hold an open inquiry. Bennett had refused to testify at the military hearing because it was not open to the public.

Bennett has maintained consistently since his escape that he left Singapore after, not before, the surrender by British Lt. Gen. Sir Arthur Percival, commander-in-chief in Malaya. Bennett contended Percival no longer had any authority after the surrender and that Australian generals had been ordered to escape.

It appeared possible Bennett would demand the personal appearance of Percival at the inquiry.

PERON CANDIDACY STIRS CHURCH ROW

Buenos Aires Street Fight Follows Accusation That Priest Meddles in Politics

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 25 (AP)—A street fight broke out today in front of the Catholic Church of the Immaculate Conception, scene of disorders last Sunday, at which time a group of women walked out in protest against what they said was "politics in church."

Participants in the fights today were identified as Democrats and supporters of the Presidential candidacy of former Vice President Juan D. Perón as well as persons loyal to the Rev. Virgilio Filippo, whose utterances from the pulpit caused last Sunday's protest.

NIGHT

The fight started after some members of the crowd of 1,500 had shouted for "liberty and democracy." Five unidentified men jumped from an automobile and started beating persons in the crowd with their fists.

More than twenty policemen arrived but did not interfere until the fights were over, when they arrested several persons who had shouted for democracy.

3024-3/1887

The protest last Sunday occurred while Father Filippo was explaining a pastoral letter citing the Church's position in the Argentine political situation.

The women, who said they interpreted his remarks as denoting a partisan attitude toward the forthcoming elections, walked out and then prayed in front of the church for the "Lord to illuminate the mind of His minister."

Three newspapers, the Prensa, the Nación and the Mundo, quoted a priest, identified as the Rev. Sabas Gallardo, as having said to the women:

"If in the explanation given you feel there is a pronouncement favoring dictatorship, you must know you must shut your mouths, because Jesus Christ Himself was a great dictator."

Two women were taken to a police station but released almost immediately.

New Chinese Envoy for Mexico

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25 (AP).—Chih Tsing Feng, who was named Chinese Ambassador to Mexico after more than six years as consul-general in San Francisco, announced today he would leave Tuesday for his new post in Mexico City. Feng, a twenty-five-year Chinese career diplomat, has served with the Chinese embassies in Peru, the Netherlands, Germany and India. The Feng children, Doreen and Ivan, both University of California graduates, are living in New York City.

Japanese Diplomats Sail Home

SEATTLE, Nov. 25 (AP)—A party of Japanese, among them several diplomats, sailed from here today aboard the transport Gen. G. M. Randall, bound for Yokohama and repatriation. There were 184 in the diplomatic party, headed by Lieut. Gen. Hiroshi Oshima, Japan's Ambassador to Germany at the war's end. More than 1,300 others were from various relocation centers throughout the West.

HULL WILL FACE NEW QUESTIONING AT PROBE TODAY

Ferguson to Quiz Former Secretary on Moves Before Pearl Harbor.

GREW REPORTS SCANNED

Ambassador Wrote Surprise Attack Might Be Made by Japanese.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—(AP) Cordell Hull will return to the capitol Monday to give Congressional investigators another chapter of his story of the diplomatic negotiations prior to the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

The former Secretary of State presented the Senate-House inquiry group with a 20,000-word written statement and a stack of documents Friday, then answered questions for 45 minutes but there are still a lot of queries the committee members want to put to him.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) said he intends to ask "some of the questions Mr. Welles was unable to answer."

Had 'No Knowledge'

Sumner Welles, Undersecretary of State during the period under review, frequently replied "I have no knowledge of that" when Ferguson cross-examined him at length on Saturday.

He made such replies to questions as to whether:

The United States, British and Dutch military forces had an agreement for joint action.

The Navy had "drawn a line in the Pacific" with the intention of shooting if the Japanese crossed it. Ferguson said Senator Pepper(D-Fla) had been quoted as saying in a speech at Boston on Nov. 24, 1941, that the Navy had done so. Pepper now is in Europe.

Welles also was unable to give Ferguson all the information the Senator wanted about State department consultations with the Army and Navy.

Repeatedly, Welles reminded the committee that Hull had handled the negotiations with the Japanese. Welles' own particular sphere was Latin-American affairs.

Because Hull's health has not been good, his family asked that he not be kept on the witness stand for more than 45 minutes at a time.

William D. Mitchell, committee counsel, said that when Hull steps down it is planned to call Joseph C. Grew, ambassador to Tokyo at the time of the attack.

Grew Reports Furnished

Among the documents the State department turned over to the committee is a message from Grew on Jan. 27, 1941, saying "my Peruvian colleague told a member of my staff that he had heard from many sources including a Japanese source that the Japanese military forces planned, in the event of trouble with the United States ,to attempt a mass surprise attack on Pearl Harbor using all of their military facilities."

Another is a Grew message of Nov. 17, 1941, saying that "in emphasizing need for guarding against sudden military or naval actions by Japan in areas not at present involved in the China conflict, I am taking into account as a probability that the Japanese would exploit all available tactical advantages, including those of initiative and surprise."

Grew added that Washington should not rely upon the Tokyo embassy for "prior warning" because "the control in Japan over military information is extremely effective."

Japanese Assert Hirohito Lacked Time to Reply

Wanted to Answer Roosevelt's Pre-Pearl Harbor Note

TOKYO, Nov. 26 (Monday) (AP).—The newspaper "Mainichi," quoting what it said were authoritative sources, today said that Emperor Hirohito had intended to reply to President Roosevelt's pre-Pearl Harbor peace message but that lack of time prevented.

Roosevelt's personal message was delivered by then Ambassador Joseph C. Grew to Shigenori Togo, then foreign minister, some time around midnight Dec. 7, 1941, at Tokyo.

[About eight hours before the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor.]

About two hours later, Togo proceeded to the imperial palace to submit the message to the throne and the emperor expressed a wish to reply. The paper said those events occurred after the Japanese supreme command had decided upon the Pearl Harbor attack.

Hirohito subsequently commanded that Grew be informed of his intention to reply to the message and Togo notified Grew of this fact at 7:30 a. m. at Tokyo on the morning of Dec. 8 (after Pearl Harbor had been attacked.)

Togo added that the cabinet meeting which opened at then Premier Hideki Tojo's home that morning already had decided in favor of declaring war on the United States and Great Britain. The cabinet met twenty-five minutes before Togo notified Grew.

Army Discharge Program Is Near Half-Way Point

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(AP) The job of demobilizing America's huge Second World War army of 8,300,000 is expected to be half-way complete by mid-December, soon after another drop in discharge points becomes effective.

Effective Dec. 1, changes in the point system will make an additional 783,000 men and women eligible to return to civilian life.

The latest War department figures show that from Nov. 12 through Nov. 16 a total of 3,114,000 had been released. About 287,000 are being discharged every week.

On the basis of the present discharge rate and the accelerated rate in December, at least half of the Army should be out of uniform by Dec. 12, or seven months after V-E day.

Points to Drop

On Dec. 1 the discharge score for all male officers, except those in the Medical department, will drop from 75 to 73. Officers also can be released if they have four years and three months of honorable service. Likewise they can leave the Army if they have reached the age of fifty years.

The present discharge score for doctors, dentists and veterinary corps members is 80 points, and for medical administrators and sanitary corps members 70 points, but Army rumor has it that these scores will be lowered during December.

On Dec. 1 all married members of the Women's Army corps, both officers and enlisted women, who enlisted prior to May 12, 1945, will be eligible for discharge. Prior to this time only WACS married to discharged members of the military forces are being released.

The release point score for WAC officers continues at 37 but for the enlisted personnel it drops from 34 to 32.

The point score for enlisted men on Dec. 1 will drop 5 points to 55. Also they will be eligible for release if they have four years of honorable military service or have three or more dependent children under 18 years of age.

Also previous factors for discharge of enlisted men continue in effect. Under these an enlisted man can get out if he is 35 years of age and has two years of service. If he is 38 he can get out regardless of the length of service. Returned overseas veterans with 50 points if declared surplus, will be discharged when they return from furloughs.

POW's Win Release

Prisoners of war for 60 days were declared eligible for discharge Nov. 7.

WAC officers can be discharged if they have reached 40 years of age. Enlisted women who are 35 and have two years service are eligible. Discharge without regard to length of service is automatic at age 38.

The Air Forces have authorized release of enlisted men within the continental United States if they are declared surplus and if they have two years service and 50 points. Enlisted WACs, declared surplus, will be released by the Air corps if they have 25 points and one year service in the United States.

The Air Forces have declared surplus pilots, navigators and bombardiers and certain other crew specialists, such as radar equipment observers on B-29s, with 44 points and two years duty in the United States.

So far there is no change for women officer members of the Medical departments. The discharge score for nurses is 35 points and for dieticians and physical therapy aides 40 points. Nurses can get out if they are 35 years of age and the other two classifications if they are 40. Marriage to discharged members of the military forces, and dependent children under 14, are grounds for release.

McMahon Seeks Information

Senator McMahon (D-Conn) meanwhile asked the War and Navy departments to prepare comprehensive statements covering their minimum needs "to satisfy the American people that demobilization and the return of their loved ones has not been unduly delayed."

In identical letters to Secretaries Patterson and Forrestal, he wrote:

"It is not necessary to point out to you the feeling on the part of many of our good citizens that the demobilization process has not proceeded in a satisfactory manner. Frequent stories that appear in the press announcing changes in the point system serve only to further complicate an understanding of the problem.

"Might I suggest to you the advisability of preparing a comprehensive statement concerning the minimum needs of the army (and navy), the approximate allocations of the forces involved, the numbers of men who have already been released and returned to civilian life, and a redefinition in as exact terms as may be possible of those who it is intended to release within the next three months."

Little Opposition to UNO Bill In Senate Seen by Connally

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(AP) Chairman Tom Connally of the Senate Foreign Relations committee today said he believes all but 12 or 15 of the 96 senators will approve legislation detailing this country's obligations as a United Nations' member in the showdown vote this week.

The Texas Democrat also said he expects defeat of all efforts to amend the bill. He is aware that several Republican amendments will be pressed when the measure is called up tomorrow.

"It is my hope that the Senate will act speedily and decisively," Connally said in a statement. "In this turbulent and war-torn world it is imperative that we in the United States demonstrate beyond any shadow of doubt our willingness to cooperate in every posible way to keep the peace."

Governs Troop Use

Connally said that the heart of the bill is the section which would give the President power to make available to the security council a quota of armed forces—in amounts to be set later by congress—for enforcement action against aggressive nations.

The President would not have to come to congress on every separate occasion for authority to allow use of the troops, but he would have no authority to assign more than the statutory quota.

"This is exactly as it should be," Connally said. "The security council must have the power and the authority to act promptly or it will fail in its all-important task.

"Bitter experience has shown that here is one place where we dare not temporize. The security council is one agency which we cannot afford to hamper.

"The council would be rendered weak and impotent if every case of aggression had to be discussed in the congress and in the legislatures of 50 other nations before action could be taken. Such a procedure would encourage hesitation and delay and would be the delight of every potential aggressor."

Connally said the United States would be assuming no new obligation under the legislation, but only would be making the necessary arrangements to carry out the obligations assumed when the Senate ratified the charter.

The bill establishes the post of United States representative on the Security Council, with ambassadorial rank and a $20,000 salary. President Truman has indicated that former Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., will be his choice. There also would be a deputy representative. Both positions would be subject to Senate confirmation.

SENATOR URGES $7,500 RAISE

$15,000 Salary, $2,500 Expenses Backed By Downey

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP)—Senator Downey (D., Cal.) served notice on his colleagues today that he wants them to vote themselves a $5,000-a-year increase, $2,500 annual expense money and retirement pay.

Downey sent a letter to each senator advising that he will propose the congressional pay amendments when the Senate takes up a bill to boost pay of Federal Civil Service workers by 20 per cent.

The bill has been approved by the Senate Civil Service Committee, which Downey heads, but just when the Senate may consider it is still uncertain.

Truman Favors $20,000

President Truman has indorsed an increase from $10,000 to $20,000 in salaries of Congress members.

In announcing he will propose only $15,000, Downey said he was preparing other amendments which would:

1. Provide each Congress member with an assistant at $9,000 a year.

2. Provide $2,500 annually for "extraordinary congressional expenses." (House members now receive such an allowance but the Senate, although approving it for the House, rejected it for its own members.)

3. Raise by $5,000 annually the salaries of "the important officials of the Government, including Cabinet members, judges, heads of departments, assistant and under secretaries and members of commissions."

From $9,800 To $15,000

4. Raise the ceiling for Civil Service employes from $9,800 to $15,000. (Downey also expressed the hope that Chairman George (D., Ga.) of the Finance Committee, which handles unemployment compensation legislation, will offer an amendment for unemployment compensation for Federal workers.)

5. Provide a congressional retirement system. (Downey did not go into details.)

6. Provide for presidential appointment of a commission to investigate salary and employment among Federal workers.

7. Provide $25,000 additional to the President "for maintenance and official entertainment."

Attitude Unknown

The President now receives a $25,000 entertainment allowance in addition to his $75,000 salary. Downey said he had not consulted the President and did not know whether he would "approve or disapprove" of getting the additional $25,000.

"I think every senator will agree with me," Downey concluded his letter, "that ahead of Congress lie many years of heavy work and dreadful responsibilities.

"It is my own thought that we should now finally settle the embarrassing issues of governmental compensation and, having done so, put such controversies and worries behind us so as to be able to concentrate upon the great flood of problems engulfing us."

PRESIDENT WINS PARTY SUPPORT ROOSEVELT LOST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25. — (AP) President Truman today appeared to have won back to the administration camp — at least temporarily — some of the Democratic Senators who actively opposed the late President Roosevelt's domestic policies.

One of these, Senator Tydings (D-Md), told a reporter he hopes to be able to "go down the line" with President Truman on both domestic and foreign affairs.

"I want to help him because I think he is doing the right things," the Maryland Senator declared.

Tydings, one of those whose renomination President Roosevelt opposed in the 1938 "purge" attempt, noted that thus far he has cast his vote with Mr. Truman on major proposals.

The Senate lately has seen some new alignments on its Democratic side.

For example, Senator Byrd (D-Va) presented an administration-supported amendment which would give the President much broader powers to reshape the government than the Senate Judiciary committee had been willing to approve.

Reverse Stand

Byrd announced he was reversing a stand he had taken against giving President Roosevelt similar powers. Called to account by the Republicans, he said he had confidence that President Truman was more "economy minded" than his predecessor had been.

Senator George (D-Ga) against whose renomination President Roosevelt campaigned personally in 1938, took about the same tack.

George told his colleagues that he had "disagreed with the late President Roosevelt with reference to many questions," but he believed the country was fortunate now "in having our president a man who served in Congress."

"I have the hope, at least," he said, "that given this power and authority the President will try to bring about a worthwhile reorganization of the government."

Byrd said he has confidence in the President, adding, "I believe he will do what he has said he will do."

The Virginian noted that he is not going along on the President's proposal for unemployment compensation of $25 for 26 weeks, nor with a proposed 20 per cent increase in pay for Federal workers.

Administration supporters of long standing said they are keeping their fingers crossed, waiting to see what happens.

13 BILLION SPENT ABROAD

Over Sixth For Military And Other Installations

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP)—The United States built 3,013 military and other installations in foreign countries at a cost of $2,413,000,000 during the past five years, the Commerce Department disclosed today.

This was one item in expenditures abroad which totaled $13,045,000,000 during the same period.

This country also shipped abroad $42,021,000,000 in lend-lease aid and more than $800,000,000 in civil relief supplies, Secretary of Commerce Wallace noted in a report covering Federal supply and financial transactions involving foreign countries between July 1, 1940, and June 30, 1945.

95 Per Cent Military

Ninety five per cent of the construction abroad consisted of military installations. And more than half the total amount spent in construction—$1,327,000,000—financed the building of bases in the British Commonwealth, the report noted.

The American expenditures in the British Commonwealth included: United Kingdom, $23,000,000; Australia and New Zealand, $238,000,000; Canada, $370,000,000; India, $126,000,000; Bermuda, $77,000,000; British Caribbean possessions, $186,000,000; British Pacific islands, $146,000,000; Newfoundland and Labrador, $123,000,000; other areas, $38,000,000.

Of the grand total spent on construction abroad, including the British Commonwealth expenditures, $192,000,000 was spent on Japanese islands taken in the Pacific; $173,000,000 in the Philippines; $252,000,000 in the American republics; $73,000,000 in China; $54,000,000 in Greenland; $122,000,000 in France and her possessions; $67,000,000 in Iran; $64,000,000 in Italy, and $89,000,000 in various other sectors.

The construction figures do not include installations received abroad in reverse lend-lease.

Summary Of Transactions

A summary of the foreign financial and supply transactions prepared by the Commerce Department's Office of International Trade Operations showed:

Of the amount spent abroad, from $4,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 was to purchase food and materials and a similar amount to pay United States troops overseas. Receipts abroad totaled $4,000,000,000, comprising mainly remittances home by United States troops and payments for goods sold to other countries.

Over two thirds of the $4,400,000,000 of food and materials procured abroad since July 1, 1940, by nonmilitary government agencies came from Canada and the American republics (especially Cuba and Chile). Metals and minerals made up nearly half of all reported procurement abroad, and sugar, rubber and fibers another quarter of the total. On June 30 Government agencies reported $786,000,000 of commitments to buy additional commodities abroad.

Loans And Advances

Government agencies had loans and advances outstanding to foreign governments and concerns totaling $639,000,000 as of June 30, 1945. Another $433,000,000 had been extended to foreign nations, primarily China, as special financial assistance, on which settlement terms remained to be established. Outstanding commitments for further credits totaled $494,000,000 on June 30.

On June 30, 1945, inventories of supplies and materials held abroad by nonmilitary agencies totaled $167,000,000.

SENATORS TO VIEW ARMY SUPPLY PLAN

Group to Examine Program for 'Extremely Large' Amount of Materials in Reserve

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP)—An inquiry into the Army's plans for maintaining reserve supplies of materials by the Senate's Defense Investigating Committee will begin with public hearings on Wednesday, Senator Mead of New York, committee chairman, stated today.

Maj. Gen. R. L. Maxwell and Brig. Gen. Thomas M. Osborne of the Army Service Forces have been asked to appear as witnesses.

Mr. Mead said that preliminary study indicated that the Army program called for "extremely large" reserves—in the case of some items for "retention of supplies sufficient to maintain the planned Army until 1969."

The question of Army and Navy plans for retaining supplies for post-war use came up in connection with the committee's study of surplus property disposal, he said.

"The Navy appears to have no plans for retaining large quantities for future use over and above normal operating stock levels," he stated. "These in general are aimed to fill the Navy's requirements over a year's period.

"However, the War Department has worked out detailed plans for the retention of reserves over a long period of time in the future. Although the War Department does not plan to procure material for the purpose of filling these reserves, it has instructed all branches of the Army, including the Army Air Forces, not to declare items surplus until sufficient quantities to meet those reserves are on hand.

"The amounts required by the formula for determining such reserves are extremely large and in many items will prevent the declaration of any surplus at all except such items as may be obsolete or worn out, or for some other reason are not desired by the War Department. For example, in many items the formula calls for retention of supplies sufficient to maintain the planned Army until 1969."

Mr. Mead said the committee had examined into the supply systems of the armed forces during the war and in December, 1944, issued a report urging "more businesslike methods."

STRIKE LEADERS RENEW DEMANDS FOR NEGOTIATION

C. I. O. Chieftain Asks General Motors to Accept U. S. Conciliation.

FIRM IS SILENT

Spread of Walkouts to Associated Industries Expected Soon.

DETROIT, Nov. 25.—(AP) Striking C.I.O.-United Auto Workers asked General Motors corporation again tonight to negotiate their wage fight in public and with aid of Federal conciliators—"in the interest of promoting the earliest possible settlement" of the union's 30 per cent wage boost demand.

The proposal, which General Motors had originally turned down before the start of the nation-wide walkout, was contained in a telegraphed night letter from Vice President Walter P. Reuther of the union to the corporation.

The message was marked to the attention of G. M. President C. E. Wilson and Harry Anderson, vice president. Reuther said he would telephone G. M. tomorrow morning "in the hope that you will set an early date for a meeting."

Wilson, when advised of the union's action, said he would have no comment until he had received the communication.

Reuther's wire said:

"In line with your Oct. 19 statement objecting to the presence of the public as represented by the press and radio in our negotiating conferences until our controversy had become a matter of obvious public concern, may we renew our proposal that the meeting be open to the press and radio, now that a strike is in effect.

"More than three weeks ago I wrote Mr. Wilson requesting that as a public service he and I should hold a public discussion of the issues in the current G. M. case. The need for such discussion is more acute now than it was then and I would appreciate word from Mr. Wilson one way or the other.

"The public interest can best be served by free and fair public discussion of the issues."

Strike Spread Hinted

This step was taken by the U.A.W.-C.I.O. as strike leaders studied reports of a possible further spread of idleness in the auto industry which might have an effect on basic strike strategy. Nearly 200,000 workers are idle now; a half million ultimately may be affected.

When turning down the union's original proposal for the presence of Federal conciliators in negotiations, General Motors took the position that the conferences must be kept private until they had become "deadlocked."

G. M. had flatly rejected public conferences.

Outlines Proposal

Reuther prefaced his proposal tonight with the statement: "In the interest of promoting the earliest possible settlement may I suggest that representatives of the union, the corporation and the U. S. Conciliation Service meet at the earliest possible date."

Reuther said the union's request for further negotiations had been delayed pending receipt of G. M.'s "final rejection" of union-proposed arbitration of the wage dispute. In that proposal the union asked General Motors to open its financial records publicly.

The union said it was ready to confer in Washington at the invitation of Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, probably Wednesday. A General Motors spokesman indicated the corporation had not yet received word from Schwellenbach.

More Layoffs Seen

A spokesman for automotive parts makers who have suffered loss of their General Motors business expressed belief they might soon have to lay off 100,000 workers and that such shutdowns eventually would halt all auto production.

Strike strategy as outlined by union leaders has envisioned keeping in operation the competitors of a strike-closed concern. Thus parts plant suspensions affecting Ford and Chrysler operations would would be outside the framework of union strike plans.

The statement of the parts manufacturers' position by Frank Rising, general manager of the Automotive and Aviation Parts Manufacturers' association, brought this comment from Reuther:

"If these parts companies deliberately shut down their plants they'll have to answer for their conduct. This may be part of General Motors' strategy."

This last assertion was described by a General Motors spokesman as "too ridiculous to comment on."

Union Leaders Confer

Union strategy leaders conferred informally today, and the U.A.W.—C.I.O. executive committee starts a two-day session here Monday. Under consideration may be a plan to ask U.A.W.-C.I.O. tool and die workers in shops which do work on contract for the big manufacturers to refuse to handle material intended for General Motors.

NOV 26 1945

3024—31889

Tool and die workers locals will hold a joint meeting here Tuesday night.

Reuther said the number of tool and die workers who might be affected by such a plan was impossible to estimate. However, some 175 shops might be involved.

Union estimates placed the probable number of G.M. employes idle by tomorrow at 248,000, including 175,000 strikers and 73,000 salaried employes prevented by pickets from entering G.M. officers. In addition there were reported to be some 150,000 additional workers who were idle before the strike started, at which time they were awaiting a call back to their jobs as production of 1946 automobiles was stepped up.

Soup Kitchens Planned

Women's auxiliaries of the union laid plans at a meeting today to assist with soup kitchens serving strike pickets and to take part in welfare work for strikers' families, where necessary.

Soup kitchens already have been set up at several Detroit plants of General Motors. Kitchens set up in tents near the Detroit Diesel engine division plants were said to be capable of serving 1,000 persons a day.

The union's strike strategy group named a city-wide strike committee including union representatives from plants not directly involved in the General Motors walkout. The union said this committee would aid in arranging the G.M. picketing and raising of strike funds.

Management and union representatives prepared for resumption of negotiations this week in the cases of Chrysler Corporation and Ford Motor company.

The U.A.W.-C.I.O. seeks the same 30 per cent increase from Ford and Chrysler. At the same time the companies have demanded certain concessions from the union. In general these involve contractual protection against unauthorized strikes.

LABOR-INDUSTRY PARLEY NEARS END

Delegates Consider Plan for Findings of Fact in Future Disputes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(AP) Industry delegates tonight prepared to launch the labor-management conference into its fourth and presumably final week tomorrow with a proposal for public findings of fact in labor disputes.

A spokesman for the National Association of Manufacturers said the plan will call for creation of disinterested fact-finding commissions and a stay of strikes or lockouts for 50 days while the commissions investigate and report to the public.

The plan is being drafted by M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, who will present it to the conference executive committee as a starting-point for discussion.

After a four-day Thanksgiving recess—following two and a half weeks of meetings in which the conferees only skirted the major problems of industrial relations—conference leaders enter the coming week with high hopes of accomplishment.

President Ira Mosher of the National Association of Manufacturers last night called on delegates to "re[illegible] our efforts, here and quickly on voluntary arbitration, impartial fact-finding machinery, jurisdictional disputes and other aids to labor peace.

Progress Slow

He said progress so far has been slow and attributed the delay to what he called labor's unwillingness to "substitute orderly procedures for its unlimited right to strike at any time and under any circumstances."

Unless labor agrees to withhold "the weapons of industrial warfare" until orderly and peaceful procedures are tried, Mosher said, there is little hope that the conference can get the results expected by President Truman when he called the meeting on Nov. 5.

There was clear indication, however, that one conference subcommittee will break up in disagreement. The panel on jurisdictional disputes is expected to file two conflicting reports, one from labor and one from the management side, instead of joint recommendations.

This would not preclude the possibility that the executive committee might work out an acceptable solution, or that the conference in full session might find a way to curb inter-union warfare.

But industry delegates — who agree that the problem is one for the labor delegation to work out within itself—were pessimistic that the AFL and CIO could work out a solution for inter-union strife in the short time remaining.

The fact-finding issue was one on which a subcommittee also failed to agree, but the executive committee itself took on the job.

At the suggestion of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, the industry members of the executive body undertook to submit a proposal based on the one which failed of agreement in the lower committee. They then assigned the task to Clement.

Plan Outlined

A spokesman for the NAM described the plan as follows:

When a dispute affecting the public welfare is not settled by negotiation, conciliation or arbitration, the parties should give the governor of the state 10 days in which to appoint a fact-finding commission, nominated by the chief judicial officer of the state and made up of persons not connected with labor or management. The commission would report within 30 days, making no recommendations but publishing its findings as a means of bringing public opinion to bear in behalf of a settlement.

For ten days after publication of the fact, the no-strike-or-lockout agreement would continue in force.

If the dispute crossed state lines or amounted to a national emergency, the President would appoint the fact-finding body. In every case, the commission would dissolve when the specific case was completed.

The big dispute, it appeared, would hinge on whether there should be temporary commissions of the type described, or whether a permanent fact-finding agency should be set up to handle all major controversies.

WARD WORKERS SET FOR ONE WEEK STRIKE

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—(AP) Union officials of the C.I.O. said today a "demonstration" strike against Montgomery Ward and company units in six cities will begin as scheduled tomorrow. The strike will last one week and affect about 75,000 Ward's employes in six cities, the union estimated.

Irving Abramson, head of the national Ward's organizing committee of the United Retail, Wholesale, and Department Store Employes union, said efforts to avert the strike had failed. No reply has been received from the company, he said, to an offer by Samuel Wolchok, union president, to submit disputed issues to arbitration. They include requests for wage adjustments, a closed shop and check-off of union dues.

Company spokesmen declined to make any statement.

Lumber Wage-Boost Agreement Reached

Portland, Ore., Nov. 25 (AP)—The first major break in the long Pacific Northwest lumber tieup, appeared today as operators and strikers in the Tacoma (Wash.) area agreed upon a 15-cent-an-hour increase in all classifications, the AFL Lumber and Sawmill Workers announced.

The union had demanded 20 cents an hour and the operators had offered 12½ cents. About 4,000 workers are affected by the agreement.

The agreement came out of a meeting of 25 operators and union representatives called by the United States Conciliation Service yesterday. It was ratified today by the strike policy committee.

640,000 To Vote On Steel Strike

Pittsburgh, Nov. 25 (AP)—The largest mass strike vote in history, affecting 640,000 CIO steelworkers in 766 plants throughout the country, will take place Wednesday.

The issue is the union demand for a $2-a-day wage increase, a demand rejected by the entire steel industry.

Management spokesmen, in denying the wage boost, have asserted price increases must be granted by OPA before any pay raises will be possible.

Philip Murray, CIO and United Steel Worker president, has emphasized that the vote, to be conducted by the National Labor Relations Board, is merely to sound out union sentiment on a strike.

Murray said no strike is to be called unless or until the union wage policy committee and international officers give the word. He has already warned district and local officers against permitting wildcat walkouts.

C. I. O. OPPOSES CURB ON AIR COMMENTATORS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(AP) C.I.O. President Philip Murray expressed opposition today to a bill by Representative Wood (D-Ga) to regulate radio stations and broadcasters.

The measure would require stations to specify whether a commentator is broadcasting news or opinions.

"The C.I.O. is unalterably opposed to attempts to censor or gag radio broadcasts," Murray declared in a letter to Chairman Lea (D-Calif) of the House Interstate Commerce committee, to which the measure has been referred.

Ernest Adamson, counsel for the House committee investigating un-American activities, which Wood heads, said last week the bill is aimed at "irresponsible" commentators and did not represent an attempt "to control or gag anyone."

Passage Of Anti-Labor Bills Feared By Leaders In House

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP)—House leaders expressed fear today that Congress will pass stiff anti-labor legislation if major strikes continue.

They said they have blocked for at least a week a vote on two far-reaching bills to regulate unions, but that they doubt if action can be delayed much longer.

"We have succeeded in postponing a vote, but only until next week," Representative Sabath (D., Ill.), chairman of the Rules Committee, said.

"We ought to wait longer, so we can legislate wisely and sensibly. With emotions running so high, harmful and dangerous laws may be passed."

Two Measures Advance

Likewise, House Democratic leader McCormack (Mass.) said "there is danger Congress will pass vicious anti-labor legislation if strife and unrest remains acute."

The two measures awaiting action were approved last Wednesday by the rules group, despite protests of Sabath and other Administration spokesmen that they would "stab labor in the back."

Supporters of the legislation—including such key figures as Representative May (D., Ky.), chairman of the Military Committee, and Representative Arends (R., Ill.), minority party whip— argued, however, that the time has come for Congress to "crack down" on irresponsible elements. They said labor and unions, generally, would not be harmed by the action.

Bill Would Affect PAC

One bill, approved previously by the Military Committee, would:

1. Take away for a year the collective bargaining rights of any union striking in violation of no-strike agreements.

2. Makes unions liable for civil damages.

3. Ban unions or their subordinate organization from making political contributions in a national primary, election or convention. This would hit directly at the CIO's Political Action Committee.

4. Repeal the section of the War Labor Disputes Act which requires the Government to conduct strike votes if properly notified.

The other measure, by Representative Hobbs (D., Ala.), would impose heavy penalties on unions interfering with interstate shipments by farmers. Hobbs said it would "outlaw racketeering whereby farmers hauling their goods to market are required to pay fees by unions."

Cox Would Force Action

Representative Cox (D., Ga.) said that if Sabath does not call up the legislation for House consideration some time next week he will force action.

As a member of the rules group, he has that privilege seven days after filing of a report on the bills. Cox argued at the hearing on the measures that they are needed "because the labor goons have the country at bay."

Representatives Biemiller (D., Wis.) and Holifield (D., Cal.) testified, however, that they believe passage of the proposals would keep unions from ever again writing no-strike pledges into work contracts.

Fight In House Dates Back To Frontier Days

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP)—A bitter battle is docketed in the House this week on a controversy dating back to frontier days.

The question is whether Congress shall repeal the 50 per cent rate reductions for movement of Government property, given by the railroads in exchange for grants of Federal lands during the railroad building era. Since 1940, the rate reductions have applied only to military goods and mass troop movements.

Proponents of the repeal bill, by Representative Boren (D., Okla.), argue that the Government has been repaid many times over for the land it gave the rail carriers.

Representative Cochran (D., Mo.), leading the opposition, said repeal of the rates would cost the taxpayers $200,000,000 a year additional for Government traffic, and "one of the greatest lobbies that ever stormed the Capitol can say 'This is our victory day.'"

Bruce R. Morris Named Chief Of OPA Branch

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP)—Appointment of Bruce R. Morris as price executive of the automotive price branch of OPA was announced today by John S. Clement, director of OPA's industrial materials price division.

Morris, who has been assistant price executive of the rubber, chemical and drugs price branch, succeeds J. O. Roberts, of Philadelphia, who is returning to private business. The appointment is effective November 28.

Morris is a native of Girard, Ohio.

The newly designated chief of staff entered the hospital Friday.

INFANTRY TO CONTINUE ESSENTIAL TO ARMY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(AP) Secretary of War Patterson predicts that the infantry "will be as essential in war in the future as they have been in the past."

Patterson, who commanded an infantry rifle company in World War I, gave his ideas in a letter the Infantry Journal will publish.

"Even with the atomic bomb and the great panoply of ingenious weapons we have or will have," Patterson wrote, "the soldier of the infantry will still be the backbone of the army, the man who takes and holds the ground."

National Clothes Drive Gets 2,900 Chairmen

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP)—A national campaign to collect 100,000,000 garments for war victims has more than 2,900 local chairmen lined up so far, Chairman Henry J. Kaiser reported today.

Wisconsin has the largest number of community leaders—237—ready for the drive, to be conducted January 7 to 31. New York has 178, Texas 163, Pennsylvania 132, Illinois 131 and Nebraska 127.

The campaign, called the Victory Clothing Collection for Overseas Relief, will accept shoes and bedding also. It is conducted on behalf of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

RESTRICTIONS LIFTED ON HOLIDAY CABLES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(AP) Soldiers, sailors and the folks back home can exchange cable and radio holiday greetings this year without restriction.

The War and Navy departments announced today the flat ban on holiday messages, imposed last year after two previous years of message rationing, has been ended and plans made to handle a heavy volume of good cheer.

Messages should be filed not later than Dec. 18 and care taken to give the full name, rank, organization, location and APO number. Greetings are selected from the form offerings contained in the "expeditionery force message blanks," available at telegraph and radio offices.

STRATTON TAKES OVER ARMY CIVIL WORKS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(AP) Brig. Gen. James H. Stratton became today the new director of civil works in the Office of the Chief of Army Engineers.

He succeeds Col. George R. Goethals, son of the builder of the Panama Canal, who retired for a second time.

The Army Civil works program involves building dams, reservoirs, docks and piers, dredging harbors, and other projects to improve navigable waters or control floods.

Stratton, a native of Stonington, Conn., now living in Arlington, Va., wears the Legion of Merit for his work as chief of operations at headquarters of the services of supply in the European theater during the war.

CATHOLICS URGE AID FOR NEGROES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(AP) The National Catholic Welfare Conference annnounced today that "strong Catholic action" had been decided on at a meeting here to help solve the economic problems of Negroes.

The announcement said the conclusions reached at a two-day Negroe-white meeting held by the N. C. W. C. Social Action department were being sent to a long list of Catholics active in this field throughout the country.

Among the matters discussed and approved, the announcement said were:

"The establishment of Catholic interracial committees.

"Encouragement and development of more Negro organizations for self-education.

"The strengthening of Catholicity among all elements of the community."

Asserting discriminations in employment have resulted in "wholesale injustice," the group urged establishment of a permanent Federal Fair Employment Practice committee and state committees patterned after the one in New York.

The group also urged extension of the Social Security law to employes not now covered, including those in domestic service, the raising of the Federal minimum wages-hours law to a 65-75 cents minimum, and elimination of "discriminations by unions against Negroes."

Better housing for Negroes also was recommended by the report, which said:

"Effort must be made to relieve the tension and fears among whites which keep Negroes from expanding into new neighborhoods.

Europa Brings 6,200 Veterans From Europe

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—The former German liner Europa, with 6,200 returning veterans from Europe aboard, docked today after an uneventful six-day trip from Southampton, England.

The ship, renamed the Navy Transport P-177, was on her first trip as a troopship.

Capt. Benjamin Franklin Perry, of Alexandria, Va., who previously commanded the light cruiser San Diego in the Pacific, was skipper of the 50,000-ton transport.

STOWAWAY WIFE AND CHILD ARRIVE

GI Husband Uninformed Of English Family's Plans

Boston, Nov. 25 (AP)—Stowaways aboard a troopship, the English wife of a United States Army soldier and her 8-month-old son, arrived in America today without the knowledge of the husband, Private Ralph J. Maresco, 24, of Corona, N.Y.

Mrs. Winifred M. Maresco, 25, said she and her son, Joseph Ralph, were smuggled aboard the S.S. New Zealand Victory and hidden in an emergency-generator room by her brother, a British soldier.

She said that they remained there for a day and a half until forced out by hunger. She had nothing to eat for herself and fed her baby with condensed milk.

Furnished Suitable Quarters

After she came out of hiding, she was furnished suitable quarters and food.

Mrs. Maresco said that although her parents knew of her intentions to come here from England, her husband was unaware of her plans.

She said she met him at a party of the Women's Land Army, to which she belonged, and that they were married eighteen months ago.

Mrs. Maresco, who was taken into custody by immigration officials, is a native of Birkenhead.

Husband On Way To Boston

Meanwhile, in New York city Maresco went aboard a train for Boston.

Joseph R. Maresco, his father, said the soldier did not know that his wife was en route to this country, and first learned of her presence when he received a telegram from Boston. He quoted his son as saying that the couple had talked over her coming to the United States and planned the trip for March or April of next year.

Young Maresco arrived home early this month. He had gone overseas November 1, 1943. Shortly after his marriage he was transferred to France but visited his wife three or four times before coming home.

"Bride Smuggling" Alleged

London, Nov. 25 (AP)—The London Sunday Pictorial today said a "smuggling ring" helps GI brides to stow away on ships bound for America, at £250 ($1,000) a head.

Scotland Yard and a United States Army spokesman said they were unable to confirm or deny the paper's assertion that they are on the trail of such racketeers.

The Pictorial declared that deals were made on London street corners, with no records kept, and that "any wife of a returned United States service man who can scrape together the money for the illegal passage is completely at the mercy of the ring, as she is passed from agent to agent.

The girls must "travel rough," the Pictorial said, naming Liverpool and Cardiff as "suspected ports" of the racket operations.

SOCIALIZED EUROPE PREDICTED BY DEAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—(AP) The Very Rev. Hewlett Johnson, dean of Canterbury Cathedral, said yesterday before leaving for England that he foresaw "a socialized Europe in 10 years, or much less" and eventual socialization of the United States.

In an interview here he said that Socialism was "not impossible in the United States."

"I see a progressive socialized trend," he said. Economic pressures are moving the countries of Europe toward Socialism, he declared, adding, "and that includes England."

General Patch Rites Held At West Point

West Point, N.Y., Nov. 25 (AP)—Funeral services for Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, Jr., Fourth Army Commander, were held today at the old cadet chapel at the United States Military Academy.

Chaplain John B. Walthour conducted the services. Burial was in the West Point cemetery with a firing squad and color guard from the Infantry detachment at the Academy participating.

Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, General Jacob L. Devers, comander of the Army Ground Forces, and thirteen of Patch's classmates in the West Point class of 1913 attended the services.

Among the personal party which arrived today by plane from San Antonio, Texas, were the General's widow, Mrs. A. M. Patch, Jr., Capt. and Mrs. C. M. Drummond, his son-in-law and daughter; Maj. Gen. Joseph D. Patch, of Washington, D.C., his brother, and Mrs. A. M. Patch 3d, widow of the general's son, who was killed in France last year.

SOCIALIZED MEDICINE ASSAILED BY DOCTORS

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—(AP) The Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, terming the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill "a Utopian impossibility," today expressed opposition to any form of socialized medicine or compulsory health insurance.

The association's board of directors and House of Delegates said in a statement following the group's annual two-day meeting that plans offered by the bill and by President Truman "can only lead to the disintegration of the quality of medical care received by people."

Mr. Truman had advocated compulsory health insurance in a proposed health program outlined early this week.

Scientists Hit Cyclotron Loss

Oak Ridge, Tenn., Nov. 25 (AP)—The wrecking of Japanese cyclotrons is "wanton and stupid to the point of constituting a crime against mankind," the Association of Oak Ridge Scientists asserted in a statement today.

The scientists, who are employed in a Clinton laboratory, one of the atomic bomb plants, said the destruction of the equipment reported by General MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters "is entirely analogous to the burning of the Louvain Library by the Germans in 1914 and 1940."

A Scientific Instrument

The statement was released by the executive committee of the association, consisting of Paul S. Henshaw, chairman; Waldo Cohn, vice chairman; Edward Bohlman, Lyle Borst, Harrison Brown, Spofford English, Richard Lyon, Richard Metcalf, Karl Morgan, Joseph Rush and James Stangby.

"The cyclotron is a scientific instrument which is used to discover the fundamental facts of nature, the same facts that President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee and Prime Minister King have just declared are, and shall remain, the property of the world," the statement said.

Widespread Censure Seen

"Months of continuous operation by a cyclotron will, at most, produce barely enough bomb material to see; it takes pounds of such material to make one bomb.

". . . The wrecking of the Japanese cyclotron is as disreputable and ill-considered as would be the burning of Japanese libraries or the smashing of printing presses. This action will be condemned by all intelligent people throughout the world. The officials responsible for it must be called to account for this act of pillage. Men who cannot distinguish between the usefulness of a research machine and the military importance of a 16-inch gun have no place in positions of authority."

THE BALTS BEGAN THEIR STRIKE THURSDAY IN HOPE THAT PRIME MINISTER ALBIN HANSSON WOULD REVOKE THE DECISION TO TURN THEM OVER TO THE RUSSIANS. HOWEVER, ALL INDICATIONS WERE THAT THE GOVERNMENT WOULD NOT REVERSE ITS STAND. THE GOVERNMENTS POSITION IS THAT, SINCE THE GERMAN STATE NO LONGER EXISTS, BALTS MUST BE RETURNED TO THE AREA IN WHICH THE SERVED AS SOLDIERS---THE AREA NOW UNDER RUSSIAN CONTROL.

PER NOV 26 1945

IN DEMANDING EXTRADITION THE RUSSIANS POINTED OUT THAT THE GERMAN SURRENDER TERMS CALLED FOR SOLDIERS IN THE GERMAN ARMY TO LAY DOWN THEIR ARMS WHERE THEY WERE.

SWEDISH NEWSPAPER OPINION IS SHARPLY DIVIDED AND THE EXTRADITION OF THE BALTS MAY BECOME A POTENT POLITICAL ISSUE.

KYOTO,JAPAN,NOV.25-(AP)-ITTOSAI, THE SAMURAI SWORDSMAN, IS BUSY AND PROSPEROUS--BUT NOT ALTOGETHER HAPPY.

"SWORDMAKING," HE SAYS WITH A SHRUG, "IS FINISHED IN JAPAN."

THE SLIM, STRAIGHT-BACKED MAN WHO WAS JAPAN'S CHAMPION SWORDSMAN FOR 12 YEARS KNOWS THAT THOUSANDS OF SWORDS AND SABERS, MANY THE ARTISTIC TRIUMPHS OF CRAFTSMEN OF 500 YEARS AGO, ARE GOING TO AMERICA AS SOUVENIRS. SOME, HE FEARS, WILL END UP IN GARAGES, PAWNSHOPS OR ATTICS.

HE IS IN NO POSITION TO SAY ANYTHING ABOUT IT, BUT ITTOSAI WOULD LIKE TO SEE AT LEAST SOME FINE SWORDS PLACED IN MUSEUMS, OR ENTRUSTED TO COLLECTORS WHO APPRECIATE THE ANCIENT ART OF SWORDMAKING.

"YOU AMERICANS THINK ONLY OF EYE APPEAL WHEN YOU LOOK AT A SWORD," HE SAID OVER A CUP OF TEA IN HIS LITTLE SHOP.

"YOU MUST APPRECIATE THE EFFORT, THE SKILL, THE SPIRITUAL MEANING IN A SWORD. IN THE OLD DAYS WHEN A MAN MADE A SWORD HE PUT HIS HEART AND SOUL INTO IT BECAUSE IT WAS FOR HIS MASTER."

ITTOSAI IS PRACTICING HIS BELOVED ART BY REPAIRING AND RECONDITIONING SWORDS AND SABERS BELONGING TO AMERICAN OCCUPATION TROOPS.

NO MATTER HOW BUSY HE IS, HE TAKES TIME TO LOOSEN THE HILT AND EXAMINE THE UPPER PART OF ANY BLADE TO LEARN WHO MADE THE SWORD AND IF IT IS ANY GOOD. WITH THE AID OF AN INTERPRETER HE ALMOST PLEADINGLY INSTRUCTS THE NEW AMERICAN OWNER ON THE CARE OF HIS SOUVENIR.

CORP.WILLARD HOFFMAN, PALMERTON,PA., SHOWED THE SWORDSSMITH A SABER HE HAD OBTAINED AT AN ARSENAL ONLY THE DAY BEFORE, AND ITTOSAI HAD GOOD NEWS FOR HIM. THE SABER WAS 250 YEARS OLD AND WORTH ABOUT 8,000 YEN.

RECENTLY ITTOSAI WAS CALLED TO AN ORDNANCE COLLECTION STATION IN NEARBY OSAKA. IN ROOM AFTER ROOM HE FOUND GREAT STOCKS OF SWORDS AND SABERS--28,000 IN ALL.

HE WORKED ALL AFTERNOON. DIPPING INTO THE SEA OF SCABBARDS HE SLIPPED THE BLADES IN AND OUT LIKE A MAN DEALING CARDS. IN ALL, HE EXAMINED 500 PIECES. AT THE END OF HIS APPRAISAL HE TOLD THE AMERICAN COMMANDING OFFICER: "THESE ARE GOOD."

AND HE SET DOWN THREE SWORDS.

HE SAID THE GOVERNMENT WAS AWAITING ITS OWN DIPLOMATIC INFORMATION FROM TEHRAN. VERY LITTLE OF THIS HAS COME THROUGH, HOWEVER, DUE, DIPLOMATS SAY, TO THE INABILITY OF THE EMBASSY THERE TO CONTACT THE AMERICAN CONSULATE IN THE RUSSIAN MILITARY ZONE.

THE RUSSIANS ARE IN NORTHERN IRAN, MAINLY THE PROVINCE OF AZERBAIJAN WHICH BORDERS RUSSIA. BOTH THEY AND THE BRITISH WHO OCCUPY THE SOUTHERN PART OF THE COUNTRY ARE LEGALLY SUPPOSED TO GET OUT BY MARCH 2. UNITED STATES TRANSPORT TROOPS, IN IRAN DURING THE WAR, ARE ALMOST ALL OUT NOW.

THE RUSSIANS ARE INTERESTED IN OIL AND MINERAL POSSIBILITIES IN NORTHERN IRAN AND IN THE WHOLE COUNTRY'S STRATEGIC RELATION TO RUSSIA'S SECURITY. FOR MONTHS THERE HAS BEEN SPECULATION HERE THAT BEFORE THEIR DEADLINE FOR LEAVING THE COUNTRY THEY MIGHT SEEK TO ENCOURAGE CREATION OF AN ACTIVELY PRO-SOVIET GOVERNMENT AT TEHRAN.

IN THE WILD, ROUGH COUNTRY OF AZERBAIJAN THERE HAVE BEEN UPRISINGS IN THE PAST. ALTHOUGH RUSSIAN TROOPS DOMINATE THERE IRAN HAS GARRISONS IN KEY SPOTS. TEN DAYS AGO THERE WAS A NEW AND VIOLENT OUTBREAK. TEHRAN IMMEDIATELY CLAIMED IT WAS INSPIRED BY OUTSIDE FORCES.

TEHRAN ORDERED FOUR BATTALIONS OF TROOPS TO GO IN AND HELP THE AZERBAIJAN GARRISONS RESTORE ORDER. ACCORDING TO TEHRAN THESE WERE STOPPED AT KAZVIN, EDGE OF THEIR MILITARY ZONE, BY THE RUSSIANS.

IRAN ASKED THE UNITED STATES TO INTERCEDE WITH RUSSIA AND A SIMILAR REQUEST PRESUMABLY WENT TO BRITAIN, WHOSE INTERESTS IN IRANIAN OIL ARE VERY GREAT.

U. S. ADVOCATES 'BIG THREE' QUIT IRAN BY YEAR END

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(AP) The United States lined up openly beside little Iran today in proposing that all American, Russian and British troops evacuate that oil-rich country by Jan. 1.

Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala, who had been working toward that end in State department conversations for the last week, termed the proposal "most satisfactory." He expressed confidence Britain would fall in with it promptly.

There was no official reaction from London immediately on that point but it was announced there that the British had urged the Russians not to impede the movement of Iranian troops in Iran. The Iranians complained that Red Army officers had prevented them from sending reinforcements to Azerbaijan province where an uprising has been reported.

The fact that Iran dispatched two stiff notes of protests to Russia last week was widely interpreted as an indication that the Tehran government expected backing from the United States.

Ala disclosed today that Iran has sent two more protests to Moscow. One of these dealt again with the reported turning back of Iranian forces from the district where the Russians are dominant. The other complained that the Red Army has not entirely evacuated Tehran as promised and that Soviet officers and men in civilian clothes are carrying on "certain activities in the capital."

U. S. officials said, however, that although handfuls of American, British and Russian troops are still in Tehran, all army garrisons have been disbanded there.

The American note, delivered Saturday by Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, acknowledged that this government's reports of the uprising and the turning back of Iranian troops came from the Tehran government itself.

It recalled the Roosevelt-Stalin-Churchill Tehran declaration which pledged the Big Three governments to respect the "independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity of Iran."

The U. S. view is that this pledge permits Iran to move its armed forces about the country as deemed necessary without interference, the note said. It added that the U. S. assumed Moscow was issuing suitable instructions to Red Army commanders in Iran.

Withdrawal is Urged

"In an event, the situation which has arisen has convinced the American government that it would be in the common interest for all Soviet, British and American troops to be withdrawn immediately from Iran," the note asserted.

Consequently, it said, orders are being issued for the complete withdrawal of the remaining 6,000 troops—none of whom are combat soldiers—by Jan. 1.

The U. S. therefore proposes, it added, that Britain and Russia do likewise, although not obligated to do so until March 2, according to previous agreement.

Such action, the note concluded, would maintain confidence of nations like Iran in the "friendly intention and good will" of the U. S., Russia, Britain, France and China—the permanent members of the United Nations Security council.

Total Iran Evacuation By Jan. 1 Proposed To Britain, Russia

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—The United States has proposed to the British and Russian Governments that the armed forces of all three nations be entirely withdrawn from Iran by January 1.

The proposal was contained in a note that United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman delivered to the Russian Government in Moscow on Saturday, the State Department made it public today.

At the same time, this Government made plain that regardless of British and Russian response to the proposal, all American forces would be evacuated from Iran by the first of the year.

Information contained in the note was delivered simultaneously to the British Government, the Department said.

Tehran Pledge Recalled

After reviewing recent reports that Soviet forces had turned back Iranian troops dispatched to the northern part of the country to put down an armed uprising, the United States note recalled the Tehran Declaration of 1943, in which Russia, Britain and the United States pledged themselves to respect the "independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity of Iran."

It was the United States' view, the note said, that this pledge should permit the Iran Government to move its armed forces wherever necessary to preserve its authority and maintain security "without interference from Soviet, British or American military or civil authorities."

U.S. Orders Forces To Leave

The United States has already reduced its forces in Iran from 28,000 to less than 6,000, and there are no American combat troops in the country, the note said. It added:

"While the immediate withdrawal of these troops will cause considerable inconvenience to this Government, nevertheless instructions are being issued to the American military authorities in Iran to take immediate steps to effect the complete withdrawal of all American forces from Iran by January 1, 1946.

This Government proposes that the British and Soviet governments issue similar instructions to their commanders and that arrangements be made immediately for the complete withdrawal of all foreign troops from Iran by January 1, 1946."

"Would Dispel Doubts"

The note said immediate steps to that end "would dispel any doubt regarding the intentions of the three governments to carry out the assurances given by them."

It said the United States was aware that the respective governments were pledged to remove their troops only before next March 2.

"On the other hand, now that hostilities have ceased, it sees no compelling reason for them to remain until that date," it added.

Iran Protests Anew

Iran has sent Russia two more notes, protesting Soviet activities in a disturbance in the northern part of the country.

Ambassador Hussein Ala disclosed this today as he prepared to call at the State Department for information on the note that the United States sent to Msocow. This asked for details of Red Army activities in northern Iran.

The Ambassador said his country's notes—the third and fourth official Iranian protests in the last week—were delivered to the Russian Embassy in Tehran, Iran's capital.

Iran's New Complaints

He said the two additional Iranian notes to Russia contained these complaints:

1. That by halting Iranian troops dispatched to the north to quell an uprising in Azerbaijan province, the Soviets had permitted revolutionary troops of the so-called Democratic party to operate as far south as Zundjan, where "unknown people" were distributing arms and ammunition.

2. That Russian troops had not evacuated Tehran as pledged and that Red Army officers and men, wearing civilian clothes, carried out "certain activities" in the capital.

Allied diplomats here are taking an increasingly serious view of the Russia-Iran situation.

Some fear it may present the United Nations with a critical test at the very outset of organized efforts to protect the peace and security of all nations.

The United States has moved into the situation cautiously by asking Russia for information about the activities of its armed forces in Azerbaijan.

Reports On Molotov

Essentially the question is whether the Red Army has prevented Iranian troops from acting effectively against rebel bands and whether Iran's sovereignty was thus violated.

A Moscow dispatch last night quoted diplomatic quarters as saying that Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov during discussions with Iran's Ambassador, Madjid Aly, had given assurances that Russia would respect Iranian sovereignty.

The dispatch added that Molotov was said to have expressed surprise at Iranian contentions that Red troops had refused free passage to Iranian forces in Azerbaijan.

Reporting that stories of Red Army interference had been described officially in Moscow as exaggerations, the dispatch went on to say it was understood that such progress had been made in the Molotov-Ahy conversations that a projected Iranian mission to Moscow had been canceled.

Iran May Complain To UNO

Washington officials obviously hoped these more optimistic reports would be borne out by Moscow's reply to the American note, and by later developments.

The fact remained, however, that the Iranians have already complained of restrictions on their independence and presumably may continue their complaints until the United Nations Organization meets formally in London in January. At that time Iran would have an opportunity, is she still were of the same mind, to bring formal charges against Russia.

Red Army forces occupy the northern section of the little middle eastern country and British troops the southern section. American forces operated railroad and truck lines in Iran during the war for lend-lease deliveries from the Persian Gulf to Russia, but most of the Americans have been pulled out.

Big Powers' Interests

Iran is a critical testing ground whether or not it becomes a specific issue for the United Nations. Here are principal big-power interests in the country:

1. The British Navy gets much of its petroleum from Iran, and American oil interests sought concessions there during the war. This effort was dropped when the Iranian Government said it would not grant any wartime concessions after Russia had demanded comparable rights in the northern military zone.

2. Iran is a bridge or a wall, depending on its political complexion, between southern Russia and the Persian Gulf, with its connections with world-wide shipping routes. In this respect the country may very well figure in Moscow's plans for securing permanent outlets to the sea.

3. As a frontier between the Soviet Union and the British Empire, Iran probably has its greatest immediate importance in relation to Turkey, which again involves Russia's traditional efforts to get secure sea approaches. Iran touches Turkish territories for which the Russians have entered a claim on the grounds that they actually belong to Russia traditionally. This, in turn, is believed by diplomats here to be linked with the Soviet Union's real objective of securing practical domination of the Dardanelles straits.

American officials suspect that those factors may be the real interests underlying the revolt about ten days ago of wild tribesmen and other elements in Azerbaijan. The Government at Tehran tried to move in four battalions of troops and police to strengthen its garrisons in the revolt area but reported it had been unable to do so because of Russian objection.

Secretary of State Byrnes sought information from the American Embassy at Tehran but found that the embassy could not communicate with its consular representative in the rebellious area. It was then that the decision was made to appeal directly to Russia for a report.

Move By U.S. Envoy Reported

Moscow, Nov. 26 (AP)—United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman was reported in Iranian circles today to have requested an interview with the Iranian Ambassador. The Iranian Ambassador talked with Soviet officials last week.

Official United States sources declined comment on Washington reports that a note had been sent to the Kremlin.

Text of U. S. Note to Soviet on Iran

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—The text of a State Department announcement on the note delivered to the Soviet Government in connection with Iran.

The American Ambassador in Moscow, acting under instructions from the Secretary of State, delivered a note to the Soviet Government on Nov. 24 concerning the situation in Iran. The proposal concerning withdrawal of all foreign troops from Iran contained in this note has also been made simultaneously to the British Government.

The note to the Soviet Government reads textually as follows:

The Government of Iran has informed the Government of the United States that armed uprisings have taken place in areas of northern Iran where Soviet troops are stationed; that the Iranian Government has directed certain of its armed forces to enter those areas for the purpose of re-establishing internal security and its own authority; that Soviet military commanders have refused to permit these forces to proceed; and that consequently the Iranian Government has not been able to carry out its responsibility for the maintenance of peace and order in Iranian territory.

It will be recalled that on Dec. 1, 1943, Marshal Stalin, Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt signed in Teheran a declaration in which they stated that their Governments were "as one with the Government of Iran in their desire for the maintenance of the independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity of Iran." This Government has entire confidence that the Governments of the Soviet Union and Great Britain are just as zealous as the Government of the United States meticulously to abide by the assurances contained in this declaration.

In the view of this Government the fulfillment of these assurances requires that the Government of Iran should have full freedom, without interference from Soviet, British or American military or civil authorities, to move its armed forces through Iran in such a manner as it may consider necessary in order to preserve its authority and to maintain internal security.

The Government of the United States realizes that any Soviet commanders in the areas concerned who may have prevented the free movement of Iranian forces may have been acting without the sanction of the Soviet Government.

If the Soviet commanders have been acting without instructions in this matter, it is assumed that the Soviet Government is issuing to them instructions in keeping with the declaration referred to above. In any event, the situation which has arisen has convinced the American Government that it would be in the common interest of all Soviet, British and American troops to be withdrawn immediately from Iran. As long as any of these troops remain in the territory of a friendly Government, incidents and misunderstandings are likely to occur. The Government of the United States has already reduced its forces in Iran during the present year from a maximum strength of approximately 28,000 to less than 6,000.

There are no American combat troops in Iran. Those who remain are engaged in activities exclusively of a service nature nected with the liquidation and disposal of military supplies and the operation of certain important communications connected with demobilization. While the immediate withdrawal of these troops will cause considerable inconvenience to this Government, nevertheless instructions are being issued to the American military authorities in Iran to take immediate steps to effect the complete withdrawal of all American forces from Iran by Jan. 1, 1946. This Government proposes that the British and Soviet Governments issue similar instructions to their commanders and that arrangements be made immediately for the complete withdrawal of all foreign troops from Iran by Jan. 1, 1946.

Immediate steps to effect such withdrawal would dispel any doubt regarding the intentions of the three Governments to carry out the assurances given by them. In making this suggestion, the Government of the United States is aware that no undertaking has been given that these troops are to be removed from Iran before March 2, 1946. On the other hand, now that hostilities have ceased, it sees no compelling reason for them to remain until that date. It is of the opinion that immediate steps to effect withdrawal by Jan. 1 not only would obviate possible misunderstandings but would also be a fitting recognition of the notable contributions which Iran, a member in good standing of the United Nations, has made to the common war effort.

Nations such as Iran were encouraged at the United Nations Conference at San Francisco to place full trust in the friendly intentions and good-will of the permanent members of the Security Council. The Government of the United States is confident that the Soviet Union and Great Britain are no less anxious than the United States, in dealing with nations such as Iran, to follow a line of action which will make it clear that the trust of these nations in the permanent members of the Security Council has not been misplaced.

Similar proposals are being made to the British Government.

To Look Into Spain's Offer of Asylum

London, Nov. 26 (A. P.).—The Allied powers will not accept Spain's offer or refuge for 50,000 children from devastated Europe until they assure themselves regarding their care and education, a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

The British Government's view, the spokesman said, is that Gen. Franco must satisfy the Allies first as to the proper feeding of the children and then as to the sort of education they would receive. Reports from Madrid have said the children would be cared for by social auxiliaries of the Falange.

HIGH POINT MEN TO RETURN SOON

PARIS, Nov. 26—(AP) The U. S. Army said today that troops in the European theater having 65 discharge points could expect to be home by Christmas.

The announcement said delays forecast in October and early in November because of a shipping shortage had been more than made up.

Estimated redeployment in November and December will bring theater strength below its final fixed total of 681,000 troops of which 370,000 were earmarked for an occupational force and 311,000 for liquidation force troops. The arrival of an estimated 87,000 replacements will make up the required total.

Some 400,000 troops are expected to move home during November.

The Army said soldiers with critical point scores of 70 should be out of the theater by Dec. 1. Those with scores of between 55 and 70 have been divided into priority groupings, with those who have 65 to 70 points scheduled to depart during the first week of December.

The Army said all men with 55 to 65 points should be out of the European theater and on their way home by New Year's.

France Plans No Break With Franco Government

Will Not Recognize Republican Regime-in-Exile in Mexico

PARIS, Nov. 26 (AP).—A government spokesman announced today that France has no intention of breaking relations with the Franco government in Madrid and recognizing the Spanish Republican government-in-exile in Mexico. He said his government is not sure the Spanish government in Mexico "represents the will of all Spain" and France does not want the seat of this government transferred to France.

Move Due In France To Naturalize Banks

Paris, Nov. 26 (AP)—The French Government is expected to take its step toward nationalizing banks and power companies tomorrow when President de Gaulle's new cabinet holds its first meeting since its formation last week.

Projects for the nationalization of credit, and production and distribution of electricity are on the cabinet's agenda.

WORLD TERROR PLOT DIVULGED

Story Of Nazis Inciting Japs To Attack Told Court

Nuernberg, Germany, Nov. 26 (AP)—The American prosecution, seeking to establish cold-blooded Nazi premeditation of aggressive war, today laid bare at the international war-crimes trial the story of Nazi plotting from the rape of Austria to the Hitler-approved Japanese attack on the United States.

The Nazi's account, constructed from the written words of the Nazis themselves, revealed that Hitler had planned to assassinate the German Ambassador to Prague, if necessary, to justify his attack on Czechoslovakia. It disclosed that he had deliberately planned to starve millions of Russians to get food for the Wehrmacht.

Major Revelations Made

Rarely in history have so many high state secrets been given to the world at one time as were produced in the ten captured documents which were placed before the International War Crimes Tribunal during the day as evidence against the twenty high Nazis on trial.

The defendants, alternately shocked, vexed and disgusted, listened attentatively as Sidney S. Alderman, assistant prosecutor, methodically and dispassionately reconstructed the world terror which Hitler planned and executed.

Major revelations made by Alderman were:

The secret appointment of high-collared Hjalmar Schacht, one of the defendants, as plenipotentiary general for war economy in 1935, four years before the war actually began.

Decision To Destroy Poland

Hitler's secret announcement in November, 1937, that he envisaged the expulsion of 3,000,000 persons from Austria and Czechoslovakia after seizing the two countries at an opportune moment.

"Case Green," Hitler's plan for conquering Czechoslovakia in four days, which was outlined in April, 1938, with a proviso for the assassination of the German Ambassador as a provocation, if necessary.

Hitler's plan in May, 1939, to invade Holland and Belgium in the event of war with France and Britain.

Hitler's decision August 22, 1939, to destroy Poland.

"Case Barbarossa," the plan of December, 1940, for the invasion of the Soviet Union.

Added Evidence Promised

Hitler's promise to Yosuke Matsuoka, Japanese Foreign Minister, in April, 1941, that Germany would fight alongside Japan if the latter became involved in war with the United States.

Alderman said he would introduce additional evidence later showing the accused conspirators kept up pressure on Japan until the eve of Pearl Harbor to strike at the United States, but today he merely submitted as a basic example the Hitler-Matsuoka talk, attended by Joachim von Ribbentrop, former Foreign Minister, now on trial.

The icy ruthlessness of the Nazi militarists appeared best expressed, Alderman said, in a memorandum attached to the Russian invasion plan, perfected five months before the attack.

The memorandum said Germany could continue the war only if all her armed forces were fed from Russia during the third year of the conflict—that is, after the fall of 1941. It added that Hitler plainly called "the Russian war [illegible]" "There is no doubt that millions of people would be starved to death if we took out of the country (Russia) the things needed by us."

Presentation Irks Nazis

The Nazis and their black-gowned attorneys appeared extremely irked at Alderman's presentation of two collections of notes on Hitler's remarks to his highest military commanders August 22, 1939. The notes were recovered from the German high command's files at Flensburg, headquarters of Admiral Karl Doenitz's shadow government after Hitler's announced death.

Goering's counsel, Dr. Otto Stahmer, was overruled when he demanded that the tribunal exclude the notes because they bore no signature. He did not deny that they had been written by German officials.

Ribbentrop Looks Ill

Von Ribbentrop, who appeared to have aged considerably in the last week, looked extremely ill. Fritz Sauter, his attorney, said the former Foreign Minister had been taking "sleeping drops" and that his "memory had suffered."

Schacht [illegible] he would try to prove he had to oppose Hitler's government in 1938, participated in last year's bomb plot against the Führer, opposed the Nazi party, opposed the persecution of Jews and objected to rearmament.

Lindbergh Reports Denied

Goering, meanwhile, denied reports that he would ask for Charles S. Lindbergh as a witness in his behalf.

The remainder of the accused, he said, continued to profess loyalty to the missing Führer, except Hess, who avoided commenting on anything important.

Alderman said he would continue tomorrow his account of the Nazi plotting for aggressive war and would take up the rest of the week with other matters under count one of the indictment. Next week, he said, the American and British prosecution together would present evidence on count two, covering crimes against peace.

Germans Incited Japs To Fight, Court Told

Nuernberg, Nov. 26 (AP)—Evidence designed to show that German leaders incited Japan to make the attack on Pearl Harbor was placed before the international war crimes tribunal today by American prosecutors.

The documents were added by the [illegible] to the mounting pile of Hitler's war plans which included cold-blooded schemes to assassinate the German envoy in Prague as a pretext for invasion of Czechoslovakia, to overrun Poland, seize the Low Countries and, ultimately, to attack Russia.

American prosecutors in the trial of twenty leading Nazis produced stenographic notes of talks between Hitler and Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka several months before the Pearl Harbor attack and asserted that "our evidence will show these Nazi conspirators incited and kept up a force that could reasonably be expected to result in war with the United States."

Food For Army

Assistant United States Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman produced a memorandum signed by a German General Thomas saying that war with Russia was necessary to provide food for the German Army. Alderman charged the German high command's plan to systematically starve millions of Russians in occupied areas as "one of the most sinister on record."

The tribunal adjourned for the day at 4.28 P.M.

A detailed plot to assassinate a German diplomat to create an "incident" calculated to result in invasion of Czechoslovakia was made by Hitler and Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command, in 1938, Alderman charged.

Step In Lawless Plan

The plot was just one step in Hitler's lawless plans to subjugate Germany's neighbors that were outlined in detail before the tribunal.

[The "Almanach de Gotha" lists the leading German diplomat in Prague at the time of the projected assassination plot as Dr. Ernst Eisenlohr, German Minister to Czechoslovakia.]

Reading from captured German documents, American prosecutors charged that detailed plans for the invasion of Czechoslovakia were made on April 21, 1938—just one month after Hitler overran Austria and assured the world he had no further plans for territorial expansion.

Called "Case Green"

Plans for the proposed assassination of a German diplomat and a subsequent Blitz invasion of the little country were known by the code name "Case Green" and were revealed in a file carefully kept by Hitler's adjutant, who was captured by American airborne troops, Alderman told the court.

While American prosecutors proceeded to pile up evidence of Hitler's plans for aggressive war, defense counsel filed lists of prospective witnesses and desired documents, which included an indication that Rudolf Hess, No. 3 Nazi, will carry his insanity plea to the court.

Counsel for Hjalmar Schacht disclosed that the former Reichsbank president will seek to prove that he participated in the bomb plot to kill Hitler on July 20, 1944, and tried to overthrow the Nazi Government in 1938.

German "Space Problem"

In a document described by American prosecutors as "Hitler's last will and testament" the Führer fatefully predicted he would "solve the German space problem no later than 1943-1945."

Hitler was quoted as describing England and France as the Reich's "two hateful enemies" and saying on November 5, 1937, that "the question for Germany is where the greatest possible conquest could be made at the lowest cost."

The document was a United States State Department transcript of Hitler's program outlined at a secret meeting with Reichsmarshal Goering, Grand Admiral Erich Raeder and Konstantin von Neurath, former diplomat—all three among the 20 Nazi leaders on trial.

Czechs "Written Off"

It was disclosed that Hitler in 1937 declared his confidence that "England and perhaps also France have already silently written off Czechoslovakia."

Hitler was so confident that England and France would not fight that he declared that "Austria and Czechoslovakia can be acquired by phone"—a prediction that was practically true in the case of Austria. Records at the trial include the transcript of telephone conversations by which Goering directed the Anschluss of Austria.

"What the actual position will be in the years 1943-45 no one knows today," Hitler declared in his will. "It is certain, however, that we can wait no longer. On one side, large armed forces with the necessity of securing the upkeep and aging of the Nazi movement and of its leaders and on the other side the prospect of lower standards of living and a drop in the birth rate leave us with no choice but to act."

Ribbentrop's "Nerves"

As the trial entered its second week, another case of shattered nerves developed among the once-powerful "supermen" who stood behind Hitler. Former Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop's "memory has suffered," his defense counsel declared, asking that two former German diplomats be subpoenaed to assist in defending the man who guided the Reich's foreign policy.

Laying plans to seize Czecho-Slovakia and Austria, Hitler declared his confidence in 1937 that "England and perhaps also France have already silently written off Czecho-Slovakia." He was so confident that England and France would not fight that he declared that "Austria and Czecho-Slovakia can be acquired by phone"—a prediction that was practically true in the case of Austria. Records include the transcript of telephone conversations by which Goering directed the anschluss of Austria.

Another prediction in Hitler's "will"—that he would "solve the German space problem no later than 1943-45"—also was fulfilled, although not in the way he had intended. His henchmen found their leader probably dead and Germany partitioned by occupation armies.

"What the actual position would be in the years 1943-45 no one knows today," Hitler declared. "It is certain, however, that we can wait no longer. On one side, large armed forces with the necessity of securing the upkeep and aging of the Nazi movement and of its leaders and on the other side the prospect of lower standards of living and a drop in the birth rate leaves us with no choice but to act. If the Fuehrer is still living then, it will be his irrevocable decision to solve the German space problem no later than 1943-45."

Ribbentrop appeared ill and haggard. He has been taking "sleeping drops," his counsel said. No plea was made to excuse him from the trial, but Fritz Sauter, his counsel, said he needed to refresh his client's memory with testimony from Friedrich Gauss and Franz von Rintelen, former German diplomats.

Sauter said that Allied prosecutors had previously "partially" denied the request and also declined to make available German "white books"—official Reich reports on foreign policy and actions.

"Brutal, Ruthless" Plan

The "Case Green" plan for the invasion of Czechoslovakia as read by Alderman said the conquest must be "brutal and ruthless" and both Hitler and Keitel expressed the hope that "division of the spoils" would prevent other nations from coming to the aid of the Czechs.

The plan offered two ways to wipe out the Czech state: "Action after a diplomatic crisis, or "lightning action after an incident, for example the assassination of the German Ambassador in Prague during an anti-German demonstration."

As history actually worked out, Hitler took the first course with his entrance into Czechoslovakia after the Munich conference at which British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and French Premier Edouard Daladier acquiesced to the occupation of the Sudetenland.

"Why" Of Hitler's Acts

With other documents, Alderman answered the questions of many military and political experts as to why Hitler did not delay his actual outbreak of war and continue his plan for gradual acquisition of territory.

German records reveal, Alderman said, that Hitler wanted to strike while he was still comparatively young and physically fit to guide the war effort. Germany was almost fully armed by 1937, Alderman said, and Hitler was afraid that further delay would "outdate equipment" and give other nations an opportunity to "catch up" in the arms race.

Three months before he opened World War II, Hitler was quoted in the minutes of another meeting kept by his adjutant that conflict with England would be a "life-and-death struggle." Nevertheless, he proceeded at the meeting with plans to attack Poland, Belgium and the Netherlands.

"Cat Out Of Bag"

Alderman said Hitler's statement at a secret meeting May 23, 1939, with Goering, Raeder and Keitel "lets the cat out of the bag."

"The Polish problem is insoluble from conflict with the west (France and England)," he declared, according to minutes of the meeting with his commanders of the air, sea and army forces. "We are left with the decision to attack Poland at the first opportunity."

That attack on Poland came three months and nine days later.

Reading from another speech of Hitler's on August 22, 1939, nine days before Poland was attacked, Alderman quoted the Führer as saying "we determined from the beginning to fight the Western powers . . . The opposite camp has the weaker people."

Newsman's Discovery

Alderman said that two documents quoting Hitler in his August 22, 1939, speech to highest military leaders at Obersalzburg were uncovered by the report of an American newspaper m[illegible] who smuggled an account of the Polish war plans out of Germany.

The newspaper man was Louis Lochner, veteran Associated Press correspondent in Berlin, who secretly brought the account of Hitler's plans for war on Poland when he was released from internment and repatriated after the United States entered the war.

Otto Stahmer, Goering's counsel, protested the introduction of the minutes of the Obersalzburg meeting, asserting that they were not signed and contained a number of factual mistakes.

No Intention To Call Lindbergh

Commenting during an intermission on an Exchange Telegraph Agency report that German defense counsel might call Col. Charles E. Lindbergh to testify, Goering's lawyer said that he currently had no intention of requesting Lindbergh's presence because he didn't know of anything the United States flyer could add to the defense case.

Alderman told the court that two more days would be spent detailing the record of German aggressive war and that he would follow with evidence on other counts of the indictment. Additional United States evidence will be entered in conjunction with British representation of the case next week, he said.

Rearming Law

A secret law promulgated May 21, 1935, to rearm Germany was denounced by Alderman, who said, "There can be no doubt that this law of 1935 was the cornerstone of war preparation by the conspirators."

Hess, who ignored the opening of the court session as he continued to read a novel, giggling over it at times, was later led from the courtroom, apparently in great pain from stomach cramps. He reappeared a short time later.

FIGHT CRIME IN REICH

Frankfurt, Nov. 26 (A. P.).—The American Army moved tonight to check the movement of displaced persons in Germany in an effort to quell a growing crime wave. It was announced that guards would be placed around camps and the pass system inaugurated.

Widespread looting, rape and murder of Germans by displaced persons—most of them former Polish slave laborers—were called by an Army spokesman the most serious safety problem facing the occupation forces at present.

Transfer Of Families Of Soldiers Uncertain

Frankfurt, Nov. 26 (AP)—American troops in Germany were cautioned today against being overly optimistic about getting their wives and families to Europe in the near future.

Maj. Gen. H. R. Bull, deputy chief of staff who is chairman of the Special Occupational Planning Board, said they would be brought over as soon as possible, but warned it is impossible to set a date now.

Asserting that preliminary surveys for establishment of "communities" for soldiers' families are already under way, Bull said that even the size of the occupational force has not yet been "firmly established."

'Sweatbox' Aides Plead Innocent

Wuppertal, Germany, Nov. 26 (AP). Col. Erich Killinger, commandant of the infamous "sweatbox camp" at Oberusel, and four officers of his staff today pleaded innocent to charges of torturing captured Allied airmen.

Facing the British military court, set up in the Ruhr's largest zoo, near cages containing several scrawny lions, are Killinger, Major Heinz Junge, chief interrogation officer; Major Otto Boehringer, in charge of the camp's organization, and two interrogating officers, Lieuts. Heinrich Eberhardt and Bauer-Schlichtergroll.

Ex-Luftwaffe Members

Former members of the Luftwaffe, the accused are specifically charged with ill treatment of Allied airmen in an effort to make them reveal information.

The prosecutor, Major G. I. Draper, of the Judge Advocate General's Department, said evidence would be presented to prove that the accused used these five methods to try to gain information:

1. Heating asbestos-lined cells almost beyond human endurance.
2. Threatening delivery of prisoners to the Gestapo for shooting as saboteurs.
3. Refusing necessary medical attention.
4. Prolonged solitary confinement.
5. Beatings.

Poison Liquor Kills 100 Berlin Civilians

Berlin, Nov. 26 (AP)—More than 100 Berlin civilians died and "many more" were blinded during the past few months by poison liquor obtained in the black market, a police report published in the American-licensed Tagesspiegel said.

Rightist Chief Seems Slated To Be Chancellor Of Austria

Vienna, Nov. 26 (AP)—Leopold Figl, 43-year-old chairman of the rightist Volkspartei, appeared slated tonight to become Chancellor of Austria as a result of Sunday's National Assembly elections.

Figl said his party won the election by 51 per cent in defeating the Socialist party of Chancellor Karl Renner, which trailed a second, and the Communists, who trailed a poor third. The Volkspartei, like the Socialist, is strongly Catholic.

Help Of Allies Sought

Figl said tonight that "hunger and cold drive people to extremes and we want to avoid that; for this reason we must ask help of the Allies." He also appealed for withdrawal of occupation troops from this "free and independent nation."

"We must not only orientate ourselves eastward but westward—we want to be the bridge between the West and the East," he declared. "The Volkspartei is not going to take over the Government alone. Every party is morally obliged to co-operate and to share responsibility."

It was expected that Figl would form a coalition cabinet with all three parties represented. His Volkspartei is made up of elements opposed to state socialization.

Communists Far Behind

He is expected to head the national assembly to be convened not later than December 12.

Returns from 89 provinces gave the Volkspartie 1,500,467 votes, the Socialists 1,353,047, and the Communists 168,856.

Under the Austrian system of proportional representation, this indicated the Volkspartie would get between 86 and 88 of the National Assembly's 165 seats and the Socialists would win between 74 and 77, depending on whether the Communists win three or five seats.

Strength In Provinces

With four districts undecided and tweve unreported, the Volkspartie already had won 76 seats, the Socialists 70 and the Communists 3. Most of the unreported districts were expected to be carried by the Volkspartie.

As expected, the Volkspartie showed the greatest strength in the provinces. In Russian-occupied lower Austria the Socialists polled 328,814 against the Communist party's 43,074 and the Volkspartie's 42,564.

Socialists Lead In Vienna

Traditionally Socialist Vienna gave the Socialists 57 per cent of the votes, the Volkspartie 34 per cent and the Communists 9 per cent. This percentage was the highest polled by the Communists anywhere except in Carinthia, where the Slovene vote, almost solidly Communist as a demonstration for Marshal Tito, of Yugoslavia, raised the figure to about 18 per cent.

The Volkspartie in Vienna set a precedent by winning a majority for the first time in history.

People's Party Wins In Austria

Vienna, Nov. 26 (AP)—The conservative Austrian People's party scored a narrow victory over the Socialists in yesterday's general election, nearly complete unofficial returns indicated today. The Communists ran a poor third.

The vote as computed here gave the People's party between 86 and 88 seats in the 165-member National Assembly, with the Socialists winning 74 to 77 seats and the Communists three to five seats.

Full Voting Freedom

The elections were the first in which Austrians were given full voting freedom since 1930.

The announced returns from 89 provinces gave the People's party 1,500,467 votes, the Socialists 1,353,047 and the Communists 168,856.

As a result of the election 43-year-old Leopold Figl may replace Socialist Karl Ranner as head of the Government under provisions of the Austrian constitution, but a coalition government embracing all three parties will continue.

Mussert Trial Tomorrow

Amsterdam, the Netherlands Nov. 26 (AP)—Anton Mussert, plump Dutch Nazi leader, will go on trial tomorrow before a special tribunal at The Hague on charges of being a traitor to the Netherlands.

In a court that once was the ballroom of Princess Juliana's palace, the 51-year-old founder of the Dutch Nazi party will hear read against him seven charges, including one that he took an oath of allegiance "until death" to Hitler.

The public prosecutor was expected to demand the death sentence.

Two Divisions To Leave Czechoslovakia Today

Prague, Nov. 26 (AP)—Two American divisions plus some troops of the 22d Corps will evacuate Czechoslovakia tomorrow. The troops were in western Bohemia when the war ended and have remained in occupation until the reconstructed Czechoslovakia Army could take over.

More than 100 Americans found brides in the republic. During the occupation, United States troops helped restore transportation, helped with the harvest, delivered coal and preserved order while an estimated 100,000 Czechoslovak settlers from other regions moved into the district.

LEFTISTS QUIT ORLANDO CAMP

World War I Leader Expected To Be Italian Premier

Rome, Nov. 26 (AP)—Leftwing political groups withdrew their support from Vittorio Emanuel Orlando tonight after it had been virtually assured that the 85-year-old Italian World War I leader would be Italy's next Premier.

Earlier, five of the six parties making up the National Committee of Liberation were reported to have agreed to enter a Government headed by Orlando, but tonight it was announced that the Communist and Socialist parties had joined with the Action party against Orlando.

Situation Far From Quiet

The switch of the leftwingers, reportedly, was on the grounds any government headed by Orlando would swing to the right.

However, leaders of all six parties are to meet again tomorrow in an effort to solve the governmental crisis resulting from the resignation of Premier Ferrucio Parri after rightest groups had withdrawn their support of his government.

There were indications in general that Italy's political situation was far from quiet.

Demonstrations For Parri

Posters plastered on the walls of the Eternal City called for formation of a war veterans' party, and asserted the Government had not faced the problem of dealing with veterans, thousands of whom are returning to Italy daily.

Dispatches from many Italian towns told of Left Wing demonstrations for Parri.

At Vicenza, Socialists and Communists deplored "the reactionary forces which have provoked the present crisis." Other Leftists in Bologna and Rovigo protested similarly. Workers at Milan, Naples and Pavoda struck briefly to indicate their displeasure over the Government crisis.

cide for or against Orlando late in the day. Parri lost power last week when Rightist parties withdrew their support.

Party Leaders Confer

Leaders of the six parties conferred at the office of Foreign Minister Alcide de Gasperi. Vice Premier Pietro Nenni told newspaper reporters, "We are near a solution."

Crown Prince Umberto conferred with Vice Premier Francesco Nitti, and former Premiers Ivanoe Bonomi and Pietro Badoglio as posters appeared on streetcars calling Orlando, Bonomi and Badoglio "the three musketeers of the monarchy."

Conferred With Umberto

Orlando, colleague of Woodrow Wilson, David Lloyd George and Georges Clemenceau in the writing of the peace after World War I, conferred yesterday with Crown Prince Umberto.

Communist Leader Palmiro Togliatti also conferred with Umberto.

Right Wing Revolt

A highly placed monarchist said last night that Umberto hoped to resolve the crisis which resulted from a right-wing revolt in the Committee of National Liberation, which had placed Parri at the head of the six-party coalition government last June.

Parri's resignation, meanwhile, brought rumblings of discontent in northern Italy, where he led the Italian resistance. There were reports of a threatened general strike there as a gesture of support for Parri.

Ship Sunk at Trieste Wrongly Identified

Rome, Nov. 26 (A. P.).—A spokesman for the Allied Military Government at Trieste said today that the ship that struck a mine and sank there on November 12 was the Liberty ship William Hume, and not the Liberty ship Abbott Mills as was previously reported by the Associated Pess. The erroneous information came from an informant who usually is accurate.

The William Hume was a 7,176-ton freighter owned by the United States War Shipping Administration and operated by the Weyerhauser Steamship Company of Portland, Ore. She was built at Portland in 1943 and sailed for Trieste from Baltimore on October 21.

Myron C. Taylor Expected in Rome

Rome, Nov. 26 (A. P.).—A spokesman of the American representation at the Holy See said today that Myron C. Taylor, President Truman's special representative at the Vatican, is expected to return here in January. He has been absent for several months.

TO STAY AS REGENT

Athens, Nov. 26 (A. P.).—Archbishop Damaskinos withdrew his resignation as Regent of Greece last night after both the United States and British ambassadors urgently requested him to remain in office. It was reported also that he had received a message from exiled King George II, urging him to reconsider.

Damaskinos tendered his resignation Thursday after a sustained cabinet crisis which was resolved when a new cabinet was formed under Premier Themistokles Sophoulis.

Swiss Find $1,750,000 In Axis Funds

Berne, Nov. 26 (A. P.).—The Swiss Government announced today that Axis funds thus far found in Switzerland amounted to 7,052,000 Swiss francs, or about $1,750,000. Additional accounts amounting to about $54,650,000 remain under examination, a Government statement said.

5 Of 6 Italian Parties Agree To Back Orlando

Rome, Nov. 26 (AP)—The aged Vittorio Emanuel Orlando, Italian Premier during World War I, appeared certain today of forming a new Government to succeed that of resigned Premier Ferruccio Parri.

Five of the six Italian parties were reported to have agreed to enter a Government of 85-year-old Orlando. Parri's Action party was the lone holdout, and it was to de-

British Fire On Jews in Tel Aviv Area

Withdraw Troops After Hunt for Suspects in Coast Station Attacks

7 Killed, 75 Injured In Jews' Resistance

Half-Hour Strike Called for Today; Walkout at Haifa Goes Off Quietly

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, Nov. 26.—British troops withdrew tonight from the troubled area north of Tel Aviv after day-long disturbances which unofficial reports said left seven Jews dead and about seventy-five injured. Tank-supported British troops armed with mortars and machine guns entered six Jewish villages in search of persons responsible for attacks on coast guard stations.

An official communique said troops fired on Jewish settlers who attacked police trying to remove 137 suspects from the villages of Givath Haim and Hogla and said an "unknown" number had been killed and wounded.

Haifa Jews Stage Strike

The cordon was lifted tonight from around all villages in the affected area and tension subsided somewhat. The Jewish National Council said there would be a 30-minute work stoppage tomorrow when today's dead are buried.

Haifa Jews staged a one-hour strike today protesting police and military search of settlements, but no incidents were reported.

Dispatches said thousands of Jews, shouting "all Jews to the rescue," were streaming tonight from the Petah Tiqvah area toward near-by Shefayim, where British troops and police battled today against barricaded settlers for two hours.

British Rush Troops To Zone

Roads running northward from Tel Aviv were reported jammed with cars and trucks loaded with Jews headed for the villages, around which the British have thrown a cordon. The Jews were said to be singing the Jewish anthem and other Hebrew songs.

Additional British troops, including the 3d Paratroop Brigade of the 6th Airborne Division were rushed into the troubled coastal area near Tel Aviv as tension mounted to a pitch where women and even children attempted to break through the British cordon.

Villages entered by police and troops included Rishbon, Enhahoresh, Kfar Koglah, Givath Haim, Kfar Haroeth and Shefayim—all north of Tel Aviv and near the coast.

250 Held For Questioning

Reports said there had been considerable property damage, and that about 250 persons had been held for questioning. Authorities carried out house-to-house searches, seeking also for illegal immigrants and for stores of weapons and ammunition.

Bitterest fighting apparently took place this morning at Shefayim, where British authorities found large crowds manning the barricades. The crowds refused to disperse and police and troops forced their way in, using staves and tear gas.

Reports said troops and police followed the same procedure at each of the villages—all of which were apparently barricaded, but receiving support from crowds outside. All captive Jewish men were herded into barbed-wire cages for search and indentification.

Tension Is Increasing

By late afternoon the wounded had been removed to hospitals in Petah Tiqvah and Tel Aviv. Newspapers urged citizens to be calm, but there was increasing tension.

Demonstrations broke out after the villages were blocked off for the search, and presumably were in retaliation for British seizure of a Greek ship carrying illegal immigrants.

Explaining British action in forcing a search, an official military communiqué said today that police and British troops had trailed members of the gang which attacked the coast-guard stations to the villages of Givath Haim and Shefayim.

The attackers had used automatic weapons in an assault on the stations at Bgivat Olga and Sidna on Saturday night, wounding fourteen Palestinian policemen.

British Smash Into 6 Areas In Palestine

Jerusalem, Nov. 26 (AP)—British troops armed with tanks, mortars and machine guns penetrated six Jewish villages today in search for persons responsible for attacks on coast guard stations, and unofficial reports said four Jews were killed and about 50 wounded.

Hand-to-hand fighting erupted frequently.

Considerable property damage was reported.

About 250 persons were detained for questioning.

Fight For Two Hours

Troops of the famous 6th Airborne Division and settlers fought for two hours at the village of Shefayim near Tel Aviv, and dispatches said "thousands" of Jews, shouting "all Jews to the rescue," were streaming toward Shefayim from near-by settlements.

Additional British troops, including the 3d Paratroop Brigade of the 6th Airborne Division poured into the trouble area on the Palestine coast near Tel Aviv.

Villages entered by police and troops include Rishbon, Enhahoresh, Kfar Koglah, Kfar Haroeth, Givath Haim and Shefayim.

Weapons Sought

All are north of Tel Aviv and near the coast. Authorities were looking for arms and ammunition and the coast-guard station attackers.

Troops and Civilians Clash.

In the coastal region of Palestine, men, women and children tried to storm areas cordoned off by the police and military authorities in their search for the gangs which on Saturday night attacked the Coast Guard stations with arms and explosives and wounded fourteen policemen.

The attacks on the stations were believed to have resulted from interception by the authorities of a ship which had brought 200 illegal Jewish immigrants to the Palestine coast.

Troops and civilians clashed for two hours in Shefayim; one of three Jewish settlements cordoned off. Windows and furniture were smashed and shots were fired into the air before the inhabitants were forced indoors. The police then began a house-to-house search for arms. Resistance to this search continued even after four truckloads of resisters had been carried off by the police.

Trailed to Villages.

A curfew law prevailed along a large section of the Palestine coast where the British were attempting to stop illegal immigration, and the British Sixth Airborne Division had cordoned off Shefayim, Givath Haim and Rishbon. Large crowds manned the barricades at Shefayim. The police ordered them to disperse, and attacked when they refused.

The curfew, effective from 5:30 P. M. to 5:30 A. M., applied to that section of the coast extending from the northern boundary of Palestine to a point twelve miles south of Jaffa and Tel Aviv. It was not operative in the immediate area of towns and villages.

A British communique said that the police and troops had trailed the attackers of the Coast Guard stations to the Jewish settlements which were surrounded. "Action in pursuit of those responsible for the outrages against the Coast Guard stations continues," it added.

The police entered the Givath Haim colony late yesterday afternoon and requested the village leader to arrange a parade for identification. Crowds, armed with sticks, met in the center of the colony and the police withdrew, the British statement said. A troop cordon was maintained.

"Attempts were made by the Jews to break the cordon and force their way through," the communique said. "In one case it became necessary to open fire to stop them. One Jew was wounded.

"At Shefayim and Rishbon, similar obstruction was offered by large crowds of Jews who poured into the colonies from the surrounding country. The area was cordoned off by the police and British troops."

An earlier communique said that a party of armed Jews attacked the Coast Guard stations at Givat Olga and Sidna on Saturday night and added that both stations were wrecked. An unexploded bomb was found in the Sidna building after the raid, it was stated. Six of the wounded policemen were Britons and eight were Palestinians. There were indications that the Jewish attackers suffered heavy casualties. Bloodstained bandages were found.

BENNETT CASE HANGS ON TIME

Whether Australian General Was Prisoner At Issue

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 26 (AP)—A key point to be determined in the public inquiry into the escape of Lieut. Gen. H. Gordon Bennett from Japanese-occupied Singapore in February, 1942, is whether he ever was actually a prisoner of war, it was indicated today.

Wilfred Dovey, assistant to Commissioner Justice George Ligertwood, who is presiding at the hearing, made a considerable point of the time element involved in the Australian general's departure and said there would be a large amount of "evidence to the effect that at no time was Bennett a prisoner of war."

Called Duty To Escape

On the other hand, Bennett's attorney, Brian Clancy, asserted that once Lieut. Gen. Sir Archibald Percival, the Allied commander in chief in Malaya, surrendered unconditionally, Bennett was a prisoner of war.

"By reason of the provisions of the army act," Clancy said, "it was Bennett's bounden duty to escape if he could."

Clancy maintained that the surrender was effective at 8.03 P.M., February 15, and that from that time Bennett was at his former headquarters preparing his escape.

Concealed From Superiors

Dovey said he also would attempt to prove that Bennett's escape plans were "deliberately concealed" from senior officers.

He said Bennett and certain other officers were discussing the escape plans when Col. J. H. Thyer, general staff officer of Bennett's 8th Division, entered the room and "Bennett at once closed up a book of maps and ended the conversation."

"Although Brigadier C. A. Callaghan (commander of an Australian division of artillery) and Thyer were in almost daily touch with Bennett, evidence will show that at the time the escape plot was deliberately concealed from both," Dovey said:

"Evidence will be that of all unit commanders in Malaya, Lieutenant General Bennett was the only one who did not remain with his men until they were taken away from them by the Japs."

GET RIDE WITH R. A. F.

Sydney, Nov. 26 (A. P.).—Announcement that two Sydney girls have obtained passage to the United States aboard British R. A. F. transport command planes today brought scores of inquiries regarding similar transportation from Australia's 6,000 war brides and fiancees of American service men.

Mrs. Phil Brady, widow of a R. A. A. F. lieutenant, left yesterday with her 3-year-old son to join her fiance, Maj. George Rath of New York, an Air Forces officer. She is a former model.

Mrs. Joan Anderson, wife of Capt. Wayne Anderson, is booked to leave Sunday to join her husband at San Diego, Cal. Anderson formerly sang with Freddie Martin's band.

An R. A. F. transport command official said priority for such flights must be obtained through the Civil Aviation Department.

Mrs. Brady, who paid $1,500 fare for the Sydney-to-Washington flight for her son and herself, said before leaving that she had only two days' notice, "but I managed to fit in a facial, manicure and hairset."

400 Japs Held For Crimes

Melbourne, Nov. 26 (AP)—Four hundred Japanese have been listed as war criminals in the 1st Australian Army area in the Rabaul and Wewak areas and on Bougainville, 1st Army headquarters announced today. The trials will begin soon.

CHIANG PLEDGES TO WHIP ENEMY INTO ORDERLY LINE

CHUNGKING, Nov. 26—(AP) Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek promised today to go all out to whip the Chinese Communists into orderly line as part of the new long-range program to unify and reconstruct China under his Nationalist regime.

Announcing creation of a supreme council to cope with China's manifold economic woes, Chiang did not mention the Communists by name, but his exhortation concerning them was with these words:

"Some people in China have placed their partisan and personal interests above national interests and have gone so far as to interfere violently with the government's efforts to establish order in liberated areas. The government is acting to correct this condition. We shall spare no effort to bring internal order and security to the nation."

Troops Near Mukden

Support for his statement came quickly in a Nationalist army dispatch announcing that government troops had marched into the Manchurian railroad city of Chinhsien, 100 miles beyond the Great Wall, and were now less than 125 miles southwest of the vital city of Mukden.

It was at Chinhsien that the Communists last week predicted "the first great battle" for Manchuria, but the government report said nothing about opposition encountered by the 52nd army, which originally made a seaborne landing at Chinwangtao. On Saturday the communists altered their forecast, saying Mukden would be the scene of critical fighting.

Communist forces control numerous areas of North China, but Manchuria is the chief prize for which they are contending with Chiang's government.

Communists and Nationalists originated conflicting and unconfirmed reports about the attitude of the Russians, whose troops are occupying the wealthy territory.

The Communists alleged that the Russians were holding on until Nationalist troops could take charge, while Nationalist papers said the Russians had made new demands for special privileges in Manchuria.

Chiang's lengthy announcement of his economic program conceded that "the nation is passing through a period of alarms and uncertain-the inevitable aftermath of [illegible] but promised, "as the work of the supreme economic council begins to yield results, the people will become aware that they are at last on their way to a higher standard of living; moreover, they have the knowledge that China's prestige among the nations of the earth is steadily rising.

"Given internal peace, which I shall strive with all my power to preserve, the economic achievements of the council can open the way to the greatest age in China's long history."

Premier T. V. Soong was named chairman of the new council and Vice-Premier Wong Wen-Hao, vice-chairman, but Chiang said he himself would "assume personal direction of China's economic reconstruction and development."

Better Travel Facilities

Chiang directed the new council to make nationwide transportation improvement its first work; next to develop an intensive program to strengthen agriculture; then to aid industry and trade, improve health standards and work out economic projects to be carried out over the next five years. Harnessing of China's mighty but rampant rivers was one of his first suggestions in this connection.

Blaming "the ravages of war" for what he called "this crisis in China's history," Chiang said that there still were more than 3,000,000 Japanese prisoners in China and that while awaiting gradual repatriation they woud be put to work rebuilding roads and railroads to "help in some degree to offset the great damage Japan inflicted on China."

Chiang warned that China's problems could not be solved by aid from other nations, saying: "We must help ourselves. What we seek from friends abroad is primarily economic cooperation on a sound business basis."

Edwin A. Locke, President Truman's personal representative, said Chiang's announcement was "very encouraging" and that the new council should provide "an increasingly sound and practical basis" for Chinese-American cooperation.

Locke, who has made an extensive tour of China for two months and has discussed economics with Chiang, is scheduled to leave by air for Washington tonight.

New Deal For China Proposed By Chiang

Chungking, Nov. 26 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek proposed a new deal for China today, created a Supreme Economic Council to tackle it and promised to "spare no effor' to bring internal order and security."

"We must not allow internal disturbances to make us lose sight of the basic need of the Chinese people for a far higher standard of living," he said in a statement announcing appointment of the council.

Seeks To End Fighting

While his troops drove more than 100 miles into Manchuria—about half way to the great city of Mukden where Chinese Communists were reported massing—he asserted that his Government was "acting to correct" those disturbances.

Premier T. V. Soong was made chairman of the new council, which was told to seek at once economic projects considered of prime importance to be carried out in the next five years.

Wong Vice Chairman

Vice Premier Wong Wen-hao was made vice chairman of the council, but the Generalissimo said he himself would retain full responsibility.

"It is my intention," his statement said, "to assume personally the direction of China's economic reconstruction and development.

"In approaching our work we must come to grips with some hard and unpleasant truths about China's present economic position."

Farmers To Be Helped

Chiang said farmers would be among the first beneficiaries of a "new deal" program that would improve their livelihood, but did not go into detail.

The generalissimo proposed that the council first set up a program to improve transportation, badly disrupted by the war.

The council also was told to study methods for helping China's industry, for expanding foreign trade and for improving health standards.

For "Strong, United Nation"

In what had been heralded as an important policy announcement, Chiang erected the council to assure "a united, democratic, strong and prosperous nation and a substantial rise in mass living standards of its people."

[Chinese Communists bid for popular support by distributing land to peasants in their areas of occupation to ease the sufferings born of years of war with Japan.]

The council was empowered to use China's resources to the utmost to achieve the economic gains, to lay down broad plans to fulfill them and to co-ordinate the economic activities of the various governmental departments.

Nationalist press reports, meanwhile, said Chiang's troops had captured without resistance the railway city of Chinhsien, 100 miles inside Manchuria beyond their jumping-off point, November 23.

Russ Oppose U.S. Action

A Nationalist report said the Russians again had insisted that no Americans may be allowed to put Nationalist troops into Manchuria by plane.

Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of United States forces in China, told interviewers at Shanghai he had passed on to Washington the request of the Chungking Government for the use of United States ships to move Nationalist troops into Manchuria.

Would Use Hulutao

Such a seaborne movement presumably would be through Hulutao, to reinforce Nationalist forces moving overland toward Mukden.

It was to Hulutao that Vice Admiral Daniel E. Barbey, then commander of the United States 7th Fleet, recently took Chinese Nationalist troops, only to back away from the port when it became evident that the landing would involve Americans in conflict between the Nationalists and Chinese Communists holding the port.

Wedemeyer declared that no Americans have entered Manchuria, adding that "under present orders none will."

He said that instructions from Washington did not contemplate the immediate removal of the total of more than 50,000 United States Marines in North China.

Report Port Arthur Clash

Shanghai, Nov. 26 (A. P.).—Daily patrols of American planes over the Yellow Sea as far as Port Arthur and the Kwantung Peninsula have been discontinued, Vice-Admiral Daniel S. Barbey announced today.

Authoritative but unofficial informants said an American Navy patrol bomber was fired upon and chased away from Port Arthur on November 15 by a Russian Stormovik fighter.

Barbey said merely that the reason for cancellation of the patrol and reconnaissance flights was to cut American forces in China and permit planes to be used for other duties or to be returned to the United States.

LAYS BOMBING TO WEDEMEYER

Congressman Says General Attacked Chinese.

Washington, Nov. 26 (A. P.).—Representative Delacy (D.-Wash.) said today that Lieut.-Gen. Elbert C. Wedemeyer authorized air attacks on a tiny Chinese Village and threatened to make of it "another Lidice" because some rifle shots were fired at a train carrying an officer of the United States Marines. In a speech inserted in the Congressional Record Delacy said he had asked the State Department to inquire under what authority or policy the general was acting.

"In China, United States Marines, United States transports, United States military supplies are being used to supprress the aspirations of millions for a new democracy," Delacy said, and the United States is making a large-scale civil war in China possible by providing equipment to the troops of Chiang Kai-shek in an area "where he has so little support among the people that he must keep the Japs and their puppet troops armed as part of his war against his own northern countrymen."

Delacy accompanied his speech with a resolution calling on President Truman to recall American troops and supplies from China. Joining Delacy with identical resolutions were Representatives Coffee (D.-Wash), Savage (D.-Wash), Douglas (D.-Cal.), Healy (D.-Cal.) and Patterson (D.-Cal.).

Gates To Propose Policy For China

Pearl Harbor, Nov. 26 (AP)—Under Secretary of the Navy, Artemus Gates, said today that he would make specific recommendations in Washington which may affect American policy in strife-torn China.

Gates at a press conference declined to amplify this statement, saying he did not wish to discuss policy matters until he returned to Washington and laid his findings before James V. Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy.

"All I can say is that I will make specific recommendations which may affect United States policy in China," declared Gates, who has just made a tour of China.

He plans to leave here tonight by plane for San Francisco.

RAF STRAFES INDONESIANS

Planes Thrown Into Battle For Isolated Java Town

Batavia, Java, Nov. 26 (AP)—British planes today entered the battle of Ambarawa, now in its third day, as British and Indonesian forces continued to fight in Soerabaja and Batavia, where half of a band of 100 Indonesians attacking a company of Indian troops were killed.

Three RAF Mosquito bombers, using machine guns and cannon, strafed Indonesian troop concentrations at Ambarawa and attacked transport columns, road blocks and warehouses.

Seven British Dakota transport planes dropped food and other supplies to Allied personnel in and near the central Java town. They were accompanied by two American-made Thunderbolt fighters, but no ground fire was reported.

Rebels Leave Soerabaja

At Soerabaja, Indonesian forces were seen moving southward from the only remaining portion of the city they held. Earlier they had attacked a British Indian unit in force with armored cars, a tank and a 47 mm. gun. It was believed they had largely abandoned Soerabaja.

Meanwhile, the Indonesian national committee, meeting in Batavia, adopted a resolution asking "all the peoples of the earth who believe in justice to give all moral and material support to the people of Indonesia in their fight for independence, so that the British may be restrained from converting Indonesia into another Manchuria for the benefit of the Dutch."

British political advisers were watching the conference closely to see whether the unrecognized government of Premier Sutan Sjahrir would win the support of the 140 delegates from all parts of Java.

Would Improve Parley Chances

If the Premier wins the approval of the committee, it was believed the chances of resuming Dutch-Indonesian peace talks would be good.

"The conflict between the British forces and Indonesian extremists has nothing to do with the Indonesian independence movement," said M. E. Denning, British Foreign Office observer, before his departure for Singapore tonight. "The British forces are simply putting down terrorism as would be done in any country in the world."

Denning is scheduled to return to Java after he reports to Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten.

[In the British House of Commons, S. S. Silverman, Laborite, and Willie Gallacher, Communist, criticized the British command in Java for allegedly burning native villages in reprisal for mistreatment of captured British troops.

[Silverman said "that kind of punitive measure has been under a cloud since Lidice" and Gallacher declared that the British people "have never believed that the proper way to prevent acts of terrorism is to have indiscriminate reprisals."]

M. P.s Assail British Reprisals

LONDON, Nov. 26 (AP).—British field commanders in Java were criticized in the House of Commons today for tolerating "indiscriminate reprisals" against insurgent Indonesians.

S. S. Silverman, a Labor M. P., asked Minister of State P. J. Noel-Baker if he was aware that a number of native villages had been burned and to "bear in mind that that kind of punitive measure has been under a cloud since Lidice."

Noel-Baker said he had not seen reports of British reprisals but that he knew a number of acts of terrorism had been committed by the Indonesians and that it was important to prevent such terrorism from spreading.

William Gallacher, a Communist M. P., was ignored by Noel-Baker when he asked if it were true "that lives of British lads are being risked in the interest of rubber men," but the Minister of State assured a Laborite member that there was no connection between the existence of British-owned plantations in Java and the presence there now of British troops.

Rebels Quitting Soerabaja Section

Batavia, Java, Nov. 26 (AP)—Long lines of Indonesians were observed retreating southward out of battered Soerabaja today, the British said, as fighting flared anew in Batavia.

The British stated the movement of the Indonesians toward Malang, 55 miles away, indicated that the native Nationalists were abandoning their last foothold in the southern section of Soreabaja.

Inside the big Java naval base city itself, however, an Indonesian force backed by a tank, a 47-millimeter gun and armored cars was dispersed yesterday after it attacked a British Indian unit. Two Indians were killed and one was wounded. Five Indonesians were killed and several were wounded in a second engagement.

Radio Stations Bombed

In Batavia, the capital of Java, the British said one of their Punjab companies killed at least half of a force of approximately 100 attacking Indonesians.

British authorities sent rocket-firing Mosquito bombers into action for the first time yesterday. The planes scored thirteen direct rocket hits on the Nationalist radio station at Jogjakarta and nine on the radio station at Soerakarta. The pilots attacked an hour after Allied planes had dropped warning leaflets.

A British spokesman said the Indonesians had used the broadcasting stations in the two interior cities to pour out "vicious propaganda," inviting the people to war.

"Cause Stands Strong"

A national committee of the unrecognized Indonesian Republic met in Batavia and heard Premier Sutan Sjahrir, counseling quiet among the people, declare:

"I can see from your attitude that you are often close to despair. Whatever the difficulties, our cause stands strong amid the typhoons and storms which endanger our countrymen. We cannot be forced to follow a road we do not wish to take."

The Nationalists are seeking freedom from the Netherlands.

Censorship Slated

Minister of Information Amir Sjarifuddin, hearing that the British had complained of anti-British propaganda published in the Indonesian newspaper Mederka (Freedom) said that beginning today the Indonesian republic would take full responsibility for all stories published in the paper. He announced he would place an official in the office of the paper to review its contents.

Meanwhile, Theodore de Winter a Dutch Army captain, said Admiral Conrad Helfrich, commander of Dutch forces in Java, had informed the British that Amboinese troops in the Dutch Army would remain in Batavia.

[Forces of About 2,000

He quoted Helfrich as saying he was willing to move the Amboinese from troubled areas to other sectors of the capital.

The Dutch force in the Batavia sector consists of about 2,000 native troops from the islands of Amboina and Celebes and a number of pro-Dutch Javanese.

The British announced officially last week that Amboinese soldiers and their families would be withdrawn from Batavia. The British also disclosed officially what they described as instances of brutality by both the Indonesians and by Dutch and Amboinese forces.

Reasons Given

Helfrich could not be reached for comment, but a Dutch naval intelligence officer said he believed the British now had acceded to the Dutch viewpoint.

Declaring that the Amboinese troops would refuse to leave, De Winter said: "If we tried to force them many would desert, form a guerrilla army and start killing the Indonesians on their own.

"Most of them are Christians. They are our most loyal troops, and we are unwilling to lose them."

HIROHITO URGES HARMONY IN DIET

Session To Act On Election Reforms Is Convened

Tokyo, Tuesday, Nov. 27 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito personally and formally opened the Diet's second extraordinary session under a conqueror's close scrutiny today by reading a rescript instructing the members to "conduct harmonious deliberations in conformance with our wish."

The text of the rescript:

"We hereby convene the Imperial Diet and call ye members of the House of Peers and the House of Representatives:

Reform Measures Planned

"We have commanded the ministers of state to submit to the Imperial Diet urgent legislative measures concerning the revision of the House of Representatives election law and other matters. Ye are instructed to conduct harmonious deliberations of the same in conformance with Our wish and thereby fulfill your duty of assistance and co-operation."

Reform measures were prominent on the Diet's agenda as American officials and Japanese liberals pondered the advisability of postponing elections to avoid hasty balloting by a politically untutored people.

Under existing electoral provisions, this Diet would set the final date for new elections. That date would be some time in April under the present law calling for convocation of a new Diet within five months after dissolution of its predecessor.

Might Be Handicap

There is growing belief in American official circles, however, that such relatively hasty balloting might handicap rather than help the advancement of democracy in Japan.

These circles suggest the Japanese people obviously are unprepared now for anything approaching intelligent selection of candidates. Moreover, urgent food problems make promises of better living conditions a most effective campaign method—and the old-line political machines are well greased.

Such a situation, it is feared, would permit legally elected old-line politicians, working in connection with influential bureaucrats, to establish themselves more firmly in control.

Instructions Required

It would require specific instructions from Supreme Allied Headquarters to waive the constitutional provision governing the election date, or at least instructions to prevent the anticipated dissolution of the Diet at the end of the current session.

The Government, meanwhile, on an order by General MacArthur, supplied a list of all legislation to be submitted to the present Diet. It included measures to "liberalize" the Government, to aid occupation forces, to repeal wartime restrictive measures, and to dissolve jingoistic associations already forbidden by the Supreme Commander's orders.

Fight Expected On Some Jap Reform Bills

Tokyo, Nov. 26 (AP) — The Diet opened a second extraordinary session of the occupation today with an agenda of several reform measures, but there were immediate indications that some proposed legislation would be attacked.

Tomorrow's plenary session will be highlighted by Emperor Hirohito's reading of an imperial rescript outlining the scope of the session and ordering the Diet to abolish repressive laws. Today's meeting was limited to selection of working committees by the Houses of peers and representatives.

Plea For Unity Expected

Premier Kijuro Shidehara is expected to emphasize "close relationship between the Emperor and the people" as a plea for unity on important domestic measures when he addresses the Diet Wednesday.

The Japanese Government, on an order by General MacArthur, furnished him a list of all legislation to be submitted.

The list included measures to "liberalize" the Government, to aid occupation forces, to repeal wartime restrictive measures and to dissolve jingoistic associations already forbidden by MacArthur's orders.

To Attack Land Bill

Social Democrats said they would attack the Government land reformation bill because the expropriation measure, as amended, is "too mild." It would take much of Japan's agricultural lands from the wealthy and redistribute them among small farmers, with repayment to be made by long-time installments.

Other Japanese sources said it was doubtful if the Commerce and Industry Ministry could complete its anti-trust legislation in time for presentation at this session, scheduled for eighteen days.

Shidehara's address, covering the full range of Government problems, is expected to deal at length with new directives from General MacArthur abolishing war pensions and ordering a heavy tax on wartime profits.

Plans for improving the people's livelihood also are to be presented by the Premier.

Interpolaters will include 75-year-old Takao Saito, veteran parliamentarian who was expelled from the old Minseito party in 1940 after he vigorously questioned army policies in China. Saito represents the so-called Progressive party of oldline politicians, which claims dominance of the House of Representatives with 300 seats.

Cabinet Doomed

Shidehara's pleas for unity were not expected to inject new life into his Cabinet, which undoubtedly will fall after the Diet adjourns. Sharp criticism is certain on the troublesome food and housing problems, and sharp questioning may follow as a result of the reported coal shortage.

Meanwhile, during a discussion at Allied headquarters over abolition of the military pensions, it was disclosed a social security program for aged Japanese may evolve from the American revamping of Nippon's economic structure.

Kramer Backs Plan

Col. Raymond C. Kramer, head of the Army's economic and scientific section in Japan, said "we believe it would be highly desirable for the Government to take a proper view of its obligations" to the aged and those in need through no fault of their own.

If the Government moves to provide social security "we'll do everything" to approve and help develop plans, he added.

Kramer said United States tax experts are coming to Japan to help draft legislation to recapture war profits, fix capital and gain taxes. Japan's new zaibatsu (business combines) will be reduced "to size," it was indicated, by regaining money piled up by new war-inspired financial groups.

White Man's Foe Surrenders in Japan

Tokyo, Nov. 26 (A. P.)—Toshio Shiratori, the 1939-40 Ambassador to Italy, who declared in 1941 that Japan's true aim was to drive the white man out of Asia, surrendered at Sugamo Prison today.

Shiratori—considered the most rabid of all the militarists in Gen. MacArthur's arrest order—was taken into custody by Sgt. Charles W. Kline of Gary, Ind., to await trial as a war criminal.

Japanese 'Mosquito' Newspaper

TOKYO, Nov. 26 (AP).—Japan's first "mosquito" newspaper, the evening "Min-Po" or "People's Daily," of four pages half the size of a tabloid, will begin publication Dec. 1, Kyodo News Agency said today. It said two of the tabloid's editors have been closely connected with Prince Fumimaro Konoye.

Jap Television Test Set

Tokyo, Nov. 26 (AP)—The Japan Broadcasting Company has made preparations for a television test early in January, the Imperial Board of Communications said today.

Open Cable Service To Troops in Japan

Yokohama, Nov. 26 (A. P.).—American forces in Japan may now send and receive messages from home by wire, it was announced today.

Lieut.-Col. J. E. Newton, Eighth Army postal officer, told the troops that messages from home should carry name, rank, serial number, unit or organization and APO number to facilitate delivery. Any three of several hundred fixed texts can be wired to the United States at a cost of about 60 cents, he added.

Midget Subs Buried

Kure, Japan, Tuesday, Nov. 27 (AP)—Approximately 100 Japanese midget submarines are being buried by the United States 41st Division. They were piled in the bottom of a giant drydock and are being covered with other waste material and scrap.

Japs' Poison Gas Dumped At Sea

Kyoto, Nov. 26 (AP)—Sixth Army troops racing against cold weather are destroying more than 3,500 tons of poison gas—enough to drench New York city—discovered on the small island of Okuna, 35 miles from Kure naval base.

Lieut. Col. Julian Newlander, of Washington, D.C., chemical officer of the 41st Division, estimated the task would require at least two months. The lethal chemicals are being dumped in the ocean five miles from the nearest land.

Danger Of Freezing

Troops are trying to finish the job by December when cold weather will freeze some of the gasses—similar to mustard gas of World War I—making it impossible to clean up the two-square-mile island before next summer.

Lieut. Duncan Black, of Morganville, N.J., said a check revealed the Japanese Lewisite type to be as potent as the American version but their mustard-type gas was inferior.

Containers ranging from 40-gallon drums to 90-ton vats hold the gasses.

The Japanese did not use any of it against Americans in the Pacific war.

PRISON CAMP FOOD AMPLE, JAPS SAY

Two Witnesses Testify At Trial Of Yamashita

Manila, Nov. 26 (AP)—Two Japanese defense witnesses testified today at the war crimes trial of Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita that there was ample food at Cabanatuan internment camp and Bilibid prison, which prosecution witnesses have pictured as places of slow starvation.

American military investigators have described Cabanatuan as a place of famine, but the defense witnesses said the inmates were fed a diet of "meat, eggs, fruits and vegetables."

There was "sufficient amount of food" at Bilibid prison in Manila, the Japanese testified. Survivors, previously related stories of barbarous torture and of being driven by hunger to eat cats, dogs and Japanese garbage.

Call Ship Comfortable

The Japanese prison ship Oroyku Maru, the same defense witnesses said, was "well and comfortably equipped." It was in the suffocating holds of that vessel that many of 1,300 captured Americans went insane or died.

The military commission trying Yamashita was so impresed by such statements from Lieut. Gen. Shiyoku Koh, one of the defense witnesses, that it ordered a special investigation of Koh's administration of prisoner-of-war and internee camps in Yamashita's 14th Army Group area.

John Shizuo Ohashi, a Japanese civilian formerly belonging to the Santo Tomas internment camp staff, assured the commission that not only did Japanese guards eat the same rations as civilian internees, but that the guards sometimes were beaten for mistreating prisoners.

Two Lines Of Defense

Col. Harry E. Clarke, of Altoona, Pa., heading the defense staff, has developed a two-line attack to establish Yamashita's innocence. The defense contends, first, that Yamashita has not been directly connected with any atrocity in the evidence offered by the prosecution, and, second, that the commission has no proper jurisdiction and is trying the case illegally.

In line with the second contention, the defense concurrently has a motion before the Supreme Court of the Philippines seeking a writ of habeas corpus which would take Yamashita out of the military commission's hands.

Jap Calls 'Hell-Hole' A Comfortable Ship

Manila, Nov. 26 (AP)—A Japanese defense witness for Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita asserted today that the Oroyku Maru—the "hell-hole" prison ship on which many of 1,300 captured Americans went mad—was well and comfortably equipped.

The witness, Lieut. Gen. Shiyoku Koh, was in charge of the prisoners were forced to walk to the ship last December 13 when it was loaded with Americans bound for Japan.

"Yes, most of them were marched to the ship, but some weaker ones were taken in trucks," Koh answered. He testified he sent along 40 guards and a Japanese lieutenant.

Another Version

Survivors have described horribly jammed conditions in the holds which drove many to madness before the vessel was bombed and sunk by American planes. [The voyage was the subject of a recent series of articles in The Evening Sun by George Weller.]

The United States military commission trying Yamashita on war charges ordered an investigation of Koh's administration of prisoner of war and internee camps after hearing his testimony that Cabanatuan camp inmates were "getting meat, eggs, fruits and vegetables."

American military investigators have reported they had established that prisoners were slowly starving to death.

Denies Protests

Koh denied receiving any protest on conditions from the prisoners.

Asked if he knew that four Americans were taken from Santo Tomas and executed, Koh said he knew only that Carroll C. Grinnell, New York and Manila businessman who was chairman of the internee committee, and three others were taken away for questioning because they were suspected of communicating with American forces.

Asked about Bilibid Prison, where witnesses have testified the internees ate cats and dogs, Koh claimed sufficient amounts of food were sent there.

Koh testified that neither he nor other prison camp commanders had authority to execute prisoners and that if any were slain it was after they "apeared before a military court."

Previous testimony has detailed instances of summary executions of prisoners by the Japanese.

Claims Guards Were Beaten

John Shizuo Ohashi, a civilian previously described by internees as one member of the Santo Tomas prison staff who had attempted to improve their recreation and living facilities, testified several guards were beaten in the commandant's office for mistreating Santo Tomas inmates.

Ohashi acknowledged food was a constant problem, but said guards ate the same rations as internees. He said children had a special kitchen and were given eggs, which were difficult to obtain, and that Koh obtained extra gasoline to send trucks out for rice.

He denied Yamashita ever visited the prison, as previous witness had said.

No Legal Rules Are Pursued in Yamashita Case

Acceptance of all Hearsay Evidence Is Challenged by Aggressive Defense

MANILA, Nov. 26 (AP).—From the standpoint of the establishment of a body of law to guide the trial of future war criminals, Lieutenant General Tomoyuki Yamashita's hearing here is something less than an unqualified success, as judged by the concensus of courtroom observers.

After three weeks of testimony the defense counsel is still waging a brilliant but so war fruitless battle against the military commission, which has fixed no rules of evidence but has accepted everything offered by the prosecution virtually without reservation.

The commission repeatedly has ruled that testimony protested as irrelevant by the defense would be "accepted for such probative value as the commissions deems it possesses." Rules of evidence obtaining in courts of the United States have had no bearing on the evidence the commission rules it will accept, including third-hand hearsay.

British and Australian newsmen covering the trial have been highly critical of the procedure in their reports. They assert the loose interpretation of evidence by the commission is shocking to those reared on the precise concepts of British justice. American reporters likewise are bewildered by the failure of the commission to follow any known guide.

The Yamashita commission has been placed in an embarrassing position by the ruling of another military commission in an unrelated case in a near-by courtroom. Brigadier General Arthur Trudeau, law member of a commisison trying seven Japanese for the alleged murder of two American aviators and five Filipino civilians, ruled the court would not receive hearsay evidence or depositions, on the ground that it would be contrary to the rules of evidence in military court commission procedure.

Trudeau later qualified his ruling to the extent that hearsay and depositions would be provisionally received, "pending decision of higher authority." However, the fact that the other court originally threw out evidence which is the cornerstone of the Yamashita presentation is a major point on which the Japanese general's defense can rely in any appeal of an adverse verdict.

The Yamashita commission categorically rules that hearsay and depositions are acceptable in the case, although the defense pointed out a specific War Department regulation against a military commission accepting such evidence in a capital case such as the Yamashita trial.

Despite the adverse rulings on objections—the court record shows that virtually every defense objection has been thrown out—the defense staff, headed by Colonel Harry E. Clarke, of Altoona, Pa., has been making a brilliant fight for the accused Japanese general.

Clarke directs like a quarterback. Captain Milton Sanberg, soft-spoken Columbia University law graduate, and sardonic Captain Adolf F. Reel, Harvard graduate and Boston attorney, are Clarke's chief ball carriers.

The defense has developed a two-line attack to establish Yamashita's innocence. It contends, first, that Yamashita has not been connected directly with any atrocity in evidence offered by the prosecution, and second, that the commission has no proper jurisdiction and is trying the case illegally.

In line with the second thesis the defense now has a motion before the Supreme Court of the Philippines seeking a writ of habeas corpus for Yamashita.

U. S. Asks Radio Links Over Cables Kept Direct

Seeks to Avoid Return to Use of British Empire Circuits

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 26 (AP).—American delegates to the Anglo-American Telecommunications Conference submitted proposals today to continue direct radio-telegraph circuits connecting the United States with Australia, Bermuda, Egypt, India and New Zealand.

Unless the governments agree to their continuance, these circuits will be terminated in six months and traffic to the United States will resume movement over the British Empire system through London and Canada.

The Americans also proposed establishment of new direct circuits between the United States and Ceylon, Singapore, Hongkong, Jamaica, Palestine and South Africa. They agreed to discontinuance of the circuits connecting the United States with Gambia, on the Gold Coast of Africa, and British Guiana.

The British took the proposals under advisement.

G-M Rejects Request Of Auto Workers To Reopen Wage Parley

MODIFY DEMANDS FIRST, COMPANY TELLS STRIKERS

Nothing Can Be Gained by Talks at This Time Union Told.

FORD TO LAYOFF

40,000 Employes Face Idleness Due to Shortage of Parts.

DETROIT, Nov. 26.—(AP) General Motors Corporation tonight refused to re-enter discussions with the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.) on wage issues that have idled 225,000 GM employes.

"Unless you are now prepared to modify your unreasonable wage demands x x x we do not think that anything can be gained by further discussions x x x with your union at this time," the company declared.

GM's curt reply came less than 24 hours after Walter Reuther, U. A. W. vice president, asked GM to resume negotiations on the 30 per cent wage rate increase issue. Reuther also asked that press and radio men be admitted to the proposed session.

Charges NLR Violation

The U.A.W., in a statement signed by Reuther, tonight accused GM of "further violations of the National Labor Relations act" and expressed ignorance of any "illegal picketing."

The union declared that it was "still prepared to negotiate a settlement of this issue any time and at any place."

General Motors statement assailed what it termed union refusal to permit many salaried employes to enter its plants throughout the country. "When your union uses force and threats of force to interfere with free entrance at our plants x x x you are creating a situation of lawlessness."

The company estimated today that 50,000 salaried employes are being kept out of plants throughout the country.

The corporation contended that collective bargaining negotiations were broken off Nov. 20 by the strike call.

Anderson declared:

"We engaged in collective bargaining with your union in meetings covering a period of weeks. It was clear to us from the very beginning that you were determined to have a strike in General Motors.

"You now have that strike (your so-called labor blockade) which you planned for many months."

The company claimed that it offered "appropriate" wage increases in a final effort to avert a strike. This was an apparent reference to its 10 per cent "cost-of-living" raise proposal.

GM's statement came as the number of idle in the strike of the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.) against the corporation rose to 225,000 as adidtional salaried employes were kept from their jobs.

The figures were contained in a company estimate as the work stoppage in 51 cities stemming from a 30 per cent wage increase demand, ended its sixth day.

Ford Orders Layoffs

Meanwhile, another 40,000 workers employed by the Ford Motor company in the Detroit area faced temporary layoffs this week occasioned, the company said, by shortages of parts for automobiles and trucks.

M. L. Bricker, Ford vice-president in charge of manufacturing, said the GM dispute was in no way responsible for the shortages, that strikes in plants of 15 Ford suppliers and lack of manpower in others had prevented parts output from reaching required levels.

Some operations of the company's Rouge plant and several hydro plants will close Tuesday night and other Wednesday night, Bricker said, with all departments scheduled to reopen next Monday. He said assembly line operations and Lincoln units would not be affected.

Reinforced picket lines appeared at most of the struck General Motors plants today, and GM spokesmen estimated about 50,000 of the 73,000 salaried employes were prevented from entering the offices.

In Detroit, pickets ringed the GM research garage where many corporation executives park their cars, and some officials turned away to other parking areas. Among those permitted to enter, however, were C. E. Wilson, GM president, and Harry W. Anderson, vice president in charge of personnel.

State Department Made Broad Offers to Keep Peace, Probers Told.

CLASH IN SENATE

Ferguson, Brewster Fire Back at Tunnell after Attacking 'Sneak Attack.'

NOV 27 1945

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — (AP) Former Ambassador Joseph C. Grew told congressional investigators today that the State department, in its efforts to maintain peace in 1941, offered the Japanese "everything they ostensibly were fighting for."

"I don't say everything they were fighting for but everything they ostensibly were fighting for," he emphasized.

Prepared For War

Grew depicted Japan of late 1941 as under control of a military government which had prepared it militarily and psychologically for war and was unwilling to listen to reason.

It was much the same view the Pearl Harbor committee had received earlier from former Secretary of State Hull who summed up by saying "the trouble" was that Japan was "hell-bent" on conquest.

Grew took a stand alongside Hull, too, in contending that the American proposals of Nov. 26, 1941, which the Japanese later called an "ultimatum", were nothing of the kind.

Furthermore, he denied that he had ever said, as an Army inquiry board quoted him, that the Nov. 26 note "touched the button that started the war."

Japan's leaders, with their controlled press and easily molded public opinion, could have accepted the American position, Grew declared, and turned it into a "great diplomatic victory" for home consumption—if they had wanted peace.

As the committee went on with its hearings, there was another round of exchanges on the Senate floor over the conduct of the inquiry.

Senators Ferguson (R-Mich) and Brewster (R-Me) fired back at Senator Tunnell (D-Del) who had referred last week to Republicans on the committee as "apologists for Japan—gentlemen in borrowed kimonos."

Brewster suggested that Tunnell's blast, without prior warning, was a "speak attack" and Ferguson expressed regret that anyone should seek to make "partisan politics" of the inquiry.

Tunnell, in reply, declared he had only called attention to "a concerted movement to insinuate that the Army or Navy or President Roosevelt was responsible for the war."

Fleet Held Deterrent

Both Grew and Hull gave it as their opinions that:

1. Keeping the fleet in Pearl Harbor in 1941 was a deterrent to Japanese aggression elsewhere in the Pacific. Grew said Japanese officials had even suggested to him that the fleet be removed to the Atlantic.

2. If a modus vivendi—a temporary sort of agreement — had been presented to Japan in an effort to keep peace conversations going it likely would have had no actual effect on the developments.

Grew related that Japanese officials held up for 10 hours the delivery to him of President Roosevelt's last-minute peace appeal to Emperor Hirohito. He did not know, he said, whether the Emperor ever actually saw it.

He also declared that the American note which Nipponese leaders later described as an "ultimatum" was kept secret from the Japanese people.

In an hour in the witness chair, the aged and ailing Hull upheld in pungent language the course and actions he and President Roosevelt took in the critical months before the sneak raid Dec. 7, 1941, plunged this country into war.

With irritation in his voice, he declared that this 10-point note of Nov. 26, presenting counter-proposals to Japan's demands, was not an "ultimatum" and had been subjected to "misrepresentation" and "ignorant interpretation."

"There was nothing in there that any peaceful nation would not have been delighted to accept," he declared.

"The only trouble was that the Japanese were bent—if I did not see ladies present, Mr. Chairman, I would say hell bent—on their military policy. They had their guns drawn."

Hull Stays Hour

Hull spoke with vigor and frequent gestures. Although it had been agreed that he should not be questioned for longer than 45 minutes at a time because of recent ill health, he insisted on continuing for an hour and left the witness chair in apparent reluctance, applauded by the crowd packing the hearing room.

Grew took up the story with a brief recital of his 10 years in Tokyo, from June 6, 1932, to June 25, 1942, when he left in a diplomatic exchange ship.

He said he had perceived the desire for conquest and "psychological preparation" for it as far back as the early 1930's, and repeatedly had advised Washington.

Relating the last hours of peace, he said he was listening to the San Francisco radio the evening of Dec. 7, 1941 (Dec. 6, United States Time) when he heard the President had sent a message to the Emperor.

He got in touch with aides and finally, at 10:30 p.m., they received a coded message from the Japanese post office department which handles cables and radio.

"They had held it up throughout the day," he said, adding that the stamping showed it was received at noon.

Decoding the message consumed some time and it was shortly after midnight when he saw Foreign Minister Togo and told him he wished to deliver the message personally to the Emperor.

Togo haggled a bit but finally said he would present the request to the throne.

Awakened In Morning

Grew said he went back home and to bed and was awakened at 7 a.m. by the telephone bell at his bedside.

It was Kase, secretary to Togo, calling.

"He said he had been trying to get me since 5 a.m. I said that was funny because the telephone was by my bed and I had not heard it ring."

Kase advised that Togo wished to see him and Grew reached the foreign office at 7:30.

"Togo walked in. He had a document in his hand, slapped it on the table and said this is the Emperor's reply."

Grew said he protested that he had asked to see the Emperor, but to no avail.

Togo pointed to the last paragraph, he related, which said the diplomatic conversations were being called off, then made him a little speech, but said nothing of war.

Since the conversations had been called off before, then resumed, he did not feel unduly alarmed, Grew added.

He went on back to the embassy and later heard newsboys calling "extra." They had papers telling of the attack and that was how he learned of it. It had occurred at "An hour later the police came in and locked us up," he concluded.

Grew denied he had told an Army board investigating Pearl Harbor that Hull's note of Nov. 26, 1941 "touched the button that started the war."

He asserted the note was "in no respect an ultimatum, either in tone or substance."

Grew followed Cordell Hull to the witness chair after the former Secretary of State had asserted that the Japanese were "hell-bent" for war in November, 1941, and hence had rejected the ten-point note which any peace seeking nation would have been "delighted to accept."

HULL DEFENDS HIS MESSAGE

Declares Tokyo Was Hell-bent for War and He Wanted Fleet in Hawaii.

Washington, Nov. 26 (A. P.).—Former Ambassador Joseph C. Grew denied today that he had said—as an Army inquiry board quoted him as saying—that Secretary of State Hull's note of November 26, 1941, "touched the button that started the war" with Japan.

Grew told the Senate-House Pearl Harbor investigating committee that he had testified before the Army board that the "button was touched" about the time the Hull note was delivered, but that he never regarded the ten-point American statement as having been the cause of the Japanese military move.

Referring to this United States note, Grew asserted firmly, "It was in no respect an ultimatum either in tone or substance."

Senator Lucas (D.-Ill.) said he thought the Army Inquiry Board, consisting of Lieut.-Gen. George Grunert, Major-Gen. Henry D. Russell and Major-Gen. Walter H. Frank, had put a "strained" construction on Grew's testimony.

"And it's difficult for me to understand why the Army Board said nothing about the ultimatum issued by the Japanese," Lucas added.

In its report, the Army Board had said that the Hull note was "the document that touched the button that started the war, as Ambassador Grew so aptly said."

Grew told the committee he couldn't understand how the Army Board had reached that conclusion, for he had never had it himself.

He said the Japanese militarists and the civilian officials who were influenced by them had characterized the note at the time as an ultimatum, but he had testified in the Army inquiry it was his personal opinion the Japanese attitude was "totally unsound."

In this view, Grew echoed the opinion of Hull, who earlier, had testified that he considered the note in question had been "ignorantly misrepresented."

Got Reply After Attack.

Reverting to events at the time of Pearl Harbor, Grew testified that the Japanese Emperor's reply to President Roosevelt's peace appeal was not given to him until four hours after the sneak attack on Hawaii.

He said he was summoned by telephone to the Japanese Foreign Office at 7 A. M., on December 8, Japanese time. When he got there, Grew said, Foreign Minister Togo walked into the room, slapped a document down on the table, and said it contained the Emperor's answer to the President.

Togo called attention to the last paragraph, which said that the diplomatic conversations in Washington would be called off because they had made no progress, Grew said. The conversations had been called off before and then resumed, so the former ambassador said he was not unduly alarmed.

He went back to the embassy and an hour later heard newsboys crying an "extra."

"That was the way I learned about the attack on Pearl Harbor," he said. "It had occurred at 3:00 A. M., Japanese time. I never understood why Togo didn't tell me about it. Perhaps he did not have the courage to do it. Perhaps it was not diplomatic protocol, I don't know."

While he was on the stand, Hull, insisting that his ten-point note had been misinterpreted testified:

"There has been more misinformation and more ignorant misrepresentation—unintentional, no doubt—about the significance of this last proposal of ours than of any move we made. There was nothing in there that any peaceful nation would not have been delighted to accept."

Repeated Principles.

Hull said the ten-point note merely brought together the general principles on which the United States had been insisting since diplomatic talks began with the Japanese six months earlier. He added that five of the ten points offered direct benefits to Japan.

"The only trouble with this note was that the Japanese were bent—if I hadn't noticed the presence of ladies here I'd say hell bent—on carrying ahead their military policy," the former Cabinet member said grimly."

The November 26 note, Hull continued, was drafted and delivered after it was decided not to offer the Japanese a "modus vivendi," or temporary agreement. Hull said that the State Department didn't want to say "'no' and stop right there" when the Japanese presented on November 20, 1941, what he described as the most extreme demands they had made in six months of diplomatic discussions.

"Our policy was not to say 'no'—it was not to remain silent," he said. "It was to grab at every straw to give time for preparation to our Army and Navy and to our prospective allies."

He said the form of a proposed temporary agreement was given consideration under which the American plan of peaceful cooperation would be discussed further. He said the Japanese were to be offered "a little chickenfeed" in this temporary agreement.

The propsal was not offered, he said, largely because of Chinese and British opposition. The Chinese, he added, made a "terrific attack" on the proposal and Prime Minister Churchill "went the whole disance" in contending that acceptance of the proposal by the Japanese would cause the collapse of the Chiang Kai-shek Government in China.

The hopes that the Japanese would accept the temporary agreement were small, in any event, Hull testified. He said that the Japanese war lords had whipped their people up to a war fever while this country "unforunately was divided" in its views.

Chairman Barkley (D.-Ky.) asked Hull if he had talked with the late President Roosevelt about keeping the fleet in Pearl Harbor late in 1941. Hull replied that Mr. Roosevelt had asked him about the psychological effects and he, Hull, had urged that the fleet remain in Hawaiian waters. At that time, he said, Japan was working closely with Germany and Italy and this country's officials did not know what secret relations existed between the Axis nations.

"Any indications we were observing even a fairly firm policy would find an echo in Berlin," he said.

Uses Homely Metaphor.

The man who came from the mountains of Tennessee resorted to homely language in demonstrating what he called the value of keeping the fleet at Hawaii. He said: "If you happened to have a double-barreled shotgun in the house, and were talking to a desperado, I'd feel a little better and he'd feel a little worse if he saw the psychological outline of that weapon."

Admiral J. O. Richardson, former Pacific Fleet commander, testified last week that he left Washington after a 1940 visit with the impression that there was an opinion here that Japan could be bluffed. On that point, Hull said: "The whole truth was that we were in our own waters, our own territory, on our side of the Pacific, pursuing a perfectly peaceful course."

Representative Cooper (D. Tenn.) asked about pre-war United States policy in China. Hull said he recalled only too vividly how, "after American citizens were shot or outrageously injured, or their property seized," and United States protests were made to Japan, "a few in our country would cry out, 'what are you doing over there, trying to start a war?'"

He said one lecturer went all over the country "saying 'get the hell out of China.'" That slogan did appear to sound plausible to some, he added.

Would Have Shared Spoils.

Hull told Cooper that a Japanese note of November 20 definitely was an ultimatum, but contended that the United States reply six days later could not have been so considered. He pictured the Japanese warlords as savages allied with a German savage—Hitler—and said that, had their November 20 proposals been accepted, both Japan and Germany would have shared the spoils.

Questioned by Gerhard Gessell committee counsel, Hull said that he believed the State Department was "thoroughly justified in wanting the fleet kept at Pearl Harbor in the critical days of late, saying:

"We felt that it would be more or less useful, especially after the fleet was based at Pearl Harbor, that it remain there during the critical state of relations with certain other nations—Japan especially.

"We were dealing with one of the worst international desperadoes within the memory of man. He was at large, on a rampage, dangerous, treacherous and undependable in every way. It was a little more wholesome in the many matters under discussion for our Navy to be standing there."

Did Not Hear Warning.

Hull said that "from all tangible and intanglible reactions" he had received he was convinced that the State Department was thoroughly justified in that point of view.

Gesell reminded the witness that Admiral Richardson had testified earlier in the investigation that he warned Washington officials the security of the fleet was endangered by its remaining in Hawaiian waters. Had Hull ever been advised of Richardson's view, Gesell asked.

"I don't remember at any time that any person suggested the idea that the fleet couldn't protect itself," Hull replied firmly.

Hull said a projected message on the Pacific crisis from President Roosevelt to Congress on November 29, 1941, was not delivered because it was felt that this would only play in the hands of the Japanese war lords. The message, a copy of which is in committee files, would have stressed the dangers of Japanese attack.

Hull said another reason for holding it back was that "public opinion in the country was split wide open on the question of nationalism, as some people called it, and a broader international viewpoint." As evidence of this condition, he cited the fact that Congress had approved extension of the draft act only by a one-vote margin only a few weeks before.

Cites Reaction to Draft.

"We didn't nave much doubt . . . that to send a message to Congress stating that we were threatened with danger . . . would do little more in exploiting the situation than to play into the hands on the Japanese military," he testified.

Asked by Gesell whether this meant that he and the President feared it would be seized on as "provocation in Japan," Hull said. "They did that precise thing when we passed the conscription act a year before."

He stressed that "there was an honest difference of opinion" here between internationally minded people and "an extremely nationalistic" group and "we would have got nowhere with affirmative legislation in the first place."

Roosevelt sent a personal message to the Emperor of Japan on December 6, 1941, asking for the withdrawal of troops from Indo-China as a demonstration of peaceful intent by the Japanese.

Military Ruled Emperor.

Gesell brought out that other drafts of a proposed message had been prepared at least as early as October 17. He asked why a message to the Emperor had not been sent sooner than December 6.

Hull replied that "the primary reason was that the military in Japan was in supreme arbitrary control" and the Emperor appeared to "go along with them, and under their domination."

"They were so powerful they could touch the Emperor on the shoulder and say 'You sign up in blank a declaration of war,'" he added.

Hull continued that "we felt satisfied that if the military saw the President going over their heads, it would only react against the whole situation and the military group would merely tighten up."

Grew was called to the stand as Hull was excused after an hour's questioning.

As Hull left, he shook hands with Grew and said: "Good luck." Grew replied: "I'll do the best I can."

ASSAIL TUNNELL FOR HIS ATTACK

Ferguson and Brewster Speak on Pearl Harbor.

Washington, Nov. 26 (A. P.).—Republican members of the Senate-House Pearl Harbor Investigating Committee told the Senate today that they intend to bare all facts of the 1941 disaster and fix the responsibility.

Rising in reply to a speech in which Senator Tunnell (D.-Del.) referred last week to "apologists for Japan—gentlemen in borrowed kimonos," Senators Brewster (R.-Me.) and Ferguson (R.-Mich.) disputed the Democrat's suggestions. Ferguson said he regretted that any one would try to drag the inquiry "through the muck and mire of bitter partisan politics."

Brewster suggested that Tunnell, by making his critical speech without prior notice, had indulged in "a sneak attack."

Ferguson declared: "I felt, and I still feel, that whatever mistakes were made which resulted in the Pearl Harbor defeat must be brought to light. With so much knowledge available as to what the Japs were doing, it is hard for any fair-minded person to understand how this catastrophe could happen—how our fleet and our air bases were left helplessly exposed to attack. It is the committee's job to find this answer. I do not intend to be distracted by personal attacks by those who do not desire to have all facts disclosed."

PRESIDENT PINS ANOTHER MEDAL ON GEN. MARSHALL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—(AP) President Truman pinned another decoration on erect 64-year-old George C. Marshall today and 20,000 cheered this tribute to the retired chief of staff for his war achievements.

Mr. Truman, outspoken admirer of the general's military ability, called it "the most important such ceremony in which I have had the privilege to participate." It was held in the inner courtyard of the vast Pentagon, War department headquarters.

Marshall has been chief of staff since Sept. 1, 1939. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has been nominated to succeed him.

The award was the oak leaf cluster to the Distinguished Service Medal. The citation credited Marshall with giving his country victory—also:

1. "The vision that brought into being the greatest military force in history."

2. "Greater influence than any other man on the strategy of victory" because he could make the Allies understand this country's true potentiality in personnel and materiel.

3. Being the first to recognize that victory would depend on our capacity to ring the earth with supply lines, to arm willing Allies, and overcome the enemy with superior fire power.

4. Being the first "to see the technological cunning and consequent greater danger of the Nazi enemy."

5. Being the "master proponent of a ground assault across the English channel into the plains of western Europe directed by a single supreme Allied commander."

6. Preventing the Japanese from becoming entrenched in their stolen empire "and enabling our timely advances across the Pacific" by insisting on unremitting pressure against them.

7. Obtaining from Congress the big sums that made possible the atomic bomb," well knowing that failure would be his sole responsibility."

And in conclusion—

"He takes his place at the head of the great commanders of history."

Tobin Predicts Labor-Parley Failure

Indianapolis, Nov. 26 (AP)—Daniel J. Tobin, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, forecasts failure of the labor-management conference now being held in Washington.

Tobin, in an article in the current issue of the union's magazine, the Teamster, says:

"I have no foolish optimism about any great accomplishments by the labor-management conference now meeting in Washington and of which I am a member.

"I cannot see how it is possible for labor and management to reach any kind of understanding. The two interests are distinctly opposite in most of the agenda.

Have No Power

"Under the rules, it takes almost unanimous consent to approve even a declaration of principle. The employers have no power from their constitutents to put anything into effect, even if a declaration, let us say, in favor of a general increase in wages, were adopted."

Mentioning labor's representatives to the conference, Tobin said:

"While there has been no disagreement so far among the labor leaders, there are policies and practices regarding which their opinions and their training are distinctly opposite. There is not much hope, in my opinion, that we will get anywhere."

Ten Newspapers Hit By Strikes

[By the Associated Press]

A shutdown of three Seattle newspapers entered its second week today, with no agreement in sight upon the wage dispute between the publishers and the striking AFL Typographical Union.

Seattle's three newspapers of general circulation — the Post-Intelligencer, Times and Star—have not published since last Monday, when 250 compositors walked out in support of their demand for a daily wage increase of $2.95. Management offered a $1.65 daily raise. The present scale is $10.35 for a seven-hour day.

350 Out At Reading

AFL printers were also involved in newspaper strikes at Reading, Pa., St. Petersburg, Fla., Yankton, S.D., Quincy, Mass., and Portsmouth, Ohio.

The Yankton Press and Dakotan has been publishing a tabloid-size newspaper with the aid of non-union employés since the AFL typographers went on strike last Wednesday in support of a closed-shop demand. The management said the South Dakota Legislature passed a law at the last session prohibiting closed-shop agreements in the State. As a result, the management added, it has proposed a substitute clause in its contract on which the union has not yet acted.

About 350 employés of the Reading Times and the Reading Eagle are idle as a result of a strike begun by 73 typographers September 8. The company charges the union with breach of contract. The union has demanded pay increases and incorporation of International Typographical Union laws in a new contract.

Other Wage Demands

St. Petersburg's two dailies—the Independent and Times— are affected by a walkout of compositors seeking $1.47 an hour for day work and $1.62 for night work, The present scale is $1.19 and $1.31 and the publishers have offered increases to $1.40 and $1.53. The strike began November 20.

Publication of the Portsmouth Times was halted Saturday when the printers struck in support of an hourly wage of $1.43, which would bring their weekly earnings to $53.63.

The Quincy Patriot-Ledger suspended publication September 27, a day after 43 composing room employés struck in a dispute over inclusion of the International Typographical Union rules in a contract.

Labor Warned To 'Pull In Horns'

Chicago, Nov. 26 (AP)—John C. Folger, retiring president of the Investment Bankers Association of America, told the organization's annual convention today that "labor must pull in its horns on wages and get some goods on the shelves or the take-home pay won't buy a thimble full."

"Inflation is here and has been for some time," Folger asserted. Its cure, he added, is a responsibility of both business and labor, with labor otherwise standing to lose "just like everyone else."

"If we can eliminate work stoppages and get our plants into full operation the inflation problem will be solved," he added.

Folger said the "average banker is afraid to mention labor for fear he will get his ears pinned back," but urged that "now is the time for every man to speak his piece because we all stand to win or lose."

Business men, too, should not forget that higher executive salaries "don't set well with reduced wages," Folger said.

Labor-Management Conference Still Enmeshed in Disagreements

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—(AP) Still heavily enmeshed in disagreements, President Truman's labor-management conference received today a management proposal for public fact-finding and a 50-day "cooling off" period prior to strikes or lockouts.

The conference, entering what its leaders hoped would be its final week, is aiming for a general session by Thursday, at the latest—the first such meeting since it actually got down to work. However, Secretary George W. Taylor told a news conference the schedule depended on whether the various subcommittees could pry loose their reports.

One Report Ready

So, far, only one subcommittee, that on collective agreements, has a report ready for submission. Sharp differences exist in three others, including one on jurisdictional disputes which now is planning to file two sets of conflicting recommendations. This committee, Taylor said, made no progress today.

The fact-finding proposal was given to the conference executive committee by management representatives and M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, offered an "amplification" which apparently raised a number of questions within the committee. After what Taylor described as "inquistive" rather than "hostile" questioning from labor committeemen, the proposal was referred to the steering committee for study.

Under its terms parties to a labor dispute would, if unable to reach an agreement through collective bargaining, voluntarily give the governor of the state in which the dispute was pending 10 days notice to any strike or lockout.

Then, if the governor involved felt a strike or lockout would "constitute a public emergency or endanger the health or safety of the public," he would be empowered to "arrange for the appointment of a fact-finding commission."

Taylor told reporters he did not know who would "empower" this action.

President Could Act

In event of a national emergency or a dispute endangering health or safety, the President would initiate the fact-finding commission.

In either case, the panel would hear both sides of the dispute and, within 30 days, publish the facts without recommendations. For at least another 10 days, the disputants would be required to maintain the status quo unless a settlement was reached meanwhile.

In his "amplification," Clement indicated that the fact-finding procedure would apply primarily to public utilities and emphasized that its use would be entiredly voluntary.

He said that any attempt" to extend the principle of 'fact-finding' beyond those institutions where a work stoppage involved such a substantial public interest that it deprives the people of the essentials" would probably lead to destroying the effectiveness of the principle.

He added:

"If the affairs of employes and management of any great segment of American industry are so important that their disputes become matters of national magnitude and adversely affect a substantial public interest, the employes and management in that industry might well come to some mutually agreed upon plan."

This plan would provide for a type of fact-finding setup which would fit the particular controversy, he said.

WARD BRANCHES KEEP DOORS OPEN DESPITE PICKETS

CHICAGO, Nov. 26—(AP) Montgomery Ward's C.I.O. workers left their jobs today in a planned week-long demonstration stoppage, but the company reported all branches open for business despite picket lines.

Samuel Wolchok, president of the United Retail, Wholesale, and Department Store Employes union, reported in New York that the walkout was 85 to 90 per cent effective in four cities, and that similar stoppages were planned later in the week for Detroit and Jamaica, N. Y., "for strategy reasons."

Other cities involved are Chicago, Albany, N. Y., Denver, and Kansas City.

In a statement the company asserted picket lines had been established at "four of Ward's nine mail order houses, six of Ward's 631 retail stores, two of Ward's 75 farm stores, and one of Ward's 216 order offices.

"All branches remain open for business despite the picket lines. More than 92 per cent of Ward's 75,000 employes are at work."

Wolchok said the walkout was called "to show the public and Ward's that the union is determined to obtain collective bargaining for its members."

Earlier he offered to drop demands for a closed shop and a checkoff of union dues, and submit wage demands to arbitration. Sewell Avery, Ward board chairman, rejected this proposal, and Wolchok branded Avery's reply as "double talk."

The union proposal asked Avery to designate President Truman, either the Secretary of Labor or of Commerce, the president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, or the American Arbitration association to name an arbitrator, or if none of these were satisfactory, to select his own agent.

Avery, in rejecting the early arbitration plan, said it might deprive the company "of the general management of its business."

One case of violence was reported. John Waters, 49, a Negro porter ,complained to police he was struck on the head when he entered the Chicago plant. Police arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct Irving Abramson, 40, Paterson, N. J., a union director, and Robert E. Morgan, 24, of Chicago. Both were released on $25 bond.

Brief Shutdown At Ford Laid To Supply Lack

Detroit, Nov. 26 (AP)—The Ford Motor Company announced today that most of its productior operations at the River Rouge plant near here and in several of its hydro plants will be halted tomorrow and Wednesday, because of a shortage of parts for automobile and truck production.

The curtailment of production, a statement said, will affect approximately 40,000 employés in the Detroit area. All the departments, the company said, will reopen next Monday.

Not Related To G.M. Strike

M. L. Bricker, company vice president in charge of manufacturing, said the strike against General Motors Corporation is in no way responsible for the Ford situation.

Bricker said many of the production operations at the Rouge plant will close Tuesday and the others by Wednesday night. They will remain closed, he said, for the remainder of the week.

Bricker said there were strikes in the plants of fifteen Ford suppliers and that others reported they do not have sufficient employés to keep output at necessary levels.

Union Ponders G.M. Tool-Die Ban

Detroit, Nov. 26 (AP)—General Motors officials studied a new union proposal for negotiations in their wage dispute today as increased picketing activity enforced idleness in G.M.'s extensive automotive operations.

Spokesmen for the company and for the CIO United Automobile Workers said at noon that they had not yet received formal word from Labor Secretary Schwellenbach, who had announced plans to call officials of both sides to Washington for a conference.

Union Urges Public Move

The union's new proposal, urging public negotiations before Federal conciliators, was made by telegraph last night.

While awaiting the corporation's reply, the union's international executive board opened a two-day meeting here.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO vice-president, said the request for further negotiations had been withheld pending the company's formal rejection of an arbitration proposal that came Friday.

Tool-And-Die Ban Possible

One of the problems facing the UAW executive board was to determine how nonstriking union members could best serve the strikers' cause.

In that connection the board planned to discuss a proposal that tool and die workers remain on the job but refuse to work on materials intended for General Motors.

Such action, to be brought up at a mass meeting of the tool and die workers tomorrow night, might affect 175 shops and would further delay General Motor's return to production of five lines of cars and numerous other products.

G.M. Garage Picketed

Pickets today ringed the company garage where most General Motors executives park their cars, and union officials said many company men had to find other space.

The pickets, however, made no attempt to stop Vice President Anderson when he drove in and parked in the usual place.

Frank Pierce, another G.M. vice president, reported that when he arrived a picket told him, "Go along, buddy, your check will be mailed to you."

COMMITTEE HITS STRIKE ELECTIONS

House Group Recommends Funds for Purpose Be Cancelled Immediately

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 — (AP) Moving to call an immediate halt to government-supervised strike elections, the House Appropriations committee today recommended that all funds for this activity be cancelled at once.

The recommendation, subject to approval of both the House and the Senate, was made in a $1,131,552,312 appropriation bill to meet deficiencies in funds previously appropriated for several score federal agencies for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

Strike elections have been conducted by the National Labor Relations board under provisions of the Smith-Connally war labor disputes act. Separate legislation repealing the strike-vote requirement and imposing stiff curbs on labor unions is pending in the House but will not be acted on until the supply bill approved today by the appropriations committee is disposed of, probably Wednesday.

$2,400,000 Cost Seen

The committee estimated at $2,400,000 the cost of conducting strike elections during the next seven months.

Noting that the strike-vote provision was a wartime proposal, the committee said the need for it has passed. It added that the regular work of the NLRB, which has requested repeal of the strike-vote requirement, is being held up by the elections.

In addition to denying new funds for any such elections, the committee recommended that money already appropriated for that purpose be returned to the treasury.

The $1,131,552,312 recommended for the various agencies supplied by the bill was a reduction of $576,142,136 from budget estimates, representing one of the biggest percentage slashes ever proposed by the committee.

However, more than half of the reduction was made "without prejudice" to reconsideration later.

Among the "without prejudice" cuts were $24,500,000 for temporary housing for veterans, $158,320,000 for hospital and domiciliary facilities for veterans, and $128,475,000 for river and harbor and flood control projects. All these items, the committee said, should be reviewed later by committee dealing exclusively with them.

Of money actually approved, $928,000,000 was for national service life insurance handled by the Veterans' Administration. The new money, augmenting $900,000,000 previously approved by Congress, is necessary, the committee said, because of deaths of members of the armed forces who carried the reduced-rate national service insurance.

In cutting almost every item it considered, the committee cautioned that further slashes must be made in federal spending.

"It is rare to meet with witnesses who evidence a conception of the need to contract governmental spending," the committee commented. "A spending psychology has grown up in government which must be dissipated."

RFC is Criticized

In cutting $95,000,000 from a $107,500,000 request of the Federal Works Agency for advance public works planning, the committee criticized the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for action it said "borders on counteracting" a previous congressional mandate.

The $50,000,000 cash and $57,500,000 contractual authority the FWA sought, and which the committee cut to a total of $12,500,000 cash, contemplated stimulating interest in an annual construction program estimated at $3,500,000,000.

"It appears now that in order to get construction underway the Reconstruction Finance corporation will make loans or cooperate with private leaders," the committee said, "The law with respect to advance planning program expressly provides that the making of loans or advances in pursuance thereof 'shall not in any way commit the congress to appropriate funds to undertake any projects so planned.' "

Since the government is responsible for RFC loans, the committee said, the action of that agency conflicts with existing law.

To curb the RFC, the committee wrote into the bill a proviso prohibiting loans by any federal agency to build projects for which plans have been financed through the advance-planning program, unless congress specifically authorizes the loan.

NAVY CONTROL OF VICE SCORED

Probe Demanded Of Charge Of Sponsoring Jap Brothel

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—Representative Cole (R., N.Y.) today demanded an investigation of a report that the Navy had set up a prophylaxis station for enlisted men in a Japanese house of prostitution.

The New Yorker's request for the investigation was made in a letter to Chairman Vinson of the House Naval Committee.

He based his request on a letter which a navy chaplain, Lawrence L. Lacour, wrote from Tokyo and which was published in several newspapers.

Described As Sponsor

"While the regulation of sexual problems is inevitably difficult," Cole said in his letter to Vinson, "it is my view that the policy of the Navy Department to sponsor officially a house of assignation is neither in keeping with the traditional practices nor with American sense of moral standards and conduct."

The situation was discussed on the House floor last week when several members demanded that the Navy Department take action.

At that time Representative O'Hara (R., Minn.) inserted in the Congressional Record a letter from Lacour as published November 14 in the Minneapolis Star-Journal.

Letter Quoted

It read, in part:

"As a policy of venereal disease control, the Navy is permitting unrestricted access, by all men on liberty in the Yokosuka area, to houses of prostitution where the venereal incidence is considered 100 per cent. The control is the prophylaxis administered by naval corpsmen on duty in the houses.

"At a meeting of the fleet medical officers, on September 26, it was proposed that one large 'house' be opened, that it be operated with the understanding that all the women were diseased, and that a voluntary system of prophylaxis be available by placing a navy-operated treatment station within the house.

Protests Ignored

"Although some medical officers and two chaplains in attendance protested, it was stated by the senior medical officer that this was to be the policy.

"Subsequently, the chaplains of the fleet met and submitted to the flag a memorandum that represented the unanimous opinion of the group. The action of the chaplains was ignored, and Sunday, October 7, the Yosuura House was opened to enlisted men, with geisha houses permitted to accept the patronage of chiefs and officers.

"Although, the number of men on liberty next day was considerably under normal because of rain, I observed, in company with four chaplains and the officer of the day of the military police, a line of enlisted men four abreast almost a block long, waiting their turn at the Yosuura House.

MP'S Control Line

"MP's kept the lines orderly, and permitted only as many as could be served to enter at a time. As men were admitted into the lobby, they would select a prostitute (113 on duty that day, according to one of the Japanese attendants), pay the 10 yen to the Japanese operator, and then go with the girl to her room. We inspected several of these rooms and found them reasonably clean.

"When the men returned they were registered and administered prophylaxis by navy corpsmen. Although approximately twenty men could be treated at a time, there was a line waiting.

"The prostitutes were dirty, highly painted, clothed in gaudy rayon pajamas, some of them with open sores on their faces and feet."

British Take Plane Lead

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—The British aircraft industry now employs more than six times as many persons as the United States industry and its present orders for military planes are double those projected in the American Army-Navy procurement programs running into mid-1948.

Information on the United Kingdom program was received today from the Society of British Aircraft Constructors. Data on the American military aircraft program is from various industry sources.

The SBAC reported 900,000 workers in the British aircraft industry, which compares with 146,000 employed in the basic aircraft industry in this country during October and an estimate of 122,000 such jobs during December.

Peak Was 2,000,000 Employes

The basic American airplane industry had a peak wartime employment of more than 1,000,000. Aircraft and aircraft engine manufacturing by automobile companies and subcontractors brought the wartime aircraft peak to more than 2,000,000 employés.

The SBAC said British industry had orders for more than 10,000 military planes and that "manufacture of these military types is still going on apace."

This is the first indication here of the scope of British production plans. United Kingdom representatives here previously had said they could not give figures, but commented that the current production rate was a larger percentage of the wartime schedule than was true in the United States.

Purchases In U.S.

In this country the Navy's aircraft purchasing program calls for 1,988 planes by July, 1947, while the Army Air Forces have projected a procurement schedule calling for 3,120 new planes by July, 1948. Together they bought 96,369 airplanes in 1944, but some of those went to lend-lease countries.

Industry officials here believe that the British rate of production probably will be considerably more than double that of the United States because the SBAC reference was to "orders" for aircraft and not merely a procurement schedule.

During the war, the United States produced 274,941 airplanes, or slightly more than three times as many as England.

British output of commercial airplanes has not yet hit its stride. SBAC estimated a total output of 50 civil aircraft in December and an increase to more than 70 a month by next June.

UNRRA Funds Okayed By 2 Committees

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—Senate and House committees acted today to speed new funds into the diminishing treasury of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

Striking out all restrictive amendments, the Senate Appropriations Committee approved a $550,000,000 fund for UNRRA. This represents the final installment on the original United States commitment of $1,350,000,000.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee approved legislation to authorize a second contribution of $1,350,000,000.

Restrictions Rejected

Restrictive amendments rejected by the Senate Appropriations Committee included:

A requirement that nations receiving aid admit representatives of press and radio without restrictions upon news reports of UNRRA activities.

A motion by Acting Chairman McKellar (D., Tenn.) that all UNRRA supplies bought with the $550,000,000 be given away.

An amendment offered by Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) to require payment of parity prices to United States farmers for agricultural products.

An amendment offered by Senator Wherry (R., Neb.) to require any nation receiving UNRRA aid to admit UNRRA accredited agents and officials for full investigations.

Follows "Ike's" Plea

The committee's action followed an urgent plea last week by General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, who praised the work of UNRRA in liberated Europe.

The legislation does not appropriate any additional funds, but a separate bill carrying an appropriation is under consideration by the House Appropriations Committee.

Another Bill Before Senate

The United States already has contributed $800,000,000 as its share of the UNRRA fund. Legislation appropriating an additional $550,000,000 has been passed by the House and is pending in the Senate.

Speaker Rayburn told reporters the new authorizing bill would be called up for House action before the Christmas recess, scheduled to start about December 20.

"Now that we have won back much of our safety and peace it is the determination of Congress to recapture those powers as speedily as may be wise for the people so that they may be again exercised in accordance with the slower but more desirable processes of democracy."

The statements were contained in a report which the committee has approved but not yet released officially.

Although urging the abolition soon of most war powers, the report said that continuation of some, such as rationing and priority controls, was needed "to assure an orderly liquidation of our wartime economy and a speedy reconversion."

Control over critical materials must be maintained in some instances to break bottlenecks in production, the committee asserted.

It mentioned specifically that "an extremely serious shortage" of tin was expected to continue.

The report said also that Title Five of the act must remain intact to assure continued speed in return of overseas veterans. This section waives navigation and inspection requirements regarding the number of persons on board a ship.

The committee said that Liberty ships, for instance, now carry 784 to 1,943 passengers, while under permanent law they would be limited to sixty-eight.

"The wolrd now must know with equal conviction that, much as we hate war, we are ready to wage swift and effective war against any nation which tries to overthrow rule by law and justice, replacing it with rule by force," he added.

If the United States returns "to the comfortable complacency which for twenty years practically extended an invitation to Mussolini, Hitler and the Japanese war lords to run the world if they chose to," he delcared, "we scarcely deserve to survive as a nation."

Sees No Conflict

Forrestal said he believed the men who fought the recent war for the United States "would be preponderantly in favor of universal military training," because they do not want another war for themselves or for their children.

Nor would the training program conflict with the United Nations Organization, he asserted, but, on the contrary, would demonstrate this country's willingness "to accept her responsibilities in underwriting the peace."

3 Senators Propose U. S. Join World Government

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—(AP)—Expressing fear that the United Nations Organization may not be strong enough to prevent an atomic war, three youthful senators proposed today that the United States go a step further and join a world government or state.

The suggestion was made on the Senate floor by Senators Ball (R-Minn.), Fulbright (D-Ark.) and Taylor (D-Idaho).

It met a quick bipartisan rebuff from Senators Connally (D-Tex.), chairman of the Foreign Relations committee, and Vandenberg (R-Mich.), ranking Republican on that committee.

Opposed By Connally

"I don't want world government ever," Connally said.

Vandenberg said the UNO should be tried "before we try any further steps. The premature perfectionists may unwittingly be dangerous."

Both Connally and Vandenberg said the gloomy condition of international relations now is a powerful argument for speedy approval of the legislation before the Senate. That measure, Connally said, implements active U. S. participation in the UNO through presidential appointment to representatives.

Connally described the United Nations charter as the "only bright spot in a clouded sky.'

"In my opinion the American people want this action now," Vandenberg said. "The worsening of international relations since San Francisco is not reason for scutting this. On the contrary it is a multiplying reason for putting these healing processes in force as soon as possible."

Connally in opening debate declared the United States must meet its international obligations "or let the world tumble about us."

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) who has prepared a lengthy and sharp criticism of the UNO legislation, broke in several times to question Connally about its provisions, especially on presidential authority to use U. S. troops to enforce peace.

The tall Texan declared this country must not "hamper" action of the UNO Security Council by restricting authority of President Truman on troops.

Senator Taylor, 41, interrupted to say that he thought the time had come when the United States should participate in world government of some kind to outlaw wars.

Connally said that there were some 300 million persons in India, 400 millions in China, and 175 millions in Russia who would outnumber the United States in any world state.

"I'd rather be outvoted than struck by an atomic bomb," Taylor replied.

Favors Realistic Action

Senator Ball, 40, broke in to say he thought the atomic bomb requires more realistic world action to outlaw war. He asked how many more wars this world could stand.

Connally replied that he too hopes to outlaw war. He said UNO is a concrete attempt and added that Ball was "running off after some butterfly of world government."

Ball, saying he favored the UNO bill as a first step, told Connally that the foreign relations chairman will not win support "by sneering at us."

Senator Fulbright next asked Connally's opinion on a world organization that would be limited to control of the atomic bomb and all other armaments.

"We are not ready for a world state where our institutions would be submerged in the conglomerated institutions of other nations," Connally shouted with feeling. "America must remain American."

GOODS BEING HELD, SNYDER INFORMED

Reconversion Head Addresses Marketing Forum

New York, Nov. 26 (AP)—Reconversion Director John W. Snyder, said tonight the Government is receiving "increasing reports" that some manufacturers are holding up delivery of consumer goods.

"One explanation given is that by doing this, these firms will escape a portion of the excess-profits-tax levies on their new production, since the . . . tax goes off the first of January," Snyder said in a speech prepared for delivery before the first national Marketing Forum.

Snyder, head of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, declared that it is "natural and to be expected" that "in our competitive system each business man will, within our legal framework, operate to his own interest."

Off Christmas Market

"But," he continued, "damming up the flow of goods is increasing the pressure against the controls that protect us from the threat of inflation, which is to no one's interest.

"It would keep the goods from you distributors for the Christmas trade—the period when distributors normally reach the year's peak of sales and activity."

Snyder added that more than a million veterans being demobilized every month want clothing and the other things of civilian life.

"Those veterans who cannot buy what they need because a few manufacturers may be holding up goods to reap profits when the tax is removed will be justly critical," Snyder said.

Encouraging Signs

However, Snyder reported that there are "signs of increasing production—signs that goods will be in your hands before long."

Among the signs, he said, are an upward trend in steel ingot production, increased freight-car loadings and electric power production, as well as reports that manufacturing activity in the metal-working trades is moving forward rapidly.

Referring to a reconversion survey by the Civilian Production Administration, Snyder said that by next June shipments by firms producing automobiles, refrigerators, stoves, radios and many other metal products "are expected to be two and one half times the 1939 rate."

No Mention Of Strikes

He made no mention of the possible effect of current labor disputes on reconversion, nor did he refer to CPA's statement that its survey was based "on the assumption that there will be a substantial measure of industrial peace and continuous sustained production during the months ahead."

Snyder said "production—plenty of production—is the real solution to many of our major problems."

Greater production eventually will wipe out the threat of inflation, "but that point is not yet reached," Snyder declared, adding that in the meantime "we must continue to hold the price line."

AGREES TO EXTEND WAR POWERS' LIFE

But House Judiciary Body Warns Truman That He Must Relinquish Them Soon

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—President Truman received a reminder today that Congress wants to rescind soon the broad powers it granted the White House as a wartime necessity.

The reminder came from the House Judiciary Committee even as it agreed to a six months' extension of the Second War Powers Act, now scheduled to expire Dec. 31.

"During our preparation for an adequate national defense and while the shooting part of the war was on the Congress of necessity had to grant extraordinary powers," the committee said.

Navy Secretary Backs Military Training Plan

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—Navy Secretary James V. Forrestal told the House Military Committee today the United States must be prepared "to fight any international ruffian who attempts to impose his will on the world by force."

The Secretary said he did not believe discovery of the atomic bomb has lessened the need for universal training.

Supporting President Truman's request for one year of compulsory peacetime military training, Forrestall said proponents of the plan "frequently are asked whom we are preparing to fight."

Hits "Comfortable Complacency"

That we are prepared to fight any would-be aggressor, he said, "we should make clear, by deeds as well as by words, to any dreamer anywhere who may be scheming for world domination."

No Blondes to Gather Secrets

Acheson Tells of Plans for Setting Up State Department's Intelligence Bureau.

Washington, Nov. 26 (A. P.).—Dean Acheson, Under-Secretary, has assured Congress that the State Department does not propose "to employ beautiful blondes who can worm secrets out of foreign officials."

Appearing before a House Appropriations sub-committee to support a request for funds for intelligence work for the remainder of the fiscal year, Acheson added in testimony made public today:

"We are not proposing to employ people who put on false whiskers and crawl out from under the bed. None of that is involved in this."

What the department is doing, he said, is modernizing its methods of collecting and digesting information. "Up to the beginning of the war," he told the committee, the department's "technique of gathering information differed only by reason of the typewriter and the telegraph from the techniques which John Quincy Adams was using in St. Petersburg and Benjamin Franklin was using in Paris."

The money requested was for the operation of the Interim Research and Intelligence Service (IRIS), set up by President Truman last September 20 in an executive order terminating the Office of Strategic Services.

"Purely a War Bureau."

Asserting that IRIS is "purely a war activity," Chairman Cannon (D.-Mo.), told a department representative, "You should reduce it so as to live within your means."

The representative, Col. Alfred McCormack, recently transferred from OSS to IRIS, called upon Under-Secretary Acheson to explain the department's plans for IRIS.

Acheson said the service gathers information from reports of Government representatives abroad, from telegrams, newspaper clippings, books, technical and scholarly publications, reports of business and labor organizations, reports of public meetings and radio broadcasts.

"A thousand items of information are gathered in that way," Acheson said, "which when put together and analyzed by a man who knows what he is looking for brings out material which is most informative, sometimes quite startling in its results."

POUND INDICTED FOR AIDING ENEMY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — (AP) A district of Columbia federal grand jury today charged Ezra Pound, 60-year-old American poet, with treason in connection with radio broadcasts from Italy during the war.

Announcing the indictment, Attorney General Tom C. Clark said Pound was charged with making recordings in Rome radio studios for later broadcasts over the Rome radio. The indictment said these broadcasts were of a treasonable nature. He also is charged with receiving money from Italy for his services.

Pound was a fugitive until shortly after the fall of Rome. He was flown from Italy to Washington two weeks ago. He first was indicted for treason on July 26, 1943. The maximum penalty is death.

Seven Italians formerly employed by the Rome and Milan radio stations were brought here recently to testify against Pound. The law requires testimony by at least two witnesses to each overt treason act. The Italians claimed to have seen Pound make anti-Allied broadcasts for the Fascist government.

A native of Hailey, Idaho, Pound has not lived in the United States for 35 years.

Seven other Americans were indicted in 1943 on charges of broadcasting propaganda for the Axis. They are Frederick Kaltenbach, Robert H. Best, Douglas Chandler, Edward Delaney, Constance Drexel, Jane Anderson and Max Koischwitz.

Trip Protest To Be Studied

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—President Truman's press secretary told reporters today that their request for advance notice of presidential trips will be taken "under advisement."

The secretary, Charles G. Ross, gave this response when informed by Joseph A. Fox, president of the White House Correspondents Association, that it "does seem that when the President sets off on a trip the people should be advised."

Refers To Missouri Trip

Fox was commenting on Mr. Truman's suddenly arranged flight to Grandview, Mo., yesterday to visit his mother, Mrs. Martha Truman, on her ninety-third birthday. The President was en route back to Washington before any announcement of the trip was made.

"The very thing the President wanted to avoid was an assemblage at Grandview," Ross asserted.

Queried On Cost

Another inquiry on how much the trip cost and who paid for it brought a reply from Ross that he was checking up on that.

"I don't know the exact cost," Ross said. "Ultimately it comes out of or could come out of the travel allowance of the President."

CONNALLY PLEADS FOR UNO MEASURE

Washington, Nov. 26 (A. P.).—Senator Connally (D.-Tex.) declared today that the United States must tackle its international responsibilities with vigor and determination or "let the world tumble about us." The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee urged prompt approval of legislation under which president Truman would negotiate with the World Security Council for the allocation of American forces to help preserve world peace.

Under the bill as drawn, the President would not be required to obtain congressional approval before making the allocated troops available for the council's use. Defending this provision, Connally told his colleagues in a prepared address that this country can not afford to "hamper" the action of the council by restricting this authority of the President.

"The security council must have both the power and the authority to act promptly in time of crisis or it will fail in its all-important task," he declared.

WAR BRIDE WINS 30-DAY PAROLE

BOSTON, Nov. 26—(AP) The English wife and baby of an American GI, who arrived here yesterday as stowaways on a troop ship, late today were paroled for 30 days by special permission of the U. S. Immigration Service.

Ralph J. Maresco, 25, of Corona, N. Y., immediately took his wife, Marion M., 24, on a shopping expedition and said they would return to his home with their son, Joseph Ralph, tomorrow.

Ralph has been discharged since his return two weeks ago from Europe where he served as a private with the Eighth and Ninth Air forces.

Much surprised at word of his family's arrival yesterday aboard the New Zealand Victory, Maresco hastened here to greet them and plead with immigration officials for their release. The parole was obtained by special permission of immigration headquarters at Philadelphia.

The couple met in England at a Women's Land Army party to which Mrs. Maresco belonged. She is a native of Birkenhead.

She told officials and newsmen that her brother, a soldier in the British army, smuggled her aboard the New Zealand Victory in Liverpool and that she hid, with her baby, in an emergency generator room for nearly two days until forced out by hunger.

HOURLY PAY RATES DECLINE IN NATION

Washington, Nov. 26 (A. P.).—Disappearance of extra shift and overtime pay in heavy industry has dropped the gross average hourly pay in all manufacturing below $1 for the first time since December, 1943, the Department of Labor reported today. The report, covering September, set the average of 99 cents and declared that the figure reflected a drop of 4 cents an hour between August and September for workers in the heavy industries.

Preliminary estimates for October indicated a further drop in hourly pay in the durable goods industries, but a slight gain for workers in light industries, the report added.

September average weekly earnings for manufacturing as a whole dropped from $41.73 in August to $40.88. Workers in durable goods industries earned $2 less a week in September than in August, and $6.75 less than in July. However, pay in the nondurable goods industries was up $1 compared with August and was only 75 cents less than July figures.

The department said the average work week in all manufacturing was 41.4 hours in September—only slightly higher than in August. Preliminary estimates for October showed a further increase to slightly under 42 hours a week.

Minister Boosts Atom Commission

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 26 (AP)—The Rev. E. A. Conway, S.J., of Washington, said tonight the atomic commission, proposed by the United States, Canada and Britain, should be the "principal organ" of the United Nations Organization.

Making the commission the principal unit, he said in an address prepared for the Harrisburg Catholic Forum, should be done by an assembly expanded to include all the qualified nations of the world.

"This step," Father Conway said, "would be in line with the tri-power statement on atomic energy which declares that the responsibility for its control 'rests not in our nation alone, but upon the whole civilized world.'"

Senate Confirms 'Ike' And Nimitz

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—The Senate confirmed without a dissenting voice the nomination of Dwight D Eisenhower, as army chief of staff, and Chester W. Nimitz, as chief of naval operations.

General of the Army Eisenhower succeeds General of the Army George C. Marshall as chief of staff. Nimitz succeeds Admiral Ernest J. King.

White House Denies Hurley Has Resigned

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—The White House said in response to inquiries about the status of Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley today that "the President has received no resignation from him."

When Hurley returned from his United States Ambassador's post at Chungking recently the White House said he had not resigned and would return to China after a rest.

At Hurley's Washington office, Commander Lacey Reynolds, the General's aide, told reporters no resignation had been offered but stressed that he was speaking as of today only.

Kinkaid To Command Eastern Sea Frontier

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—The Navy announced today Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, formerly commander of the 7th Fleet, has been ordered to command of the Eastern Sea Frontier, succeeding Vice Admiral Herbert F. Leary.

Admiral Leary has maintained headquarters in New York.

The announcement was a change in previously published orders sending Admiral Kinkaid to command the Western Sea Frontier, succeeding Admiral Royal Ingersoll. The Navy said today Admiral Ingersoll will continue in that assignment.

There was no announcement of Vice Admiral Leary's new assignment.

SAYS 9 U. S. FLYERS DIE IN CHINA CRASH

San Francisco, Nov. 26.—In a broadcast from Shanghai today, NBC said that at least nine American flyers lost their lives when at least twelve planes were lost out of a flight of twenty-two Mustangs which encountered bad weather on a routine flight to Shanghai.

The crews of only two planes had been rescued and a wide search was on for the missing planes, which were forced far off their course and crashed or landed at inland points last Thursday, NBC declared, adding that American officials refused to reveal details. The planes were reported on a flight from a former United States air base in China.

NAVY PLANS SURVEY ON YOUTH TRAINING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — (AP) The Navy got congressional encouragement today to poll its sailors on what they think of peace time compulsory military training.

Secretary Forrestal told the House Military committee he had wanted to conduct such a poll but feared somebody would get the idea the answers were obtained under duress.

Chairman May (D-Ky) told the secretary to go ahead, Representative Harness (R-Ind) said he thought it was a good idea and Forrestal indicated he would get on it right away.

The secretary said he had made a sort of one-man poll and he believed the men "preponderantly" are in favor of such training.

100,000 GI's Wed Abroad, U.S. Believes

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—As many as 100,000 GI's may have married girls in foreign lands.

This top estimate was disclosed today, but no officials wanted to guess how many of the brides would eventually come to this country to live.

So far, however, 22,000 have applied for permission.

Starting in January, from 6,000 to 8,000 GI brides are scheduled to enter the United States each month. Space on America-bound ships has been and will be a major limiting factor.

War Department officials said the Army had asked the State Department's passport visa section to estimate the total number of GI brides.

The State Department estimated—and emphasized that it was purely an estimate—that 60,000 GIs may have married English girls, that 5,000 to 15,000 soldiers took brides on the European Continent, and from 20,000 to 25,000 married Australian or New Zealand girls.

U.S. Ambulance Driver Calcutta Riot Victim

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—The War Department tonight identified the American soldier who was killed last week in Calcutta as Tech. Sergt. James H. Stewart, of Evanston, Ill.

The department said it was advised that Stewart was the driver of an ambulance which was overturned and burned. It had no further details of his death.

The soldier is survived by his mother, Mrs. Carrie Stewart, of Evanston.

17 Billions In Aircraft Slated To Be Surplus

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—Aircraft and aircraft parts which originally cost the Government $17,500,000,000 will account for half of the total properties expected to be surplus by June, 1946.

In a report to Congress, the Surplus Property Administration today outlined a disposal program for this surplus aircraft and parts which the agency said practically was useless in civil aviation and was of scrap value today.

The plan already is in operation, OPA said, and sales of the small-type planes already have amounted to $31,000,000.

FDIC, Export-Import Chairmen Nominated

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—President Truman today designated new chairmen for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the Export-Import Bank.

To head the corporation, which guarantees the public's deposits in banks, he nominated Maple T. Harl, of Denver, Col., State banking commissioner.

As chairman of the bank, which makes loans to other countries, the President designated William McChesney Martin, former president of the New York Stock Exchange. Martin recently was nominated and confirmed by the Senate as a board member of the bank.

Leo T. Crowley formerly held both posts.

20,000 Civilians Needed In Separation Centers

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—Twenty thousand civilians are urgently needed to replace discharged eligible military personnel working in army separation centers, the War Department announced today.

The principal need is for clerical and stenographic help, laborers, automobile mechanics, cooks' and bakers' helpers. Key personnel likewise are needed to replace officers and high-grade noncommissioned officers in administrative and supply positions. Veterans, including WACS, are especially qualified for these positions.

It was explained that need for additional help is acute with troops arriving in greater numbers from overseas for discharge.

Separation Fields Cut to 20

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP).—Brigadier General Charles P. Born, of the Continental Air Forces, announced yesterday that the number of Army Air Forces separation bases, including the base at the Newark, N. J., Army Air Field, would be reduced from thirty-five to twenty by Dec. 5. General Born said separation personnel would be transferred to the remaining twenty bases so the A. A. F. could continue to maintain its capacity of 10,000 daily discharges.

Court-Martial Probe Proposed In Senate

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—A Senate investigation of army and navy court-martial systems, which he said were "unbelievably harsh and unjust," was proposed today by Senator Morse (R., Ore.).

His resolution said that "injustice is rampant" in court-martial procedures, and Congress should correct it.

He proposed that a committee of three senators each from the Military, Naval and Judiciary committees study the service courts and prisons.

Senator Knowland (R., Cal.) said soldiers and sailors still draw wartime penalties, and suggested the committee look into this.

British Girl Stowaway Is Found On Transport

New York, Nov. 26 (AP)—A 20-year-old British girl, who said she was engaged to "an army man" and wanted to come to the United States to marry him, stowed away on the former German liner Europa on its trip from Southhampton as a transport, the 3d Naval District said today.

The Navy identified the girl as Miss Kathleen Moody, of Bristol, England. It said she climbed a hawser to the stern of the ship as it was getting ready to sail and was not discovered until the vessel was 150 miles at sea.

The Navy said Miss Moody was confined to a stateroom under Marine guard after her discovery. She has been turned over to immigration officials at Ellis Island.

THE FOREIGN OFFICE SAID THE NOTE SUGGESTED THERE MIGHT HAVE BEEN A MISUNDERSTANDING ON THE PART OF THE RUSSIAN COMMANDER IN IRAN WHEN HE TURNED BACK TWO BATTALIONS OF IRANIAN TROOPS HEADED TOWARD THE NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCE OF AZERBAIJAN, WHERE AN ARMED CONFLICT HAD BEEN REPORTED.

LONDON, NOV.26-(AP)-A MOSCOW RADIO COMMENTATOR TONIGHT ACCUSED BRITISH MILITARY AUTHORITIES OF BREAKING A PROMISE IN USING TROOPS "TO CRUSH A LOCAL MOVEMENT OF LIBERATION" IN ONDONESIA.

PETER ORLOV, IN AN ENGLISH-LANGUAGE BROADCAST RECORDED BY THE SOVIET MONITOR, SAID BRITISH AUTHORITIES HAD DECLARED THEIR OBJECTI WAS TO DISARM AND EVACUATE JAPANESE TROOPS AND NOT TO INTERFERE IN INTERNAL AFFAIRS.

BUT "THEY ARE NOW FIGHTING BATTLES" AND "NETHERLANDS AUTHORIT ARE BANKING ON RESTORING THEIR PREWAR DOMINATION," ORLOV SAID.

THE COLONIAL PEOPLES ACTED "ON THE PRINCIPLES PROCLAIMED AT TEHRAN, YALTA, AND SAN FRANCISCO" IN RISING "TO SECURE THEIR NATION LIBERTY AND INDEPENDENCE," HE ADDED.

EVENTS IN INDONESIA AND INDOCHINA, HE CONTINUED, "HAVE FAR MORE THAN LOCAL SIGNIFICANCE. THEY SHOW THAT PEOPLES OF COLONIAL COUNTRI MEAN TO FIGHT AGAINST RESTORATION OF THE STATUS QUO."

LONDON, NOV 26-(AP)-A BRITISH SPOKESMAN SAID TODAY THAT THE UNITE NATIONS PREPARATORY COMMISSION MIGHT RECONSIDER A RECOMMENDATION BY ITS EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE TO LOCATE THE PERMANENT SEAT OF UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION IN NORTH AMERICA.

THE SPOKESMAN, A REPRESENTATIVE OF THE BRITISH DELEGATION, SAID A A FOREIGN OFFICE NEWS CONFERENCE THAT THERE APPEARED TO BE "QUITE A WIDESPREAD" MOVEMENT TO REOPEN THE QUESTION OF THE SITE OF THE HEADQUARTERS.

DELEGATE FROM MIDDLE EASTERN AND SOME LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES --ESPECIALLY BRAZIL AND URUGUAY--HAVE EXPRESSED THE OPINION THAT THE HEADQUARTERS SHOULD BE NEARER TO EUROPE, HE SAID, AND BRUSSELS, LUXEMBOURG, COPENHAGEN AND NICE HAVE BEEN MENTIONED INFORMALLY AS POSSIBLE SITES.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE HAD VOTED 9 TO 3 FOR THE HEADQUARTERS TO BE IN NORTH AMERICA.

THE COMMISSION TODAY UNANIMOUSLY ELECTED DR.EDUARDO ZUELETA, COLOMBIAN AMBASSADOR TO PERU, AS ITS CHAIRMAN, AND DR.D.F. MANILUKSI, UKRAINIAN DELEGATE, AND PAUL HENRI SPAAK, BELGIAN FOREIGN MINISTER, AS VICE CHAIRMEN.

HIS COUNTRY'S DELEGATION TO THE UNITED NATIONS PREPARATORY COMMISSION

WAS PUSHING HARD FOR A DETAILED REVIEW OF A RECOMMENDATION THAT THE PERMANENT HOME OF THE UNITED NATIONS PEACE ORGANIZ TION BE SET UP IN NORTH AMERICA.

OTHER DELEGATES, WHO DECLINED TO BE QUOTED BY NAME, SAID

THE BRITISH WERE INFORMALLY CONDUCTING A CAMPAIGN AMONG REPRESENTATIVES

OF SEVERAL COUNTRIES IN AN ATTEMPT TO CONVINCE THEM THAT THE WORLD

PEACE CAPITAL SHOULD BE ESTABLISHED IN EUROPE.

THE COMMISSION'S EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE HAD APPROVED BY A

9 TO 3 VOTE THE SETTING UP OF PERMANENT HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AMERICA,

AND THE UNITED STATES WAS BELIEVED THE FAVORED CHOICE.

WHILE THESE MANEUVERS WERE GOING ON BEHIND THE SCENES THE COMMISSION SWEPT THROUGH ITS FIRST WORKING SESSION ON DOUBLE-QUICK SCHEDULE, ELECTING EDUARDO ZULETA ANGEL, COLOMBIAN AUTHORITY ON INTERNATIONAL LAW, AS COMMISSION CHAIRMAN.

DIMITRI Z. MANUILSKY OF THE UKRAINE AND PAUL HENRI SPAAK, BELGIAN FOREIGN MINISTER, WERE CHOSEN VICE CHAIRMAN. ZUELTA BECOMES CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMISSION'S EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, AND THE VICE CHAIRMEN MEMBERS.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE HELD ITS FIRST SESSION THIS AFTERNOON, AND ONE OF ITS FIRST ACTIONS WAS TO DELEGATE TO A COMMITTEE THE TASK OF DISCUSSING A PERMANENT SITE FOR THE UNITED NATIONS PEACE ORGANIZATION.

WHEN THE COMMITTEE WAS FORMED THE CHAIRMANSHIP AND MEMBERS OF THE COMMITTE WERE NOT DECIDED UPON. WHEN THIS IS DONE THE COMMITTEE WILL GO OVER BOOKLETS SENT IN BY VARIOUS CITIES IN THE UNITED STATES WHICH HAVE INVITED THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION TO MAKE THEIR

INCLUDE SAN FRANCISCO, BOSTON, PHILADELPHIA, CHICAGO, DENVER AND THE BLACK HILLS REGION OF SOUTH DAKOTA. HEARINGS WILL PROBABLY BE GIVEN TO DELEGATIONS FROM THOSE CITIES IN LONDON.

THE FIRST VOTE, HOWEVER, WILL BE ON WHETHER THE ORGANIZATION SHOULD HAVE ITS HEADQUARTERS IN THE UNITED STATES OR EUROPE. IF NEITHER GETS A TWO-THIRDS MAJORITY, FURTHER VOTING WILL BE NECESSARY.

OFFICIALS ESTIMATE THAT ABOUT THREE MORE WEEKS WILL BE NECESSARY BEFORE A VOTE CAN BE TAKEN ON THE PRECISE SPOT.

MEANWHILE AN INFORMAL SURVEY OF COMMISSION DELEGATES INDICATED FEW NEW PROPOSALS WOLL BE BROUGHT BEFORE THE CONFERENCE. THE GENERAL VIEW APPEARS TO BE THAT THE COMMISSION SHOULD CONFINE ITSELF TO DISCUSSING THE REPORT ON THE ORGANIZATIONS OF THE UNITED NATIONS AS PREPARED BY THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, AND SPEEDING ITS WORK SO THAT THE PEACE ASSEMBLY CAN BE SET UP AS QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE.

LONDON, NOV. 26 -- (AP) -- LABORITE AND COMMUNIST [redacted] DEMANDED ASSURANCE TONIGHT THAT BRITAIN DOES NOT CONDONE REPORTED "ACTS OF TERRORISM AND INDISCRIMINATE [redacted] REPRISALS" BY BRITISH TROOPS AGAINST REVOLTING [redacted].

NOV 27 1945 INDONESIANS IN JAVA

JAVA ENTERED THE COMMONS DEBATE WHEN LABORITE S. S. SILVERMAN ASKED MINISTER OF STATE PHILIP NOEL-BAKER WHETHER HE HAD SEEN REPORTS THAT BRITISH TROOPS HAD BURNED INDONESIAN [redacted] VILLAGES AFTER THE DISCOVERY OF BODIES ALLEGEDLY MUTILATED.

Communist WILLIE GALLACHER SUPPORTED SILVERMAN WITH THE QUESTION: "IS IT NOT THE CASE THAT THE LIVES OF [redacted]ISH LADS ARE BEING RISKED IN THE INTERESTS OF RUBBER MEN?"

NOEL-BAKER REPLIED THAT HE COULD "SAY WITHOUT [redacted]" THAT THE PRESENCE OF BRITISH TROOPS IN JAVA HAD "NO [redacted] WITH THE FACT THAT SOME RUBBER PLANTATIONS ARE [redacted]ISH-OWNED.

HE SAID HE HAD SEEN NO REPORTS OF BRITISH TERRORISM, BUT ACKNOWLEDGED ACTS OF TERRORISM BY INDONESIANS, AND SAID IT WAS [redacted] VITAL "TO PREVENT" SUCH ACTS FROM SPREADING.

CONSERVATIVE ANTHONY EDEN SUPPORTED THE GOVERNMENT'S STAND ON JAVA, ASSERTING THAT BRITISH COMMANDERS IN THE DUTCH COLONIES "DESERVE OUR FULL SUPPORT, AND NOT [redacted] INSINUATIONS ABOUT OUR (BRITISH) MOTIVES." EDEN CALLED JAVA DUTY A "THANKLESS TASK".

COMMONS ALSO DEBATED THE LABOR GOVERNMENT'S $800,000,000 TEMPORARY HOUSING PROGRAM TODAY. IT WOULD PROVIDE FOR CONSTRUCTION OF 165,000 PREFRABRICATED HOMES IN BOMB-DAMAGED AREAS.

CONSERVATIVE OPPOSITION TO THE HOUSING BILL DESCRIBED IT AS "VAGUE," AND DECLARED IT WOULD GIVE "AN UNLIMITED MANDATE TO THE GOVERNMENT TO PRODUCE, PURCHASE AND DISTRIBUTE BUILDING MATERIALS."

BUT LABORITES DEFENDED THE [illegible] -- WHICH CALLS FOR FOR ALUMINUM HOMES TO COST $5,460 EACH -- AS THE FIRST EFFECTIVE PROGRAM IN "FIVE CENTURIES OF NEGLECTED HOUSING."

CONSTRUCTION OF THE BUILDINGS [illegible] WOULD BE DONE BY THE WARTIME AIRCRAFT INDUSTRY, IN AN EFFORT TO [illegible] HELP IT BRIDGE THE GULF OF RECONVERSION. #

LONDON, NOV. 26-(AP)-THE HOUSE OF COMMONS WAS ASKED TODAY TO UNDERWRITE GOVERNMENT CONSTRUCTION OF PRIVATE DWELLINGS WHERE NECESSARY TO SPEED THE REBUILDING OF BOMBED AREAS.

MINISTER OF WORKS GEORGE TOMLINSON, IN SUPPORTING A GOVERNMENT BILL SAID THE GOVERNMENT SHOULD BE BACKED WITH A FUND OF $500,000,000--AN INCREASE OF 33 PER CENT OVER PREVIOUS COMMITMENTS FOR TEMPORARY HOUSING.

THE BILL, TOMLINSON EXPLAINED, WOULD PERMIT THE GOVERNMENT TO MAKE BULK PURCHASES OF HEAVY MATERIAL, PLACE CONTRACTS FOR ERECTION OF HOUSES ON BEHALF OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES AND FINANCE CONSTRUCTION IN AREAS WHERE HEAVY BOMB DAMAGE HAS STRAINED LOCAL MUNICIPAL FINANCES.

"IT IS THE INTENTION OF HIS MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT TO GO INTO BUSINESS BOTH IN THE MANUFACTURE AND THE DISTRIBUTION OF BUILDING MATERIALS AND COMPONENTS IN A BIG WAY," HE DECLARED.

LONDON, NOV. 26-(AP)-THE FUTURE OF GOVERNMENT BUILT SYNTHETIC RUBBER PLANTS IN THE UNITED STATES IS UP FOR A POLICY DISCUSSION IN WASHINGTON, DONALD D.KENNEDY, CHIEF OF THE INTERNATIONAL RESOURCES DIVISION OF THE UNITED STATES STATE DEPARTMENT SAID AT A PRESS CONFERENCE TODAY.

KENNEDY DECLINED TO SPECULATE ON THE FUTURE OF AMERICAN SYNTHETIC RUBBER PLANTS BUT EMPHASIZED THEY HAD BEEN BUILT WITH ABOUT $700,000,000 OF UNITED STATES FUNDS AND CONTRIBUTED HEAVILY TO THE ALLIED CAUSE DURING THE WAR WHEN JAP OCCUPATION CUT OFF NATURAL RUBBER SUPPLIES.

THE PRESS CONFERENCE WAS CALLED TO ANNOUNCE RESULTS OF DISCUSSIONS OF A RUBBER STUDY GROUP COMPRISED OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES, BRITAIN, HOLLAND AND FRANCE.

THE STUDY GROUP DID NOT DISCUSS ANY PRICE AGREEMENT OR MEANS OF CONTROLLING PRODUCTION.

GEORGE ARCHER, A BRITISH DELEGATE, SAID THE GROUP DID NOT FORMULATE ANY RECOMMENDATIONS FOR PARTICIPATING GOVERNMENTS.

ASKED IF IT WERE LIKELY A "WIDE OPEN" PRICE WAR WOULD DEVELOP BETWEEN NATURAL AND SYNTHETIC RUBBER PRODUCERS, ARCHER REPLIED: "I DON'T THINK IT IS QUITE TRUE TO SAY A WAR IS CONTEMPLATED BUT THERE LIKELY WILL BE A PERIOD DURING WHICH WE WILL HAVE LARGE SUPPLIES OF EACH."

KENNEDY ASSERTED THE UNITED STATES HAD NO PLANS FOR STIMULATING SOUTH AMERICAN NATURAL RUBBER PRODUCTION BUT AT THE MOMENT IS OBLIGATED TO BUY ALL ITS EXPORTABLE SURPLUS, MOST OF WHICH IS SUPPLIED BY BRAZIL.

SOUTH AMERICAN PRODUCTION IS NOT LARGE, KENNEDY ASSERTED, BUT DURING THE WAR IT WAS "A VALUABLE CONTRIBUTION."

THE RESOLUTION, ADOPTED UNANIMOUSLY YESTERDAY, DECLARED THAT BEVIN HAD CONTINUED THE FOREIGN POLICY OF THE CONSERVATIVE GOVERNMENT AND said THAT HE HAD "ENDANGERED PEACE AND ECONOMIC COOPERATION." W. RUST, A MEMBER OF THE COMMUNIST EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, DECLARED:

"OUR PURPOSE MUST BE A CLEAR ONE--TO STRENGTHEN THE LABOR MOVEMENT AND NOT TO DISCREDIT IT. THE QUESTION WE HAVE TO RAISE IS A CHANGE IN ITS COMPOSITION--THE BRINGING FORWARD OF NEW PEOPLE AND THE REMOVAL OF SOME PEOPLE WHO HAVE PROVED THEIR WORTHLESSNESS.

"NUMBER ONE IS THE REMOVAL OF ERNEST BEVIN FROM THE FOREIGN OFFICE."

COMMUNIST PARTY GENERAL SECRETARY HARRY POLLITT CAUTIONED THE DELEGATES AGAINST ENCOURAGING THE IDEA OF MASS STRIKES.

"WE CAN GET A STRIKE IN THE COAL FIELDS TOMORROW," HE SAID. "BUT WILL IT ADVANCE THE WORKING CLASS MOVEMENT?"

THE COMMUNISTS HAVE TWO MEMBERS OF THEIR PARTY IN PARLIAMENT.

LONDON, NOV. 26--(AP)--THE EUROPEAN HEALTH SITUATION IS NOT SO DISASTROUS AS AT A COMPARABLE PERIOD AFTER WORLD WAR I, DR. STUART, HEAD OF THE EPIDEMIC CONTROL BRANCH OF THE UNITED NATIONS REPIEF AND REHABILITATION ADMINISTRATION SAID TODAY.

HOWEVER, PRESENT CONDITIONS ARE SUCH THAT THEY FAVOR THE "ONSET AND SPREAD OF EPIDEMIC DISEASES IN THE WINTER MONTHS," DR. STUART AND THREE OTHER TOP RANKING UNRRA MEDICAL AUTHORITIES WARNED.

"AT PRESENT," DR. STUART SAID, "THE INCIDENCE OF NO

COMMUNICABLE DISEASES IS SUCH AS TO CONSTITUTE A MENACE TO INTERNATIONAL HEALTH.

"HOWEVER IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO FORECAST WHETHER ONE OR OTHER OF THE COMMUNICABLE DISEASES WILL OR WILL NOT ASSUME EPIDEMIC FORM IN THE COMING WINTER."

STUART AND OTHER UNRRA EXPERTS SAID THE SYPHILIS RATE AMONG GERMAN CIVILIANS HAD INCREASED 24 PERCENT SINCE BEFORE THE WAR,

TYPHOID FEVER, THE MOST SERIOUS EPIDEMIC DISEASE IN EUROPE, HAS JUMPED TO 30 TIMES THE NORMAL RATE IN GERMANY AND IS GREATLY ON THE INCREASE IN FRANCE, BELGIUM, HOLLAND AND FINLAND.

LONDON, NOV. 26 - (AP) - PRIME MINISTER ATTLEE DECLARED TONIGHT THAT BRITAIN WOULD NOT ENDURE THE SUGGESTION THAT SHE WAS "OLD, EFFECTE AND DONE."

HE ASSERTED INSTEAD THAT THE REBUILDING OF BRITISH TRADE AND INSUSTRY SHOULD PARALLEL THE REBUILDING OF LONDON ITSELF.

THE PRIME MINISTER TOLD THE BAKERS' COMPANY DINNER "TO REMEMBER THAT WE ARE LIVING IN A NEW AGE AND IT IS THE DUTY OF EVERYONE OF US NOT TO BE HARKENING BACK TO THE PAST BUT LOOKING FORWARD TO THE FUTURE."

LONDON, NOV. 26-(AP)-THE DIPLOMATIC OBSERVER OF THE SOVIET NAVY NEWSPAPER RED FLEET SAID TODAY "THERE ARE A NUMBER OF INDICATIONS SHOWING THAT THE OCCUPATION AUTHORITIES IN JAPAN ARE NOT TAKING DECISIVE MEASURES TO LIQUIDATE THE MILITARY AND ECONOMIC BASES OF JAPANESE AGGRESSION."

HE SAID THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT "IS SABOTAGING BY EVERY MEANS" GEN. MAC ARTHUR'S ORDER DISSOLVING THE FOUR BIGGEST INDUSTRIAL CONCERNS.

"INSTEAD OF THE LIQUIDATION OF JAPANESE CONCERNS CONTROLLING THE ENTIRE WAR INDUSTRY, THE QUESTION IS NOT DISCUSSED WHETHER THEY ARE GUILTY OF SUPPORTING THE WAR," THE ARTICLE SAID. SOME COUNTRIES HELD THAT GIVING GERMANS PERMISSION TO PRODUCE BEYOND HER NEEDS WOULD PERMIT THEM TO GET X TOE-HOLDS IN WORLD MARKETS FOR A POSSIBLE FUTURE TRADE WAR. OTHER COUNTRIES MAINTAINED THAT AS LONG AS PRODUCTION FACILITIES WERE AVAILABLE IN GERMANY FOR ALLIED USE, IT WOULD BE A WASTE OF WEALTH NOT TO USE THEM.

STILL ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW, SAID TO HAVE BEEN ADVANCED BY THE FRENCH, WAS THAT THE QUESTION COULD NOT BE DECIDED UNTIL IT WAS KNOWN WHETHER THE RUHR INDUSTRIAL AREA WOULD BE OPERATED UNDER GERMAN OR INTERNATIONAL CONTROL. GOERING RANTED TO HIS ATTORNEY THAT THE THIRD VERSION WHICH WAS RELEASED TO THE PRESS LAST FRIDAY AND WHICH HE READ IN THE ARMY NEWSPAPER "STARS AND STRIPES" WAS "A SWINDLE" BECAUSE IT PICTURED HIM AS DANCING ON A TABLE AT THE CONCLUSION OF THE FUEHRER'S BLOOD-THIRSTY ADDRESS.

ROME, NOV. 26--(AP)--IT WAS REPORTED TODAY IN VATICAN CITY THAT THE TWENTIETH ECUMENICAL COUNCIL CONSISTING OF ALL BISHOPS OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH, WHICH WAS PROROGUED INDEFINITELY IN 1870 AFTER TROOPS OF THE ITALIAN UNIFICATION MOVEMENT HAD CAPTURED ROME AND IMPRISONED THE POPE, PROBABLY WILL BE RECONVENED "AS SOON AS POSSIBLE".

THE DISCLOSURE CAME AS THE VATICAN, TACKLING FAR-REACHING SOCIAL AND DOCTRINAL PROBLEMS OF THE POSTWAR ERA, WAS PREPARING ALSO FOR THE CONSISTORY, EXPECTED NEXT SPRING TO FILL THIRTY-TWO VACANCIES IN THE COLLEGE OF SEVENTY CARDINALS.

ECUMENICALS

THE LAST ECUMICAL COUNCIL OPENED IN ROME DEC. 8, 1869, 300 YEARS AFTER THE COUNCIL OF TRENT AND, WITH AMERICAN AND BRITISH ACTIVE AMONG THE 700 PRESENT, IT TACKLED THE PROBLEM OF DEFINING CHURCH DOCUMENTS IN THE LIGHT OF CONTEMPORARY PROBLEMS.

A PAPAL BULL OF OCT. 20, 1870, INDEFINITELY PROROGUED THE COUNCIL, AND THOUGH POPE PIUS XI IN HIS FIRST ENCYCLICAL IN 1922 EXPRESSED THE HOPE IT COULD BE RECONVENED, THAT HAS NOT (REPEAT NOT) YET BEEN DONE.

THE REV. LUIGI FILOGRASSI, PROFESSOR OF DOGMATIC THEOLOGY AT THE GREGORIAN UNIVERSITY, SAYS THE CHURCH FEELS THE NECESSITY OF CALLING THE COUNCIL INTO SESSION AFTER THE THREE-QUARTERS OF A CENTURY RECESS BECAUSE "IT MUST CLARIFY ITS DOCTRINAL POSITION REGARDING RECENT ERRORS IN HUMAN THINKING, SUCH AS UNDUE WORSHIP OF STATE AND PHILOSOPHICAL THEORIES OF MODERNISM AND IMMANETISM.

"IT MUST ALSO CLARIFY ITS POSITION REGARDING MODERN STATES AND RECENT HISTORIC EVENTS, BESIDES PROMOTING SPIRITUAL AND RELIGIOUS ACTIVITIES," HE SAID.

AT THE SAME TIME, AN UNCONFIRMED CHINESE PRESS REPORT SAID THE RUSSIANS HAD AGREED TO TURN OVER THEIR GARRISON DUTIES IN MANCHURIA TO CHINESE NATIONALISTS. IT ASSERTED THE RUSSIAN WITHDRAWAL FROM MANCHURIA WOULD BE POSTPONED UNTIL JANUARY. THE WITHDRAWAL HAD BEEN SCHEDULED FOR DEC. 3.

THE RUSSIANS ALSO WERE REPORTED TO HAVE GUARANTEED THE SAFETY OF ANY NATIONALIST TROOPS FLOWN TO CHANGCHUN, THE MANCHURIAN CAPITAL, AND TO MUKDEN, IN BOTH OF WHICH CHINESE COMMUNISTS HAVE BEEN ACTIVE.

THIS AGREEMENT WAS REPORTED AS A RESULT OF A BETTER UNDERSTANDING BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES. UNCONFIRMED REPORTS STATE THAT RUSSIA HAS EXPRESSED HER READINESS TO ABIDE BY THE SPIRIT OF THE SINO-SOVIET TREATY OF FRIENDSHIP AND ALLIANCE.

SHANGHAI, NOV 26-(DELAYED BY CHINESE CENSOR)-(AP)-AT A COST IN AMERICAN LIVES, VIRTUALLY EVERY FLYABLE U.S. AIRPLANE IN INDIA AND BURMA IS BEING FLOWN OVER THE HUMP TO CHINA, PRESUMABLY FOR DISTRIBUTION TO THE CHINESE GOVERNMENT, THE ASSOCIATED PRESS LEARNED TODAY.

SOME 700 FIGHTERS AND TRANSPORTS ARE INVOLVED IN ONE OF THE GREATEST MASS FLIGHTS OF THE CHINA-BURMA-INDIA THEATER--IN SUCH MISERABLE WEATHER THAT ALREADY SEVERAL OF THE AIRCRAFT HAVE CRASHED WITH LOSS OF LIFE.

NOV 27 1945

ON ONE FLIGHT FROM KUNMING TO THE SHANGHAI AREA, 22 P-51S ENCOUNTERED A TERRIFIC WEATHER FRONT AND THERE WERE ELEVEN CRASHES. THAT WAS LAST THURSDAY DURING THE INITIAL STAGE OF THE OPERATION. OTHER MISHAPS MAY HAVE OCCURRED SINCE.

LT.GEN.GEORGE E.STRATEMEYER, COMMANDING GENERAL OF AIR FORCES IN THE CHINA THEATER, DECLINED TO DISCUSS DETAILS OF THE FLIGHT OR THE NUMBER OF ACCIDENTS "BECAUSE THEY ARE UNDER INVESTIGATION AT THIS TIME."

30.24—3/192,5

HOWEVER, IT WAS LEARNED FROM DIFFERENT SOURCES IN A POSITION TO KNOW THE FULL DETAILS THAT THE FLIGHT WAS ORDERED BY THE WAR DEPARTMENT AND IS BEING CARRIED OUT BY THE 14TH AND 10TH AIR FORCES. THE 14TH IS FLYING FIGHTERS AND THE 10TH IS BRINGING TRANSPORTS.

THE ONLY ORDERS RECEIVED BY THE CHINA THEATER HAVE BEEN TO BRING THE PLANES TO THREE AIRDROMES IN THE GREATER SHANGHAI AREA, WHICH INCLUDES NANKING. NO INSTRUCTIONS YET HAVE BEEN RECEIVED AS TO THEIR ULTIMATE DISPOSITION, BUT EVEN TOP AIR OFFICERS HERE SAY WITH A WINK THAT THE AIRCRAFT UNDOUBTEDLY WILL BE GIVEN TO CHINESE NATIONALISTS.

THE CHINESE PRESS SAID A FEW WEEKS AGO THAT AMERICA HAD DECIDED TO HAND OVER 1,300 AIRCRAFT TO THE CENTRAL GOVERNMENT BUT THE WAR DEPARTMENT COUNTERED THAT NO SUCH NUMBER HAD BEEN DECIDED UPON.

U.S. LEND-LEASE OFFICIALS HERE HAVE INDICATED STRONGLY THAT ALL FLYABLE PLANES IN CHINA WOULD BE FLOWN TO THE STATES UPON TERMINATION OF LEND-LEASE.

NOV 27 1945

LOSS OF AMERICAN LIVES IN SUCH A POSTWAR OPERATION CLEARLY IS HARD ON THE TEMPERS OF YANKS WHO ARE WEARY OF WALKING THE CHINESE (CIVIL WAR) TIGHT ROPE AND ARE DEBATING ANGRILY WHETHER THEY OUGHT TO BE RISKING THEIR LIVES THREE MONTHS AFTER THE END OF THE WAR.

THE ATTITUDE OF OFFICIALS OF THE AIR FORCE IS THAT OF SINCERE REGRE THAT SOME AMERICANS HAD TO LOSE THEIR LIVES ON THE OPERATION, BUT IT I VITAL THAT THE UNITED STATES PROTECT ALLIED GAINS IN CHINA.

TOKYO, NOV.26-(AP)-THE JAPANESE PEOPLE WHO WERE TOLD THE PEARL HARBOR ATTACK WAS A "BRILLIANT STROKE UNPRECEDENTED IN THE HISTORY OF THE WORLD," NOW ARE SEEING ALMOST NO NEWS OF THE PEARL HARBOR INQUIRY IN WASHINGTON.

FOR DAYS AFTER THE DEC.7, 1941, STRIKE WHICH TOUCHED OFF THE PACIFIC WAR, THE JAPANESE NEWSPAPERS PRINTED EVERY WORD THEY COULD GET FROM FOREIGN SOURCES.

NOW THE JAPANESE PAPERS, REDUCED ALMOST TO HANDBILL SIZE AND CONCERNED WITH FOOD SHORTAGES, ALLIED OCCUPATION AND THE OPENING OF THE DIET, GIVE LITTLE SPACE TO THE PEARL HARBOR INVESTIGATION IN WASHINGTON.

FILES OF THE JAPAN ADVERTISER IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING THE ATTACK

ON PEARL HARBOR SHOW IT WAS CONSIDERED "A BRILLIANT STROKE, UNPRECEDENTED IN THE HISTORY OF WORLD NAVAL BATTLES."

"WE CANNOT KEEP BACK THE TEARS FROM WELLING UP IN OUR EYES WHEN WE THINK OF THE LOYALTY AND BRAVERY OF ALL THOSE WHO ENGAGED IN THESE DARE DEVIL ACTIONS," ONE MILITARIST TOLD THE ADVERTISER.

FOR WEEKS THERE WAS REFERENCE TO THE ATTACK, INCLUDING PUBLICATION OF MESSAGES OF SATISFACTION FROM HIGH ITALIAN AND GERMAN OFFICIALS. ON DEC. 19 THE IMPERIAL HEADQUARTERS ASSERTED "THE PACIFIC FLEET OF THE UNITED STATES AND THE AMERICAN AIR FORCE IN HAWAII WERE TOTALLY DESTROYED."

IT WAS AT THAT TIME THAT PREMIER HIDEKI TOJO, DECLARED BEFORE THE DIET:

"THESE GREAT MILITARY ACHIEVEMENTS BECOME THE WONDER OF THE WORLD, ENHANCING OUR EMPIRE'S PRESTIGE BOTH AT HOME AND ABROAD. THIS IS ENTIRELY DUE TO THE AUGUST VIRTUE OF HIS IMPERIAL MAJESTY, THE EMPEROR: A SOURCE OF MY PROFOUND INSPIRATION."

(ADVANCE FOR AMS TUESDAY, NOV 27)

(ADVANCE)...WASHINGTON, NOV 26-(AP)-A COMPARISON OF VETERANS BENEFITS IN THE UNITED STATES, BRITAIN AND FOUR COUNTRIES OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE SHOWS MUSTERING-OUT PAY LOWEST HERE BUT OTHER PROVISIONS GENERALLY MORE LIBERAL.

THE STUDY WAS MADE BY BERNARD M. BARUCH. IT WAS MADE PUBLIC TONIGHT BY SENATOR JOHNSON (D-COLO) AS CHAIRMAN OF A VETERANS SUBCOMMITTEE OF THE SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE. NEITHER BARUCH NOR JOHNSON MADE ANY RECOMMENDATIONS WITH IT.

THE COMPARISON SHOWED THAT THE OTHER COUNTRIES--GREAT BRITAIN, AUSTRALIA, CANADA, NEW ZEALAND AND THE UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA--BASED DISCHARGE PAY ON LENGTH OF SERVICE AND RANK RATHER THAN THE FLAT AMOUNT PAID BY THE U.S.

FOR A PRIVATE WITH THREE YEARS' SERVICE, TWO OF WHICH WERE OVERSEAS, THE MUSTERING OUT PAY WOULD BE:

NOV 27 1945

COUNTRY	IF SINGLE	IF MARRIED AND ONE CHILD
CANADA	$611	$711
NEW ZELAND	586	640
GREAT BIRTAIN	383	472
AUSTRALIA	375	395
SOUTH AFRICA	336	336
UNITED STATES	300	300

IN COMPARING THIS AND OTHER ITEMS, MONETARY BENEFITS WERE TRANSLATED INTO DOLLARS AT THE FEDERAL RESERVE'S RATE FOR OCTOBER BUT NOW ALLOWANCE WAS MADE FOR DIFFERENCES IN LIVING COSTS AND HURCHASING POWER AMONG THE VARIOUS COUNTRIES.

IN ADDITION TO THE MUSTERING-OUT PAY, AUSTRALIA GRANTS A BONUS PAYABLE FIVE AND A HALF YEARS LATER WHICH IS BASED ON LENGTH OF SERVICE IN THE CASE OF THE PRIVATE USED AS AN EXAMPLE IT WOULD BE $330.

"THE UNITED STATES PROVIDES THE MOST LIBERAL PROGRAM OF HOSPITALIZATION AND PENSIONS FOR DISABLED VETERANS," THE STUDY CONTINUED. FOR 100 PER CENT DISABILITY THE PENSIONS ARE:

COUNTRY	$115 MONTHLY	IF MARRIED $115 MONTHLY
CANADA	68.25 MONTHLY	$104.65 MONTHLY
AUSTRLIA	8-11 WEEKLY	13 WEEKLY
NEW ZEALAND	9.70 WEEKLY	14.75 WEEKLY
BRITAIN	8 WEEKLY	11.50 WEEKLY

SOUTH AFRICA PAYS PENSIONS ONLY TO VETERANS OVER 60, OR TO THOSE UNDER 60 UNABLE TO TAKE "REGULAR WORK." IT ALSO GIVES MEDICAL CARE TO FAMILIES OF DISABLED VETERANS. AUSTRALIA PROVIDES FURNITURE TO DISABLED VETERANS AND EDUCATES THEIR CHILDREN.

Hurley Resigns China Post, Denounce U.S. Policy as Paving Way to Third Wa
Gen. Marshall Quickly Named as Envo

Former Secretary of War in Denunciation of Career Diplomats.

CAPITAL STUNNED

Gen. Marshall's Assignment to Trouble Spot to Be Temporary.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 — (AP) General of the Army George C. Marshall was appointed special envoy to China late today after the U. S. Ambassador, Major Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, had resigned with a bitter denunciation of career diplomats and a warning that a third World War was "in the making."

The two events, coming in rapid-fire order, stunned the capital.

First the dashing Hurley, who was secretary of war under Herbert Hoover and global trouble-shooter for Franklin D. Roosevelt, released a scathing 1,800 word statement virtually unprecedented in recent diplomatic history.

It charged unnamed professional diplomats with wrecking U. S. foreign policy. Instead of backing democracy and unity in China, he said, they "sided with the Communist armed party and the imperialistic bloc of nations whose policy it was to keep China divided against itself."

Secretary of State Byrnes went into a quick huddle with President Truman and other officials. Then White House press secretary Charles G. Ross called reporters into his office.

After announcing that the President had accepted the Hurley resignation, he disclosed that Mr. Truman had named Marshall as his special envoy with the rank of ambassador. The assignment will be temporary.

As Ross related it, the President telephoned the five-star general, who only last week retired as United States Chief of Staff, and asked:

"Will you go, General Marshall?"

"I will, Mr. President," Marshall replied.

Ross explained that Marshall's assignment "is to do a particular job that needs to be done in China."

Hurley's statement charged that American diplomats serving in Chungking had thwarted the realization of policies announced by the top level leadership of the United States.

When he had these men sent back to Washington from Chungking, he said, some of them were given posts as his supervisors in the state department and some were sent as advisors to the supreme commander in Asia, Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

"In such positions," he said, "most of them have continued to side with the Communist armed party and at times with the imperialistic bloc against American policy."

The United States, he said, should avoid lining up with any "predatory idealogy." He said it should support revision of the United Nations charter to "make it democratic."

As other remedial steps, he urged that the light of "factual publicity" be thrown on the "secrecy" surrounding the state department, and that the government reorganize its "policy-making machinery beginning at the lowest official levels."

Surprise to White House

The White House indicated that Hurley's resignation and statement came as a surprise to it. Charles G. Ross, presidential press secretary, remarked to newsmen:

"The first intimation the President had of the resignation was when I handed him the news when it came in on the White House ticker."

The state department said it was surprised at Hurley's resignation. Michael J. McDermott, special assistant to the Secretary of State, told reporters that Hurley had sought to resign yesterday, but that Secretary Byrnes urged him to change his mind and go back to China, and he agreed to do so.

Secretary of State Byrnes called on President Truman this afternoon, and the State-War-Navy coordinating committee which largely determines U. S. policy in the Far East, also met.

Most members of Congress who were approached for reaction said they wanted to study the statement further. Some legislators noted that at one point Hurley charged the professional diplomats with supporting Chinese Communists and at another asserted that "we are permitting ourselves to be sucked into a power bloc on the side of colonial imperialism against Communist imperialism." They said they would like further elaboration of those statements before commenting.

However, Senator Fulbright (D.-Ark.), who has been critical of American Foreign policy recently, interpreted Hurley's statement as meaning "there is a conflict within the State department. There is lack of discipline and they don't follow the leader."

"The President and Secretary of State announce a policy, as I read the Hurley statement, and it is not carried out by others. I assume Hurley was instructed to support Chiang Kai-shek, and others in the department are advising the Communists in China not to get along with Chiang."

Fulbright asserted "our foreign policy has been ineffective and this may very well be one of the reasons."

"The only solution," he added, "is a strong United Nations Organization. I agree with Hurley on that."

The Arkansas senator observed that there have been two attempts to reorganize the State department in recent months "with no real improvements."

Hurley's action was the latest episode in a drama-studded career. In the span of his 62 years he has been cowboy, mule-driver, soldier, lawyer, banker, oil operator, cabinet member and finally roving envoy during the second World war.

After several secret missions—in one of which he flew to Australia with his pockets full of gold to hire blockade runners for the relief of Bataan—President Roosevelt made him Ambassador to China in November, 1944. His task was to prevent the collapse of the Chinese war effort and to establish harmony between Chinese officials and American representatives.

At the outset of today's statement, he praised the support President Roosevelt gave him, and endorsed the announced foreign policy of President Truman. But he said there has been an "astonishing" discrepancy between declared policies and the actual conduct of international relations.

"For instance," he said, "we began the war with the principles of the Atlantic Charter and democracy as our goal.

"Our associates in the war at that time gave eloquent lip service to the principles of democracy.

"We finished the war in the Far East furnishing lend-lease supplies and using all our reputation to undermine democracy and bolster imperialism and communism."

He declared that he was opposed to both 'isms, that he favored "democracy and free enterprise."

"The hydra-headed direction and confusion of our foreign policy in Washington during the late war is chargeable," he said, "to the weakness of our foreign service.

"If our foreign service had been capable of understanding and sympathetic effectuation of our announced war aims it would not have failed so completely to couple our logistical strength with our foreign policy to obtain commitments to the principles for which we claimed to be fighting from the nations to which we gave the strength of our productivity and manpower."

Later the White House made public a letter in which the President accepted Hurley's resignation. It follows:

"Dear Mr. Ambassador:

"I have your letter of Nov. 26 tendering your resignation as Ambassador to China, which you forwarded to me through the Secretary of State.

"I am grateful to you for the service you have rendered in this important and difficult post.

"I regret that you feel unable to continue and therefore, in accordance with your desires, accept your resignation.

"Very sincerely yours,

"Harry S. Truman."

Rep. De Lacy (D-Wash) and five other Pacific coast congressmen yesterday had introduced a resolution calling on President Truman to recall American troops and supplies from China. When De Lacy heard of Hurley's resignation he issued a statement saying in part:

"Hurley's actions in China, more than anything else, created the conditions for civil war in that nation. He reversed the policies of the late President Roosevelt, former Ambassador Gauss and General Joseph Stilwell. He, more than anyone, is responsible for the use of our troops, supplies and transports to support the reactionary Chungking regime in suppressing the rights of self-government in China.

"His resignation is both an opportunity and a challenge to the State department. With greater ease, Secretary Byrnes can now return to the policy of peace and democracy in the Far East charted by President Roosevelt."

Rep. Case (R-S.D.) disputed Delacy on the House floor. Case said Hurley had done all in his power to bring the two Chinese political elements together, once using his own plane to transport the Communist leader to a conference with Chiang.

Marshall is familiar with Chinese affairs. He participated in several of the three-power conferences attended by Chiang. He had several tours of duty in the Far East, including service in China.

Tonight a reporter asked Hurley about the assertion by McDermott, aide to the Secretary of State, that Hurley had agreed only yesterday not to resign. He said he believed McDermott had "overstated it a bit."

Hurley told the reporter he would like to follow up his earlier statement with two proposals:

1. That the State department issue a statement of policy toward China.

2. That the United States issue a "positive statement" that it intended to "stabilize China until the United Nations organization can take that responsibility."

generally in the southwest Pacific, in Egypt, Palestine, the Lebanon, Syria, Trans-Jordan, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Iran, Russia, Afghanistan, India, Ceylon, Burma and China. Of all of the assignments China was the most intricate and the most difficult. It is a source of gratification to me that in all my missions I had the support of President Roosevelt, Secretary Hull, Secretary Stettinius, President Truman and Secretary Byrnes.

"In the higher echelon of our policy-making officials American objectives were nearly always clearly defined. The astonishing feature of our foreign policy is the wide discrepancy between our announced policies and our conduct of international relations. For instance, we began the war with the principles of the Atlantic Charter and democracy as our goal.

Reasons for Failure

"Our associates in the war at that time gave eloquent lip service to the principles of democracy. We finished the war in the Far East furnishing lend-lease supplies and using all our reputation to undermine democracy and bolster imperialism and Communism. Inasmuch as I am in agreement with the President and the Secretary of State on our foreign policy I think I

Text of Gen. Hurley's Resignation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 — (AP) Major Gen. Patrick J. Hurley issued the following statement today in announcing his resignation as ambassador to China:

In tendering his resignation as Ambassador to China, General Patrick J. Hurley today attributed failure of American foreign policy in Asia to the weakness and opposition of the United States foreign service.

Hurley issued a statement endorsing President Truman's outline of American foreign policy as contained in his recent Navy Day address, but charging that professional diplomats in the lower echelons were frustrating attainment of announced policy aims.

The statement follows:

"I am grateful to both the President and the Secretary of State for the support they have given me and for their kind offer in requesting me to return to China as ambassador.

"In one capacity or another I have been on the permieter of America's influence since the beginning of the war.

"During the war I have served in Java, Australia, New Zealand, and owe it to them as well as to the country to point out the reasons for the failure of the American foreign policy in reaching the objectives for which we said we were fighting the war.

"I will confine my remarks in this statement to Asia, although I wish to assure both the President and the Secretary of State that I will be at their service in discussing frankly other phases of our international relations.

"I was assigned to China at a time when statesmen were openly predicting the collapse of the National government of the Republic of China and the disintegration of the Chinese army.

"I was directed by President Roosevelt to prevent the collapse of the government and to keep the Chinese army in the war. From both a strategical and diplomatic viewpoint the foregoing constituted our chief objective. The next in importance was the directive to harmonize the relations between the Chinese and American military establishments and between the American Embassy in Chungking and the Chinese government.

"It will readily appear that the former objective could not be accomplished without the accomplishment of the secondary objective as a condition precedent. Both of these objectives were accomplished. While these objectives had the support of the President and the Secretary of State it is no secret that the American policy in China did not have the support of all the career men in the State department.

Gave Aid to Communists

"The professional foreign service men sided with the Chinese Communist armed party and the imperialist bloc of nations whose policy it was to keep China divided against herself. Our professional diplomats continuously advised the Communists that my effort in preventing the collapse of the national government did not represent the policy of the United States.

"These same professionals openly advised the Communist army party to decline unification of the Chinese Communist army with the National army unless the Chinese Communists were given control.

"Despite these handicaps we did make progress toward unification of the armed forces of China. We did prevent civil war between the rival factions, at least until after I had left China. We did bring the leaders of the rival parties together for peaceful discussions. Throughout this period the chief opposition to the accomplishment of our mission came from the American career diplomats in the Embassy at Chungking and in the Chinese and Far Eastern divisions of the State department.

"I requested the relief of the career men who were opposing the American policy in the Chinese theater of war. These professional diplomats were returned to Washington and placed in the Chinese and Far Eastern divisions of the State department as my supervisors. Some of these same career men whom I relieved have been assigned as advisors to the Supreme Commander in Asia. In such positions most of them have continued to side with the Communist armed party and at times with the imperialist bloc against American policy. This is an outline of one of the reasons why American foreign policy announced by the highest authority is rendered ineffective by another section of diplomatic officials.

"The weakness of American foreign policy has backed us into two World Wars. We had no part in shaping the conditions that brought about these two wars. There is a third World War in the making. In diplomacy today we are permitting ourselves to be sucked into a power bloc on the side of colonial imperialism against Communist imperialism. I am opposed to both. I still favor democracy and free enterprise.

"Our announced policy in the first World War was to make the world safe for democracy. That slogan was elaborated for the second World War by a definite statement of principles in the Atlantic Charter and the Iran declaration. We won both wars but in both instances we failed to establish the principles for which we alleged we were fighting. America's foreign policy officials have always been divided against themselves. Consequently, we have always been a prey to the nations that give lip service to our ideals and principles in order to obtain our material support. The war that is now in the making is not even intended to defend or establish democratic ideals. Instead of putting our weight behind the charter of the United Nations we have been definitely supporting the imperialism. At the same time a considerable section of our state department is endeavoring to support Communism generally as well as specifically in China.

"The hydra-headed direction and confusion of our foreign policy in Washington during the late war is chargeable to the weakness of our foreign service. If our foreign service had been capable of understanding and sympathetic effectuation of our announced war aims it would not have failed to completely to couple our logistical strength with our foreign policy to obtain commitments to the principles for which we claimed to be fighting from the nations to which we gave the strength of our productivity and manpower.

"A democracy must live on its intelligence and its integrity and its courage. The people of the democracy should be given all the facts to enable them to form correct opinions. The discrepancy between American foreign policy as announced in the Atlantic Charter and the Iran Declaration and in the President's recent Navy Day address and as carried into effect may be attributed in large measure to the secrecy which has shrouded the actions of the State Department. All too frequently information concerning the conduct in distorted, garbled, or partial form. The result is that the American people have too little basic information to judge the extent to which their state department correctly interprets and administers the foreign policies of the nation.

"During the war we had to maintain secrecy to prevent giving aid to the enemy. I grant that sometimes during the war we had to expedient. Now we should endeavor to be right. I raise this issue because I am firmly convinced that at this particular juncture in our history an informed public opinion would do much to give intelligent direction and implementation to our international objectives.

"With special reference to China and the other nations where I have served in the last four years, the blessings of factual publicity would be manifold. Now that the war is over I am willing that all my reports be made public, together with the reports made by those officials in the foreign service who have differed with the promulgated American policy.

"Our true position in China is misunderstood abroad because of this confusion of policy within our own government. This situation suggests the need for a complete reorganization of our policy-making machinery beginning at the lower official levels. No international policy can succeed without loyal and intelligent implementation. Because of the confusion in our own international policy America has been excluded economically from every part of the world controlled by colonial imperialism and Communist imperialism. America's economic strength has been used all over the world to defeat American policies and interests. This is chargeable to a weak American foreign service.

"I wish to absolve from this general indictment some of our career men. Some of them are very admirable and well-equipped public servants who have fought in the State department and in other countries against overwhelming odds to advance American ideals and interests.

"America's economic and diplomatic policies should be coordinated. America's strength should not be allied with any predatory ideology.

"America should support the amendment or revision of the San Francisco United Nations charter to make it democratic. Our strength should be used to uphold the decisions of the United Nations rather than to support conflicting ideologies or warmaking power blocs."

U.S. AIRCRAFT SENT TO CHINA

Movement From Burma And India Raises Policy Question

Chungking, Nov. 27 (AP)—A reported mass movement of United States planes into North China from Burma and India brought into sharp focus today the fateful question of United States policy in this country's undeclared civil war.

In Shanghai meanwhile, Richard Cushing, Associated Press correspondent, found American Air Force pilots "debating angrily" their postwar assignment to the perilous job of flying planes wholesale over "the hump" from India and Burma for delivery to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces.

Costs American Lives

Ranking officers told Cushing that virtually every flyable plane in India and Burma was being sent to China in an operation which already has cost several American lives. About 500 aircraft were being flown to airfields in the greater Shanghai area, he was told, with the 10th Air Force bringing transports and the 14th Air Force fighters.

Just how Generalissimo Chiang planned to use the planes in his announced all-out campaign to restore order and unity in China remains to be seen. His ground forces were pushing ahead vigorously into Manchuria, scheduled under the terms of the Sino-Russian agreement to be evacuated soon by the Soviet troops.

Chungking newspapers said Nationalist forces had advanced 40 miles along the Peiping-Mukden railroad to Kowpangtze, 90 miles from Mukden. No opposition by Chinese Communists was reported.

Says Communists Withdraw

The influential daily Ta Kung Pao added that the Communists had withdrawn from Changchun, the Manchurian capital from which Chinese Central Government officials recently fled.

It was the arrival of strong Chinese Communist forces in that area some weeks ago which inspired the flight of officials—including Chiang Kai-shek's son—to avoid the danger of falling into Communist hands after Russian troops were withdrawn.

Today it was insistently, but unofficially reported that the fugitive officials were on the point of returning to Changchun. According to one report, some of them already were en route.

This was in line with Chinese press reports that the Russians had agreed to permit Nationalist forces to garrison Manchuria, and had even pledged the safety of any Nationalist troops which might be flown into Changchun or Mukden.

May Postpone Withdrawal

Russia will adhere to the spirit of the Sino-Soviet friendship and alliance pact, these reports asserted, but will postpone withdrawal of Soviet troops from Manchuria until January. The original withdrawal date was December 3.

According to these sources Chiang Kai-shek's son, Chiang Ching-kuo, special commissioner for foreign affairs in Manchuria, will discuss with the Russians in Changchun the details of the entry of Nationalist airborne troops.

Against a background of such reports there was much talk in Chungking today of an improvement in Sino-Russian relations, dampened somewhat by skeptical estimates of the price Chungking might have to pay for such improvement.

Alleged Russian demands, previously reported without confirmation in Chinese newspapers, involved concessions amounting practically to a Russo-Chinese condominium in Manchuria.

700 Fighters and Troop Carriers Flown Over Hump to Shanghai.

AT GREAT RISK OF LIVES

Nationalists Now 90 Miles From Mukden, Vital Rail Town in Manchurian Battle.

Shanghai, Nov. 26 (Delayed by Chinese Censor) (A. P.).—At a cost in American lives, virtually every flyable United States airplane in India and Burma is being flown over the hump to China, presumably for distribution to the Chinese Government, the Associated Press learned today.

Some 700 fighter and transports are involved in one of the greatest mass flights of the China-Burma-India Theater—in such miserable weather that already several of the aircraft have crashed with loss of life.

On one hop from Kunming to the Shanghai area twenty-two P-51s encountered a terrific weather front and there were eleven crashes. That was last Thursday during the initial stage of the operation. Other mishaps may have occurred since.

Withholds Details.

Lieut.-Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, commanding general of Air Forces in the China theater, declined to discuss details of the flight or the number of accidents "because they are under investigation at this time." However, it was learned from different sources in a position to know the full details that the flight was ordered by the War Department and is being carried out by the Fourteenth and Tenth Air forces. The Fourteenth is flying fighters and the Tenth is bringing transports.

[At Washington, War Department officials said there was no comment.]

The only orders received by the China theater have been to bring the planes to three airdromes in the Greater Shanghai area, which includes Nanking. No instructions yet have been received as to their ultimate disposition, but even top air officers here say with a wink that the aircraft undoubtedly will be given to Chinese Nationalists.

Loss of American lives in such a post-war operation clearly is hard on the tempers of Yanks who are weary of walking the Chinese (civil war) tight rope and are debating angrily whether they ought to be risking their lives three months after the end of the war.

The attitude of officials of the Air Forces is that of sincere regret that some Americans had to lose their lives on the operation, but it is vital that the United States protect Allied gains in China.

Nationalists Advance.

Chungking, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—Chungking newspapers reported today that Nationlist forces had advanced forty miles along the Peiping-Mukden railroad to Kowpangtze, ninety miles from Mukden, vital rail center in the battle for Manchuria. There was no report of opposition.

Simultaneously, unconfirmed press reports indicated the Russians will permit the Nationalists to garrison Manchuria. They asserted a number of Chiang Kai-shek's officials had returned to Changchun, Manchurian capital. The Russians also were said to have pledged the safety of Nationalist troops flown into Changchun or Mukden.

Russia will adhere to the spirit of the Sino-Soviet Friendship and Alliance Pact, these reports declared, but will postpone withdrawal of Soviet troops from Manchuria until January. The original withdrawal date was December 3.

CHURCHILL OPENS PARTY ATTACK ON ATTLEE'S POLICIES

Jack Smith

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(AP) Winston Churchill tonight launched the conservative party's first major offensive against Britain's Labor government with a demand that Commons censure the cabinet for "neglecting" major national problems in favor of socialist projects.

Churchill submitted to the House a broadly-phrased censure motion accusing Prime Minister Attlee and his government of failing to deal effectively with reconversion, demobilization and housing because of a "pre-occupation" with long-term plans to nationalize industries.

The motion—if it approved, could lead to the resignation of the Labor government — was almost certainly foredoomed because of labor's overwhelming voting majority. It will serve, however, to provoke a full-dress debate on the whole range of Britain's postwar plans.

Churchill, in the role of leaders of "his majesty's loyal opposition," offered the motion without comment. He was expected to open an oral assault on the Attlee regime tomorrow in a speech before the Central Council of Conservative Associations, the Conservative party organization.

The government, laborite sources said, will set aside parliamentary time next week for debate on the motion of censure, which was so broadly worded as to constitute a denunciation of the government's entire post-war program.

"This House regrets that his Majesty's government are neglecting their first duty," the motion said, "namely to concentrate with full energy upon the most urgent and essential tasks of the reconversion of our industries from wartime production to that of peace, the provision of houses, the speedy release of men and women from the forces to industry, and the drastic curtailment of our swollen national expenditures."

The house "deplores," the document added, "the pre-occupation of his majesty's ministers, impelled by socialist theory, with the formulation of long-term schemes for nationalization, creating uncertainty over the whole field of industrial and economic activity, in direct opposition to the best interests of the nation which demands food, work and homes."

CHURCHILL URGES VOTE OF CENSURE

London, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—Winston Churchill asked the House of Commons tonight to censure the Laborite Government, charging that it was neglecting major national problems in favor of Socialist projects.

The former prime minister launched the Conservative opposition's first major offensive against the regime of Prime Minister Attlee. He charged that the Cabinet had failed to deal effectively with reconversion, demobilization and housing because of its preoccupation with long-term plans to nationalize industries.

The motion was almost certainly doomed to failure because of the Labor party's overwhelming voting majority, but it will serve to develop a full-dress debate on the range of Britain's postwar accomplishments and plans.

Russians Expected To Recede On Colony Trusteeship

London, Nov. 27 (AP)—An informed, non-Russian source said tonight that the Russian delegation to the United Nations preparatory commission may agree to a compromise on the issue of trusteeship of colonies.

Trusteeship is one of the few issues on which the executive committee of the preparatory commission was unable to reach an agreement. Britain and the United States recommended establishment of a temporary committee until new mandates could be parceled out, but Russia objected strongly.

The Soviet Union has asked for a mandate over Tripolitania, in North Africa, and at the London Foreign Ministers' Conference the Russians made it clear that they wanted to participate in international supervision of other former colonies and league mandates.

Given New Instructions

Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko has just returned from Moscow with fresh instructions which are said to advise that "Russia is extremely anxious to reach agreement" with the other major powers on the trusteeship issue.

The preparatory commission today elected Guillermo Belt, Cuban Ambassador to Washington and chief Cuban delegate, chairman of the trusteeship committee, with K. Kiselev, head of the White Russian delegation, as vice chairman.

R. E. McEachen, of Uruguay, was chosen head of the committee responsible for the selection of permanent headquarters for the United Nations Organization. This committee will organize hearings tomorrow for delegates from various American cities.

POLE TO HEAD UNO SECURITY GROUP

London, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—The Preparatory Commission of the United Nations Organization today unanimously elected Zygmund Modzelewski, Polish Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, to be chairman of the Security Council Committee which will establish basic machinery for preserving peace. Erik Colban, Norwegian Ambassador to Great Britain, was elected chairman of the Committee on the General Assembly. The General Assembly is to meet in January.

Modzelewski was proposed by Andrei Gromyko, Soviet Ambassador to the United States. He was elected with cheers by delegates of the forty-seven participating nations. Heaton Nicholas, High Commissioner for the Union of South Africa in London, was elected vice-chairman of the Security Council Committee.

Colban was proposed by Adlai Stevenson, chief American delegate, and was seconded by Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovic of Yugoslavia.

ASKS REDS TO END PRESS CENSORSHIP

Jack Smith

LONDON, Nov. 27—(AP) A new call to Russia to abandon news censorship in order to remove international "suspicion" and help preserve the peace was made in Britain's House of Lords today by Viscount Cranborne, leader of the conservative opposition.

Opening the day's debate on foreign affairs, the veteran statesman joined with Laborites, Liberal and Conservative peers in asserting that they support United States control of the atom bomb until Russia emerges from behind her "impenetrable curtain."

Agreeing that atom secrets cannot be kept forever, Cranborne nevertheless declared that so long as any nation withheld knowledge in the United Nations organization, "it is better to leave the bomb in the hands of the United States, in whose specific intentions we can have absolute trust."

Former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Commons last week that western "suspicion" of Russia would decline if she would give freedom to foreign journalists in Russia, and in territories occupied by the Russians.

Cranborne said "contacts between the Russian and western spheres in Europe are almost daily fewer," and asked: "On such a basis, how can a world organization suceed?"

Cranborne said there would be an "immediate deceleration" of international tension if the Russians would "throw open the frontiers and give facilities for journalists and trained observers, or anyone, to go through."

He said visitors from both sides could find things they would not approve, but that "gradually the lines of division would soften out."

"We should begin to understand each other," the Conservative leader added. "By that method alone can the middle line-the modus vivendi—be found."

As the lords debated the veto clause, a Moscow broadcast declared that veto powers were "vital" to the cause of peace. "Proposals to remove the powers," it said "are only calculated to weaken the world security organization."

CRANBOURNE SEES SPLIT IN EUROPE

London, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—Lord Cranbourne, opposition leader, told the House of Lords today that the demarkation boundary between the Western Powers and the Russian-dominated part of Europe "has become like a dividing line between two civilizations."

"Contacts between those two spheres are almost daily fewer," Cranbourne said at the opening of a two-day debate on foreign policy. "On such a basis, how can the world organization succeed?"

Cranbourne suggested that Russia open the frontiers "and give facilities for journalists, trained observers and for any one who can to go through." He said this would ease tension immediately.

"It might be that those who went through would not approve all they saw — just as visitors from Russia may not approve all they see here—but gradually the lines of division would soften out," Cranbourne said. "We should begin to understand each other, By that method alone can the middle line, the modus vivendi, be found."

STATUE OF HITLER IS SOLD FOR $2,000

LONDON, Nov. 27—(AP) A massive bust of Hitler—described by an auctioneer as "this piece of granite" —was bought today for $2,000 by Captain Gordon Canning, whom the British detained under defense regulations for two years during the war.

The bust was among souvenirs of fallen Nazidom offered at the second day's sale of former German embassy goods.

Canning outbid a resort showman who wanted to display the bust with New York sculptor Epstein's "Lucifer."

Among bidders was an unidentified woman who said she wanted the bust "for sentimental reasons."

800,000 Britons Built Aircraft In September

London, Nov. 27 (AP)—The number of Britons employed in the aircraft industry dropped to nearly 800,000 in September and still is decreasing rapidly, the Ministry of Aircraft Production said tonight.

The ministry said "a much smaller number" than 10,000 planes of all types remained on order.

[It is estimated 146,000 workers were employed on basic jobs of the aircraft industry in the United States during October and 122,000 were expected to retain their jobs in December.]

Commenting on the Society of British Aircraft Constructors' statistics that 10,300 planes were on order and that 993,000 workers were employed in the British aircraft industry, the ministry said the figures referred to the British position of last August.

"Since that time, many of these aircraft have been delivered and therefore a very much smaller number now remains on order," the ministry said. "Similarly the number of employés in the industry is being rapidly reduced and was near to 800,000 in September. The reduction still continues."

Italy Plot To Rip Allied Fleet Bared

London, Nov. 27 (AP)—Italy drew plans as early as 1935 to use an underwater brigade of 2,000 divers in an attempt to wreck the British and French fleets by sneak attacks, the Admiralty disclosed tonight.

Italian use of the diver tactics was limited to attacks on the British battleships Queen Elizabeth and Valiant, at Alexandria, Egypt, the Admiralty said in a review of its own extensive experiments on diving equipment for human torpedoes, "frogmen" and midget submarine personnel.

The Admiralty had announced previously that the battleships were damaged when Italians, using midget subs, attached explosives to their hulls. Neither ship was sunk.

The British used naked bathers to test the effect of underwater explosions on the human body.

Chinese Canadian Force Ends Guerrilla Service

Witley, Surrey, England, Nov. 27 (AP)—A special force of Chinese Canadians—the existence of which was cloaked by security until recently—now is on its way home to the Dominion after service in Southeast Asia.

Trained in Canada and India for guerrilla fighting behind Japanese lines, the force consists of 120 men of Chinese descent, most of them born in Canada. Sixty now are in England awaiting movement home.

The group of repatriates is led by youthful Lieut. J. J. Harding, of Oakland, Cal., who paid his first visit to Canada in 1942 and stayed to join the Canadian Army.

Bismarck Really 56,000 Tons, War Crime Court Told

Nuernberg, Germany, Nov. 27 (AP)—A secret German document showing that in 1938 the Nazis were preparing to fight "two thirds of the whole world" to establish the Reich as a leading power was disclosed today by the American prosecution in the international war-crimes trial.

This was one of the many documents placed in evidence, in whole or in part, against the twenty Nazi leaders on trial for their lives before the international tribunal. The portion quoted above was not read in court and is, therefore, not yet a part of the evidence.

The document, taken from navy files, said Hitler's aims to make Germany a world power probably could not be "achieved by peaceful means" and that Germany was forced to make "preparations for war" against England, France, Russia and "in fact, one half to two thirds of the whole world."

Treaty-Breaking Charged

For hour after hour, a United States assistant prosecutor, Sidney S. Alderman, showed in scores of documents that German military and naval leaders started rearming secretly shortly after World War I and that they had deliberately violated the treaties of Versailles and Locarno.

Major disclosures of the week were:

1. Even before the Nazis took power, German submarines were being built secretly in Holland, Spain and Finland and the Germans were deliberately falsifying the tonnage of warships in figures given to England and the rest of the world.

2. As early as October, 1932, the Germans were secretly building up a military air force in civilian guise by organizing and training airline pilots for combat.

3. On January 31, 1933, the day after Hitler came to power, the Nazis secretly issued plans to build a great armament industry.

Many of the documents presented by Alderman were signed or initialed by Admiral Erich Raeder, who furiously scribbled notes in the prisoners' dock as the prosecutor built up his case to prove cold-blooded and deliberate aggression.

Plans Revealed By Jodl

Other parts of Nazi documents, which were made public but were not read into the record, disclosed that the German Army had greatly overestimated the number of Allied divisions in England in November, 1943, that the Allies had underestimated the German strength in the west, and that the Germans had underestimated Russian strength.

In one of these documents, Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, a defendant, disclosed that the Nazis planned three campaigns which never were carried out—an invasion of England, the capture of Gibraltar and seizure of Iceland and the Azores.

Jodl said the lack of Ger. of nsportation and the strength the RAF caused the German high command to abandon its plans to attempt a cross-Channel attack on England.

Scharnhorst 31,300 Tons

Jodl also confessed that in November, 1943, six months before the Normandy landing, the Germans did not know where the Allies would strike the Continent—in the Mediterranean, Norway or France.

A navy document, disclosing the falsification of figures on warship displacement, showed that "the true displacement of the battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau exceeds by twenty per cent in both cases the displacement reported to the British."

The Scharnhorst's tonnage actually was 31,300 instead of 26,000, as the Germans told the world, while other figures in the document indicated that the Bismarck had a tonnage of 56,200, making it the largest battleship in the world before it was sunk by the British.

Covering Violations

A touch of grim humor was injected when Alderman started reading from a three-columned navy document, issued September 9, 1939.

One column gave the progress of German re-arming, the second column what was being done to implement it, and third gave advice to naval officers and diplomats on how to cover treaty violations, if questioned.

In explaining coastal batteries of a larger caliber than allowed by the Versailles Treaty, Nazi officials were advised to plead "that though the caliber was larger, the number of guns was smaller."

If anyone questioned them for exceeding the number of machine guns permitted, diplomats were advised to "make light of it." Opposite the column on the construction of U-boat parts was this advice: "Difficult to detect. If necessary, it can be denied."

Goering, Raeder Grin

While this was being read, Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering and Raeder exchanged grins, causing Alderman to comment, "I can well understand this section's giving the defendants some amusement."

Meanwhile, it was indicated that the flood of documents with which the tribunal has been inundated during the last few days probably would be varied tomorrow by the calling of the first witnesses.

NAZI WAR PLOTS IN 1933 REVEALED

Secret Documents Bared at Nuernberg Tell of Secret U-Boat and Naval Bases -- Britain Target

By NOLAND NORGAARD

NUERNBERG, Nov. 27 (AP)—Secret German activity to violate the Versailles peace treaty by the undercover construction of a navy and air force was disclosed today by American prosecutors at the war crimes trial of 20 Nazi leaders. Documents were laid before the four-power tribunal as evidence that, from his earliest days of power, Hitler falsified public reports of battleship tonnages, built submarines and trained U-boat crews in isolated hideouts in Spain, Finland and Holland, and rebuilt the German air force under the guise of a commercial aviation program.

The German naval command, official documents revealed, foresaw as early as September, 1938, the Reich's rise to power would finally result in war against half or more of the world.

The portions of the Admiralty files forecasting another world war were made public by American prosecutors, but were not read in court and as a result will not form part of the evidence.

See War Against World

Declaring preparation must be made for war, one official German navy document declared: "War against England means at the same time war against the empire, against France, probably against Russia as well, and a large number of countries overseas, in fact against one-half to two-thirds of the whole world."

Documents were laid before the four-Power tribunal as evidence that, from his earliest days of power, Hitler falsified public reports of battleship tonnages, built submarines and trained U-boat crews in isolated hideouts in Spain, Finland and Holland and rebuilt the German Air Force under the guise of a commercial aviation program.

Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering and Grand Admiral Erich Raeder grinned broadly at one point as Assistant Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman read from a list of instructions to Nazi diplomats on ways to parry questions of other countries about the Reich's rearmament program.

The instructions "apparently cause the defendants considerable amusement," Alderman commented to the court.

Finance Arms Industry

Charging German scheming to violate the Versailles Treaty started "soon after World War I," Alderman submitted documents which he said proved that in the very month Hitler came into power, the German Navy proposed building a great arms industry by secret munitions to other nations.

The proposal was made in a recommendation signed by Raeder in 1933, he said. The German admiral listened attentively as Alderman read off another memorandum, dated in 1934, in Raeder's handwriting which said:

"The commander in chief of the Navy expresses the opinion that later on the fleet must anyhow be developed to oppose England.

"The Fuehrer demands to keep construction of U-boats completely secret also, in consideration of the Saar plebiscite."

Alderman also presented a secret document detailing early plans to re-occupy the Rhineland in violation of the Versailles Treaty—an act which Hitler carried out without opposition in 1936.

Listing step by step German plans for Reich domination of Europe, Alderman said the early schemes were of "modest origin and fantastic nature," but developed into a real threat with the rise of Hitler.

German war preparation, Alderman asserted, "could have been interrupted at several points."

Seven distinct phases of aggression listed by Alderman were: 1, period of preparation from 1933-36; 2, absorption of Austria; 3, grabbing of Czechoslovakia; 4, invasion of Poland and beginning of actual war; 5, expansion of war to Scandinavia and the Low Countries; 6, attack on Russia; and 7, collaboration with Japan and Italy in aggression against the United States.

A new phase of the trial—under the count of the indictment which charges the Nazi leaders with crimes of murder and abuse of civilians—will be opened tomorrow when the court and the defendants will see films of Nazi horror camps

To See Ghastly Films

What they will see is undoubtedly the most sickening record of human depravity ever recorded on film—bodies stacked like cordwood awaiting huge cremation furnaces after firing squads, gas chambers, disease and starvation had taken their toll.

The enforced absence of Sir Hartley Shawcross, chief British prosecutor, this week brought about the decision to interrupt the presentation of evidence supporting the indictment's first count—that the defendants conspired with Hitler and other Nazi leaders to wage aggressive war. This presentation will stop temporarily at the end of today's session.

During the remainder of the week it is likely evidence will be devoted to war crimes. The hearing on the conspiracy count will be resumed Monday, with Shawcross, who will have returned by then from London, giving the opening statement of the British case. Members of the British staff will present evidence on the conspiracy for aggression against Poland, the Low Countries and Norway.

Winter's first storm left Nuernberg mantled in snow as the sixth day of the historic trial opened.

First Unrest Noted

The Nazis took cognizance of unrest among the Germans themselves in 1943, it was revealed by quotations from a speech by Col. Gen. Gustav Jodl, chief of the German general staff and one of the defendants. He was quoted as saying:

"Up and down the country the devil of subversion strides. All cowards are seeking a way out. They say we must negotiate. In this war there can only be a fight to the end. Capitulation is the end of Germany."

"The national socialist struggle for internal power was the preparatory stage for release from the bonds of Versailles and to reawaken the fighting spirit of the German people," Jodl was quoted as saying.

Another document produced by Alderman was described as a memorandum in 1935 from Hjalmar Schacht, one of the defendants, in which the former economics minister is quoted as saying "that accomplishment of the armament program in regard to speed and extent is the task of German policy and that therefore everything must be subordinated to this aim."

To Accept Documents

As the mass of documents—many of them signed by the defendants themselves—piled up, it became evident most of the accused leaders would make little effort to discredit the authenticity of the evidence but would base their defenses on the claim that they were unwilling servants of Hitler.

Jodl's speech before the Gauleiters Nov. 7, 1943, disclosed an official German admission that the Germand High Command underestimated the strength of the Russians and dared not embark on an amphibious operation against England because the Royal Air Force could not be beaten.

"If today, in view of the repeated and prolonged setbacks of the year 1943, the question comes up again whether we had not thoroughly underestimated the strength of the Bolshevik opponent, the answer to this question . . . may certainly be said to be 'yes'," Jodl declared at the time.

Regarding England, he said: "The landing in England, prepared for down to the smallest detail but with improvised transport resources only, could not be dared while the British air arm had not been completely beaten. And this we were not able to do, just as we have not been able completely to shatter Soviet armed might."

Rearming Secrets Barred

The prosecutor traced in detail activities of the Nazis in secretly rearming Germany, before Hitler denounced in 1935 the armament ban included in the Versailles Treaty. One letter addressed to Nazi Philosopher Alfred Rosenberg, one of the defendants, disclosed in 1932 a plot for recreating a military air force in civilian guise.

Possibility that American prosecutors may also offer witnesses to bolster their evidence of German aggression was seen with the arrival of Gerhart H. Seeger, former social democratic member of the German Reichstag in the pre-Hitler era and later editor of the anti-Nazi New York Neue Volkszeitung.

Seeger, who was arrested following the Reichstag fire in 1933, escaped from Oranienburg concentration camp and made his way to the United States and became a U. S. citizen.

Alderman read from an affffidavit made by Raeder that Germany acted to "comply with the letter" of the Versailles Treaty by building submarines and training crews outside the Reich.

For an hour, Alderman described how the German navy camouflaged its strength as early as 1933 by constructing cruisers and disguising them as merchant ships and falsely reporting on the tonnage of warships built openly. He cited as an example the German report the battleship Scharnhorst was of 26,000 tons, whereas it was actually 31,000.

Andrei J. Vishinsky, Soviet Vice Commissar of Foreign Affairs and state prosecutor in the 1933 Russian treason trials, attended the court session for the first time today, sitting near the Soviet prosecutors' table.

Quotes Hitler Speech

The court adjourned for the day at 4.30 p.m.. Earlier, Goering nodded vigorously when Alderman quoted the former German air chief as telling a London Daily Mail correspondent the German air force was purely defensive. The prosecutor said he would prove later Nazi leaders "had other intentions."

The prosecutor also announced as a violation of the Versailles Treaty the public promulgation, March 16, 1935, of a universal military training law. Telling of Hitler's speech defending occupation of the Rhineland in 1936, Alderman then quoted Hitler's famous phrase, "Germany has no territorial demands to make."

Col. Robert G. Storey, an assistant U. S. prosecutor, said movies to be offered tomorrow as evidence of aggression would be shown tonight to defense counsel.

Molotoff Will Not Testify

NUREMBERG, Nov. 27 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Roman A. Rudenko, chief Russian prosecutor, said today that there was no possibility that Foreign Commisar V. M. Molotoff would testify. He also denied published reports that the Red Army had obtained confessions of guilt from Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, Raeder and Hans Fritzsche.

Two enlisted men formerly with the combat outfits are interpreting and reporting the epic legal case for millions still in service. In fifteen-minute daily programs American guards, psychiatrists, lawyers and chaplains have been interviewed for the AFN (American Forces Network). Officiating is Cpl. M'NARNEY STATES EUROPE IS FACING 'LONG, HARD PULL'

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 27.—(AP) Gen. Joseph T. McNarney today predicted a 10-year minimum occupation of Germany, and declared the German people "must be made to realize that the war was their responsibility and their debt."

Formally taking over command of the American zone from Gen. Eisenhower, McNarney declared "I have not forgotten who started this war, and that the German people as a whole supported it wholeheartedly."

He said the occupation of Germany would last at least 10 years and undoubtedly even longer.

He foresaw "a long, hard pull" in the rehabilitation of Europe, but predicted that the continent's living standards could be raised above pre-war levels—"if we have time."

This goal can be achieved "if the nations involved work together long enough," the general said, but he added that his biggest foreseen difficulty would be "getting the four nations to agree on a single, coordinated policy," for Germany.

The whole American army policy, he said, would be directed at turning over the military government to a civilian administration as soon as possible.

McNarney asserted "there is no reason why the United States should support the German people," and said American policy would allow them a minimum means to support themselves.

30.24 - 31933

In carrying out the denazification program, the general said his command would give Nazi party members, "whether active or not," a "last priority" in everything.

Saying there would be no censorship, he told correspondents to "feel perfectly free to find out news and print it," and remarked that "criticism and freedom of the news are things that made our country great."

Concerning his own staff, McNarney announced that Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, Chief of Staff in the European theater, would be released to take a new post in Washington, and would be succeeded by Maj. Gen. Harold R. Bull, who was also on Eisenhower's staff here.

eventually if the nations involved work together long enough," he continued. "The biggest problem is getting four different nations to agree on a single co-ordinated policy."

Pledges No Censorship.

He emphasized there would be no censorship.

"My policy as far as news is concerned is that the was is over and you are entitled to print anything that is true," he declared, and went on to tell the correspondents to "feel perfectly free to find out the news and print it." He added: "I don't mind criticism, either, as long as it is founded on fact. Criticism and freedom of news are things that made our country great."

McNarney said that Eisenhower had canceled plans for an immediate visit to Europe to bid his command farewell, but that he would undoubtedly return, if possible, at a later date.

He said he hoped to inaugurate a gradual policy whereby officers with long overseas service would be able to get home as soon as replacements were found for them. He expressed hope that the families of occupation troops could be brought to Europe as soon as possible, but said he doubted whether they could be moved here this winter.

Gen. McNarney Predicts Ten-ye ar Stay in Reich

Eisenhower Successor Says U. S. Occupation of Germany May Be Even Longer.

Frankfurt, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—Gen. Joseph T. McNarney predicted today that Germany would be occupied at least ten years and probably longer. He spoke at a press conference as he assumed command of American troops in the European theater from Gen. Eisenhower, new Army Chief of Staff.

DAY

McNarney said the whole Army policy would be directed toward turning the military government to a civilian administration as soon as possible. He said the civilian who would direct the program had not yet been chosen.

Major-General Harold R. Bull will become chief of staff in the European theater, succeeding Lieut.-Gen. Walter Bedell Smith. McNarney said Eisenhower had requested that Smith be released within three weeks to assume a new position in Washington.

Blames German People.

Speaking of his policy for Germany, McNarney said:

"I haven't forgotten who started this war and that the German people as a whole supported it wholeheartedly. They must be made to realize it was their responsibility and is their debt."

The new commander said he would be happy to see every member of the Nazi party reduced to a common day laborer.

He predicted that the rehabilitation of Europe would take a long time. He said he thought the standard of living could be raised above pre-war levels "if we have time."

"This goal can be achieved

mer said that he protested against their mistreatment. He added, however, that, "to be truthful, I don't like Jews," and he admitted beating Jewish prisoners.

Kramer accused a fellow defendant, Vincenz Schoettl, of forcing several hundred woman to stand all day between electrified barbed wires as punishment for the "impertinence" of one woman prisoner.

Dr. Klaus Schilling, 74 years old, told in a statement of inoculating nearly 1,000 prisoners in malarial experiments but said that he treatment was given for their own protection. Schilling said that forty-nine of the prisoners died.

Army Post Sales Limit Placed On Some Items

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 27 (AP). The United States Army announced today that luxury items such as fountain pens and cigarette lighters in army post exchanges would be reserved for American military personnel only.

The new ruling was necessary, the Army said, because nonmilitary purchasers were buying up to 58 per cent of the fountain pens, 41 per cent of the lighters and 33 per cent of the alarm clocks.

Allies Order Demolition Of Airports In Germany

Berlin, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Allied Co-ordinating Committee today ordered blown up all German airports not being used by the Allies. All buildings, facilities and equipment, including even approaching roads and rail lines, will be destroyed.

Also to be demolished—in a program that must be completed by April, 1948, and which presumably will leave Germany without an airfield at the end of occupation—are all elements of German anti-aircraft defenses, firing and bombing ranges and fuel dumps and fuel supply lines for military installations

Umberto Calls Parley Over Political Crisis

Rome, Nov. 27 (AP)—Crown Prince Umberto, lieutenant general of the realm, invited leaders of the six main parties to new conferences this afternoon on the Italian political crisis, still unresolved after the Leftists rejected 85-year-old Vittorio Emanuele Orlando as premier.

Political leaders met this morning without result.

A royal communique said Orlando—former premier and colleague of Woodrow Wilson, Lloyd George and Georges Clemenceau in writing the peace which ended World War I—reported to Umberto today that his efforts to form a unified government had produced "no concrete results" after he had sounded out party leaders yesterday.

The communique said Umberto had invited Orlando to attempt to form a government of "unity and harmony" with "a precise program."

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 27 (AP)—An explosion shook the residence of Attorney General Sven Arntzen outside Oslo last night and police officials quickly atttributed it to traitor terrorists. Mr. Arntzen escaped uninjured as he sat reading beside a window. L. Abbee-Lung, chief of the criminal police, regarded the explosion as a political move by followers of the executed occupation premier.

Tehran Reports Rebels Heading For the Capital

Iran Government Orders It Defended at All Costs; Soviet Note Is in Making

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Paris radio said in a broadcast recorded by CBS today that the Soviet Foreign Commissar, V. M. Molotov, had told Iran's Ambassador to Moscow that the Soviet Union "will respect the rights of Iran and will not oppose the legitimate movement of Iranian troops." Negotiations between the two nations in Moscow were reported "about over."

Tehran, Iran, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Iranian Government officially announced tonight that an insurgent military force from Azerbaijan province in northern Iran was marching toward the Iranian capital city of Tehran.

Authorities ordered the capital defended at all costs.

The Government said also that Azerbaijan forces, who are seeking autonomy, had occupied Zenjan, a rail station 170 miles northwest of the capital.

Iran Tanks Wait At Kazoin

The announcement said the main force was marching along the rail line southward toward Tehran. At the same time, another force occupied Takistan, a small railway station 9 miles southwest of Kazvin, 85 miles northwest of Tehran.

The advance force at Takistan was expected to reach Kazvin tonight.

Observers in Tehran believed it was questionable whether the Azerbaijan forces would continue to march on Tehran in view of the presence of armed Iranian troops and tanks at Sharifabad, 4 miles east of Kazvin.

But Tehran authorities were taking no chances and ordered the city strongly defended. Iranian reinforcements were ordered up.

56-Mile Advance

The occupation of Zenjan represents an advance of 56 miles from Mianeh, which the Government reported last week had been occupied by the insurgents. All Government buildings in Zenjan, capital of Khamseh province, were reported in the hands of the Azerbaijans. Telegraph lines were cut.

Government circles believe the Azerbaijans will stop at Kazvin and the arrival of the insurgentts there might be a signal for sympathizers and "armed strangers" to start a rebellion in the capital.

Previously the Government had charged that the insurgents were operating with weapons distributed by "unknown people."

The Government announcement said that the Caspian seaport of Astara, 230 miles northwest of Tehran on the Iranian-Soviet border, also was completely occupied.

Delegation Planned

The Iranian parliament voted to appoint an emergency delegation of sixteen reputies to act as a liaison between parliament and the Government during the crisis.

Premier Hakimi met the Soviet charge d'affaires but nothing regarding their talks was made public. Azerbaijan province borders Russia and Soviet troops occupied it during the war and are still there.

Following American and British notes to Moscow demanding information on the disturbances in northern Iran, there was a feeling of mixed relief and apprehension here.

Patriots Appeal To Shah

The general feeling, however, in high Government circles was that only direct Soviet-Iranian negotiations would be successful.

In Tehran, youthful patriots appealed to the shah for authorization to form a national guard to fight the insurgents. Other groups, protesting "subversive rebel activities," offered to fight to preserve the unity of the nation.

Moscow Hears Soviet Reply to U. S. and Britain Will Be Flat Refusal to Withdraw Troops.

Tehran, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—A traveler from northern Iran reported today that forces of Azerbaijan Province separatists have occupied Zenjan, 174 miles northwest of Tehran, in military operations thrusting south along the main railway. All government buildings in Zenjan, the capital of Khamseh Province, were in the separatists' hands and all telegraph lines were cut, he added.

DAY

There was no official confirmation of these assertions. The Iranian Government has acknowledged, however, that the separatists were operating in Khamseh, armed with weapons distributed among them by "unknown people." Iranian troops dispatched last week to quell the disturbances in Azerbaijan were halted by the Soviet Russian authorities at Kazvin and have not been allowed to move northward. Russian troops occupy the northern zone.

Patriots Beg to Fight.

In Tehran, youthful patriots appealed to the Shah for authorization to form a National Guard to fight in Azerbaijan. Other patriotic groups protested against subversive rebel activities and offered to fight to preserve the unity of the nation.

The separatists have announced in a declaration drawn up at a meeting in Tabriz, capital of Azerbaijan, that they were demanding autonomy within the Iranian State, and have denounced reports that they were demanding complete separation from Iran.

There was no comment here on the reported notes to Moscow from the United States and Britain. The United States is understood here to have urged the immediate withdrawal of all Allied forces, thus leaving the Iranian troops free to act.

Reds Won't Get Out.

Moscow, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—Informed spokesmen here said today that they believed the Soviet Union is preparing an answer to the American and British notes on the situation in Azerbaijan, where Separatist elements have demanded autonomy within the Iranian State. One thing is certain, however, these informants said; the Soviet Union is not likely to order any withdrawals of Russian troops from Azerbaijan because of pressure applied by Britain or America

What Britain Said.

London, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—The British Government said today that the note handed by Ambassador Sir Archibald Clark Kerr to Foreign Commissar V. N. Molotov yesterday notified Moscow that this Government was disturbed to learn that the Soviet military authorities had prevented the Iranian forces from quelling the insurgent disturbances in Azerbaijan, and that Britain presumed that Russia's action was due to some misunderstanding, and that Moscow might feel able to instruct the Red Army commander not to obstruct the Iranian forces in the future.

JEWS STRIKE IN PALESTINE

Stage Half-Hour Stoppage After Clashes With British

Jerusalem, Nov. 27 (AP)—Palestine Jews today staged a half-hour work stoppage throughout the country in sympathy with nine Jews killed and 75 wounded in clashes with British troops yesterday. Tension remained high, but no incidents were reported.

British authorities lifted the curfew which they imposed Sunday on a 47-mile strip of Palestinian coast north of Tel Aviv. They already had withdrawn troops and police from the troubled area where the clashes occurred.

Jewish Statement Denied

A British communiqué denied Jewish statements that soldiers had fired "without due cause" into a crowd surging toward the settlement of Hogla, which had been surrounded by the British. The communiqué said the Jews had fired on the troops.

Jewish speakers said the Palestinians used no guns, although they said Palestine Jews were armed for defense.

The disturbances grew out of the British capture of the Greek motor schooner Demetrois, which was illegally landing 200 Jewish immigrants on the Palestinian coast, and subsequent attacks on two Coast Guard stations by what the British described as "parties of armed Jews."

Truman To Announce Palestine Group Soon

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—The White House said today that President Truman's appointment of American representatives on the Anglo-American Palestine Committee will be announced "very soon."

Charles G. Ross, press secretary, was asked at a news conference if there had been an agreement on a time limit for the committee's consideration of Jewish immigration into Palestine and other problems, and replied:

"I take it there must have been or we wouldn't be on the verge of making appointments, possibly today, but more likely tomorrow."

Ross said he had no information on a Paris report that Russia had proposed that the Arab-Jewish problem of Palestine be submitted to a conference of American, British, Russian, Chinese and French representatives.

Pan-Arab League Meets

Cairo, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Pan-Arab League met in a secret session tonight to discuss and prepare a statement to be presented to Britain in response to Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's recent statement on the Palestine Jewish national homeland.

British Report Six Jews Killed

JERUSALEM, Nov. 27 (AP)—A British communique today said six Jews were killed and "a number wounded" in a gun battle yesterday between British troops and armed Jews at Kfar Hogla after residents had attacked police who were searching the Jewish settlement.

Unofficial reports placed the toll of yesterday's disturbances in the Jewish area of Palestine at nine killed and at least 75 wounded.

Palestine appeared calm today. The Jewish National Council called a half-hour work stoppage as a "token of mourning" for the dead.

The General Federation of Jewish Labor cabled a strongly worded protest to the British Labor Party and British and United States labor organizations.

Tension subsided gradually as British troops withdrew from the trouble zone north of Tel Aviv. The British had thrown a cordon around six Jewish villages yesterday, and, armed with mortars and machineguns and supported by tanks, had entered the villages in search of persons responsible for attacks on Coast Guard stations. The cordon was lifted last night.

The sudden outbreak of demonstrations after the villages were blocked off for the search was laid to retaliation against the British seizure recently of a Greek ship which was carrying illegal immigrants.

The Jewish labor organization's protest, sent to the British Labor party, the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations, said: "It should be clearly understood that not a single man or woman gathered in the settlements carried or used arms of any kind. Their opposition to the search was fully in harmony with the declared policy of Yishuv (Palestine Jewry) to resist the seizure of Jews who have sought a refuge in the Jewish homeland. . . ."

Two Villages Fired On.

The Jewish National Council called upon all shops and factories to close in today's token stoppage, and for all traffic to halt in the entire Jewish sector of Palestine. The time of the stoppage was not publicly announced.

An official British communique said last night that the British troops fired on Jewish settlers in the villages of Givath Haim and Kfar Koglah after the settlers had attacked the police, who were trying to remove 137 suspects from the villages. Troops also penetrated the villages of Rishbob, Enhahoresh, Kfar Kogla, Givath Haim, Kfar Haroeth and Shefayim, all north of Tel Aviv and near the coast. The bitterest fighting of the day was at Shefayim. The British explanation of the search was that the police and troops had trailed to Givath Haim and Shefayim members of the gangs which attacked the Coast Guard stations.

PLANE IS MISSING, HAD 40 SOLDIERS

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 27—(AP) Headquarters of the India-Burma theater said today that an airplane carrying 40 homebound American soldiers had been missing in India for three weeks.

An intensive search has failed to uncover any trace of the plane or its passengers. The plane left Chabau in northeast India, Nov. 11, for the Indian port of Karachi.

The failure to find any clue in any of the thousands of square miles along the route led some air headquarters to believe that the plane had flown off its course to the northward to give the passengers a look at Mt. Everest.

Some officers considered it possible that the plane crashed in the snowy Himalayas and that it would be weeks or months before it was found. Much of the territory is uninhabited and unexplored.

Relatives of missing persons have been informed.

The four-engined C-54 plane was piloted by Capt. Warren A. Roth of Minneapolis.

National Committee Votes Confidence In Sjahrir

Batavia, Java, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Indonesian national committee voted confidence in Premier Sutan Sjahrir's Government today as British ground, sea and air weapons lashed at Indonesian forces and fighting intensified around the civilian internment center at Ambarawa, in central Java.

Four British Thunderbolt fighters strafed Indonesian vehicles and columns at Ambarawa after reinforced Nationalists attacked a camp quartering 10,000 former internees, including women and children, the Dutch news agency, Aneta, said. The assault forced back Allied and Japanese troops defending the camp, it added.

Destroyer Shells Town

Guns of a British destroyer standing off Semarang shelled the town of Oenganan, midway between Semarang and Ambarawa. Hundreds of British sailors were landed from H.M.S. Sussex to patrol in Semarang.

Indonesian reinforcements were reported marching toward Ambarawa, and toward Soerabaja, where Nationalists in an attack led by a small tank of Japanese make forced British Indian troops to withdraw in one forward sector of the naval base city.

British officers said they were mopping up in Darmo, last unoccupied residential suburb of Soerabaja, and that other objectives had been taken, some with little opposition.

Planes Pound Radio Station

Four RAF planes bearing rockets and 500-pound bombs attacked the Indonesian Nationalist radio station at Jogjakarta, which was ordering Indonesians to concentrate at various points, Aneta said.

Sjahrir's Government received a vote of confidence at the end of a three-day Indonesian Nationalist conference. Eighty-nine delegates voted for the Government; eleven abstained.

Vice President Mohamed Hatta told the Assembly that a "Fascist outlook should find no place in the national struggle," and criticized Indonesians who engaged in fighting. Hatta emphasized that the "republic" was willing to confer with the British, but not with the Dutch as long as Dutch "terrorism" continued.

[Aneta said the "national convention" closed with a resolution suggesting that Dutch, British and British Indian troops in Java be replaced by Australians, Americans, Russians and Chinese.]

Premier Optimistic

Sjahrir, reviewing the conference, said fighting was dying down, and that he was optimistic about getting the independence move into more effective channels.

He said he and members of his Cabinet would go into the interior within a week for conferences with local leaders in the trouble spots around Bandoeng and elsewhere.

ATTACK LAUNCHED BY INDONESIANS

Batavia, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—Indonesians in Soerabaja launched a counterattack against British troops in that battered city today, and an official British report told of new attacks in Ambarawa and Bandoeng.

The coastal city of Semarang remained a trouble spot. The Dutch news agency Aneta said British destroyers shelled areas of the city where pockets of Indonesian resistance were holding out. British sailors mounted guard in cleared parts of the town.

In Batavia, prominent Dutch leaders and Red Cross workers asked in a petition to The Netherlands East Indies Government that 200,000 women, children and the aged and sick be evacuated from Java pending the return of normal times.

The Indonesian counterattack in Soerabaja was mounted by a force of fifty Indonesians with the aid of a small Japanese tank. A British Indian patrol near the hospital area was forced to withdraw. The Indonesians also attacked the released internees' camp and police station at Ambarawa, 30 miles south of Semarang, and forced Japanese troops guarding the camp and its 10,000 civilian inmates to retire within the camp area for the night.

LT. GEN. YAMASHITA ON WITNESS STAND

MANILA, Wednesday, Nov. 28—(AP) Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita took the stand in his own defense this morning in his war crimes trial and testified he never had been in supreme command in the Philippines, thus implying that he could not be blamed for atrocities committed in these islands.

Asserting he always was under orders of Field Marshal Count Hisachi Terauchi, supreme Japanese commander in southwest Pacific, Yamashita also declared he never had headquarters in Manila, and that Nipponese Air force, transport and 30,000 other troops in the Philippines were under other commanders.

The Japanese plan for defense of the Philippines called for the Navy and Air force to annihilate the American invaders, with the Army merely cooperating, he said.

Yamashita, conqueror of Malaya, said he came to the Philippines in October, 1944, to assume command of the 14th area army. Nine days after he took over that army, the Americans landed.

He found his forces in "unsatisfactory" condition, Yamashita declared, with his chief of staff ill in bed and only three staff officers familiar with the Philippines. He was short five divisions of troops, he went on, and lacking in supplies, particularly food and gasoline. There was considerable anti-Japanese feeling among the Filipinos, he admitted.

Staring at his interpreters Yamashita frequently shook his finger like a lecturing schoolmaster. He repeated remarks for the young Nisei interpreters, nodding benignly when they translated to his satisfaction. (Yamashita has insisted on using Japanese, although he apparently knows English.)

Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita was portrayed by a defense witness at his war crimes trial today as a member of a "pacifist" group who considered war with the United States "undesirable."

Yamashita's views made him so unpopular with Dictator-Premier Hideki Tojo that Yamashita was "exiled" to Manchuria, the witness, Keichoku Yoshida, a Tokyo attorney, testified.

Yoshida testified after the defense had established that no Japanese order directing a massacre of Manila civilians had ever been found.

Yamashita belonged to a "pacifist" group of former War Minister General Ugaki opposed to Toyo, Yoshida testified. This group, he added, advocated reduction of armaments.

Yamashita was sent by Tojo to Germany and Italy to inspect battlefronts in 1941, the witness said, and when he returned he was demoted from superintendent general of the army air force to military counselor and sent to Manchuria.

Yoshida asserted the Yamashita trial was not having the effect in Japan which the Americans intended. "The Japanese people knew Yamashita to be such a high character that the public is in sympathy with him."

Another defense witness, Lt. Gen. Akira Muto, Yamashita's chief of staff, testified Yamashita could not have had control over Japanese military forces which subjected Manila to terror. He said that under the intricate chain of command, Yamashita lacked authority over Japanese naval forces.

brought down Tojo's wrath by saying a war with the United States was "undesirable."

Yoshida claimed the wide publicizing of Yamashita's trial in Japan was having an effect opposite to that intended by the Americans because the Japanese people "knew Yamashita to be such a high character that the public is in sympathy with him."

Calls Yamashita Pacifist.

The attorney, one of a group brought here by Defense Attorney Major George Guy, asserted Yamashita was one of the "pacifist" group of former War Minister Gen. Ugaki opposed to Tojo and his henchmen.

Yoshida, a personal friend of the defendant, did not say what prompted Tojo to take Yamashita from Manchuria—where he had been assigned to watch the Russians—and send him south to the Philippines, where his military career met disaster.

Earlier, Lieut.-Gen. Akira Muto, Yamashita's chief of staff, testified that under an intricate chain of command stretching down from Tokyo, Yamashita could not have had control over Japanese military forces who put Manila to the sword.

Muto, sweating under cross-examination, said that under this system Yamashita had no authority over the Japanese naval forces, mainly accused of the atrocities in Manila during the battle of Luzon.

Once, exasperated by a long series of answers that appeared to be contradictory, Major Robert M. Kerr, chief prosecutor, exclaimed:

"I'm tired of this witness squirming out of testimony."

houses stood with bowed heads. There was not a word about the occupation, no reference to the situation that made necessary urgent action to revise the House of Representatives election law and other matters.

Ordered By Allies

The other matters included repeal of repressive laws, expropriation of landed estates and other changes ordered by Allied headquarters to make way for democracy.

Indications were that the Liberal party might not have the full cooperation of other elements of the Diet in its efforts to clarify responsibility for the war that wrecked the empire.

A spokesman for the Social Democrats said his party supported the resolution. A spokesman for the Progressives, however, said his group was undecided "because there are many technical difficulties."

The Progressives hold nearly 300 seats, a majority, in the House of Representatives.

Parties Not Contrite

The Liberals' resolution pointed out that the military clique, financial circles and the press "already have shown their attitude on war responsibility. But the political parties have not shown any contriteness."

The House of Representatives, it added, "should not be allowed to carry on without taking responsibility" for its war record. "Those who took a leading role in supporting the government during the war should act to clarify their responsibility."

The resolution failed to demand the resignations of legislators affected and thus seemingly provided an oriental method for Diet leaders to make a mild apology and still save face.

Meanwhile, the Diet prepared interpellations on Premier Shidehara's "state of the nation" speech scheduled to be delivered Wednesday forenoon.

Mikado Asks Election Reform

Imperial Rescript, Read to Diet, Insures Some Revision of Current Laws.

Tokyo, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—Emperor Hirohito, in a colorful reading of an imperial rescript, today made election reform the number one function of the current Diet and insured some revision of current laws.

Standing before the Imperial throne the ornate House of Peers, the Emperor read the brief rescript in formal, heavy tones while members of both houses bowed deeply. The Japanese ruler was flanked on the right by princes of the blood and Imperial household officials and on the left by Premier Kijuro Shidehara's cabinet.

Specific mention of election reform in the rescript insured action thereupon and made this the principal Diet issue. Simultaneously the rescript statement limited to the House of Representatives such reform, indicating there probably will be no change in the current appointive status of the House of Peers despite considerable newspaper agitation.

Action on Labor Law.

The rescript also broadly solicited harmony in dealing with other matters, which include elimination of repressive laws and action on such unprecedented government legislation as expropriation of large landed estates and establishment of labor union law.

The Emperor wore his new official non-military uniform. Solemn-faced, he entered the hushed chamber and walked stiffly to a position fronting the throne on a dais above the rostrum utilized by the chamber president and peers. His formal impressive entry was at 10:59 A. M., after the other participants assembled and stood awaiting him for ten minutes. In an absolute hush after the emperor ascended the four steps to the throne, Premier Shidehara walked slowly toward him with the rescript, then backed away reverently while all bowed. The Emperor read the document held at arm's length. Then Prince Kuniyuki Tokugawa, president of the House of Peers, repeated the same stiff-legged ascent to the Mikado and received the rescript.

Formulating Answer.

The principal business of both chambers for the balance of the day was formulation of an official answer to the rescript.

Every one was held within the building during the arrival and departure of the imperial cortege and all windows above the first floor were curtained to prevent any subject from gazing downward upon him.

Defense Witness Says Jap Was Disliked by Tojo.

SIX JAPS CONFESS KILLING OF YANKS

Kwajalein, Marshall Islands, Nov. 25 (Delayed) (A. P.).—The prosecution rested its case today at the trial of ten Japanese officers charged with beheading five American flyers on Mili Atoll in February, 1944, and waited to see whether any of the accused would testify in their own defense. There was noticeable tension among the defendants, who wiped perspiration from their brows and nervously twisted handkerchiefs.

The prosecution read into the record confessions from six of the ten, admitting complicity in the murders. A statement by Major Chojiro Takaradan, commander of the Japanese Third Infantry Battalion, said that while he was not present at the execution of one flyer he had been prepared to kill him personally. Major Otokito Nakao, commanding a battalion of mountain artillery, said in a statement that an American youth released to his unit for execution was not bound or blindfolded before a Samurai sword lopped off his head.

FDR TURNED DOWN 'PEACE' MEETING PLEA OF KONOYE

Pearl Harbor Probers Told by Ex-Ambassador Grew of Secret Session.

FEARED MILITARISTS

Former Envoy Declares President Believed 'Head-on' Crash Inevitable.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(AP) Former Ambassador Joseph C. Grew testified today that Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye told him Sept. 6, 1941, that the Japanese military would take over his country unless he could have a personal "peace" meeting with President Roosevelt.

Grew told a Senate House committee that Konoye, in dire fear of the military extremists, met him secretly at a friend's home to urge that such a meeting be arranged.

Official license plates were removed from their automobiles to preserve the secrecy of their three-hour rendezvous, he said.

The late President decided against the meeting although Grew said he messaged Sept. 29 that he believed failure to hold the conference would result in Konoye's downfall and "the formation of a military dictatorship lacking either the disposition or temperament to avoid colliding head-on with the United States."

In October came Konoye's downfall and the elevation of Tojo to the premiership, and, on Dec. 7, war.

Acted in Good Faith

The gray-haired former envoy told the committee investigating the Pearl Harbor attack that he believed Konoye advanced his proposal in good faith although he said the prince was "saddled with responsibility for some of the worst acts of banditry."

He believed, Grew said, that Konoye had then seen the handwriting on the wall and realized Japan was on "the edge of the abyss."

Grew told also of an exchange of letters he had with Mr. Roosevelt in the previous winter when, he said, they agreed that divergent American and Japanese policies were "bound eventually" to bring a "head on clash with Japan."

Under questioning from Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.), Grew said he interpreted the President's letter of Jan. 21, 1941, as supporting the ambassador's view that the United States must be prepared to go "all the way" in support of its diplomatic representations to Japan.

Grew had written the President that the United States must build up its army and navy because Japan would pay little attention to demands not backed by military force.

The former U. S. Ambassador to Tokyo told the committee, however, that what he had in mind was an economic conflict and not necessarily a "military clash."

Grew read to the committee, which is investigating the Pearl Harbor attack, a letter he said he wrote to the President on Dec. 14, 1940 expressing his fear of a "head-on clash with Japan."

The letter added that the question "is not whether we call a halt to the Japanese program but when."

Grew quoted Mr. Roosevelt as replying that he was "in decided agreement with your conclusions" but that the Japanese problem was only part of a "global problem."

"Our problem being one of defense, we cannot lay down hard and fast rules," he quoted the President as adding.

Three months earlier, Grew had dispatched to Washington what he termed his "green light message" which said, in effect, that the time had come to apply economic sanctions against the Japanese.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich), who was questioning Grew when the message was first mentioned, remarked that it recommended a "get tough" policy but that little was done until the following summer.

Ferguson also commented to reporters during a recess that Grew, in his book "Ten Years in Japan", had described the message as perhaps the most important he sent during his first eight years in that country but that the state department had not considered it of sufficient importance to include in its volumes on Japanese-American relations.

Before Grew took up the story of his part in the diplomatic events prior to the Japanese attack, the committee heard former Secretary of State Hull:

1. Denounce as an "infamous charge" the assertion in an Army inquiry board's report that his note to the Japanese on Nov. 26, 1941, "touched the button" that started the war.

2. Express belief that Kichisaburo Nomura and Saburo Kurusu, the Japanese "peace" envoys, must have been "morally certain" their government intended agression, although they may not have known of the plan to attack Pearl Harbor.

3. Relate that he had received only an "unverified report" from the White House of the attack when he conferred with the Japanese envoys at 1 p.m., Dec. 7, 1941.

The 74-year-old former cabinet officer bristled when Senator Lucas (D-Ill) brought up the Army Board's report.

"I sat under that infamous charge for months when every reasonable-minded person knew that the Japanese were attempting at that time to get complete control of the Pacific," he declared.

Hull went on to say that he was "gratuitously brought into the picture apparently on the theory that Tojo and the military elements moving abreast with Hitler in world conquest were not doing so and were not guilty of doing so but that this government of peaceful peoples—that this government was the cause—that is forced peace-minded Tojo—into war."

He paused to catch his breath and added in a milder tone:

"If I could express myself as I'd want to I'd want all you religious-minded people to retire."

In a rambling philosophical discourse at another point, Hull expressed the view that if "peace-loving nations,"—he mentioned Britain and the United States—had been strong militarily they could simply have told the aggressor nations to halt and those nations would have done so.

"When you are dealing with lawless nations," he said, "the diplomatic influence is not much stronger than the military establishment behind it."

When Lucas alluded to the 10-point note Hull gave the Japanese on Nov. 26, the former secretary said it amounted to little more than a restatement of principles for which the United States had stood for years.

"And that was regardless of which political party was in power?" Lucas asked.

"To be sure."

During questioning of Grew about the "Green Light Message," Ferguson asked:

"At that time did you think Japan would fight or did you think they were bluffing?"

"I never thought Japan was bluffing," Grew replied.

"You thought they would fight under certain circumstances?"

"Under certain circumstances."

Ferguson had Grew read certain correspondence between the witness and William D. Mitchell, the committee counsel, concerning a request from Senator Brewster (R-Maine) that Grew make his diaries available to the committee.

Brewster had suggested they would be helpful to the committee since Grew's book, based upon them, contained some information not made public by the state department.

Grew wrote refusing to submit the diaries which he said were "in no way" official documents.

Furthermore, Grew said, they contained "many inaccurate and misleading statements" as well as personal matters. He added that he had examined them and found nothing that would be of help to the committee.

Insists Japs Determined Upon Attack

NOV 28 1945

Ex-Secretary Says Only Way to Avoid War Was to Lay Down Like Cowards

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP) — Cordell Hull today branded as "an infamous charge" the inference in an Army inquiry board's report that the note he handed Japanese "peace" ambassadors Nov. 26, 1941 touched the button that started the Pacific war. The former Secretary of State, testifying before a Senate-House committee inquiring into the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, assailed in vigorous language the interpretations made by the Army Board.

"I sat under that infamous charge for months when every reasonable minded person knew the Japanese were attempting at that time to get complete control of the Pacific," Hull declared.

"Somebody who knows little about what was going on and who cares less, says 'Why didn't the United States make concessions and keep us out of war?'" he continued.

"Any reasonable person knows the Japanese were bent on attack and knows we could not have stopped them unless we had laid down like cowards."

Had Unverified Report

Hull earlier testified he had only an unverified report of the attack on Pearl Harbor when he conferred with the Japanese peace envoys at 1 p. m., Dec. 7, 1941.

Before Hull resumed his testimony, Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) said members of the Army Board probably will be called to explain later their interpretation of testimony by former Ambassador Joseph C. Grew that the Hull note "was the document that touched off the button that started the war." Grew has challenged the interpretation.

During his discussion of the Army Board report, Hull paused once to remark if he could express himself in the language he would like to use all "religious-minded" persons would have to leave the hearing room.

The former Secretary said in response to a question by Lucas that he had not been called to testify before the Army Board, but had furnished it with some documents.

He said he had been "gratuitiously brought in to the report, apparently on the theory Tojo and the military element moving absolutely with Hitler on world conquest were not doing so and were not guilty, and that this peaceful government with no two ocean navy, forced peace-minded Tojo and Hitler, that bunch of saboteurs, into war."

Restrained Axis Partners

Under questioning by Lucas, Hull said the presence of the U. S. Fleet at Pearl Harbor must have had some restraining influence on the Japanese and Germans.

Observing at another point that "diplomatic influence is not much stronger than the military strength behind it," the former cabinet offcial said that if the United States and Great Britain had been strong militarily in 1933 they could have prevented Hitler from expanding and the Japanese from entering China.

Hull also testified, in response to questioning, that he did his best to keep the War and Navy Departments advised of the crisis as December 7 approached.

Senator George (D-Ga) also drew from the former secretary affirmation of these statements:

1. That Hull told fellow cabinet members on Nov. 7 that an attack anywhere by Japan, "at any time" was threatened.

2. That on Nov. 25 he told a war council meeting the Japanese were "poised for attack" and the safety of the country rested with the Army and Navy.

3. That on Nov. 28 he reiterated the statement to another war council meeting, stressing the element of possible surprise.

Talked "Peace, Peace"

In telling of his final meeting with Japanese peace envoys on the day of the Pearl Harbor attack, Hull said the White House called him about noon that day with the report the Japanese had struck, but his informant was unable to confirm it definitely.

The question arose, Hull said, whether he should receive the Japanese at all or whether he should leave open the one chance in 10 that the reported attack had not taken place. Hull said he went into the meeting to find the Japanese delegates were talking "peace, peace, peace."

Because of the report he had received, Hull said he "felt like taking liberties in talking with them about their government that would have been a little undiplomatic in ordinary times."

Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn.) asked Hull for his estimate of Saburo Kurusu and Kichisaburo Nomura, the Japanese envoys.

The former Secretary said it was his belief both knew during the negotiations that "they were here primarily to prevail on us to abandon our doctrines and policies and yield entire control of the Pacific west of Hawaii, including India and the trade routes, to Japan."

"They were here to clear the way for Japan to go forward on her plan of conquest without fighting," Hull declared.

As Though in Earnest

"I think these two gentlemen must have been morally certain, if not absolutely so, that their government was going on—if they didn't clear the way they must have known the Japanese military forces were going on anyhow."

Hull said he didn't know whether Nomura and Kurushu knew definitely that Pearl Harbor was to be attacked. He added, however, that intercepted messages showed the Japanese envoys were instructed by Tokyo as early as Nov. 27, 1941, to "continue talking with us as though they were in earnest, though they were not."

Hull was applauded by the audience as he left the witness stand and made his way slowly to the door.

Former Ambassador Grew, resuming his testimony, was questioned by Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) about correspondence the ambassador had with the late President Roosevelt in December, 1940.

Ferguson recalled Grew wrote Mr. Roosevelt the question "is not whether we call a halt to the Japanese program, but when."

Grew read from his reports that Mr. Roosevelt replied he was in "decided agreement with your conclusions" but that the whole problem was a global one for which "hard and fast plans" could not be laid down.

Sought To Prevent War

Ferguson asked whether Grew's letter meant he saw "in the near future a war between the United States and Japan."

The witness replied he was doing all he could to prevent war. He said the possibility then of a clash with Japan need not have been a military clash.

Grew said he "never thought Japan was bluffing" and so advised Washington.

ATOMIC ENERGY COMMITTEE HEARS INITIAL WITNESS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27. — (AP) The Senate Atomic Energy committee heard today that the late President Roosevelt called for "action" in October, 1939 on the research which produced the atomic bomb.

The statement came from Alexander Sachs, first witness in a series of public hearings expected to lead to legislation for control of domestic development of nuclear energy.

Sachs, a New York economist, testified that he acted as a liaison man between a group of physicists —including Albert Einstein— and the White House. He said the scientists asked him to do so "because they had heard I was in a position to talk to the President." He explained that he had advised Mr. Roosevelt on electric power matters in 1936.

Eventually he said he came to advise the President on various other matters, including not only the atomic bomb but "strategy." He said he did his advising "without any label," and claimed no official position at the White House.

Sachs, a big, heavily muscled man with a fringe of curly hair around a bald crown, spoke rapidly and with hardly a moment's pause for nearly two hours. He brought two big black notebooks and flipped through them incessantly, citing a letter here, a memorandum there.

He said the President had told him he would have to serve as a kind of historian for the atomic project, as White House aides had too many other duties.

Sachs told the committee he formerly served as an economic consultant for Lehman Brothers, New York bankers, but withdrew from that position when his work with the scientists began to take most of his time.

His husky, high-pitched voice began to fade as he approached the end of his testimony, but he never took time out for a drink of water.

he "zig-zag" trail which led to the spending of more than $2,000,000,000 and the blasting of Hiroshima and Nagasaki passed through the White House October 11, 1939, Sachs told the senators. It was then, he said, that he informed Mr. Roosevelt of the work done by Drs. Leo Szilard and E. Fermi toward splitting the uranium atom.

Sachs said he told Mr. Roosevelt of German experimentation and that the Nazis had embargoed the export of uranium from Czechoslovakia after seizing that country.

After the conversation, Sachs said the President called in his Secretary, Gen. Edwin M. (Pa) Watson and told him: "This needs attention."

"Its potentialities were very much in the mind of the President," Sachs said. "He said 'don't let Alex go without seeing me again.'"

Sachs said he left the President a letter from Einstein describing developments to date and urging that research work be pressed.

In opening the hearing, Chairman Brien McMahon (D-Conn) predicted that atomic energy will affect every phase of life and declared that no time must be lost dealing with the problem of control.

Maj. Gen. Leslie Groves, head of the super secret Manhattan project, is due to testify tomorrow. He will be followed by Dr. Harold Urey and other scientists.

WHEELER OPPOSES UNO BILL, WANTS NEW CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 — (AP) Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) told his colleagues today that if the United Nations already were organized to stop aggression "you would be compelled to go to war with Russia."

He opposed a bill outlining the terms of American participation in the United Nations organization and urged instead "a real peace conference" to bring about disarmament, abolition of conscription an international control of the atomic bomb.

It was the senate's second day of debate on the measure and it was Wheeler's day. He read a speech four hours long contending that hope for the UNO was dim, that the U. S. was "appeasing" Russia, and that present policies were leading to another war.

"We have so degraded the democracy for which we fought," he said, "that when brought to the bar of judgment, it will be found a harlot that has been whistled off the streets of chaos."

The debate was a contrast to those of pre-war days on the neutrality act, lend-lease and other international policies. The visitors' and press galleries were sparsely attended. Frequently no more than ten senators were on the floor.

Of those, Senator Connally (D-Tex) and Vandenberg (R-Mich), members of the U. S. delegation to the San Francisco conference. Provided most of the challenges to Wheeler's arguments.

Connally mimicked opposition complaints about the UNO:

"Oh, it ain't worth a damn, it can't ever succeed, it's all washed up, and so on and so on and so on."

"Let's do something about it," he shouted.

At this, Senator Wherry R-Neb) protested Connally's use of the word "damn" as unseemly and asked him to withdraw it. Connally said he was merely quoting others as using it, but he withdrew it anyway with a courtly compliment to "the distinguished senator from Nebraska."

Vandenberg, agreeing with Wheeler on his recital of wrongs allegedly done to smaller nations by Russia, declared that he saw "no hope on earth" of remedying them "except to implement the United Nations charter."

It was then that Wheeler remarked:

"If the United Nations Organization had a definition of agression today, and you were going to stop aggression, you would be compelled to go to war with Russia.

Wheeler said that "we promised liberty, freedom and democracy" to the nations of the world—"that's what we told our boys we were fighting for."

"And we are not going to get it," he continued, "by putting hundreds of millions into slavery.

"All we had to say to Russia was, 'you can't do it.' And Russia never would have had the nerve to do it. Instead we appeased, appeased, appeased.

"Our great peace-loving ally violates the Atlantic Charter and we stand by."

In reply to questions from Connally, however, Wheeler said he would not favor going to war with Russia. This evoked another bit of mimicry from Connally. He drew a word caricature of Wheeler saying to the Soviets:

"Don't do that—if you do that I ain't going to like it."

"Suppose Russia said they'd do it anyway?" Connally then said sharply. "What would you have done—fight, or not?"

Wheeler explained that all he wanted was that it be made clear to Russia that "you can't do that with our approval."

Quotes Atlantic Charter

Wheeler inquired whether the UNO was going to act to fulfill the principles of the Atlantic Charter and safeguard the rights of small nations, and Connally gave this answer:

"When it is organized, it ought to take the charter drawn up at San Francisco and live up to the obligations assumed by the delegates there. I assume when it is organized it will live up to the terms of the charter."

The bill under discussion would authorize the president to allocate U. S. forces for use by the UNO security council in keeping peace without further reference to congress, although congress in the first place would limit the size of these forces.

When Wheeler finished his speech, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) introduced two amendments, and these will be the business before the chamber tomorrow.

One would direct the U. S. representative on the security council to urge "immediate action looking to a limitation of armaments," and "the use of weapons such as the atomic bomb, rockets and poison gas."

The other would authorize the president to submit to the international court of justice "any dispute to which the United States is a party and which is justifiable in nature."

Labor-Management Group Seeks White House Help

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27. — (AP) Leaders of President Truman's labor-management conference have made an eleventh-hour appeal to the White House to prevent the conference from ending in a virtual stalemate, officials said tonight.

The officials, who can not be quoted by name, told a reporter that a group, including Secretary of Commerce Wallace, Conference Secretary George W. Taylor, and Fred Smith, conference press officer, had supported the move.

At the same time, these sources said, the group was not optimistic, did not believe the President would step in—and was uncertain whether his intervention at this late hour would produce results.

Smith, questioned about the report, was non-committal. However, on the general subject of the conference, he declared:

"This (conference) is a wonderful opportunity to prove that democracy does work. It would be a bad time for democracy to fail apart."

The conference was called in an effort to establish machinery for minimizing industrial strife.

Committees Deadlocked

The disclosure of the appeal to the White House followed Taylor's announcement to a news conference that four of the six conference subcommittees still were deadlocked, that a general session of the delegates had been ordered for Thursday afternoon, and final adjournment still was sought this week-end.

Differences among the delegates, which leaders were seeking desperately to reconcile, were so well-defined that only two subcommittees were expected to submit unanimous recommendations to the executive committee, the other four bringing in split reports.

Taylor told the newsmen he felt that it would be "very difficult for the conference itself to agree on anything on which there has been a split in the subcommittee."

The group headed by Wallace was said to have prepared and submitted to top White House advisers an outline of a message, which they suggested the President send to the conference committee on arrangements. The committee is composed of William Green, AFL president; Philip Murray, CIO head; Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers; and Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The message, officials said, requested that the conference make specific recommendations on arbitration machinery which would be binding, and on fact-finding machinery—points on which the delegates thus far have been completely unable to agree.

They added that it was prefaced by a restatement of the President's original contention that results of the conference would have a far-reaching effect on the nation's economic future.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, like Wallace a public member of the conference, did not favor White House intervention. Asked by reporters whether he would change his position, he replied such a move would be a "last resort".

G.M. DECLINES BID TO PARLEY SLATED TODAY

Officials Not To Attend Conference With U.S. Labor Conciliators

CIO official requests appointment with Sewell Avery in Ward trouble.....Page 9

Detroit, Nov. 27 (AP)—C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors Corporation, said today that he would not attend a meeting scheduled tomorrow in Washington at which Federal labor conciliators are to take a hand in the week-old wage dispute that has made 225,000 G.M. employés idle.

"There is some mistake in regard to the reported statement of Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach saying I had informed him I would be in Washington tomorrow and would take time out to talk to Mr. Warren (Chief Federal Labor Conciliator Edgar L. Warren)," Wilson declared.

"I have had no conversation with the Secretary and I informed Mr. Warren when I talked with him at 4 o'clock this afternoon that I . . . would be unable to attend the labor-management conference in Washington this week on account of the strike situation at G.M.," Wilson added.

None To Attend

A General Motors spokesman said no other G.M. officials would attend the Washington meeting tomorrow. Earlier today, Secretary Schwellenbach had announced that representatives of G.M. and the United Auto Workers (CIO) would confer separately with Warren.

Wilson, commenting on the Washington report, said, "I did not at any time give Mr. Warren any reason to think that I would see him in Washington on Wednesday or that I would definitely be in Washington this week or any other time."

In Washington, Mr. Warren said: "I certainly have no desire to engage in a dispute with Mr. Wilson concerning the meaning of our conversations. If Mr. Wilson is correct in stating that he never intimated he would come to my office to discuss the situation I certainly misunderstood him. I have talked to Mr. Wilson three times since the strike began.

Had Expected Him

"Up until this afternoon's conversation it was my belief that he would gladly talk with me in my office here. Secretary Schwellenbach and I were very anxious that I not attempt to force either party into conference. Therefore, I limited my efforts to informal conversations with Mr. Wilson and with representatives of the union."

Schwellenbach, in announcing the Government's intention of seeking a solution to the strike that hit G.M. last Wednesday, said the conference would be informal.

The preliminary meeting with the UAW delegation is scheduled for 3 P.M., but the Secretary said he would not necessarily participate in them.

Leaving For Capital

The UAW announced shortly after Wilson's statement was released that Walter Reuther, union vice president, would leave for Washington early tomorrow for the meeting.

Reuther, commenting on Wilson's announcement, asserted, "General Motors Corporation now is defying the Department of Labor." He repeated previous union charges that G.M. has refused arbitration, conciliation and public discussion of the strike issues.

A spokesman for the UAW-CIO, which has demanded a 30 per cent general wage increase within G.M.'s present price structure, said the invitation for tomorrow's meeting was extended by Warren in a telephone conversation with Reuther, UAW-CIO vice president.

Discussion Asked

"We have been asked to discuss the general situation and the facts in connection with the General Motors strike," he said.

Federal conciliators were present at the last two union-G.M. wage negotiation sessions here before the strike started.

In addition to Reuther, the union said it will be represented tomorrow by President R. J. Thomas, George Addes, Richard Frankensteen, Richard Leonard and Norman Matthews, and three members of its G.M. negotiating committee, Lou Adkins, Charles Oswald and Edward Crago.

A cold rain in parts of the Michigan automotive production area limited picket activity today.

Contentions Renewed

Renewed contentions that failure of General Motors to accept UAW negotiation proposals was "in flagrant violation" of the National Labor Relations Act were contained in a supplemental brief today in the union's complaint to the regional NLRB against the corporation.

H. W. Anderson, G.M. vice president in charge of personnel, said the union's new complaint "means in effect that every time an employer does not agree 100 per cent with the union, he will be accused of bad faith and failure to bargain collectively."

In its brief the UAW said the corporation's letter rejecting its negotiation proposal was "a statement that the corporation will not discuss the wage issue further unless and until the union stands ready to abandon its right to bargain."

With 225,000 persons already idle in the strike, General Motors said today resulting parts shortages had forced some curtailment of operations in McKinnon Industries, Ltd., G.M. subsidiary at St. Catherines, Ont., which employs 2,500 persons. Two other G.M. Canadian units, at Walkerville and Oshawa, were closed because of non-General Motors strikes at Windsor, Ont.

Nation-Wide Vote On Steel Strike Today

Pittsburgh, Nov. 27 (AP)—Steel-mill workers throughout the nation tomorrow will vote to decide whether a strike is favored to enforce demands for a $2-a-day wage increase.

The CIO-United Steel Workers of America estimated about 650,000 workers will be eligible to vote, but the union emphasized the balloting does not necessarily mean a strike will follow.

Tomorrow's poll will be the largest strike vote yet conducted by the National Labor Relations Board.

A total of 766 plants are affected, including the mills of "Big Steel," "Little Steel," and scores of small independent factories. Also affected are large producers of aluminum, iron ore and related products.

20,000 In State Eligible To Vote

Nearly 20,000 Maryland workers will be eligible to vote today in the nation-wide steel strike ballot. In most cases, polls at Maryland plants will be open throughout the day, closing from between 5 and 6 P.M.

NOV 28 1945

Plants in this State affected by tomorrow's voting and the approximate number of eligible voters include:

Bethlehem Steel Company, Sparrows Point, 15,000; Rustless Iron and Steel, 1,700; American Can Company, 600; Federal Tin Company, 500; National Can Company, 500; Acrods Corporation, 80; Maryland Nut and Bolt Company, 175; Rheem Manufacturing Company, 375, and Continental Can Company, 700.

With the exception of the Bethlehem and the Rheem company, both at Sparrows Point, all of the concerns are located in Baltimore.

The ballot at one other Maryland company, Eastern Stainless Steel Company, will be taken December 21.

UNION SEEKS TALK WITH WARD HEAD

CHICAGO, Nov. 27—(AP) A CIO union official today telegraphed Sewell Avery, Montgomery Ward and company board chairman, requesting an appointment to discuss matters involved in the company's labor walkout, and to name a mutually satisfactory arbitrator to attend the discussion.

Irving Abramson, national organizer for the united retail, wholesale and department store employes union suggested federal judge William L. Sullivan of Chicago for the post. Judge Sullivan several months ago denied legality of the government's seizure of Ward properties last December.

A Ward official said no reply to Abramson's wire would be available until morning.

Earlier, the union and the company disputed effectiveness of the stoppage, which now affects stores in 10 cities. The company promised to back its claims with a certified audit of employe attendance. Abramson asserted the walkout was 75 to 80 per cent effective in affected units.

The union said employes in Royal Oak and Dearborn, Mich., and in Anderson, Ind., walked off their jobs today. Earlier, the union said stores in Chicago, Denver, Kansas City, Detroit, Trenton, N. J., Albany, N. Y., and Barre, Vt., were affected by the walkout.

1-Day NMU Strike Is Recommended

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—Joseph Curran, president of the CIO National Maritime Union, said tonight he had recommended a 24-hour work stoppage on December 3 by NMU members to protest what he described as the failure "to allocate enough ships to speed demobilization."

In a radio broadcast prepared for delivery, Curran said other marine units would take "joint action with the National Maritime Union on this issue" and that the stoppage would affect all shipping except "certified troopships and legitimate relief ships."

Participating Unions

Curran listed among the participating unions the CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, the Cio Marine Cooks and Stewards Association, the unaffiliated Marine Firemen, Oilers and Watertenders, and the CIO Inland Boatmen's Union. The NMU president contended that agencies responsible for demobilization "have been, and still are, trying to escape the justified anger of the GI's and the public over the shipping SNAFU."

Washington was "blaming delays on a shortage of ships, on strikes, stoppages, lack of seamen, and any other handy excuse," Curran said, adding: "No strikes have delayed the return of troops."

U. S. Assures Canada on Food

Truman Says End of Rationing Will Not Affect Supplies for Europe.

Washington, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—President Truman today informed the Canadian Government that American shipments of food supplies to Europe "will not be affected" by the termination of meat rationing in the United States.

The White House disclosed that the President sent a note today to Canadian Ambassador L. B. Pearson in reply to a recent communications from Prime Minister Mackenzie King bearing on the rationing program in the United States.

The end of meat rationing last Saturday virtually closed out the once elaborate United States control program. Only sugar now remains on the list of rationed foods.

Charles G. Ross, press secretary, said, also the President's note asked Pearson to inform the Prime Minister "that our shipments of food supplies (to Europe) will not be affected by this rationing program."

In his note the President stated, Ross said; "We expect to ship all we can possibly spare and you can assure him that the American people will not sit idly by with surplus foodstuffs when other countries are starving."

Announcement of the President's communication was made after an earlier disclosure that Mr. Truman had received a letter from the Canadian Prime Minister dealing with the United States rationing program. The contents of this letter were not made public when Ross quoted excerpts from Mr. Truman's assurances to the Canadian Ambassador.

Receipt of the letter was disclosed when Ross was asked by a reporter whether the Canadian Prime Minister had protested that the action last week had been taken without advance notice to Canada.

Ross declined to discuss the letten before King knew that the termination of most United States food ration controls would be ordered. Sugar is now the only food remaining on the ration books.

The King communication, Ross said, went into the food supply situation with respect to our shipments abroad, and he added it was up to King to give it out, not to the White House.

However, he promised to make public the President's reply.

A few hours after the end of all meat rationing was announced here, the Canadian Prime Minister told the House of Commons in Ottawa that Canada planned to continue meat rationing, which was reimposed there this fall. He said that continuation was necessary to insure the volume of exports to distressed areas in Europe.

U.S. Backs Uruguay

NOV 28 1945

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—The United States today backed a Uruguayan proposal for collective intervention in the internal affairs of any American republic violating human rights or its international obligations.

The Secretary of State, James F. Byrnes, issued a statement expressing this nation's "unqualified adherence" and declaring that if the American republics are to preserve the peace they "cannot permit oppressive régimes to exist in their midst."

Held Aimed At Argentina

The Uruguayan Foreign Minister, Alberto Rodrigues Larretta, suggested the intervention policy as a hemispheric security measure, in a note sent to other American republics last week.

While the note made no mention of any nation, diplomats regarded it as being aimed at the military government in Argentina.

Byrnes said the Allies, at a "huge cost in lives, blood and treasure," had won a victory "which means that men everywhere may properly demand" respect for human rights and dignity as an essential condition to the maintenance of peace and security.

'Matter Of Common Concern'

"Violation of the elementary rights of man by a government of force and the non-fulfillment of obligations by such a government is a matter of common concern to all the republics," Byrnes said.

"As such, it justifies collective, multilateral action after full consultation among the republics, in accordance with established procedures.'"

In other words, under the Uruguayan proposal as indorsed by the United States, the American republics would talk the matter over among themselves and, if they decided that a nation was committing the offenses mentioned, they might take such collective action as they deemed fit.

Early Accord On Peruvian Bonds Is Seen

Pawley Expects Talks on Debt to U. S. Holders to End in 3 or 4 Days

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—American Ambassador William Pawley expects an early agreement on a settlement of Peru's indebtedness to United States bondholders, he said today.

Mr. Pawley said discussions, started yesterday, should end in about three or four days. He made his comment at the White House after what he termed a personal call on President Truman.

A Peruvian government committee, headed by the Finance Minister, is here for conferences with representatives of the bondholders committee to work out terms for a settlement of what Mr. Pawley said was the total indebtedness, including interest, of about $140,000,000 represented by several bond issues. The conferences are being held at the State Department.

Once a preliminary agreement is reached, Mr. Pawley said, the Peruvian representatives will return home to present the proposals, which have to go before the Peruvian Congress. He said the State Department was simply lending its good offices in connection with the conferences since the government here is not involved. The Peruvians, he said, expect to return about Dec. 5 or 6. Mr. Pawley, who came back to the United States several days ago for consultations, said he would return to Peru in about two weeks.

CHILE STEEL PLANT GETS AID FROM U. S.

Export-Import Bank Loan Is for Purchases Here to Equip Factory to Be Built

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Export-Import Bank announced today the signing of two loan agreements for $33,000,000 with the Fomento Corporation of Chile.

The first is for $28,000,000 to finance purchase of United States equipment, materials and services for an iron and steel plant near Concepcion, Chile, by a corporation to be known as the Compania de Acero del Pacifico. The second line of credit, $5,000,000, is an extension of an $8,000,000 loan in December, 1944.

The credit is guaranteed by the Republic of Chile. The $28,000,000 is to be available until Dec. 31, 1948. Advances are repayable in forty semiannual installments, the first of which will be due on June 15, 1949. They will bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent on the unpaid principal balance.

The Fomento Corporation has undertaken to raise from Chilean sources the funds needed for all expenditures in Chile in connection with the construction and operation of the plant and for any expenditure in the United States in excess of the $28,000,000 provided by the Export-Import Bank for the new metals plant. It is estimated that the Chilean investment in the project will be about $25,000,000. The plant will produce pig iron, heavy and light structurals, steel rail, galvanized sheets, wire, pipe and other iron and steel products.

Of the second line of credit, $2,000,000 will be used to finance the acquisition of such facilities as may be necessary to furnish electric power to the new iron and steel plant.

The $5,000,000 credit is payable within five years in approximately [illegible] semiannual installments, the [illegible] to become due six months [illegible] the date of the advance, at 4 per cent.

PASSENGER TIRE OUTPUT CLIMBING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—(AP) The government's expressed hope that tire rationing can end early next year was bolstered today by an official report that tire output is up sharply.

The OPA announced that production has increased considerably during the past few weeks, and "barring work stoppages, is expected to attain the scheduled production goal of 11,000,000 (passenger) tires in this quarter."

Production in the July-September quarter was about 7,000,000 passenger tires.

John D. Small, head of the Civilian Production Administration, said at a news conference a few days ago that CPA hoped to end tire rationing "shortly after the first of the year or thereabouts."

Small said the big job remaining was to build up dealer inventories.

Meanwhile the number of tires available to the public may be augmented somewhat as a result of work stoppages in the automobile industry.

Here's the reason: CPA limits auto manufacturers to a 15-day inventory of new tires. Strikes or shutdowns in the industry have the effect of freezing manufacturers' inventories.

Thus tires which ordinarily would go to car manufacturing are diverted to tire dealers.

It was learned also that termination of truck tire rationing had been scheduled for Dec. 1, but that this plan has been revised in favor of ending all tire rationing at the same time.

VINSON FORECASTS BALANCED BUDGET

Indianapolis, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—Secretary of the Treasury Vinson said here today the national budget may be nearly balanced in 1947. He also said in a press conference preceding a speech at a joint meeting of the Indiana Victory Loan Committee and the State Chamber of Commerce that the country is faced with "every element of inflation."

"I have no doubt that if there are no unprecedented conditions," he said, "we will be pretty close to a balanced budget in the fiscal year of 1947."

If national income is high, the debt will be decreased, he said, but if income is low the debt will be increased as a result of payments to the unemployed.

Vinson said the national debt is about $265,000,000,000 now and will be increased by about ten billions by next June.

Captain Faces Court-Martial Over Sinking Of Indianapolis

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—Capt. Charles B. McVay 3d, commanding officer of the heavy cruiser Indianapolis lost in the Philippines Sea, will face a general court-martial here beginning Monday. The Indianapolis went down with heavy casualties in the closing days of the war.

The Navy said the court-martial was concerned only with Captain McVay's responsibilities in the loss of his ship, but withheld any details of charges and specifications involved. Navy regulations, officials explained, forbid making them public before they are formally read to the accused officer.

Hearing To Be Public

The court-martial will be convened at the Washington Navy Yard Monday, and will be public.

The Indianapolis, flagship of the 5th Fleet, sailed from San Francisco July 16, 1945, on a special high-speed run to Guam to carry atomic-bomb material. She delivered her cargo and was lost July 30 after leaving Guam.

The Navy announced her loss August 14, only a few minutes before President Truman's announcement of the Japanese acceptance of surrender terms. The loss was attributed to "enemy action."

The ship suffered 100 per cent casualties among her personnel of 1,196, including 5 dead, 875 missing and 316 wounded. Some survivors were in the water for several days before being rescued. Captain McVay, son of Admiral Charles B. McVay, Jr., lives in Washington. He assumed command of the Indianapolis November 18, 1944.

He was appointed to the Naval Academy by President Wilson in 1916, and attained rank of captain June 18, 1942. He was executive officer of the cruiser Cleveland from June 15, 1942, to April 2, 1943. During that service he won the Silver Star for action during the bombardment of Kolombangara.

The senior officer of the court-martial will be Rear Admiral Wilder D. Baker, until recently chief of staff of the 2d Carrier Task Force.

The court will be composed of the following:

Rear Admiral Wilder D. Baker, Commodores Paul S. Theiss and William S. Popham, and Capts. Homer L. Gorsskopf, Heman J. Redfield, John R. Sullivan and Charles B. Hunt. Capt. Thomas J. Ryan Jr. will serve as judge advocate.

Capt. McVay is the son of Admiral Charles B. McVay Jr., retired. He was born in Ephrata, Pa., August 31, 1898, and now makes his home in Washington, D. C. He assumed command of the Indianapolis, November 18, 1944.

CANNON URGES SPENDING CURB

Speaks In House On Deficiency Supply Bill

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—Opposing a drive to restore millions in eliminated funds to a deficiency supply bill, Representative Cannon, (D., Mo.) today declared the Government has been "running on I.O.U's for fifteen years."

"There are men in this House who want to appropriate money we haven't even borrowed yet," the chairman of the Appropriations Committee told the House. "We've been running the Government on a deficit, and we are still trying to borrow more money."

Warns Of Disaster

Cannon said "disaster will overtake any nation that fails to pay it's way," and told his colleagues "we can't continue to spend money at the rate we did before the war."

Interest on the national debt now exceeds the normal national budget prior to 1932, he pointed out.

Cannon's remarks were made as debate opened on a $1,131,452,312 deficiency appropriation bill financing miscellaneous Government agencies up to next June 30.

Showdown Expected Today

The chairman was expected to head a drive to block attempts to reinstate $128,000,000 in flood-control and river and harbor funds stricken out by the Appropriations Committee.

A showdown was not expected before late tomorrow, today's session being set aside for general discussion.

Representative Taber, of New York, top-ranking Republican on the Appropriations Committee, joined Cannon in resisting any additions to the bill. The New Yorker referred to proposed amendments for river and harbor and flood-control projects as "pork barrel."

Taber told the House the nation "must begin to wake up" and "start doing without things we don't need."

6,480,000 FAMILIES ARE DOUBLING-UP

Washington, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—John B. Blandford Jr., National Housing Administrator, told Senators today that 6,480,000 families are forced to double up because of the critical lack of all types of housing in the United States.

As a solution to this situation, the NHA chief urged the Senate Banking and Currency Committee to give prompt approval to an omnibus "general housing bill of 1945," sponsored by Senators Wagner (D.-N. Y.)., Ellender (D.-La.) and Taft (R.Ohio).

Blandford said that some 12,600,000 units of new construction are "needed in the next ten years" split into the following groups:

3,600,000 units or about 28 per cent, at monthly charges of less than $20.

4,800,000 or 34 per cent at between $20 and $40.

4,200,000 or 34 per cent at above $40 monthly.

The pending legislation, Blandford said, would set up a combination of Federal, State, local, public and private housing and construction expected to meet all these needs.

GEN. MACNIDER'S SON DISCHARGED

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Nov. 27—(AP) Pvt. Jack MacNider, 18, son of Brig. Gen. Manford MacNider, was discharged from the Marine corps with 38 points today by a special order at the request of his father and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Young MacNider, a veteran of two years service on Iwo Jima and in other Pacific battles, was 12 points short of the 50 required for discharge in the normal manner.

General MacNider, former national commander of the American Legion and a campaigner in both World Wars, said at Mason City, Ia., that Jack had enlisted on his 17th birthday and "I asked permission to bring him back (from Japan) with me so he might continue his pre-medic studies."

In Washington, the Marine corps said young MacNider was "returned to the United States and discharged from the Marine corps in accordance with the radio request of Gen. MacArthur, Supreme commander in the Far East."

General MacNider said his son expects to enroll at Iowa State college, Ames, and eventually hopes to attend Johns Hopkins Medical school in Baltimore. He said he was "anxious to get him started as soon as possible because it takes eight or nine years to go through a complete medical course."

He added he had addressed his request for his son's discharge to the Marine corps headquarters, Washington.

The general has two other sons who enlisted in the armed forces on their 17th birthdays and who have since been discharged. Tom, 19, left the service as an Air Corps cadet when given the option and Angus, 17, received a medical discharge from the Navy.

CURLEY'S FRAUD TRIAL OPENS

Long-delayed Action Begins in Federal Court.

Washington, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—Representative James M. Curley (D.-Mass.), Boston's Mayor-elect, and four other persons indicted on mail fraud charges went on trial today after almost two years of postponements.

As the trial got under way in Federal District Court before Judge James M. Proctor, the case of David E. Desmond of Boston, a sixth defendant, was severed by the court.

Curley, 71-year-old ex-Governor of Massachusetts and former Mayor of Boston, was present, as were the four other defendants.

A motion for continuance of the trial was filed by James G. Laughlin, attorney for James G. Fuller, one defendant. In an affidavit in support of the motion, the attorney said that Desmond is now in jail and that he is a "vital, essential and necessary witness." Judge Proctor announced, however, after a twenty-minute conference with defense attorneys that the Desmond case had been severed and the trial proceeded.

Witnesses Announced.

William A. Paisley, special assistant to the Attorney-General and prosecutor in the case, outlined the charges in the indictment returned by a Federal Grand Jury on January 3, 1944, for the jury panel of about thirty men and women. He then read the names of about eighty prospective government witnesses.

William E. Leahy, attorney for Curley, said he had approximately ten prospective defense witnesses, including Senator Green (D.-R. I.), Green's secretary, Edward Higgins, and former Senator Prentiss Brown of Michigan. Laughlin said he would have eight possible defense witnesses, including former Attorney-General Francis Biddle, now in Germany, and Thurman Arnold, formerly on the Court of Appeals bench.

Among spectators in the crowded court room was House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts.

Help Of Bankers Asked By Snyder

Chicago, Nov. 27 (AP)—Reconversion Director John W. Snyder said tonight the 'bankers of this country can do more than any other group of private citizens to assist the Government in getting out of business."

In a prepared address to the Investment Bankers of America, Snyder asserted "the policy of lifting wartime controls as rapidly as is prudent is guided by the belief that such a system is the one desired by the American people, and the one that they are determined to have."

A St. Louis banker himself, Snyder suggested that "investment banking may prove to be one of the major checks to inflation."

Purchase Of Securities

"If the tremendous savings in the hands of the people can be largely applied to the purchase of new securities," he added, "they will cease to present a threat to inflation. Investment bankers can siphon off a substantial part of the tremendous purchasing power in this country by offering sound securities of moderate yield to the public."

Unless a "repetition of 1929 and 1930" is prevented, Snyder said, "I fear that investment banking as we now know it, would cease to exist."

On the other hand, he asserted, the "opportunity that lies before the investment bankers today is the greatest in the history of our nation."

New Money Needed

"It is entirely possible that our corporate business structure will require as much new money in one postwar year as war put into capital assets in approximately five years before the war. . . . These vast sums will be needed for new plants, better machinery, new safety devices and many other 'musts' for modern business.'

"The need of industry for new corporate financing is accompanied by a need on the part of the public for sound investment opportunities. Liquid assets in the hands of individuals have more than tripled since the beginning of the war years, and now stand at nearly $150,000,000,000."

Snyder added that it "will be a primary obligation" of investment bankers to provide "new-venture capital."

KNUDSEN INDORSES ONE-YEAR DRAFT

Washington, Nav. 27 (A. P.).—William S. Knudsen, General Motors executive who directed the Army's production program, advocated one year of universal military training today as a boon to democracy and the nation's young manhood.

He had no views on the military value of peacetime conscription, he told the House Military Committee, because "I'm not a military man." He said, however, he believed young men should be given the technical and mechanical training needed in modern warfare.

One year of military life as proposed by President Truman, he said, would teach youths the fundamentals of handling themselves if they go into war.

Lacking that knowledge, he added, "God help them if war comes again."

HOUSE BODY STICKS TO OWN JOB BILL

Washington, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—The House Expenditures Committee today rejected a proposal to resume consideration of the administration's full employment bill.

Instead, the committee voted 17 to 3 to continue study of a substitute version, setting as a Federal goal a high level of employment. The substitute was drafted by an expenditures subcommittee.

Representative Manasco (D. Ala.), chairman, said the committee would meet again tomorrow, but that he doubted whether an agreement would be reached on the legislation until late this week.

The original administration

NOV 28 1945

measure, by Representative Patman (D.-Texas) would have enunciated a Government policy of supplementing free enterprise, if necessary, to assure jobs for all able-bodied Americans who wanted them. The substitute version says that the Federal policy shall be to create maximum opportunities for employment and to maintain a high level of employment, production and purchasing power.

President Truman has criticized the expenditures group for what he termed damaging delay in handling of the legislation. He has requested its passage several times.

Shoe Factories Get Price Boost

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—Manufacturers' ceiling prices for shoes will be increased 4½ per cent to cover rising production costs, the Office of Price Administration announced today.

The order to effect this probably will be issued in December, the OPA statement informed the shoe manufacturers' industry advisory committee at a meeting here.

OPA said there probably would be no change in prices consumers will pay. However, no final decision on this will be announced until a study of distributors' costs and earnings is completed.

OPA said indications are that wholesalers and retailers can absorb the entire amount of the general increase in manufacturers' prices. The industry committee protested this idea.

In addition, the committee passed a resolution stating that it felt the increase in manufacturer's ceilings "is insufficient," but that the industry would accept it and ask issuance of the order "with all due haste."

OPA said that its action in raising ceiling prices at the manufacturers' level also will include additional price adjustments to encourage production of lower-price shoes.

Halsey Gives Trophies To Annapolis Museum

Japanese Flag and Silver Saddle Are Presented

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 27 (AP)—Admiral William F. Halsey returned to his alma mater, the United States Naval Academy, today to present to it four trophies of war and made clear that he still feels as he did about the Japanese.

In presenting the flag of the battleship Nagato, Admiral Halsey said "again if anybody wants to spit on it, he is perfectly welcome."

He added, "I'm under orders not to call them in public what they are. I still think in private what they are, and they are."

Among the other trophies presented by Admiral Halsey were a flag of the carrier Enterprise, the sword of Vice-Admiral Totuska, former commander of the Tokyo Naval District, a flag of the Yokosuka navy yard, a silver saddle given him by the Reno Chamber of Commerce, with a bridle from the Junior Chamber of Commerce and a saddle from Montrose, Col.

After his visit to the museum, which flew his personal four-star flag and a national flag and Union Jack from the battleship Missouri, Admiral Halsey addressed a noonday formation of midshipmen at Bancroft Hall.

1,500 TO LEAVE WLB

Their Jobs End Jan. 1—Rest of Staff Assigned to WSD Work

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—About 1,500 members of the War Labor Board staff will be notified Saturday that their wartime jobs will end on Jan. 1. The rest of the staff will remain with the Wage Stabilization Division, whose chief job, until the Stabilization Act expires on June 30, will be to head off wage cuts.

This task arises from a provision in the act requiring Government approval for any cut in basic pay below the level paid for the same job between January and September, 1942.

At one time WLB employed 2,500 persons in Washington and in its twelve regional areas. Since President Truman first announced that the board would be dissolved as promptly as possible, the staff has been job hunting—when it could find time from the task of liquidating the agency.

The Stabilization Division, which will carry on as a unit of the Labor Department, will be a streamlined version of the War Labor Board, with a six-man board instead of twelve.

MAYOR IS HOPEFUL OF COPS' DISCHARGE

Washington, Nov. 27 (A. P.).—Mayor LaGuardia of New York said today he thought there was a good chance of getting the Army and Navy to release most of the 780 service men who were formerly members of the New York police force.

Emerging from a White House talk with President Truman, the Mayor told reporters with a smile that they talked about the weather.

However, he said he had seen the Secretaries of War and Navy yesterday about releasing New York policemen still in the armed forces. He said that he had made specific applications in each of the 780 cases for release on the ground that they are needed for enforcement work in New York. LaGuardia said he would testify before the Senate Banking Committee tomorrow on housing.

NAVY IS 25% DEMOBILIZED

Releases of Men Pass 750,000—Allied Services Let Out 277,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Navy reported today that its demobilization task was more than one-fourth done.

Including Saturday, slightly more than three months since the program got under way, releases passed the 750,000 mark. By comparison, Navy spokesmen noted that after the first World War, it required ten months to demobilize 390,000 naval personnel.

The Marine Corps, with a peak strength of about 485,000 at the end of August, had released 107,000 through Nov. 16, and the Coast Guard, with a peak strength of 170,000, had released 57,000 through Nov. 21.

Six Delegates Named To ILO Mining Parley

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—Names of six United States delegates to a London meeting of the coal-mining committee of the International Labor Office were announced today by Lewis B. Schwellenbach, Secretary of Labor.

The delegates, selected by President Truman, are:

Witt Bowden, of the Labor Department, and George A. Lamb, of the Interior Department, representing the Government; Robert T. Koenig, Indianapolis, for bituminous operators, and H. J. Connolly, Scranton, Pa., representing the anthracite producers; Thomas Kennedy and John T. Jones, of the United Mine Workers, representing miners.

The committee is one of a number created by the ILO to handle, on an international basis, labor and social problems in industries common to many countries.

3-Man Group Named To Study Oil Dispute

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach today created a three-man fact-finding commission to investigate the oil industry wage dispute.

The panel; first of its kind established to cope with postwar strikes, is composed of Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina and public member of the War Labor Board, as chairman; Paul Deliel, professor at Stanford University, and Otto Beyer, of Washington, a Government labor adviser.

The oil dispute arose over the CIO-oil workers' demand for a 30 per cent wage increase.

After a futile attempt by Schwellenbach to settle the controversy, the Navy seized 53 refineries and pipelines on orders of President Truman October 4. The Navy still is operating most of these facilities.

Saratoga Earmarked For Experimental Use

NOV 28 1945

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Navy said today the aircraft carrier Saratoga, oldest flattop of the fleet, was among the surplus ships of the Navy which have been tentatively earmarked for experimental purposes.

Officials emphasized that this did not mean the famous carrier was marked for use in any projected atomic-bomb tests. Neither the Saratoga nor any other ship has been selected for that purpose, they said.

There are many invaluable services, a navy spokesman explained, which can be rendered in experimental work by ships outmoded for combat duty.

The Saratoga is now engaged in transport duty bringing home veterans from the Pacific theater.

AUTHOR'S WEDDING TO MAJOR BALKED

New York Refuses License To Parted In Hongkong

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—Emily Hahn, author, and Major Charles Boxer, whose romance blossomed in wartorn Hongkong, were denied permission to marry in New York State today. They said they'd try again in Connecticut.

The couple's application for a marriage license was turned down under a provision of New York's domestic relations law which says that divorce on grounds of adultery bars remarriage unless the final decree is three years old.

British Divorce Reported

Boxer, 41-year-old British officer, said on the application that a "divorce against myself" for adultery was made absolute in London last July, ending his marriage to Ursula Tulloh Boxer.

Boxer, named by Miss Hahn as the father of her 4-year-old daughter Carola, arrived in New York Thanksgiving Day, two years after he last saw the author and the child in a Hong Kong prison camp. Miss Hahn and Carola left Hong Kong in September, 1943, on the exchange liner Gripsholm.

NLRB In Move To Speed Election

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board today streamlined procedure to speed election of bargaining agents in plants converting to peacetime production.

The board, after conferences with representatives of labor and management organizations, altered its regulations to permit its eighteen regional directors to order elections in simple cases without first getting an order from the national board, a prepared statement explained. This will save time, it was noted.

Chairman Paul M. Herzog, former naval officer and one-time chairman of the New York State Labor Relations Board, said the NLRB had before it now 2,100 bargaining election cases.

USS NORTH CAROLINA DOCKS IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP) The USS North Carolina, commissioned in 1941 in Brooklyn Navy yard, dropped anchor in her home port today after steaming 300,000 miles in war zones.

The 35,000 ton battleship wore the purple heart with one star for damage received in battle, and the Pacific and Philippines theater ribbons.

The ship arrived from Boston, where it took part in Navy day ceremonies under command of its captain, B. Hall Hanlon, USN, of San Francisco.

The only "plank owner"—Navy man in service with the ship since her commissioning—aboard was Cmdr. David A. Mooney, 33, of Dedham, Mass., engineer officer.

The commander told of the ship being torpedoed Sept. 15, 1942, when several men were killed or injured. The ship made her way to Tongatabu island in the Friendly group, and then to Pearl Harbor, for repair.

Commander Thomas H. Morton, 33, of Annapolis, Md., gunnery officer, said the Carolina was hit by a five inch shell, "presumably from another American craft," during fighting off Okinawa.

Commander Douglas T. Hammond, USN, of Stephens, Okla., said the battleship would remain in New York until after Christmas.

11,360 AND DOG ON QUEEN MARY

Frances Perkins Also On Liner At New York

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—The superliner Queen Mary arrived in New York harbor today, carrying 11,360 cheering troops and one happily barking dog, Thunderbolt, who will be reunited with his master after two years.

Thunderbolt, one of the liner's most famous passengers, became a legend among 8th Air Force men because of his devotion to his master, Lieut. Robert A. Payne, of Holyoke, Mass., a bomber pilot.

He would always rush out on the field and watch Payne's bomber, Gremlin's Buggy, take off, and he was always waiting to greet the plane on its return.

Shot Down Over Germany

Then, November 29, 1943, Payne's ship was shot down over Germany. Payne was taken prisoner. Thunderbolt waited on the field until night and then ran to Lieutenant Payne's bunk where he lay for days, refusing all food and attempts at sympathy.

He finally broke his vigil, but whenever h eheard the roar of a returning Flying Fortress he ran onto the field.

When Lieutenant Payne was liberated and returned home he persuaded the Red Cross to have Thunderbolt, 82-pound black and brown mongrel, brought to America. Dr. James M. Fagan, former Ameican Red Cross field director at Nottingham, England, cared for the dog on the trip.

Francis Perkins Aboard

Payne, now on duty at Seabring, Fla., was not at hand when the Queen Mary docked, but his wife, Mrs. Rosamond B. Payne, was there.

She said the dog would be sent on the last lap of his journey to his master by express.

Dr. Eagan, one of 151 civilian passengers including former Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, said he had established a school for British wives at Nottingham. Some 350 brides learned American customs in the sections of the United States where their husbands lived, and were taught American history and the English language as Americanized, he said.

Mrs. Perkins, who headed the American delegation to the International Labor Office Conference in Paris, sai dher official report to Washington would mark the end of her governmental duties.

Monticello Docks

"Then I'm going to see how much mail I have," she said, adding: "I have lots of plans, going to Maine being among them."

The Queen Mary was one of eleven transports arriving here today. The transport Marine Wolf arrived before the giant British liner with 2,503 officers and men.

Another arrival was the Monticello, 23,861-ton transport carrying 6,985 veterans of the European theater of operations. The ship debarked its troops for Camp Shanks, at Piermont, 20 miles up the Hudson River.

Also arriving at New York were the Pierre Soule, with 580 troops; Waterbury Victory, 1,969; George Dern, 629; Lacrosse Victory, 1,969; Cape Plumas, 37.

LONDON, NOV. 27-(AP)-SOME DIPLOMATIC QUARTERS HERE INDICATED BELIEF TODAY THAT FORMER FOREIGN SECRETARY ANTHONY EDEN'S SUGGESTION THAT THE VETO POWERS VESTED IN THE FIVE MAJOR NATIONS ON THE UNITED NATIONS SECURITY COUNCIL BE SCRAPPED MIGHT REVIVE THE ENTIRE QUESTION DURING THE FIRST SESSION OF THE UNITED NATIONS GENERAL ASSEMBLY IN JANUARY.

THE DELEGATES, WHO ARE WORKING TO ESTABLISH IMPORTANT COMMITTEES, INCLUDING THE SECURITY COUNCIL, TRUSTEESHIP COUNCIL AND SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC COUNCIL, FOUND THEIR TECHNICALLY ROUTINE WORK OVERSHADOWED BY RECENT EVENTS -- PARTICULARLY THE SHARP COMMENT OF U.S. SENATOR TOM CONNOLLY IN WASHINGTON ON EDEN'S SUGGESTION.

EDEN MADE HIS SUGGESTION IN COMMONS LAST WEEK. IT WAS THE FIRST INDICATION THAT ANY OF THOSE WHO HAS REPRESENTED THE BIG POWERS AT SAN FRANCISCO HAD REVISED THEIR VIEWS ON THE VETO CLAUSE, ONE OF THE HARDEST FOUGHT ISSUES OF THE CONFERENCE.

WARSAW, NOV. 25-(DELAYED)-(AP)-POLISH NEWSPAPERS ANNOUNCED TODAY THAT A DELEGATION WOULD COME TO WARSAW FROM DETROIT "TO LEARN THE REAL TRUTH ABOUT POLAND" WITH A VIEW TO AN "INFORMATION CAMPAIGN" IN THE UNITED STATES LATER.

IT WAS ALSO LEARNED HERE THAT LEO KRZYCKI OF MILWAUKEE, PRESIDENT OF THE AMERICAN SLAV CONGRESS, PLANS TO GO TO RUSSIA THIS WEEK TO CONFER WITH THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT AND LABOR LEADERS.

A MOSCOW ORGANIZATION WHICH PARALLELS THE AMERICAN SLAV CONGRESS SENT KRZYCKI AN INVITATION TO VISIT THE SOVIET CAPITAL. SOFIA, NOV. 27---(AP)---THE AGRARIAN NEWSPAPER NARODNO ZEMEDELSKO PUBLISHED TODAY A STATEMENT BY THREE OPPOSITION LEADERS CHARGING THAT PREMIER KIMON GEORGIEV'S FATHERLAND FRONT GOVERNMENT WON THE BULGARIAN ELECTION LAST WEEK BY TRICKERY AND INTIMIDATION.

NOV 28 1945

"THE BATTLE MUST CONTINUE," SAID THE STATEMENT, SIGNED BY NIKOLA PETKOV, KOSTA LULCHEV AND PETKO STOYANOV.

THE FATHERLAND FRONT CANDIDATES CLAIMED 81 PERCENT OF THE VOTES. THE STATEMENT SAID THE ATMOSPHERE BEFORE THE ELECTION DESTROYED FREEDOM AND THAT THE RESULTS WERE INCORRECTLY ANNOUNCED.

ALSO

THE STATEMENT WAS SCHEDULED TO BE PRINTED IN THE NEWSPAPER SVOBODEN NAROD, BUT THE PRINTERS REFUSED TO PUBLISH THAT PAPER BECAUSE OF IT.

ADD THE GOVERNMENT STILL WAS BLOCKED IN EFFORTS TO SEND TROOPS TO THE TROUBLE ZONE, OCCUPIED BY RUSSIAN FORCES UNDER THE 1942 BRITISH-RUSSIAN-IRANIAN TREATY. IRANIAN REINFORCEMENTS DISPATCHED NORTHWARD LAST WEEK WERE HALTED AT KAZVIN, 90 MILES SOUTHEAST OF ZENJAN, BY A SOVIET COMMANDER. TEHERAN (NL) XXX of the nation

THERE WAS NO OFFICIAL CONFIRMATION THAT THE INSURGENTS HAD OCCUPIED ZENJAN, BUT THE GOVERNMENT PREVIOUSLY HAD SAID THAT SEPARATISTS WERE OPERATING IN KHAMSEH PROMINCE, ARMED WITH WEAPONS DISTRIBUTED BY "UNKNOWN PEOPLE."

THE INSURGENTS, AFTER A MEETING IN TABRIZ, CAPITAL OF AZERBAIJAN, LATE LAST WEEK, ISSUED A DECLARATION THAT THEY WANTED AUTONOMY WITHIN THE IRANIAN STATE, AND WERE WILLING TO FIGHT FOR IT, BUT DENIED THAT THEY WERE DEMANDING COMPLETE SEPARATION FROM IRAN.

THERE WAS NO COMMENT HERE ON NOTES TO MOSCOW FROM THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN.

(THE UNITED STATES ASKED FOR THE WITHDRAWAL OF ALL ALLIED TROOPS FROM IRAN BY JAN.1, WHILE BRITAIN URGED THAT RUSSIA NOT INTERFERE WITH IRANIAN TROOP MOVEMENTS.)

THE IRANIAN GOVERNMENT ALSO HAS SENT NOTES TO THE SOVIET UNION, PROTESTING THE HALTING OF GOVERNMENT TROOPS AT KAZVIN AND CHARGING THAT RUSSIAN OFFICERS IN CIVILIAN CLOTHES HAD ENGAGED IN "CERTAIN ACTIVITIES" IN TEHRAN.

A185

(IN MOSCOW, INFORMED QUARTERS SAID THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT WAS PREPARING AN ANSWER TO THE AMERICAN AND BRITISH NOTES. THE RUSSIAN POSITION, IT WAS SAID, ALREADY HAS BEEN OUTLINED TO THE IRANIAN GOVERNMENT AND ASSURANCES WERE GIVEN THAT RUSSIA WOULD CONTINUE TO RESPECT THE SOVEREIGN RIGHTS OF IRAN.

(THE IRANIAN SITUATION OCCUPIED THE MOST CONSPICUOUS POSITION ON THE FOREIGN PAGE OF IZVESTIA, THE MAIN ITEM BEING THE DECLARATION OF THE INSURGENTS IN TABRIZ, DEMANDING AUTONOMY WITHIN THE IRANIAN STATE. MOSCOW NEWSPAPERS HAVE NOT MENTIONED THE AMERICAN OR BRITISH NOTES.)

MEANWHILE, IN THE IRANIAN PARLIAMENT, DEPUTY FARHUDI CHARGED THAT "SOVIET AUTHORITIES ARE ACTING CONTRARY TO ARTICLE FOUR OF THE TRI-PARTITE TREATY, AS WELL AS TO CLAUSES OF THE TEHRAN DECLARATION" AND DECLARED: "FOLLOWING THE PREVENTION OF IRANIAN TROOP MOVEMENTS, INSECURITY REIGNS IN THE NORTH AND THE REBELS HAVE FULL LIBERTY OF ACTION."

FARHUDI CHARGED THAT 200 IRANIAN GENDARMES, WHO HAD BEEN ORDERED TO MAZANDARAN TO RESTORE ORDER, HAD BEEN STOPPED FOR THREE MONTHS AT THE VILLAGE OF FIRUZKUH, AND THAT SIX MONTHS EARLIER AN INFANTRY BATTALION WAS HINDERED WHEN IT WAS ORDERED TO PROCEED FROM SAGHEZ TO MAHABAD TO ESTABLISH A GARRISON.

HDTHE BRITISH NOTE..HANDED IN BY AMBASSADOR SIR ARCHIBALD CLARK KERR YESTERDAY FOLLOWED ONE FROM THE UNITED STATES THROUGH AMBASSADOR W.AVERELL HARRIMAN SUNDAY. Moscow (Gilmore-IRAN-DAY) xxx or Ame

THE RUSSIAN POSITION, HOWEVER, ALREADY HAS BEEN OFFICIALLY OUTLINED IN CONVERSATIONS BETWEEN THE IRANIAN REPRESENTATIVE IN THE SOVIET UNION AND FOREIGN COMMISSAR V.M.MOLOTOV, WHO ASSURED THE PERSIAN ENVOY THAT RUSSIA DOES AND WILL CONTINUE TO RESPECT THE SOVEREIGN RIGHTS OF IRAN IN AZERBAIJAN WHERE RED ARMY TROOPS ARE IN OCCUPATION.

SUGGESTIONS FROM ABROAD ARE THAT THE ALLIES SHOULD WITHDRAW FROM IRAN BY THE FIRST OF THE NEW YEAR. IT IS RECALLED HERE THAT THE AGREEMENT CALLS FOR WITHDRAWAL BY MARCH 2, 1946.

AS LONG AS THERE IS TROUBLE IN AZERBAIJAN--ESPECIALLY IF THERE IS, AS REPORTED, PERSECUTION OF AZERBAIJANS WHO ARE BLOOD BROTHERS OF THE SOVIET AZERBAIJANS--THERE MAY BE SOME QUESTION AS TO WHETHER THE RED ARMY WILL RETIRE, FOR THE TROUBLED AREA BORDERS THE SOVIET UNION. AT LEAST, THIS IS THE OPINION OF INFORMED OBSERVERS.

AZERBAIJAN TODAY OCCUPIED THE MOST CONSPICUOUS POSITION ON THE FOREIGN PAGE OF IZVESTIA, THE MAIN ITEM BEING THE DECLARATION OF AN "ALL PEOPLES" MEETING IN TABRIZ, DEMANDING AUTONOMY WITHIN THE PERSIAN STATE. NEITHER THE AMERICAN NOR BRITISH NOTES, NOR ANY MENTION OF THEM, HAS BEEN PUBLISHED.

MELBOURN, NOV 27-(AP)-AN AUSTRALIAN ARMY CAPTAIN, FIRST WITNESS TO TESTIFY AT A PUBLIC HEARING INTO THE ESCAPE OF LT.GEN.H.GORDON BENNETT FROM SINGAPORE WHEN THE JAPANESE OVERRAN THAT CITY IN 1942, SAID TODAY NO SUGGESTION WAS EVER MADE THAT BENNETT SHOULD ESCAPE "BEFORE THE SHOW WAS OVER."

CAPT.ADRIAN CURLEWIS, ONE OF BENNETT'S STAFF OFFICERS, SAID PLANS FOR THE ESCAPE OF BENNETT, COMMANDER OF THE AUSTRALIAN EIGHTH DIVISION, WERE CONTINGENT ON SURRENDER OR ARMISTICE, AND THAT BENNETT'S QUALITIES OF COURAGE WERE A "TRADITION AMONG THE TROOPS."

LT.COL.CHARLES J.A.MOSES, WHO ESCAPED BY SEA WITH BENNETT, DENIED CHARGES MADE YESTERDAY BY AN ASSISTANT COMMISSIONER OF JUSTICE, WILFRED BOVEY, THAT BENNETT'S PLANS WERE KEPT SECRET FROM GENERAL

STAFF OFFICERS.

MOSES SAID THAT COL.J.H.THYER, SENIOR STAFF OFFICER, "KNEW PERFECTLY WELL OF THE ESCAPE PLANS."

DOVEY SAID YESTERDAY THAT, "OF ALL THE UNIT COMMANDERS IN MALAYA, LT.GEN.BENNETT WAS THE ONLY ONE WHO DID NOT REMAIN WITH HIS MEN UNTIL THEY WERE TAKEN AWAY FROM THEM BY THE JAPS IN AUGUST, 1942."

MOSES SAID IT WOULD HAVE BEEN "A DAMNED SIGHT EASIER" TO REMAIN IN SINGAPORE THAN TO ESCAPE. AN OFFICER IN BENNETT'S HEADQUARTERS, HE SAID HE REGARDED IT AS A NATIONAL DUTY TO GET THE GENERAL BACK TO AUSTRALIA.

MOSES SAID HE HAD MADE UP HIS OWN MIND NEVER TO BE CAPTURED BY THE JAPANESE AND REGARDED THE ORDER TO CEASE FIRE AS HAVING BEEN GIVEN BY THE JAPANESE AND NOT BY THE BRITISH COMMAND.

SAN FRANCISCO, NOV.27-(AP)-NBC CORRESPONDENT GUTHRIE JANSSEN REPORTED FROM MANILA TONIGHT LT.GEN.TOMOYUKI YAMASHITA HAD TAKEN THE STAND IN HIS OWN DEFENSE.

JANSSEN SAID YAMASHITA, BEING TRIED AS A WAR CRIMINAL, WAS EXPECTED TO CONTINUE THE LINE OF DEFENSE HIS ATTORNEYS HAVE FOLLOWED THE PAST FEW DAYS--THAT YAMASHITA ACTUALLY WAS A MEMBER OF A "PACIFIST GROUP" AND OPPOSED TO THE WAR.

A TOKYO ATTORNEY FLOWN TO MANILA AS A WITNESS EARLIER TESTIFIED THE FORMER "TIGER OF MALAYA"OPPOSED WAR WITH THE UNITED STATES.

MANILA--FIRST ADD YAMASHITA XXX OF TESTIMONY.

ANOTHER CHARACTER WITNESS, COL.NOBUTAKE TAKAYAMA, WHO SAID HE WAS IN YAMASHITA'S ENTOURAGE ON A TRIP TO BERLIN IN 1941, PRESENTED ANOTHER VERSION OF WHY THE DEFENDANT SPLIT WITH TOJO.

TAKAYAMA SAID THAT YAMASHITA RETURNED FROM BERLIN AND TOLD TOJO THAT THE JAPANESE ARMY WAS NOT READY FOR WAR AND WAS INFERIOR TO THE GERMAN ARMY. HE ASSERTED THAT THIS ANGERED TOJO AND HE SENT YAMASHITA TO MANCHURIA A MONTH AFTER THE CONVERSATION.

THE DEFENSE ALSO INTRODUCED WHAT PURPORTED TO BE A HITHERTO SECRET U.S. ARMY DOCUMENT SAYING THE HUKBAHALAHAP OR "PEASANT ARMY" HAD NO FILIPINO ALLEGIANCE BUT WAS ALLIED WITH CHINESE COMMUNISTS TO ESTABLISH A NEW REGIME BASED ON THE RUSSIAN SYSTEM.

THIS "PEASANT ARMY" RECENTLY WAS CRITICIZED BY PRESIDENT TRUMAN AS THREATENING THE STABILITY OF THE PHILIPPINES GOVERNMENT.

THE SUPPOSED REPORT SAID THEHUKBAHALAHAP, FORMED IN 1942 BY INTELLECTUALS, COMMUNISTS AND SOCIALISTS, PLANNED TO "ALLOW THE AMERICANS TO LIBERATE THE PHILIPPINES" BUT WOULD ATTACK U.S. FORCES UNLESS IMMEDIATE INDEPENDENCE WAS GRANTED.

THIS ACCOUNT CLAIMED THE GROUP REFUSED REPEATEDLY TO WORK WITH OTHER GUERRILLAS AND HAD HELD DOWNED AMERICAN PILOTS AS PRISONERS. IT ALSO ASSERTED THE PEASANT ARMY HAD ACCEPTED ARMS FROM THE JAPANESE.

(ADVANCE)...WASHINGTON, NOV 27-(AP)-CHAIRMAN MCMAHON (D-CONN) SAID TODAY HIS SPECIAL SENATE COMMITTEE INTENDS TO PROCEED SLOWLY IN AN EFFORT TO INSURE "THAT ATOMIC ENERGY BECOMES A BLESSING TO MANKIND AND NOT A SCOURGE."

MCMAHON ISSUED THIS STATEMENT AT THE OPENING OF PUBLIC HEARINGS BY THE 11-MAN ATOMIC ENERGY COMMITTEE, CHARGED WITH STUDYING ALL LEGISLATION DEALING WITH THE WAR-FOUND POWER.

FIRST WITNESSES ON THE LIST WERE ALEXANDER SACHS, ECONOMIST IDENTIFIED BY COMMITTEE AIDES AS THE MAN WHO "SOLD THE IDEA" OF AN ATOMIC BOMB TO THE LATE PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, AND MAJ. GEN. LESLIE GROVES, WHO HEADED THE $2,000,000,000 PROJECT THAT TURNED OUT THE WEAPON.

SAID MCMAHON:

"THE RELEASE OF ATOMIC ENERGY IS CERTAIN TO AFFECT EVERY PHASE OF OUR LIFE. LIKE THE DISCOVERY OF STEAM AND OF ELECTRICITY, THIS MAY WELL HOLD THE PROMISE OF TREMENDOUS BENEFITS TO MANKIND. IT IS ESSENTIAL THAT WE EXERCISE THE BEST JUDGMENT WE ARE CAPABLE OF IN ORDER TO INSURE THAT ATOMIC ENERGY BECOMES A BLESSING TO MANKIND AND NOT A SCOURGE.

"ALL OF US, I AM SURE, ARE ANXIOUS THAT THE ATOMIC BOMB MAY NEVER BE USED AGAIN IN WARFARE. ALL OF US WANT ATOMIC ENERGY USED FOR PEACEFUL PURPOSES, TO MAKE LIFE BETTER AND FULLER.

"WE ARE CONSCIOUS OF THE FACT THAT NO TIME IS TO BE LOST IN DEALING WITH THIS PROBLEM AND I CONFIDENTLY HOPE THAT OUR HEARINGS AND DELIBERATIONS WILL PROCEED EXPEDITIOUSLY. HOWEVER, WE MEMBERS OF THE COMMITTEE FEEL IMPELLED TO BRING OUT THE RELEVANT FACTS IN THE DEMOCRATIC MANNER. WHEN THESE FACTS HAVE BEEN DEVELOPED, THEN, AND NOT UNTIL THEN, WE WILL TURN TO SPECIFIC LEGISLATION. WE MUST HAVE THE BASIC DATA OF SCIENTIFIC, INDUSTRIAL, ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL SIGNIFICANCE RELATING TO THE DEVELOPMENT OF ATOMIC ENERGY. SO THAT IN WEIGHING ANY PROPOSED BILL FOR ITS CONTROL AND IN MAKING RECOMMENDATIONS WE WILL BE IN THE POSITION TO CONTRIBUTE TO THE SAFETY AND WELFARE OF OUR OWN COUNTRY AND THE PEACE OF THE WORLD."

NEW YORK.NOV.27-(AP)-DR.H.V.EVATT, AUSTRALIAN MINISTER OF STATE FOR EXTERNAL AFFAIRS, ASSERTED TODAY THAT RESTRICTION OF ARMAMENTS, INCLUDING CONTROL OF ATOMIC ENERGY, COULD BE HANDLED BEST BY THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION.

HE TOLD THE DUTCH TREAT CLUB AT A LUNCHEON THAT "AT PRESENT THERE IS AN EXTRAORDINARY AMOUNT OF CONFUSION INJECTED INTO THE DISCUSSIONS ON INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION" AND THAT SOME OF IT RESULTS FROM THE PROBLEM OF BANNING OR REGULATING THE ATOMIC BOMB.

EVATT SAID INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION COULD BE SUCCESSFUL ONLY THROUGH THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION WHICH, IF FULLY SUPPORTED BY ALL NATIONS, COULD PREVENT WARS AND "NOT MERELY REGULATE HOW THEY ARE TO BE CONDUCTED."

"NO DOUBT SOME OF THE CRITICISMS AND SUGGESTIONS THAT HAVE RECENTLY BEEN MADE SPRING FROM A VERY WIDESPREAD PESSIMISM," HE SAID. "BUT THE BASIS OF THIS PESSIMISM IS NOT ANY FAILURE OF THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION, WHICH HAS NOT YET IN FACT COMMENCED TO FUNCTION. THE PESSIMISM SPRINGS FROM DISILLUSIONMENT BECAUSE THE DECLARED OBJECTIVES OF THE LEADERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS HAVE CERTAINLY NOT YET BEEN ACHIEVED AND THERE ARE MANY SERIOUS DISPUTES FLARING UP IN MANY QUARTERS OF THE GLOBE. SOME PART OF THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THIS STATE OF DISILLUSIONMENT MUST BE ATTRIBUTED TO THOSE LEADERS AMONGST THE 'GREAT POWERS' WHO HAVE ATTEMPTED AND ARE PERHAPS STILL MAKING THE MISTAKE OF ATTEMPTING, TO MAKE BOTH THE PEACE TREATIES AND THEIR EXECUTION THEIR OWN EXCLUSIVE PREROGATIVE."

WHILE THE INTENTIONS OF THE GREAT POWERS MAY BE OF THE BEST, EVATT SAID, AND WHILE THEY MAY BELIEVE THAT BECAUSE THEY HAVE THE GREATER POPULATION AND THEREFORE THE RIGHT TO LAY DOWN CONDITIONS OF PEACE THROUGHOUT THE WORLD, "IN ACTUAL PRACTICE THIS WILL NOT WORK."

EVATT DECLARED NONE OF THE BIG NATIONS CONSULTED THE SMALLER NATIONS WHEN ARRANGING THE END OF HOSTILITIES IN EUROPE AND IN THE PACIFIC. HE SAID ALLIED NATIONS AGREED IN WASHINGTON ON JAN. 1, 1942 NOT TO MAKE A SEPARATE ARMISTICE OR PEACE WITH THE ENEMIES.

"THIS DECLARATION WAS CLEARLY BROKEN WHENEVER ARMISTICES WERE SIGNED BY THE MAJOR ALLIED POWERS WITHOUT THE EXPRESS AUTHORITY OF OTHER ALLIED POWERS AT WAR WITH THAT PARTICULAR AXIS COUNTRY," DR. EVATT SAID. ALL THE UNITED NATIONS, LARGE OR SMALL, SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO SHARE IN THE MAKING OF PEACE, HEA ADDED, BUT SO FAR THE SMALLER COUNTRIES HAVE NOT BEEN PERMITTED TO PARTICIPATE IN MAKING POST-WAR DECISIONS.

"THE FUTURE OF MANKIND MAY WELL BE DETERMINED AS MUCH BY THE COURAGE, THE INITIATIVE, DETERMINATION AND DEMOCRATIC IDEALISM OF THE LESSER POWERS AS BY THE POWER, LEADERSHIP AND RESPONSIBILITY OF THE MAJOR POWERS," HE CONCLUDED.

CHURCHILL HITS LABOR PROGRAM

Jack Smith

Claims 'Half Baked Plans' Have Lowered Britain's Living Standards

NOV 29 1945

LONDON, Nov. 28 — (AP) Conservative Winston Churchill charged today that the Labor government's "half-baked plans for a socialist future" had lowered Britain's standards of living, imperiled her freedoms, and plunged her people into a crisis as grave as the war crisis in 1939.

NIGHT

Speaking to the Conservative Party's Central Council, the former prime minister accused the government of "incompetence and feebleness" in reconversion and demobilization, and said that "in the next few years we shall come to fundamental quarrels in this country . . . The people versus the socialists."

First Major Attack

Opening the first major Conservative assault on Prime Minister Attlee's government, Churchill said:

"The queues are longer, faces are longer and the shelves are barer, but nevertheless the conduct of daily life is more exacting. More forms have to be filled out, more officials have to be consulted, and whole spheres of activities are suffering because the government has to prove its socialist doctrine instead of showing the country how to become alive and on the move again."

He accused the Attlee regime of gross extravagance, failure to release servicemen for work, and suppression of enterprise through promises of public ownership.

Pledges Opposition

He pledged the Conservative opposition to a fight for speedy demobilization, for reconversion in the American manner, and for increasing home consumption of Britain's manufactures.

Churchill's party in Commons next week will demand a vote of censure against the Labor government.

Asserting reconversion progress was being made by the United States, Churchill said Britain would "be left far behind in the world and the markets of the world. . . Unless this government can be compelled by public opinion and parliamentary pressure to change its plans."

Churchill declared "the theories of Socialism may destroy Britain far more surely than the magnetic mine."

Churchill Attacks Labor Regime

London, Nov. 28 (AP)—Winston Churchill protested what he called the "incompetence and feebleness" of the British Labor Government today and pledged his Conservative opposition to a fight for speedy demobilization and reconversion in the American pattern.

Decrying "the plight into which our country has fallen," the former Prime Minister told the Conservative party's Central Council:

DAY

"We are being harassed, harried, tied down and stifled for vaguely and physically unattainable plans for a Socialist future.

"The mighty evolution of the United States from war to peace is proceeding in a violent and passionate manner, which has already led to an enormous increase of output of all necessary things for the home market and an overspill for foreign export."

Socialism Assailed

Churchill assailed the "theories of socialism which may destroy Britain far more surely than the magnetic mine."

He admonished the Conservative leadership to gain vote appeal.

"I foresee, with sorrow but without fear, that in the next few years we shall come to fundamental quarrels in this country," Churchill said somberly. "It will be the people versus the Socialists. Between them lies the impending shock, and we must be prepared to meet it as the people's party."

He rebuked leaders of the dominant Labor party. He spoke in scorn of the demands of Sir Stafford Cripps for continued austerity at home, calling the president of the Board of Trade "the great advocate of strength through misery."

"Chasing Landlords"

He said Aneurin Bevan, Laborite Minister of Housing, was unable to rebuild houses because he was so busy chasing landlords and imaginary profiteers around the ruins.

Churchill said demobilization was "proceeding at a rate far below what any efficient administration would have achieved."

He declared that many thousands were being kept "in expensive unemployment" while industry cried in vain for manpower. He added:

"There is no military reason to justify keeping more than 4,000,000 men in service at the present time."

Auction Reveals New British Hitler Clan

London, Nov. 28 (AP)—London newspapers headlined today reports that an organization known as the Legion of Christain Reformers, said to regard Adolph Hitler as "a divine instrument," had been formed in England last week.

The news stories followed an auction yesterday of a huge granite bust of Hitler and Nazi flags from the former German Embassy in London, which was marked by spirited bidding.

Offers on the bust started jocularly at "2 bob" (40 cents). Capt. R. Gordon-Cannig, former member of the British Union of Fascists, immediately snapped "10 pounds" ($40) and, after counter bidding, purchased the granite head for £500 ($2,000).

Imprisoned For Two Years

Gordon-Canning, who was imprisoned for two years during the war under defense regulations, told reporters the bust might "go back to Germany in about 25 years time."

Also present at the sale was a man identifying himself as J. L. Battersby, general secretary of the Legion of Christian Reformers, with headquarters in "Kingdom House," a graystone mansion on a 16-acre estate "donated by a friend."

Battersby, did not enter the bidding, the newspaper said, but told one man that Gordon-Canning was willing for the bust to go to Kingdom House and remtain there as "an object of veneration." Battersby said, however, that Gordon-Canning was not a member of the legion .

Hitler "Divine Instrument"

"We in the legion regard Hitler as a divine instrument to break the power of the Mammon system," Battersby said. "You cannot serve God and Mammon."

He added that the legion was "absolutely nonpolitical" and said "Hitler was most definitely sent by God to judge the world."

Another man who gave his name as G. T. R. Merriman, purchased the Nazi flags and told the press: "Hitler was preparing the work of judgment. I hope to God it hurries up."

Turns Down $500 For Flag

The newspaper said that among others attending the sale were "a number of former members of the British Fascist Movement."

As Gordon-Canning returned to the salesroom today to pick up the bust, he told reporters he had decided to have it stored with his furniture.

Merriman was offered £130 ($520) for one of his flags as he was loading them on a taxi, but said: "I wouldn't take a million."

Two Nazi Flags Seem Headed To Group With Hitler Leaning

NOV 29 1945

London, Nov. 28 (AP)—Two Nazi flags, bought at auction at the former German Embassy in London, were apparently en route tonight to Kingdom House, headquarters of the Legion of Christian Reformers, a new organization which London newspapers said regards Hitler as "a divine instrument."

The flags were removed by a Mr. A. Wilson who said he intended to present them to the Christian Reformers, which received wide publicity in British papers yesterday in connection with the auction of a huge granite bust of Htler.

Bust Bought For $2,000

The bust was bought by Capt. Gordon-Canning, former member of the British Union of Fascists, for $2,000 after spirited bidding. Under defense regulations, told reporters the bust might "go back to Germany in about 25 years' time."

A man identifying himself as J. L. Battersby, general secretary of the Christian Reformers, was quoted by one London paper as saying that Gordon-Canning, although not a member of the "Legion," was willing for the bust to go to Kingdom House as "an object of veneration."

Sale To Last Three More Days

Gordon-Canning told reporters later, however, that he had decided to have the bust stored with his furniture. It still remained in the embassy today after a porter turned down an offer of £20 ($80) to remove it.

Battersby was quoted as saying that the legion was "absolutely nonpolitical" and that "Hitler was most definitely sent by God to judge the world." "We in the legion," he said, "regard Hitler as a divine instrument to break the power of the mammon system."

Receipts from the sale, scheduled to last three more days, now total $202,000. The money will go to the war-reparations account.

Hearings On UNO Capital Site Open Saturday

Flora Lewis

NIGHT

London, Nov. 27 (AP)—A subcommittee of the United Nations Preparatory Commission will start hearings Saturday on the question of the site for the permanent world capital, and delegates predicted some heated debates.

NOV 29 1945

United States Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson urged "as a matter of courtesy" that delegations from American cities be allowed to present their invitations without further postponement, so that they could pack up and get home.

An informal Associated Press poll showed a majority of the subcommittee in favor of establishing the permanent United Nations site in the United States. In any case, its recommendations would have to be approved by the full commission and again by the general assembly when it meets in January.

British Want It In Europe

One delegate, who asked that he remain unidentified, said "the fight is now on. The British are making every possible effort to secure the permanent headquarters in Europe, and they are not going to give up until the very end."

Nations named to the subcommittee are Australia, Colombia, Cuba, Egypt, Iran, the Netherlands and Yugoslavia. The Netherlands has spoken for Europe, Egypt was undecided, and the rest

U. S. Is Favored, but Board Will Hear Deputations.

London, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—A seven-man sub-committee was named today to hear deputations offering sites for permanent headquarters of the United Nations, but deferred a decision on whether the agency would be located in the United States.

A poll showed that five of the seven committee members favored the United States. Two of these, from Australia and Colombia, expressed their preference for San Francisco as first choice. The Netherlands favored Europe and Egypt was not decided. Yugoslavia, Iran and Cuba all favored the United States. The group will start hearing delegations in open meetings on Saturday, some twenty-two United States and two Canadian invitations have been extended.

United States localities seeking the headquarters are Atlantic City; Black Hills, S. D.; Champaign county, Illinois; Chicago; Denver; Hyde Park, N. Y.; three sites in Indiana, presently unlisted; Miami, Fla.; the Monterey peninsula of California; Monticello, Va.; the Moraga Valley near San Francisco; Navy Island at Niagara Falls; Newport, R. I.; New York city; Philadelphia; Richmond, Va.; San Francisco, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.; Boston; an international island at Sault Ste. Marie between the United States and Canada, and Waimanaloa, Hawaii. Quebec and Vancouver Island have issued invitations from Canada.

During the long discussions today, there were indications that several European countries were determined to bring the permanent home of the UNO to Europe. Great Britain, Belgium and the Netherlands were persistent in postponing a vote on the executive committee's recommendation that the site be in the United States.

Amery Sentenced To Die As Traitor

NIGHT

London, Nov. 28 (AP)—In an eight-minute trial, John Amery, German radio propagandist and son of a former Secretary of State for India, pleaded guilty today to charges of high treason and treachery and was sentenced to death.

Amery, 33, whose father L. S. Amery held the Indian porfolio in the Churchill war cabinet, was accused of making broadcasts asking England to seek a truce, and of having been chosen by the Germans to lead a provisional British government after the projected invasion.

Amery is the second one-time Nazi broadcaster to receive the death sentence here. William Joyce, "Lord Haw-Haw," was convicted and sentenced to be hanged, but has appealed.

Amery answered with a firm "no" when asked if he could state any reason why the court should not pronounce sentence of death, and declined to make a final statement.

Clad in a long brown overcoat and green silk scarf, Amery leaned forward expressionless and clutched the edge of the dock as he told Justice Humphreys: "I plead guilty to all counts."

Asked by the clerk if he could give any reason why the court should not pronounce the sentence of death, Amery replied with a firm "no." He added, "No, thanks," when the judge asked if he wished to make a final statement.

The judge then passed sentence.

Walks Back To Cell

Amery bowed low, turned sharply and walked down the stone steps leading to the Old Bailey cells.

Amery was accused of having been selected by the Germans to head a provisional British government after the projected invasion and of having said that $1,200,000 was placed at his disposal for this purpose by an English committee composed of "anti-Jewish interest."

Amery was on the Continent when the war began and subsequently broadcast appeals over the Berlin radio for Britain to make peace.

He was arrested in Italy last April.

Former British Official's Son To Hang

DAY

London, Nov. 28 (AP)—John Amery, son of a former Secretary of State for India, was sentenced to death today after he pleaded guilty to charges of high treason and treachery. The entire proceedings took only six minutes.

Amery, 33, was the second former German propaganda broadcaster to receive the death sentence. William Joyce, "Lord Haw Haw," previously was convicted of high treason and sentenced to be hanged.

Amery had been scheduled to go on trial last October 17, but it was postponed on a defense plea that more time was needed to establish his claim that he became a citizen of the Spanish republic during the Spanish civil war.

BRITAIN REPORTED BALKING ON LOAN

London, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—The London Daily Sketch said today that the British cabinet rejected yesterday United States proposals advanced in financial aid talks, and submitted to Washington Britain's "last word" counter-proposals. The Sketch said if the counter-proposals were not acceptable, negotiations would be suspended and Lord Keynes, British negotiator, would be recalled from Washington.

Washington, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—Opposition to American loans to Britain was voiced today by Representative James A. Roe (D.-N. Y.). He said in a statement that England is "a selfish and ungrateful nation which looks upon Americans as the biggest 'sucker' people in the world."

Roe suggested that "if England is sincere, let it pay off our old loans with Bermuda, Newfoundland and other bases."

LOAN NEGOTIATORS AGREE ON A WAIVER

Decide Tentatively on Skipping Interest Entirely in Years British Balance Forbids

NOV 29 194

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Anglo-American financial delegations have agreed on the troublesome escape clause on interest payments to be included in the loan for Great Britain.

Under a tentative arrangement, reached after a week of discussion, Britain will be permitted to waive interest payments entirely in years when the Bretton Woods organization determines that Britain's balance of payments is not sufficient to meet the obligations.

NIGHT

This represents a conference victory for the British delegates, since the last American view was that interest payments should be deferred merely until the next year and not canceled entirely for any specific year as has now been decided.

A spokesman for the British delegation disclosed this development in expressing surprise at London dispatches which said that the British Cabinet had rejected the latest American conditions surrounding a proposed loan of $3,500,000,000 to $4,000,000,000.

Several American officials likewise disputed the pessimistic tone of the London reports and denied that the conference, now in its eleventh week, was in danger of collapse.

The British spokesman, who would not permit use of his name, but whose information heretofore has proved reliable, said that as of tonight the British delegation had received no word from the Labor Government "which could be construed as a rejection."

Although the reply received over the week-end to the American counter-proposals reiterated "certain provisions" on which the British would not yield, the two sides "are now nearer agreement than they have ever been," he said.

A successful conclusion to the talks this week was possible, he said, but more probable next week.

Both American and British delegates acknowledged that while at one point the United States proposed the right to look into Britain's gold reserves, the suggestion had been eliminated and was not one of the points of dispute between them.

Despite the unexpected length of their talks, both sides appear optimistic that they are near a satisfactory loan agreement, which will also detail a decision to hold an international trade and employment conference.

ASSERTS DE VALERA KNEW OF NAZI RADIO

London, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—Exchange Telegraph reported from Dublin today that Premier Eamon De Valera had told the Dail he knew the German legation had a wireless transmitting set in Eire during the war, but that the Nazi Minister put the radio under Irish control at his request.

Speaking in response to questions concerning Eire's neutrality raised by published reports, De Valera said: "I was satisfied the use of this set in certain circumstances might involve considerable danger to British and American forces, and that it could be argued that the operation of it from here was contrary to the pledge I had given before the war that we would not allow our territory to be made a base of attack against Britain.

"Accordingly I asked the German Minister to put the set under our control. This he did."

Would Have Britain Renounce Veto Right

London, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—Laborite Lord Jowitt, Lord Chancellor of the House of Lords, urged today that Great Britain renounce her right of veto in the United Nations Organization as a gesture of reassurance to Russia.

Continuing debate of British foreign policy, Jowitt said the co-operation of Russia was imperative for solution of problems posed by the atomic bomb.

Will Allot World Drug Production

London, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—World rations for dangerous drugs for 1946 will be announced from Geneva next month, the supervisory board of the International Drug Convention of 1931 said today. The committee is determining what the world's production and each country's supplies shall be.

PLOT TO TAKE AUSTRIA AIRED

NOV 29 194

Von Papen And Seyss-Inquart Called Chief Leaders

Nov 22nd

Nuernberg, Nov. 28 (AP)—A tale of cold, studied treachery accusing German leaders and their Austrian "Quisling," Arthur Seyss-Inquart, of engineering the conquest of Austria was unfolded today before the International Military Tribunal.

The American prosecution, methodically weaving a web of evidence to prove the twenty Nazi defendants guilty of planning deliberate aggression, introduced document after document on Nazi plots to undermine the independence of their little neighbor.

NIGHT

Hess Shares Spotlight

The two defendants singled out as the chief architects of the Anschluss were Seyss-Inquart and Franz von Papen, both of whom listened attentively—and apparently uncomfortably—as Sidney S. Alderman, assistant United States prosecutor, read into the record their own boastful words as evidence against them.

Sharing the spotlight with them was Rudolf Hess, former deputy Führer, who continued reading his twelfth book in the courtroom as the tribunal announced that a board of psychiatrists had found he was "not insane" in a strict sense of the word, but conceded his loss of memory would "interfere with his ability to make his defense."

The tribunal will decide Friday what his status will be. Dr. Gunther von Rohrscheidt, Hess's attorney, expressed the opinion that his client probably would be tried in absentia.

Papen Statement In Record

Alderman devoted almost the entire day to presentation of evidence on the German plot to swallow up Austria. Into the record went a declaration von Papen made in 1934, soon after he arrived in Vienna as German Minister, saying:

"Southeastern Europe to Turkey is Germany's hinterland and I have been designated to carry through the task of bringing it within the fold. Austria is first on the program."

The statement was attributed to von Papen in one of two affidavits by George S. Messersmith, now United States Ambasador to Mexico, who in 1934 was American Minister to Austria. The defense failed in an effort to bar Messersmith's affidavits from court, but scored finally in a fight to compel at least some of their accusers to appear as witnesses if their evidence is to be considered.

Defense Objections Upheld

The latter fight was based on efforts of the prosecution to introduce an affidavit by Kurt Schuschnigg, former Austrian Chancellor who was unseated by the Nazis just before the Anschluss. The court upheld defense objections and ruled that Schuschnigg was present in Nuernberg and, therefore, could be summoned by either the prosecution or the defense if his testimony is desired.

Von Papen's genius as an engineer of fifth column activities was portrayed in a letter, introduced by the American prosecution, which Von Papen wrote Hitler May 17, 1935, outlining a plan to trick Schuschnigg into accepting Austrian Nazis in the Government.

Under this plan, Von Papen proposed to convince Schuschnigg that he must accept the Nazis because Austria's independence was threatened by "measures arranged" between Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg, leader of the Austrian home defense forces, and Mussolini.

Letter Introduced

Alderman, calling Seyss-Inquart the "original Quisling," introduced a letter to Seyss-Inquart from Friedl Rainer, former gauleiter of Salzburg, describing the defendant as the "one-man creator of the Anschluss."

Rainer also wrote that the decision for the Nazi putsch of July, 1934, in which Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss was assassinated, was "right, but the execution was faulty." As a result, Rainer said, Hitler sent Von Papen to Austria and adopted a new method of political penetration.

Hess Shows Little Interest

Alderman described Seyss-Inquart as the "front personality" covering the illegal Nazi machinations with which Von Pape maintained contact.

NOV 29 1945

Hess, meanwhile, apeared to have little interest in the psychiatrists' findings that he was sufferin_ from self-induced amnesia, nor in the legal squabble over his status which will come to a head Friday when prosecution and defense attorneys make their arguments.

His attorney said Hess wanted to stand trial, but at the same time refused to allow drugs to be administered to cure him of amnesia. He said he would ask the court to appoint a German doctor to examine the former No. 2 Nazi.

An Incompetent Witness

The board of psychiatrists reported to the court that Hess was sane when he went to England in 1941; that he suffered his first loss of memory two years later; that he recovered and then lost his memory again in February this year. They said he was conscious of what was going on now, but that he has tried twice to kill himself and because of his faulty memory cannot offer a competent defense.

The court disclosed a ruling under which Joachim von Ribbentrop, former Foreign Minister, will be able to get the testimony of high British personalities who refuse to appear as witnesses. Under the ruling, he will be able to have court-appointed interrogators obtain statements from the witnesses he desires.

The court said that the four Britons in question—Lords Beaverbrook, Kemsley, Londonderry and Vansittart—may come to Nuernberg and testify if they wish.

leased from trial on grounds of amnesia were set for Friday.

American prosecutors met their first setback of the trial when the court ruled against their move to introduce an affidavit from Kurt Schuschnigg, who was deposed as chancellor and jailed for seven years by Hitler, in which he told of Nazi plotting against Austria.

May Appear in Person.

Schuschnigg, the first of many European leaders to be called to Berchtesgaden for the Hitler treatment of intimidation and terror, may get his revenge in person, however, by appearing to testify against the Nazi leaders. The Austrian leader's affidavit was made only November 19 last, in Nuernberg and the tribunal upheld a defense contention that Schuschnigg should testify personally. Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence ruled that either side could summon Schuschnigg.

In a mass of Government documents, letters and affidavits, the prosecution showed that von Papen, known as Germany's wiliest diplomat, was sent by Hitler as Minister to Austria in 1934 to bring, in the diplomat's own words, "slowly increasing pressure" against Germany's neighbor.

'Original Quisling.'

Seyss-Inquart, who succeeded Schuschnigg as Chancellor in the coup just before the German invasion, was described by Assistant United States Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman as "the original Quisling." Correspondence between Austrian and German Nazi leaders was introduced to show Seyss-Inquart's role in fomenting unrest that was evidenced in 1934 when Nazi plotters assassinated Austrian Chancellor Englebert Dollfuss.

Hess, Hitler's one-time deputy, was described by psychiatrists today as "not insane at the present time in the strict sense of the word" and the International Military Tribunal announced that arguments would be heard Friday on the Nazi leader's plea to escape the war-crimes trial on grounds of amnesia.

The British psychiatrists' report revealed that Hess had tried to commit suicide on several occasions since his sensational and mysterious flight to Scotland in May, 1941.

Declaring that Hess was not insane, the psychiatrists conceded that his loss of memory would "interfere with his ability to make his defense." Hess went on trial on war-crime charges last week with nineteen other top Nazi leaders but has paid scant attention to proceedings, reading a novel much of the time and giggling occasionally.

Suffering From "Hysteria"

Hess, the medical board reported, is suffering from "hysteria" and, "in addition, there is conscious exaggeration of his loss of memory and a tendency to exploit it to pr[illegible]t himself against examina[illegible]

Three [illegible]orts of examinations [illegible]e by the British, one by the Russians and a third by American, French and Canadian doctors.

A Russian psychiatric report followed the other reports in describing Hess as hysterical, but flatly stated that his present behavior "does not exonerate him from his responsibility under the indictment."

The report declared that Hess "prior to his flight to England, did not suffer from any kind of insanity nor is he now suffering from it."

Trief To Stab Himself

The Russian report revealed that Hess tried to stab himself in the heart while under detention in England.

The American report declared that "we consider that the existing hysterical behavior that the defendant reveals was initiated as a defense against circumstances in which he found himself while in England, that it has now become partly habitual and that it will continue as long as he remains under threat of imminent punishment, even though it may interfere with his undertaking a more normal form of defense."

The British report recommended that "if the court decides to proceed with the trial, the question (of Hess's sanity) should afterward be reviewed on psychiatric grounds." The report added that Hess's "loss of memory would not entirely interfere with his comprehension of the proceedings."

Refused Treatment

The Russian report stated that Hess refused to undergo treatment for his amnesia and told a doctor on November 15 that he would "take all measures to cure his amnesia only upon completion of the trial."

Referring to Hess's flight to the British Isles to offer peace proposals to Britain, the British report said:

"Partly as a reaction to the failure of his mission these abnormalities (delusions he was being poisoned) got worse and led to suicidal attempts."

Hess's first loss of memory lasted from November, 1943, to June, 1944, and his second loss of memory began in February, 1945, and has lasted up to the present time, the report said. It added: "This amnesia symptom will eventually clear when circumstances change more."

Scheming For Austria

As today's session opened the prosecution presented evidence from an American diplomat that the Nazis schemed from their earliest days of power to absorb Austria.

The charge that Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering and others of the twenty top Nazi leaders on trial openly spoke of annexing Austria to the Reich was made in an affidavit by George S. Messersmith, former United States Minister to Austria and now Ambassador to Mexico.

Hitler's lightning invasion of Austria in March, 1938, represented the "flowering of the fifth column," declared Assistant United States Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman, who said that the Führer's plans for acquisition of the country were shown on the first page of "Mein Kampf."

"Political Necessity"

"From the beginning of the Nazi Government, I was told by high and secondary Government officials in Germany that incorporation of Austria into Germany was a political and economic necessity and that this incorporation was going to be accomplished by 'whatever means were necessary,'" Messersmith stated in his affidavit.

Introduction of Messersmith's affidavit was challenged by German defense counsel, who contended the diplomat should appear in person to testify rather than file a statement. Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence, presiding, ruled that the affidavit would be accepted and that Messersmith could be called personally later if the court decided his presence was needed.

Justice Lawrence declared that the four-power tribunal should conduct the trial with the most expeditious procedure and should not be bound by ordinary rules of evidence.

Motion pictures showing thousands of corpses in German concentration camps and films made by the Nazis themselves, showing SS men beating helpless women and children, were exhibited last night to defense counsel and were to be entered as evidence before the court. The showing may be put off until tomorrow because of slight changes in prosecution procedure.

Dr. Alfred Seidl, counsel for Hans Frank, Nazi ruler of Poland, declared after seeing the pictures: "No argument can be made against these pictures. They are too terrible for words."

"We are human beings, please believe it, and we did not know such horrors existed," commented Capt. Franz von Papen Jr., who is acting as associate counsel for his father, former German Ambassador to Turkey.

Troops On Border

Messersmith said that Germany kept several thousand troops on the Austro-German border as a constant threat and asserted that high Nazis had admitted that they instigated "waves of terroristic acts" in Austria in mid-1933 and early 1934.

Telling of the abortive Nazi Putsch in which Austrian Chancellor Englebert Dollfuss was assassinated July 25, 1934, Alderman said reports of British and Austrian secret service agents revealed that the Hitler Government engineered the Putsch.

Alderman described Arthur Seyss-Inquart, one of the defendants, as "the original Quisling." Seyss-Inquart was Chancellor of Austria at the time of the Anschluss and was later made Gauleiter of the Netherlands by Hitler.

In a letter to Goering written in 1939, Seyss-Inquart was quoted as saying he resolved in July, 1934, to "fight this clerical regime on its own ground in order to give the Führer a chance to use whatever method he desires."

Von Papen's Role

Franz von Papen, another of the defendants, was named by Hitler as Minister to Austria on the day after the Dollfuss assassination and he maintained contact with Seyss-Inquart, Alderman said. In his affidavit, Messersmith said the veteran German diplomat had admitted to him that he took the Viennese post to undermine Austrian independence.

Papen, whose lawyers have indicated his defense would claim he indulged only in diplomatic activities and had little connection with Nazi policy, licked dry lips when the prosecutor read a letter he had written to Hitler July 27, 1937, urging Nazi demonstrations in Germany favoring Austrian [illegible] and concluding:

"National Socialism must win it (Austria) or it will perish."

At Messersmith's mention of Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz as one of the German leaders who had talked with him of the Austrian Anschluss, the former German navy chief's counsel rose and declared that Doenitz had not been acquainted with Messersmith. The counsel, Capt. Otto Kranzbuehler, was ordered by the court to make his objection later.

Plan For "Brutal Action"

Messersmith's affidavit included a memorandum given him by the Austrian Foreign Minister in October, 1934, purporting to show that Austrian Nazis had decided to take "brutal" action against non-Nazis and to establish "two centers of terror" along the German and Yugoslav borders.

Alderman linked German and Austrian leaders in the days before the Anschluss by reading correspondence to party leaders from Friedl Rainer, former Gauleiter of Salzburg. Rainer wrote that "all connections with the party in Germany" were to be kept secret on Hitler's orders.

U. S. Also Calls Seyss-Inquart Leader of Fifth Column—Hess Ruled Sane.

Nuernberg, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—Franz von Papen and Arthur Seyss-Inquart—two of the Nazi leaders on trial before an international military tribunal—were described by American prosecutors today as leaders of the fifth column which paved the way for Hitler's invasion of Austria in 1938.

While the Nazi plot to seize Austria was unveiled, the four-Power court announced that medical examiners had found that Rudolf Hess, Hitler's one time Number 2 deputy, was "not insane" at present. Arguments on the Hess plea to be re-

HOFFMAN BARRED FROM HITLER AS TYPHUS CARRIER

NUERNBERG, Nov. 28.—(AP) Heinrich Hoffman, Hitler's personal photographer, says that Martin Bormann had him falsely libelled a typhus carrier last January in order to prevent him from going to Hitler to "tell him the truth" about Germany's approaching doom.

He said he finally saw Hitler, but that Hitler's "mind was gone."

Hoffman has been employed for two months by the special projects division of U. S. Chief Prosecutor Robert H. Jackson's staff, identifying photographic evidence against the Nazi leaders.

Early Tuesday, the Medical department telephoned Comdr. James Donovan, New York lawyer and chief of the division where Hoffman is employed, asking:

"Did you know Hoffman was typhus and by now has probably infected everybody in Nuernberg?"

Donovan immediately questioned Hoffman, who explained:

"As you know, I am an old party man. I always had Hitler's ear. He liked to have me around because he knew I'd give it to him straight.

"Early in January I decided to go to Hitler's headquarters to tell him the truth that, goaded by Himmler, Bormann and Goebbels, he was driving Germany to destruction.

"But Bormann (Hitler's deputy) always hated me. When I cabled for clearance to visit the Fuehrer, back came a telegram saying I was a typhus carrier and under no circumstances was to be permitted to approach Hitler.

"I was in Vienna at the time. I knew Bormann had done this. I went to one of the biggest clinics in Vienna and obtained a certificate after exhaustive tests disproving the allegation, and with this I was finally able to get to the Fuehrer.

"It was too late," Hoffman continued. "The moment I saw Hitler I realized his mind was gone."

The medical department then questioned Bormann's personal physician, who is being detained at a U. S. Army interrogation center near Frankfurt, and announced the physician had admitted "falsifying Hoffman's medical records in order to keep him away from the Fuehrer's headquarters."

day that Major-Gen. William J. Donovan was leaving the prosecution staff to return to law practice in New York.

Jackson said Donovan, former chief of the Office of Strategic Services, had advised him some time ago of intending to rejoin his legal firm before Christmas. Donovan planned a 10-day tour of European countries before his return.

British Peers to Be Questioned

NUREMBERG, Nov. 28 (AP)—The International Military Tribunal ruled today that witnesses living abroad might give depositions to court-appointed questioners and such affidavits might be used by the defense.

Questioners will be sent to interview Lord Vansittart, former British Under-Secretary of State; Lord Beaverbrook and Viscount Kemsley, London publishers, and the Earl of Londonderry.

Swedish King's Plea Refused By Russians

NOV 29 1945

Stockholm, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Soviet Government has refused a personal request from King Gustaf for a year's delay in the return of interned Baltic soldiers to Russian-controlled territory, the Foreign Office announced tonight.

The request, directed to Generalissimo Stalin, was rejected orally by the Soviet Minister in Stockholm, who said there was no ground for making an exception to the established international practice of returning interned persons at the end of the war.

The King's unusual request, handed to the Russians on Monday, included 167 former citizens of the former Baltic republics who served in the German Army during the final phases of the war on the Eastern front, and who fled to Sweden either before or shortly after the German collapse. Nearly all the 167 are in bed, exhausted by a six-day hunger strike.

RUSSIA CLEARED BY PRESS

10 Reporters in Moscow Had No Deletions Since Nov. 7

MOSCOW, Nov. 3 (AP)—A poll of ten foreign correspondents disclosed today that none had had deletions from stories since censorship was relaxed on Nov. 7, although Randolph Churchill is known to have experienced difficulties.

The Associated Press has had no deletions or appreciable delays. Two other correspondents said that nothing had been stricken from their copy, but there had been instances that "might be called delays."

Mr. Churchill told persons at the British Embassy that he had had difficulty with two dispatches. He came to Moscow early in November as a correspondent of The United Feature Syndicate.

The United Feature Syndicate distributed an article by Mr. Churchill on Tuesday that, it reported in an editor's note, had been rejected in toto by Moscow censors. Mr. Churchill sent it from Helsinki.

TEHRAN GIRDS FOR DEFENSE

Rebels Reported on March Toward Capital Itself.

Tehran, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—Iranian Government forces were under orders today to defend the capital at all costs against an insurgent military force officially reported marching toward the city from the north.

The Government announced officially last night that forces of insurgents in Azerbaijan province were marching southward along the main rail line toward the capital.

Observers here believed it was questionable whether the Azerbaijan forces would continue to march on Tehran itself, in view of the presence of armed Iranian troops and tanks at Sharifabad, four miles east of Kazvin. But the Government announced that one insurgent column had occupied the small rail town of Takistan, nine miles southwest of Kazvin and eighty-five miles northwest of Tehran.

The Government said that the vanguard of this force was driving on Kazvin and was expected to reach it by nightfall.

Second Column on March.

Confirmation was given by the Government to earlier reports that another insurgent column had occupied all of Zenjan, a rail station 170 miles northwest of the capital. This represented an advance of fifty-six miles from Mianeh, which the Government reported last week had been occupied by the insurgents. Zenjan is the capital of Khamseh province, where the Government has reported insurgents operating weapons distributed by "unknown people."

The Government said that Astara, Caspian Sea port 230 miles northwest of Tehran on the Iranian-Soviet border, also was occupied by the insurgents.

The Azerbaijan forces have announced a demand for autonomy within the Iranian state.

Reds Halt Federal Force.

Kazvin, in the path of one reported insurgent drive, is ninety miles southeast of Zenjan. Iranian Government troops which had been dispatched northward from Tehran last week toward the trouble zone, had been halted at Kazvin by a Soviet commander of troops garrisoning the northern Iranian area.

Government sources believed the Azerbaijans would stop at Kazvin, but feared the arrival of the insurgents there might be a signal for sympathizers and "armed strangers" in the capital to start a rebellion.

Iranian Premier Hakimi met the Soviet Charge d'Affaires last night, but nothing regarding their talk was made public.

Azerbaijan province borders Russia and Soviet troops which occupied it during the war still are in the area.

160 PALESTINE JEWS FACING RIOT TRIAL

Jerusalem, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—British military headquarters said today that 160 Jews were being held for trial on charges of obstruction as the result of recent disturbances north of Tel Aviv.

"These Jews were traveling in trucks and buses and were returning from the area of Givat Salm, whither they had gone with the apparent intention of offering organized obstruction to the police," a British communique said.

It was in that area that Jews, on Sunday, wrecked two Coast Guard stations in protest against British efforts to halt illegal immigrations. A number of villages were surrounded and entered by British troops and police and several persons were killed and 100 or more were wounded.

Deadline on Inquiry.

Washington, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—Secretary of State Byrnes disclosed today that the United States and Britain had agreed to fix a 120-day deadline on their proposed joint inquiry into the Palestine situation. He told a news conference that the members of the commission would be announced soon in Washington and London.

Calcutta Municipal Workers End Strike

CHINA PLEASED ON MARSHALL

Foreign Observers See Sign Of American Intentions

Chungking, Nov. 28 (AP)—General Marshall's diplomatic assignment to Chungking was "well received" officially today and foreign quarters saw it as a beam of hope breaking through the darkening clouds of civil war.

The selection of a man of Marshall's stature as President Truman's special envoy created a profound impression in Chungking, where he is heralded as second in rank only to Truman himself.

Wedemeyer, Chiang Confer

Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of United States forces in China, made an unheralded flight to Chungking from Shanghai for conversations with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, presumably on Marshall's impending visit to China.

Marshall's appointment shoved into the background even the resignation of Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley.

Liu Chieh, Foreign Office spokesman, saying, "We feel very sorry Hurley is not returning," declared Marshall "will be very well received." K. C. Wu, Minister of Information, said Chiang "is very happy that he can meet this great soldier from America."

Viewed As Against Partition

Most foreign quarters said Marshall's mission was a clear affirmation that the United States would not view with favor any attempt to break off Manchuria, Inner Mongolia or Sinkiang from China by civil war or connivance.

They declared that America's policy of supporting the nine-power treaty guaranteeing China's sovereignty was re-emphasized by the appointment of a general of Marshall's prestige.

In Shanghai, Fred Hampson, Associated Press correspondent, reported that Marshall's appointment was taken as an indication that the United States means to stay in China—else why send such a conspicuous and popular "front" man?

However, the reaction among GI's in Shanghai was less enthusiastic.

Will Mean Business

"Looks like we'll be here a long time," said one enlisted man. "They ain't sending Marshall out here to take us home."

A sergeant with five overseas marks on his sleeve reacted:

"Home by Christmas doesn't look so likely now. Marshall will mean business out here."

The appointment came at a time when the nationalist cause in Manchuria was taking a brighter turn with a report of a new Russian agreement permitting airborne landings at the Manchurian capital of Changchun and the industrial city of Mukden to the south.

Ground Crews To Proceed

The World Daily News, which carried the report, said nationalist ground crews would be allowed to proceed immediately to both cities.

The Chungking Commercial Daily News said Government forces also had begun landing at the southern Manchurian port of Hulutao, from which Chinese Communists were forced to withdraw to avoid entrapment. Hulutao is 140 miles southwest of Mukden.

The Government admitted, however, that Communist forces in southern Hopeh province had captured the railway center of Peisiang, on the Peiping-Hankow railway 195 miles south of Peiping.

Chiang's Forces Admit Loss Of Road Center

Chungking, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Chinese Government admitted today the loss of the important southern Hopei province highway center of Feisiang to besieging Communists.

But Nationalists, meanwhile, reportedly began long-delayed landings at the captured Manchurian seaport of Hulutao.

Feisiang, described by the Nationalists as one of the insurgents' main objectives, fell after a three-month siege. The deputy commander of the town's garrison was killed in action. The highway center is east of the Peiping-Hankow railroad.

Paper Reports Landings

An unconfirmed dispatch in the Chungking Commercial Daily News said Government forces had started landing at Hulutao, recently occupied by Government troops after evacuation by Communist forces. The report did not say whether United States transports were used. Hulutao provides a strategically valuable landing site for troops to be used in the Nationalist drive on Changchun, capital of the province.

Communist attacks on Hanchuang, 30 miles north of the rail junction city of Tsuchow on the Peiping-Hankow Railroad, were repelled, Nationalist dispatches said.

Agreement With Russ

The World Daily News said today that a Chinese-Russian agreement had been reached on two points:

1. Nationalists may land airborne troops at Changchun and Mukden, Manchuria, and ground crews may proceed immediately to both points.

2. The Russian withdrawal from Manchuria will be completed by mid-January.

There was no indication what China might have promised in return.

Marine Leader Grave

An American military leader, Maj. Gen. Keller Rockey, commander of United States Marines in North China, was quoted by the Shanghai Central News correspondent as taking a grave view of the situation in North China.

Rockey said that the Marines are not contemplating any drastic measures against the Communists who daily are attacking the rail line between Peiping and Chinwangtao, but American lives and property would continue to be protected. The railroad is the only supply line for 50,000 Marines in North China.

Withdrawal Date Not Known

It would be hard to predict, Rockey said, when the Marines would withdraw, as it depended on completion of disarming of the Japanese. The majority have been disarmed, but part have taken up guard duties along the various railways.

The Marine commander emphasized there is not one single Marine in Manchuria.

He was reticent to discuss future activities of the Marines in North China.

Wedemeyer In Chungking

Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of American forces in the China theater, arrived in Chungking tonight for important conferences with Generalissimo Chia g Kai-shek and Premier T. V. Soong, probably over the impending visit of the new United States envoy, Gen. George C. Marshall, and the surprise resignation of his predecessor, Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley.

The Government meanwhile designated September 3 as the official date of the termination of the Sino-Japanese War, which began June 7, 1937.

A Foreign Office spokesman resolutely refused to discuss the status of Sino-Soviet negotiations on Manchuria. Nor would he confirm or deny allegations that Russia had demanded joint control of the main mines, power resources and other enterprises in Manchuria.

China Hails Selection Of General Marshall

Chungking, Nov. 28 (AP)—China today regretted officially the resignation of "a great, true friend," United States Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley, but hailed selection of "so distinguished an American" as five-star Gen. George C. Marshall to succeed him.

Although Marshall's appointment surprised even gossip-ridden Chungking, it was felt that he might be empowered to make on-the-spot decisions affecting the American position in China—and that his investigations and decisions might minimize current agitation in some circles for withdrawal of United States forces.

"Sorry" To Lose Hurley

All observers acknowledged that Marshall will bring impressive international prestige to his delicate task.

Liu Chieh, Foreign Office spokesman, said that "naturally, we feel very sorry" that Hurley is not returning, but the visit of Marshall "will be very well received."

Minister of Information K. C. Wu remarked that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek "is very happy that he can meet this great soldier from America."

Asked whether there might be a three-power meeting of Chinese, Russian and American officials on Far Eastern problems after Marshall's arrival, Liu Chieh said he had no information to suggest that this was planned.

Use Of Marines, Planes An Issue

Two questions certain to confront Marshall immediately are the retention or return of United States Marines now in North China and the allocation of United States planes to the National Government.

All Chungking newspapers gave prominece to Hurley's resignation except—curiously—the Communist New China Daily News, which buried the story on Page 2 with a small caption. The Communist daily has repeatedly made Hurley the target of bitter attacks in its campaign for withdrawal of United States forces.

London, Nov. 28 (AP)—A Foreign Office spokesman said today that Great Britain considered the Chungking-Communist dispute in China "purely an internal situation and we hope it doesn't break into civil war."

He declined comment on the remarks of Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley in resigning as United States Ambassador to Chungking and the appointment of Gen. George C. Marshall to succeed him. The Communist Daily Worker, however, asserted that the change "presages still graver steps in American intervention in China."

The British Ambassador to Chungking, Sir Horace Seymour, has just flown to London for consultations and is expected to give a first-hand report on Hurley's activities.

Marshall Appointment Causes G. I. Doubts

SHANGHAI, Nov. 28 (AP).—While General George C. Marshall's appointment as Ambassador drew approval here as an indication that the United States means to stay in China, the reaction among G. I.s in Shanghai was less enthusiastic.

"Looks like we'll be here a long time," said one enlisted man. "They ain't sending Marshall out here to take us home."

A sergeant with five overseas marks on his sleeve said: "Home by Christmas doesn't look so likely now. Marshall will mean business out here."

U. S. NAVY SHIP IS FIRED UPON

Yangtze Patrol Craft Not Damaged.

NOV 29 1945

Shanghai, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—The American Navy's patrol craft 1134 was fired upon with small arms yesterday as it moved down the Yangtze River about eight miles above Kichun, Rear Adm. O. T. Joy announced today.

Joy, commander of the Yangtze Patrol, said the vessel was not damaged and no American personnel was hurt. Identity of the attackers was not known. The patrol craft was in a small convoy moving from Hankow.

On October 22 the United States Navy repair ship Seize was fired upon by a shore battery and small arms below Nanking. Its mast was hit and the Seize returned the fire with machine guns.

U. S. to Help China.

Washington, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—American engineers will aid China in working out plans to control the ravaging Yangtze River, Secretary of the Interior Ickes announced today the signing of a contract between the Bureau of Reclamation and the National Resources Commission of China. It calls for bureau engineers to prepare the designs and specification for what may be the largest concrete dam ever built. The Chinese Government will pay an estimated $500,000 to the bureau for its technical assistance.

The contract carries no commitment for actual construction, which Ickes said rests entirely with the Chinese Government and might require twenty-five years or more.

Key feature of the proposed development plan is a dam larger than Grand Coulee to be situated in the gorge of the Yangtze near Ichang in the heart of China. It would back the river into a reservoir 250 miles long.

The plan also calls for the construction of the world's largest hydro-electric plant and other facilities.

Ickes said that a population exceeding that of the entire United States lives within a 300-mile radius of the Yangtze gorge dam site.

NAVY PATROL BOAT SHOT AT IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, Nov. 28—(AP) A U. S. Navy patrol craft, part of a small convoy moving down the Yangtze river below Hankow, was fired upon yesterday with small arms, Rear Adm. C. T. Joy said today.

The commander of the Yangtze patrol said the vessel, the 1134, was undamaged and no American was injured.

The shooting occurred about eight miles upstream from Kichun, which is 80 miles southeast of Hankow. Identity of the attackers was not known.

International Bogus Money Ring Revealed

Shanghai, Nov. 28 (AP)—Arrest of a Chinese has uncovered an international bogus money ring that has been trying to flood the military market here with spurious bills sent in from Paris, the criminal investigation division of the United States Army disclosed today.

Lieut. Col. John F. Stoskopf, Jr., of Barton county, Kansas, head of the division, said the Chinese, who had been turned over to Central Government police at Chungking, revealed that the ring specialized in raising $2 and $10 United States notes to 20's and 50's and even 500's.

ULTIMATUM GIVEN IN JAVA

British To Shoot Indonesians Found In North Bandoeng

Batavia, Java, Nov. 28 (AP)—British authorities at Bandoeng, replying to an Indonesian request for a truce, issued an ultimatum today that any Indonesian found in the northern half of the summer capital after noon tomorrow would be shot.

The ultimatum was announced to the Indonesian "governor" of West Java when he appeared at British headquarters under a white flag and asked the British to halt military actions at Bandoeng.

Provides For Evacuation

A British press statement said the terms provided that all Indonesians be evacuated from the area north of the east-west railroad through the center of the city by noon tomorrow; that no Indonesian civilians be permitted within 200 meters (about 220 yards) of any British or Japanese post, and that any male civilians found manning road blocks would be shot.

The "governor" said he was not in a position to assent or make counterproposals, but promised to confer with other Indonesian leaders on the terms.

The situation in Bandoeng continued tense, with Indonesians keeping up intermittent rifle fire at the Homman hotel, where several hundred civilian internees were quartered. Allied officials said all activities of the Red Cross and the organization for the recovery of Allied prisoners of war and internees had been brought to a complete standstill.

Imperil 60,000 Internees

The disorders imperiled more than 60,000 Allied internees from various parts of western Java who have been concentrated in the summer capital awaiting evacuation. Many were moved into the center of the city last week from outlying camps.

Air reconnaissance showed that the road between Bandoeng and Tjimahi, about 4 miles to the northwest, was still blocked in several places, although the road from Tjimahi to Batavia has been cleared. Indonesians have been reported concentrating along this road to halt food shipments from Batavia.

The British said a captured Indonesian car contained weapons and documents concerning a plan for an attack on British positions in Bandoeng.

Fighting In Other Cities

Fighting also continued at Soerabaja, Semarang, Ambarawa and Batavia.

British warships in Semarang harbor for the second day shelled an Indonesian strong point at Ungaran, about midway between Semarang and Ambarawa, the Dutch news agency Aneta said. British positions at Ambarawa and an internment camp near by were shelled by the Indonesians, it added.

Aneta said reconnaissance planes had seen Indonesian reinforcements moving toward Ambarawa from Magelang, twenty miles to the southwest, and had spotted Indonesian forces south and southwest of Ambarawa felling trees, laying mines and digging positions.

At Soerabaja, where additional Indian troops were landed, the British were reported to have occupied the Goebeno area.

In Batavia, Seaforth Highlanders clashed with several bands of Indonesians during the night. Two more Indonesian settlements were cleared by British troops with the aid of artillery.

TRUCE SOUGHT AT BANDOENG

But British Tell Governor Troops Must Quit Area.

Batavia, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—The Indonesian Governor of western Java asked the British Command today to halt military action at Bandoeng, and was told that Nationalist forces must evacuate the residential area north of the east-west railway line by noon tomorrow.

In the midst of a tense situation in the summer capital, the Javanese Governor approached British headquarters in Bandoeng under a white flag, an official British statement said. Earlier, strong Allied patrols had been ordered out in Bandoeng, about seventy-five miles southeast of Batavia, to disperse Indonesians who were gathering in the city, in one area of which some 60,000 former civilian internees of the Japanese were crowded.

A British commander told the Javanese Governor that if the area north of the rail line was not evacuated by the fixed deadline, any Indonesians found there after noon tomorrow would be liable to be shot by British patrols. But the Governor said that he was unable to "assent or make proposals."

To Hold Conferences.

Sutan Sjahrir, Premier of the unrecognized Indonesian Republic, planned to go into the interior of Java within a week with members of his cabinet, for conferences with local leaders in such trouble spots as Bandoeng.

Fighting in Ambarawa in central Java has been reported intensifying, and off Seamarang the guns of a British destroyer yesterday shelled the town of Oenganan, midway between Ambarawa and Semarang. Nationalist reinforcements were reported yesterday heading toward both Ambarawa and embattled Soerabaja.

A British officer-observer, returning from Dutch Borneo, said that the Dutch had charged Australian soldiers with selling arms to Indonesians. Australians are not permitted to keep their pistols when they return home, so the temptation to sell is obvious, the officer said.

Meanwhile the Americans evacuated to Singapore today the first seaman from an American ship to be injured in the Java fighting. He is Louis Verhoeven, a Belgian, who lived at 15 Hudson street, Hoboken, before the war. Verhoeven, a merchant marine officer aboard the Liberty ship A. B. Hammond, was shot by a sniper while riding a motorcycle in Batavia.

Yanks' Destruction Of War Gear Held Staggering

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 28 (AP)—C. A. Burley, correspondent for the Sydney Sun, said today in a dispatch from Rabaul that Americans abandoning Pacific islands are "dumping into the sea or are burning millions of pounds worth of gear."

Burley said Australian officers passing through the Pacific areas called the destruction "staggering in scope and thoroughness."

Burley said "the American argument is that if the stuff is shipped home it would merely mean shifting junk heaps from one place to another."

Planes Dumped Into Sea

The correspondent listed these incidents as having been reported by Australians:

In the Admiralities: 200 Hellcat fighters dumped into the sea.

NIGHT

nated [illegible] complete disagreement [illegible] own ideas."

"Never Ordered Such Actions"

"I never ordered such actions at all.

"And furthermore, if I have known of them in advance, I would have taken every possible means to cause them to stop immediately. And if I'd found out about them afterward, I would have punished them to the fullest extent of the military law."

Asked about a letter he wrote military police commending them, Yamashita said: "I sent the letter of praise because they discovered hidden dynamite under the floor of my officers' mess at Fort McKinley. Next they discovered near my headquarters a hidden cache of rifles and grenades. Also in a near-by village they found nearly 100 rifles."

Denies Receiving Plea

Yamashita said he had met the Filipino exile, General Ricarte, three times but never, as the prosecution charged, to hear the Filipino beg him to rescind a purported order to kill all Filipinos.

"I definitely never issued any such order to kill the civilian population. It is an unthinkable matter," Yamashita snapped.

Took Orders Himself

With equal vigor Yamashita disclaimed responsibility for any atrocities which might have been committed beyond his sphere of information. In crisp, military Japanese he explained that he was a subordinate commander, always under the orders of Field Marshal Count Hisaichi Terauchi, supreme Japanese commander in the Southwest Pacific.

The troops which he himself commanded, he said, were withdrawn from Manila last December, when he decided the city was indefensible. Japanese Navy personnel remained there, but Yamashita emphasized he had no control over them. Nor was he responsible, he said, for the actions of airforce men, Marine transportation corps detachments and 30,000 troops of other categories in the Philippines.

The defendant said the first he knew of any mistreatment of Manila civilians was on receipt of a protest from Madrid, relayed through Tokyo, concerning the killing of Spanish Nationals. This did not reach him until April, long after American troops had recaptured Manila.

Yamashita Denies Knowledge Of Atrocities In Philippines

Scheeler

Manila, Thursday, Nov. 29 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita concluded his testimony in his war-crimes trial by repeating over and over today that he did not know of any atrocities, never ordered any and never heard of any by his troops in the Philippines.

Gripping the arms of his chair, the Japanese commander said:

"Matters referred to in the charges here I have known for the first time from witnesses before this court. When and if such acts were committed by my subordi-

Prohibited Celebration

Earlier in the session Shigemasa Sunada, former member of the Japanese Diet, testified that Yamashita had refused to let his troops celebrate the fall of Singapore but instead had held memorial services for the dead and had erected a memorial to the fallen enemy.

On hearing this, the prosecution announced that in view of the defense injection of Singapore into the evidence, atrocities committed there would be dealt with in rebuttal testimony.

The Philippines Supreme Court meanwhile denied the petition of Yamashita's defense counsel for a writ of habeas corpus which would have taken him out of the hands of the military tribunal and delivered him into the jurisdiction of the island's civilian courts.

Lacked Power, Yamashita Claims

NOV 29 1945

Manila, Nov. 28 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita described himself today as a subordinate commander having somewhat of a bystander role in the defense of the Philippines and hence not accountable for the long list of Japanese atrocities detailed by the prosecution in his war crimes trial.

Testifying in his own defense before the United States military tribunal, Yamashita declared he always was under orders of Field Marshal Count Hisaichi Terauchi, supreme Japanese commander for the Southwest Pacific, and never had control of the air force, marine transportation corps, naval men and 30,000 other Japanese troops in the Philippines.

Atrocities

Asked whether he ordered or knew of atrocities, Yamashita gestured with his large, muscular hands and replied through his interpreter, "no, absolutely not."

Further, Yamashita insisted, he had determined that Manila was indefensible and had ordered his troops out last December.

Yamashita contended it was Japanese Navy troops that remained there, although he didn't know of it at the time, and that he himself never at any time even had his headquarters in the city.

Court Disclaims Jurisdiction

While the general was testifying, the Philippine Supreme Court denied his counsel's contention that the military tribunal was illegal and that Philippine civil courts should take jurisdiction.

Yamashita said the first he knew Manila civilians had been mistreated was upon receipt of Spain's protest forwarded via Tokyo on the killing of its nationals. The protest reached him in April and he asked the Shimbu Army Corps in Manila for an investigation.

Never Inspected Camps

He admitted never having inspected prisoner-of-war or internment camps because of day and night absorption in the task of planning the defense of Luzon. Nor could he remember much about verbal reports given him by Lieutenant General Kuo, the camps' director, except that "something was said about the food situation."

The man who conquered Malaya from the British in a slickly run operation at the start of the war said that when he arrived in the Philippines he found that his chief of staff was sick in bed and that only three staff officers were familiar with the terrain of the islands.

Troops Short Of Food

There were five fewer divisions than needed, he testified, and those that he had were short of supplies, especially food and fuel. Starvation of prisoners has been one of the points raised against Yamashita by the prosecution. Numerous Japanese defense witnesses have stated either that food for prisoners was adequate or was the best available.

Another witness, Shigemasa Sunada, a former Japanese Diet member, testified that Yamashita had refused to let his troops celebrate the fall of Singapore but instead had held memorial services for the dead and had erected a monument to the fallen enemy.

The prosecution announced that because the defense injected Singapore into the evidence, atrocities committed there would be presented during rebuttal testimony.

TOKYO PREMIER LAUGHED DOWN

Briggs

Diet Members Challenge His Democratic Intentions

Tokyo, Nov. 28 (AP)—Premier Baron Shidehara was greeted with derisive laughter and accused of having "no intention of carrying out a democratic government" when he appeared on the floor of the House of Representatives today.

NIGHT

The aged baron had been given light applause by the House of Lords when he read his gloomy state-of-the-nation speech, on the third day of the 89th session. It was a different story when he reached the House.

Progressive Breaks In

Taka Saito, Progressive party representative, was the first to break in on the Premier and was roundly applauded when he asserted that former Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye and wartime dictator Hideki Tojo were "fundamentally responsible for the war."

[Konoye, premier at the time of the China incident who later was shelved when the militarists took over for the war with the Allies, has been reported preparing to return to politics as a "liberal."]

Saito then asked what Shidehara's Government intended to do about placing responsibility for the war.

"Some are being investigated," the Premier replied, "some are arrested by occupation authorities. Some are giving up their positions because they recognize their responsibility."

Criticizes Snail's Pace

Saito turned to a criticism of the snail's-pace progress toward constitutional revision and asked if it were true the Cabinet "has no intention of carrying out a democratic government."

Shidehara replied that the Government had no concrete plans for reform now. This brought a burst of laughter from members and one called out: "That's the bureaucrat for you."

The Premier was laughed down again when he denied published reports he planned to dissolve the Diet after the current session.

Criticized In Press

The newspaper Yomiuri Hochi declared editorially that the Premier's speech throughout showed "apparent lack of complete recognition of Japan's defeat and the Cabinet's unsuitability to the times. The people are very unfortunate to have to go through such difficult times as these with such a government leader."

The newspaper brushed aside Shidehara's outline of difficulties in democratization and asked, "Has the Government ever carried out a great reform without waiting for directives from Allied headquarters?"

NOV 29 1945

30.24—3/1963

The newspaper Asahi said the speech confirmed a general belief that the Shidehara Cabinet was only transitory and "lacks the force to carry out political moves."

Unemployment Put First

The burden of Shidehara's speech was that "a solution of the growing unemployment is the most important and immediate task of the government."

The only applause for the Government came when Lieut. Gen. Sadashi Shimomura, War Minister, apologizing "from the bottom of my heart for the war result," declared: "War leaders conducted things badly."

Deliberations are scheduled to begin tomorrow on numerous Government bills ranging from legal elimination of restrictive laws to the election reform measure which Emperor Hirohito ordered in a rescript formally openeing the Diet yesterday.

Jap Blames Konoye For Starting War

Tokyo, Nov. 28 (AP)—Prince Fumimaro Konoye, former Premier, was named from the floor of the Japanese House of Representatives today as one of two men "fundamentally responsible for the war." The boisterous house also heckled freely Premier Baron Kijuro Shidehara after his "state of the nation" speech to the Diet.

Takao Saito, 75-year-old parliamentarian, asserted from the floor that Konoye and Pearl Harbor Premier Hideki Tojo were responsible for the war, adding that "the Japanese people hate these men more than anyone else." [Tojo is awaiting trial as a war-criminal suspect; Konoye, free, has been eying wistfully a fresh plunge into politics as a commoner and liberal.]

Ask About Kido

Other members promptly demanded:

"How about Kido?" (Marquis Koichi Kido, former Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal, a job now abolished.)

Representatives laughed aloud as Shidehara attempted to answer questions on constitutional and other reforms, betraying an increasing sharpness toward Shidehara's unstable Cabinet.

NOV 29 1945

Applaud War Minister

The members applauded a Government spokesman only once—when War Minister Sadashi Shimomura in answering a query added the remark:

"I apologize to the people from the bottom of my heart for the war result."

Throughout the first two hours of the interrogation, questions were devoted almost exclusively to the war, with heavy emphasis on war responsibility. The outspoken session attracted nearly 1,500 galleryites, including a small group of American officers.

"Long Road Ahead"

Shidehara in his outline of Japan's paramount problems declared that the path to final restoration of peace "is still long." The gray, elderly Premier spoke first to the peers, then repeated his message to the House.

The peers queried briefly on the food situation haunting Japan. But there was no spirited discussion of his speech highlighting the nation's major problems.

Fair Elections Urged

The Premier, whose Cabinet is foredoomed to collapse on conclusion of this Diet session, said that Japan, having accepted the Potsdam declaration, was obliged to remove all obstacles to a revival of development of democratic tendencies among its people. He reminded the Diet it must reflect the public will and "for that purpose there must be full and fair election."

All vestiges of militarism and ultra-nationalism must be wiped out of the educational system, he went on. He offered as immediate problems the food question, especially difficult since the rice crop is the lowest in 33 years, and assimilation of "several millions" of ex-soldiers into civilian life.

Supports Labor Unions

Shidehara advocated "healthy growth of labor unions" as a solution to the nation's labor problems, and pointed up adherence to the Government retrenchment policy embracing administrative reorganization, re-examination of the pension system and abolition of subsidies. Military pensions, except for disability, already have been wiped out by order of General MacArthur.

Postwar rehabilitation of the nation itself occasioned gravity from Shidehara. Existing controls must be removed from private initiative and enterprise, and efforts made to renew over 5,000,000,000 square feet of land laid waste by war, he said.

Pauley Awaits Red Reply On Korea

Tokyo, Nov. 28 (AP)—Edwin W. Pauley, American reparations commissioner, said today he had not yet received a reply to his request for permission to visit the Russian-occupied half of Korea but still was optimistic.

Pauley said he or some member of his commission would remain here until a reply was received to his request made through the State Department November 16. He said he also might go to Manchuria but was not pressing on that point immediately as he was waiting to see who would be the sponsor in that territory.

View On Jap Reparations

After two weeks of study in Japan and China, Pauley asserted he still believed Japan could not pay recurring reparations but that his remarks on this had been misinterpreted in the United States to mean there would be no reparations.

Japanese assets total great sums which will be taken over, he said, but after the initial payment, plus the occupation costs and a minimum necessary to keep Japan itself going, there will be little chance for collecting recurring reparations.

The Reparations Commission probably will announce within 30 days the plants and equipment which may be removed from Japan and distributed to other countries, he said.

Need For Raw Materials

It is important that when certain industries are moved from Japan, possibly to China and the Philippines, raw materials follow, Pauley remarked, adding, "that is one reason for our interest in northern Korea and Manchuria, for in 1942 and 1943, 66 per cent of Manchuria's total exports went to Japan."

He said he still did not know what the occupation costs in Japan would be but that a "rule of thumb" figure mentioned in the United States was $10 per man per day.

BARES MESSAGES ABOUT MACNIDER

Tokyo, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—Gen. MacArthur relayed to Marine Corps Headquarters a request by Brig.-Gen. Hanford MacNider that his son, Pfc. Jack MacNider, be permitted to return home from Tokyo, but MacArthur has no knowledge of young MacNider's discharge, headquarters spokesman said today.

The spokesman made public this exchange of radio messages involving Pfc. MacNider, whose return and discharge with 38 points, Marine Corps Headquarters said, were "in accordance with the radio request of Gen. MacArthur":

To Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, Marine Corps Commandant:

"MacNider very anxious to bring his son Pfc. Jack MacNider, Fifth Marine Division now on furlough in Tokyo back with him to United States to continue his medical schooling. If you can authorize such procedure be glad arrange air transportation for return with his father to United States where he will report any station you may designate."

The reply:

"Procedure outlined is authorized. Please direct Pfc. Jack MacNider report Marine Barracks Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill., duty, and grant him thirty days' delay en route if he so desires."

MacArthur has no administration over Marine Corps personnel, and the message exchange speaks for itself, the headquarters spokesman commented.

Rep. Reed (R-NY) told the House he 'deplored the favoritism shown" in discharging 18-year-old Marine Pvt. Jack MacNider, whose father is Brig. Gen. Hanford MacNider.

The youth, pre-medical student with two years' on Iwo Jima and other Pacific fighting zones behind him, had 38 of the 50 points normally required for Marine release. The Marine corps said he was discharged by radio request of General Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander in the far east.

The MacArthur reason was not given in a marine corps announcement of it. General MacNider, former National Commander of the American Legion with a record of service in both world wars, said yesterday at Mason City, Ia., that his son enlisted on his 17th birthday and "I asked permission to bring him back (from Japan) with me so he might continue his premedic studies."

The father sent his request to Marine headquarters here. He said he was anxious to get his son started as soon as possible because of the length of time for a complete medical course.

Rep. Kilday (D-Tex) declared it is essential for the nation's well-being that pre-medical and medical students be released at once. He said students of other specialties also should be discharged as quickly as possible.

Addressing the House, the Texan referred to the elder Mac-Nider as one of the few reserve officers "to see service at the front in general rank," adding:

"Still, his son should not be entitled to release because thereof. This evidence of preference will be deeply resented by many men held in service and by their families.

x x x

"Wowever, the incident does serve to bring forward a very critical situation confronting the nation. x x x he declared congress should get the medical students out if the President fails to do so.

Release of Gen. MacNider's Son Is Attacked by House Members

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—(AP) Military release of a general's son by special order drew criticism in the House today and a call for immediate discharge of all medical students in the armed forces.

Reed asserted: "I have many more cases far more meritorious both as to points and as to heroic service. Morover, in my district, there are numerous lads who ought to be in school or college finishing their incompleted educations."

"Have you ever been kicked or beaten by your superior officers?"

The G. I.'s replied: "No; not even once."

Decision On Trying Hirohito Delayed

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP) — Whether Emperor Hirohito will be tried as a war criminal will be decided after Joseph B. Keenan, chief prosecutor of the Japanese war criminals, reaches Tokyo, Keenan said in a broadcast tonight.

Former Japanese Premier Tojo, his associates and predecessors, will find themselves in the prisoners' docket, Keenan said. He added:

"Whether we will reach to the very, very top will be decided when we get there."

Keenan and his assistants will leave Saturday for Japan.

JAP OFFICER NOT TOLD OF WAR PRISONER RULES

KWAJALEIN, Nov. 27—(Delayed)—(AP) A Japanese naval officer with 26 years service, on trial for his life, declared today he never had been advised of the Geneva Convention regulating treatment of war prisoners.

The officer was Lt. Kyoshi Fueta, commander of the North Naval sector of Mili Atoll, one of 10 Japanese officers on trial here accused of beheading five American fliers in February of 1941.

Warrant Officer Tatanichi Manako, confessed executioner of one of the fliers—whose identities have not been disclosed—testified he cut off one flier's head on order from Fueta.

"To pay respect to the American flier who was about to die and become a god," Manako said, "I stopped to change into clean clothes before the execution."

Upon arriving at the scene of execution, Manako testified he had the American "button and straighten" his uniform.

"I then took seven steps backward," he continued. "I drew my sword with my right hand and bowed respectively to the American. I then poured water on the blade of my sword to purify it, stepped up to the American and cut off his head with a single stroke."

Afterward, Manako said, "full respects" were paid at the grave by all present.

He, as had other defendants, asserted that he felt the execution of the flier was wrong but he did not question the order.

Moen Island, Truk Atoll, Nov. 25 [AP—Delayed]—The Stars and Stripes were raised formally over this once-mighty Japanese naval base today.

Marine Brig. Gen. Robert Blake, of Berkeley, Cal., commanding the central Carolines occupation forces, and naval officers and Marines stood at attention as a United States naval color guard hoisted the flag. A delegation of natives plus 1,000 Japanese prisoners looked on.

Marine Lieut. Col. C. E. Emrich, of Casey, Ill., operations officer for Blake's command, read a proclamation from Admiral Nimitz declaring that this territory henceforth would be under American rule and promising all natives full civil and religious liberties.

The Truk occupation garrison came ashore yesterday, the 21st Marine Battalion and the 29th Naval Construction Battalion composing most of the forces.

In Washington, the Navy said the occupation of Truk was solely a military operation.

The military government will remain in control pending final disposition of the former enemy stronghold, the Navy added.

Four Ministers Harm Aspiration Of Perón

NOV 29 1945

Buenos Aires, Nov. 28 (AP)—Col. Juan D. Perón's presidential aspiration received a setback this week when four cabinet ministers refused to sign a decree under which workers would share profits of Argentine concerns, a capital source said today.

Perón, former vice president and still a power in the military government, had banked on the measure to win votes in the election scheduled for February 24.

Ministers refusing to sign the decree were Gen. Jose Humberto Sosa Molina, War; Rear Admiral Abelardo Pantins, Navy; Gen. Felipe Urdapilleta, Interior, and Pedro S. Marotta, Agriculture.

WARNS ON ATOM

Paris, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—Irene Joliot-Curie, pioneer in atomic research, told the International Women's Congress today "fighting still is going on in some countries and greater conflicts may arise if we cannot dispel the present uneasinss in the world."

Mrs. Muriel Draper, head of the United States delegation and a delegate of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, presided at today's session. She arrived with seven other American delegates yesterday. Four other delegates still are awaited.

Feminine representatives of forty-one nations are attending the conference in the Palais du la Mutalite. They will examine problems connected with the status of women and care of families.

LEGISLATORS ASK PROBE OF CHARGES MADE BY HURLEY

Gen. Marshall Confers with Truman, Byrnes at White House.

TO LEAVE TODAY

Clamor for Investigation Arises in Both Houses of Congress.

NOV 29 1945

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 — (AP) Demands for an investigation of United States foreign policy swept Capitol Hill today as legislators vigorously debated the charges levelled by Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley against some of America's professional diplomats.

Meanwhile, Gen. George C. Marshall slipped quietly into the White House for a conference with President Truman and Secretary Byrnes prior to leaving probably tomorrow for China to replace Hurley, who resigned as ambassador yesterday.

Hit "Career" Diplomats

Hurley charged career diplomats with undermining American policy in China by backing communists or "imperialists" instead of democracy and unity.

Clamor for Congressional investigations of Hurley's charges arose in both Senate and House, with Republicans leading the demands. Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee protested that "This is no time for partisan politics—this is no time to inject into foreign affairs matters of political expediency."

Senator Wherry (R-Neb), saying that the conduct of American diplomats as reported by Hurley "skirts the edge of treason," had introduced a resolution calling for a special committee to investigate the whole course of U. S. foreign policy and the state department. Wherry declares that "We need a housecleaning in the State Department."

Connally, to whose committee the resolution was referred, replied that his own group was "entirely capable" of making the investigation. He added that he had "been considering calling some of these parties," and that, in fact:

"I'd like to have General Hurley come up here and look us in the eye and tell us what some of these terrible things are."

Connally read part of Hurley's statement from a newspaper, then asked the Senate: "What is his complaint?"

Agreed With Policies

He said Hurley declared himself in full agreement with the Truman-Byrnes foreign policies," yet he resigns because he does not like what some clerk or assistant is doing."

On the House floor, demands for an investigation came from Reps. Jones of Ohio and Herter and Rogers of Massachusetts, all Republicans, and from Rep. Gore (D-Tenn).

Rep. Curtis (R-Neb) called in a House speech for Secretary Byrnes to "discharge all communists on the payroll" of the state department. Byrnes previously made it clear at his news conference that he planned no exhaustive investigation of Hurley's charges against department personnel.

Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio) asked that further Congressional action on funds for UNRRA be held up until Hurley could testify before the House foreign affairs committee. He made his request in a letter to Rep. Bloom (D-NY), chairman of that committee.

Suggestions that the whole foreign service system be "thoroughly cleansed and reorganized" also came from a former diplomat—Hugh G. Grant, onetime U. S. minister to Albania and Siam.

Envoy Lauds Hurley

In an interview in Atlanta, Grant praised Hurley for "revealing the obstructionist tactics" of career foreign service officers.

Hurley hinted in a talk at the National Press club that he might contribute to any investigation of foreign policy.

In language as picturesque as his appearance, he declared that if attacks on him continued, he might tell "the name, number and places where we have supported ideologies contrary to the principles for which we said we were fighting this war."

There were reports today that Hurley had in his possession a file of messages allegedly sent to Chinese Communists by diplomats considered by Hurley to be Communist sympathizers.

Secretary Byrnes told his news conference there had been no change in American policy toward China and reiterated that U. S. troops were in North China only to disarm and repatriate Japanese forces.

Referring to this statement in his Press Club talk as "a public endorsement of my policy," Hurley said if Byrnes had spoken up earlier, "My career might have been changed."

Hurley Changes Mind

Hurley today acknowledged he had told Byrnes Monday that he would return to China "temporarily.' He said he had changed his mind when he read in the newspapers Monday night about the attacks made on him in Congress that day.

"I thought the time had come to commence firing," he said. "I was in contact, so I commenced."

Hurley previously told a reporter he was particularly incensed at the speech of Rep. Delacy (D-Wash.) in which the Congressman charged that a "reversal" of President Roosevelt's policies in China by Hurley had made the present civil war inevitable.

It was the "same medicine" that his opponents in the State department and foreign service had constantly "leaked" to the press, Hurley said.

He charged that the State department was "covered with a veil of secrecy which prevents our people from getting the facts."

Hurley Suggests U.S. Statement On China

NOV 29 1945

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—President Truman's most lavishly praised wartime lieutenant, General of the Army George C. Marshall, prepared today to step into the world's No. 1 postwar trouble spot—China.

On hearing of Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley's spectacular resignation as Ambassador yesterday, Mr. Truman immediately called Marshall from his week-old retirement.

The former army chief of staff will become special envoy to China as a temporary replacement to Hurley, who caught both the President and Secretary of State Byrnes by surprise with his 1,500-word statement that he was quitting.

Calls For U.S. Statement

In a telephone interview, Hurley followed up that statement with two proposals:

1. That the State Department issue a public statement of policy toward China.

2. That the United States also issue a "positive statement" that it intends to "stabilize China until the United Nations Organization can take over that responsibility."

He declined to discuss the point in detail but said he thought a positive statement would "do a lot to clear up the situation."

"It might be worth several divisions," he added.

Disarming Still Top Job

By selecting a five-star general to succeed one with two stars, rather than choosing a civilian diplomat, Mr. Truman appeared to be emphasizing again the viewpoint that the disarming of Japanese troops is still the top job in China.

Both the War and State departments have said repeatedly in recent weeks that United States troops are in northern China only to facilitate the surrender of Japanese forces, not as instruments of American foreign policy.

However American policy toward China has been under critical review before Hurley's resignation because of the danger that United States troops might become actively involved in the fight between Chinese Government and Chinese Communist armies.

Two Aides To Report Soon

In connection with that review, it appeared likely that before Marshall's departure from Washington, Mr. Truman would have fresh information on the Chinese situation from two sources.

Under Secretary of the Navy Artemus Gates is due in Washington momentarily from the Far East. He told reporters at Pearl Harbor Monday that he would "make specific recommendations which may affect United States policy in China."

Edwin A. Locke, personal representative of the President, also is en route by plane from Chungking after touring China for the last two months on an economic mission.

Marshall At White House

Marshall himself was due at the White House today for a conference with Mr. Truman and Byrnes.

The President—who has acclaimed Marshall as the greatest military figure the world has ever known—called the General at his Leesburg (Va.) home to ask him to take on the chore.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross described the assignment as one "to do a particular job that needs to be done in China."

Marshall will leave soon, Ross added.

Served In China Before

The former chief of staff served several tours of duty in China and attended several Anglo-American-Chinese conferences during the war.

Hurley, meanwhile scheduled an on-the-record luncheon talk before the National Press Club.

At the same time, Byrnes' weekly news conference today afforded him an opportunity to reply to Hurley's contentions yesterday that American career diplomats had sided with both the Chinese Communists and an "imperialist bloc" to hamstring United States foreign policy in the Far East.

Warns Of Third World War

Gravely, Hurley warned in his statement that a third world war is "in the making."

Through his special assistant, Michael J. McDermott, Byrnes disclosed last night why he and Mr. Truman were caught off balance by Hurley's resignation. This was McDermott's explanation:

At about the same time Monday that the President was pinning an Oak Leaf Cluster to Marshall's Distinguished Service Medal at a Pentagon ceremony, Brynes and Hurley were conferring at the State Department.

Resignation A Surprise

Byrnes told Hurley that both he and Mr. Truman hoped the Ambassador would agree to remain in his post and return to Chungking as soon as possible. When Hurley left his officer, Byrnes was under the impression that the Ambassador had agreed to go back to China—and the Secretary so notified the President later in the day.

Thus news wires into the White House and State Department carried the first word of the general's resignation.

Hurley, however, told a reporter he thought McDermott "overstated it a bit" in his account.

Comments On Marshall

Hurley added he thought Marshall's appointment would be "helpful to the situation in China."

This sentiment was widely shared on Capitol Hill. It also was expressed by Chinese Ambassador Wei Tao-ming, who said in a statement that China was "very fortunate" in getting Marshall as a special envoy.

Reports from Chungking said Marshall's selection was "a thunderbolt-like surprise," which was taken as an indication of Washington's "immense interest" in events in the Orient.

These reports also said it was felt that Marshall would be able to make an on-the-spot decision as to whether United States Marines would remain in North China or return home.

Hurley Attacks Imperialists —British, French and Dutch

NOV 29 1945

Says English Civil Servants and American Career Diplomats Thwart Allied Plan for a United, Democratic China.

Washington, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—Major-Gen. Patrick J. Hurley said today that British, French and Dutch imperialists in Asia were hamstringing the professed policy of the Allies to help China establish "a free, united, democratic Government."

Hurley, who resigned yesterday as Ambassador to China and declared that American foreign policy in the Far East was bolstering both Communism and Imperialism, spoke to a capacity crowd in the National Press Club auditorium. He said he thought there was "no question" that the policy of helping China toward democracy had the support of both the Russsian and British governments, but he added that it "definitely did not have the support of the imperialist civil servants of Britain in Asia."

"It did not have the support of the French Imperialists," he said. "It did not have the support of the Netherlands Imperialists."

In addition, he reiterated, the policy was opposed by American career diplomats.

Meanwhile, the Washington Evening Star said today that Hurley had in his possession a file of messages allegedly sent to the Chinese Communists by some of those "he considered Communist sympathizers in the State Department.

Most of Hurley's talk was a repetition of the assertions made in his sensational statement today of resignation yesterday. He did, however, defend the presence in China of United States troops and denied that they were there to "control" that country.

"What Gen. Wedemeyer is doing in China now is distinctly a closing phase of our war against Japan," he said, referring to Lieut.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, United States Army commander in China.

Both Hurley and Wedemeyer have come in for some public criticism for the presence of United States troops in areas where Chinese Nationalists and Communists are fighting a virtual civil war. Hurley said "America's war in the Pacific was to preve nt the dominion of China by Japanese imperialism." He added:

"We have won the war, but we have not freed China of Japanese soldiers nor have we put China in possession of the territory that was overrun by Japan."

He repeated his statement that he had accomplished his primary objectives in China—preventing the Chinese Government and armies from collapsing and bettering relations between the armies and governments of China and the United States—over the opposition of American career diplomats. If he had failed in these assignments, he said, "it would have released more than a million, and nearer to two million, Japanese soldiers to meet our soldiers, sailors and marines on the beaches."

Story of Intercepted Messages.

The Evening Star story was that Hurley has in his possession a file of messages allegedly sent to the Chinese communists by some of "those whom he considered communist sympathizers in the State Department." These alleged messages were intercepted by American agents in China, the newspaper reported, adding that Hurley was reported to have shown them to President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes at the White House Monday and offered to resign at that time.

"Secretary Byrnes, with the President's concurrence, is said to have assured Gen. Hurley that he possessed their complete confidence, that if he would return to China he would have their support and a free hand in dealing with State Department representatives in China," the Star said.

While all this was happening, the newspaper said, Representative De Lacey (D.-Wash.) was delivering a speech in the House attacking Hurley for causing "the resignation of former United States Ambassador to China, Clarence E. Gauss."

Links Hurley to Civil War.

De Lacey was quoted by the Star as saying: "Step by step, Ambassador Hurley's reversal of the Roosevelt-Gauss policies in China have made the present civil war unavoidable. He and Gen. Wedemeyer have now committed us to armed intervention."

Until yesterday morning, the Star asserted, Hurley was unaware of this speech and still planned to return to China, but then he read De Lacey's speech in the Congressional Record.

"It was said today," the Star continued, "that Gen. Hurley's sudden reversal of stand, on reading the De Lacey speech, resulted from the fact that he saw in the speech additional confirmation of his suspicions that his own reports to the State Department were being permitted to leak out to critics."

Political Aspirations Are Denied By Hurley

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley told a reporter tonight he had "no political aspirations at the moment," and had not discussed with anyone the possibility of running for United States Senator in 1946 or President in 1948.

"You'll have to treat those things as rumors," he said.

Reports had circulated in Washington that Hurley would seek the Republican nomination for Senator from New Mexico next year and that he might be in the running for the G.O.P. presidential nomination in 1948.

Move Made To Hear General Before He Goes To China

NOV 29 1945

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—Former Ambassador Joseph C. Grew testified today that some codes used by the American Embassy in Tokyo were destroyed before war broke out December 7, 1941.

And some were not destroyed until after the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor on that date, he told the Senate-House committee investigating the disaster.

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—A move developed in the congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee today to call Gen. George C. Marshall as a witness before he goes to China as President Truman's special envoy.

Chairman Barkley (D., Ky.) said he thought "the committee would expect to hear him before he leaves." Senator George (D., Ga.) assumed that Marshall would be leaving soon and thought it was important to call the former army chief of staff "right away."

Representative Gearhart (R., Cal.) commented that he would be "inclined to insist upon hearing him before he leaves."

An army board which investigated the Japanese attack on December 7, 1941, took especial note of the way a final warning message from Marshall to Gen. Walter C. Short, army commander, in Hawaii, was handled.

Sent By Commercial Cable

The board said that while Marshall telephoned an alert to Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Philippines, he sent a similar message to Short by commercial cable. It was not delivered until three hours after the attack.

Former Secretary of State Hull was excused from testifying today because of the weather. As the hearing resumed, Joseph C. Grew, former Ambassador to Tokyo, returned to the witness chair.

Representative Murphy (D., Pa.) said he plans to ask Hull specifically whether he received information from any source December 6 or 7, 1941, that the Japanese were planning the Pearl Harbor attack.

Not Yet Asked

Murphy said:

"After all that is what we are trying to find out—if anybody in Washington had any inkling beforehand of the Japanese plans. Nobody yet has asked the question of Hull."

Murphy, whose turn it was to question Hull, said he would ask only the single question. The former Secretary testified yesterday he was told of the actual attack in a telephone message from President Roosevelt only a few minutes before he was to meet the Japanese "peace" envoys at 1 P.M. December 7, 1941.

At that time, Hull said, the President had only an unverified report the attack had been made.

Brewster Has Questions

When Murphy is through, Senator Brewster (R., Me.) said he wants to ask Hull what he knows about a previous statement of Admiral J. O. Richardson, then commander in chief of the fleet, that Mr. Roosevelt told Richardson at a White House luncheon in October, 1940, that the United States might not fight if Japan attacked the Philippines.

Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of staff to Mr. Roosevelt and now serving President Truman in the same capacity, told the committee he had no recollection of any such statement at the luncheon, which Leahy also attended.

Brewster said he also wants to know what caused Hull to phone the President at Warm Springs December 1, 1941, and urge Mr. Roosevelt's immediate return to Washington.

What Ferguson Seeks

Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) said he plans to continue trying to find out just what information Grew passed on to Washington before the Japanese attacked.

Grew yesterday told of a meeting with Prince Fumimaro Konoye on September 6, 1941, in which the then Japanese Premier urged the Ambassador to arrange a meeting for him with President Roosevelt. The meeting never was held.

Ferguson said he had no opinion either way whether the proposed meeting would have prevented the war.

Held Secret Meeting

Grew testified that he and Konoye went to the trouble of changing the license plates on their cars and meeting at the home of a mutual friend in Tokyo to avoid detection by the Japanese military extremists.

Konoye told him, Grew said, that if a meeting with Mr. Roosevelt could not be arranged, the Konoye government would fall and be replaced by a militarist regime.

Grew informed Washington that Konoye's downfall would bring about "the formation of a military dictatorship lacking either the disposition or temperament to avoid colliding head-on with the United States."

Konoye was succeeded as Premier by Hideki Tojo, who served during most of the war.

Said Japs Were "Tough"

Grew said, under questioning by Ferguson, that he had told Washington officials many times that the Japanese army and navy were "tough." He asserted he was in no way responsible if officials here thought that Japan would be beaten in a few weeks.

He said he had never heard of any agreement between Britain and the United States for joint use of Singapore in case of war.

Ferguson went into a statement made by Eugene H. Dooman, counselor of the Tokyo embassy, to a Japanese leader named Ohashi in 1940 that the American people would not "look with complacency" on any effort of Japan to cut Great Britain's communications to her colonies and dominions.

Question Of Action

Ohashi was quoted as having asked Dooman if he meant that a Japanese attack on Singapore would cause the United States to go to war. Dooman replied that such an attack would raise the question of American action.

"That doesn't mean that it necessarily would have meant war," Grew said. He added that he backed Dooman's statement that the question of action would have to be considered by the United States.

that:

1. Baron Hiranuma, then Japan's premier, suggested in 1939 a world conference aimed at heading off war in Europe.

Destroyed Codes

2. The American embassy in Tokyo began destroying its codes—a step usually taken only when a break in relations is expected—a "few days" before Pearl Harbor.

Grew told of the 1939 Japanese proposal for a world conference in response to a question from Rep. Keefe (R.-Wis.). It came just before the committee's adjournment hour and was not developed in detail.

Grew said he believed such a proposal was made, however, to Eugene Dooman, counselor of the U. S. embassy in Tokyo, at a time when he (Grew) was in the United States on leave.

Parley Might Have Averted War, Grew Says

Thought It Would Be 'Good Gamble' if FDR and Konoye Met.

DESTROYED CODES

Former Ambassador Reveals Action Few Days Prior to Pearl Harbor.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 — (AP) Joseph C. Grew said today he thought it was a "good gamble" in 1941 that a personal meeting of President Roosevelt and Japanese Prime Minister Konoye might have averted war in the Pacific.

From the tall, gray-mustached former ambassador to Tokyo, the joint congressional committee investigating Pearl Harbor also heard Keefe asked that Dooman, who lives in Washington, be called as a witness. He also asked that Stanley Hornbeck, now ambassador to the Netherlands, be brought home to testify concerning a memorandum Keefe said he was informed that Hornbeck handed the Army and Navy on Dec. 1, 1941, relative to their state of preparedness.

At the time, Hornbeck was a special adviser on Far Eastern affairs to Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Secret Negotiations

Grew had related yesterday that Konoye conducted highly secret negotiations with him in September, 1941, in an effort to arrange a personal "peace meeting with Mr. Roosevelt.

Reverting to that testimony, Keefe brought an acknowledgment from the witness that Grew and his senior advisers in Tokyo had urged it.

"We in Tokyo felt," Grew said, "that if Prime Minister Konoye and President Roosevelt could meet face to face" something might be worked out to avert a clash.

30.24—31967

In saying he had believed it a "good gamble," Grew said he considered the Konoye offer was made in "good faith."

In his opinion, he said, Konoye and many other influential Japanese outside the military clique had come to realize Japan was courting disaster and were ready to try to turn her course from aggression if their hands could be strengthened by the United States.

Yet the outcome of any such move was purely speculative, he said, adding that no one could say for sure whether Konoye, in the face of opposition from military extremists, could have carried out any commitments he might have made.

Hull Doubted Plan

Former Secretary Hull told the committee earlier in the week that doubt as to Konoye's ability to carry through on any promises was one factor in the President's decision against such a meeting.

Hull said also there was a belief that if a meeting were held and failed to achieve results the United States' moral position would be weakened and its standing in the Far East injured.

On the matter of destroying the codes, Grew testified that he did not recall ever receiving any direct instructions from the State department concerning them. Nor could he recall the exact day the destruction began.

"We destroyed some of our codes a few days before Pearl Harbor," he said in response to questions from Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.). "We kept certain others until the last moment. We destroyed them after we had learned that war had begun."

Grew's examination was interrupted at intervals by clashes among the committee members over the question of whether the diaries he kept while in Tokyo should be demanded for inspection.

On that, the former ambassador took a position that they were "personal and private" papers and that it would be an invasion of his privacy to bring them into the hearings.

Senator Brewster (R-Maine) first suggested they should be produced but agreed not to press the issue at that time.

Chairman Barkley (D-Ky) and other Democrats had indicated opposition.

Questioned on Diaries

Keefe later began questioning Grew about the diaries.

In response to the Wisconsin Representative's probing, Grew testified he had submitted the diaries in full to Quincy Howe, an editor for Simon and Schuster who published Grew's book, "Ten Years in Japan."

Grew also acknowledged that.

Parts of the diaries were submitted earlier to a representative of Collier's magazine.

The manuscript of "Ten Years in Japan" was submitted to the State department and deletions made at its suggestion. (Grew said the deletions were portions which might embarrass individuals or be misinterpreted by foreign governments.)

The 1940 election campaign, in which President Roosevelt defeated Wendell Willkie and won a third term, was also brought into Keefe's questioning.

This came in connection with testimony about a meeting Dooman had with Vice Minister Ohashi of the Japanese Foreign Office on Feb. 14, 1941.

As that testimony went, Dooman had just returned from a visit to the United States and told the Japanese he had found strong sentiment here for support of Britain.

Ohashi asked if that meant the United States would go to war if Singapore were attacked.

"The logic of the situation would inevitably raise that problem," Dooman was quoted as saying. Grew read the quotation from a State Department document.

Grew said he thought Dooman was trying to offset an impression among some Japanese that "we were timid." He added that militarists had news of American strikes and "Isolationist" speeches published to spread that impression.

Keefe said Dooman was here during the 1940 campaign and remarked that as he recalled both Roosevelt and Willkie had said this country was not going to war.

Keefe said he wondered if one purpose of the Dooman conversation was not "To try to give him the impression that a lot of stuff they had heard in this campaign did not represent" the American attitude.

Ex-Censorship Director Reports to Truman
Americans Must Soon Decide Whether to Finish Job or Withdraw

NOV 29 1945

Washington, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—Byron Price bluntly warned today that the situation in occupied Germany is growing worse hourly and that the American Government must soon decide whether it will abandon its first major attempt to rule a conquered people.

The former censorship dictator made the assertions in a report on a survey of conditions in the Reich for President Truman. The report was released by the White House. Mr. Truman sent it to State, War and Navy departments with a request for careful study.

Price called for a re-examination of the entire structure of military government in Germany, including the Potsdam declaration; blamed France for most of the current occupation difficulties, and declared that France should tell all the world whether she is bent on dismemberment of Germany.

The German people, nursing old and new hatreds with mounting bitterness, he said, are listening hourly for the voice of a new leader that desperation may produce.

Decisions to Be Made.

Among the points made by Price:

"The United States must decide whether we mean to finish the job competently or withdraw.

"We must decide whether we are going to permit starvation, with epidemics and disorders, in the American zone, or ship the food to prevent it.

"We must decide whether obstructions raised by the French Government are to be permitted to defeat the underlying purposes of Allied policy."

"All of our propaganda efforts to instill a sense of collective German guilt have fallen flat."

Mr. Truman, in a brief statement accompanying Price's report, said it was "worthy of the most careful consideration."

Criticizes French Attitude.

The report amplifies Price's assertion that as a result of the French attitude, "Germany is not being treated as an economic unit," but is being handled in a way that virtually amounts to "its economic dismemberment."

"The necessity of breaking the present deadlock in the control council in Berlin is so important that use of the full force and prestige of American diplomatic power to that end is fully warranted," Price declared.

"Repeated attempts have been made to set up common policies so that the German railways, the German postal service and other essential facilities could be operated as integral national systems. All of these attempts have failed, due almost entirely to the rigid opposition of the French."

If France is bent on dismemberment of Germany, Price said, "she should be made to acknowledge that policy before the world and not permit it to hide behind the opposite pronouncements of the Potsdam Declaration." He added that "our own policies should then be re-examined accordingly."

Using what he described as "blunt" language, Price said that the urgency of immediate decisions "is deepened not only by the continuing four-Power deadlock at Berlin, but by the approach of winter."

Would Break Deadlock.

In addition to breaking the four-power deadlock, Price also recommended:

1. That the change-over of military government to civilian control should be made with the very highest type of civilian administrators, and that it should not take place at the top level earlier than June 1. This date originally was recommended by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

2. Revision of top level instructions issued from Washington to the military government in Germany. "The whole collection of orders and instructions could profitably be rewritten into a few hundred words of general principles," Price said.

3. Provision should be made for the shipment of additional food exports from the United States, on credit, to provide at least the approved medical ration of 2,000 calories to prevent starvation.

"If starvation comes, as now seems likely, epidemics and rioting will not be far behind," Price said. He asserted that the present rationing in Germany is inadequate for a people who are expected to work, and who have no heat at home and no way to reach their places of employment except by walking.

De-Nazification Speeded.

4. Asserting that de-Nazification of private industry has gone faster in the American zone than in other parts of Germany, he said the military government should be given greater discretion locally to decide when and how it should proceed in regard to essential services. He said railroads, the communications system and other essential facilities "have been handicapped greatly by abrupt removal of Nazis from key positions and installation of inexperienced substitutes.

5. Discontinuance of the present practice of screening spot information coming into Germany from the outside world since suppression in the German press or on the German radio raises the question how our policy differs from that of Goebbels.

"In general, the German press and radio should have freedom of opinion also, but the publication of anti-democratic propaganda should not be permitted," he said.

6. With winter bringing into the open "whatever threat of real disorder and rebellion" may now lie beneath the surface in Germany, he said, "this is the wrong time to permit Gen. Eisenhower's armed forces in Germany to be decimated and robbed of military effectiveness by demobilization."

"Asserting there is widespread surprise among Germans over the delays in bringing Nazis to trial as war criminals, Price said that whereever the responsibility lies, this failure does not improve relations with a German people who traditionally respect only firm and swift authority.

Groves Favors Laying in Store Of Atom Bombs

NOV 29 1945

Tells Senators Plants That Cost 500 Million a Year Should Build Up Supply

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP).—The Army officer who directed development of the atomic bomb recommended today that their manufacture be continued until we have "sufficient" bombs on hand and a decision is reached on control of the fearful weapon.

Major General L. R. Groves, head of the top-sceret Manhattan Engineers Project which developed the bomb, was questioned for two hours by the Senate atomic energy committee.

Certain economies already have been effected at the bomb plants in Tennessee, Washington and New Mexico, he said, but he counseled their continued operation for a couple of years to build up our stockpile of bombs. After that it may be possible to reduce the magnitude of the operations somewhat, he added.

[In his testimony General Groves estimated that it will cost about $500,000,000 yearly to maintain the nation's atomic establishments, The United Press reported.]

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan, wanted to know how much the peace-time operations would cost. Perhaps a little less than $500,000,000 a year, General Groves replied, adding that he had not yet prepared detailed estimates and hoped Congress wouldn't hold him to his snap judgment.

Some of the salient points of General Groves's testimony:

Lack of control over development and use of atomic energy would mean "national suicide."

A special commission independent of any other government agency should be given complete authority over all activities in the atomic field, subject only to approval of Congress and the President.

He approves "essentially" the principle of control announced Nov. 15 by President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee and Prime Minister Mackenzie King. (Their plan calls for creation of a commisison to recommend control principles to the United Nations; pending the development of effective safeguards against destructive use of atomic energy, they would not disclose specialized information regarding its practical application.)

Reliance on an international inspection system to prevent the manufacture of atomic weapons would be "hopeless" and "impossible unless you could go into every factory or home without notice or warrant. I would not want any part of it."

The general sketched an imaginary view of the City of Washington after the dropping of one atomic bomb in the "Federal Triangle" of government buildings.

There would be nothing left in an area two miles in diameter, he said. The completely ruined section would extend from the Capital on the east, past the White House, to the national cathedral on the west. Windows would be blown out of the Pentagon Building across the Potomac in Virginia, he said, and the downtown area would be covered with rubble two feet deep. A few walls might be left standing but the buildings would be unfit for any use.

PRICE SAYS U. S. RULE IN REICH IS FAILURE

U. S. Drifting Toward War With Reds, Senator Warns

Johnson Urges America to Stop 'Trying to Bluff Russians'

NOV 29 1945

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP) Senator Johnson (D-Colo.) told the Senate today that "we are drifting toward war with Russia with certainty and speed."

He urged that the U. S. stop "trying to bluff Russia with conscription of 'teen-age boys." He said he would "like to see the United States stand up to Russia and say in serious dignity:

" 'Brother, you haven't a thing on this earth that we covet other than your cooperation, frienpship and good will. But don't make the fatal mistake of pushing us around—we won't take it'."

Johnson took the floor in support of a measure providing for the appointment of U. S. delegates to the United Nations Organization and for the allocation of U. S. armed forces to its security council.

Before "God Almighty in his infinite wisdom dropped the atomic bomb in our lap," Johnson said he might have supported amendments which Senator Taft (R-Ohio) introduced to restrict the President's activities under the measure. He "might even," he added, have supported Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) who opposed the bill outright.

But now, Johnson said, he favors the bill. He favors the "organized world effort to stop war backed by force," he continued—and he favors the U. S. alone providing the required force with the atomic bomb.

Will the world like this plan, he asked?

"Every peace-loving nation who fears aggression and who has faith in our high ideals and our good intentions will like it," he said, "and we ought not to care whether others, if any there be, like it or not."

Others Speak on Soviet

Russia also figured in other senators' discussion of the measure.

Senator Morse (R-Ore.), urging a resolution which would refer to the international court of justice automatically all disputes to which the U. S. is a party, said that the U. S. and Russia now are the only nations which have not agreed to such procedure. He contended that this country should set the example.

Taft, offering amendments which he said would "impose some rather mild rules" on the President's activity, proposed to require the U. S. delegate by law to vote in the security council only for measures which "will bring about a result in accord with international justice."

As illustration, he said it was possible that the council might decide that "peace and security" required the total abolition of Poland. His amendment, he explained, would forbid the U. S. delegate to vote for such a thing in the interest of peace.

Taft also contended that the economic and other sanctions which the bill would empower the President to invoke against an aggressor, upon call of the security council, could be "extreme" ones. They could, he said, "cover the suppression of the press and censorship of all news out of the U.S."

Therefore he proposed that any such presidential action be effective only for three months. For a longer period, Congress would have to vote the sanctions specifically.

But these and other amendments failed to reach a vote as the Senate completed its third day of debate. Again the attendance was slim in the galleries and on the floor. At times there were only two or three senators in the chamber besides the one who was speaking.

Connally Assails Delays, Fights For UNO Vote

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—Senator Connally (D., Texas) declared today that he is "not going to stand for" delaying interruptions in the Senate's debate on American participation in the United Nations Organization.

As the chamber prepared to take up a series of Republican-sponsored amendments to a bill that would place this country actively in the peace-preserving setup, the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee said he would fight them all off in a drive for a final vote.

"Plenty Of Votes" For Okay

Connally, floor manager for the measure drafted by his committee, said he has "plenty of votes" for passage but added:

"If we keep geting interruptions of the type that occurred yesterday we's be here until Christmas, and I'm not going to stand for it."

Connally successfully fought off attempts yesterday to have the UNO measure laid aside in favor of other bills and listened intently as Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) delivered a four-hour criticism of the United Nations and current foreign policy.

Wheeler said that if the UNO already were functioning to stop aggression "you would be compelled to go to war with Russia."

Five Amendments Ahead

When Wheeler concluded, Senator Taft (R., Ohio) proposed three amendments, Senator Donnell (R., Mo.) offered another and Senator Morse (R., Ore.) said he would have one later.

Taft proposed first that this country's representative on the UNO's Security Council seek immediate action to limit armaments and the use of such weapons as the atomic bomb, rockets and poison gas.

His second amendment calls for various restrictions on the United States representative and provides among other things that the President submit to the International Court of Justice any dispute involving the United States.

Curb On Troops Sought

The third would limit presidential power to use troops for UNO purposes to a three-month period and require congressional approval of later moves.

Donnell went a step beyond this by proposing that the President obtain the "advice and consent" of two thirds of the Senate on any agreements with the Security Council. This is the same approval required for ratification of a treaty.

The bill as it now stands authorizes the President to make a military agreement with the Security Council setting the number of United States troops to be made available. It specifices that this agreement shall be subject to approval by majority vote of the Senate and House—instead of two thirds of the Senate as Donnell proposed.

Vandenberg On Russia

During Wheeler's address, Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) arose to say he agreed with Wheeler about wrongs done some small nations by Russia. But Vandenberg added that he was co-operating to set up the UNO because he saw "no hope on earth" for correcting such wrongs other than through the UNO charter.

Connally asked if Wheeler favored going to war with Russia. Replying that he did not, Wheeler said what he wanted was to have it made clear to Russia that the United States did not approve of her actions.

STOLEN DOCUMENT TOLD CHINA REDS OF CHIANG'S ARMY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28. — (AP) Rep. Dondero (R-Mich) said today that a document removed from secret government files last spring detailed the disposition of Chinese Nationalist forces under Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek.

"It is easy to visualize the consequences of this information in the hands of the Communist forces in China, then and now," Dondero told the House.

NOV 29 1945

The government early in June charged Philip J. Jaffe, of New York, editor of Amerasia magazine, and five others with conspiring unlawfully to remove files and records from the State, War and Navy departments.

Jaffe Later Fined

Dondero said that Jaffe, who later paid a $2,500 fine, had conferred prior to his arrest with a representative of the Chinese Communist forces and with Earl Browder, former head of the Communist party in the United States.

"Is there any doubt in anybody's mind what became of the military secrets which Jaffe then possessed as stolen property of our government?" Dondero asked.

The Congressman identified the Chinese as Tung Pi Wu, and said he was the duly accredited representative of the Communist regime in North China to the United Nations Conference at San Francisco.

Conferred in New York

Dondero said one of the Tung Pi Wu's first acts on arriving in this country was to go to New York city, where he conferred for about five hours with Jaffe and Browder.

"In addition to the military information," said Dondero, "Jaffe had secret reports intended only for the Secretary of State, which had a direct bearing on our relationship with China. Does anyone doubt what became of that information?"

Dondero detailed the nature of several of the other documents that he said were "stolen". One of them, he asserted, "Dealt with the schedule and targets for the bombing of Japan."

He added it was in the possession of Jaffe and "his associates" early in the spring, "before the program had been effected."

Dondero said three of the persons arrested have been released, two, including Jaffe paid "small fines" and the status of the sixth was not known to him.

"Having learned of the character of the papers stolen," he said, "I am forced to the conclusion that the court was not fully informed of the facts and that some influence" was exercised to prevent "complete administration of justice."

He introduced a resolution calling for a thorough investigation by the House Judiciary committee.

LA GUARDIA URGES QUICK HOUSING LAW

Also Tells Senators CIO-AFL Merger Would Avert Inter-Union Quarrels

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Mayor La Guardia told Congress today that he could think of "nothing more important" than quick enactment of legislation to assure every American of adequate housing.

The Mayor endorsed, with minor exceptions, a bill before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee to establish a national housing policy.

Low income families, he continued, "want to live right," and he termed the proposed legislation "the most realistic approach yet" to the problem of providing adequate housing for the low-income groups.

He thought the bill should propose lower interest rates than now called for on housing loans and that the present $5,000 limit on loans for single family houses should be increased to $6,500. A 3 per cent interest on loans, to include insurance provisions, would be adequate and serve to start a building "spurt" that would make possible "those kinds of living conditions we have always talked about."

"Lower interest rates permit lower rents. That means more production and a better division of revenue."

Complaining that jurisdictional labor disputes were hampering some of New York City's construction work, Mayor La Guardia was asked by Senator Taylor if he had a solution for the difficulty.

"Yes, sir," the Mayor replied. "First, I'd have a merger between the CIO and the AFL. Then I'd like to see all transportation unions combined under one parent organization and the same for those unions whose members work under the ground—miners, etc."

Raymond Foley, Commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration, said he was "heartily in sympathy" with the purposes of the bill with respect to private enterprise but objected to sections affecting FHA "because I believe they will tend to limit our effectiveness in gaining the worthy objectives of the bill."

One such section provides for a mortgage running thirty-two years for home-owners of lower income, as compared to twenty-five years in the Housing Administration's plan.

"Rate of repayment of the thirty-two-year loan," he said, "does not keep pace with a conservative estimate of depreciation of the value of the property."

VETERANS' AID MAJOR ISSUE

Fight In House Over Housing And Hospital Care

NOV 29

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—Housing and hospital care for veterans threw the House today into a four-hour scrap, and transformed a routine bill into a major issue.

Overriding the ordinarily powerful Appropriations Committee, the House wrote into the $1,131,000,000 deficiency measure $182,800,000 for veterans' housing and hospitals.

Representative Cannon (D., Mo.), chairman of the Appropriations Committee, protested, but was outvoted, 115 to 90, on housing and 78 to 49 on the hospital-care amendment.

Each is subject to a roll call tomorrow.

Be Patient, Says Cannon

Cannon's complaint was that a subcommittee was studying that very thing now, and the House should be patient. But it fell on deaf ears.

The backers of the amendments declared veterans and their families were forced to live in tents, on beaches, in jails and in chicken coops.

Cannon's committee members insisted, however, there should be no stop-gap measures taken; that a long-range study now under way should be allowed to proceed, and that separate legislation should be introduced later.

The housing amendment was for $24,500,000; the hospital-care proviso, for $158,320,000.

Battle Due Today

Debate demonstrated that the Appropriations Committee faced still another battle tomorrow. Many members indicated they wanted to restore $124,000,000 for navigation and flood-control projects knocked out of the measure at the preliminary hearings. The projects are scattered in nearly every congressional district.

Representative Lanham (D., Texas) sponsored the housing amendment and Representative Rankin (D., Miss.), the hospital-care proposal.

Substitute Offered For Training

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—A three billion dollar spending program reaching into every county was offered to the House Military Committee today as a substitute for universal military training.

Calling for promotion of education, health and recreation, the plan was outlined by Donald Dushane, of Washington, secretary of the National Commission for the Defense of Democracy Through Education.

Dushane contended that the expenditure of $3,000,000,000 annually would leave a balance of more than $15,000,000 if the cost of his plan were compared with the cost of universal military training.

What Could Be Accomplished

With $3,000,000,000 a year, Dushane asserted, Congress could:

Construct a ten-room modern school building in every county every year; build a $50,000 library in every county annually; erect one $150,000 hospital for every county;

maintain in every county a psychiatric and behavior clinic; increase recreational facilities and educational standards, and erect a $750,000 trade and technical school every year in each congressional district.

"Of more importance to our national defense than compulsory training," Dushane said, "is the maintenance of a sound economy, large-scale production, and a high national income."

Fears "International Suspicion"

He added that to resort to compulsory training now might "increase international suspicion of our purposes and encourage armament races which might endanger world peace."

A second opposition witness scheduled at today's hearing is Miss Elizabeth A. Smart, representing the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

DEFENDS ARMY SURPLUS POLICY

Royall Says U. S. Speeds Sale of Reserves.

Washington, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—The War Department informed Senators today that it is disposing of unneeded reserve supplies as fast as disposal agencies can sell them, adding that there is "no justification for hoarding surpluses as a protection against lower appropriations in the future."

Undersecrtary Kenneth C. Royall gave this testimony before the Mead Investigating Committee. He said existing reserves are based on tentative requirements and more accurate figures will be forthcoming when an Army board headed by Gen. Courtney H. Hodges reports. Present supply estimates, Royall said, are based on a theoretical peace-time regular Army of 1,180,000 by June 30, 1949.

Senator Mead put in the record at the outset of the hearing a table of reserve supplies now held by the Army which he said are now in short civilian supply. He expressed concern lest large reserves planned by the Army might keep these materials from civilians needing them.

Shows Army Holdings.

The table showed the Army to be holding 30,980,000 cotton bed sheets, 116,853,000 pairs of men's cotton shorts, 53,442,000 wool blankets (Royall said this figure was a gross overstatement) 64,744 trucks, 42,086,000 men's woolen drawers, 24,000,000 pairs of service shoes, 57,509,000 herringbone twill fatigue jackets, 450,918 wrist watches and 19,143,000 folding canvas cots.

Royall said the time will arise when holding large reserves may impede surplus disposal, but up to now it has not materially affected disposal. He said that the Army declared over $4,000,000,000 of surplus property in the last three months, but that the backlog of surpluses declared to disposal agencies, though not removed from War Department storage, rose about $900,000,000 during the same period.

"This would seem to indicate," he said, "that they couldn't have sold much more, even if we had declared it."

NOV 29 1945

Releases Promised.

He testified that notwithstanding the reserve requirement "we will release such items if they are in excess of our operating requirements, upon a showing that they are urgently needed in the civilian economy. We have already released large quantities of textiles, construction equipment and materials, and medical supplies, and we are now reviewing our stocks of those items for the possibility of further releases.

Royall said he believed a "sound final answer" to the war reserve problem will be had in the near future with the help of the Hodges board and that answer will be soon enough to avoid impact on the civilian economy.

BUSINESS TOLD TO SHUN LATIN AMERICAN ROWS

State Department Warns U.S. Citizens to Steer Clear of Republics' Politics.

POLICY DECLARATION ISSUED

Considered in Line With Braden's Practices While Envoy to Argentina and Chile.

Washington, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—The State Department today told American businessmen to keep out of Latin American politics under penalty of losing United States Government support abroad.

The Department declared that participation by United States businessmen or companies in the political affairs of other American republics "inevitably creates serious problems which complicate international relations."

It added this declaration of policy:

"The position of the Department is that any American citizen, organization, or company engaging in such political activities including the making of campaign contributions, directly or indirectly, whether in the firm's name or by an American citizen as an individual, will forfeit such assistance from the Department or from our diplomatic missions abroad as they might otherwise expect to be entitled to."

The statement was made at this time for the announced purpose of making the Government's policy clear preliminary to the holding of elections in various American nations in the months ahead.

The policy was regarded by diplomatic observers as being in line with the practices of Assistant Secretary of State Spruille Braden during his assignment as ambassador to various Latin-American countries, the most recent being Argentina and Cuba.

Intervention Frowned On.

One phrase appeared in the statement which might have significance in the relation to future policy developments with respect to intervention in the affairs of another American country. The statement said it had been the "long standing policy of our Government that there should be no unilateral intervention in the internal affairs of another country." This left open the question whether, under prescribed conditions, multilateral intervention might be permitted.

Here is the text of the Department's statement:

"In view of the fact that elections are to be held in several of the other American republics during the next year or so, it is opportune to make public the substance of instructions recently sent to American diplomatic and consular officers in the other American republics.

"These instructions concern possible political activities of American citizens and companies in foreign countries. Any such activities naturally have a direct relation with the long standing policy of our government that there should be no unilateral intervention in the internal affairs of another country.

"The Department of State disapproves of and opposes most strongly any interference or participation by American businessmen or companies in the local political affairs of the other American republics.

"Such activities are bad for American business, and inevitably create serious problems which complicate international relations. The position of the department is that any American citizen, organization or company engaging in such political activities, including the making of campaign contributions, directly or indirectly, whether in the firm's name or by an American citizen as an individual, will forfeit such assistance from the department or from our diplomatic missions abroad as they might otherwise expect and be entitled to.

"On the other htand, the department and American diplomatic and consular officers abroad will extend 100 per cent co-operation in protecting the legitimate rights and in advancing the legitimate interests of American business."

30.24—31969

Is Accused of Favoring Low-point Airmen While Combat Veterans Wait.

Washington, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—Representative Monroney (D.-Okla.) requested in the House today that the Army investigate reports of discharge and air transportation priority for low-point professional football players.

NOV 29 1945

Monroney said he was "shocked" by disclosure in the Army newspaper, Star and Stripes, that fifty-four members of the A. A. F.-Hawaiian flyers football team were flown home since November 12, while thousands of combat veterans have been unable to get transportation. Only thirteen of the fifty-four, he said, were eligible for discharge under the revised point system, and only five have 60 or more points.

Monrooney did not identify any of the men he said had been flown home, but said that he expected the Army, to make a thorough investigation to "prevent a recurrence of this favoritism."

"If the point system is to work," Monroney said, "It must be handled in a way fair to all and with no favoritism shown. The Army should jealously guard the system or it will itself destroy all confidence that the combat veterans and the public have in it."

Countermeasures In Electronic War

NOV 29 1945

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP) — An eerie electronic form of warfare—radar countermeasures that blinded and confused the enemy's radar "eyes"—helped greatly to bring the Axis partners to their knees, it was revealed today.

The first complete story of a titanic battle in the ether, in which various Allied scientific devices jammed German and Japanese radar sets or feinted them out of the play at crucial stages of the war, was told by the armed forces and the Office of Scientific Research and Development.

Three Ingenious Techniques

It is mainly the story of three ingenious techniques:

The employment of millions of pounds of radio-reflecting aluminum foil, dropped in tiny strips or long ribbons from aircraft or shot aloft in shells and rockets from surface vessels. The foil, giving back an "echo" to searching enemy radar sets, served to screen our craft from the foe's radar beams.

The development of a system of "radar sleuthing" by which the location of enemy sets was mapped all the way from Anzio to Berlin and from Kiska to the China Sea. This was based on devices for detecting and analyzing radar beams of varying frequencies and for determining the direction from which the beams come.

The perfection of methods of radar jamming with which Allied land, sea and air fighters literally gave the "electronic raspberry" to enemy radar-controlled anti-aircraft guns, searchlights and early warning systems.

Jamming is accomplished by cluttering a radar's beam with radio interference at the same frequency on which the radar is operating. This blankets the radar's viewing scope with grasslike spikes of light which obliterate any target patterns.

$300,000,000 Investment

It's the same principle as interference on a home radio set when two stations are broadcasting on the same frequency—or when you try to use an electric razor or iron while the radio is turned on.

The role that all three techniques played in the Allied victory is emphasized in these disclosures by America's military and scientific high command:

1. Radar countermeasures, in which the United States alone invested $300,000,000, provided one of the chief reasons, hitherto unrevealed, why the Germans were caught flat-footed in Normandy D-day.

On that great day streams of invisible electron "bullets" were hurled across the Channel to jam most of the Nazi radar sets that were on the watch for the expected invasion.

Lured Out Of Position

And, under the disguise provided by aluminum "chaff"—a few ounces of which gives a radar reflection comparable to that of three heavy bombers—small groups of airplanes, warships and even tiny motor launches were made to appear as major task forces when viewed on the enemy's radar scopes.

Thus adroit diversionary feints were made possible, luring defending ground troops and much of the Luftwaffe out of position, so that our main airborne forces landed on Cherbourg Peninsula with little opposition in one of history's greatest "quarterback sneaks."

2. Radar countermeasures did the trick when the success of the American program of daylight pinpoint bombing of the Reich hung in the balance because of the accuracy of Nazi radar-controlled anti-aircraft fire against our necessarily "tight" formations.

It is now revealed that the countermeasures reduced the effectiveness of German anti-aircraft fire by 75 per cent—saving an estimated 450 bombers and 4,500 lives for the Allies. Hitler's billion-dollar investment in his vaunted Wurzburg gun-laying radars was virtually nullified.

700,000-Mark Prize Offered

Herr Goering offered prizes up to 700,000 marks (tax free) for the best solution to the problem of aluminum "chaff," or "window," as it was also nicknamed.

3. In the Pacific radar countermeasures were credited with playing a vital role in everything from protecting beach landings to the laying of mines in strategic Japanese harbors, and from driving enemy torpedo plane pilots dizzy to shepherding B-29's through nests of anti-aircraft batteries.

4. Finally, on the home front, practically every man, woman and child played an indirect role in the success of the program. Because it was aluminum foil you did not get on your cigarette packs and candy bars during the war that was used to make the bewildering anti-radar "chaff."

American aluminum foil production was tripled during the war and 75 per cent of it was devoted to manufacturing "chaff" and other aluminum anti-radar material. We dropped more than 20,000,000 pounds of it in Europe alone. It fairly blanketed fields as it fell—and the Germans used it for Christmas-tree decorations.

Confusion In Boston

Heart of America's secret program of radar countermeasures was a laboratory at Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., known as the Harvard Radio Research Laboratory.

There, in quarters formerly used as a biological laboratory, the peacetime population of monkeys, rats and guinea pigs gave way to electronic gadgets developed by many of the nation's top scientists, working under the National Defense Research Committee. The project was financed by the Office of Scientific Research and Development.

So zealous were the Harvard workers in their experiments with electronic jamming that they once tied up the whole communications system of the Boston Police Department for a half hour by accidentally jamming the patrol cars' short-wave radios.

Several times, the New Haven Railroad system was "stopped in its tracks" by a form of aluminum foil called "rope"—400-foot lengths of foil which, after being dropped from planes, draped themselves across electric signal lines, short-circuiting them.

Pay-Off Over Kiska

Our countermeasures program first paid off in February, 1943, over Kiska, where an especially equipped Army Air Force's B-24 reconnaissance plane—called a "ferret"—located the position of a radar that presented an impediment to our bombing.

Once we had located the set—by radio direction-finding—it was discovered that one quadrant of the radar's beam was shadowed by the island's volcano. Thus, knowing this "blind spot," our bombers were able to fly in undetected.

By the end of the war, every bomber in both services as well as every capital ship was equipped with radar detecting and jamming equipment. And many smaller planes and surface craft had at least some jamming equipment and "fake pills," as fighters sometimes call aluminum chaff.

But radar countermeasures were not strictly an Allied show.

The Nazis jammed American radar badly at Anzio, and it was the blacking out of British radar along the whole British coast that enabled the German warships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau to sneak through the English Channel.

How Allies Halted Jamming

But the American report said today that after those early exploits "the Germans and the Japanese never succeeded in jamming Allied radar seriously, because Allied radar went to high frequencies—microwaves—which are hard to jam."

The Nazis had developed aluminum chaff as early as 1940, but they held off from using it for fear they might give the Allies an idea. If they had employed the stuff in the battle of Britain, the story might have been different, because it was efficiently operating radar that helped carry Britain through the Blitz.

"It can be said," declared the American report today, "that we had radar, and got the most out of it; the Axis also had radar but, because of our countermeasures, got very little out of it."

Chief Jamming Device

The most spectacular jamming device employed by the Allies was an American-developed set known as the "tuba." It's a ground-operated transmitter for use against the radars of German night fighters.

Weighing 125 tons and requiring seven army trucks to transport it, the set employs a special tube called a "resnatron." This tube transmits electronic "noise" at a power comparable to that of the most powerful United States broadcasting station (50,000 watts) but does so at frequencies 500 times as high.

Scientists say that the resnatron, which produces continuous radio waves as distinguished from the "pulses" of radar, has important possibilities in the postwar field of communications.

Radio Waves Fatal To Birds

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—Birds were actually "cooked" in flight by radio heat waves during the Allies' electronic warfare against the Nazis.

This was disclosed today in connection with a report by the armed forces and the Office of Scientific Research and Development on the effectiveness of "countermeasures" against enemy radar.

Scientists of the Harvard Radio Research Laboratory at Cambridge said birds were killed when they accidentally flew into the "horn" antenna of a huge radio transmitter employed by the Allies to "jam" the radar sets of Nazi night fighters.

The jamming set, known as "tuba," was developed by the Harvard Laboratory. The horn was 150 feet long and 6 by 18 feet at the mouth. It was made of chicken wire and supported by telephone poles.

The birds were "cooked" by diathermic heating caused by the tremendous radio power radiated from the horn.

FORRESTAL'S STATEMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Following is the text of the statement issued today by Secretary Forrestal:

A statement of the Navy position on national security.

We were victorious in this war, thanks to this democracy's great outpouring of national power. Nonetheless, the Navy Department has recognized the following deficiencies in the national security organization as of the end of the war:

1. Our foreign policy and military policy had not been closely integrated, although progress was being made through the State-War-Navy coordinating committee.

2. Our strategic planning and decisions were excellent, although delays were at times caused in the joint Chiefs of Staff by logistic and other complications, especially where Allied cooperation was involved.

3. Although unified command in the field was usually established, the Pacific command was split, particularly inside the Army, by separation of the Strategic Air Forces not only from the other Army air forces but also from the theatre commands.

4. There were gaps in the planning of materiel requirements, particularly inside the military departments.

5. There were duplications in procurement both between the ground forces and the air forces inside the War Department as well as inside the Navy Department and between the Army and the Navy. Many duplications have, however, been eliminated and progress is still being made.

Asks National Security Plan

6. No permanent organization had been evolved to plan for the mobilization of our material resources, productive capacity and technical skills in the event of war.

7. The coordination of the military and other war budgets in the Bureau of the Budget was not as thorough and detailed as it might have been.

For the future and particularly in view of discoveries in the field of atomic energy, the Navy believes that an over-all, rather than a piecemeal, national security plan should be evolved to remedy not only the past deficiencies, but also to provide for the foreseeable future, with particular emphasis on:

(a) The integration of all elements of national security.

(b) A central research and development agency.

(c) A central intelligence service.

Consequently, the Navy Department advocates that a really broad foundation for national security be established, as follows:

(1) A permanent National Security Council with a permanent secretariat should be established as an integral part of our Government. It should consist of the military departments, and the chairman of the National Resources Board. The Securtiy Council will coordinate all foreign and military policies and in time of war will advise the President as Commander in Chief. This council will also review and determine the security program and budget for submission to Congress.

(2) There should be provided a permanent joint Chiefs of Staff to consist of the Chief of Staff to the President, the Chief of Staff of the Army, the commanding general of the Army Air Forces, and two officers of the Navy, one to be a naval aviator.

Such joint Chiefs of Staff will establish unified commands in peace and war and will originate the strategic military program. The subordinate agencies of the joint Chiefs of Staff should be strengthened and established on a permanent full-time basis.

(3) The National Securtiy Council should be assisted by (A) a central research agency, and (B) a central intelligence agency both to serve all departments of the Government.

Proposes a Munitions Board

(4) A permanent National Resources Board should be established to make policy decisions with respect to the mobilization of material resources, productive capacity and manpower.

A permanent military munitions board (a joint agency), reporting to the National Resources Board, will be responsible for the elimination of duplications in procurement and supply.

(5) The Army Air Forces, with particular reference to their strategic functions, should be autonomous. Whether that can be accomplished only by splitting the War Department and establishing a separate department is a matter for Congress to decide.

A single military department should not be forced upon the country to establish autonomy for the Army Air Forces.

(6) The Navy must be continued as an integrated service not only with its own air forces (including such shore-based elements as are required for design, training, reconnaissance at sea and anti-submarine warfare) but also with its Marine Corps and related amphibious components.

This requires that the Navy Department continue to be represented in the Cabinet by a civilian secretary with direct access to the President.

This program deals with the basic elements of national security. It also preserves the integrity of each of the armed service and provides for the

(A) Unified strategical direction of the services, both in Washington and in the field,

(B) Effective coordination of procurement, and

(C) For integration of budgets for national security.

Schwellenbach Announces Truman Will Not Intervene to Spur Solution.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 — (AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach tonight announced that President Truman would not intervene as suggested to spur the flagging progress of the National Labor-Management conference.

The Secretary so notified the conference executive committee, which in the same session received word that no agreement could be reached on proposed creation of fact-finding machinery to minimize labor disputes.

NOV 29 1945

Failure to agree on fact finding as a means of diverting work stoppages and informing the public on disputed issues virtually eliminated hope that the conference would evolve any important new machinery for the voluntary, peaceful handling of strike situations.

Intervention Advocated

Schwellenbach's announcement that Mr. Truman would not give last-minute instruction to the conference followed last night's disclosure that some public members of the conference and other officials advocated presidential intervention. They had approached White House advisers with a request that Mr. Truman step in.

The Labor Secretary told the executive group that the meeting was generally one of labor and industry representatives, "convened in the hope that labor and management could reconcile their differences," without government steering.

The executive committee approved a proposal that leaders of the two industry and four labor groups represented should, after the conference closes, "meet as they see fit to discuss such matters as they find mutually desirable."

Conference Secretary George W. Taylor admitted, when questioned at a news conference, that this was "A little vague" but said he believed it meant that the heads of the major labor and management groups were declaring in favor of frequent consultations on industrial relations problems.

Harking back to the days when NRA could not get AFL and CIO labor groups to sit down together, Taylor gave the opinion that the decision for continuing meetings betokened real progress.

"It is not a significant development if you say, 'What will it do to alleviate the present difficulties that plague the country?' But it is significant in the long range view," he commented.

Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, gave the first news that a plan for creation of impartial fact-finding commissions had failed to get acceptance, and that a group assigned to that problem had failed to agree on any fact-finding device.

He referred to the widely heralded proposal for a "Cooling Off" period during which strikes and lockouts would be barred while fact-finding commissions helped crystallize public opinion on the issues in dispute. This was regarded as the final hope for a specific plan that might solve major conflicts.

Not Complete Failure

Johnston, declaring the conference was not a complete failure, expressed belief it will attain "about 50 per cent of what we set out to do."

John D. Small, head of the Civilian Production Administration, told the House Post-war Planning Committee, however, that he was "afraid the results of the labor-management conference are not going to be very lucrative."

Small said both labor and management were responsible for retarding peacetime production.

UNION MEMBERS BACK WALKOUT BY MARGIN OF 5 TO 1

Workers Cast Ballots in Hundreds of Plants in 27 States.

MAY REOPEN GM PARLEY

Government Agrees to Ask Wilson to Try to Resume Negotiations.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 28. — (AP) On the basis of mounting, incomplete returns, the CIO-United Steel Workers union, representing workers in the nation's steel, aluminum and iron ore producing centers, voted overwhelmingly today in favor of a strike to support demands for a $2 a day wage increase.

Unofficial returns to the National 3024—3197

Labor Relations board from polling places in hundreds of plants in the large producing areas of 27 states showed those in sympathy with a walkout leading by a margin of nearly 5 to 1.

The Vote

The vote late tonight stood:

For the strike, 281,047; against, 59,042.

In western Pennsylvania, the greatest steel producing area, the returns showed 79,718 voting "yes" to the question of whether a work interruption was favored, and 21,059 balloting "no." Similar ratios were reported from populous steel centers in Ohio, New York, Illinois, and other areas.

The trend in favor of a strike did not mean there would be one. The union had cautioned its representatives against any unauthorized or premature strike movements, emphasizing that authority for any such action rests with the wage policy committee.

Voting in the greatest strike ballot in labor history began before daylight today and men from the blast furnaces and open hearths of the steel industry, and in plants of the related metal industries, were voting all day. Some were still voting until nearly midnight in the election, which was supervised by the National Labor Relations board under the terms of the war disputes act.

Show Same Trend

CIO officers at Hibbing, Minn., in the iron ore fields, reported workers there were showing the same trend as in the steel areas. The union headquarters at Hibbing reported 6,855 workers voted for the strike and 520 against.

In the great steel fields of northern Ohio 61,787 voted in favor of the strike proposal and only 12,983 against.

Government to Seek GM Parley Reopening

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 — (AP) The government agreed tonight to ask General Motors to resume negotiations with the CIO Auto Workers looking toward an end to the strike in GM plants.

Edgar L. Warren, Federal conciliation chief, said he planned to contact GM President Charles E. Wilson tomorrow to try for the resumption of collective bargaining asked by the union on its 30 per cent wage increase demand.

Secretary of Labor L. B. Schwellenbach promised union leaders at a lengthy meeting here he would try to arrange for renewed negotiations promptly, Warren told reporters.

Ready to Confer

R. J. Thomas, CIO-Auto Workers president, said the union was ready to meet with the GM management at "any time, any place, anywhere."

Secretary Schwellenbach sat in with Thomas and other union leaders for approximately two hours of a four-hour meeting with Federal Conciliation Chief Edgar L. Warren.

"The secretary gave us complete assurance that he will attempt to get negotiations resumed as soon as possible," Walter Reuther, UAW vice president, told reporters. "Of course that means one thing—that GM will have to be convinced."

The week-old GM strike has halted production and left 225,000 workers idle.

Reuther said he hoped the next meeting with the government would be one which GM President Charles E. Wilson would also attend for a resumption of negotiations. In this connection, Reuther commented that "when we are in Detroit Mr. Wilson seems always to be in Washington, and when we are in Washington he always is in Detroit."

The labor department said Wilson had declined three separate invitations to come to Washington for talks with the conciliation service similar to those today with the union.

Warren told reporters afterward he planned to contact Wilson tomorrow in an effort to get negotiations resumed.

Asked if he thought the GM Management would accept the government's request Warren replied "I am not going to anticipate that."

Warren said he did not plan to go to Detroit to meet with Wilson and that it would be "the normal thing" to ask Wilson to come to Washington for a conference like the one today with the union.

A reporter asked Warren if there was any basis on which the union and corporation could talk if they got together again. To this the conciliation chief said, "I am hopefull we can get together on a basis."

G.M. Strikers 'Pen In' 65 15 Hours

NOV 29 1945

Detroit, Nov. 28 (AP)—Management representatives stayed behind today as Federal conciliators arranged the first Washington parleys aimed at settling the General Motors strike.

As the strike entered its second week, some 225,000 workers were idle, and the first "incident" connected with it passed without violence.

The "incident" involved the "imprisonment" of 65 supervisory employés in a G.M. plant at Saginaw, Mich., for more than fifteen hours by about 400 union pickets.

Wage-Paying Dispute

Rings of unionists around the plant exits disbanded last midnight after an appeal by Kenneth Forbes, Saginaw regional UAW director.

Company and union officials agreed that the pickets' action stemmed from a dispute over procedure used in paying the strikers their last week's wages.

William H. Doerfner, general manager of Saginaw steering gear division plant No. 2, said the supervisory workers were kept in the plant following the company's objection to a union practice of checking employés union cards before permitting them to pass through the picket lines.

Doerfner's Home Stoned

After the men were released, a union spokesman said supervisors would not be allowed to enter the plant in the future.

Doerfner said two bricks were thrown through the dining-room window of his home about 5 A.M. today. The family was asleep and no one was injured.

UAW-CIO officials deplored the vandalism and John Hery, chairman of the bargaining committee of Local 276, told Doerfner: "If we find out who did it, we'll turn them in ourselves."

Tool-And-Die Action

In another strike development last night representatives of 31,000 UAW tool and die workers in 278 Detroit area shops voted to give local union officials authority to stop work on all material intended for use in GM plants "whenever it is most feasible to aid the GM strikers."

A monthly assessment of $5 a worker for the GM strike fund was also voted.

The Washington Parley

Top officials of the striking CIO United Automobile Workers left Detroit by plane for the Capital to confer this afternoon with Edgar L. Warren, chief Labor Department conciliator. C. E. Wilson, General Motors president, said however, that he and other corporation executives could not see Warren for several days at least.

Wilson said he told Warren by phone that because of the strike he would be unable to attend the National Labor-Management Conference in the Capital this week. Warren had planned to confer with company and union heads separately during time out from that conference.

The Ford Motor Company meanwhile began its previously announced layoff of workers because of work stoppages in fifteen supplier plants. Between 10,000 and 15,000 employés were instructed not to report on the midnight shift last night. Company officials said 40,000 would be affected before the week end but expressed a hope they could be called back by next Monday.

General Motors Blame Of OPA Held False

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—Representative Fred Bradley (R., Mich.) was in the unaccustomed role of a defender of the OPA today.

He said he has "consistently voted against the OPA" and has been as critical of it as any member of the House but, "in the interest of fair play," resented what he called the present effort of the General Motors Corporation "to make a whipping boy out of the OPA."

Through its distributors and dealers, Bradley said, General Motors is attempting to represent to the public that the only reason it is not delivering cars is "because OPA will not release their 1946 prices."

"Absolutely Not True"

"This is absolutely not true," Bradley asserted in a statement placed in the Congressional Record.

He said "OPA has leaned over backward to do everything it can to obtain from General Motors and its various subsidiary companies their cost figures for the 1946 model cars so that these cars can be released.

"The fact of the matter is OPA has not yet gotten that information and cannot set those ceiling prices, because General Motors itself is holding up the information and has notified the OPA that they do not want these prices released, because they have no cars available for distribution at this time."

Quotes Buick Official

Bradley said the general sales manager of the Buick Company told him not only that the OPA was holding up distribution of their cars but that "the cars would not be released until Congress woke up and forced the OPA to release their 1946 prices."

He asserted that G.M. dealers likewise have been informing the public that they could not deliver the cars in their showrooms because no price schedule has been issued by the OPA.

The congressman said he personally was told that "to deliver a car would subject the dealer to a $5,000 fine."

"This is absolutely false information," he said.

FORD ASKS UAW PAY FOR STRIKES

NOV 29 1945

Proposes Union Pay Firm $5 a Day for Each Member on Wildcat Walkouts.

DETROIT, Nov. 28. — (AP) The Ford Motor company today proposed that the United Auto Workers (CIO) reimburse the firm $5 a day for each union man taking part in future unauthorized work stoppages at Ford plants.

The surprise move overshadowed other developments of the automotive front today, including the first Washington meeting between government officials and union representatives of 225,000 idle General Motors workers.

The Ford proposal evoked widespread interest in the automotive industry and drew from Richard T. Leonard, director of the UAW's Ford division, the comment "such a proposal is unrealistic and would not guarantee an end to unauthorized strikes."

The company suggested that it be empowered by the UAW to collect the penalties from "any amount collected by the company for the union under the check-off provisions" of its contract with the union.

A Ford spokesman said "the company's position is that the union can control its membership in the matter of unauthorized stoppages, slowdowns and controlled production, but has failed to do so during the life of the present contract."

700,000 Voting On Question Of Steel Strike

NOV 29 1945

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—One Government agency sought ways to settle the General Motors strike today while another undertook the biggest strike vote on record, among 700,000 steelworkers.

The United States Conciliation Service arranged a conference with officials of the CIO United Auto Workers. The auto workers struck a week ago for a 30 per cent wage increase that would offset the loss in take-home pay caused by the changeover from a 48 to a 40-hour week.

The Steel Strike Poll

CIO Steelworkers laid the groundwork for similar action under the Smith-Connally War Labor Disputes Act with a strike poll at more than 750 steel, iron and aluminum companies. They want $2 a day more.

The National Labor Relations Board must handle ballots of more than twice as many employés as were polled in the United Mine Workers' vote last March—the largest until today. The miners eligible to vote numbered 311,000.

David J. McDonald, secretary-treasurer of the Steelworkers Union, said 1,150 locals would ballot on whether to stop working.

600 Vote Pleas Monthly

The NLRB, now receiving more than 600 petitions a month to take strike votes, says that in every major poll to date the majority of voters have authorized strike action. Walkouts did not always materialize, however.

Another 5,000 steelworkers at fourteen additional companies will vote December 6, and 50,000 employed by 130 other firms on December 20, McDonald said.

The union has concentrated its wage-increase campaign on the United States Steel Corporation. The corporation has declined to reopen negotiations, broken off October 23, until the OPA sets higher price ceilings on steel products.

OPA Administrator Chester Bowles declared last week there is no justification for price increases now.

Oil-Wage Dispute Up

The reconversion wage dispute of still another big CIO union—the oil workers—went before a Government fact-finding commission for public examination. The commission will recommend a solution, but the parties are not bound to accept it.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, using this method for the first time in a labor controversy, asked the three veteran industrial relations experts he appointed to the panel to report back in 30 days.

The Secretary's previous proposal for arbitration was rejected by the ten oil companies involved. The Navy seized the properties October 4 and is still operating most of them. The union wants a 30 per cent wage increase.

20,000 In Maryland

About 20,000 workers, mostly residents of Baltimore, were eligible to participate in today's strike poll called by the CIO United Steel Workers.

Maryland plants affected by today's balloting include:

Bethlehem Steel Company, Sparrows Point, 15,000 persons; Rustless Iron and Steel, 1,700; American Can Company, 600; Federal Tin Company, 500; National Can Company, 500; Acrods Corporation, 80; Maryland Nut and Bolt Company, 175; Rheem Manufacturing Company, Sparrows Point, 375, and Continental Can Company, 700.

Employés of one other Maryland concern, Eastern Stainless Steel Company, will cast their ballots on December 21.

CEILING ZERO HALTS SEARCH

Planes Unable To Continue Hunt For 7 In Oregon

Coos Bay, Ore., Nov. 28 (AP)—

Ceiling zero closed down over an army plane-crash scene today, hampering search for seven men still missing in a rugged wilderness after a Coast Guard plane from Seattle succeeded in parachuting supplies to five known survivors.

One of the survivors, Flight Officer Dave Reed, last was reported hanging by his parachute 150 feet high in a tree two days after he had bailed out in the wooded hinterland 50 miles northeast of here.

Four Hiked To Safety

Loggers from Dimmick Camp, about 30 miles from here, went with block and tackle to release Reed. But definite news of his rescue, which must be relayed through telephone about 40 miles from the scene, had not come through.

Four of the flyers, whose plane crashed Monday, trudged through the mountains to a farm to report the accident. They were Flight Officer Ralph Foster, Flight Officer Floyd C. Waddell, a man identified only as Hartsook, and an unidentified major.

The four who were reported in fairly good condition, said twelve men had been in the plane, and all bailed out except possibly the pilot, Capt. Hugh B. McMullen, Kansas City, Kan.

List Of Passengers

The army C-46 transport was en route from Sedalia, Mo., to McChord Field, Tacoma.

Crewmen listed by Sedalia Field as aboard the plane were McMullen; Capt. Harlow, Syracuse, N.Y.; Lieut. Vincent V. Hannah, Big Timber, Mont.; Pfc. Walter A. Smoyer, Bethlehem, Pa.; Sergt. Robert T. W. Neal, Los Angeles. The other seven passengers were apparently picked up at a way stop, possibly Oakland, Cal.

Saved After 18 Hours In Tree

Walhalla, S.C., Nov. 28 (AP)—Lieut. R. A. Phillips was rescued early this afternoon from a pine tree in which he had hung 65 feet from the ground for 18 hours after he and six other army men parachuted from a disabled C-45 transport last night.

When all other means failed, the rescue party built a scaffold around the tree up to Phillips's perch.

The officer was uninjured, but said he had suffered sharply from the severe cold.

Brig. Gen. George H. Weems was among those who parachuted to safety.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 28.—(AP) Author Emily Hahn and Major Charles Boxer, British officer whom she named in her autobiography as the father of her child, were married here late today.

Justice of the Peace Irving Sweedler performed the ceremony in the City Hall office of Andrew Casolino, registrar of Vital Statistics who had issued the couple their license.

Probate Judge Clifford Sturges granted a waiver of the blood test and five-day waiting period required by Connecticut law.

Judge Sturges said the couple already had had a blood test in New York, where they were refused a wedding license Tuesday, and that he had no hesitancy in waiving the Connecticut requirements because "it was simply a question of whether they would get married today or five days from now."

They came to Sturges' office accompanied only by Sweedler who is an attorney.

Major Boxer, imprisoned by the Japanese after the fall of Hong Kong, arrived in New York last Thursday where he was greeted by Miss Hahn. The couple announced then that they planned to be married.

Major Boxer said in New York yesterday that he had confirmed that his divorce from Ursula Tulloh became absolute last July, but New York authorities refused to grant him a marriage license because New York law forbids the remarriage of persons divorced on grounds of adultery until three years after divorce.

News of the ceremony did not leak out until Major Boxer and his bride had left the city hall, and their whereabouts was not disclosed.

Sweedler's home said he would not be available until later in the evening.

Applying for the license, Major Boxer gave his age as 41 and his birthplace as the Isle of Wight. Miss Hahn said she was 40, was born in St. Louis and had not been married before.

She named Major Boxer as the father of her four-year-old daughter Carola, in the autobiography "China to Me." She also is the author of "The Soong Sisters."

The author's secretary said in New York city that the couple returned to their Manhattan apartment after the ceremony.

F.D.R. Ship Escaped Torpedo Fired By U.S. Destroyer

NOV 29 1945

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Navy acknowledged today that the battleship Iowa while carrying President Roosevelt to the 1943 Cairo conference escaped being hit by a torpedo fired accidentally from a United States destroyer.

Confirming reports of the occurrence a navy spokesman told a newsman the torpedo, from the destroyer William D. Porter, exploded astern of the Iowa at a "considerable distance." The battleship was not damaged and there were no injuries to personnel. The incident occurred November 14, 1943.

The William D. Porter was sunk by air attack in the Western Pacific last June.

The Navy said a board named to investigate the accidental firing of the torpedo in the Atlantic found that "certain personnel of the William D. Porter were inefficient in performance of duty. These officers and men were admonished."

No names were made public.

21 Nations Weigh Uruguay's Plan

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—The possibility arose today that the 21 American republics may act at Rio de Janeiro on the United States-backed Uruguayan proposal for collective action to preserve hemisphere peace.

At present the forthcoming conference has only the drafting of an inter-American mutual-defense treaty on its agenda.

Move In Collectively

But the Uruguayan proposal, which Secretary of State Byrnes strongly applauded last night, calls for the American republics to move in collectively on any one of their numbers when "essential human rights" and international obligations are being violated.

In putting forth its plan originally, tiny Uruguay suggested the question might be threshed out at the Rio conference, through consultations, or by appointing a special committee.

However, because of its importance to the inter-American system and because it has won this country's support, diplomats considered it more probable it would be taken up at a fullfledged conference.

The first opportunity would be the Rio meeting scheduled to open at the end of March or early in April.

Statement By Byrnes

Byrnes, in a statement, expressed his "unqualified adherence" to the suggestion which, he said, was of "fundamental importance."

Quoting liberally from a Uruguayan note on the proposal, Byrnes said the American republics "cannot permit oppressive regimes to exist in their midst, because such regimes 'must spread out in order to survive.'"

Diplomats generally regarded the Uruguayan proposal as aimed at Argentina.

FORMER DIPLOMAT PRAISES HURLEY

ATLANTA, Nov. 28—(AP) A former American diplomat today lauded Maj. Gen. Patrick Hurley for "revealing the obstructionist tactics of American foreign service 'career' officers in the far east and the State Department."

Hugh G. Grant of Atlanta, former minister to Albania, minister to Siam and member of the State Department during 1933-42, said of Hurley's resignation as ambassador to China yesterday:

"Ambassador Hurley is on the right track about the confusion of our foreign policy as a result of the tactics of professional 'career' officers in the lower brackets of the service.

"Under the existing system," he said in an interview in the Atlanta Journal, "neither an ambassador nor a minister has any real control over his own mission, since the 'career' officers are assigned from the department and in many cases have 'pipelines' to powerful fellow 'career' officers in the department.

"These men can absolutely 'break' a chief of mission and they can ignore and circumvent the established foreign policy of the President and the Secretary of State.

"The whole system needs to be thoroughly cleansed and reorganized if we are to have constructive policies and the rights and the position of this nation are to be maintained abroad."

Grant said "General Hurley's description of his experiences with 'career' diplomats in China sounds like a chapter out of my own experiences in two missions abroad" which he said led to his "resignation—which I had not tendered" being accepted "by cablegram from acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles, a top 'career' officer.

MAY CALL HURLEY ON UNRRA FUNDS

Washington, Nov. 28 (A. P.)—Representative Vorys (R.-Ohio), proposed today that Gen. Patrick J. Hurley be called as a witness by the House Foreign Affairs Committee before Congress takes any further action on new funds for UNRRA. This committee recently approved a bill to authorize an additional $1,350,000,000 appropriation for United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation work.

But Vorys today wrote Chairman Bloom of the Foreign Affairs Committee that "in view of the revelations Gen. Pat Hurley has just made concerning the Chinese situation," in resigning yesterday as Ambassador to China, "he should be called as a witness before the Foreign Affairs Committee before the second UNRRA authorization bill comes to the floor."

HALSEY IS NAMED ADMIRAL OF FLEET

Washington, Nov. 28 (A. P.)—President Truman today nominated Admiral William F. Halsey Jr. for promotion to the five-star rank of Admiral of the Fleet.

Halsey recently relinquished command of the Third Fleet. He said that at the time he intended to retire.

Halsey, who requested retirement "to give the young fellows a chance," reported to the Navy Department today for temporary duty pending retirement.

The law establishing the five-star rank authorized appointment of four naval officers as Admirals of the Fleet. Only three were named—Admiral Ernest J. King, Chief of Naval Operations, who will retire shortly; Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, former Commander of the Pacific Fleet and who will succeed King, and Admiral William D. Leahy, Chief of Staff to President Truman.

The President has discretionary authority to nominate any officer who has held the rank of Fleet Admiral while on active duty to retain the rank after retirement. Otherwise, it is limited to officers on active duty.

BUSINESS FAVORS PEACETIME DRAFT

NOV 29 1945

Washington, Nov. 28 (A. P.)—The United States Chamber of Commerce supported and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union opposed today President Truman's request for one year of universal military training for the nation's able-bodied male youths.

The chamber's views were given to the House Military Affairs Committee by Dunlap C. Clark of Kalamazoo, Mich., banker and chairman of the organization's national defense committee.

Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin of Evanston, Ill., national president, and Miss Elizabeth Smart, Washington representative, spoke for the W. C. T. U.

Many young men and women "whom the Army has taught to drink" already are "turning to alcohol at the first problem that confronts them—the readjustment to civilian life," Mrs. Colvin said.

Universal military training, Miss Smart said, "will be a complete reversal of all American ideas and the American way of life."

Clark told the committee that the Chamber of Commerce's stand was based on a referendum conducted late last year among more than 2,000 organization members representing 750,000 large and small business men, professional men and industrialists. Advocating one continuous year of training, Clark said he did not believe the proposed plan of four summer periods of three months each would be workable.

Re-Education In Reich Viewed As Big Job

New York, Nov. 28 (AP)—William Benton, Assistant Secretary of State in charge of public affairs, said Americans must assume that "the re-education of Germans is a big job and be prepared to see it through, no matter how long it takes."

Benton has returned from Europe, where he attended the United Nations scientific and cultural organization conference in London and studied German education problems in Frankfort and Berlin.

Benton said "the screening of the best-qualified men among non-Nazi Germans has begun." He added that the transfer of the educational program from military to civilian authority would take place "on or about June 1" when the State Department is scheduled to take charge.

Justice Douglas Gives Views On Atomic Energy

New York, Nov. 28 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas tonight said the advent of atomic energy required the surrender of some part of sovereignty by nations in a common defense against aggression.

"But," he added, "subject to the requirements of world government, self-government of all peoples must be the goal. Justice for all people will come from home rule, not from some far-away world capital. . . . Freedom for all people is the only true guarantee that our new charters of world government will be effective."

Douglas, in an address prepared for delivery before a meeting known as "The People's Congress," stated he did not see how Americans "would be justified in saying to Russia, or China, or to any other country—conform your political and legal institutions to our pattern, or else."

Far East Advisory Unit Nearing Close Of Task

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—Dr. H. V. Evatt, Australian Foreign Minister, announced today that the Far Eastern Advisory Commission had substantially completed its task of defining the Allied policy toward Japan. The commission, he said, will leave for Tokyo December 26 for a personal inspection.

Evatt, chairman of the policy committee, plans to leave within a day or two for Australia because he believes he has done his share in the work of a ten-nation group.

30.24 — 3/1973

"It is clear that the commission will determine the general lines of Allied policies in Japan," he said in a statement, "subject to the necessary reserve power of the supreme commander in whose hands must continue the primary responsibility for execution of policy."

Pound Gets Mental Test

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—The District Court awaited today a psychiatrist's report on the mental condition of Ezra Pound, 60-year-old poet accused of treason.

A not-guilty plea to charges he broadcast propaganda for Italy was entered for Pound after his attorney, Julian Cornell, said the poet was not competent to answer for himself.

Cornell declared in court yesterday that Pound suffered from claustrophobia and might die unless admitted to bail. The prosecution opposed the request, but agreed to the psychiatric examination.

Chief Justice Bolitha J. Laws said he would delay his ruling on the motion for bail until he heard the result.

Harry Hopkins's Son Quits Navy Service

Los Angeles, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Commander David J. Hopkins, movie producer and son of Harry Hopkins, former confidential aid to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and ex-Secretary of Commerce, was separated from the Navy today.

Hopkins served thirty-seven months and wears eight battle stars on his Pacific ribbon.

McVay Did Not Make Court-Martial Request

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Navy reported today that Capt. Charles B. McVay 3d, made no request for the court-martial which will convene Monday to determine his responsibility in the loss of the cruiser Indianapolis.

McVay was skipper of the Indianapolis, sunk in the Philippines Sea by a submarine July 30 with the loss of 880 lives after it had delivered atomic bomb materials to Guam.

Navy officials said events which followed the sinking, including the fact that survivors were not picked up for several hours, did not come within the scope of the court's jurisdiction. These, they said, are being investigated separately.

Good-Neighbor Policy Criticized

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—Representative O'Hara (R., Minn.) said today the "good-neighbor" policy with South America should work both ways.

He told the House that a couple in his district have a daughter living in Chile and occasionally send her small items of clothing.

"They advise me that on one item amounting to about $8 the daughter had to pay a duty of $24 and another item amounting to about $7 the daughter was imposed a duty of $16," he said.

"My constituents inquire as to just what is reasonable and what is reciprocal about this sort of good-neighbor policy?"

Newsprint Guarantee Made By Newspapers

New York, Nov. 28 (AP)—Newspaper associations agreed today to see "that no newspaper suspends publication for lack of newsprint" after Government control ends December 31.

A conference of representatives of regional and state newspaper associations, called by the American Newspaper Publishers Association's special newsprint committee, unanimously decided that regional and state plans would be used to meet any threats of suspension of publication.

Plans will be based on that of the New England Daily Newspaper Association, which "seeks to make available up to three per cent of the New England newspaper newsprint consumption in 1946 to care for any distressed newspaper which may find itself without any newsprint supply."

W. G. Chandler, A.N.P.A. president, said "estimates indicate there is available for newspapers over-all not more than 95 per cent in tonnage of the newspaper used in 1941."

Covalt To Direct Disabled-Vet Program

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—Lieut. Col. Donald A. Covalt, Muncie, Ind., will direct a new Veterans Administration program designed to speed rehabilitation of disabled veterans.

The new program, as announced today by Maj. Gen. Paul R. Hawley, acting surgeon general, is to integrate treatment by physiotherapy, occupational therapy and industrial therapy.

Colonel Covalt, a graduate of the University of Indiana School of Medicine in 1933, has been active in the Army Air Forces convalescent services program.

Marine 'Red Devils' Are Decommissioned

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 28 (AP)—The famed "Red Devils," one of Marine aviation's oldest squadrons to participate in World War II, has been decommissioned at Camp Miramar, it was announced today.

The torpedo bombing unit, which suffered heavy casualties at Hawaii and on Wake Island at the war's outset, moved to the South Pacific and engaged the Japs from Guadalcanal through other major campaigns to the final battle at Okinawa.

Brown Quits State Department

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—James F. Byrnes, Secretary of State, announced the resignation of Walter Brown, one of his assistants, who is returning to private business. Brown, a former newspaper man, came to the department with Byrnes after serving as his aide in the War Mobilization Office. Brown's home is in Spartanburg, South Carolina.

Senate Okays Fund For Guam Building

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—Authorization for expenditure of $6,000,000 for civilian reconstruction on Guam has been approved by the Senate.

The bill, permitting expenditure of the sum for reconstruction of "such permanent facilities for the civil population of Guam as the Secretary of the Navy may deem necessary for their economic rehabilitation," now goes to the House.

WAC Stewardesses On ATC Planes

Hamilton Field, Cal., Nov. 28 (AP). The Air Transport Command announced today that 65 WACs have been chosen after graduation from flight traffic-clerk school to serve as WAC stewardesses aboard army transport planes on the Hawaiian run.

Frist to make the flight was Sergt. Jeanne M. Wilson, of Danville, Va. Her flight left Sunday.

Head Of Civilian Production Says Output Is Rolling

New York, Nov. 28 (AP)—John D. Small, administrator of civilian production, said tonight that reconversion "bottlenecks are being broken" and "production is starting to roll."

"The fact that shortages are developing that were not manifest during the war is evidence that postwar industry is expanding even more rapidly than seems apparent," Small said in a speech prepared for delivery at the sixty-sixth annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Example Of Progress

Small said that "industry wants to be free of priorities. CPA wants industry to be free of priorities. Industry itself can set itself free by spreading the thin supplies thinly and equitably."

Production during the last few war years, Small said, "affords an example of industrial progress unmatched in any equal period of human history."

"By means of literally thousands of devices and plans that saved time and materials, the total output of finished manufactures in America rose more than 150 per cent between 1939 and 1944, while the input of labor, manhours worked, went up somewhat less than 100 per cent."

Philadelphia, Nov. 28 (A. TROOP DELAY PROTEST SET

NMU Plans Monday Stoppage Over Service Men Handling

New York, Nov. 28 (AP)—Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union (CIO), announced today that approximately 90,000 men would be involved in a 24-hour work stoppage starting at 8 A.M. Monday in protest against what he called delays in bringing service men home from overseas.

Curran said the unions and memberships affected would be the NMU, 35,000; International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union (CIO), 25,000; Marine Firemen, Oilers and Water Tenders (Ind.), 6,000; American Communications Association (CIO), 4,000; Marine Cooks and Stewards Association (CIO), 6,000; Inland Boatmen's Union (CIO), 2,000; Master Mates and Pilots Association (AFL), 6,000, and Marine Engineers (CIO), 6,000.

Telegram From Bridges

Earlier, Harry Bridges, head of the Longshoremen's Union, said in a telegram to the War Shipping Administration that members of his union on the West Coast would cease loading on December 1 ships diverted from troop-carrying to commercial purposes.

Curran's announcement was made at a news conference at NMU headquarters here.

He said all vessels except "legitimate troops carriers and relief ships" would be affected by the stoppage and that he had sent a telegram to Admiral Emory S. Land, of the War Shipping Administration, advising him of the stoppage.

The telegram to Land was signed by Ferdinand C. Smith, national secretary of the NMU. It asked that in order to avoid confusion as to what constitutes a "legitimate troop carrier" and a "legitimate relief ship," War Shipping Administration representatives in all ports give the union a certified list of all such ships in port during the stoppage.

Says Union Will Co-Operate

The telegram said "responsibility for submitting the list of certified troop carriers and certified relief ships rests squarely upon war shipping. The union will co-operate 100 per cent in insuring that all ships so certified will receive top priority in manning."

The New York office of the War Shipping Administration earlier released the text of a telegram from Land to Bridges in which the Admiral said Bridges's telegram "appears to be based on erroneous information concerning troop transportation."

"At the present rate," the telegram said, "there will be an excess of troop lift capacity in December on the Atlantic with resultant transfer of certain troops ships to the Pacific."

UNITED NATIONS

BY FLORA LEWIS

LONDON, NOV. 28-(AP)-A ONE-MAN DELEGATION FROM BLACK HILLS, S.D., CAME UP TODAY WITH A PLAN FOR PAVILION EXHIBITS AS A MEANS OF PAYING THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION'S EXPENSES AND OF MAKING THE BLACK HILLS A CENTER OF WORLD TRADE.

PAUL BELLAMY, RAPID CITY, S.D., BUSINESS MAN, PRESSED HIS PROJECT AS A POLL OF DELEGATES TO THE UNITED NATIONS PREPARATORY COMMISSION SHOWED THE UNITED STATES TO BE ONLY A FEW VOTES SHORT OF THE TWO-THIRDS MAJORITY NECESSARY FOR SELECTION AS THE SITE OF PERMANENT HEADQUARTERS IN THE UNITED NATIONS.

SOME EUROPEAN DELEGATES COMPLAINED THEY DID NOT HAVE ENOUGH DOLLARS TO CONTRIBUTE THEIR SHARE OF EXPENSES IF THE UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS MOVED TO THE UNITED STATES.

UNDER BELLAMY'S SCHEME, EACH NATION WOULD SET UP A PAVILION WITH A PERMANENT DISPLAY OF PRODUCTS, CURIOS, CUSTOMS AND COSTUMES.

"THERE WOULD BE A CONTINUAL STREAM OF TOURISTS COMING TO VISIT THE WORLD CAPITAL," BELLAMY SAID, "AND ALL WOULD WANT TO BUY MEMENTOES. AS A RESULT, THE NATIONS UNDOUBTEDLY WOULD SECURE ENOUGH DOLLAR EXCHANGE TO PAY THE COSTS OF RUNNING UNITED NATIONS."

THE EXPOSITION OF PRODUCTS WOULD MEAN THAT IMPORTERS AND EXPORTERS COULD MEET AND PROMOTE BUSINESS, BELLAMY CONTINUED, ADDING:

"MOST OF OUR WARS HAVE BEEN DUE TO ECONOMIC MALADJUSTMENTS. NATIONS WOULD HAVE ECONOMIC COMMISSIONS AT THE UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS TO WORK ON THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL. AT THE SAME TIME, COMMISSIONS COULD EXCHANGE INFORMATION ON TRADE SURPLUSES AND NEEDS WHICH WOULD WORK OUT TO THE ADVANTAGE OF ALL."

THE UNITED STATES LED THE FIELD UNOFFICIALLY FOR CHOICE AS A PERMANENT UNITED NATIONS HOME.

NOV 29 1945

THIRTY-FOUR VOTES WOULD BE NECESSARY TO DECIDE THE ISSUE. IF THE LATIN AMERICAN DELEGATES VOTE, AS EXPECTED, FOR THE UNITED STATES, IT PROBABLY WOULD HAVE AT LEAST 31 BALLOTS ON THE FIRST TALLY. LATIN AMERICANS REACHED IN THE UNOFFICIAL CANVASS SAID THEY EXPECTED TO AGREE ON THE UNITED STATES.

OF THE TOTAL OF 51 NATIONS, 22 SAID THEY EXPECTED TO VOTE FOR THE UNITED STATES, EIGHT DECLARED FOR EUROPE, SEVEN COULD NOT BE REACHED AND 12 WERE EITHER UNDECIDED OR AWAITING INSTRUCTIONS. CANADA HAS INSTRUCTIONS BUT DECLINED TO DIVULGE THEM. THE UNITED STATES REITER-

3224—31975

ATED ITS PLANS TO ABSTAIN FROM VOTING AND TO REMAIN NEUTRAL DURING DEBATE.

THE POLL SHOWED THAT LATIN AMERICA AND EASTERN EUROPE ARE LIKELY TO VOTE FOR THE UNITED STATES. WESTERN EUROPE PROBABLY WILL SUPPORT BRITAIN'S HARD-DRIVING CAMPAIGN FOR AN EUROPEAN CAPITAL.

AS A RESULT, THE ARAB STATES MAY BE ABLE TO SWING A DECISION. THE ARAB DELEGATES SAID THEY WOULD VOTE AS A BLOC BUT THAT THEY HAD NOT AGREED AMONG THEMSELVES WHERE THEIR VOTE WOULD GO.

THE DELEGATES WHO FAVORED THE UNITED STATES WERE ABOUT EQUALLY DIVIDED AS TO A CITY, NINE SUGGESTING SAN FRANCISCO AND TEN THE EASTERN UNITED STATES.

THE RESULTS OF THE UNOFFICIAL POLL:

(250) WITH CHINA

WASHINGTON.NOV.28-(AP)-THE EVENING STAR SAID TODAY THAT MAJ.GEN. PATRICK HURLEY, RESIGNED AMBASSADOR TO CHINA, HAS IN HIS POSSESSION A FILE OF MESSAGES ALLEGEDLY SENT TO THE CHINESE COMMUNISTS BY SOME OF "THOSE WHOM HE CONSIDERED COMMUNIST SYMPATHIZERS IN THE STATE DEPARTMENT."

THESE ALLEGED MESSAGES WERE INTERCEPTED BY AMERICAN AGENTS IN CHINA, THE PAPER REPORTED, ADDING THAT HURLEY WAS REPORTED TO HAVE SHOWN THEM TO PRESIDENT TRUMAN AND SECRETARY OF STATE BYRNES AT THE WHITE HOUSE MONDAY AND OFFERED TO RESIGN AT THAT TIME.

"SECRETARY BYRNES, WITH THE PRESIDENT'S CONCURRENCE, IS SAID TO HAVE ASSURED GEN.HURLEY THAT HE POSSESSED THEIR COMPLETE CONFIDENCE, THAT IF HE WOULD RETURN TO CHINA HE WOULD HAVE THEIR SUPPORT AND A FREE HAND IN DEALING WITH STATE DEPARTMENT REPRESENTATIVES IN CHINA," THE STAR SAID.

WHILE ALL THIS WAS HAPPENING, THE PAPER SAID, REP. DE LACEY (D-WASH) WAS DELIVERING A SPEECH IN THE HOUSE ATTACKING HURLEY FOR CAUSING "THE RESIGNATION OF FORMER UNITED STATES AMBASSADOR TO CHINA, CLARENCE E.GAUSS."

DE LACEY WAS QUOTED BY THE STAR AS SAYING: "STEP BY STEP, AMBASSADOR HURLEY'S REVERSAL OF THE ROOSEVELT-GAUSS POLICIES IN CHINA HAVE MADE THE PRESENT CIVIL WAR UNAVOIDABLE. HE AND GEN.WEDEMEYER HAVE NOW COMMITTED US TO ARMED INTERVENTION."

UNTIL YESTERDAY MORNING, THE STAR ASSERTED, HURLEY WAS UNAWARE OF THIS SPEECH AND STILL PLANNED TO RETURN TO CHINA, BUT THEN HE READ DE LACEY'S SPEECH IN THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

"IT WAS SAID TODAY," THE PAPER CONTINUED, "THAT GEN.HURLEY'S SUDDEN REVERSAL OF STAND, ON READING THE DE LACEY SPEECH, RESULTED FROM THE FACT THAT HE SAW IN THE SPEECH ADDITIONAL CONFIRMATION OF HIS SUSPICIONS THAT HIS OWN REPORTS TO THE STATE DEPARTMENT WERE BEING PERMITTED TO LEAK OUT TO CRITICS."

TOKYO, THURSDAY, NOV.29-(AP)-THE JAPANESE PRESS TODAY SHARPLY CRITICIZED PREMIER KIJURO SHIDEHARA'S STATE OF THE NATION SPEECH TO THE DIET AND FURTHER HECKLING OF THE PREMIER APPEARED LIKELY WHEN INTERPELLATIONS ARE RESUMED THIS AFTERNOON IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

DERISIVE LAUGHTER GREETED SHIDEHARA WHEN HE ADDRESSED THE REPRESENTATIVES YESTERDAY.

THE NEWSPAPER YOMIURI HOCHI DECLARED EDITORIALLY THAT THE PREMIER'S SPEECH THROUGHOUT SHOWED "APPARENT LACK OF COMPLETE RECOGNITION OF JAPAN'S DEFEAT AND THE CABINET'S UNSUITABILITY TO THE TIMES. THE [illegible] DISCOVERY UNFORTUNATE TO HAVE TO GO THR

THE PEOPLE ARE VERY UNFORTUNATE TO HAVE TO GO THROUGH SUCH DIFFICULT TIMES AS THESE WITH SUCH A GOVERNMENT LEADER."

THE NEWSPAPER BRUSHED ASIDE SHIDEHARA'S OUTLINE OF DIFFICULTI

THE NEWSPAPER BRUSHED ASIDE SHIDEHARA'S OUTLINE OF DIFFICULTIES IN DEMOCRATIZATION AND ASKED "HAS THE GOVERNMENT EVER CARRIED OUT A GREAT REFORM WITHOUT WAITING FOR DIRECTIVES FROM ALLIED HEADQUARTERS?"

30.24 — 3/983

THE NEWSPAPER ASAHI SAID THE SPEECH CONFIRMED A GENERAL BELIEF THAT THE SHIDEHARA CABINET WAS ONLY TRANSITORY AND "LACKS THE FORCE TO CARRY OUT POLITICAL MOVES." IT SAID THE SPEECH MERELY RECAPITULATED THE COUNTRY'S TROUBLES WHEN THE PEOPLE WANTED TO HEAR CONCRETE PLANS FOR SOLVING THEM.

THE MAINICHI DEMANDED EDITORIALLY THAT THE CABINET RESIGN UNLESS "IT REALLY DESIRES TO WORK FOR THE COUNTRY REGARDLESS OF THE INTEREST OF THE CONTROLLING GROUP TO WHICH IT BELONGS."

TOKYO, THURSDAY, NOV.29-(AP)-A HEADQUARTERS STATEMENT TODAY REPORTED THAT GENERAL MACARTHUR MERELY WAS OBEYING ORDERS FROM "A HIGHER AUTHORITY" IN DESTROYING JAPAN'S CYCLOTRONS.

(MACARTHUR'S ORDERS CAN COME ONLY FROM WASHINGTON.)

AMERICAN SCIENTISTS WHO DEVELOPED THE ATOM BOMB EARLIER THIS WEEK DENOUNCED THE DESTRUCTION OF JAPAN'S CYCLOTRONS (NOT DEVELOPED TO THE ATOMIC AGE) AS "A CRIME AGAINST MANKIND."

THE HEADQUARTERS STATEMENT, ISSUED BY MACARTHUR'S PRESS RELATIONS OFFICER AND ATTRIBUTED TO UNNAMED OFFICIALS AT HIS HEADQUARTERS, SAID:

"THE DECISION WAS NOT MADE BY SCAP (SUPREME COMMANDER, ALLIED POWERS) BUT WAS SPECIFICALLY ORDERED BY A HIGHER AUTHORITY. OCCUPATION FORCES MERELY WERE CARRYING OUT INSTRUCTIONS WHICH THEY RECEIVED. THE REASON FOR THE ORDER WOULD SEEM TO BE THAT THE JAPANESE WERE NOT TO BE PERMITTED TO ENGAGE IN RESEARCH IN ANY FIELD OF INSTRUMENTALITIES DEALING WITH WAR."

IT WAS REPORTED HERE THAT GENERAL EISENHOWER, SHORTLY AFTER BECOMING CHIEF OF STAFF, ORDERED SHIPMENT INTACT OF ONE OF THE CYCLOTRONS TO THE UNITED STATES, BUT THE DESTRUCTION ALREADY WAS TOO ADVANCED.

(360)(NAVAL SUMMARY ADVANCE TO BE HELD FOR RELEASE THE TIME WHICH IS UNCERTAIN; POSSIBLY TODAY, TUESDAY NOV.27)

(ADVANCE) WASHINGTON,NOV.27-(AP)-THE OFFICE OF NAVAL INTELLIGENCE X DAYS BEFORE PEARL HARBOR SUMMARIZED THE FAR EASTERN SITUATION AS POINTING TO AN "EARLY JAPANESE ADVANCE AGAINST THAILAND."

IT ALSO SAID, IN DATA RELEASED TODAY BY THE SENATE-HOUSE PEARL HARBOR INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE THAT "

APANESE-AMERICAN NEGOTIATIONS HAVE VIRTUALLY BROKEN DOWN" AS OF DECEMBER 1 UNLESS THE JAPANESE REQUESTED CONTINUANCE OF DIPLOMATIC CONVERSATIONS.

THE DECEMBER 1 SUMMATION SAID DEPLOYMENT OF JAPANESE NAVAL FORCES SOUTHWARD FROM JAPAN "HAS INDICATED CLEARLY THAT EXTENSIVE OPERATIONS ARE UNDERWAY FOR HOSTILITIES." THEY APPARENTLY WERE BOUND, IT ADDED, FOR FRENCH INDOCHINA AND FORMOSAN PORTS.

ALSO RELEASED WAS A DECEMBER 1 MEMORANDUM FOR THE DIRECTOR OF NAVAL INTELLIGENCE BY COMDR.A.H.MCCOLLUM. HE HANDED OVER A RESUME "OF THE OUTSTANDING MILITARY, NAVAL AND POLITICAL MOVES MADE BY JAPAN DURING THE PAST TWO MONTHS" AND SAID:

"A VIEW OF THE GENERAL SITUATION WOULD INDICATE THAT THE PRINCIPAL PREPARATORY EFFORT HAS BEEN DIRECTED BY THE JAPANESE LOOKING TOWARDS, FIRST: AN EVENTUAL CONTROL OR OCCUPATION OF THAILAND FOLLOWED ALMOST IMMEDIATELY BY AN ATTACK AGAINST BRITISH POSSESSIONS, POSSIBLY BURMA AND SINGAPORE."

ALSO INTO THE COMMITTEE RECORDS WENT A FEB.15,1941, MEMORANDUM TELLING OF JAPANESE OBSERVATION OF U.S.NAVAL MOVEMENTS. THIS SAID:

NOV 29 1945

"IN JUNE OF 1940, THE U.S.NAVAL ATTACHE AT TOKYO REPORTED THAT JAPANESE SUBMARINES WERE SAID TO MAINTAIN AN OBSERVATION PATROL IN THE VICINITY OF THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS AND THAT THE SUBMARINES WERE SUPPLIED FROM TIME TO TIME BY MAKING CONTACT WITH JAPANESE NAVAL TANKE AT SEA.

"THE TRACKS OF JAPANESE NAVAL TANKERS MOVING BETWEEN JAPAN AND THE WEST COAST OF THE UNITED STATES WERE PLOTTED AND IT WAS FOUND THAT MOST OF THEM PASSED THROUGH A POINT JUST TO THE NORTHWARD OF THE HAWAI ISLANDS AND IN THIS SAME AREA THE TANKERS SEEMED TO MAKE VERY SLOW PROGRESS FOR A DAY OR TWO LEADING TO THE PRESUMPTION THAT IT WAS IN THIS GENERAL LOCALITY THAT CONTACT WAS MADE BETWEEN THE OBSERVING SUB-MARINES AND THEIR SUPPLY SHIPS.

"THIS AREA WAS SEARCHED ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS AND NO CONTACT WITH JAPANESE SUBMARINES WAS MADE."

(370)(INTELLIGENCE ADVANCE TO BE HELD FOR RELEASE, THE TIME OF WHICH IS UNCERTAIN; POSSIBLY SOMETIME, TODAY TUESDAY NOV.27)

(ADVANCE) WASHINGTON,NOV.27-(AP)-ARMY INTELLIGENCE OFFICERS GUESSED ON NOV.27,1941--TEN DAYS BEFORE THE PEARL HARBOR ATTACK--THAT JAPAN'S NEXT MILITARY MOVE WOULD BE AN INVASION OF THAILAND.

THIS ESTIMATE WAS DISCLOSED IN A MEMORANDUM BY BRIG.GEN.SHERMAN MILES, THEN ACTING ASSISTANT CHIEF OF INTELLIGENCE, WHICH WAS FILED TODAY WITH THE SENATE-HOUSE COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING THE PEARL HARBOR DISASTER.

MILES TOLD GEN.GEORGE C.MARSHALL, FORMER ARMY CHIEF OF STAFF, THAT IT THEN APPEARED EVIDENT THE JAPANESE HAD "COMPLETED PLANS FOR FURTHER AGGRESSIVE MOVES IN SOUTHEASTERN ASIA."

"THESE PLANS WILL PROBABLY BE PUT INTO EFFECT SOON AFTER THE ARMED FORCES FEEL THAT THE KURUSU MISSION IS A DEFINITE FAILURE," MILES' REPORT SAID. "A TASK FORCE OF ABOUT FIVE DIVISIONS, REPORTED BY APPROPRIATE NAVAL AND AIR UNITS, HAS BEEN ASSEMBLED FOR THE EXECUTION OF THESE PLANS."

MILES' REPORT NOTED THAT THE MANILA NAVAL DISTRICT HAD REPORTED A JAPANESE TASK FORCE, HEADED BY THREE OR FOUR BATTLESHIPS AND THREE CARRIERS, WAS STEAMING TOWARD AN UNKNOWN CONCENTRATION POINT. THIS WAS NOT THE FORCE WHICH MADE THE PEARL HARBOR STRIKE, PREVIOUS TESTIMON SHOWED. THAT ONE HAD LEFT JAPAN A DAY OR SO EARLIER.

A DEC.5 ESTIMATE FOR MARSHALL ON THE FORTHCOMING MILITARY DEVELOP-MENTS IN DECEMBER, JANUARY, FEBRUARY AND MARCH CARRIED THE STATE-MENT THAT JAPANESE LEADERS "AWARE OF THE PERIL OF FURTHER MILITARY ADVENTURES" WANTED "TO AVOID A GENERAL WAR IN THE PACIFIC."

THE INTELLIGENCE DIVISION SAID JAPAN HAD SEVERAL LINES OF ACTION OPEN TO IT. IT LISTED THESE AS FOLLOWS:

ATTACKS ON SIBERIA OR THE YUNNAN PROVINCE OF CHINA; OCCUPATION OF THAILAND; ATTACKS THROUGH THAILAND ON BURMA AND THE BURMA ROAD OR MALAYA; ATTACKS ON THE PHILIPPINES AND HONG KONG, PREPARATORY TO ASSAULTS ON SINGAPORE OR THE NETHERLANDS EAST INDIES.

THE INTELLIGENCE OFFICE SAID JAPAN MIGHT BIDE HER TIME FOR A BETTER OPPORTUNITY, MIGHT SEEK A GENERAL SETTLEMENT THROUGH AMERICAN MEDIATION OR MIGHT REORIENT HER WHOLE FOREIGN POLICY BY WITHDRAWING FROM THE AXIS. THE REPORT NOTED THAT THE LATTER TWO POSSIBILITIES WERE UNLIKELY, SHORT OF A COMPLETE OVERTHROW OF THE JAPANESE GOVERNING FORCES.

AT THAT TIME ARMY INTELLIGENCE ESTIMATED THAT JAPAN HAD AN ACTIVE ARMY OF 2,000,000 MEN, INCLUDING AN AIR FORCE OF ABOUT 65,000, AND 4,750,000 PARTIALLY TRAINED RESERVES. THE REPORT SAID THE JAPANESE HAD A WELL EQUIPPED NAVY WHICH WOULD GIVE ANY MAJOR POWER A HARD BATTLE.

(ADVANCE) WASHINGTON,NOV.27-(AP)-THE OFFICE OF NAVAL INTELLIGENCE ON DEC.1,1941, HAD DETAILED INFORMATION ON JAPANESE FLEET LOCATIONS, BUT NONE OF THEM WAS SHOWN TO BE ANYWHERE NEAR PEARL HARBOR.

THIS WAS DISCLOSED TODAY IN THE RELEASE OF MEMORANDUM BY THE SENATE-HOUSE COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING THE DEC.7,1941, ATTACK. THE REPORTS PUT MOST OF THE JAPANESE NAVAL STRENGTH IN HOMELAND WATERS, SOME IN THE MANDATED ISLANDS OF THE TRUK-PONAPE AREA, AND SOME IN THE CHINA AND INDO-CHINA AREAS.

ANOTHER NAVAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT ON NOV.26,1941, EVALUATED INFORMAT THEN AT HAND AS INDICATING THAT A STRONG JAPANESE FORCE "MAY BE PRE-PARING TO OPERATE IN SOUTHEASTERN ASIA WHILE COMPONENT PARTS OF THE TASK FORCE MAY OPERATE FROM THE MARSHALLS AND PALAO."
